W. D. Hoard read a lengthy paper, the same one which he delivered at the meeting of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association, at Arcadia, Feb. 25, 1885. He said: I believe the idea of a "general purpose" cow, as entertained by a majority of farmers and dairymen, is a delusion and the greatest obstacle to the spread of sound ideas of breeding. I have no breed to advocate, but I will give my idea of a true dairy cow. The "general purpose" cow produces less than 150 pounds per annum, worth $30 if well made and $24 by a general farmer. The average cheese yield is 300 pounds worth, say $30. Does this pay? An ordinary general purpose farmer will buy a cow on size and flesh. No reputable breeder dare mix purposes in breeding, and the idea of a dairy cow for beef is fallacious. Only by adhering to a strict construction of the law of heredity can any certainty of result be obtained in a good animal. Specific purpose gives us all our well established breeds. Look at this contrast: The general purpose cow yields 300 pounds cheese a year or a milk flow of 3,000 pounds about 150 pounds of butter a year. The best specifically bred cow in the world yields 829 pounds of butter in 303 days, or 26 pounds in a week.

Leavitt read a paper on the improved cattle for dairy purposes. He said:

Not more than three-fourths of the cows in the country to-day pay for their keeping. The two cows now attracting the most attention are the Jersey and Holstein. The former is a good little cow, but will not stand the cold winters as well as the other breed. It is not a good cow for beef nor cheese; simply for butter. The Holstein is a carefully bred cow of over a thousand years. It has been introduced in this country recently and is becoming very popular. The Holstein stands the winters well, and is the best milch cow in the world. It is also a good butter and cheese cow and a good meat cow.

Prof. D. R. M'Ginnis of Northfield read a paper on the natural adaptability of Minnesota for stock and said:

Minnesota is the most fertile country in the world and most favored in atmospheric precipitation. The annual amount of rainfall is from twenty to thirty inches, and the temperature evaporates fast enough for the needs of fertility. There can be found no more favored country for man, beast and plants.

Where the field is best there will the cattle be best, and Minnesota can produce the best cattle in the world, and Minnesota soon will take rank as the foremost dairy state in the world.

Col. R. P. McGlincy delivered an address entitled "Gleanings by the Wayside."

He spoke of the triumphs scored by Minnesota dairies at New Orleans in the past. Minnesota has also gleaned wonderfully well at a national fair at New York, when, almost unknown as a state, Minnesota took the first prize for ornamental butter.

Make good butter and you need fear no competition in any market. In the last four years I have noticed more improvement in butter in this state than anywhere else in the Union. This because of the necessity of Minnesotians turning from wheat to the cow, and there is nothing on earth that will raise a mortgage from the farm like the cow. It costs not a cent more to make good butter than poor, and the monetary return is great.

MAJ. A. P. M'KINSTRY

spoke upon "The Care of Milk and Cream, and Dairy Stock." He said: There are very few persons engaged in dairying in our state who feel that our dairy stock is as good as it should be, or as it will be in the future. The cows have not been trained for long and heavy milking; neither has the feed or care given them had a tendency to that end, and the average Minnesota farmer has not developed a real love for milking ten or more cows twice each day. This is the situation now, but our state will not remain in it long. Our dairies in this part of the state will average about ten cows each. For such a dairy, for each month of the year, July and August excepted, there should be a cow fresh in milk. This would insure equal butter for the entire year. For food there should be the best possible pasture and some green food for soiling. For this purpose Evergreen sweet corn is best. From one to two acres of this will be enough. A field of pumpkins comes very handy for feeding in the fall. The seeds should be removed and pumpkins cut up before feeding. The cows should be fed and milked in the stable.

The following formula I have found the best for dairying: Bran, 10,800 lbs; oats, 7,200 lbs; corn, 3,620 lbs; oil meal, 1,000 lbs; 20 tons of hay. The bran will cost $54 at $10 a ton; oats, $48 at 26 cents per bushel; corn, $19.25 at 30 cents per bushel; hay, $80 at $4 per ton; total, $201.25 for 10 cows. This will give a ratio of two pounds per cow for six months. A good cow will give 6,000 pounds of milk during the year, making 240 pounds of butter, which at 18 cents a pound will give $43.20 for the butter. Then there will be 5,000 pounds of skimmed milk which at 15 cents a pound, amounts to $7.50. This, with the new calf at $5, gives us $55.70 as the gross income per cow. The winter expense we have found to be $20.12 1-2. The summer pasturing and soiling costs $10 more, making a total of $30.12 1-2. This leaves a profit of $25.58 per cow, or $255.80 for the ten cows. A cow well treated will average 20 pounds or 9 quarts of milk per day in 300 days. By careful testing last year I found that my dairy would shrink 20 per cent in milk if I let the cows drink in the yard when the thermometer was below zero. The cows should be watered in the stable. Regularity is a very important point. I believe in milking at 6 o'clock, morning and night, winter and summer. From the dairy of ten cows we shall have 100 lbs of milk to care for twice a day. As much cream can be raised from deep setting as shallow, and the butter from the setters in water is better. It will take three cans to hold the milk, and the water should be held below 60 degrees. If it can't be done with water use ice. There should be hands enough to do the milking in one hour. Milk should be kept over twenty-four hours in the water below 60 degrees, before skimming. Cream should be kept from twelve to twenty-four hours before churning.

Capt. E. E. Cutts of Faribault spoke on the dairy cow for cheese or milk. He advises a Holstein or Aylesford for butter. The Jersey will average one-third more butter in a year than other breeds and costs but two-thirds as much to keep. If you can't get pure stock grade up to three-fourths pure. S. D. Bell of Stampton said a few words on Jerseys. President William Towler said he did not quarrel with Holstein and Jersey farmers, but he was a Short Horn man. His gross receipts were $69 or cow.

The officers elected were: William Fowler, president; Levi Nutting and F. J. Schaive, vice presidents; R. C. Judson, secretary; J. E. Putnam, treasurer; J. T. Ames, J. D. Scofield, Charles Lesconte, J. E. Putnam, executive committee.

The convention closed with a jolly party and dance at Wilson Hall.

The Critic tells a story of Mark Twain which shows that the joker may be made the victim. Having entertained a party of gentlemen one winter's evening at Hartford, Mr. Clemens gave to each, just before they left the house, one of a new cigar which he was trying to believe was highly satisfactory. He made each guest light it before starting. The next morning he found all that he had given away lying in the snow beside the pathway across his lawn. Each smoker had been polite enough to smoke until he had got out of the house, but every one on gaining his liberty had yielded to the instinct of self-preservation and tossed the cigar away, forgetting that it would be found there by daylight.

"It is interesting," remarks the Pall Mall Gazette, "to compare the different ages at which her majesty's children have been married. The princess Beatrice is now betrothed in her 28th year, the princess royal married in her eighteenth year, the prince of Wales was married when in his twenty-second year, the Princess Alice in her twentieth year, the duke of Edinburgh in his thirtieth year, the Princess Helena in her twenty-first year, the Princess Louise in her twenty-fourth year, the duke of Connaught in his twenty-ninth year, the duke of Albany in his thirtieth year. The united ages at marriage of the five royal princesses make 111 years; the united ages, at marriage, of the four princes make 111 years. By striking an average one finds that princesses are married at 22 1-5 years and princes at 27¾."

The United States is said now to be the third largest silk manufacturing country in the world, and this despite all that has been said and written to discourage the raising of silk in this country. The value of our annual silk product is now placed at $35,000,000. About 60,000 pounds of cocoons were raised in 1883.

In a last Sunday's sermon on lying and swearing Rev. Wm. B. Wright, of Boston, remarked that he had no doubt that there were members of his congregation who had heard the teamster swearing on the street. The air was blue with profanity. The church member had heard it and shuddered, and afterward wended his way to his office offering up a prayer for the redemption for that swearing teamster's soul. But the church member had hardly finished the prayer before he sat himself down and penned a circular setting forth that his goods were all wool, when he knew positively that they were one-half cotton.

Baptists' statistics for the present year show considerable progress. In England there are 35 associations, in Wales 10, and in Scotland and Ireland one each. The totals for the United Kingdom are as follows: 2,699 churches 3,909 chapels, with over one million sittings; 312,465 church members, 48,714 Suday-school teachers, 467,930 Sunday scholars, 1,908 pastors, and 3,505 evangelists. Compared with the official returns for the previous year, this shows an increase of 105 churches, 171 chapels, 31,655 sittings, 7,663 church members, 2,084 Sunday-school teachers, 30,743 Sunday scholars, and a decrease of 22 pastors.

MINNESOTA NEWS CONDENSE

Minnesota takes the cake on amber sugar at the New Orleans exposition.

The Holstein breeders met at Faribaul perfected the organization of an associ electing the following officers: S. M. E Lake city, president; Col. Leggett, Be vice president; M. J. Myers, Wells, secre
L. H. Stanton, Morris, treasurer; M. J. Lo
Waseca; E. P. Taylor, Dodge Center, and Johnson, Marshall, executive committe constitution and by-laws were adopted an association adjourned subject to the call o president.

The following were placed in the pen
tiary upon sentence of the district cou
Hennepin county: Thomas White, larce a dwelling, 2 years; James Thompson, lar in a shop, 1 year 3 months.

The claim of N. W. Kittson against the No western Manufacturing and Car works for sum of $225,000, was filed with the dis clerk.

J. C. O'Gorman filed his report for Febr of his receivership of Seymour, Sabin &
His receipts were $1,670.15, and disbursem
$1,073.41.

It is related that District Attorney Woo
Todd county, curtailed Sheriff Davis' fees refusing to allow numerous witnesses t summoned in a trivial case. Davis the Wood to take one drink with him. Woo drunk and was arrested and fined $5. W claims he was drugged. He refused to pay was locked up.

A petition is in circulation at Hastings the appointment of Gen. Le Duc as one of three railroad and warehouse commissio authorized by the legislature.

The farmers of the Northern part of Kit county met at St. Vincent and organize branch of the State Farmer's alliance.

Owing to the demand of the Minnesota As ciation of Trotting and Pacing Horse Breed for a colt stake for two-year-olds, the co mittee on stake races have decided to offer following stake, to be trotted for the sa time as the other stakes announced: Stake two-year-olds the foals of 1883, entrance $ with $50 added; money payments, $5, $5 a $5, the first payment to accompany the en which will close March 17; the second p
ment May 1, and the third and final payme ten days before the race; all entries to be ma to R. C. Judson, secretary, Farmington, Mi

A Washington special accords P. H. Ke
the distribution of Minnesota patronage.

Cady Preston of Kasota died suddenly heart disease recently.

J. H. Kelly's store in Luverne was partial burned, entailing a loss of $400 covered by i surance.

Lucy Kelly of Duluth has made an assig ment to Andrew Jackson.

The development of a series of scandals
the upper married circles of society at Wil mar, of an astonishing character, has culmina ed in a determined war being waged again skating rinks.

The revision of losses and insurance of la week's fire is as follows: C. H. Strobeck, lo on building at Litchfield $300; no insuranc
H. Dowling, loss on stock, $1,000; on account
$400. Insurance $1,600, as follows: In Spring field, Mass., Fire and Marine, $500; in Conti nental, $600; in Phenix of Brooklyn, N. Y.
$500. J. Kounsbrick's loss on building, $600 on stock, $1,000; insured on building for $30 in Northwestern National of Milwaukee.

James Reidel of Spring Valley is reported t have fallen heir to $4,000,000 by the death o an uncle in the old country.

Jens Nelson of Amor, Otter Tail county, collected several hundred dollars in money and skipped with a woman, leaving his wife, who threatens to forgive him if he will return.

The front and rear windows of one of the best known saloons in Crookston were badly wrecked beyond repair by a lady firing a revolver through them at random. It appears her "hubby" was in the saloon with the b'hoys at 3 a. m., and preferred bowling up to going home, hence the shooting.

Jennie O'Niel, who signed the affidavit to the effect that she testified falsely in the trial of Mrs. Bronson for burning her hotel at Henderson, has written to County Attorney Kipp, that she was hired to make the affidavit. This will no doubt stop further proceedings in the effort to secure a pardon for Mrs. Bronson.

Miss Annie Felton of Cleveland, Le Sueur county, attempted suicide by taking poison, but was saved by medical skill.

J. B. Gazette of Rice's station, Benton county, against whom a judgment for $3,500 was recently rendered in district court in a breach of promise case, in favor of a young lady with whose affections he had been trifling, has just made an assignment in favor of his creditors. He was married to another young lady a short time ago.

Two notable weddings will shortly interest Duluth people—that of James C. Hunter, confidential clerk of George Spencer & Co., and a well-known young business man, and Miss Mary Ensign, daughter of Mayor J. D. Ensign, and later, D. B. Smith, Jr., manager in that city of the Ohio Central Barge and Coal company, and Miss Clara Coleman, who was last year the principal of the high school, will be united in marriage at Manistee.

Mrs. Betsey Cameron of Red Rock died of pneumonia, and was buried at Austin. Her age was eighty-seven years. Two of her sons, Young T. and Judge George M., reside at Austin. Her husband, aged about eighty-eight years, is still living.

Under the new laws the governor has the following offices to fill, created by the late legislature: Three judgeships, Eleventh, Seventh and new Thirteenth districts; dairy commissioner; five commissioners of the state park at Minnehaha; five commissioners to locate a third insane hospital in the northern part of the state, two railroad commissioners; three commissioners on the Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary; five commissioners to locate a state public school. The governor has not considered any application, and the offices will not be filled probably short of a fortnight.

The sixteenth annual report of the commissioner of statistics for 1884 has been issued. It is a pamphlet of 341 pages, divided into four chapters, giving statistics relating to agriculture, with injuries to crops, vital statistics, county statistics and miscellaneous statistics. The report is gotten up in the usual manner with the usual information.

Olive Gibbs of Lake City, sick in Washington, is recovering.

A dispatch from San Francisco announces the death in that city Sunday, March 8, of Gen. Phineas Banning of Wilmington, Cal. The deceased was a brother of William L. Banning, Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott and Mrs. Henry J. Horn of St. Paul.

David A. Brown of Sioux Falls, formerly of Shakopee, died recently. His death was due to excessive use of strong drink.

Mrs. John Dwyer, Belle Plain, is dead, her death having occurred at the asylum at St. Peter, as it is alledged, by a blow on the head received from a fellow patient.

Mrs. Ladd, wife of Hon. Sumner Ladd of Minneapolis, died in St. Peter.

T. S. Arthur, the prolific writer and publisher, died recently in Philadelphia.

Frank Mandell of Faribault, who recently made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, filed with the clerk of the court his inventory, showing personal property to the amount of $3,274.60, out of which $1,820.60 is claimed to be exempt by law, and part of the balance subject to a chattel mortgage to its full value. His liabilities are $7,070.82.

Winona rejoiced over the success of several public measures affecting her welfare, chief of which is the passage of the bill in congress for a government building; next the normal school appropriations, including that for a normal house.

The Anoka City Mills were burned. The mill had a capacity of 110 barrels daily, and was one of the best equipped small mills in the state. It was owned by John Dunn & Co., and was purchased after the big fire last August. The price paid was $11,000, and $1,200 repairs have since been made. About 1,500 bushels of wheat and 250 barrels of flour were burned, making a total loss of $15,000; insured for $9,000 on building and $1,500 on stock.

THE FUTURE OF FLAX.

The Chicago Times says: Some papers in Iowa and Kansas are endeavoring to convince the farmers of those States that flax seed will no longer be a paying crop. They predict that the price of flax seed will decline during the next two or three years as rapidly as that of wheat has since 1860. Their predictions are based on fears of overproduction.

While the demand for flax seed in this country is large, there is little prospect that its production will be undertaken in most of the States. It has never been raised in any of the southern States to any considerable extent. It is not a promising crop for farmers in the older settled States. The productiveness of their fields have been injured by long cultivation, and the soil is full of the seeds of weeds. Other crops pay better on high priced land. Flax is a suitable crop for farmers in the northwest for many reasons. It is easy to market. A car load of flax seed brings much more money than the same bulk of corn or any of the small grains. The cost of seed for a given amount of land is comparatively small, as only half a bushel is required for an acre. A paying crop can be obtained from land that has been broken for the first time. Flax is a more remunerative crop than corn to raise on newly plowed prairie land, even in localities where the seasons are long enough to produce good crops of corn. It is adapted to regions where a corn crop cannot be raised, or cannot be depended upon, or where it can only be raised on soil that is under a high state of cultivation. A farmer in any of the States west of the Mississippi River can at least realize enough from a crop of flax seed to pay the cost of breaking the land, and expense of seed, sowing, harvesting and marketing. This is all a farmer in any part of the country can reasonably expect of a crop of seed corn. In many cases a crop of flax seed has sold for enough to pay for the land as well as for preparing it. If the growth of the flax plant is exhaustive to the soil, it has the effect of subduing a tough turf and putting it in condition to be easily worked with a view of preparing it for the production of corn or small grain.

Flax is a source of wealth to the farmers of the northwest. The amount of oil-cake exported last year was 524,847,831 pounds, which sold for $7,115,153. Flax will do better in soils containing an excess of alkali than any crop grown by farmers. Its production on soil abounding in alkali is recommended. That flax is an exhaustive crop all acknowledge. Its production can only be continued on what are known as very strong soils, such as are found in the valleys of rivers subject to overflow. The exhaustion of the fertility of soil by the production of flax may, in a great measure be prevented by the return of the plant to the soil from which it was produced. This may be best accomplished by judiciously feeding the straw to stock and applying their manure to the fields.

Farmers who expect to raise large crops of good flax seed should be careful about selecting the seed they sow. For a century flax was raised in this country chiefly for the fibre of the plant, that was used for making cloth, and not for seed. It was accordingly sown very thick, a bushel and a half of seed being sown on an acre. Very thick sowing causes the plants to grow tall and slim, and to produce but a small amount of seed. Growing plants for a special purpose has the effect of modifying their character. They at length have hereditary peculiarities. Much of the flax grown in this country is produced from the seed of plants raised for fibre. The first seed was sown in the States bordering on the Atlantic Ocean, and the bark of the stalks was manufactured into cloth in the houses of farmers. As the flax plant moved west it was cultivated for a new purpose. What we want now is a plant that will produce seed. In India, where flax has long been raised exclusively for the production of seed, the plants are said to be only eighteen inches high, but very productive of seed.

Interest in our Flour.

Roller Mill, Buffalo, N. Y.: The main object of the organization shall be to introduce the products of the mills of the Red River Valley into the markets of the east in their pure and unadulterated state. The farmers as well as millers of this section think it time to protect those advantages which God and a combination of soil and climate have given them and secure to themselves the benefits instead of allowing Minneapolis and other millers to reap them. It is well known that Red River Valley spring wheat contains twenty-five per cent. more gluten than soft winter wheat, and that the millers of Minneapolis mix about ten per cent. of Red River wheat with soft varieties and pass the flour therefrom as Minnesota hard wheat flour, which sells at a much higher price than any other. By organization and united endeavor it is believed steps can be taken to protect eastern markets from paying a high price for partly spurious articles, and at the same time preserve to those rightfully possessing them the benefits which they have been so far deprived of by combinations of selfish and greedy millers of other localities.—[Grand Forks Herald.

The Minneapolis Tribune costs 75 cents per month, and $8.00 per annum or the Daily; or 90 cents a month, and $10 per annum for the Daily and Sunday, while the weekly is only $1.00 per annum.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week.—Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

It is a startling fact that of every eight boys born in our country one of them dies a drunkard. We read statistics concerning intemperance with hardened hearts. They are so common that we scarcely realize their terrible import. Yet could we be so indifferent if we knew that our sons and brothers would be among the lost? Oh, if the women of America would awaken to the dangers that surround them how quickly this evil would be overcome!

A Hartford man, now aged 80 years, who has been an inveterate smoker for sixty-seven years, has kept close account of the cost, and places the amount at $200,000, which he might now have had to his credit, had he invested every six months and placed at compound interest the sums he expended in cigars.

KITCHEN GARDEN.

How the Work is Growing and What It Accomplishes.

The kitchen garden school, for the training of poor little girls in household work, established little more than a year ago by the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has developed remarkably since that time, Mrs. S. B. Williams is president of the organization, and there are now four flourishing kitchen gardens, the one at St. Mark's church under the care of Mrs. Courtland Babcock; at Bethel chapel, under Mrs. Hawley; at the city mission, under Miss Hattie Hulbert, at the Riverside flats mission, under Miss Prior. The first three number twenty-four and the last forty-eight. There are twenty-five teachers, all volunteering their services. Miss Carrie M. Nettleton is superintendent of all of the kitchen gardens of the State, and gives much of her time to visiting those in the city. The children of poor parents are taught all the common household accomplishments, such as sweeping, dusting, making beds, washing dishes, waiting on table, and on the door, washing and ironing, and habits of neatness and industry are thus practically grounded in the youth of these girls, whose homes often afford too little stimulus to these virtues. It is the intention to give, during the year, two or three exhibitions to the parents of the children, and, possibly, one to the public, similar to the very successful one of last spring. The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union deserves, and has won, great credit for itself by the very plucky but unostentatious way in which it has promoted a practical and much needed benevolence.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday p. m., at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Bates.

"Gath's" Letters appear only in the Minneapolis Tribune. Read them in Sunday and Wednesday's edition of the daily, and in every issue of the weekly Tribune.

FARM NOTES.

Farmers' Tribune.

DEEP PLOUGHING AND MOISTURE.

The question is often asked: "How does deep ploughing make the soil moister?" I believe it is an accepted fact that wherever warm air comes in contact with a body cooler than itself the water in it condenses into drops. On a warm day we see it often on the outside of a pitcher of cold water. Fogs and dews are made in that way, and our rain, most of it, coming up from the gulf in those heavy currents of warm air that we frequently have. When we pulverize the soil deep, the warm air, which is full of moisture, penetrates down and all through it, and the ground, being cooler than the air, condenses the water into drops, which answers in place of rain; so the deeper and the more we pulverize it, the more moisture it will collect from the air. Not only that, but as warm air is rich in food for plants, it serve in place of manure, too. Thirty years ago there was a terrible drought in the east. Prof. Mapes, a large market gardener, had his ground underdrained and subsoiled, and his crops, where he could, were cultivated with a subsoil plow. A committee went to see his place after nine weeks of drought, and found everything as flourishing as if there had been plenty of rain. His corn (it was the 3d of September) was estimated as ninety bushels to the acre, while on land cultivated in the usual way, near by, it was all burnt up. While I do not think deep plowing is everything, still I think deep and thorough pulverizing of our land will lessen the effects of a drought.—[Kansas Farmer.

THE REASON WHY.

In explanation of the wonder of eastern people how stock can winter in the cold climate of the northwest, with the ground covered with snow, and streams closed with ice, Hon. Granville Stuart, one of the oldest and most experienced stockmen in the country, says that open water during the extreme cold season is a positive injury to cattle. He explains that if during the severe weather the ground is covered with snow, the cattle in feeding will secure sufficient moisture to allay thirst without unusually chilling them, and will, consequently, remain in the hills and sheltered places, thus securing the best feed with the least exposure, whereas if the ground and small pools are frozen up, and only large bodies of water are open, without snow stock is compelled to travel long distances to seek relief from their increasing thirst, and if successful in reaching water will so gorge themselves with it that they become thoroughly chilled and stand by the coveted liquid until, as a cowboy expressed it, their sides are frozen together.

PURE WATER FOR STOCK.

It is as important that stock of all kinds have pure water to drink as that they have wholesome food to eat. I know a farmer who waters his stock summer and winter out of a "mud hole," made by damming up the lower end of a depression into which the surface water collects during a wet time, to which in a dry time a small stream, not larger than a pipestem may be added. The water, of course, is pure enough in winter, but it is so cold as to cause a great waste of heat in the animal who drinks it, and during the summer it becomes decidedly nasty and filthy and unfit for use, owing to the manure and urine that is left in it by the cattle as they stand around in it during the hot days. I very much doubt whether there is a saving in this mode of watering stock, and it is barely possible that when cows abort the cause could often be traced as much by the water they drink as the food they eat.—[Orange County Farmer.

RAISING CALVES ON SKIMMED MILK.

L. W. P., Marshfield, Vt., in the Manchester Mirror, says: "As a general rule we have not had the best of luck in feeding skimmed milk to calves. We have tried almost everything, and in all of them there seems to be something lacking. Last spring we fed rye meal and had good success. We have now a calf 12 weeks old that has had no other feed, not even a look of hay but skimmed milk and rye meal; it never once refused his feed, nor shown any symptoms of scouring. We bring the milk to blood heat and then put in rye meal, what you can readily take up on a large tablespoon.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

Stock Raising in Minnesota.

Mower County Transcript: In 1878, the year of the wheat failure, Ben. Wright, of Frankford, was $5,000 in debt, with no grain or live stock on hand to speak of. He did not sit down and mourn over his bad luck, but accepted the situation and went manfully to work to better his condition. He borrowed $2,000 more, and with that money purchased stock. In 1878-9 that amount of cash purchased considerable stock, as cattle of all kinds were low. The investment proved a very profitable one. It is only necessary to say that Ben. Wright is now out of debt and owns a fine farm, two miles east of Grand Meadow, upon which he has recently built a $3,500 barn. A gentleman just from Grand Meadow says Mr. Wright has, within a few days, closed a $1,800 sale of live stock and has left 92 head of cattle, 22 horses and 150 hogs.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS
AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY,

ROBERT STREET

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES.,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, $100,000
SURPLUS, 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bed steds, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings, and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

DENTISTRY!

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 66-100 dollars, ($705.66-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 2d day of February A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 136, 137, 138 and 139, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.37-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1883, and $17.85-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 80-100 dollars, ($487.80-100,) which is claimed to be due to the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 320, 321 and 322, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.65-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.51-100 taxes for the year 1883 and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,

NORTHERN MINNESOTA,

NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL		Stations	TO ST. PAUL
No. 3 Daily.	No 1. Ex. Sun.		No. 2. Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's.	2 49 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 35 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 20 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 38 "
8 05 "	8 31 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 43 "	9 13 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 28 "	6 23 "
9 23 "	9 58 "	Beltrama	5 08 "	6 13 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson	4 38 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	3 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 p m	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 55 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 58 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 32 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 58 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 18 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 38 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } AM
4 05 "	3 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Jc	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

	Stations
10 20 a m	Crookston.	6 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 18 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } "		2 25 " }
1 25 } " D	Arvilla	2 00 " } D
1 43 "	Larimore	1 43 "
2 02 "	Shawnee	1 13 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 55 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lakota	11 46 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 35 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.
C. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

A. Allen,

AGENT

—FOR THE—

HOWE

SCALE

COMPANY.

John Crawford & Son

Proprietors of

Crawford's

Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

MAIN STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop,

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

Why Don't You wait?

Wait till Crookston has ten thousand people. Three years!

Wait till Crookston is the largest and most important manufacturing town in the Northwest. Two years!

Wait till Crookston has two more large saw mills, and is cutting 75,000,000 feet a season. One year!

wait till lots in SOUTH CROOKSTON are selling for twice their present valuation (six months) and THEN purchase

South Crookston Property.

But if you have time, just drop in and have a chat with

STEENERSON & McMANUS, Broadway.
JOHN IVES & SON, Broadway.
PALMER & BOND, Robert Street.
CROOKSTON IMPROVEMENT CO., Main Street.

FARMERS, FARMERS,

WE ARE

Selling Lower Than Ever!

You will always find it to your advantage to Trade with Us!

We Sell the Best for the LOWEST LIVING PRICES. Remember the place, Broadway, bet. 2d and Robert Sts.

D. BUCHANAN.

SEEDS —AND— PLANTS.

PETER HENDERSON & Co.,

35 & 37 CORTLANDT ST.

NEW YORK.

OUR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF "EVERYTHING FOR THE GARDEN," full of valuable cultural directions, containing three colored plates, and embracing everything NEW and RARE in SEEDS and PLANTS, will be mailed on receipt of stamps to cover postage (6 cents.) To customers of last season sent FREE without application.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal.

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,

Sample Rooms.

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

JOHN N. IVES.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant

Veterinary Surgeon.

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty. [9-tf]

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, March 19th, 1885

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning	Handrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
John Paterson	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
D. H. Hallestad	Court Commissioner.
John Leo	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shophard	Coroner.
Ole Hamery	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist	Woodside.
E. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d "	Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. J. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 3:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 73, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BEULMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE

AND

SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

13 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green sages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported, for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	25

Boots and shoes at cost!
Boots and shoes below cost!
BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business, but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for this money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?

MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank T. Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before spring opens. [38-tf]

Norman County Index:—Mr. O. E. Olson, of the town of Halstad, is taking great interest in stock raising and proposes to raise some of the best kind. He has just returned from a trip to Benson and Kirkhoven, where he inspected the fine stock farm of Wilcox & Leggett. While there he purchased a thoroughbred Dutch Friesan bull and cow. The stock is some of the best in the country. The bull is described in the stock book as follows: (D. F. B.); bred by Unadilla Valley Stock Breeders's Association; calved April 6, 1884; dam Flora Koning, (18 D. F. B.); sire Mooie, (26 D. F. B.) black predominating; shield white on shoulders and rump; white legs. The dam made a record of 40 pounds as a two year old, is a great milker and milk is excellent in quality. Mooie is unsurpassed as a sire of milkers. These fine animals will cost Mr. Olson over $500 laid down in Ada.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Dairyman's Association was held at Faribault and a large number was present. Noticable among the good things was the address of Mr. O. C. Gregg, of Marshall, Minn., on Minnesota and its dairies: "He said that all he would say was in strict accordance with practical working of a dairy farm. There is a difference between the Minnesota dairies and the Vermont dairies. Let us bring to mind our old New England farm, where the land is said to be laid up edgewise, so that it can be used on both sides. The heat of Vermont, as experienced during the summer months, is one thing, and the heat here is another. We have a greater heat here than in the New England States. A Vermont farmer will boast, if he can, that he has 100 acres of land and can cultivate twenty acres of it. The key of successful dairying in New England is to have a cow to turn grass into butter. In Vermont their graneries are small, because there is but little grain grown in Vermont. But see how we pile up an abundance of grain here. Again, compare the comfort of the cow in Vermont with the sufferings of a cow on the heated prairies here. Think of the absence of flowing water, but we supplement this by windmill pumps. Our markets are far away, and we have to have refrigerator cars to transport our products, while the Vermont farmer carries his in his wagon.

The successful dairyman in Vermont will reverse the methods of their grandfathers.

There are people in Minnesota who use the land simply as grazing land. When a man has such fertile land as in Minnesota, he does not live up to his high privilege if he does not cultivate that soil. So we should be grain raisers.

We make butter during the idle time of winter. All the great burdens of the dairy are done during this time. I want to speak of some of the things which are necessary to make a success of dairying in Minnesota:

In the first place, a man must make up his mind to work. Do you know of a banker who runs his bank for a month, and then closes it for six months? Not at all. If you expect to succeed as a dairyman, you must keep at it all the time. There must be no time wasted. Again, we want warm buildings for our cattle. There should be a Bergh here to impress on the minds of farmers the great cruelty of keeping cattle in open sheds when the thermometer is 30 degrees below zero. A man that will sit around his warm fire and forget that his animals are suffering with cold, has not a spark of sympathy in him, and I haven't words strong enough to express my condemnation of him. We must provide a remedy for this. We want warm places for our cattle.

Mr. Gregg gave some practical illustrations of the manner of building a warm stock barn, showing that it was neither a difficult nor an expensive thing to do. He said that in order to be successful it was necessary to keep the cows clean. It ought not to be necessary to give this advice, but it is. Keep your cattle protected from the cold. It is the greatest humbug in the world to turn cattle out to exercise in cold, stormy weather. Most of us farmers cannot do our work alone and must hire labor. But it is not in flesh and blood to stand the treatment some farmers give their help. He made the statement that most of our successful men have been raised on the farm.

Mr. Gregg argued in favor of investment in reading matter, and asked how many of his readers there were whose tobacco bill was not larger than their newspaper bill. He said the influence of good reading matter upon the farmer and his help was most salutary. Let the farmers of the State get the best information they can. Let them read the newspapers, and any other good literature, and they will be able to compel the respect of the rest of mankind.

Mr. Gregg further said: "The farm which I now occupy has been occupied by a man who said he could not get a living out of it, but I have been eminently successful. The twenty-four cows I now milk are Minnesota cows. I have received from that farm very nearly $2,200 during the past year. The butter product for the month of February, shows a receipt of a little more than $200.

I am confident that my farm is capable of bringing a gross receipt of $3,000 a year. I cultivate with the plow about 100 acres. My hay is cut outside of this 100 acres. That we should have the best results, we should have the proportion of one man, one team, ten cows, and forty acres of plowed land. The main crop that I grow is oats. I have raised oats and wheat on rich land, because I could get more grain for feed in that manner than in any other. Wind is the power for the farmer. The wind-mill is a valuable piece of property on a farm.

Holstein Breeders' Association.

FARIBAULT, March 6.—A meeting of the breeders of Holstein cattle of the State, was held this morning for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization. Holstein cattle soil for a higher price than any other breed, and are growing in favor. An organization of breeders will tend to preserve the purity of the breed and be advantageous to stock raisers in many other ways. S. M. Emery, of Lake City, was called to the chair and M. J. Myers, of Wells, elected secretary. At a preliminary meeting yesterday a committee on bylaws was appointed. This committee reported at the meeting to-day, and their report was adopted. The object of the association was declared to be for the advancement of the legitimate interests of dealers and breeders of Holstein cattle in Minnesota. All breeders of pure-bred Holstein cattle in the State of Minnesota are eligible for membership. One section provides that any member who shall be found guilty of deception or fraud shall be expelled from the association. The initiation fee was placed at $2, and the yearly dues at $1. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, S. M. Emory, of Lake City; vice president, Colonel Leggitt, of Benson; secretary, M. J. Myers, of Wells; treasurer, L. H. Stanton, of Morris; executive committee, N. J. Leavitt, Waseca; S. F. Johnson, Northfield; E. P. Taylor, Dodge City. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the president.

FARM NOTES.

Farmers' Tribune.

FLAX NOT EXHAUSTIVE TO THE SOIL.

Mary Maxwell Cale, of Fulda, Murray County, Minn., writes to the Tribune on this subject as follows: "From a copy of the Tribune which chanced to fall into my hands lately, I read in two separate items that flax-raising was very exhaustive to the soil. Now, I beg leave to differ, for the facts prove the reverse to be true in our locality. Many farmers tried wheat raising here, and as a result their farms and stock were soon mortgaged to pay for expensive machinery and to buy flour for their families. Yes, to buy flour, for what wheat was obtained was so foul as to be unmarketable, and wholly unfit for flour. As soon as flax began to be grown extensively affairs changed as if by magic, farms improved, mortgages were paid off, old land that had been foul for years was again plowed, and the result was a bountiful crop of flax to rejoice the heart of the farmer, the merchant and even the poor railway officials, although not so heavy a crop as wheat. I have grown flax three years in succession on one plat of ground, the last proving by far the best crop. By using great care in the selection of seed; by having it perfectly clean, and putting in the ground properly it is by far the most profitable crop we can produce here."

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing,

JOHN McLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

For Sale.

A high grade, Shorthorn, bull calf, one year old, a high grade Jersey bull calf, eight months old, and a high grade Holstein bull calf, four months old. Will sell for cash or will trade for heifer calves. Address A. N. Hopkins, on the farm near Crookston, or the JOURNAL office for further particulars.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty-seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris E. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November, A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 400, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Crookston in said County and State on the 12th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 20th, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
45-50] Pro Se

By request of the mortgagee the above sale is adjourned until Thursday, April 16th, at 11 o'clock a. m.

W. F. ZWICKEY.
Sheriff of Polk County, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Pierre Duluude, as mortgagor, did on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of July 6th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, and the south half of the northeast quarter, of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west, of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and twenty-five dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, at 2:45 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "E" of mortgages, on pages 87, 88, 89 and 90; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty-eight and 10-100 dollars, due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of July, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of three hundred and seventy-seven and 40-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [42-48]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 32-100 dollars, ($277.32-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:25 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 816, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED. DEITZ,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 22d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7812, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillis, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.

[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 12th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., April 1st, 1885, viz: THOMAS R. DENNISON, H'd No. 2,757, for the sw¼ S. 22, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Miller, James K. Airey, Seth Fetzer and Wm. Ritchie, all of Crookston, Minn.

[43-48] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DRAUGHT

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS Israel Dion, as mortgagor, did on the 25th day of January A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of January 25th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section eighteen (18,) in Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west of the 5th principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with five interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 25th day of January A. D. 1881, at 3 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 92, 93, 94 and 95; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of forty-six dollars, due as interest upon said mortgage and the said interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of thirty-two and 27-100 dollars; for which sum so paid the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt and claim a lien on said mortgaged premises for the amount so paid with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas it was stipulated and agreed by and between the parties to said mortgage that if default should be made in any of the conditions or covenants therein contained on the part of said mortgagor to be kept and performed, that then and from thenceforth it shall be lawful for said mortgagees, their heirs or assigns, to consider the whole sum thereby secured as immediately due and payable; and whereas the legal representatives of John L. Hammond, deceased, one of said mortgagees, and Charles E. Bush, the surviving mortgagee, have exercised their option to consider and declare, and do hereby declare the whole sum of money secured by said mortgage to be due and payable; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid the sum of three hundred and fifteen and 55-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 14th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [43-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Arthur Cote, as mortgagor, did on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of March 1st, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The southeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees which said mortgage was on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, at 4:20 o'clock, p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 196, 197 and 198; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred and fifty-six and 55-100 dollars, due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of March, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did, on the fifth day of September, 1883 pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of eighteen and 39-100 dollars, for which sum so paid, the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lein on said premises for the amount so paid, with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid, the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine and 15-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 29th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [34-40]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss.
County of Polk. } In Probate Court.

Special term, held Feb. 25th, 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Peter Anderson deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of E. E. Lommen the administrator of said estate setting forth the amount of personal estate that has come to his hands and the disposition thereof; the amount of debts outstanding against said deceased, and a discription of all the real estate of which said deceased died seized, and the condition and value of the respective portions thereof; and praying that license be to him granted to sell the whole of said real estate or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay the debts of said deceased. And it appearing, by said petition, that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said administrator to pay said debts, and that it is necessary in order to pay the same, to sell a part of the whole of said real estate; and that it will be for the best interests of said estate that said real estate shall be sold at private sale.

It is therefore ordered, That all persons interested in said estate, appear before the Judge of this Court on Saturday the eleventh day of April A. D. 1885 at 2 o'clock p. m., at the office of the Probate Judge in the City of Crookston, in said County, then and there to show cause, if any there be, why license should not be granted to said administrator to sell said real estate according to the prayer of said petition:

And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order shall be published for four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, the last of which publication shall be at least fourteen days before said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said County, and personally served on all persons interested in said estate residing in said County, at least fourteen days before said day of hearing, and upon all other persons interested according to law.

Dated at Crookston this 25th day of February A. D. 1885.

By the Court.
ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,
[SEAL] Judge of Probate.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

TO THE

CITY OF CROOKSTON

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS,

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in

BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,

Crookston, - Minn.

AGENTS FOR THE

J. I. CASE THRESHING MACHINES!

And Manufacturers of

Carriages, Wagons, BUGGIES, Cutters, Sleds, &c.

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,

DEALERS IN

FARM MACHINERY.

In Farm Machinery we have the Champion Seeder, Fargo Diamond Tooth Harrow, Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Davenport and Grand Detour Sulky and Walking Plows, Buford Gang Plows, Field Rollers of all sizes, Warrior Mowers, the leading Hay Rake and first-class Harvesters and Binders, the Webber Wagon and McKinnon Bros. Wagon. In fact we have everything in machinery, from A Wheelbarrow to a Threshing Machine!

EXTRAS

For all Machines constantly on hand

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, MARCH 26, 1885. NO. 48

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 70	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 00	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 00	3 60	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 60	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

IMPROVE YOUR DAIRY.

Mr. Asa R. Sturtevant, of Springboro, Pa., is not only a practical dairyman but a very successful breeder of Holsteins as well. He writes the following valuable results of his experience to that excellent paper, the Pennsylvania Farmer, which we take great pleasure in laying before our readers:

As to the first question, when? we would say, at once. In one case will the axiom. "Time lost can never be regained" prove more true than in the improvement of dairy stock. A good dairy cow does not spring up in one night, like a mushroom. It takes years of hard study and patient waiting to combine the qualifications necessary for a perfect cow. Hence the necessity of beginning at once. I have milked from fifteen to thirty cows most of the time for twenty years. For the first ten years I milked "old Brin" and her companion morning and night, year after year, looking but little to the wants of the cow; what she must have in order to make her a success as a dairy cow and a profit to myself, until at length this question suggested itself to my mind: "If this is to be my business, if I am to look to the cow to pay taxes and store bills, and to clothe and educate my children, how shall I make her more profitable, or what means are within my reach for making two pails of milk flow where one has flowed before? And I then began my work of trying to improve my dairy and years of experience have taught me that there are many ways by which a grand improvement may be made, some of which I will mention, hoping, as I do so, to mention at least some one thing that may prove a lasting benefit to some dairyman.

1st. By weeding. This should be done at once. We all know how two plants, grown where there is only room for one, will suffer; how much we lose if we allow more than four good stalks to grow in a hill of corn, and much more if the ground is occupied by useless weeds. It is just so in the dairy. Weed them out, sell them off, every one that does not pay a profit—yes, and a good profit. For no cause whatever, keep a cow that, after a fair test, proves a failure. Better by far sell her for less than you think she is worth than waste your time and feed upon her. Close them out until your poorest are better than your neighbor's best, and until you can do well by each animal you have left. Then they will do well by you. I think much depends on thorough, thoughtful weeding as a means by which to improve our dairies. Now, after we have a fine, uniform lot of good cows, with short legs, long, heavy bodies, slim necks and tails, and fine heads, with bag like a wash-tub (small tub) barrel, large and round. We have a lot of machines that we can do a dairy business with at a profit and with satisfaction to ourselves. I give satisfaction a goodly amount of credit; a certain amount of it is worth just so much money to me.

Next after weeding comes breeding. This is a study. We think a man who builds a house should first learn his trade; or the manufacturer of any machine or implement must be a skilled workman, and know just how to use his material to put it together to produce the best results. "But anyone can breed a cow," I hear some one say. Yes, that is true, but not to obtain the best results. In no other business does it require more brains, better judgment or more hard study, cutting and fitting, if you please, than to be able to breed a perfect animal—an animal suited to a special purpose, or to improve your dairy. Breeding to a purpose was taught by Jacob while he had charge of Laban's herd. He was to have as his pay all the ringed, streaked and speckled cattle. He had an object in view, and he went to work with a fixed purpose. He took the poles, and when the strongest, best cattle conceived, he placed them where they came to drink. That was his plan for weeding the flock, and the result was he had all the best of the flock spotted (Holsteins I suppose). Some of the causes that have hindered the improvement of dairy cows are simply ridiculous. I will mention only a few. The distance required to go in order to reach a suitable sire is a bugbear in the eyes of some men. They had rather breed to a dung-hill and get a seventy-five cent calf than to spend a day or two and breed to a bull of individual merit, and get a calf worth seventy-five dollars. Their time is too precious to drive a cow off, but at the same time you can hire the same man to work for you at a dollar a day, and he is glad of the chance. (On consistency thou art a jewel). There are a few grand exceptions to this class. Thanks to the pluck of one of my neighbors, and I will mention his name: T. B. Graham, who led a cow sixty miles and back, to breed her in such a way as to improve his dairy, and it will be well for me to state that he was a Durham man. Had he been a Holstein man he might have bred her to my bull, and saved one hundred and twelve or fifteen miles travel.

Another hindrance to successful breeding is the slight difference in the price of service of a good and poor stock animal. Fifty cents is the outside figure for some men, no matter how fine an animal you may have, or what you may have paid, or how much pains you may have taken to get him. Now, do not be so negligent; do not be so foolishly stingy. Use the best bull within your reach, almost regardless of price or trouble. There is always a profit in a first-class calf of any breed.

Next after weeding and breeding comes the no less important matter of feeding. If we see the weight of a heavy hog published we take it for granted he has been fed something. If we read an account of a great number of bushels of grain having been threshed by a machine, we know that the machine has been fed. But if you publish the amount of milk that a cow gives, people look wise, or unwise, and say at once, "Oh, yes, but you feed her." How strange! What is she? Nothing more or less than a machine working up what is placed in her reach and paying over in proportion. I refused to board a cow for one of my neighbors, just on the ground that she was too lazy to eat much. When the other cows would be in the field she would stand in the shade doing nothing. Some of you may scorn the idea, but it is a fact notwithstanding that some cows are too lazy to gather much food, and these must be weeded out in order to improve our dairies. Regularity in feeding is very essential to obtain the best results. A cow soon learns the feeding hour, and in case you fail you incur a loss at the pail. As regards the different kinds of feed, some prefer one kind, and others something else. I think that a variety of food is desirable for a dairy cow. She likes a change, and it costs but little more to have different kinds of grasses, with rye, oats, etc., in the field where they feed, than to merely have one kind, and they will change from one to the other with relish. In winter, sugar beets are very good. I have figures to show that they will increase the flow of milk quite an amount. Bran and oats are considered good feed, but I do not use much corn. Something from nothing leaves nothing; but something from a well arranged pasture field, or a good pailful of wholesome feed leaves a pail brimming full of pure milk.

The next thing we look after is how to get the milk. We will start with sending the most careful hand on the farm after the cows. No rattled headed boy can in any way improve a dairy, nor is it necessary for a cow to haul a dog half the way from the pasture to the barn by her tail in order to improve the quantity or quality of her milk. She should be driven quietly home with careful hands. I am a firm believer in a time for all thing—a time to sing, a time to talk, and a time to be quiet and attend to business, and the last is milking time. No one but a man who knows the value of a pail of milk and is willing to put forth every effort to obtain it, should be allowed in the milking stable. Have a stated time to milk and milk on time. Punctuality is a greater source of profit for what it costs than most men think, if they have never made it a test. What would you think of a preacher that would be a half an hour late at his appointment, or a banker who would fail to open his bank on time? And in neither case is it more important to be on time than for the dairymen. The faithful cow, true to her cause at all times, becomes uneasy, and a loss is incurred, when the aim is, or should be, to have a gain. It has been a question in my mind for some time, how many times a cow should be milked for profit in twenty-four hours; and I am free to say, and without fear of successful contradiction that it is practicable to milk every eight hours—at 5 a. m., and 1 and 9 p. m. These are not very unreasonable hours for the work, and it will pay a profit, and the man who wishes most to improve his dairy must adopt this as one of the essential means. I had one of my cows milked every six hours (four times a day) for thirty days last summer, with but little gain over the eight hour plan; and it is much harder on the men and proved an overdose of a good thing. What I say I do not say by guess. I weigh my milk and can give the figures in these tests if required. A good dairy farm is a school where many may be taught if they will. Give your cows a little bone dust or ground bone once in a while—they need it. I have known of cases where the bone in cows became chalky, and the leg would break on account of a lack of this substance. You have all seen cows pick up bones in the field, and are lucky if you never had one choked to death in that way. Then give it to them in a form that it will not harm them. Salt should at all times be in reach of your cows.

One more very important matter is that we should always provide ourselves with extra feed to carry our cows over the dry weather in August. Have a piece of sowed corn, or I have had grand success with oats, which are usually cheap at that season, and can be fed at a profit. It keeps up the flow of milk until the later rains come on, while if allowed to drop off it cannot by any amount of any kind of feed be brought back. Therefore, as a great means of improvement, keep up the flow as long as you think it will do, allowing only proper time for rest before dropping the next calf, which should be about sixty days. Having mentioned a few of the many ways, I will give my reasons why we should improve our dairies.

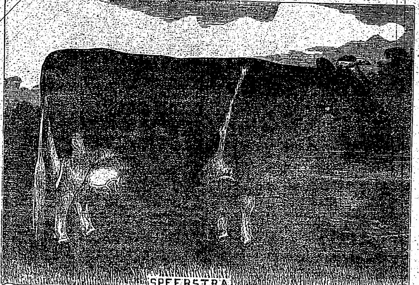
First of all, the age in which we live demands it. I am a young man, and well I remember when the horse that made his mile in 2:40 was very fast; now he would be considered too slow for a country preacher; skill in breeding and management has made the change. We used to be well pleased if in months we could communicate with our friends at a distance; now we step up to a box with a wire attached, and talk as though seated side by side, and so on. We know the cause. It is that disposition to improve, to make the best use of the means God has placed in our hands to promote our happiness. Now are we, as dairymen, representing as we do one of the greatest and grandest industries of our country, less capable of improving than the rest of mankind? I say, most emphatically, No.

One more reason why—and this should stimulate the most indifferent to action—the money is in it. What breed of cattle are capable of making the greatest improvement? A dairyman's disposition must be consulted in this matter. If he is proud, and will not milk a goat, he should get an Alderney. If he is lazy and won't milk at all, let him keep cows that only give enough to raise their calves, like the Durham. But if he is a thrifty, thorough-going man, anxious to secure the best results as a reward for his labor, he should have the Holsteins. I know of no greater means of improvement to a dairy that is not already perfect, than to fill it with this breed of cattle, as they are of good size, are good feeders, and make more butter and cheese than any other breed, and in short, are the best general purpose cows known. Get pure-bred cows, if you can, of course, but if you cannot get them, take the next best thing—a high grade.

Now I will sift this article and get all the good out of it, so in case a man has no time to read it all he may have the substance of it. When? At once—time lost can never be regained. How? By careful weeding, breeding and feeding. Why? Because it will pay. Any questions asked or comments made on the above, will be cheerfully answered by

ASA R. STURTEVANT.

Springboro, Crawford Co., Pa.



SPEERSTRA

We take pleasure this week in presenting our readers a picture of the fine thoroughbred Holstein cow "SPEERSTRA" No. 4,630, Holstein Herd Book. She is six years old this month and has a milk record of 87 lbs. in a day and is one of the finest animals in a large herd. She is the property of S. S. Mann & Son, of Elgin, Ill., who breed Holsteins extensively for milk and beef. The Holsteins are rapidly coming to the front for dairy cows and for general purpose cows. Their great size and weight makes them valuable for beef purposes and their performances at the pail, (which are hard to beat) makes them very valuable for dairy cows. Any of our readers who desire further information relative to the herd of S. S. Mann & Son, can communicate with that firm and will receive prompt attention. We can highly recommend their herd.

Butter Test of a Holstein Cow.

Breeders' Gazette. Your readers will doubtless be interested in learning the result of a recent butter test of our Holstein cow Lady Netherland, which was 19 lbs. 8 oz. of thoroughly worked, unsalted butter in seven consecutive days.

Another large record is thus added to the already long list of Holstein butter cows, and as this cow is dam of our famous bull Netherland Prince (716), and our cows Netherland Queen (414), with a butter record of 20 lbs. in seven days, and Netherland Princess, with a butter record of 17 lbs. 11 oz. of butter in seven days, it more securely places the Netherland family at the head of all Holstein butter families. Netherland Countess (2634) made 15 lbs. 15 oz. of butter in seven days as a three-year-old, and Netherland Belle (1876) made 16 lbs. 7 oz. in a week as a three-year-old, and both these heifers are sisters to Netherland Prince on the sire's side, while his aunt, Netherland Dutchess, (2498), made as a four-year-old 14 lbs. 12 oz., and Netherland Baroness (2235), a niece of Lady Netherland, made 17 lbs. 5 oz. of butter in seven days.

A Suggestion.

Grand Forks Herald; Farmers, the Herald again urges you to organize now before the rush of the spring work. You can not ungratefully accuse the Herald of advising you thus for political purposes, for there is no election near approaching. It has fought for an open market law. We have such an one now after a fashion, but greatly crippled as it was by the monopoly men you sent to the legislature, still there is an open market feature in it. If you combine by associations, you can enforce it. You will have to enter into binding association however, not to ship a bushel of wheat through any elevator, as suggested by the leading farmers. If you sell to the elevators, the railroads will say all their cars are engaged already by the elevators and they can furnish you none. If you enter into a contract to abstain from giving the elevators any grain whatsoever, the railroads will be obliged to furnish you cars or go out of the business. There is a way to reach the monopoly, but it cannot be done by selfishness and idleness. You must not delay. Organize at once. The association plan advised last year is as good a plan as any. If you want an open market, it remains for you to wake up and enforce it. If you want to continue to be robbed and skinned, then continue to sleep upon your rights. The Herald charges you nothing for this advice and asks nothing in return. It hopes to see you act like freemen and cease to be slaves.

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT."

"An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents." This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

GIVEN AWAY FOR ONE YEAR.

We want 200,000 subscribers before May 1st, 1885, to our large illustrated publication, The Sunshine Magazine. In order to get the above number of subscribers we must give away subscriptions the first year, and the second year we will make up the loss as most of them will subscribe again, paying our regular price. Send twelve two-cent stamps to pay postage and you will have the above Magazine to read every week for one whole year. If you accept the above offer, we expect you will be kind enough to distribute among your friends, a few small books containing our advertisements and 167 of the best household receipts, for which we will make you a present of a handsome, silver plated, five-bottle CASTER, or a pair of ROLLER SKATES. State how many books you can give away for us, and we will send the books and Caster (or Skates) prepaid. Order for your friends also, and you will receive both presents. Address

SUNSHINE MAGAZINE Co.,
[45-48] Fillmore, N. Y.

We recommend the Minneapolis Tribune to all our readers.

A. Yvenault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, Minn

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

H. STEENERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3, U.S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn. DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Frank M. Brown,
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.

Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or
SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Jure & Bergland.)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON
Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at LOW PRICES
FOR CASH.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, MARCH 26, 1885. NO. 48

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

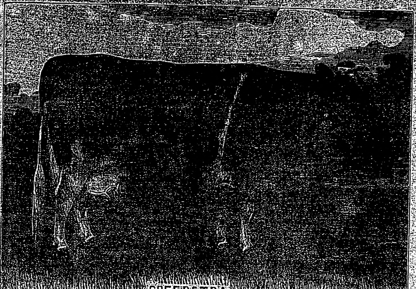
SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	.50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 10	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	.75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.



SPEERSTRA

We take pleasure this week in presenting our readers a picture of the fine thoroughbred Holstein cow "SPEERSTRA" No. 4,630, Holstein Herd Book. She is six years old this month and has a milk record of 87 lbs. in a day, and is one of the finest animals in a large herd. She is the property of S. S. Mann & Son, of Elgin, Ill., who breed Holsteins extensively for milk and beef. The Holsteins are rapidly coming to the front for dairy cows and for general purpose cows. Their great size and weight makes them valuable for beef purposes and their performances at the pail, (which are hard to beat) makes them very valuable for dairy cows. Any of our readers who desire further information relative to the herd of S. S. Mann & Son, can communicate with that firm and will receive prompt attention. We can highly recommend their herd.

IMPROVE YOUR DAIRY.

Mr. Asa R. Sturtevant, of Springboro, Pa., is not only a practical dairyman but a very successful breeder of Holsteins as well. He writes the following valuable results of his experience to that excellent paper, the Pennsylvania Farmer, which we take great pleasure in laying before our readers:

As to the first question, when? we would say, at once. In one case will the axiom, "Time lost can never be regained" prove more true than in the improvement of dairy stock. A good dairy cow does not spring up in one night, like a mushroom. It takes years of hard study and patient waiting to combine the qualifications necessary for a perfect cow. Hence the necessity of beginning at once. I have milked from fifteen to thirty cows most of the time for twenty years. For the first ten years I milked "old Brin" and her companion morning and night, year after year, looking but little to the wants of the cow; what she must have in order to make her a success as a dairy cow and a profit to myself, until at length this question suggested itself to my mind: "If this is to be my business, if I am to look to the cow to pay taxes and store bills, and to clothe and educate my children, how shall I make her more profitable, or what means are within my reach for making two pails of milk flow where one has flowed before? And I then began my work of trying to improve my dairy and years of experience have taught me that there are many ways by which a grand improvement may be made, some of which I will mention, hoping, as I do so, to mention at least some one thing that may prove a lasting benefit to some dairyman.

1st. By weeding. This should be done at once. We all know how two plants, grown where there is only room for one, will suffer; how much we lose if we allow more than four good stalks to grow in a hill of corn, and much more if the ground is occupied by useless weeds. It is just so in the dairy. Weed them out, sell them off, every one that does not pay a profit—yes, and a good profit. For no cause whatever, keep a cow that, after a fair test, proves a failure. Better by far sell her for less than you think she is worth than waste your time and feed upon her. Close them out until your poorest are better than your neighbor's best, and until you can do well by each animal you have left. Then they will do well by you. I think much depends on thorough, thoughtful weeding as a means by which to improve our dairies. Now, after we have a fine, uniform lot of good cows with short legs, long, heavy bodies, slim necks and tails, and fine heads, with bag like a wash tub (small tub) barrel large and round. We have a lot of machines that we can do a dairy business with at a profit and with satisfaction to ourselves. I give satisfaction a goodly amount of credit, a certain amount of it is worth just so much money to me.

Next after weeding comes breeding. This is a study. We think a man who builds a house should first learn his trade, for the manufacture of any machine [illegible] must be a skilled workman and know just how to use his material to put it together to produce the best results. But any one can breed a cow, I hear some one say. Yes, that is true, but not to obtain the best results. In no other business do it require more brains, better judgment or more hard study [illegible] a perfect animal—an animal suited to a special purpose, or to improve your dairy. Breeding to [illegible] taught by [illegible] [illegible] cows are simply ridiculous. I will mention only a few. The distance required to go in order to reach a suitable sire is a bugbear in the eyes of some men. They had rather breed to a dung-hill and get a seventy-five cent calf than to spend a day or two and breed to a bull of individual merit, and get a calf worth seventy-five dollars. Their time is too precious to drive a cow off, but at the same time you can hire the same man to work for you at a dollar a day, and he is glad of the chance. (Oh consistency thou art a jewel). There are a few grand exceptions to this class. Thanks to the pluck of one of my neighbors, and I will mention his name, T. B. Graham, who led a cow sixty miles and back to breed her in such a way as to improve his dairy, and it will be well for me to state that he was a Durham man. Had he been a Holstein man he might have bred her to my bull, and saved one hundred and twelve or fifteen miles travel.

Another hindrance to successful breeding is the slight difference in the price of service of a good and poor stock animal. Fifty cents is the outside figure for some men, no matter how fine an animal you may have, or what you may have paid or how much pains you may have taken to get him. Now, do not be so negligent, do not be so foolishly stingy. Use the best bull within your reach, almost regardless of price or trouble. There is always a profit in a first-class calf of any breed.

Next after weeding and breeding comes the no less important matter of feeding. If we see the weight of a heavy hog published we take it for granted he has been fed something. If we read an account of a great number of bushels of grain having been threshed by a machine, we know that the machine has been fed. But if you publish the amount of milk that a cow gives, people look wise, or unwise, and say at once, "Oh yes, but you feed her." How strange! What is she? Nothing more or less than a machine working up what is placed in her reach and paying over in proportion. I refused to board a cow for one of my neighbors just on the ground that she was too lazy to eat much. When the other cows would lie in the field she would stand in the shade doing nothing. Some of you may scorn the idea, but I [illegible] notwithstanding that some cows are too lazy to eat [illegible] food, and these must be weeded out in order to improve our dairies. Regularity in feeding is very essential to obtain the best results. A cow soon learns the feeding hour and in case you [illegible] the pail. As regards the different kinds of feed, some prefer one kind and others something else. I think that a variety of food is desirable for a dairy cow. She likes a change, and I [illegible] [illegible] field, or a good pailful of wholesome feed, leaves a pail brimming full of pure milk.

The next thing we look after is how to get the milk. We will start with sending the most careful hand on the farm after the cows. No rattled headed boy can in any way improve a dairy, nor is it necessary for a cow to haul a dog half the way from the pasture to the barn by her tail in order to improve the quantity or quality of her milk. She should be driven quietly home with careful hands. I am a firm believer in a time for all things—a time to sing, a time to talk, and a time to be quiet and attend to business, and the last is milking time. No one but a man who knows the value of a pail of milk and is willing to put forth every effort to obtain it should be allowed in the milking stable. Have a stated time to milk and milk on time. Punctuality is a greater source of profit for what it costs than most men think, if they have never made it a test. What would you think of a preacher that would be a half an hour late at his appointment, or a banker who would fail to open his bank on time? And in neither case is it more important to be on time, than for the dairymen. The faithful cow, true to her cause at all times, becomes uneasy and a loss is incurred, when the aim is, or should be, to have a gain. It has been a question in my mind for some time, how many times a cow should be milked for profit in twenty-four hours, and I am free to say, and without fear of successful contradiction, that it is practicable to milk every eight hours—at [illegible] and [illegible] p. m. These are not very unreasonable hours for the work, and it will pay a profit, and the man who wishes most to improve his dairy must adopt this as one of the essential means. I had one of my cows milked every six hours (four times a day) for thirty days last summer, with but little gain over the eight hour plan, and it is much harder on the men, and proved an overdose of a good thing. What I say I do not say by guess. I weigh my milk and can give the figures in these tests if required. A good dairy farm is a school where many may be taught if they will. Give your cows a little bone dust or ground bone once in a while—they need it. I have known of cases where the bone in cows became chalky and the leg would break on account of a lack of this substance. You have all seen cows pick up bones in the field, and are lucky if you never had one choked to death in that way. Then give it to them in a form that it will not harm them. Salt should at all times be in reach of your cows.

One more very important matter is that we should always provide ourselves with extra feed to carry our cows over the dry weather in August. Have a piece of sowed corn [illegible] [illegible]

be about sixty days. Having mentioned a few of the many ways, I will give my reasons why we should improve our dairies.

First of all, the age in which we live demands it. I am a young man, and well I remember when the horse that made his mile in 2:40 was very fast; now he would be considered too slow for a country preacher; skill in breeding and management has made the change. We used to be well pleased if in months we could communicate with our friends at a distance; now we step up to a box with a wire attached, and talk as though seated side by side, and so on. We know the cause. It is that disposition to improve, to make the best use of the means God has placed in our hands to promote our happiness. Now are we, as dairymen, representing as we do one of the greatest and grandest industries of our country, less capable of improving than the rest of mankind? I say, most emphatically, No.

One more reason why—and this should stimulate the most indifferent to action—the money is in it. What breed of cattle are capable of making the greatest improvement? A dairyman's disposition must be consulted in this matter. If he is proud, and will not milk a goat, he should get an Alderney. If he is lazy and won't milk at all, let him keep cows that only give enough to raise their calves, like the Durham. But if he is a thrifty, thorough-going man, anxious to secure the best results as a reward for his labor, he should have the Holsteins. I know of no greater means of improvement to a dairy that is not already perfect, than to fill it with this breed of cattle, as they are of good size, are good feeders, and make more butter and cheese than any other breed and in short, are the best general purpose cows known. Get pure-bred cows, if you can, of course, but if you cannot get them, take the next best thing—a high grade.

Now I will sift this article and get all the good out of it, so in case a man has no time to read it all he may have the substance of it. When? At once—time lost can never be regained. How? By careful weeding, breeding and feeding. Why? Because it will pay. Any questions asked or comments made on the above will be cheerfully answered by

ASA R. STURTEVANT,
Springboro, Crawford Co., Pa.

Butter Test of a Holstein Cow.

Breeders' Gazette: Your readers will doubtless be interested in learning the result of a recent butter test of our Holstein cow Lady Netherland, which was 19 lbs. 6 oz. of thoroughly worked unsalted butter in seven consecutive days. Another large record is thus added to the already long list of Holstein butter cows, and as this cow is dam of our [illegible] [illegible] both these heifers are sisters to Netherland Prince on the sire's side, while his aunt, Netherland Dutchess, (2498), made as a four-year-old 14 lbs. 12 oz., and Netherland Baroness (2235), a niece of Lady Netherland, made 17 lbs. 5 oz. of butter in seven days.

A Suggestion.

Grand Forks Herald: Farmers, the Herald again urges you to organize now before the rush of the spring work. You can not ungratefully accuse the Herald of advising you thus for political purposes, for there is no election near approaching. It has fought for an open market law. We have such an one now after a fashion, but greatly crippled as it was by the monopoly men you sent to the legislature, still there is an open market feature in it. If you combine by associations, you can enforce it. You will have to enter into binding association however, not to ship a bushel of wheat through any elevator, as suggested by the leading farmers. If you sell to the elevators, the railroads will say all their cars are engaged already by the elevators and they can furnish you none. If you enter into a contract to abstain from giving the elevators any grain whatsoever, the railroads will be obliged to furnish you cars or go out of the business. There is a way to reach the monopoly, but it cannot be done by selfishness and idleness. You must not delay. Organize at once. The association plan advised last year is as good a plan as any. If you want an open market, it remains for you to wake up and enforce it. If you want to continue to be robbed and skinned, then continue to sleep upon your rights. The Herald charges you nothing for this advice and asks nothing in return. It hopes to see you act like freemen and cease to be slaves.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT.

"An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents." This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers [illegible] [illegible] cultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

GIVEN AWAY FOR ONE YEAR.

We want 200,000 subscribers before May 1st, 1885, to our large illustrated publication, The Sunshine Magazine. In order to get the above number of subscribers we must give away subscriptions the first year, and the second year we will make up the loss as most of them will subscribe again, paying our regular price. Send twelve two-cent stamps to pay postage and you will have the above Magazine to read every week for one whole year. If you accept the above offer, we expect you will be kind enough to distribute among your friends, a few small books containing our advertisements and 167 of the best household receipts, for which we will make you a present of a handsome, silver plated, five-bottle CASTER, or a pair of ROLLER SKATES. State how many books you can give away for us, and we will send the books and Caster (or Skates) prepaid. Order for your friends also, and you will receive both presents. Address,

SUNSHINE MAGAZINE CO.,
[45-48] Fillmore, N. Y.

We recommend the Minneapolis Tribune to all our readers.

A. Yvenault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET.—

Crookston, Minn

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

H. STEENERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD

DR. A. NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 50 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see.

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn.

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
[illegible], Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city. [illegible]

M. M. VAN DYKE
Physician and Surgeon
[illegible]

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOICITED.

Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WEKEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BESTTURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

Bigham & Olafson
Successors to Juve & Bergland,
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON
Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
In fact everything usually found in a first-class general store.
[illegible]
LOW PRICES
[illegible]

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, MARCH 26, 1885. NO. 48

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

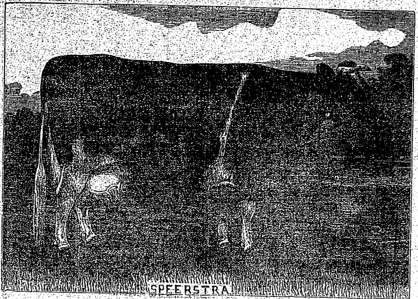
SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch	.50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 70	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 00	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.



SPEERSTRA.

We take pleasure this week in presenting our readers a picture of the fine thoroughbred Holstein cow "SPEERSTRA" No. 4,636, Holstein Herd Book. She is six years old this month and has a milk record of 87 lbs. in a day and is one of the finest animals in a large herd. She is the property of S. S. Mann & Son, of Elgin., Ill., who breed Holsteins extensively for milk and beef. The Holsteins are rapidly coming to the front for dairy cows and for general purpose cows. Their great size and weight makes them valuable for beef purposes and their performances at the pail, (which are hard to beat) makes them very valuable for dairy cows. Any of our readers who desire further information relative to the herd of S. S. Mann & Son, can communicate with that firm and will receive prompt attention. We can highly recommend their herd.

IMPROVE YOUR DAIRY.

Mr. Asa R. Sturtevant, of Springboro, Pa., is not only a practical dairyman but a very successful breeder of Holsteins as well. He writes the following valuable results of his experience to that excellent paper, the Pennsylvania Farmer, which we take grea pleasure in laying before our readers:

As to the first question, when? we would say, at once. In one case will the axiom: "Time lost can never be regained" prove more true than in the improvement of dairy stock. A good dairy cow does not spring up in one night, like a mushroom. It takes years of hard study and patient waiting to combine the qualifications necessary for a perfect cow. Hence the necessity of beginning at once. I have milked from fifteen to thirty cows most of the time for twenty years. For the first ten years I milked "old Brin" and her companion morning and night, year after year, looking but little to the wants of the cow; what she must have in order to make her a success as a dairy cow and a profit to myself, until at length this question suggested itself to my mind: "If this is to be my business, if I am to look to the cow to pay taxes and store bills, and to clothe and educate my children, how shall I make her more profitable, or what means are within my reach for making two pails of milk flow where one has flowed before? And I then began my work of trying to improve my dairy and years of experience have taught me that there are many ways by which a grand improvement may be made, some of which I will mention, hoping, as I do so, to mention at least some one thing that may prove a lasting benefit to some dairyman.

1st. By weeding. This should be done at once. We all know how two plants, grown where there is only room for one, will suffer; how much we lose if we allow more than four good stalks to grow in a hill of corn, and much more if the ground is occupied by useless weeds. It is just so in the dairy. Weed them out, sell them off, every one that does not pay a profit—yes, and a good profit. For no cause whatever, keep a cow that, after a fair test, proves a failure. Better by far sell her for less than you think she is worth than waste your time and feed upon her. Close them out until your poorest are better than your neighbor's best, and until you can do well by each animal you have left. Then they will do well by you. I think much depends on thorough, thoughtful weeding as a means by which to improve our dairies. Now, after we have a fine, uniform lot of good cows, with short legs, long, heavy bodies, slim necks and tails, and fine heads, with bag like a wash-tub (small tub) barrel, large and round. We have a lot of machines that we can do a dairy business with at a profit and with satisfaction to ourselves. I give satisfaction a goodly amount of credit; a certain amount of it is worth just so much money to me.

Next after weeding comes breeding. This is a study. We think a man who builds a house should first learn his trade; or the manufacturer of any machine or implement must be a skilled workman, and know just how to use his material to put it together to produce the best results. "But anyone can breed a cow," I hear some one say. Yes, that is true, but not to obtain the best results. In no other business does it require more brains, better judgment or more hard study, cutting and fitting, if you please, than to be able to breed a perfect animal—an animal suited to a special purpose, or to improve your dairy. Breeding to a purpose was taught by Jacob, while he had charge of Laban's herd. He was to have as his pay all the ringed, streaked and speckled cattle. He had an object in view, and he went to work with a fixed purpose. He took the poles, and when the strongest, best cattle conceived, he placed them where they came to drink. That was his plan for weeding the flock, and the result was he had all the best of the flock spotted (Holsteins, I suppose). Some of the causes that have hindered the improvement of dairy cows are simply ridiculous. I will mention only a few. The distance required to go in order to reach a suitable sire is a bugbear in the eyes of some men. They had rather breed to a dung-hill and get a seventy-five cent calf than to spend a day or two and breed to a bull of individual merit, and get a calf worth seventy-five dollars. Their time is too precious to drive a cow off, but at the same time you can hire the same man to work for you at a dollar a day, and he is glad of the chance. (On consistency thou art a jewel). There are a few grand exceptions to this class. Thanks to the pluck of one of my neighbors, and I will mention his name: T. B. Graham, who led a cow sixty miles and back, to breed her in such a way as to improve his dairy, and it will be well for me to state that he was a Durham man. Had he been a Holstein man he might have bred her to my bull, and saved one hundred and twelve or fifteen miles travel.

Another hindrance to successful breeding is the slight difference in the price of service of a good and poor stock animal. Fifty cents is the outside figure for some men, no matter how fine an animal you may have, or what you may have paid, or how much pains you may have taken to get him. Now, do not be so negligent; do not be so foolishly stingy. Use the best bull within your reach, almost regardless of price or trouble. There is always a profit in a first-class calf of any breed.

Next after weeding and breeding comes the no less important matter of feeding. If we see the weight of a heavy hog published we take it for granted he has been fed something. If we read an account of a great number of bushels of grain having been threshed by a machine, we know that the machine has been fed. But if you publish the amount of milk that a cow gives, people look wise, or unwise, and say at once, "Oh, yes, but you feed her." How strange! What is she? Nothing more or less than a machine working up what is placed in her reach and paying over in proportion. I refused to board a cow for one of my neighbors, just on the ground that she was too lazy to eat much. When the other cows would be in the field she would stand in the shade doing nothing. Some of you may scorn the idea, but it is a fact notwithstanding that some cows are too lazy to gather much food, and these must be weeded out in order to improve our dairies. Regularity in feeding is very essential to obtain the best results. A cow soon learns the feeding hour, and in case you fail you incur a loss at the pail. As regards the different kinds of feed, some prefer one kind and others something else. I think that a variety of food is desirable for a dairy cow. She likes a change, and it costs but little more to have different kinds of grasses, with rye, oats, etc., in the field where they feed than to merely have one kind, and they will change from one to the other with relish. In winter, sugar beets are very good. I have figures to show that they will increase the flow of milk quite an amount. Bran and oats are considered good feed, but I do not use much corn. Something from nothing leaves nothing, but something from a well arranged pasture field, or a good pailful of wholesome feed leaves a pail brimming full of pure milk.

The next thing we look after is how to get the milk. We will start with sending the most careful hand on the farm after the cows. No rattled headed boy can in any way improve a dairy, nor is it necessary for a cow to haul a dog half the way from the pasture to the barn by her tail in order to improve the quantity or quality of her milk. She should be driven quietly home with careful hands. I am a firm believer in a time for all thing—a time to sing, a time to talk, and a time to be quiet and attend to business, and the last is milking time. No one but a man who knows the value of a pail of milk and is willing to put forth every effort to obtain it, should be allowed in the milking stable. Have a stated time to milk and milk on time. Punctuality is a greater source of profit for what it costs than most men think, if they have never made it a test. What would you think of a preacher that would be a half an hour late at his appointment, or a banker who would fail to open his bank on time? And in neither case is it more important to be on time than for the dairymen. The faithful cow, true to her cause at all times, becomes uneasy, and a loss is incurred, when the aim is, or should be, to have a gain. It has been a question in my mind for some time, how many times a cow should be milked for profit in twenty-four hours; and I am free to say, and without fear of successful contradiction that it is practicable to milk every eight hours—at 5 a. m., and 1 and 9 p. m. These are not very unreasonable hours for the work, and it will pay a profit, and the man who wishes most to improve his dairy must adopt this as one of the essential means. I had one of my cows milked every six hours (four times a day) for thirty days last summer, with but little gain over the eight hour plan; and it is much harder on the men and proved an overdose of a good thing. What I say I do not say by guess. I weigh my milk and can give the figures in these tests if required. A good dairy farm is a school where many may be taught if they will. Give your cows a little bone dust or ground bone once in a while—they need it. I have known of cases where the bone in cows became chalky, and the leg would break on account of a lack of this substance. You have all seen cows pick up bones in the field, and are lucky if you never had one choked to death in that way. Then give it to them in a form that it will not harm them. Salt should at all times be in reach of your cows.

One more very important matter is that we should always provide ourselves with extra feed to carry our cows over the dry weather in August. Have a piece of sowed corn, or I have had grand success with oats, which are usually cheap at that season, and can be fed at a profit. It keeps up the flow of milk until the later rains come on, while if allowed to drop off it cannot by any amount of any kind of feed be brought back. Therefore, as a great means of improvement, keep up the flow as long as you think it will do, allowing only proper time for rest before dropping the next calf, which should be about sixty days. Having mentioned a few of the many ways, I will give my reasons why we should improve our dairies.

First of all, the age in which we live demands it. I am a young man, and well I remember when the horse that made his mile in 2:40 was very fast; now he would be considered too slow for a country preacher; skill in breeding and management has made the change. We used to be well pleased if in months we could communicate with our friends at a distance; now we step up to a box with a wire attached, and talk as though seated side by side, and so on. We know the cause. It is that disposition to improve, to make the best use of the means God has placed in our hands to promote our happiness. Now are we, as dairymen, representing as we do one of the greatest and grandest industries of our country, less capable of improving than the rest of mankind? I say, most emphatically, No.

One more reason why—and this should stimulate the most indifferent to action—the money is in it. What breed of cattle are capable of making the greatest improvement? A dairyman's disposition must be consulted in this matter. If he is proud, and will not milk a goat, he should get an Alderney. If he is lazy and won't milk at all, let him keep cows that only give enough to raise their calves, like the Durham. But if he is a thrifty, thorough-going man, anxious to secure the best results as a reward for his labor, he should have the Holsteins. I know of no greater means of improvement to a dairy that is not already perfect, than to fill it with this breed of cattle, as they are of good size, are good feeders, and make more butter and cheese than any other breed, and in short, are the best general purpose cows known. Get pure-bred cows, if you can, of course, but if you cannot get them, take the next best thing—a high grade.

Now I will sift this article and get all the good out of it, so in case a man has no time to read it all he may have the substance of it. When? At once—time lost can never be regained. How? By careful weeding, breeding and feeding. Why? Because it will pay. Any questions asked or comments made on the above, will be cheerfully answered by

ASA R. STURTEVANT.

Springboro, Crawford Co., Pa.

Butter Test of a Holstein Cow.

Breeders' Gazette. Your readers will doubtless be interested in learning the result of a recent butter test of our Holstein cow Lady Netherland, which was 19 lbs. 8 oz. of thoroughly worked, unsalted butter in seven consecutive days.

Another large record is thus added to the already long list of Holstein butter cows, and as this cow is dam of our famous bull Netherland Prince (716), and our cows Netherland Queen (414), with a butter record of 20 lbs. in seven days, and Netherland Princess, with a butter record of 17 lbs. 11 oz. of butter in seven days, it more securely places the Netherland family at the head of all Holstein butter families. Netherland Countess (2634) made 15 lbs. 16 oz. of butter in seven days as a three-year-old, and Netherland Belle (1876) made 16 lbs. 7 oz. in a week as a three-year-old, and both these heifers are sisters to Netherland Prince on the sire's side, while his aunt, Netherland Dutchess, (2408), made as a four-year-old 14 lbs. 12 oz., and Netherland Baroness (2235), a niece of Lady Netherland, made 17 lbs. 5 oz. of butter in seven days.

A Suggestion.

Grand Forks Herald: Farmers, the Herald again urges you to organize now before the rush of the spring work. You can not ungratefully accuse the Herald of advising you thus for political purposes, for there is no election near approaching. It has fought for an open market law. We have such an one now after a fashion, but greatly crippled as it was by the monopoly men you sent to the legislature, still there is an open market feature in it. If you combine by associations, you can enforce it. You will have to enter into binding association however, not to ship a bushel of wheat through any elevator, as suggested by the leading farmers. If you sell to the elevators, the railroads will say all their cars are engaged already by the elevators and they can furnish you none. If you enter into a contract to abstain from giving the elevators any grain whatsoever, the railroads will be obliged to furnish you cars or go out of the business. There is a way to reach the monopoly, but it cannot be done by selfishness and idleness. You must not delay. Organize at once. The association plan advised last year is as good a plan as any. If you want an open market, it remains for you to wake up and enforce it. If you want to continue to be robbed and skinned, then continue to sleep upon your rights. The Herald charges you nothing for this advice and asks nothing in return. It hopes to see you act like freemen and cease to be slaves.

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT."

"An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents." This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

GIVEN AWAY FOR ONE YEAR.

We want 200,000 subscribers before May 1st, 1885, to our large illustrated publication, The Sunshine Magazine. In order to get the above number of subscribers we must give away subscriptions the first year, and the second year we will make up the loss as most of them will subscribe again, paying our regular price. Send twelve two-cent stamps to pay postage and you will have the above Magazine to read every week for one whole year. If you accept the above offer, we expect you will be kind enough to distribute among your friends, a few small books containing our advertisements and 167 of the best household receipts, for which we will make you a present of a handsome, silver plated, five-bottle CASTER, or a pair of ROLLER SKATES. State how many books you can give away for us, and we will send the books and Caster (or Skates) prepaid. Order for your friends also, and you will receive both presents. Address

SUNSHINE MAGAZINE CO.,
[45-48] Fillmore, N. Y.

We recommend the Minneapolis Tribune to all our readers.

A. Yvenault,

Dealer in

General

Merchandise,

—MAIN STREET,—

Crookston, Minn

All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

H. STEENERSON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 3, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

NEW

DRUG STORE

IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn

DR. A. NELSON.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

Frank M. Brown,

COMMISSION

STORE,

Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for

QUICK CASH SALES

SOLICITED.

Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TINWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on band and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES
FOR CASH.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, March 26th, 1885

'ROUND HOME.

Pete Misgen has returned to civilization.

New embroideries and white goods at the New York store.

Ira D. Blanchard has struck it again. This time it is a fine flowing well for Terry & Collins at a depth of 160 feet.

Al Kaiser was in from the Thirteen Towns on Monday. He says a railroad would be "heaps better than the present methods of navigation."

Big bargains in crash and table linens at the New York store.

Little Miss Mabel Copeland entertained a number of her little friends upon the occasion of her sixth birthday on Tuesday. The little folks had a grand time.

The busy seed time draweth on apace. The ground still retains its hardness of heart but it will require but a few hours of warm sun to thaw it out in fine shape.

W. M. Clements has just received a large stock of wall paper, which he proposes to sell at reduced prices. Call and see him at the Chas. A. Davis old stand, corner of Main and Second streets. [48-50]

La Framboise & Dupuis have taken the job of cleaning out a well for E. D. Childs on Sec. 3, Fairfax. They will go from there twelve miles east to put down a well for a man whose name we could not learn.

A. G. Gallasch returned from his trip to New Orleans looking as bright and handsome as over. He comes alone—unaccompanied by any gentle female partner and still he insists that he had a good time.

The Grand Forks Herald presents its readers with a "bully" view of the situation—a cut of a returning legislator leading one of Jim Hill's little black bulls. It hits off the idea in good shape.

Ladies' jerseys, just received, at the New York store.

The assumed attitude of the Crookston papers has caused that thing up there at Red Lake Falls to have spasms—its spasms are in reality caused by its worms. Worms are a bad thing when they get into such green foliage. We prescribe vermifuge.

Are you going to the World's Fair at New Orleans? Whether you are or not if you need a trunk or valise it will pay you to go to the New York store and price their stock of these goods.

The appointment of R. Reynolds as Judge is universally commended by the people of the District. Judge Reynolds will wear the ermine with becoming dignity and honor. A public reception was talked of and should be given the new judge as a deserved testimonial.

The New York store shows an endless variety of dress goods in every style and price. Elegant patterns for prices to suit the times.

If you want to see one of the finest stocks of dry goods in the city drop in and inspect the stock they have at the New York store. You can't fail to find what you want, and for prices they can suit you. They have made an effort to show one of the best assortments in the city, and we think they have succeeded.

"Gath's" letters, Wilkie Collins' and Miss Braddon's serial stories, can be found ONLY in the Minneapolis Tribune.

We have received the first number of the Ada Journal. It is neatly printed but such a head as it has on it! Puhler is trying to ape Brick Pomeroy's style and calls it "Puhler's Journal." It's no use, Fred, you are not a Pomeroy. You could not be half as wicked if you tried nor almost as smart a man as he. You'll have to take water.

At the New York store they are showing a large line of carpet samples, from a large eastern firm. Call and see them in Ingrains, Tapestry and Brussels.

We have discovered why the boys are so crazy to study French, and why Bond sits up nights and Sundays breaking his neck and his jaws trying to catch up with Ed. Charboneau. He longs to be a dude. And he wants to be a French dude because he thinks that quite the thing. But what's the use o' wasting powder, Bond? a Yankee-dude'll-doo, and besides its cheaper.

For embroideries in every style and in endless varieties and prices, go to the New York store.

Cleveland was elected sure enough and so is Mr. C. Dyer, our accommodating express agent, and one of Cleveland's loyal supporters. At least he has a candidate for President in training since last Friday. The little fellow was quite destitute upon arrival having nothing especial to boast of save a good appetite and good health, with which to commence life but with these he will do excellently.

Hack & Gallasch are selling at cost to make room for spring stock. For bargains call on them. 38tf

The Fergus Falls Journal and Telegram have swallowed each other—i. e. they say so and henceforth they will appear as the Daily Journal. We are sorry about this, (though it must be confessed it is a wise move) as before that event we used to get the Telegram daily and the Journal weekly and now we don't get neither hence these kick. The Telegram was a good paper and the Journal but the town was not good enough for two dailies hence these swallow. Well, boys, its all right, we give our consent and add our blessing (i. e. we WILL add our blessing if you don't X all same [illegible]! You hear our bugle?)

Mr. D. Beecher is over from Park River on a business trip. He reports business good over there.

S. A. March, of Minneapolis, was up on Tuesday and dropped in to see us before proceeding to his large farms at Warren.

Now novelties in neck wear at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House.

McKinnon Bros., have toned up their ad this week just to mention what they have in the line of farm machinery suitable to the season. They carry a full line and also the best of carriages and buggies of their own make.

Note the change of heart of Hack & Gallasch this week—or we might say "of ad." You will observe that they double its size in order to tell all they have to say and every word is solid truth. Go and see if you don't believe it.

P. A. Dufour, who has been dangerously sick for a few days past, was taken to Minneapolis on Monday night's train and placed under the care of Dr. Kimball. Advices from Minneapolis just received report Mr. Dufour gaining slowly and the doctor expresses the opinion that he will be able to be about again in three or four weeks.

Mr. John Rolsten Sr., met with a severe loss on Tuesday by the burning of his house, in the town of Andover. When first discovered it was so far advanced as to render all efforts to save it fruitless and attention was turned to saving the household goods and prevent the burning of the barn and all his seed wheat. A strong wind was prevailing at the time. A considerable furniture was saved below but nothing of any account above. The fire evidently caught from a spark on the roof and was fanned by the high wind. The house was insured.

Spring grades in all wool underwear at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House.

E. M. Lancaster dropped in last Saturday and invited us to go down on Sletten & Cromb's addition to note the improvements there going on. We first visited Mr. Pitts' stables and there found some fine grade shorthorn cows and Jersey calves. The cows are the finest milkers we have seen in this country, one of them being a remarkable animal. From there we went to the residence of Mr. J. T. Reed, "to see the old hen," as E. M. said. We found "the old hen" sitting patiently on 65 eggs and were told that the brood was expected this week. "The old hen" is nothing more nor less than an incubator which Mr. Reed constructed himself. He has also constructed a pen so arranged as to be mother to the little chicks, should they be a success. As this is the first attempt and as it has been difficult to get eggs that were not chilled, Mr. Reed would not be greatly disappointed if the eggs did not all hatch, though a live, healthy chicken was found upon breaking one a few days since. We shall watch this experiment with interest and keep our readers posted.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club; pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [32-tf]

Just received at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing Store all the latest styles in hats: Youman & Dunlap Blocks, and the famous Crusher hats in all shades.

City Convention.

The City Convention will be held at City Hall, on Tuesday evening, March 31st, at 7:30 for the purpose of putting in nomination candidates for the following city offices, to-wit: Mayor, in place of Hon. E. M. Walsh; City clerk, vice W. D. Hurlburt; Treasurer, vice, A. G. Gallasch; Assessor vice A. P. Bond; two Justices vice G. W. Lewis and J. W. Lilly, Constable vice Ole H. Bjoin and one Alderman at large vice R. Houston. Each ward will be entitled to two delegates.

THE FIRST WARD CAUCUS,

to nominate a candidate for alderman, and to elect two delegates to the city convention will be held on Saturday evening March 28th at 7:30, at city hall.

THE SECOND WARD CAUCUS, to nominate a candidate for alderman and elect two delegates to the city convention will be held on Saturday evening, March 28th at 7:30, at the office of Frank Ives on Main St.

THE THIRD WARD CAUCUS,

to nominate a candidate for alderman and to elect two delegates to the city convention will be held on Saturday evening, March 28th at 7:30, at the office of John McLean, on Broadway.

THE FOURTH WARD CAUCUS,

to nominate a candidate for alderman and to elect two delegates to the city convention will be held on Saturday evening, March 28th at 7:30 in Jacobus' building cor. Broadway and Robert St.

Caught on the Streets.

JOHN WATTS:—I tell you the candidates are getting thicker nor bees; you couldn't shoot into a crowd of six or eight men on the street without hitting a dozen or more "prominent" candidates for something or other, each one more prominent and capable than any one else.

JOHN DOWLING:—I tell yez I am not overly anxious for re-appointment to the office of marshal. The office is no sinecure, paying only about $54 per month after you discount your orders and a man with a large family cannot live if he is honest. I overheard a "prominent" individual relating what he would do when he gets elected. All old citizens will fill the fat offices and the poor tender feet will have to git! Said he "I have been in this city for years and I know how it is yourself!"

G. H. PALMER:—I am in the hands of my friends. If they think I would make a good justice and honor me with the nomination I would do my best to get there and to discharge my duties when I did.

Said a prominent citizen: John Cromb would make the best mayor we could have and if nominated could not be beaten. He is an eminently fair man, neither too radical nor too conservative on all prominent questions and he would take like wild-fire. I hope he will be nominated.

S. P. NORTON:—You may say that whichever way this election goes I shall still continue to endeavor to keep the reputation of the Commercial house up to the standard. It is the travelers' home, everything in apple-pie order.

All wool suits $10; Percall shirts 62 1-2c at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House.

If you want cottons, bleached, half-bleached, pilow-case goods, or any thing in that line, call and examine the fine stock at the New York store.

D. Buchanan blooms out in a big new ad this week just to quote a few prices to suit the times. Drop in and see "Dave" when you have a moment's leisure.

Jas. Eiken has returned from his trip below. We have not ascertained whether his trip gave him any benefit or not.

Editor Stephens, of St. Hilaire, was in on Wednesday, seeing how things are run in a civilized metropolitan city so that he may the better be enabled to instruct the dwellers of his saintly city in the best approved methods of conducting municipal affairs.

In compliance with a law enacted by our late State Legislature it becomes my duty to deliver the delinquent personal property tax list to the sheriff for collection on the 1st of April each year. The attention of those owing personal taxes is called to this fact.

O. H. LUCKEN, County Treasurer.

It pays to trade with the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House. Everything marked in plain figures, everything guaranteed as represented. Square dealing their motto.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the regular annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year will be held on Wednesday evening, April 1st, 1885, at 8 o'clock, in the Chamber Rooms, over the Merchants' National Bank.

JOHN MCLEAN, Secretary. JOHN CROMB, President.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Fresh, clean and new stock of boots and shoes at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House. We have no old goods which we are obliged to mark down in order to dispose of the same, but guarantee prices on every pair.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending March 23th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Aslesen, Alberto	Gundy, Jim
Bjerkan, Maria J.	Hagell, H. O
Borall, Emma J.	Smith, John
Evenson, John	Tande, Julia
Farayren, Karina J.	Wolf, Frank

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

MARRIED

SCOTT—BURGOYNE.—In this city, March 2[illegible]th 1885, by G. W. Lewis, Esq., Mr. Wm. R. Scott to Miss Emma P. Burgoyne, all of Polk Co.

JOHN KNUPPE,
R. R. LAND OFFICE.

Money to Loan on Farm Lands.

—WILL—
Buy Town Bonds,
AND SCHOOL BONDS.

New York Store!

BEFORE BUYING YOUR

SPRING DRY GOODS

Call and See Our Stock and Prices.

☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS at prices within the reach of all.

WHITE GOODS.

Embroideries, Nainsook's Sussis, all over-embroideries and Laces.

Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.

Geo. G. Macdonell,

Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

To Country Merchants:

If you are compelled to keep School Books for sale, we can furnish them to you at the WHOLESALE PRICE without any additional cost for FREIGHT. If you want Pens, Pencils, Slates, Copy Books, &c., you will do well to buy them of us at BOTTOM PRIGES, for we have got the goods.

☞ Wholesale orders for Drugs, Medicines, &c., promptly shipped,

Respectfully,
POTTER & GEORGE,
Medical Hall,
Wholesale and Retail Druggists, Crookston.

IF YOU

WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE

Watch or Jewelry Line

GO TO

C. H. SAAKE, - MAIN STREET.

You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name but in truth.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.

C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston

MERCHANTS' Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY........President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN............Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
WM. ROSS.........................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 2d, 1885, viz: ALEXANDER ROBERG, H'd No. 8[illegible], for the s½ se¼ and s½ sw¼ S. 10, T. 151, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Louis Huot, David Coe, Camille Brouillette and Peter Columbus, all of Huot, Polk Co., Minn.

[47-52] JOHN CROMB, Register.

BURPEE'S WELCOME OATS.

Of this oat the proprietor says: "The Welcome Oats grow from four to six feet high, with long straight straw, not liable to be prostrated by wind or rain, and ripens from a week to two weeks ahead of other oats. The heads are very large and handsome, branching freely on all sides and from 16 to 23 inches in length. They weigh from 47 to 51½ lbs. per bushel, and often grow from 40 to 76 stalks from one oat."

From 10 oz. of seed sowed in 1883, I harvested 90 lbs. In 1884 I sowed this on 3 acres. It measured one and one-half bushels. It yielded 200 bushels. Parties desiring to procure seed can do so for $1 per bushel at Stone & Pinkerton's Warehouse, Crookston, where samples may be seen.

[42-59] C. P. CAHOON.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET,—
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 10th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 20th, 1885, viz: MARTIN M. DAVIS, H'd No. 1921, for the nw¼ S. 28, T. 153, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Cottet, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Johanson, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.

[44-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DEEP WELLS!

Having one of the Best

AMERICAN PATENT

Hydraulic Drilling Machines

—I AM NOW PREPARED TO—

Sink Wells to any Depth

Desired to obtain

Flowing Water

Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address

IRA D. BLANCHARD,
Crookston, Minn.

THE

J. I. CASE

THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!

Drink LePage's

35c Tea and 35c pure Java Coffee

AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.

HOW TO BE WEALTHY!

COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY

And Save Money on everything you buy.

AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us.

STANTON & CO.
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

THE FAMOUS TOWER OF LONDON.

The Historic Pile which was Shocked on Saturday—Reminiscences of Past Ages.

Within the Tower of London, that famous pile around whose history clusters so much that is of historic interest, occurred another of yesterday's terrific explosions which startled the great metropolis. The Tower is the most celebrated fortress in Great Britain, and stands just without the ancient city walls on the Middlesex bank of the Thames and between the Custom-House and St. Katherine's Docks, about two and a quarter miles from the palace at which the other explosion occurred. The scene of the explosion in this structure was in that portion known as the "White Tower" and shown in the World's diagram today. The Tower of London is supposed to have been commenced by Julius Cæsar, although some writers are of the opinion that the venerable pile was first begun by William the Conqueror in 1078. No less an authority, however, than Shakespeare declares it to have been commenced by the Roman Emperor.

The Tower of London narrowly escaped destruction by fire in 1879. Owing to the exertions of the Fire Brigade, the flames, which severely damaged the officers' quarters, were subdued before further mischief was done. The Tower had enjoyed a long immunity from danger of that description. On October 30, 1841, the great armory or storehouse to the east of St. Peter's Chapel was burned to the ground by a fire caused by the overheating of the flue of a stove in the Round or Bowyer Tower immediately adjoining. On this occasion 150,000 stand of small arms were destroyed and the Great or White Tower, as well as the Jewel Tower, narrowly escaped. The Regalia were saved mainly by the agility and courage of a superintendent of the Metropolitan Police, Mr. Pierse, who squeezing himself through a small aperture hastily made by crowbars in the iron grating of the room in which the jewels were kept, handed out the various articles of the Regalia, remaining at his post at the risk of his life until they were all rescued.

The site of the structure covers about twelve acres of ground and is surrounded by a moat, which for the past forty years has been occupied as a garden. On the river side is an entrance called the "Traitors' Gate," through which distinguished personages were conveyed in boats after their trial:

Mot Gate, misnamed, through which before
Went Sydney, Russell, Ral-igh, Cranmer, More.

Within the famous structure are numerous buildings, including the Barracks, Armory, Jewel-house, White Tower, St. Peter's Tower, Bloody Tower, where Richard III. murdered his nephews; the Bowyer Tower, where the Duke of Clarence was drowned in a butt of Malmsey; the Brick Tower, in which Lady Jane Grey was confined; the Beauchamp Tower, the prison of Anne Boleyn, and numerous other buildings. In addition to the Tower's original use as a fortress, it was the residence of the monarchs of England down to the time of Elizabeth, and a prison for state criminals, and numerous are the kings, queens, warriors and statesmen who have not only been imprisoned but murdered within its walls. The histories of Lady Jane Grey, Catherine Howard, Annie Boleyn, Sir Walter Raleigh, Lord William Russell, the Protector Somerset, Sir Thomas More, William Wallace and King John of France live in the rememberance of every historical reader. Queen Elizabeth's Armory, filled with arms and relics, is located within the walls of the White Tower, which are fourteen feet thick. The room in which Sir Walter Raleigh was immured is here shown; he was confined three different times in the Tower, and here his son Carew was born. Lion Tower, on the right, was for 600 years the royal menagerie; the few animals remaining were removed to the Zoological Gardens in the reign of William IV.

The jewel-house known as the Wakefield Tower, which has apparently escaped injury, contains all the crown-jewels of England; they are enclosed in an immense case. Prominent among them is the crown made for the coronation of Queen Victoria, at an expense of about $600,000. Among the profusion of diamonds is the large ruby worn by the Black Prince; the crown made for the coronation of Charles II.; the crown of the Prince of Wales and that of the late Prince Consort; crown made for the coronation of the Queen of James II., also her ivory sceptre. The coronation spoon, and bracelets, royal spurs, swords of Mercy and Justice, are among the other jewels. Here, too, is the silver-gilt baptismal font, in which is deposited the christening water for the royal children, and the celebrated Koh-i-noor diamond, the present property of Queen Victoria, and the object of great interest at the great exhibition in Hyde Park in 1851. It formerly belonged to Runjeet Singh, chief Lahore, and was called the "Mountain of Light."

The oldest portion of the Tower is the isolated square, keep or donjon in the centre, called the White Tower, built by William the Conqueror in 1078, the architect being Bishop Gundolph, of Rochester. This, as stated, was the scene of the explosion and wreck. The structure was refaced and the windows modernized by Wren, but its interior remains pretty much as originally constructed. A winding stairway at the corner, at the foot of which the murdered princes were found, leads to the Chapel of St. John, long used, as well as other chambers, as a place of deposit for records, but now removed. It is one of the best preserved of and oldest specimens of of early Norman style in Britain, plain and massive piers supporting round arches and a barrel vault. The east end is an apse, and round it and the aisles runs a triforium gallery, in which the royal family may have heard mass. The banqueting hall and Council chamber adjoining have flat timber roofs supported on stout joists. They are filled with 50,000 stand of rifles, kept in the most perfect order, and beautifully arranged. Great events have transpired here. Crookback Richard burst in here before he became king, and turning upon Lord Hartings denounced him as traitor and gave him over to an armed band to be beheaded on Tower Green. In this White Tower was imprisoned Maud, the third daughter of Earl Fitzwalter, that baron who, to avenge the king's treatment of his child, compelled him to sign Magna Charta at Runnymeade. Here, in a dungeon compared with which the Black Hole at Calcutta would be a palatial residence, was imprisoned Guy, or Guido Fawkes; and here was the prison home of the seven bishops at whose knees even the soldiers of the guard fell, imploring their benediction, while the shore was crowded with prostrate spectators asking a blessing. The persecuted prelates were lodged in the Earl of Leicester's Tower, where Heriot first observed the satellites of Jupiter.—New York World.

The Egyptian War.

A good many people in this country don't know what the war in Egypt is about, and why an English army has been sent against Arab "rebels." The Egyptian Arabs have probably often themselves asked the question: "What has England to do with us that she should declare us rebels?"

The story of the war can be told in few words. Some years ago the Khedive, for the purpose, as he declared, of civilizing the natives and establishing a trade with Equatorial Africa, annexed that portion of Africa between Gondokora and the lake sources south of the Nile river, and appointed Sir Samuel Baker Governor. In the meantime traders who had gone to that region in search of ivory and other articles of commerce found slave dealing much more profitable. They gave it their sole attention and in the course of a few years had become so powerful that they were able with their large force of armed kidnapers to defy the government. Baker endeavored to deal with them, but could do nothing, and, in 1873 Chinese Gordon was requested by the Khedive to undertake the work. To this Gordon consented, and after a few years had so effectively cowed the slave trader that, had the Khedive been as eager to suppress the trade as he was to still the indignant voice of civilization, the negroes would have been permitted to abide at their homes in peace.

Gordon remained in Southern Egypt, with a brief interval, until 1881, a large part of the time engaged in an effort to suppress a rebellion against the Egyptian Government, led by Suleiman Zebehr, son of the leading slave dealer of the country.

Soon after Gordon's return to England it was announced that an insurrection had taken place in the Soudan, and had assumed formidable proportions. At the head of this insurrection was one Mohammed Ahmed, also known as El Mahdi and the False Prophet. El Mahdi was a religious teacher of the province of Dongola, who, by striking eccentricities of manner in life, impressed the natives as being more than ordinary being. As his importance and influence increased he married into the surrounding tribes, and when about 1880 he declared himself to be the redeemer for whom Islam had long been looking, and whose coming Mohammed had foretold, thousands belived him and flocked to his standard. He claimed to have been commissioned of Allah to reform Islam, to establish universal religion, and a community of goods These appeals stirred the hearts of the fanatica natives and the Mahdi soon found himself at the head of an army of thousands, backed by whose power, and also that of the slave dealers whom Gordon had been fighting, he felt safe in levying taxes and performing other acts which strictly belong to organized government.

It soon became necessary for the Egyptian government to take steps to suppress the Mahdi rebellion; every armed force sent against him was defeated. Finally, what was supposed to be an invincible army, under command of Hicks Pasha, a distinguished English General, was sent into the rebellion region in the spring and summer of 1883, but in the following November that, too, was completely destroyed at El Obeid.

The disaster at El Obeid put the entire Soudan at the mercy of El Mahdi. In order to provide for the safety of the European inhabitants of the threatened city of Khartoum, which was the commercial city of the country, "Chinese" Gordon, by order of the English Government, started for that city in February of last year. He had scarcely reached the city when it was surrounded by the forces of the False Prophet. Finding that escape both for himself and the inhabitants of the city was impossible he appealed to the English Government. With characteristic procrastination Gladstone delayed sending a force until the people became so aroused that further delay would be dangerous, when Lord Wolseley was sent with a small army to rescue Gordon, the conquest of the Mahdi and his army being a secondary object. How soon the purpose of the expedition will be accomplished it is impossible to say, though under the most favorable conditions it must be several weeks.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Grant's Father-in-Law.

Mr. F. T. Dent, the father of the wife of Gen. Grant, died at the white house on the 15th of December, 1873, surrounded by his children. He was a genial gentleman, 88 years of age, and the frequenters of the white house after he became the guest of his son-in-law had generally found him seated in the reception-room, the center of a pleasant group of conversationalists, all attracted to him by his good nature and large fund of information. He was full of anecdotes of western life, and seemed always ready to instruct or amuse his auditors. He was much beloved in St. Louis, near which city was his country place. He lived in the old-fashioned style of keeping open house for friends and neighbors. His hospitality was noted. He was never engaged in political life except in his own neighborhood, where he was always called upon to preside at political meetings. He was always a stanch democrat, and boasted that he had voted for every democratic president since he attained his majority except Buchanan, of whom, for some reason, he did not approve. He almost invariably came to Washington to attend presidential inaugurations. An uncle of Mr. Dent was a member of congress from Maryland, and gave the casting vote when the election of Jefferson was carried into the house. Mr. Dent's remains were carried to St. Louis for interment, escorted by Gen. Grant and his family.—Ben: Perley Poor.

Victor Napoleon's Diplomacy.

Prince Victor Napoleon, has not only attracted all the young Bonapartists to his side, but many of the leading functionaries of the Second Empire throng his bachelor salons every Thursday for chat and a cup of tea—the only refreshment served. He is rather a silent young man, and is going into training for full Napoleon V. Of course he has no connection with the house over the way—his papa's. But he is a long way off from the throne, about as distant as the Compte de Paris. The republic is very portly and healthy, has no signs of premature death, and the only danger it has to encounter is Bismarck's love.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SHY OF POISONING.

How People Instinctively Shrink from Drugs Containing Morphia and Opium—A Reporter's Researches.

From the Washington Daily Post.

For many years physicians have been much exercised over the use of drugs and medicines containing opiates or poisons. Opium smoking by the Chinese and the introduction of the habit into America is an evil which has been sought to be remedied, and the police of Philadelphia have recently made successful raids on opium "joints" and arrested the proprietors. A more insidious form of poison than this, however, and one which largely affects not only the health but the lives of children, is that which comes in the form of popular medicines. Nine out of ten of these, it is known, contain narcotics or deadly metallic oxides. The difficulty, however, has been to find a substitute for such things which would be purely vegetable, and at the same time effect a prompt cure. That such a discovery had been made was announced recently, and Dr. O. Grothe, chemist to the Brooklyn Board of Health, and a graduate of the University of Kiel, Germany, publicly certified that he had analyzed the remedy and found it free from narcotics, opiates or injurious metallic oxides, and a harmless and happy combination, which will prove highly effective. Hearing that Dr. Samuel K. Cox, a graduate of Yale, and expert analytical chemist of this city had also analyzed the remedy in question and given public testimony as to its purity and efficacy, a reporter of The Post was told by him that he had given such a certificate, and that he believed the remedy marked a new stage in the treatment of throat and lung diseases. He knew also that many public men in Washington had given the remedy a trial, and felt confident if they were called upon that they would cheerfully indorse it. One of them was Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn, Senator-elect from Kentucky. Mr. Blackburn, on being approached, said he had used the remedy with marked effect and found great benefit, especially during his occupancy of the Speaker's chair. It had removed all irritation from his throat and relieved a cough which had troubled him much.

Senator Gorman, of Maryland, said that he firmly believed in the remedy, which he had personally tested. Congressman J. H. Bagley, Jr., of New York; Wm. Mutchler, of Pennsylvania; J. H. Brewer, of New Jersey; Hart B. Holton, of Maryland, and J. P. Leedom, Esq., of Ohio, Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives, were emphatic in their endorsement of the remedy. Messrs. Ed. A. Clark, Architect of Public Buildings; E. A. Carman, Acting Commissioner of the Agricultural Department; Thomas S. Miller, chief clerk in the Surgeon-General's Department; H. E. Weaver, ex-Congressman from Mississippi, and now chief of the collecting division in the General Postoffice; J. H. Gravenstine, head of the labor division in the same department, and F. B. Conger, City Postmaster, and son of Senator Conger of Michigan, all pronounced it a valuable discovery, and had found its effects not only soothing, but lasting. The remedy in question is Red Star Cough Cure. It is free from opiates or poisons and is purely vegetable.

A physician who stands in close relation to the Board of Health of the District of Columbia said that there are two things which seriously affect the health of the people,—impure water and impure drugs, and therefore the benefits of a discovery like Red Star Cough Cure cannot be over-estimated. Thousands of children die annually from the use of cough and soothing syrups containing opiates or poisons, and even adults are exposed to the danger of blood-poisoning from such a cause. In view of these facts members of Boards of Health in various cities; public men of Maryland, from the Governor down, and leading practicing physicians throughout that State have over their own signatures testified that Red Star Cough Cure cannot fail to be a boon to the suffering and afflicted. The reporter's investigations were thorough and unprejudiced, and the testimony obtained, judging from its character, connot be gainsayed.

Significant Utterances of a London Newspaper.

The London Echo, an evening newspaper, burned incense to American institutions, and utters sentiments that would send one to jail in Prussia and in Russia to the gallows. It says: "President Cleveland is a strong and a straight man, and as politically pure as Lincoln was. Is it not magnificent how the democratic principle works to new conditions. One warrior has not succeeded another by force of arms. The chief of a party has become chief of state, but the state is still his chief. President Arthur ceases to be the ruler of 50,000,000 of men and goes back to his own town and his own office to work as a lawyer for his living. When Napoleon the Little had to vanish from France he had £750,000 carefully purloined and invested. Mr. Arthur carries nothing with him into retirement but the respect of the people, and by and by Mr. Cleveland will do the same. In the democracy individual ambitions die, and despots and truculent warriors have no place. The only ambition allowed to a man is to serve the state well and, having done that, to become a private citizen again.

"There was one sentence in President Cleveland's address that warmed my heart to him. It has been commented on in two or three newspapers in England, but will bear repetition. He said: 'Those who are selected for a limited time to manage public affairs are still of the people, and may do much by their example to encourage that plain way of living which, among their fellow citizens, adds integrity and promotes thrift and prosperity.'

"Hear this, ye kings with your tawdry crowns, ye dukes and earls with your tinsel coronets, ye lords of the bed-chamber and gold sticks in waiting with your salaries drawn from the hard-earned wages and slender resources of the thrifty poor—salaries paid to you for no services productive of good to the public, but only for playing the flunky and the fool! Is it not time, oh patient English democracy! for us to open our eyes and take counsel of our wiser children? The money wasted over the pomp and pageantry of courts is spent in bolstering up the pretension of rank and birth. Would it not be better spent in feeding the poor and teaching the ignorant?"

The trunk railroad have fixed the fare from Chicago to Boston at $20.50; to New York $18.50; Philadelphia $18; Washington $18.50.

Moberly-Coleman.

On Tuesday was consummated a marriage, the details of which are interesting, on account of the unusual circumstances that cemented a bond already existing. Several years ago, Mr. John M. Moberly, a mature business man, and a person of sedate and methodical life, was smitten by the quiet charms and modest graces of Miss Mamie E. Coleman, then a mere girl with long curls of beautiful brown hair. The friendship formed ripened into the deepest devotion, and Mr. Moberly soon occupied the position of the favored suitor of Miss Coleman. Time rolled on, and the ardent regard of the young people might never have proved other than Platonic, had not good fortune visited them by means of the Louisiana State Lottery. In a playful mood, they agreed to invest three dollars in three-fifths of a ticket, Miss Coleman paying one dollar, with the expectation of receiving one-third of the returns. Two weeks later Mr. Moberly, in whose name the ticket was made was startled at his desk at the Mercer National Bank by the intelligence that his ticket had drawn $15,000. He immediately went to New Orleans, secured the money, and, with a high sense of honor, sent Miss Coleman her portion, $5,000. After two months longer of waiting, the devoted young people determined to invest in a lottery ticket again; this time in the lottery of matrimony, in which we are fully persuaded they will both draw prizes.

The marriage was celebrated Tuesday last at 12:30, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. R. E. Coleman, where a most sumptuous feast was served to the few friends invited to attend. The young couple left on the 1:25 train for Washington, where they will make their future home. Mr. Moberly will engage in the real estate and claim business with his brother, Judge Wm. Moberly. The groom is an able business man, while the bride is an amiable and attractive lady, and they cannot fail to find success and many friends in their new home.—Harrodsburg, Ky., Democrat, Feb. 27.

Louis Reil on Deck Again.

Louis Reil, says a telegram from Prince Albert, N. W. T., has thrown off the mask and now openly defies the queen's authority. He says that he has the half-breeds and Indians entirely under his control. He says that the Northwest police force is a mere nothing, and that their authority shall not be respected. Depriving the white settlers of their stand of arms last year has exasperated them, but they remain loyal, and, if given arms and ammunition, they will defend themselves against Reil and uphold the queen's authority. A mass meeting is to be held and several hundred men will enlist if the government will furnish them with arms and ammunition. Col. Houghton, adjutant general, has telegraphed to Ottawa for instructions. The arms of the disbanded volunteers at Prince Albert are still at Battleford and Carleton, and can be issued to volunteers by the mounted police, who have charge of them, should the emergency arise. Reil, the hero of the Red River rebellion of 1870, and an exile since in Montana, returned to the Northwest over a year ago, where he has been agitating the half-breeds and Indians to create trouble.

Miss Susan Warner, a novelist, died at Newburgh, N. Y. Miss Warner was born in New York in 1817, being the daughter of Henry W. Warner, lawyer and author. For many years she has lived on Constitution island in the Hudson river, opposite West Point. Her first essay in literature was a novel, "The Wide, Wide World," published in 1850 under the pseudonym of "Elizabeth Wetherell," and which gained wide popularity. It was succeeded by "Queechy," in 1852, which also had a wide circulation and many other works.

Not a Trace.

Dr. D. F. Penington, D. D. S., 536 West Fayette street, Baltimore, Maryland, states that he has personally used the Red Star Cough Cure and in his family, and has found it a prompt and sure remedy for coughs and colds. No bad results of other cough remedies. Not a trace of opium or morphia.

A Bigamous Actress.

Baltimore Special: Miss Carrie Ward, an actress, was committed to jail recently, charged with bigamy. On the 22d of October, 1882, Miss Ward was married in Cleveland to Alfred B. Christie, also an actor. Last October Mrs. Christie, nee Ward, came to this city to fill an engagement. Soon after, she was married to J. B. Loomis, a gentleman of means. After the marriage the bride retired from professional life, living with her husband in this city. A short time ago Loomis received a letter from a friend, who stated that Miss Ward has been married to Christie, who was still living. The accused says in her defense that after marrying Christie she found that he had a wife living, and that his cruel treatment and threats to kill her led her to leave him. She further states that Loomis knew of this and persuaded her to marry him. The accused is twenty years old, has a perfect form and is exceedingly pretty.

A Sad Case of Poisoning is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, sick-headaches, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause and putting the liver in a healthful condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually nothing has proved itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

The Cincinnati Price Current estimates that 453,000,000 pounds of pork have been packed this season.

What can be more disagreeable, more disgusting, than to sit in a room with a person who is troubled with catarrh, and has to keep coughing and clearing his or her throat of the mucus which drops into it? Such persons are always to be pitied if they try to cure themseves and fail. But if they get Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy there need be no failure.

In the Texas senate recently a bill making telegraph and telephone companies common carriers was defeated.

* Rupture radically cured, also pile tumors and fistulas. Pamphlet of particulars two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Two men at Winnipeg, named Sullivan and Bathon, who informed on liquor sellers, were set upon by friends of the latter. Bathon escaped, but Sullivan was badly hurt.

Ladies in America

long before they reach middle age frequently find themselves suffering from some of the complaints and weaknesses peculiar to their sex. For all such Kidney-Wort is a great boon. It induces a healthy action of the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system, and strengthens and gives new life to all the important organs of the body. It is natures great assistant in establishing and sustaining health. Sold by all druggists.

J. J. S. Hassler of West Virginia has been appointed chief clerk of the interior department.

Dairymen Prefer It.

MESSRS. WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co.:

Since the introduction of your Improved Butter Color among my customers, it has given universal satisfaction. The leading dairymen of this section who have used it give it the preference over all other colors, of whatever name or nature.

They are especially pleased with the fact that it does not become rancid, like other oil colors and their product brings highest prices in market.

W. S. NAY, Druggist.
UNDERHILL, VT., April 5, 1882.

RED STAR TRADE MARK COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs. Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY, Sole Owners and Manufacturers, Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

The senate in executive session ratified the treaty with the khedive of Egypt and the convention relating to the boundary lines between this country and Mexico. The treaty with the khedive extends to the United States the commercial privileges which Great Britain enjoys by virtue of the treaty between Egypt and Greece, made about a year ago. The treaty with Mexico recognizes the principles of international law in the settlement of disputes which may occur over the changing bed of the Rio Grande river.

The World's Washington special: Secretary Bayard has offered the position of assistant secretary of state to ex-Gov. Porter of Tenessee, president of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, and Mr. Porter has accepted the offer.

HUMILIATING ERUPTIONS ITCHING AND BURNING TORTURES

AND EVERY SPECIES OF ITCHING, Scaly, Pimply, Inherited, Scrofulous, and Contagious Diseases of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp, with Loss of Hair, from infancy to old age, are positively cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood and perspiration of impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, instantly allays Itching and Inflammation, clears the Skin and Scalp, heals Ulcers and Sores, and restores the Hair.

CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier and Toilet Requisite, prepared from CUTICURA, is indispensable in treating Skin Diseases, Baby Humors, Skin Blemishes, Chapped and Oily Skin.

Sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Allen's Lung Balsam

A GOOD FAMILY REMEDY!
THAT WILL CURE
COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP!

MOTHERS,

Have you delicate, weakly children, who are always taking cold and subject to Croup? Remember, there never was a case of Croup which did not originate in a cold! Lung Balsam is your remedy.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

WHOOPING COUGH CURED.

O. A. HARRIS, of Benevolence, Ga., writes, Dec. 13, 1884: "My little boy, but little more than a year old, had a severe attack of WHOOPING COUGH, which my family physician said could not be cured, as it was winter. Having heard of the merits of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, I immediately proceeded to town and purchased a bottle. To my surprise, this one bottle cured him sound and well. Others, hearing of the result, tried it, with equally good results. Later, my two little girls had Whooping Cough, and one bottle cured both of them. We think Whooping Cough is not much to be dreaded, if ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM can be had and given."

By its faithful use CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED, when other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed; but try this remedy and you will not be deceived.

It will cure when all others fail.
Directions accompany each bottle.

As an Expectorant it has no Equal. It Contains no Opium in Any Form.

CALL FOR ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.
It is Sold by MEDICINE DEALERS generally.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The fittest subjects for fever and ague, and remittents, are the debilitated, bilious and nervous. To such persons, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters afford adequate protection by increasing vital stamina and the resistant power of the constitution, and by checking irregularities of the liver, stomach and bowels. Moreover, it eradicates malarial complaints of an obstinate type, and stands alone unequaled among our national remedies.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

This remedy contains no injurious drugs.

Ely's Cream Balm CATARRH

when applied into the nostrils, will be absorbed, effectually cleansing the head of catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions. It allays inflammation, protects the membrane from fresh colds, completely heals the sores and restores the sense of taste, smell and hearing. It is

Not a Liquid or Snuff.

A few Applications relieve. A thorough treatment will cure. Agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Send for circular.

ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

HAY-FEVER

ELY'S
CREAM BALM
CURES
CATARRH
ROSE COLD
COLD IN HEAD
HAY-FEVER
DEAFNESS HEADACHE
PRICE 50 CENTS
ELY BRO'S.
OWEGO, N.Y.
U.S.A.

CARDS Sample Book, Premium List, Price List sent free. U. S. CARD CO., Centerbrook, Conn.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR

All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best

FEMALE POPULATION.

Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.

Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.

It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.

It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, [illegible] is always permanently cured by its use. Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. [illegible]

George W. Burnham, the venerable Fifth avenue millionaire, who was to have been married on the 21st to Kate Sanborn, the authoress and lecturer, died on the 18th. He was eighty-three years old, and the expectant bride thirty-eight. It is said Mr. Burnham has left Miss Sanborn a legacy of $100,000.

A Bold Counterfeit.

A Bold Counterfeit or Imitation of DR. C. D. WARNER'S WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP, and GERMAN HOP BITTERS is being sold in the Northwest. Beware of the dangerous imitations. The worthless stuff is sold to Druggists at $2.50 per dozen, or about 20 cts. per bottle, and they charge you 50 cts. The Genuine WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP and GERMAN HOP BITTERS bears the name of DR. C. D. WARNER on label and wrapper and blown in bottle. Take no other.

Twelve inches of snow fell in South Carolina, on the 18th.

FIVE YEARS ago my life was a dread all the time from Heart Disease, since using DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR the English language would fail me in telling the good I received.—Kate Musgrove, Coloma, Ind. For sale by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

A distinct shock of earthquake was felt in the vicinity of Contocook, N. H.

General Chace of Rhode Island, says: "I always keep Hunt's Remedy in my house, it prevents headache and Kidney troubles.

We depart from our usual practice and recommend Hunt's Remedy as a sure cure for all kidney diseases.—Medical Gazette.

P. J. Cleverius of Richmond, Va., has been arrested for murdering Fanny Lilian Madison.

It is not understood why druggists keep in stock so many kinds of medicines for coughs, colds and consumption, when it is only necessary to keep Allen's Lung Balsam, that old, reliable remedy, which is a pure vegetable preparation, and perfectly harmless, as it contains no opium in any form. Sold everywhere.

The James bank block, Atlanta, Ga., was burned, at a loss of $60,000.

PERFECTION. The Scarlet, Cardinal Red, Old Gold, Navy Blue, Seal Brown, Diamond Dies give perfect results. Any fashionable color, 10c., at druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

The senate confirmed Joseph S. Miller as commissioner of internal revenue.

"Brown's Bronchial Troches" are excellent for the Relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are exceedingly effective."—Christian World, London, Eng.

Plain as the Nose on Your Face.

What is the difference between persons nose and Carboline the Great Petroleum Hair Renewer. Ans:—one is the center of the head and the other is a head-scenter.

Allen's Iron Tonic Bitters invigorate the Liver. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, also as a preventive against Fever and Ague, and other Intermittent Fevers, the "FERRO-PHOSPHORATED ELIXIR OF CALISAYA" made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic, and for patients recovering from Fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

A great eruption has caused the overthrow of the political bosses; Cole's Carbolisalve will cure all kinds of eruptions, itching and irritating diseases of the skin and scalp. Prices 25 and 50 cents. At druggists.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

EGGS TO HATCH. Pure bred poultry; all varieties; write; prices free. V. D. STONEROAD, Lewistown, Pa.

$1,000 AT MARRIAGE Circulars free. Address Northwestern Mutual Endowment Society. Box 492, Minneapolis Minn.

NATIONAL HOTEL, $3 a day house, for New house, new furniture. Only $2 a day house in Northwest with Elevator. J. B. Ames Prop. 203 Wash. Av., S., Minneapolis, Minn. $2

40 Hidden Name, Embossed and New Chromo Cards, name in new type, an Elegant 48 page Gilt bound Floral Autograph Album with quotations, 12 page Illustrated Premium and Price List and Agent's Canvassing Outfit, all for 15 cts. SNOW & CO., Yalesville, Conn.

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS SOLD BY ALL DEALERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD GOLD MEDAL PARIS EXPOSITION—1878.

BIG BOSTON Minneapolis, corner of Washington and 2nd Av. S. is now filled with the finest of Spring Goods, including all of the very latest Novelties in Men's, Youths' and Children's suits and overcoats, Fine Furnishing Goods and all of the latest blocks of Soft, Stiff and Silk hats. Goods sent C. O. D. to all parts of the country subject to examination and if not satisfactory, returned at our expense. Mail orders solicited.

DRS. WHITTIER. 214 East 7th Street, St. Paul, Minn. Regularly Graduated and legally qualified; longer engaged in Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases, than any physicians in America. Medicines sent by mail or express. Diseases from Indiscretion, Excess or Exposure, Nervousness, Debility, Melancholy, Loss of Spirits, rendering marriage improper, cured. Safely, privately, speedily. No change of business. Pamphlet and symptom lists free, a friendly talk costs nothing. HIS CELEBRATED WORK, 260 pages. Elegant cloth and gilt binding. Sealed, for 50 cents in money or postage. Over fifty wonderful pen pictures on life, health, marriage, disease, decline, treatise. Same, paper cover, 25 cts. by mail, sealed. State case, and get time and cost of cure.

S.S.S. TRADE MARK

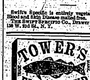
From experience I think Swift's Specific is a very valuable remedy for cutaneous diseases, and at the same time an invigorating tonic.
JAMES JACKSON, Chief Justice of Ga.
Atlanta, Sept., 1881.

INOCULATED POISON.—After trying all the other remedies, Swift's Specific has cured me sound and well of a terrible blood poison contracted from a nurse.
MRS. T. W. LEE, Greenville, Ala.

POISON OAK.—A lady here has been entirely cured of poison oak poison by the use of two bottles of S. S. S.
R. S. BRADFORD, Tiptonville, Tenn.

ULCERS 25 YEARS.—A member of my church has been cured of an ulcerated leg of 25 years standing with two bottles of Swift's Specific.
P. H. CRUMPLER, Pastor Meth. Ch., Macon, Ga.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Disease mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 159 W. 23d St., N. Y.



SLICKER COATS THE BEST WATERPROOF COAT MADE. Will keep you dry in any storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat. Sold everywhere. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

SNOW WHITE FLOUR MADE FROM SALZER'S NEW WHEAT

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. No seeds produce finer Flowers, better Vegetables, larger Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Try them. THE FARM! New tested Wheat (5 sorts), among these Saskatchewan Fife, Imperial French, etc. NEW EARLY DAKOTA WHITE OATS, POTATOES, BARLEY, ETC. SEEDS grown 400 miles north of here! Everything for farm. Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and other States will return to old time yield if our Seed grain is used. Try it. Send for Catalogue. | Plants and Roses By the 100,000. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis. Catalogue free. Largest Greenhouses In the West.

$10 RAILROAD WATCH ONE OF THE BIGGEST BARGAINS EVER OFFERED. A BRAND NEW 3½-OZ. OPEN FACE, HEAVY, THICK FLAT GLASS, GOLD HINGE, PATENT DUST-PROOF COIN SILVER CASE, WITH A CUT EXPANSION BALANCE, QUICK TRAIN JEWELED ELGIN MOVEMENT. THIS WATCH IS WARRANTED IN EVERY RESPECT. SENT C.O.D. WITH PRIVILEGE OF EXAMINATION TO ANY ADDRESS. SEND FOR OUR NEW CATALOGUE AND PRICE LIST OF UNREDEEMED PLEDGES. SIMON, THE PAWNBROKER, 314 Jackson and 186 East Seventh, St. Paul.

Did you Suppose Mustang Liniment only good for horses? It is for inflammation of all flesh.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

ROCKFORD WATCHES

Are unequalled in EXACTING SERVICE.

Used by the Chief Mechanician of the U. S. Coast Survey; by the Admiral commanding in the U. S. Naval Observatory, for Astronomical work; and by Locomotive Engineers, Conductors and Railway men. They are recognized as THE BEST for all uses in which close time and durability are requisites. Sold in principal cities and towns by the COMPANY'S exclusive Agents (leading Jewelers,) who give a Full Warranty.

DON'T FORGET

There is no infirmity so oppressive and burdensome to the human mind as that tired feeling of which so many complain on the approach of serious disorders. The depression and despondency of spirit attending this state are immeasurable. That constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity, driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continued strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful. DON'T FORGET, all of these ailments can be easily removed and permanently cured, by the use of

HOPS AND MALT BITTERS

Recommended by physicians, ministers and nurses.

I prescribe Hops and MALT Bitters regularly in my practice.—ROBERT TURNER, M. D., Flat Rock, Mich.

If you cannot get Hops and MALT Bitters of your druggist we will send it, express paid, on receipt of regular price, $1 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist; but if he has not got it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. Do not get Hops and MALT Bitters confounded with other inferior preparations of similar name. Take nothing but Hops and MALT Bitters.

HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.

NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.

GRAPE VINES, Strawberries, &c., by mail. Send for price list. Latham's Nursery, Excelsior, Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

25,000 Bushels of the famous Saskatchewan Fife Wheat For Sale for Season of 1885.

The most remarkable Wheat ever brought to the Northwest. Has yielded the past season right along from 50 to 100 per cent. more than the Common Fife, sown beside it. Our illustrated 10-page Catalogue, containing its history, together with numerous testimonials from those who have tried it, sent free on application. Address W. J. ABERNETHY & CO., Originators and Proprietors, 42 Third street South, Union Building, Minneapolis.

STROWBRIDGE BROAD CAST SOWER

BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!

Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a lifetime. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.

C. W. DORR, Manager
RACINE SEEDER CO.,
258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN

The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption; curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send a 2c. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

A Clear Skin is only a part of beauty; but it is a part. Every lady may have it; at least, what looks like it. Magnolia Balm both freshens and beautifies.

CONCERNING THE BALLOT.

"A voting woman! Ah!" said he,
"That's something I would hate to see!
A woman shy and sweet should be,
And rule at home all modestlee,"
As softly stroked his ample knee,
"But women ought to vote!" said she.

"The women, they are moved," said he,
"By impulse, as you must agree,
They might be won by sophistree,
With arguments and subt'etee."
He poked with anxious pokes his knee,
"But women ought to vote!" said she.

"To wield the ballot calls" said he,
"For strength and for integritee,
And power to solve with certaintee,
The problems of the centuree!"
He spread his hands upon his knee,
"But women ought to vote!" said she.

This man, a candidate was he,
A city officer to be,
Just then the door-bell jingled free,—
A sable son of Afrikee,
Had called, the candidate to see,
"What does you pay for votes!" asked he.

The candidate uneasilee
With nervous hand caressed his knee,
"Call 'round election day," said he,
"With Patsey Mack and John Magee,"
Then held the door all graciouslee,
With candidatish courtesee.

"Is that a voter?" queried she,
"That he is strong, I must agree;
But can he solve with certaintee
The problems of the centuree!"
The orator no more spake he,
But madly pounded on his knee.

—Mrs. George Archibald, in the Hawkeye.

LOVE AND DUTY.

It was a wild and rocky coast, along which ran the path that led to the home of old Martin Frere. At ordinary times the cottage would have possessed but little attraction for a bold stirring youth like Owen Glenn. But a visitor had of late brightened up its precincts—a young girl named Annis, named after the aged grandmother who dozed by the hearth through the long evenings, content to watch the bright flames as they shot up from the broad fireplace, and perhaps to see visions of the past with her dim eyes.

Dame Frere was a sharp-voiced, bustling woman, long past middle age, and not having the name of possessing a very sweet temper, but she had a soft place in her heart for granny, and it was to please her she had invited her pretty name-child to come and visit them for a few months.

Annis was a tall, slight girl, as straight as a pine tree and as graceful as a fawn. Her yellow hair hung in a perfect mane of shining curls all about her shoulders and far down below her waist. Imagine a sweet, innocent face, lighted with great lustrous dark eyes, and a red mouth almost always curving into smiles, and you have some idea of Annis.

Most of the young girls in the vicinity were buxom, merry lasses, with hair and eyes to match—both of intense blackness—and with more or less of the hoyden in them. Their laughter was loud and hearty, and their ways more frolicsome than refined. So it is not strange that when this graceful, quiet stranger came among them, with her shy ways and blonde coloring, her swift changes of expression and native ease of manner, she was at once taken into the hearts of all the young people in the neighborhood.

It is a great mistake to think that one girl is insensible to another maiden's beauty. Sometimes, to be sure, she may have a feeling of jealousy with regard to it when she is naturally of that disposition, but oftener she loves the object of her admiration all the more because she embodies that ideal which exists in every human soul to a greater or less degree.

Owen Glenn had fallen head over heels in love at his first meeting with Annis, and had not missed an opportunity of meeting her at the various rustic gatherings to which she had been invited; and to-night he was going to test his fate by telling Annis that he loved her, and ask if he could hope for a response to the ardent feeling with which he had been inspired by her.

Owen was not at all certain as to the success of his suit, for there was another who admired Annis, and who was far above him in worldy station and wealth, and as Owen, in his freedom from vanity, also thought, in good looks and in other qualities calculated to win a girl's heart.

Annis had received the pleasant little courtesies and attentions of both in a way calculated to wound neither; though, as to that, it would have been an impossibility for her to be other than so sweet and gracious as not to enkindle hope in each passionate young heart.

Thus matters stood as Owen started from his home to take the long and tedious walk over the cliffs, which must be traversed before he could reach the cottage which sheltered the object of his love.

It had been raining steadily all day long, and as night came on the wind had risen to a gale.

But, wrapped in his waterproof cloak and lighted on his way by a lantern, Owen cared not for the threatening elements, and walked along whistling softly, now and then pausing to shake himself, after the fashion of some huge water dog.

Then he would trudge on again, thinking what a terrible night it must be at sea, and breathing a prayer for the wave tossed mariners far from home.

Suddenly a dull, booming sound reached his ear.

It came from a seaward direction, but at first he kept on his way, thinking:

"This is not the harbor, and every one who has the slightest knowledge of the locality will be sure to avoid such a dangerous coast; so it's no business of mine."

Again the sound came. This time Owen stopped and listened.

A thought came into his mind as he did so, but it militated so directly against his inclinations to give heed to it that with an impatient "Pshaw!" he started on.

But he could not rid himself of it. It was this: "If a ship is in peril, and has lost her way, the only thing that could save her would be a huge beacon fire to cast a light upon her surroundings."

To build a fire would be a work of time and of hard labor.

To keep one up long enough to do any good would take hours of watchfulness, and he would have to abandon all hope of seeing Annis that evening.

It was a hard struggle, but inclination proved to be made of a material which could not hold its own against his strong sense of duty.

He gave up all thought of the pleasant greeting he had been living upon in his heart all day long, and set himself to work to gather fuel for the beacon fire.

After several hurried journeys to the woodland, which lay a little distance away, he succeeded in accumulating a pile of branches and dry twigs, which he had raked out with his hands from a deserted hut, which stood on the confines of the thicket, and had evidently been gathered together for some purpose; but under the circumstances Owen felt himself justified in taking it, as it would have been almost impossible to have kindled a flame of green wood.

Just as he had succeeded in coaxing a splendid blaze into life, a voice cried:

"Hallo, Glenn, is that you? What in the name of wonder are you doing?"

"I am answering to a signal of distress. Hark!" as a dull sound came again from the sea.

"Well, old fellow, I wish you joy of your post, and hope it'll do the good you expect. For my part, I'm off to old Martin's. I hear little Annis is going away to-morrow, and I don't want to miss a sight of her beaming face to-night. It's bright and sweet enough to be a man's beacon light for all his life. Good-by, and good fortune attend your work. It's lucky all are not such selfish fellows as I am."

It was as if a thousand fiends were tugging for the mastery of Owen Glenn's heart, as he listened to the rattling talk of the gay, lighthearted youth.

Should he give Robert this chance of seeing Annis, and of perhaps asking her to be his wife, during this very night, while he stood and worked to do good, and in God's providence tried to be the means of saving the lives of people who were nothing to him?

Thus his thoughts ran over and over again, repeating themselves like the voices of mocking demons, while outwardly he labored on as unremittingly as though no influences of the kind were at work, piling on fresh fuel for flames, or pushing some burning log into a better position; and in that way he won the victory.

Peace succeeded to the wild storm of agitation which had momentarily threatened to engulf him. Thus the night wore through.

With the morning came a great calm. One would not have thought that the sun-flecked waves which came leaping in, white-crested and tumultuous, to meet the stern barrier of rocks, and crawl up, up almost to their summits, could be aught but playful in their force. Ah, it is a treacherous beauty—that of the sea.

Too tired to notice the beauty of the transition from storm to sunshine, Owen walked slowly home. His work was done, and he must rest.

Late in the day he started out for a walk. He was in that miserable state of mind which oftentimes follows some great exaltation of spirit. The thought that Annis had gone away without his seeing her again weighed upon his mind like an unwelcome incubus.

At the voice of Robert Hunter, who stopped to accost him, he shrank and trembled as though in pain, but he listened as intently as though his life depended upon what he was about to say. Had he proposed to Annis, and had he been accepted?

"Glenn," he began, "I wish you and I could change places about last night's work."

"It's rather late for that, now," was the quiet answer.

"I'm fully aware of the fact, and that's what I regret about it. I'm afraid I'm dished in a certain direction."

"What do you mean?" asked Owen, with sudden interest.

"Why, if you believe it, I might just as well have left my visit unpaid last night; indeed, had far better have done so. Annis was so interested at the chance of there being a ship outside in distress that it was all I could do to prevail upon her not to face the storm and 'come and help,' she said; and she gave me some pretty hard rubs, I can tell you, about my leaving you alone to do 'the good work,' as she called it. I don't believe that little Annis will ever look at me again without a thought in her mind of what I ought to have done and didn't."

Such a tide of joy rushed through Owen Glenn's heart that he could hardly speak, and while he was struggling to hide his emotions Robert went on with his revelations, little realizing the effect of his words:

"She's not going home to-day just on that account. She told me to tell you to come up and see her and tell her all about it. I wish it had been my luck to make such a hit. Women are great on any one who touches their feelings. You ought to see her eyes snap and sparkle when she was lecturing me about not staying to help you. I never saw her look so pretty. But, halloo! what has come over you." For Owen was hurrying off in the direction of the cliffs.

As he went Robert caught a look upon his face which told him more than Owen intended. He stood staring after him, thinking to himself:

"I see it all. My failure will be Owen's opportunity. Well, he's a good fellow, and as long as I can't have her, what odds does it make? And I saw last night that she cared no more for me than if I had been a stick."

When Annis caught sight of Owen approaching the cottage she ran out with an impulsive "Oh, how glad I am to see you? I do so want to tell you what I think of you."

Then she stopped short. Something in Owen's face filled her with confusion. But outstretched hands were already within his clasp, and his low murmured words of love were sounding in her ears:

"I am as glad as you that I have done something to please you, for oh, Annis, I love you so dearly that I would do or dare anything for your sake."

And then, she never knew how it came about; but his arms were about her and his kisses were upon her lips, and she found that she loved him so well she was willing to promise to be his wife, whenever he should be able to earn enough to make a home for her.

They were both young, and it would not be hard to wait, and they were so sure of one another's love.

The prospect was at first that several years must elapse before their marriage, but suddenly all was changed for them as if by magic.

A letter came from abroad within a twelvemonth. It was addressed to the minister of the little seaside village, and asked for information as to the person or persons who had kindled a beacon light in answer to a signal of distress from a sailing vessel on the night of ——, giving the correct date and the time when Owen had sacrificed inclination to the dictates of duty and of humanity.

That light had saved a valuable cargo from being lost, and the writer proposed to give half of the proceeds to the parties who had been instrumental in the matter. Also a medal was to be struck off commemorative of his gratitude that the lives of all on board had been thus preserved to their families.

Owen became at once the boast of the village. For when a man's fame has reached foreign countries his own townspeople are sure to re-echo it.

The wedding day was set for the first anniversary of the evening when his good fortune came to him in the guise of disappointment, and Robert Hunter was the first to congratulate the young couple.

"Who'd have thought," he whispered to Owen, "that the tables would have been so turned? Truly, 'There's a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune,' and you took it, my boy."—Alfred Crayon.

The Destruction of Bhamo.

The Kakhyen tribes have at last carried out their oft-repeated threat to destroy the Burmese town of Bhamo, which is situated close to the Chinese frontier. Bhamo lies on the banks of the Irrawaddy at the distance of about a mile from its point of junction with the Tengyue river, which has been also called the Tapeng. Although only a small stockaded town consisting of a hundred houses, occupied by Chinese and Shan traders, besides a very small number of Burmese officials, Bhamo has been considered one of the most important places in Burmah as the point of departure for the caravans proceeding to Talifoo, one of the chief towns of the province of Yunnan. It has been visited by all the principal explorers of southwest China since the late Mr. T. T. Cooper so nearly reached it from the side of Yunnan during the height of the Panthay rebellion in that province; and for the greater portion of that period it has been the seat of an Anglo-Indian consulate, to which Mr. Cooper himself was the first person to be appointed. It will not be forgotten that he, who certainly did more than any one else to promote the success of exploration in the border districts and countries of India and China, was assassinated by one of his guards at this very place. The term Kakhyen, it may be stated, is the Burmese name of the tribes which inhabit the greater part of the northeast portion of what is nominally termed the Burmese monarchy, and lying between the Irrawaddy and Salwen rivers. The Chinese call them Yeuhjin and in their own tongue they speak of themselves as Chingpaws or Singphos, which means simply "men." These tribes are in their habits a mixture of robbers and traders; when brigandage fails they take to barter. They have been tersely but accurately described as being "ignorant and credulous as children, but fully alive to the profits of the carrying trade." With regard to their own personal habits and characteristics, it may be said that these tribes have little to recommend them. Gen. Fytche calls them "dirty, unkempt, ugly barbarians, armed with bows and arrows, spears and match-locks; drunken, superstitious, and lawless to the last degree." At the time of Maj. Sladen's mission some of the principal chiefs bound themselves to maintain the security of the road, but the decreased interest taken in the establishment of communications between India and China by the Indian government since his visit has sufficed to cool the ardor of these tribes in commerce which mainly arose from a feeling of self-interest. The attack on and destruction of Bhamo are important principally because they show the extent of the disorganization caused by Thebaw's misgovernment throughout his dominions. Unless prompt steps are taken the disorder will extend to other quarters, and one of the most fertile portions of Asia will be given over indefinitely to the prey of a number of rude tribes who can defy with impunity the feeble authority which is all that the Burmese can claim and on rare occasions attempt to assert.—Cor. London Telegraph.

The Art of Seeing.

In every day life it is much more important to be an acurate observer than a mere book learner. I have frequently seen the latter made to blush for her deficiencies by the most unlearned, says a correspondent in an English contemporary, for in a contest between eyes and no eyes, eyes have generally got the best of it. Nature has given us such an inexhaustable store of interest that those who go through life without "seeing" lose much of the zest of it. The savage who necessarily depends on his keen eye and his quick ear, cultivates those faculties in an extraordinary degree; for does he not see indications and hear sounds which to an observer would be utterly unintelligible? So also with all persons who live near the heart of nature. The English shepherd, while perhaps ignorant of the very formation of the alphabet, stores up a fund of interesting knowledge derived entirely from observation. He can give you simple, interesting astronomical facts which might astonish a scientist, as well as trustworthy information on natural history and even botany. One may possess everything in the way of scholarship, but if she or he have that alone, those who are unlearned but observing will often make them feel very small. I would, therefore, urge my readers to cultivate the art of seeing or observing; there is nothing like seeing things for ourselves. Our ideas become fresher, more natural and more in unison with latter-day tastes when they are formed from observation. Nature's book is the one wherein we find the richest, the most varied and the most inexhaustible subjects for thought.—Scientific American.

A Japanese Village in London.

A Japanese villiage is being set up in London, all the materials of which are being brought from Japan. It is built by Japanese carpenters, and, when finished, every art and industry of Japan will be represented by skilled artists and workmen, and their manner of carrying out their different handicrafts will be shown. There will be lectures on Japan, her people and her history, a Japanese garden, a school, and a theater with Japanese actors. The only European thing about it will be a military band composed of Highlanders. The entire villiage will be under glass and artificially heated.

Use For It.

Mr. Blank—My love, I have been trying for a week to find out what this thing is that you gave me for a New Year's present.

Mrs. Blank—How stupid! Why, it is a purse to carry your money in.

"Strange I had not thought of that. Curious contrivance, isn't it? But you know, dear, I have no use for anything of the kind."

"Nonsense. Of course you have. By the way, the bill for it has just been sent. Here it is."

"How fortunate. I can carry the bill in it."—Philadelphia Call.

DELUSIONS OF THE DAFT.

Some Queer Cases of People Cracked in the Upper Story.

"Illusional insanity! Why, certainly there is such a thing," said Dr. D. D. Richardson yesterday. "Nothing more certain. And no species of insanity is more easily or more commonly feigned. At the same time the subjects of that variety of mania are often the most difficult to prove insane. I remember the case of a man named Frank Devlin who was brought to me. His family assured me he was insane. I had him in my charge for several days, but failed to discover his weak point until one day his son, I think it was, came to me and told me that Devlin had invented an infernal machine with which he hoped to blow up the house in which an objectionable neighbor lived.

"Now, this neighbor lived in the same house as Devlin did and was his own lodger. I questioned him about this story. He told that the neighbor was in a conspiracy with his (Devlin's) wife, and then when he paid her for his weekly board she give it back, and so robbed her husband. Mrs. Devlin was quite an old woman and was held in good estimation among the neighbors, but they could none of them believe in Devlin's insanity.

"Consequently their indignation at his confinement became so troublesome to her that she took him home. He had not been home a week when one evening the lodger was shutting up the shutter, and Devlin, who was sitting on the steps, drew a pistol and shot him through the heart. When his trial came off I had to testify. He called me to the dock and whispered:

"'Now, don't you try to prove me insane, because I am not, you know.'

"'But they will hang you if I don't.'

"'Oh no they won't; it was necessary to rid the earth of such a man; they won't hang me.'

"Well, he was found insane, of course, and was sent, I think, to Norristown. To show how this kind of insanity may be feigned, the case of Solomon Squires will do for an example. He followed his wife to church, and shot her in the back. Insanity was set up as a plea, but he was sentenced to death. While awaiting the execution of his sentence, his friends did all they could to procure a commutation. In the meantime he pretended to be suffering from melancholia, refused food, read his Bible from morning till night, and went through all the usual symptoms. His sentence was commuted. On the day that this news was brought to him he was sitting in a corner of his cell reading, when the warden said:

"'Squires, your sentence is commuted.'

"He jumped up flung the Bible to the other end of the cell and danced a jig with delight.

"'I'd sooner spend two lives in a penitentiary,' he cried, 'than be hanged.'

"Emotional insanity is a common cause of murder. I remember a case of a man named Thayer. He had been three times confined for a mania-a-potu and was an habitual drunkard. For this reason his wife left him and went to live with her brother. One evening Thayer went to the house, asked her if she would return to him, and on receiving a reply in the negative, shot her through the head. He was dazed and stupid when taken to the police station, and showed no consciousness of having committed a crime. His former employer was at first much incensed against him, as were indeed the whole public.

"Before he was brought up for trial, however, his employer, who had reflected on the case, and in consideration of former services, and remembering many little occasions when his actions had suggested some brain disorder, decided to procure the best counsel possible to defend him.

"I was a witness. The prisoner was found insane and acquitted. His old employer did all he could for him, sent him to Cuba and found work for him there. But he was of no use; his brain was quite gone. After a while he found his way to Boston, where he died of dementia in a hospital.

"Solitary confinement and the dark cell? Yes, sometimes it is productive of insanity, but in how many instances does the insanity exist before the criminal is confined? That is where the difficulty exists in making a diagnosis for a jury. A physician may be perfectly convinced of the insanity of the criminal, but the absence of proof renders him incapable of convincing the jury.

"The causes of insanity are varied and the origin of the causes are equally varied and obscure. A genuine lunatic does not like to be thought one, but careful questioning and patient observation will discover the weak place in nine cases out of ten.

"In the tenth case the cleverest and most skillful observer is often baffled, until by some accident frequently the patient develops the necessary symptom which goes to prove the wanting element in his or her mental organ."—Philadelphia Times.

John C. Eno, Jr.

In speaking of the absconders from New York now in Canada, the Post-Dispatch says:

John C. Eno heads the list. He is living at Quebec. The house he rents is large and the situation delightful. It is two miles and a half from the postoffice. The rent he pays—nearly $2,000 a year—is, for Quebec, enormous. This means, proportionately, about $6,000 or $8,000 per year in New York. Rents are very low in old Rock City, and Eno's house at Beauvoir is one of the finest in the suburbs. Financially he seems to be at ease. He drives good horses and is liberal with his money, but socially he is not known. Neither he nor his wife is ever invited out nor are they visited by the society people. Eno has never been asked to the garrison mess, and does not belong to the only social organization in Quebec of any pretensions—the Garrison club. The old French families do not ask him to their houses. The doors of the Langevins, the Taschereaus, the Bosses, the DuChaneys or the DuVals do not open to receive him. His acquaintances are principally made at bar rooms. Some few society men have a nodding acquaintance with him. I found people wondering that Eno stopped at Quebec. Society is exclusive, and the old noblesse have long memories. When Eno gives "dinner parties" they are only attended by his legal advisers or speculators who may wish to use him. The commercial club he belongs to is a small place where men of business meet. It has no social significance and does not pretend to it. These men meet Eno in a business way. They do not ask him to their homes. Some of them may drink with him at the St. Louis hotel when they meet him there, that is all. He visits the houses of two or three personal friends, but these stories about his being received into society are, I was assured, exaggerations. He paid many visits on New Year's day. Most of them were not returned. He attends cocking mains and billiard tournaments, and he is a constant visitor to St. Roch. This is the roughest suburb of the city. Mrs. Eno is admired, but society people will not receive her. This is owing to her husband's irregularities.

It is rumored that he intends to build a large hotel on the island of Orleans, a few miles down the river from Quebec. It is a summer resort and much frequented by the people of the ancient capital during July and August. It is said he is to have a partner in his legal adviser. The place proposed for the new hotel is delightful. The falls of Montmorenci and the great Laurentian range of mountains, said to be the oldest in the world, will be in view on one side. On the other there will be old Stadacona, with its Indian and pioneer traditions. People say that John C. Eno has shown good taste in selecting such a spot for his proposed speculation, but I found public opinion in Quebec unfavorable to Eno.

The Decadence of the Red River Cart.

Huge wheels, out of all proportion to its carrying capacity, with folloes roughly ax-cut from native wood, and bound together by shaganappi—prepared buffalo hide—tires; straight-hewn sticks for shafts; wooden axle-tree; wooden linch-pins; rustic-work frame; shaganappi fastenings everywhere; shaganappi "hitchings;" not a grain of iron in its whole anatomy—such was the far-famed Red River Cart in its palmy days. Musical? Rather! Music and axle-grease were too precious when "the cart" was in its prime to be lightly wasted. To have dispensed the latter would have been to dispense with the former—something not to be thought of. Hence it was that the "freighters" and old settlers in the northwest always went on their expeditions heralded by strains from their cart-wheels that would have embittered with envy the heart of a calliope.

In all outward seeming the Red River Cart was pre-eminently not a thing of beauty. It is needless to observe that it is not likely to be a joy forever. Already it is far on its journey towards the "mount of remembrance." Soon it will finally have taken up its station thereon, side by side with "the noble red man of the plains." The "Injun," however, and the degenerate descendant of "the cart," will continue to adorn contemporary history. A very uninteresting vehicle is this descendant, as compared with its great forebear. A smug, paint-adorned, iron-bestudded, unmusical hybrid, it differs as greatly to its own disadvantage from the grim, uncompromising combination of wood and shaganappi from which it is sprung, as a New York aldermanic "residence" differs from an Irish round-tower. But, "lighting upon days like these," what better could we look for? Gone is that generous devotion, that loyalty of heart to the artistically cumbersome in industrial and domestic appliances which so distinguished worthier ages! A generation that prefers the telegraph to the carrier pigeon, and a "Pullman" to the coach-and-four, is at least not inconsistent in taking to its bosom the common-place successor of the Red River Cart. But in so doing it gives a pitiful exhibition of the patent-office spirit by which it is actuated, and which seems to govern everywhere in these modern times.

One thing can be said in favor of the "Manitoba cart"—it were disrespectful to the memory of the great departed to call it a Red River Cart—it is useful. As much cannot always be affirmed of the illustrious descended. It has enabled many a poor immigrant to reach in safety his selected home on the vast northwestern prairies, whom its more distinguished predecessor might have brought to grief. It makes less noise about its undetakings; but they are perhaps none the worse performed for that. It supplies its patrons with no gratuitous music; but the best pound of tea or coffee is not always accompanied by a chromo. It makes no pretensions to undue complicity of get-up; but those who frown on fashion have turned out at times to be still a step removed from perfection. In justice to the "Manitoba cart," these suggestions of the possibility of a partial excuse for its existence being discoverable are made. To hope for a full vindication of its encroachments on the domain of its romantic prototype would, of course, be unreasonable. As well might it be attempted to justify the unseemly phillistinism which has driven away the lordly buffalo, that his grazing grounds might be occupied by mere tillers of the soil—vulgar growers of wheat and makers of butter.

But of what striking features have "these days of advance" robbed northwestern landscapes! No longer do "freighters' trains" move across our prairies—sometimes a hundred or more Red River carts, and saddle ponies by the score, in a "train" with varieties of costume and accompaniments of sound that would gladden the hearts of the masculine youth of a whole city, and make the fortune of a Barnum in a "street parade." A single railway-car now holds more goods, perhaps, than the hundred carts could have carried, and bears its burden farther in a day than they were able to transport theirs in a month. Starting from St. Paul, or in later days from Winnipeg, the "freighters" were often nearly the entire season in reaching the far posts of the Saskatchewan and the Rockies. Many of them were of Indian descent, or even pure-blooded natives, and they frequently carried their families with them on their summer journeyings. Most picturesque were their nightly encampments. The "carts"—shafts pointing inwards—were disposed in a circle on the prairie, beside a stream when possible. Around the great drove of beasts of burden, ponies and oxen intermingled, grazed or rested. Within, the tents and tee-pees were pitched. Beside these, the evening meal having been disposed of, the men lounged and smoked. The women—always in the brightest obtainable colors—and the children mingled with them in merrily-chattering groups. Light-hearted and social beings were the "freighters." But they have disappeared from our prairies forever. The northwest has passed through the "Red River cart period." It is now in the "railway-bonus age."—W. E. Maclellan, in The Current.

Senator Sharon is not alone in the role of a western millionaire to whom sudden wealth has brought much trouble. The woes of his friends, Baldwin, Fair and Tabor have in their time been spread before the public, and were equally entertaining to the class which thrives upon the literature of scandal and blackmail.—Chicago Current.

MEXICO.

How Our Sister Republic Looks to American Eyes—The Railroads and People.

J. D. Stevens, a born southron, who has spent the last three years of his life in the state of Durango, in Mexico, has been in the city for a few days, says The Omaha Bee, and, being a man who looks at life as it passes by him, gives some very interesting facts concerning the institutions, internal improvements, customs, and habits of the people of that wonderful republic.

The Mexican government, under the presidency of Porfirio Diaz, has been very lenient with and given much encouragement to railroads. The Mexican Central railway, with its northern terminus at El Paso, runs almost due south to the City of Mexico. The Huntington system extends at present from Eagle Pass, Tex., to Monclova, the capital of Cohahuila, and will soon be completed to Mazatlin, in Cinaloa, crossing the Mexican Central at Lerdo at right angles. Besides these two roads there is the Mexican National entering the republic at Laredo, running to Monterey, thence to the City of Mexico; the English railway extending from the capital to Vera Cruz, and several other minor systems. The last-mentioned road was built exclusively by English capital, at a cost of $22,000,000 for some two hundred miles of railway. Other roads are also being projected. In all trains the law compels the railways to have three classes of cars. On the first class the passenger rate per mile, established by law, is 4 cents, the second 3 cents, and the third 1½ cents. All the railway lines are doing a good business and pay a fair rate of interest on the investment.

There are only two classes of people—the rich and the poor, or the peons—and they are as far removed from one another as the castles of India. The rich own all the landed estates, and the poor are their menials, performing their labor with the servility of slaves. A man in the rich class who does not own 500,000 acres of land is considered poor. The land-owner rules over his hacienda with the dignity and royalty of a lord. He lives in a large adobe house whose broad roof sheltered his ancestors for many generations past. In it he lives in a splendor far surpassing that of the negro owner in the palmiest days of slavery. From his hacienda he looks in every direction and sees nothing but his own domain, upon which goats, cattle, horses, and sheep are grazing in countless numbers. One thing particularly striking about the adobe buildings is their quality to resist the tooth of time. In Durango, founded in 1540, are buildings erected at that time and still inhabited. The peons are probably the most satisfied and contentented class found anywhere. Their ambition and energy have been blighted by seeing no hope and the insurmountable barriers between the two classes. They live entirely in the present, their only object in life being to obtain a sufficient amount of maize meal and a few grains of black coffee. Their habits and customs are as quaint and antique as those seen in the pictures of Roman days. They carry water for their masters upon their shoulders, wear leather sandals, ride and pack jackasses the same as their ancestors one hundred years ago. They envelop their legs in loose zouave breeches or calsions of white domestic, wear a shirt of the same material, and always cover their heads with a good hat.

Prostitution among the women of the peon class is very common. The laws of society, however, are not so inexorable there as among the people of this nation. Fallen women frequently reform, are received back into society, and their past sins forgotten. The peons are forbidden to associate with the rich, and are found with them only as menials and servants. Among the wealthy the parents look after the chastity of their daughters with an eye single to its preservation. The young Mexican gallant is allowed to see his inamorata only in the presence of a member of the family. She is permitted to go out only when attended by her father or her brother, and it is considered an act of indiscretion, often made the subject of comment by her more modest sisters, to leave the hacienda without this protection. The great mass of the people at present are ignorant, but free schools are being established and a compulsory system of education enacted which are doing much good for the republic. The schools now are largely attended and the young Mexican's mind is found to be both quick and active. In nearly all the schools English is being taught, which language is looked upon by them as the one in time to be generally spoken. They look upon an American with reverence, and as almost a supernatural being. They consider the United States as their protector, whose action in the past, has always been for their good. Seward's enforcement of the Monroe doctrine in 1865, when Maximilian, with his invading hordes, had driven Juarez out of Mexico, has never been forgotten by them. An American is given there more protection than a Mexican, and the president always stands ready to provide the former with an escort through a perilous section of the country without expense. So zealous of his protection is the government, that Mexicans often remark and complain of the partiality.

Another great characteristic of the American is his politeness. Even among the peons this attribute is found the same as among the rich. No one is boorish, and the "politeness of the Spaniard" exists here in its pristine givor. Hospitality is the pride of the rich, and their guests are provided with everything in the way of entertainment at their hands, an offer of payment for which would be considered gross insult.

Here Catholicism reigns supreme. In the whole republic scarcely a Protestant church can be found, while those of the Catholics can be seen on nearly every hill-top. Their magnificence challenges the admiration of every traveler. In the city of Durango, as an instance, is a Catholic cathedral 275x300 feet, costing over $2,000,000, a sum greater than half the aggregated wealth of that muncipality of 30,000 inhabitants. The power of the priest is almost incalculable, but his strength is waning. Even yet, however, when the bishop rides through the streets they fall upon their knees and remain in this attitude of devotion until he disappears from their vision. Many doff their hats at the ringing of the cathedral bells, cross themselves, and murmur their orisons. The church and state are divorced, and priests are forbidden by law to appear in the streets in their religious robes. In Durango alone are they allowed by the officers to appear in their priestly habits.

In no country in the world are laws so favorable to mining. Mining property is not taxed, and the statutes are all framed for their development. The miner who intends to sink a shaft is given the right to denounce his neighbor's timber and water, and should the latter object the former applies to the government and his wish is gratified. The mines are nearly all silver bearing, and many are rich. The different ores are worked by the amalgamation smelting and lixiviating processes, the latter being much the cheapest.

Mr. Stevens is a part owner of the Quebrodilla silver mine, of Durango, whose ore is worked by the lixiviating process. It contains a large body of ore. It is estimated that $1,000,000 worth of metal is now in sign yielding $50 per ton. A shaft of about 360 feet has been sunk, and levels have been run near the bottom 130 feet. The mines in general are being rapidly developed, and United States capital is constantly displacing the old means of working them. American energy and skill is also aiding materially in every enterprise, and are being constantly invited by that government whose people and country produce over one-half the silver mined on the globe.

The First Spiritual Temple.

In the very heart of the fashionable portion of the Hub, in close contiguity to the Hotel Vendome, Trinity church and Copley square, writes a Boston correspondent of The New York Tribune, a nearly completed new building is attracting the attention of observers. Its whole appearance is extremely odd, as it bears no resemblance whatever to a church, museum, school-house, or place of business. It is simply unique, although the architecture is said to be of the Romanesque order. It is square, 120 feet in height from the sidewalk to the top of the cupola, and has dormers and gables in the roof. The windows are irregularly disposed and of different sizes, as though they were arranged hap-hazard to light apartments at convenience, without regard to outward symmetry. The location of the building is at the corner of Exeter and Newbury streets. Over the arched entrance on Exeter street is written "First Spiritual temple" in carved letters, intertwined with delicate traces of foliage. It is, in fact, the first place the Spiritualists have ever owned where they could publicly practice the forms and tenets of their peculiar belief. Unlike other religious sects of the United States, they have been poorly provided for in this respect; they have convened in hired halls, or private parlors, or wherever it has chanced to be in keeping with their pecuniary ability. Very shortly this state of affairs will be changed for the Spiritualists of the New England metropolis, at least, through the generosity of Mr. Marcellus S. Ayer, a wealthy bachelor and well-known wholesale grocer on State street in this city. He has been a beliver in Spiritualism for many years, but only four or five an active exponent of its doctrines. A few months ago he determined to erect a suitable building for the use of his fellow-believers, and the magnificence of his gift can be estimated when it is stated that it will cost when finished $175,000.

The chief material of the exterior of the temple is light-gray stone, with trimmings of dark-red granite. A belt of exquisite carving runs around the building at the top of the first story, an extended vine of flowers and leaves, more than a foot broad, and in two oval spaces of the red stone, one on either side of the entrance, are carved symbols of the spiritualistic faith. The basement is devoted to a free reading-room and library of books written by the most noted writers on Spiritualism; a Sunday school room capable of seating five hundred persons, offices and toilet-rooms. The main story is one grand auditorium, a cheerful bright room, with frescoed walls, painted windows, an organ, a platform for speakers, and opera chairs of the most comfortable description. Above this is a story divided into eight lecture halls, janitors' quarters, a kitchen, etc. Still above this is an air-chamber, roofed and floored with zinc, where the rain and wind can sweep through lattices in the roof and ventilate the whole house by air-ducts that lead into it. Every sanitary arrangement of the building is as near perfect as can be. The furnishings of the great auditorium, etc., will be paid for through the subscriptions of the Spiritualists of Boston and its vicinity, amountinng to $50,000. When the temple is completed Mr. Ayer will give it to the Working Union of Progressive Spiritualists of Boston. He will retain, however, certain proprietary rights as to the uses that may be made of it. He intends to have Sunday morning lectures given by the most celebrated and talented lectures on Spiritualism, a Sunday school on Sunday afternoons and lectures on Sunday evenings. Every week day evening there will be lectures and meetings in the smaller halls. Mr. Ayer affirms that there are millions of Spiritualists in this country who have openly professed themselves to be so or have made a partial confession to that effect, and, with the example he has set for them, he thinks other temples will be inaugurated where they may worship according to their faith.

Lynch Law in Kentucky.

The Louisville Commercial thinks lynch law is better than statute law for Kentucky. In the last two years, it says, there has been a dozen lynchings in the State, every victim of which amply deserved his fate. Within the same time there have been more than 200 killings, a large number of which were cold-blooded murders, the perpetrators of which fell into the hands of the law, yet there havenot been more than half a dozen executions. In Lexington a few weeks ago man was executed who, under the beautiful mode of administering justice, had had four or five trials and convictions, as many appeals, and was finally hanged after fighting with technicalities for five years.

He Kissed for the Nation.

During the administration of Mr Buchanan the daughter of a senator was married in Washington. The president, cabinet, and many members of congress were in attendance. After the ceremony Mr. Buchanan stepped forward to present his congratulations to the bride—a prominent feature of which was a hearty kiss. A number standing in close proximity inquired: "Is it understood that I am to follow suit?" "No, sir," replied the president; "it is understood that I kiss for the nation." The bride was a daughter of General Toombs of Georgia; the member of congress was General McQueen, of South Carolina.

Minnesota Law Supplement.

CONTAINING THE GENERAL LAWS PASSED DURING SESSION OF 1885.—OFFICIAL PUBLICATION.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF LAWS OF MINNESOTA

SESSION OF 1885.

Regulating Railway Companies

AN ACT for the regulation of Railroad Companies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. There is hereby created a commission to be styled "Railroad and warehouse commissioners," to consist of three (3) suitable persons, qualified electors of the State of Minnesota; the decision of a majority of whom shall be considered the decision of the commissioners on all questions arising for their consideration, who shall hold their office for a period of two (2) years and until their successors are appointed and qualified, and who shall be appointed by the governor, and one of whom shall be of the leading opposite political party to the governor.

SEC. 2. Within thirty (30) days after this act shall take effect the governor shall appoint two (2) persons who, with the present railroad commissioner, shall constitute such commission, and who shall hold their office until the first Monday in January, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887) and until their successors are appointed and qualified. The governor shall after and within thirty (30) days of the organization of the legislature appoint three (3) railroad commissioners to succeed those whose terms have expired in January, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887) who shall hold their offices for two (2) years and until their successors are appointed and qualified. And any vacancy which shall occur in the office of any railroad commissioner shall be filled by the governor for the remainder of the term, when a successor shall be appointed for the full term of two (2) years.

SEC. 3. Qualifications—Oath—Bond.—No person shall be appointed as such commissioner who is at the time of his appointment in any way connected with any railroad company or who is directly or indirectly interested in any stock, bond or other property of a railroad company, or is in the employment of any railroad company or warehouseman, and no person appointed as such commissioner shall during the term of his office become interested in any stock, bond, or other property of any railroad company or warehouse, or in any manner be employed by or connected with any railroad company or warehouse. The governor shall have power to remove any such commissioner at any time upon sufficient evidence of malfeasance or non-feasance in office. Before entering upon the duties of his office each of said commissioners shall make and subscribe and file with the secretary of state an affidavit in the following form:

I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Minnesota, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the officer of commissioner of railroads according to the best of my ability.

And shall enter into bonds with security to be approved by the Governor in the sum of twenty thousand (20,000) dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duty as such commissioner.

SEC. 4. Compensation, Secretary, Office Expenses.—Each of said commissioners shall receive for his services the sum of three thousand (3,000) dollars per annum, payable as the salary of other State officers. They shall be furnished with an office, office furniture and stationery at the expense of the State and shall have power to appoint a secretary to perform such duties as they may assign to him; said secretary shall receive for his services $1,500 per annum. The office of said commissioners shall be kept at the State capitol, and all sums authorized to be paid by this act shall be paid out of the State Treasury, and only on the order of the State Auditor. Provided that the total sum to be expended by said commissioners for furniture, stationery, postage and other incidental expenses shall in no case exceed the sum of $800 per annum.

SEC. 5. Right to Pass on Trains, Etc.—The said commissioners and their necessary assistants shall have the right of passing in the performance of their duties concerning railroads on all railroads and railroad trains in this state.

SEC. 6. Report of Railroads.—Every railroad company incorporated or doing business in this state, or which shall hereafter become incorporated or do business under any general or special law of this state, shall on or before the first (1st) day of September, in the year of our Lord 1885, and on or before the same day in each year thereafter, make and transmit to the commissioners appointed by virtue of this act, at their office in the state capitol, a full and true statement under oath, of the proper officers of said corporation of the affairs of their said corporation, as the same existed on the first (1st) day of the preceding July, specifying:

First—The amount of capital stock subscribed and by whom.

Second—The names of the owners of its stock and the amount owned by them respectively, and the residence of each stockholder as far as known.

Third—The amount of stock paid in and by whom.

Fourth—The amount of its assets and liabilities.

Fifth—The names and place of residence of its officers.

Sixth—The amount of cash paid to the company on account of the original capital stock.

Seventh—The amount of funded debt.

Eighth—The amount of floating debt.

Ninth—The estimated value of the road bed, including iron and bridges.

Tenth—The estimated value of rolling stock.

Eleventh—The estimated value of stations, buildings and fixtures.

Twelfth—The estimated value of other property.

Thirteenth—The length of single main track.

Fourteenth—The length of double main track.

Fifteenth—The length of branches, stating whether they have single or double tracks.

Sixteenth—The aggregate length of siding and other tracks not enumerated.

Seventeenth—The number of miles run by passenger trains during the year preceding the making of the report.

Eighteenth—The number of miles run by freight trains during the same period.

Nineteenth—The number of tons of through freight carried during the same time.

Twentieth—The number of tons of local freight carried during the same time.

Twenty-first—Its monthly earnings for the transportation of passengers during the same time.

Twenty-second—Its monthly earnings for the transportation of freight during the same time.

Twenty-third—Its monthly earnings from all other sources, respectively.

Twenty-fourth—The amount of expense incurred in the running and management of passenger trains during the same time.

Twenty-fifth—The amount of expense incurred in the running and management of freight trains during the same time. Also the amount of expense incurred in the running and management of mixed trains during the same time.

Twenty-sixth—All other expenses incurred in the running and management of the road during the same time, including the salaries of officers, which shall be reported separately.

Twenty-seventh—The amount expended for repairs of road and maintenance of way, including repairs and renewal of bridges and renewal of iron.

Twenty-eighth—The amount expended for improvement, and whether the same is estimated as a part of the expenses of operating or repairing the road, and if either, which.

Twenty-ninth—The amount expended for motive power and cars.

Thirtieth—The amount expended for station houses, buildings and fixtures.

Thirty-first—All other expenses for the maintenance of way.

Thirty-second—All other expenditures, either for management of road, maintenance of way, motive power and cars, or for other purposes.

Thirty-third—The rate of fare for passengers for each month during the same time, through and way passengers separately.

Thirty-fourth—The tariff of freights showing each change of tariff during the same time.

Thirty-fifth—A copy of each published rate of fare for passengers and tariff of freight in force or issued for the government of its agents during the same time.

Thirty-sixth—Whether the rate of fare and tariff of freight in such published lists are the same as those actually received by the company during the same time. If not, what were received.

Thirty-seventh—What express companies run on its roads, and on what terms and on what conditions. The kind of business done by them, and whether they take their freights at the depots or at the office of such express companies.

Thirty-eighth—What freight and transportation companies run on its road, and on what terms.

Thirty-ninth—Whether such freight and transportation companies use the cars of the railroad or the cars furnished by themselves.

Fortieth—Whether the freight or cars of such companies are given any preference in speed or order of transportation, and if so, in what particular.

Forty-first—What running arrangements it has with other railroad companies, setting forth the contracts for the same.

SEC. 7. Additional Inquiries.—The said commissioners may make and propound to such railroad companies any additional interrogatories relating to the condition, operation and control of said roads, which shall be answered by such companies in the same manner as those specified in the foregoing section.

SEC. 8. Applies to Officers of the Road.—Sections six (6) and seven (7) of this act shall apply to the president, directors and officers of every railroad company now existing or which shall be incorporated or organized in this state, and to every lessee, manager and operator of any railroad within this state.

SEC. 9. Such commissioners shall on or before the first (1st) day of December in each year, and oftener if required by the governor to do so, make a report to the governor of their doings for the preceding year, containing such facts, statements and explanations as will disclose the actual workings of the system of railroad transportation in its bearings upon the business and prosperity of the people of this state, and such suggestions in relation thereto as to them may seem appropriate. They shall also at such times as the governor shall direct, examine any particular subject connected with the condition and management of such railroads and report to him in writing their opinion thereon with their reasons therefor. Said commissioners shall also investigate and consider, what, if any, amendment or revision of the railroad laws of this state the best interests of the state may demand, and they shall make a special biennial report on said subject to the legislature.

SEC. 10. Examinations of Railroads.—Said commissioners shall examine into the condition and management and all other matters concerning the business of railroads in this state so far as the same pertain to the relations of such roads to the public and to the accommodation and security of persons doing business therewith and whether such railroad companies, their officers, directors, managers, lessees, agents and employes comply with the laws of this state now in force or which shall hereafter be in force concerning them. In order to enable said commissioners efficiently to perform their duties under this act, it is hereby made their duty to cause one of their number to visit the various stations on the lines of each railroad as often as practicable, and, at least once in three (3) months, to visit each county in the state in which is or shall be located a railroad station, and personally inquire into the management of such railroad business. And for this purpose all railroad companies and their officers are required to aid and furnish said commissioners with reasonable and proper facilities. Said railroad commissioners or either of them shall have the right in his or their official capacity to enter and remain during business hours in the cars, offices or depots, or upon the railroads of any railroad company within this state in the performance of official duties. But said railroad commissioner shall not directly or indirectly solicit or request from or recommend to any railroad company, or any officer, attorney, or agent thereof, the appointment of any person or persons to any place or position; nor shall any railroad corporation, its attorney or agent, offer any place, appointment, or position, or other consideration to such commissioner, or either of them, nor to any clerk or employe of said commissioners whatever; neither shall said commissioners, nor their secretary, clerks, agents, employes or experts, accept, receive or request any pass, present, gift, or gratuity of any kind from any railroad corporation, and the request or acceptance by them, or either of them, of any such place or position, pass, presents, gifts, or other gratuity, shall work a forfeiture of the office of the said commissioner or commissioners, secretary, clerk or clerks, agent or agents, employe or employes, expert or experts, who shall be guilty thereof. And any violation of this section, or any part thereof, shall also be deemed a misdemeanor, and punishable as such, and any commissioner who shall reveal any information gained by him from any railroad company to any other railroad company or person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 11. Power to Examine Books.—The property, books, records, accounts, papers and proceedings, so far as they relate to the condition, operation or management of the road, of all such railroad companies, shall at all times during business hours be subject to the examination and inspection of such commissioners, and they shall have power to examine under oath or affirmation any and all directors, officers, managers, agents and employes of any such railroad corporation and other persons concerning any matter relating to the condition and management of such business.

SEC. 12. May Examine Witnesses, etc.—In making any examination as contemplated in this act or for the purpose of obtaining information pursuant to this act said commissioners shall have the power to issue subpœnas for the attendance of witnesses, and may administer oaths. In case any person shall willfully fail or refuse to obey such subpœna, it shall be the duty of the district court of any county, upon application of the said commissioners, to issue an attachment for such witness and compel such witness to attend before the commissioners, and give his testimony upon such matters as shall be lawfully required by such commissioners; and the said court shall have power to punish for contempt, as in other cases of refusal to obey the process and order of such court. Said witnesses shall receive the same compensation as witnesses in civil actions, to be paid by the party subpœnaing them, and in case such witnesses are subpœnaed by the commissioners, such fees shall be paid by warrants on the state treasury, to be drawn by the state auditor on vouchers for the same approved by said commissioners.

SEC. 13. Penalty Against Witnesses.—Any person who shall willfully neglect or refuse to obey the process of said subpœna issued by said commissioners and appear and testify as therein required shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to an indictment in any court of competent jurisdiction, and on conviction thereof shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not less than twenty-five (25) dollars, nor more than five hundred (500) dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail of not more than thirty (30) days or both in the discretion of the court before which such conviction shall be had.

SEC. 14. Penalty Against Railroad Companies, etc.—Every railroad company and every officer, agent or employe of any railroad company who shall willfully neglect to make and furnish any report required in this act at the time herein required, or who shall willfully and unlawfully hinder, delay or obstruct said commissioners in the discharge of the duties hereby imposed upon them, shall forfeit and pay a sum of not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor more than five thousand (5,000) dollars for each offense, to be recovered in a civil action; and every railroad company and every officer, agent or employe of any such railroad company shall be liable to a like penalty for every period of ten (10) days it or he shall willfully neglect or refuse to make such report.

SEC. 15. Every railroad company or corporation organized under the laws of this state or doing business therein shall, upon application, permit any person, company or corporation, for an annual rental of one (1) dollar, to construct, maintain and operate any elevator or warehouse at any of its regular way-stations, to be used for the purpose of receiving, storing and handling grain, and such permission shall be granted without regard to the capacity of such elevator or warehouse and without discrimination as to persons and in the order of application; and such railroad company shall also provide reasonable side track facilities and running connections between its main track and elevators and warehouses upon or contiguous to its right of way at such station, and every such railroad corporation shall permit connections to be made and maintained in a reasonable manner with its side tracks to and from any warehouse or elevator, without reference to its size or capacity, where grain is or may be stored. Provided, that this shall not be construed so as to require any railroad company to construct or furnish any side track off from its own land. Provided further, however, that such elevators and warehouses shall not be constructed within one hundred (100) feet of any existing structure, and shall be at safe fire distance from the station buildings, and so as not to essentially conflict with the safe and convenient operation of the road. And provided further, that where stations are ten (10) miles or more apart the railroad company, when required to do so by the railroad and warehouse commissioners, shall construct and maintain a side track for the use of shippers between such stations.

SEC. 16. Every railroad company shall, upon reasonable demand, furnish transportation for all grain stored in such and all elevators and warehouses, or offered for shipment in bulk or otherwise, from any established side track at any regular station on its line, promptly and without any discrimination whatever, for or against any person, company or corporation, and such railway company shall keep at its several stations a complete register of all cars and to whom the same are so furnished, the date when furnished; and said register shall be for the inspection of all persons interested. In all controversies in regard to the furnishing of cars the burden of proof shall rest with the company or corporation so seeking to excuse itself for its refusal or neglect to furnish cars.

SEC. 17. Every such company or corporation shall furnish cars suitable for the shipments of grain in bulk and as hereinbefore provided, and shall, when loaded, whether from any elevator, warehouse or side track, seal the same and take and safely transport the same to the point indicated by the shipper, or in the direction thereof so far as its route may extend, and with reasonable dispatch and at reasonable rates.

SEC. 18. Any person desiring to ship grain from any of the established side tracks at any way station of any such company or corporation may do so by making application for cars for that purpose.

The station agent may collect of the person so applying for cars a sum not to exceed five (5) dollars for each car so ordered, to be paid to such company or corporation in case the cars are not loaded and ready for shipment within twenty-four (24) hours from the time so furnished. But when its cars shall remain unused upon its side track for over twenty-four (24) hours such company or corporation shall be at liberty to reclaim the same.

SEC. 19. Must Furnish Cars and Transport Passengers and Property.—Every railroad corporation in this State shall furnish, start and run cars for the transportation of such passengers and property, as shall within a reasonable time previous thereto be ready or be offered for transportation at the several stations on its railroad and at the junctions of other railroads and at such stopping places as may be established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freight; and shall take, receive, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such stations, junctions and places on and from all trains advertised to stop at the same for passengers and freight, respectively upon the due payment or tender of payment of tolls, freight or fare legally authorized therefor, if payment shall be demanded.

SEC. 20. No such railroad corporation shall be guilty of extortion nor of any unjust discrimination as to passenger or freight rates or the rates for the use and transportation of railroad cars upon its road, or upon any of the branches thereof, or upon any railroad connected therewith which it has the right, license or permission to operate, control or use within this State, or in furnishing facilities for the loading, unloading, handling or transporting of freights, or shall make any unjust discrimination whatever against any person or persons, town, village, city, station or location in this State, or shall charge, demand or receive from any person, company or corporation for the transportation of persons or property, or for any other service a greater sum than it shall at the same time charge, demand or receive from any person, company or corporation for a like service from the same place upon like conditions and under similar circumstances. Provided, That no railroad company shall charge or receive from any person a higher rate per ton per mile for one car load of freight than for a greater number of car loads per car under like conditions and circumstances.

SEC. 21. Whenever the facts, in any manner ascertained by said commissioners, shall, in their judgment, warrant such prosecution, it shall be the duty of said commissioners to immediately cause suit to be commenced and prosecuted against any railroad corporation which may violate any of the provisions of this act. All such prosecutions shall be in the name of the State of Minnesota, and may be instituted in any county in this state through or into which the line of the railroad corporation sued for violating this act may extend, and all fines recovered under the provisions of this act shall be immediately paid into the state treasury by the sheriff or other officer or persons collecting the same, and the same shall be passed by the treasurer to the general revenue fund.

SEC. 22. Attorney General and County Attorneys to Prosecute Suits.—It shall be the duty of the attorney general and the county attorney in any county, on the request of said commissioners, to institute and prosecute any and all suits and proceedings which they or either of them shall be directed by said commissioners to institute and prosecute for a violation of this act or any law of this State concerning railroad companies against such railroad companies or the officers, employes, owners, operators or agents of any such companies; and such railroad commissioners are hereby authorized when the facts of the case presented to them shall in their judgment warrant, to employ counsel to assist the attorney general or any county attorney in conducting such suit. No such suits commenced by said commissioners under the provisions of this act shall be dismissed unless the reason therefor shall be stated on the record, and all suits to recover penalties or forfeitures under this act shall have precedence of all other business except criminal business.

SEC. 23. Whenever in the judgment of the railroad commissioners it shall appear that any railroad corporation fails in any respect or particular to comply with the laws of the State, or whenever in their judgment any repairs are necessary upon its road, or any addition to or change of its station or station houses, or to make reasonable connections at crossings with other railroads, or any changes in its rates of fare for transporting freight or passengers, or any change in the mode of operating its road or conducting its business is reasonable and expedient in order to promote the security, convenience and accommodations of the public, said railroad commissioner shall inform such railroad company through any of its officers, manager or superintendent, by a notice thereof in writing, to be served by leaving a copy thereof with such officer, certified by the commissioner's clerk or secretary; and if such failure be persisted in, then the commissioners may in their discretion cause suits or proceedings to be instituted, as provided for in sections 21 and 22 of this act, and a report of all their proceedings under the provisions of this section shall be included in the annual report of the commissioners to the governor; and nothing in this act shall be construed as relieving any railroad company from their responsibility or liability for damage to person or property.

SEC. 24. In all cases under the provisions of this act the rules of evidence shall be the same as in other civil actions, except as herein otherwise provided, and the remedies hereby given shall be regarded as cumulative to the remedies now given by law against railroad corporations, and this act shall not be construed as repealing any statute giving such remedies, nor as limiting the right of any person to prosecute any suit for private damages, as now allowed by law.

SEC. 25. "Railroad Corporation" Defined—The term "railroad corporation," contained in this act, shall be deemed and taken to mean all corporations, companies or individuals now owning or operating, or which may hereafter own or operate any railroad in whole or in part in this state, and the provisions of this act shall apply to all persons, firms and companies, and to all associations or persons, whether incorporated or otherwise, that shall do business as common carriers upon any of the lines of railways in this state (street railways excepted), the same as to railroad corporations hereinbefore mentioned.

SEC. 26. Whenever any property is received by any railroad corporation to be transported from one place to another, within or without this state, it shall not be lawful for such corporation to limit its common law liability safely to deliver such property at the place to which the same is to be transported by any stipulation or limitation expressed in the receipt given for the safe delivery of such property. Provided, that the shipper and the railroad company may by contract agree on a value for such property, and limit the company's liability to such agreed value. Provided further, that the consignor and the railway company may by contract, signed by the shipper or his delivering agent, limit such liability, but it shall not be competent for the railroad company in any case to exempt itself from liability for its own negligence by any contract.

SEC. 27. Any railroad corporation offending against any of the provisions of this act shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined for each offense in the sum of not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor more than five thousand (5,000) dollars.

SEC. 28. So much of chapter one hundred and three (103) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five (1875), being a part of title eight (8), chapter six (6), of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), as creates the office of railroad commissioner, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed; but actions or proceedings, or rights of actions already accrued, growing out of or founded upon said acts, shall not be affected by said repeal, and the board of railroad commissioners created by this act shall possess all the powers and perform all the duties heretofore imposed upon such railroad commissioner, except so far as the same have been changed by the provisions of this act.

SEC. 29. Twenty thousand (20,000) dollars or so much thereof as is necessary is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State Treasury to carry out the provisions of this act.

SEC. 30. This act shall take effect and be in force thirty (30) days after its passage, except the provisions thereof in reference to the appointment of commissioners and defining their duties shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

The Warehouse and Grain Law.

AN ACT to regulate warehouses, inspection, weighing and handling of grain.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. All elevators or warehouses located at Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, in this state, in which grain is stored in bulk, and in which the grain of different owners is mixed together, or in which grain is stored in such a manner that the identity of the different lots or parcels cannot be accurately preserved, and doing business for a compensation, are hereby declared to be public warehouses.

SEC. 2. The proprietor, lessee or manager of any public warehouse, shall be required, before transacting any business, to procure from the railroad and warehouse commissioners, a license permitting such proprietor, lessee or manager to transact business as a public warehouseman under the laws of this state; which license shall be issued by the railroad and warehouse commissioners upon written application, which shall set forth the location and name of such warehouse, and the individual name of each person interested as owner or principal in the management of the same; or, if the warehouse be owned or managed by a corporation, the name of the president, secretary and treasurer of such corporation shall be stated, and the said license shall give authority to carry on and conduct the business of public warehouse, in accordance with the laws of the state, and shall be revocable by said commissioners upon a summary proceeding, before the commissioners upon complaint of any person, in writing, setting forth the particular violation of law, and upon satisfactory proof, to be taken in such manner as may be directed by the commissioners.

SEC. 3. The person receiving a license as herein provided, shall file with the commissioners granting the same a bond to the State of Minnesota, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said commissioners, in the penal sum of not less than ten thousand (10,000) dollars nor more than fifty thousand (50,000) dollars, in the discretion of the railroad and warehouse commissioners, for each warehouse licensed in the county, conditional for the faithful performance of his duty as a public warehouseman, and his full and unreserved compliance with all laws of this state in relation thereto. A fee for the issuance of each license of two (2) dollars shall be paid by the person applying for the same; provided that, when any person or corporation procures a license for more than one warehouse in any one county in the state, no more than one bond need be given.

SEC. 4. Any person who shall transact the business of a public warehouseman without first procuring a license as herein provided, or who shall continue to transact any such business after such license has been revoked (save only that he may be permitted to deliver property previously stored in such warehouse), shall on conviction by indictment be fined in a sum not less than one hundred (100) dollars, nor more than five hundred (500) dollars for each and every day such business is carried on, and the railroad and warehouse commissioners may refuse to renew any license or grant a new one to any of the persons whose license has been revoked within one (1) year from the time the same was revoked.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of every public warehouseman to receive for storage any grain dry and in a suitable condition for warehousing that may be tendered to him in the usual manner in which such warehouses are accustomed to receive the same in the ordinary and usual course of business, not making any discrimination between persons desiring to avail themselves of warehouse facilities, such grain to be in all cases inspected and graded by a duly authorized inspector, and to be stored with grain of a similar grade. And in no case shall grain of a different grade be mixed together while in store, but if the owner or consignee so requests, and the warehouseman consents thereto, his grain of the same grade may be kept in a bin by itself apart from that of other owners, which bin shall thereupon be marked and known as a special bin. If a warehouse receipt be issued for grain so kept separate, it shall state on its face that it is in a special bin, and shall state the number of such bin, and all grain delivered from such warehouse shall be inspected, on its delivery, by a duly-authorized inspector of grain. Nothing in this section shall be construed so as to require the receipt of any kind of grain into any warehouse in which there is not sufficient room to accommodate or to store it properly, or in cases where such warehouse is necessarily closed. The charges for inspection, upon receipt and delivery, shall be paid by the warehouseman, and may be added to the charge of the storage. The chief inspector may recover such charges of the warehouseman by an appropriate action in his name.

SEC. 6. Upon application of the owner or consignee of grain stored in a public warehouse, the same being accompanied with evidence that all transportion or other charges which may be a lien upon the grain, including charges for inspection and weighing, have been paid, the warehouseman shall issue to the person entitled to receive it a warehouse receipt therefor, subject to the order of the owner or consignee, which receipt shall bear date corresponding with the receipt of the grain in store, and shall state upon its face the quantity and inspected grade of the grain, and that the grain mentioned on it has been received into store to be stored with grain of the same grade by inspection; and that it is deliverable upon the return of the receipt properly endorsed by the person to whose order it was issued and the payment of proper charges for storage. All warehouse receipts for grain issued by the same warehouse shall be consecutively numbered, and no two receipts bearing the same number shall be issued from the same warehouse during any one year, except in case of a lost or destroyed receipt, in which case the new receipt shall bear the same date and number as the original, and shall be plainly marked on its face "duplicate."

If the grain was received from railroad cars the number of each car shall be stated upon the receipt, with the amount it contained; if from barges or other vessels, the name of such craft; if from team or by other means, the manner of its receipt shall be stated on its face.

SEC. 7. Upon the delivery of grain from store upon any receipt, such receipt shall be plainly marked across its face the word "Cancelled," with the name of the person canceling the same, and shall thereafter be void, and shall not again be put in circulation, nor shall grain be delivered twice upon the same receipt. No warehouse receipt shall be issued except upon actual delivery of grain into store in the warehouse from which it purports to be issued, and which is to be represented by the receipts. Nor shall any receipt be issued for a greater quantity of grain than was contained in the lot or parcel stated to have been received. Nor shall more than one receipt be issued for the same lot of grain, except in cases where receipt for a part of a lot is desired, and then the aggregate receipt for a particular lot shall cover that lot and no more. In cases where a part of the grain represented by the receipt is delivered out of store, and the remainder is left, a new receipt may be issued for such remainder, but the new receipt shall bear the same date as the original, and shall state on the face that it is balance of receipt of the original number, and the receipt upon which a part has been delivered shall be canceled in the same manner as if it had all been delivered. In case it be desirable to divide one receipt into two or more, or in case it be desirable to consolidate two or more receipts into one, and the warehouseman consents thereto, the original receipt shall be canceled the same as if the grain had been delivered from store, and the new receipts shall express on their face that they are a part of another receipt or a consolidation of other receipts, as the case may be; and the numbers of the original receipts shall also appear upon the new ones issued, as explanatory of the change; but no consolidation of receipts of dates differing more than ten (10) days shall be permitted, and all new receipts issued for old ones canceled, as herein provided, shall bear the same date as those originally issued, as near as may be.

SEC. 8. No warehouseman in the State shall insert in any receipt issued by him any language in anywise limiting or modifying his liabilities or responsibility as imposed by the laws of this State.

SEC. 9. On the return of any warehouse receipt by him properly endorsed, and the tender of all proper charges upon the property represented by it, such property shall be immediately deliverable to the holder of such receipt, and it shall not be subject to any further charges for storage after demand for such delivery shall have been made, and the property represented by such receipt shall be delivered within twenty-four (24) hours after such demand shall have been made, and the cars or vessels for the same shall have been furnished. The warehouseman in default shall be liable to the owner of such receipt for damages for such default in the sum of one (1) cent per bushel, and in addition thereto one (1) cent per bushel for each and every day of such neglect or refusal to deliver. Provided, No warehouseman shall be held to be in default in delivery if the property is delivered in the order demanded, and as rapidly as due diligence, care and prudence will justify.

SEC. 10. It shall be the duty of every owner, lessee, and manager of every public warehouse in this State to furnish in writing under oath at such times as the Board of Warehouse Commissioners shall require and prescribe, a statement concerning the condition and management of the business as such warehouseman.

SEC. 11. The warehouseman of every public warehouse located at Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, shall on or before Tuesday morning of each week cause to be made out, and shall keep posted up in the business office of his warehouse in a conspicuous place, a statement of the amount of each kind and grade of grain in store in his warehouse at the close of business on the previous Saturday, and shall also on each Tuesday morning render a similar statement, made under oath, before some officer authorized by law to administer oaths, by one of the principal owners or operators thereof or by the bookkeeper thereof, having personal knowledge of the facts, to the warehouse register appointed as hereinafter provided.

They shall also be required to furnish daily to the said registrar a correct statement of the amount of each kind and grade of grain received in store in such warehouse on the previous day, also the amount of each kind and grade of grain delivered or shipped by such warehouseman during the previous day, and what warehouse receipts have been canceled, upon which the grain has been delivered on such day, giving the number of each receipt, and amount, kind and grade of grain received and shipped upon each; also how much grain, if any, was so delivered or shipped, and the kind and grade of it, for which warehouse receipts had not been issued, and when and how such unreceipted grain was received by them, the aggregate of such reported cancellations and delivery of unreceipted grain corresponding in amount, kind and grade with the amount so reported delivered or shipped. They shall also at the same time report what receipts, if any, have been canceled and new ones issued in their stead, as herein provided for. And the warehouseman making such statements shall in addition furnish the said registrar any further information regarding receipts issued or canceled that may be necessary to enable him to keep a full and correct record of all receipts issued and canceled and of grain received and delivered.

SEC. 12. It is hereby made the duty of the secretary of the railroad and warehouse commissioners to act as registrar in accordance with the spirit and intent of section eleven (11) of this act.

SEC. 13. Every warehouseman of public warehouses located at Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth, shall be required during the first week in September, of each year to publish in one (1) or more of the newspapers (daily if there be such) published in the city or village in which such warehouse is situated, a table or schedule of rates for the storage of grain in his warehouse during the ensuing year, which rates shall not be increased during the year, and such published rates or any published reduction of them shall apply to all grain received into such warehouse from any person or source, and no discrimination as to rates shall be made directly or indirectly by such warehouseman for the storage of grain. The maximum charge for storage and handling of grain, including the cost of receiving and delivering, shall be, for the first fifteen (15) days or part thereof one and one half (1½) cent per bushel, and for each fifteen (15) days or part thereof, after the first fifteen (15) days one-half (½) cent per bushel, and for continuous storage between the fifteenth (15th) day of November and the fifteenth (15th) day of May following, not more than four (4) cents per bushel.

SEC. 14. It shall not be lawful for any public warehouseman to mix any grain of different grades together, or to select different qualities of the same grade for the purpose of storing or delivering the same; nor shall he attempt to deliver grain of one (1) grade for another, or in any way tamper with grain while in his possession or custody, with a view of securing any profit to himself or any other person. And in no case, even of grain stored in a separate bin, shall he be permitted to mix grain of different grades together while in store. He may, however, on request of the owner of any grain stored in a private bin, be permitted to dry, clean or otherwise improve the condition or value of any such lot of grain, but in such case it shall only be delivered as such seperate lot, or as the grade it was originally inspected when received by him, without reference to the grade it may be as improved by such process of drying or cleaning. Nothing in this section, however, shall prevent any warehouseman from removing grain while within his warehouse for its preservation or safe keeping.

No public warehouseman shall be held responsible for any loss or damage to property by fire while in his custody, provided reasonable care and vigilance be exercised to protect and preserve the same; nor shall he be held liable for damage to grain by heating, if it can be shown that he has exercised proper care in handling and storing the same, and that such heat or damage was the result of causes beyond his control; and in order that no injustice may result to the holder of grain in any public warehouse of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, it shall be deemed the duty of such warehouseman to dispose of, by delivery or shipping in the ordinary and legal manner of so delivering, that grain of any particular grade which was first received by them or which has been for the longest time in store in his warehouse, and unless public notice has been given that some portion of the grain in his warehouse is out of condition, or becoming so, such warehouseman shall deliver grain of quality equal to that received by him, on all receipts as presented. In case, however, any warehouseman of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth shall discover that any portion of the grain in his warehouse is out of condition, or becoming so, and it is not in his power to preserve the same, he shall immediately give public notice by advertising in a daily newspaper in the city in which such warehouse is situated, and by posting a notice in the most public place (for such purpose) in such city, of its actual condition as near as he can ascertain. It shall state, in such notice, the kind and grade of the grain, and the bins in which it is stored, and shall also state in such notice the receipts outstanding upon which such grain will be delivered, giving the numbers, amounts and dates of each, which receipts shall be those of the oldest dates then in circulation, or uncanceled, the grain represented by which has not previously been declared or receipted for as out of condition; or if the grain longest in store has not been receipted for, he shall so state, and shall give the name of the party for whom such grain was stored, the date it was received, and the amount of it, and the enumeration of receipts, and identification of grain, as so discredited, shall embrace, as near as may be, as great a quantity of grain as is contained in such bins. And such grain shall be delivered upon the return and cancellation of the receipts, and the unreceipted grain upon the request of the owner or person in charge thereof. Nothing herein contained shall be held to relieve the said warehouseman from exercising proper care and vigilance in preserving such grain after such publication of its condition, but such grain shall be kept separate and apart from all direct contact with other grain, and shall not be mixed with other grain while in store in such warehouse. Any warehouseman guilty of any act or neglect, the effect of which is to depreciate property stored in the warehouse under his control, shall be held responsible as at common law or upon the bond of such warehouseman, and in addition thereto, the license of such warehouseman, if his warehouse be in Minneapolis, St. Paul, or Duluth, shall be revoked. Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to permit any warehouseman to deliver any grain stored in a special bin, or by itself, as provided in this act, to any but the owner of the lot, whether the same be represented by a warehouse receipt or otherwise. In case the grain declared out of condition, as herein provided for, shall not be removed from store by the owner thereof within two (2) months from the date of the notice of its being out of condition, it shall be lawful for the warehouseman where the grain is stored to sell the same at public auction, for account of said owner, by giving ten (10) days' public notice by advertisement in a newspaper (daily if there be such) published in the city or town where such warehouse is located.

SEC. 15. All persons owning property, or who may be interested in the same, in any public warehouse, and all duly authorized inspectors of such property, shall at all times during ordinary business hours, be at full liberty to examine any and all property stored in any public warehouse in this state. And all proper facilities shall be extended to such person by the warehouseman, his agents, and servants, for an examination, and all parts of the public warehouses shall be free for the inspection and examination of any person interested in property stored therein, or of any authorized inspector of such property. And all scales used for the weighing of property in public warehouses shall be subject to examination and test, by any duly authorized inspector, weighmaster, or sealer of weights and measures, at any time when required by any person or persons, agent or agents, whose property has been, or is to be weighed, on such scales. The expense of such test by an inspector or sealer to be paid by the warehouse proprietor if the scales are found incorrect, but not otherwise.

Any warehouseman who may be guilty of continuing to use scales found to be in an imperfect or incorrect condition by such examination and test, until the same shall have been pronounced correct and properly sealed, shall be liable to be proceeded against as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 16. The railroad and warehouse commissioners shall appoint in all cities where there is state inspection of grain, a state weighmaster and such assistants as shall be necessary.

SEC. 17. Said state weighmaster and assistants shall, at the places aforesaid, supervise and have exclusive control of the weighing of grain and other property which may be subject to inspection; and the inspection of scales and the action and certificate of such weighmaster and assistants in the discharge of their aforesaid duties shall be conclusive upon all parties in interest.

SEC. 18. The board of railroad and warehouse commissioners shall fix the fees to be paid for the weighing of grain or other property, which fees shall be paid by the warehouse man, and may be added to the charges for storage.

SEC. 19. Said state weighmaster and assistants shall not be a member of any board of trade or association of like character. They shall give bonds in the sum of five thousand (5,000) dollars conditioned for the faithful discharge of their duties, and shall receive such compensation as the board of railroad and warehouse commissioners shall determine.

SEC. 20. The railroad and warehouse commissioners shall adopt such rules and regulations for the weighing of grain and other property as they shall deem proper.

SEC. 21. In case any person, warehouse or railroad corporation, or any of their agents or employes, shall refuse or prevent the aforesaid state weighmaster or either of his assistants from having access to their scales, in the regular performance of their duties in supervising the weighing of any grain or other property in accordance with the tenor and meaning of this act, they shall forfeit the sum of one hundred (100) dollars for each offense, to be recovered in an action of debt before any justice of the peace in the name of the State of Minnesota, such penalty or forfeiture to be paid to the state treasurer for the benefit of the grain inspection fund, and shall also be required to pay all costs of prosecution.

SEC. 22. It shall be the duty of the railroad and warehouse commissioners to appoint a suitable person as chief inspector of grain in the State of Minnesota, who shall hold his office for the term of two (2) years, unless sooner removed by said railroad and warehouse commissioners, who shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take an oath of office, as in case of other state officers, and shall execute a bond to the State of Minnesota, in the penal sum of ten thousand (10,000) dollars, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the railroad and warehouse commissioners, conditioned that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of the office of chief inspector according to law and the rules and regulations of said railroad and warehouse commissioners, and that he will pay all damages to any person or persons who may be injured by reason of his neglect or failure to comply with the law or the rules and regulations aforesaid.

SEC. 23. Said chief inspector shall appoint, subject to the approval of the railroad and warehouse commissioners, such number of deputy inspectors as may be required, one of which deputies in each of the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, and the village of Duluth shall be denominated and styled chief deputy.

SEC. 24. Such deputy inspectors shall take a like oath of office to that required from the chief inspector, and shall give a bond to the State of Minnesota in the penal sum of five thousand (5,000) dollars, with such good and sufficient sureties as may be approved by the railroad and warehouse commissioners, and conditioned in like manner as the railroad and warehouse commissioners require from the chief inspector.

SEC. 25. The bonds given by the chief inspector and the deputy inspectors shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state for the State of Minnesota, and suit may be brought upon said bond or bonds in any court having jurisdiction thereof, for the use of the person or the persons so injured.

SEC. 26. The chief inspector shall have power to remove any of the deputy inspectors at his pleasure, and said deputy inspectors shall act under the immediate control and supervision of said chief inspector.

SEC. 27. The chief inspector of grain and all deputy inspectors shall be governed in their inspection duties by such rules and regulations as may be provided by the railroad and warehouse commissioners; and the said commissioners shall have power to fix the rate of charges for inspection of grain, and the manner in which the same shall be collected, and which charges shall be regulated in such manner as will, in the judgment of said commissioners, produce sufficient revenue to meet the necessary expenses of the inspection service, and no more; said railroad and warehouse commissioners shall fix the amount of compensation to be paid to the chief inspector and deputy inspectors, and prescribe the time and manner of payment thereof; which compensation shall be paid out of the grain inspection fund, hereinafter created, on the order of the railroad and warehouse commissioners.

SEC. 28. No chief inspector or deputy inspector of grain shall, during his term of service, be interested, directly or indirectly, in the handling, storing, shipping, purchasing or selling of grain, nor shall he be in the employment of any person or corporation interested in the handling, storing, shipping, purchasing or selling of grain.

SEC. 29. Upon complaint in writing of any person to the railroad and warehouse commissioners, supported by reasonable and satisfactory proof, that the chief inspector or any of his deputies have violated any of the rules prescribed for his government, or has been guilty of any improper official act, or has been found inefficient or incompetent for the duties of his position, said person shall be by said railroad and warehouse commissioners immediately removed from office.

SEC. 30. Any person who shall assume to act as an inspector of grain, who has not first been so appointed and sworn, shall be held to be an impostor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty (50) dollars, nor more than one hundred (100) dollars, for each and every attempt to so inspect grain, to be recovered before a justice of the peace in an action of debt in the name of the State of Minnesota, for the use of any person choosing to sue.

SEC. 31. Any duly authorized inspector or deputy inspector of grain who shall be guilty of any neglect of duty, or who shall knowingly or carelessly inspect or grade any grain improperly, or who shall accept any money or other consideration, directly or indirectly, for any neglect of duty or any improper performance of duty as such inspector of grain, or any person who shall improperly influence any inspector of grain in the performance of his duty as such inspector, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor more than one thousand (1,000) dollars, or shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 32. The charge for the inspection and weighing of grain shall be and constitute a lien on grain so inspected, and whenever such grain is in transit the said charges shall be treated as advanced charges, to be paid by the common carrier in whose possession the same is at the time of inspection.

SEC. 33. The decision of the chief inspector or any of the deputy inspectors as to grade of grain shall be final and binding on all parties, unless an appeal is taken from such decision as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 34. In case any owner, consignee or shipper of grain, or any warehouse manager shall be aggrieved by the decision of the chief inspector or any of his deputies, an appeal may be had to the railroad and warehouse commissioners, and a decision of a majority of such commissioners shall be final, and the railroad and warehouse commissioners are authorized to make all necessary rules governing such appeals: provided, that the party appealing shall pay to the chief inspector a sum not to exceed five (5) dollars per case before said case be entertained, which sum shall be refunded in case such case is sustained.

SEC. 35. In case any owner or consignee of grain shall be dissatisfied with the inspection of any lot of grain, or shall from any cause desire to receive his property without its passing into store, he shall be at liberty to have the same withheld from going into any public warehouse (whether the property may have previously been consigned to such warehouse or not) by giving notice to the person or corporation in whose possession it may be at the time of giving such notice; and such grain shall be withheld from going into store, and delivered to him, subject only to such proper charges as may be a lien upon it prior to such notice—the grain, in railroad cars, to be removed therefrom by such owner or consignee within twenty-four (24) hours after such notice has been given to the railroad company having it in possession. Provided, such railroad company place the same in a proper and convenient place for unloading; and any person or corporation refusing to allow such owner or consignee to receive his grain shall be deemed guilty of conversion, and shall be liable to pay such owner or consignee double the value of the property so converted. Notice that such grain is not to be delivered into store may also be given to the proprietor or manager of any warehouse into which it would otherwise have been delivered; and if, after such notice, it be taken into store in such warehouse, the proprietor or manager of such warehouse shall be liable to the owner of such grain for double its market value.

SEC. 36. It shall be unlawful for any proprietor, lessee or manager of any public warehouse to enter into any contract, agreement, understanding or combination with any railroad company or other corporation, or with any individual or individuals, by which the property of any person is to be delivered to any public warehouse for storage or for any other purpose, contrary to the direction of the owner, his agent or consignee.

SEC. 37. The railroad and warehouse commissioners shall, before the fifteenth (15th) day of September in each year, establish a grade for all kinds of grain bought or handled by any public warehouse in the state, which shall be known as "Minnesota Grades;" and the grades so established shall be published in some daily newspaper, in each of the three places of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, each day, for the space of one week.

SEC. 38. It shall be the duty of the chief inspector of grain to furnish any elevator or warehouse in this state standard samples of grain, as established by the official inspection, when requested so to do by the proprietor, lessee or manager thereof, at the actual cost of such sample.

SEC. 39. It will be the duty of the railroad and warehouse commissioners to assume and exercise a constant supervision over the grain interests of this state; to supervise the handling, inspection, weighing and storage of grain; to establish all necessary rules and regulations for the weighing, grading, inspection and appeal on inspection of grain, and for the management of the public warehouses of the state, as far as such rules and regulations may be necessary to enforce the provisions of this act or any law of this state in regard to the same; to investigate all complaints of fraud or oppression in the grain trade, and to correct the same as far as it may be in their power.

SEC. 40. The aforesaid rules and regulations, not being contrary to the provisions of law, shall be published by said railroad and warehouse commissioners in a daily paper in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, and shall be in force and effect until they shall be changed or abrogated by said commissioners in a like public manner.

SEC. 41. All moneys collected by state grain inspectors, weighmasters, and other officers, as herein provided for, shall by them be paid into the state treasury.

SEC. 42. It shall be the duty of the treasurer of the State of Minnesota to receive all moneys aforesaid and all fines and penalties collected by virtue of the act, and to keep a separate account of the same, and to pay the same on the order of the railroad and warehouse commissioners, and not otherwise.

SEC. 43. The attorney general of the State of Minnesota shall be ex-officio attorney for the railroad and warehouse commissioners, and shall give them such counsel and advice as they may from time to time require, and he shall institute and prosecute any and all suits which said railroad and warehouse commissioners may deem expedient and proper to institute, and he shall render to such railroad and warehouse commissioners all counsel, advice and assistance necessary to carry out the provisions of this act according to the true intent and meaning thereof.

In all criminal prosecutions against a warehouseman for the violation of any of the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the county attorney of the county in which such prosecution is brought to prosecute the same to a final issue.

SEC. 44. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any person from selling grain by sample, regardless of grade.

SEC. 45. Chapters ninety-five (95) and ninety-nine (99) of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-nine (1879) are hereby repealed.

SEC. 46. All acts and parts of acts, general or special, conflicting with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 47. The sum of one thousand (1,000) dollars, or so much thereof as is necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 48. But the provisions of this act shall not change the liabilities of warehousemen on grain now in store, nor the inspection thereof; but said inspection shall be had under the same system under which it was received into store.

SEC. 49. This act shall take effect and be in force after the expiration of sixty (60) days after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

Towns and Villages.

AN ACT to provide for the incorporation of villages, and to define their duties and powers, and to repeal certain laws in relation thereto.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Every village which has heretofore been incorporated under a special act of the legislature therefor shall continue to exist under such act and amendments thereto; and the provisions of this chapter shall in no manner affect or apply to the same, unless adopted as provided in this section. The trustees thereof may, by resolution, submit at a special village election the question whether such village will so continue, or will become reincorporated under the General Statutes. They shall give notice thereof in the manner required in this chapter for notifying special elections. Ballots shall be written or printed "For reincorporation," and "Against reincorporation," and the election shall be conducted and result canvassed as provided for an annual village election by such village. If a majority vote for reincorporation, the trustees shall make a certificate setting forth the fact of such submission, and the vote thereon in detail, and the result thereof, and cause the same to be recorded in the office of the register of deeds; and thereupon the special act of incorporation shall be deemed surrendered, and such village become incorporated under the General Statutes, but shall until the next annual village election herein provided to be held in January following, be governed by the officers then in office.

SEC. 2. Every village which has been or shall be organized or incorporated under the General Statutes, shall be hereafter governed according to the provisions of this chapter, to the end that uniformity of village government and equal privileges to all may be secured.

SEC. 3. Any district, sections or parts of sections not in any incorporation village, and in the State of Minnesota, which has been platted into lots and blocks; also the lands adjacent thereto, when said plat has been duly and legally certified according to the laws of this State and filed in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which said lands, or the larger portion thereof, lie, said territory containing a resident population of not less than three hundred (300), may become incorporated as a village under this act in the following manner:

SEC. 4. Thirty or more of the electors then residents upon the lands so to be incorporated, may petition the county commissioners of the county in which the whole or the larger part of said lands are situated to appoint a time and place when and where the electors actually residing upon said lands may vote for or against such incorporation, and such petition shall set forth the boundaries of such territory with their courses and distances, the quantity of land therein embraced, the name of such proposed village, and the number of persons actually residing in said territory, which shall have been duly ascertained by said petitioners, or under their direction by a census taken of the resident population as it may be on some day not more than eight (8) weeks previous to the time when said petition is presented to said commissioners, and said petition shall be verified by at least three (3) of said petitioners to the effect that such census has been accurately taken and that all the facts in said petition contained are true.

SEC. 5. On delivery of said petition to the county commissioners, or to any one of them, it shall be their duty, within ten (10) days therefrom to post or cause to be posted in five of the most public places within said territory, three (3) copies of such petition together with notices attached thereto, stating the time and place within the limits of said proposed village, when and where the electors thereof will vote for or against such incorporation; which time shall be at least thirty (30) days from the posting of said notices; and said commissioners shall appoint by resolution three (3) inspectors residents of said proposed village, who shall preside and act as inspectors at such meetings, and all the laws of this State relating to the election of town officers shall apply to said meeting so far as the same are applicable and not inconsistent with this act.

SEC. 6. If there be a newspaper printed within said territory, the said petition, verification thereof, and the notice as hereinbefore provided, shall be printed in full therein for three successive weeks, previous to the day specified in said notice for voting upon the proposed incorporation.

SEC. 7. Every elector residing in such territory and qualified to vote for town officers in the town in which such lands or some part thereof lie, may vote at such meeting by a ballot having thereon the words "For incorporation, yes," or "For incorporation, no."

SEC. 8. Within three (3) days after such meeting the inspectors presiding thereat shall file with the said county commissioners, or some one of them, a certificate showing that the said meeting was held at the time and place specified in said notice, that they have canvassed the ballots cast thereat, giving the whole number of votes cast; the number of those having thereon the word "Yes," and the number having thereon the word "No," which said certificate shall be signed by said inspectors, and by them duly verified to the effect that the statements therein contained are true.

SEC. 9. Within five days after receiving said certificate as in the previous section provided, if the same shows a majority vote for incorporation, it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to file the same, together with the original petition and a true copy of the notice of election, as provided in section five (5) of this act in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county wherein lie the whole or the greater part of said lands, and thereupon the said territory mentioned in said petition shall be an incorporated village within the intent of this act from the date of filing said papers in the office of the said register of deeds; and shall, under the name set forth in said petition, be endowed with all the rights, powers and duties incident to municipal corporations at common law, with perpetual succession, and shall, by said corporate name, be capable of contracting and being contracted with, of suing and being sued, and of pleading and being impleaded in all courts of law and equity, and have a common seal, which may be altered at the pleasure of the village council, and shall have power to take, hold, purchase, lease and convey real estate or personal property, or mixed estate, as the purposes of the corporation may require either within or without the limits of said corporation.

SEC. 10. It shall be the duty of said register of deeds to record said papers in full, and the papers so filed, or the record thereof, shall be prima facie evidence in all courts of law and equity that said village is a duly incorporated village under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 11. Within three (3) days of the filing said papers with said register the said commissioners shall post notices in three (3) of the most public places in the village, giving at least ten (10) days' notice to the legal voters residing in said incorporated village, to meet to organize under the provisions of this act, and elect officers for the ensuing year. The action of a majority of said persons shall be considered the action of the whole number, and the electors present at the time and place designated in said call, may organize such meeting by chosing viva voce, two (2) judges of election and one (1) clerk, who, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to faithfully discharge the duties required of them, and said judges and clerk, being duly qualified, shall forthwith open the polls by proclamation, and conduct the election in the manner provided by the statutes of the state for the election of township officers, and the judges of election shall give to each person elected, a certificate of his election, and such officers shall, after having qualified according to law, forthwith enter upon the discharge of their duties.

SEC. 12. Additional and adjacent territory may be annexed to any village either originally incorporated or reincorporated under the provisions of this act, by a petition of at least five of the legal voters, residents of such adjacent lands, to the county commissioners in the same manner as hereinbefore, provided for the incorporation of villages, and it shall be the duty of such commissioners to proceed thereupon as in section five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8) and nine (9), of this act, to give notices of the time and place within the territory so to be annexed, when and where the electors thereof will vote for or against such annexation, and the ballots used shall have thereon the words "For Annexation" or "Against Annexation," and if the majority of the ballots cast shall be "For Annexation," then the said commissioners shall file with the register of deeds the original petition, notice of election and inspector's certificate, as provided in section nine (9) of this act.

SEC. 13. It shall be the further duty of said commissioners, on receiving said petition, to serve a copy thereof upon the president or recorder of the village to which such annexation is proposed, and it shall be the duty of the village council thereof, within ten (10) days, to call a special election in said village by posting in three (3) of the most public places therein notices thereof, which shall contain a description of said territory so to be annexed, and stating the time and place when and where the electors of said village will vote for or against such annexation; said election shall be held within thirty (30) days from the time said petition is served on the president or recorder, and ten (10) days notice thereof shall be given; the ballots used shall have upon them the words "for annexation" or "against annexation," and the same laws shall apply in said election as apply in the election of the officers of said village; and if the judges of election shall find on canvassing said ballots that a majority thereof are "for annexation," then they shall make a certificate containing a description of the territory as set forth in the notice of said election, stating the whole number of votes cast, the number "for annexation," and the number "against annexation," which said certificate shall be signed by said judges, and by them verified to the effect that the statements therein contained are true, and they shall cause the same to be filed with the said register of deeds within ten (10) days after such election.

SEC. 14. Upon filing with the said register the certificates hereinbefore mentioned showing a majority of votes cast, both in the territory to be annexed, as well as in the said village to be for annexation, then, and thereupon, the said territory shall be a part of said incorporated village; and all the necessary and proper expenses and charges incident to such annexation, and the records thereof, shall be paid by such village.

SEC. 15. It shall be the duty of the register with whom said papers are filed to record the same together, in full, and the original papers so filed, or the records thereof, shall be prima facie evidence in all courts of law and equity that the territory therein described is a part of said incorporated village.

SEC. 16. After the first election of officers, the village council, or any two (2) of them being present, shall act as judges of election; and the annual meeting shall be on the second (2d) Tuesday of March for the election of officers, and at such place as may be directed by the village council after giving ten (10) days' notice thereof either by posting written notices in three (3) of the most public places in the village, or by publishing such notice in a newspaper printed in such village. The polls shall be open at ten (10) o'clock a. m., and closed at four (4) o'clock in the afternoon of said day. At the close of the polls the votes shall be counted, and a true statement thereof proclaimed to the voters by some one of the judges of election, and the recorder shall make a true copy thereof in a book kept for such purposes, and within five (5) days notify, in writing, the persons so elected, of their election. All elections shall be by ballot and all votes for elective officers and all questions to be submitted to the people thereof at any election shall be upon one (1) ballot and be deposited in one (1) ballot box; a plurality of votes shall elect, and if two (2) or more persons receive an equal number of votes for the same office, the election shall be forthwith determined by lot in the presence of the judges of election in such manner as they shall direct; and every qualified elector, then actually resident in such village, may vote at any election: Provided that no candidate for office shall act as judge or clerk at such election.

SEC. 17. Special elections may be ordered by the council, but no special election shall be held unless ten (10) days' notice thereof is given, nor shall any subject or question be considered or acted upon, unless its objects are clearly set forth and stated in the notice for the call of such meeting. All village elections shall be, except as hereinbefore provided, conducted and the result canvassed and certified as in the case of town meetings; and, except as modified in this chapter, every statute relating to holding town meetings, canvassing and certifying the result thereof, and relating or applicable to the duties of judges of election and clerks, the challenging of votes and to voting thereat, and every statute prescribing and punishing offenses for illegal voting, bribery, fraud, corruption, official delinquency or other offense at or concerning elections, which is applicable to town meetings, is hereby extended and applied to village elections.

SEC. 18. The village council shall at their first meeting in the month of April in each year elect an assessor, who shall be styled the village assessor, who shall perform all the duties in relation to the assessing of property for the purpose of levying of all city, county and state taxes, and upon the completion of the assessment roll he shall return the same to the village council, who may alter, revise, and equalize the same as they may deem it just and proper. Said village assessor shall hold his office for one year, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 19. The inhabitants of said village having the qualification of electors of members of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, as hereinafter provided, may elect a president, three (3) trustees, a treasurer, and a recorder, who shall hold their respective offices for one (1) year, or until their successors are elected and qualified; also two (2) justices of the peace, and a constable, who shall hold their respective offices for two (2) years, or until their successors are elected and qualified; and before entering upon the duties of their respective offices, they shall each take an oath or affirmation to support the constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota and faithfully discharge the duties of his office. The treasurer shall give such bonds as the village council may require. The treasurer shall keep a true account of all moneys by him received by virtue of his office, and the manner in which the same are disbursed, in a book provided for that purpose, and shall exhibit such account, together with his vouchers, to the village council at its annual meeting, or at any time when called for by resolution of said council, for adjustment, and shall deliver all books and papers belonging to the office, and the balance of all moneys, as such treasurer, to his successor in office: Provided, further, that the treasurer shall not pay out any moneys in his hands except upon the written order of the president of the council, attested by the recorder. The treasurer shall, from time to time, draw from the county treasurer such moneys as may be due said corporation, for the use of said village, and, on receipt of said moneys, give proper vouchers therefor.

SEC. 20. The treasurer shall, one week previous to the annual election of village officers, make a detailed statement in writing of the moneys received by him, and the sources from which the same were received, and their respective amounts; and also the amounts paid out by him, and the purposes for which they were paid. Such statement shall be filed by him in his office, for the inspection of any taxpayer residing within the corporate limits of said village.

SEC. 21. The president, the three (3) trustees and the recorder shall be the village council of said village, any three (3) of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business, and shall have full power and authority to enact, adopt, modify, enforce, and, from time to time, amend or repeal all such ordinances, rules and by-laws as they shall deem expedient, for the following purposes, viz.:

First—To regulate the mode of, and establish rules for, their proceedings.

Second—To adopt a corporate seal, and alter the same at pleasure.

Third—To receive, purchase, and hold for the use of the village any estate, real and personal, and to sell and convey the same.

Fourth—To limit and define the duties and powers of officers and agents of the village, fix their compensation, and fill vacancies when no other provision is made by law; to call special elections, and to designate trustees to act as judges of elections.

Fifth—To procure the books and records required herein to be kept by village officers, and such other furniture, property, stationery and printing as shall be necessary for village purposes.

Sixth—To provide for the prosecution or defense of all actions or proceedings in which the village is interested, and employ counsel therefor.

Seventh—To appoint a village attorney, a poundmaster, one or more sextons or keepers of cemeteries, one or more fire wardens, and one or more street commissioners, whenever they deem necessary. Every street commissioner, when, by resolution, the village board shall require it, shall take and file his oath of office, and execute a bond conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties and the proper application and payment of all moneys that may come into his hands by virtue of his office.

Eighth—To control and protect the public buildings, property and records, and insure the same.

Ninth—To renumber the lots and blocks of the village, or any part thereof, and to cause a revised and consolidated plat of the same to be recorded in the office of the register of deeds.

Tenth—To establish a fire department, to appoint the officers and members thereof, and prescribe and regulate their duties; to provide protection from fire by the purchase of fire engines and all the necessary apparatus for the extinguishment of fires, and by the erection of construction of pumps, water mains, reservoirs, or other water works; to erect engine houses; to compel the inhabitants of the village to aid in the extinguishment of fires, and to pull down and raze such buildings in the vicinity of fire as shall be directed by them, or any two (2) of them, who may be at the fire, for the purpose of preventing its communication to other buildings; to establish fire limits or the limits within which wooden or other combustible buildings shall not be erected; to require the owners or occupants of buildings to provide and keep suitable ladders and fire buckets, which shall be appurtenances to the realty and exempt from seizure and forced sale; and after reasonable notice to such owner, or occupant, and refusal or neglect by him, to procure and deliver the same to him, and in default of payment therefor, to levy the cost thereof as a special tax upon such real estate, to be assessed and collected as other taxes in such village; to regulate the storage of gunpowder and other dangerous materials; to require the construction of safe places for the deposit of ashes; to regulate the manner of putting up stove pipes, and the construction and cleaning of chimneys; to prevent bonfires and the use of fireworks and firearms in the village, or any part thereof; to authorize fire wardens at all reasonable times to enter into and examine all dwelling houses, lots, yards, inclosures and buildings of every description, in order to discover whether any of them are in dangerous condition, and to cause such as may be dangerous to be put in safe condition; and generally to establish such necessary measures for the prevention or extinguishment of fires as may be necessary and proper.

Eleventh—To lay out, open, change, widen or extend streets, lanes, alleys, sewers, parks, squares or other public grounds, and to grade, pave, improve, repair or discontinue the same, or any part thereof, or to establish and open drains, canals or sewers, or alter, widen or straighten water courses; to make, alter, widen or otherwise improve, keep in repairs, vacate or discontinue sidewalks and crosswalks; to prevent the incumbering of streets, sidewalks and alleys with carriages, carts, wagons, sleighs, sleds, buggies, railway cars, engines, boxes, lumber, firewood or other substances or materials; to prevent horseracing or immoderate riding or driving in the streets of the village; to prevent the riding or driving of animals or the driving of vehicles of any kind on the sidewalks of the village, or the doing of damage in any way to such sidewalks; and to require the owners or occupants of buildings to remove snow, dirt or rubbish from the sidewalks adjacent thereto; and in default thereof, to authorize the removal of the same at the expense of such owner or occupant.

Twelfth—To restrain the running at large of cattle, horses, mules, sheep, swine, poultry and other animals, and to authorize the distraining, impounding and sale of the same; to establish pounds and regulate and protect the same; to require the owners or drivers of horses, oxen, or other animals attached to vehicles or otherwise, to fasten the same while in the streets or alleys of such village; to prohibit the hitching of horses, teams or animals to any fence, tree or pump, and to prevent injury to the same; to regulate and control the running of engines and cars through the village, and rate of speed of the same; to prevent the running at large of dogs, and authorize the destruction of the same in a summary manner when at large contrary to the ordinances; and license public porters, solicitors or runners, cartmen, hackmen, omnibus drivers, and guides, and to establish rules and regulations in regard to their conduct as such, and to prevent any unnecessary noise or disturbance, during the arrival or departure of persons in public conveyances.

Thirteenth—To establish and regulate markets, and restrain sales in the streets.

Fourteenth—To purchase and hold cemetery grounds within or without the village limits; inclose, lay out and ornament the same, and to sell and convey lots therein by deed; to establish public parks and walks, inclose, improve and ornament the same, and prevent the incumbering or obstruction thereof; and provide for and regulate the setting out of shade and ornamental trees in the streets, and in and around the cemeteries and public parks and walks of the village, and for the protection thereof.

Fifteenth—To prevent, or license and regulate the exhibition of caravans, circuses, theatrical performances, or shows of any kind; to prevent, or license and regulate, the keeping of billiard tables, pigeon-hole tables and bowling saloons; to suppress and restrain, or license and regulate monte banks and auctioneers; and in all such cases they may fix the price of such license and prescribe the term of its continuance, and may revoke the same at pleasure; but the term of no such license shall extend beyond the annual election of officers next after the granting thereof.

Sixteenth—To provide for the planting and protection of shade trees and monuments in said village.

Seventeenth—To restrain and prohibit gift enterprises, all description of gaming and all playing of cards, dice, and other games of chance, for the purpose of gaming; and to license, or restrain and prohibit any person from selling, bartering, disposing of or dealing in spirituous, malt, fermented, vinous or mixed intoxicating liquors of any kind, and to punish any violation of law or of the village ordinances relating thereto, and to revoke, for any cause, any license for the sale of intoxicating liquors granted by the village council, whenever the council, after a hearing of the case, shall deem proper.

Eighteenth—To choose a village marshal and to remove him at will; to prescribe his duties and to fix his compensation for services.

Nineteenth—To establish and maintain public libraries and reading rooms, purchase books, papers and magazines therefor, and make all needful rules and regulations for the safe keeping and handling of the same.

Twentieth—To appoint a street commissioner, regular and special policemen, and a chief of police, and to fix their compensation and prescribe their duties.

Twenty-first—To remove any officer appointed or elected by such council whenever, in the judgment of such council, the public welfare will be thereby promoted.

Twenty-second—To purchase, build or lease and maintain, and regulate a watchhouse, or place for the confinement of offenders against the ordinances and by-laws, and for temporary detention of suspected persons.

Twenty-third—To appoint a board of health, which shall have all the powers of such boards under the general laws of the State; to provide hospitals and regulate the burial of the dead, and return of bills of mortality; to declare what are nuisances and to prevent or abate the same; to require the owner or occupant of any grocery, cellar, tallow chandler's shop, factory, tannery, stable, barn, privy, sewer or other unwholesome or nauseous house, building or place to remove or abate the same, or to cleanse it as often as may be deemed necessary for the public health; to direct the location and management of slaughter houses, and to prevent the erection, use or occupation of the same, except as authorized by them; to prevent persons from bringing, depositing or leaving within the village any putrid carcass or other unwholesome substance; to require the owners or occupants of lands to remove dead animals, stagnant water, or other unwholesome substance from their premises and to provide for the cleaning and removal of obstructions from any river, stream, slough or watercourse within the limits of the village, and to prevent the obstruction or retarding of the flow of waters therein, or the putting of anything into the same which may be prejudicial to the health of the village.

Twenty-fourth—To make and regulate the use of public wells, cisterns and reservoirs.

Twenty-fifth—To erect lamp posts and lamps, and provide for lighting any portion of the village or streets thereof, by gas or otherwise.

Twenty-sixth—To establish harbor and dock limits, and to regulate the location and construction and use of all piers, docks, wharves and boat-houses on any navigable waters, and fix rates of wharfage.

Twenty-seventh—To levy and provide for the collection of taxes, including poll tax and assessments, audit claims and demands against the village, and direct orders to issue therefor in the manner prescribed in this chapter; to refund any tax or special assessment paid, or any part thereof, when satisfied that the same was unjust or illegal; to authorize bonds of the village to be issued in the cases provided by law, and generally to manage the financial concerns of the village; and they shall cause to be prepared and read, at each annual village election, a true, detailed and itemized statement by them of the finances of the village, showing the amount in the treasury at the commencement of the year, when and from what sources all moneys paid into the treasury during the preceding year were derived, and the whole amount thereof, and when, to whom and for what purpose all money paid from the treasury during the same period was paid and the whole amount thereof, with the balance then in treasury; which statement shall be recorded in the minute book and filed and preserved in the clerk's office.

Twenty-eighth—To ordain and establish all such ordinances and by-laws for the government and good order of the village, the suppression of vice and immorality, the prevention of crime, the protection of public and private property, the benefit of trade and commerce, and the promotion of health, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States or of this State, as they shall deem expedient; and to determine and establish by ordinance the mode of procedure, and what it shall be sufficient to allege and prove, in order to make out a prima facie case of violation of any ordinance.

Twenty-ninth—To prescribe penalties for the violation of any ordinance or by-law, to be not less than one (1) dollar nor more than one hundred dollars ($100), in any case, besides the cost of suit in all cases; and in default of payment provide for committing the person convicted to the watchhouse or place of confinement in the village, or to the county jail, until payment be made, but not to exceed ninety (90) days in all; and to modify, amend or repeal any ordinances, resolution, by-law or other former determination of the board.

SEC. 22. No account or demand against such village shall be paid until it has been audited and allowed, and an order drawn on the treasurer therefor. Every such account shall be made out in items and verified by affidavit indorsed or annexed that the same is just and correct and no part thereof paid. After auditing, the board shall cause to be indorsed by the clerk, over his hand, on each account, the words "allowed" or "disallowed," as the fact is, adding the amount allowed, if any, and specifying the items or parts of items disallowed, if disallowed in part only. The minutes of the proceedings of the board shall show the amount. Every such account or demand allowed, in whole or in part, shall, with the affidavit thereto, be filed by the clerk, and those of each year consecutively numbered and have indorsed the number of the order on the treasurer issued in payment; and the clerk shall take a receipt thereon for such order. No village, or any officer thereof, shall have power to issue at any time any negotiable order or borrow money, except in the manner and for the purposes expressly declared by statute.

SEC. 23. Whenever the village council shall intend to lay out and open, change, widen or extend any street, lane, alley, public grounds, square or other places, or to construct and open, alter, enlarge or extend drains, canals or sewers, or alter, widen or straighten watercourses therein, or take ground for the use or improvement of a harbor, and it shall be necessary to take private property, therefor, they shall cause an accurate survey and plat thereof to be made and filed with the recorder, and they may purchase or take by donation such grounds as shall be needed, by agreement with the owners, and take from them conveyances thereof to the village for such use or in fee; but otherwise they shall by resolution declare their purpose to take the same and therein describe by metes and bounds the location of the proposed improvements, and the land proposed to be taken therefor, defining separately each parcel and the amount thereof owned by each distinct owner, mentioning the names of owners or occupants so far as known, and therein fix a day, hour and place, when and where they will apply to a justice of the peace, resident in such village, for a jury to condemn and appraise the same. They shall thereupon cause to be made by the recorder, a notice of the adoption of such resolution, embracing a copy thereof and notifying all parties interested, that the council will, at the time and place named, apply to the justice named for the appointment of a jury to condemn and appraise such land. A copy of such notice shall be served by any constable on the owner of each such parcel of land to be taken, if known and resident within the county, such service to be made in the manner prescribed for serving a summons in justice court, and the return of the officer shall be conclusive evidence of the fact stated therein. If the notice cannot be so given as to all the parcels, then the same shall be also published once in each week for three (3) successive weeks, in a newspaper published in such village or county; and the affidavit of the printer or foreman of such newspaper shall be conclusive evidence of such publication. Such notice shall be served, and such publication made for three (3) weeks complete at least one (1) week before the time fixed therein for such application. If any person so served with notice [shall] be a minor, or of unsound mind, the justice, before proceeding, shall, on the day fixed for hearing such application, appoint for him a guardian for the purpose of such proceeding, who shall give security to the satisfaction of the magistrate, and act for such ward.

SEC. 24. At the time and place fixed for such hearing, the application, accompanied by a copy of such resolution and such survey, and by proof of service of the notice, as provided in the last section, shall be filed with the justice, who shall thereupon make a list of twenty-four (24) competent jurors not interested, but residents of the village shall not be disqualified. He shall hear and decide any challenges for cause or favor, made to any one, and, if sustained, shall replace his name with an unobjectionable juror, until the list shall be perfected. Thereupon, under direction of such magistrate, each party—the village council by its representative on one side, and owners of land or their agents present, or if none be present, or they disagree, a disinterested person appointed by the justice, on the other—shall challenge six names, one at a time alternately, the village council beginning. To the twelve jurors remaining, such justice shall issue a venire, requiring them at an hour on a day named, not more than ten (10) nor less than three (3) days thereafter, to appear before him to be sworn and serve as a jury to view lands and appraise damages, and at the same time shall publicly adjourn the proceedings to the time and place so named; such venire shall be served by any constable, at least one (1) day before such appointed time, by reading the same to each such juror, or by leaving a copy at his usual place of abode in the presence of a member of his family. The jurors summoned shall appear at the time and place named; and if any be excused by the justice, or fail to attend, he shall direct other disinterested persons to be forthwith summoned in their stead until twelve be obtained. The magistrate shall then administer to them an oath that they shall well and truly inquire into and determine the necessity for taking the lands mentioned in the resolution, and if found necessary, the damages occasioned thereby, and faithfully discharge their duties as jurors according to law.

SEC. 25. Under the direction of such magistrate the jury shall view the lands to be taken, and shall then sit before him to hear such competent evidence as shall be produced by any party; and for such purposes such magistrate shall possess the same powers as a court in session with a jury, and if there be necessity, may adjourn the sitting from day to day. The jury shall render a separate verdict in writing, signed by them, in which they shall find whether it be necessary to take such lands or any part thereof for such purposes, describing such as they find necessary to be taken; and if any be found necessary to be taken, then a verdict or appraisement of damages, specifying therein the damages of each owner, and separately the value of the land taken for each, and the damage otherwise sustained by each by reason of the taking thereof, in estimating which they shall deduct therefrom any special benefit, if any, to be enjoyed by each from such improvements; and a majority of such jury may render such verdict or appraisement of damages and shall sign the same. Any technical error in such verdict may be immediately corrected, with the assent of the jury, and they shall be thereupon discharged and their verdict filed by the magistrate. In case the jury shall fail to find a verdict, another jury shall be selected, summoned, sworn and proceed in the same manner.

SEC. 26. Within ten (10) days after verdict any land owner whose land has been found necessary to be taken may appeal from the award of damages to him, in such verdict, to the district court, and the village may likewise appeal from the award of damages to any owner by filing with such magistrate a notice of appeal, specifying whether the appeal is from the whole award to him or a part, and if a part, what part, and therewith an undertaking with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the magistrate, to pay all costs that may be awarded against such appellant on the appeal, and paying the magistrate for his return thereof. Any party not so appealing shall be forever concluded by such verdict or appraisement. Upon an appeal being taken, the magistrate shall transmit to the clerk of the district court, within ten (10) days, the notice of appeal and undertaking, and thereto annexed a copy of all papers and proceedings before him, with his certificate thereof. He shall, after the time for appealing is expired, file with the village recorder, annexed together, all the original papers, including the verdict, with a certificate by him thereof, and that no appeal has been taken from such verdict, except as the facts are, which he shall briefly specify; and the clerk shall record all such proceedings. Upon filing such transcript in the district court, the appeal shall be considered an action pending in such court, and be so entered, the land owner as plaintiff, the village as defendant, and be subject to trial and appeal to the supreme court. The case shall be tried by a jury, unless waived, and costs shall be awarded against the appellant, if more favorable verdict be not obtained; otherwise, against the respondent. Upon entry of judgment, the clerk of the district court shall transmit a certified copy thereof to the village recorder.

SEC. 27. If the verdict of the jury first called find it necessary to take such land, or any part thereof, the village board may, upon return thereof to the recorder, enact an ordinance in accordance therewith, for laying out, changing, widening or extending and opening any such street, lane, alley, public ground, square or other public place, or constructing and opening, altering, enlarging or extending any such drains, canals or sewers, or altering, widening or straightening any such watercourse, or for the use or improvement of a harbor, but shall not enter upon any such land therefor until the owner be paid in full, or the damages be set apart for him in the hands of the treasurer, and an order therefor lawfully executed to him be deposited with the clerk to permanently remain subject to his order. At any time before causing any such land to be actually taken or put to public use, and before the rendition of a judgment in the district court for damages, the village board may discontinue all proceedings theretofore taken; and the village shall in such event be liable for the costs only. All the costs of every such proceeding shall be paid by the village, except when it recover costs in the district court.

SEC. 28. For the purpose of payment of the expenses, including all damages and costs incurred for the taking of private property, and of making any improvement mentioned in the last preceding section, the village council may, by resolution, levy and assess the whole, or any part not less than half (½) of such expenses as a tax upon such property as they shall determine is specially benefited thereby, making therein a list thereof, in which shall be described every lot or parcel of land so assessed, with the name of the owner thereof, if known, and the amount levied thereon set opposite. Such resolution, signed by the president and recorder, shall be published once in each week for two (2) weeks in a newspaper printed regularly in such village, or if there be no such newspaper, three (3) copies thereof shall be posted by the recorder in three (3) of the most public places in such village, and a notice therewith that at a certain time therein stated the said council will meet at their usual place of meeting and hear all objections which may be made to such assessment, or to any part thereof. At the time so fixed, the said council shall meet and hear all such objections, and for that purpose may adjourn from day to day not more than three (3) days, and may by resolution modify such assessment in whole or in part. At any time before the first (1st) day of September thereafter any party liable may pay any such tax to the village treasurer. On such first (1st) day of September, if any such tax remains unpaid, the recorder shall certify a copy of such resolution to the county auditor, showing what taxes thereby levied remain unpaid; and the county auditor shall put the same upon the tax roll, in addition to and as a part of all other village taxes therein levied on such land, to be collected therewith.

SEC. 29. Upon the petition in writing of all the owners of lots or land on any street or alley in such village, and not otherwise, the board of trustees may discontinue such street or alley or any part thereof. At least one (1) week before acting on such petition, the council shall cause a written or printed notice to be posted in three (3) public places in such village, stating when the petition will be acted on, and what street or part thereof is proposed to be vacated.

SEC. 30. The village council may cause any street, or any part of any street, not less than sixteen (16) rods in length, to be graded, paved, macadamized or otherwise improved, or any sidewalk or gutter to be built, upon a petition therefore in writing, signed by at least a majority of all the owners of real estate bounding both sides, and of the owners of at least one-half (½) the frontage of such street or part of street to be improved; or order any sidewalk or gutter on one (1) side of a street to be built, on the petition of a majority of such owners, and of the owners of at least one-half (½) the frontage on such side; and may order any sidewalk or gutter previously built to be put in repairs, when necessary, without petition. For the purpose of so improving any street or building, or repairing any sidewalk or gutter, the village council may levy and cause to be collected upon the lots, tracts or parcels of ground on such street or part of street improved, or on the side thereof, where only such sidewalk or gutter is to be built, and upon the owners thereof, a tax sufficient to pay the expense of constructing such improvement as ordered opposite such property to the center of the street, or such proportion thereof, not less than one-half (½), as they shall deem justly assessable to such property, if they shall think the whole ought not to be so assessed, in which case the remainder shall be paid from the village treasury. Every such tax for repair shall be for the entire cost of repairs in front of the property so assessed. If any tax levied under this section shall prove insufficient to pay the cost or proportion thereof assessed to such property, the village council may levy an additional tax thereon to make good such deficiency.

SEC. 31. Whenever the council shall levy any such tax as specified in the preceding section, they shall make out and deliver to a street commissioner of such village a list of the persons and a description of the property taxed, together with a warrant for the collection and expenditure of said tax, and thereupon the street commissioner shall notify the persons named in such tax list by publishing a notice two (2) weeks in some newspaper published in said village, if there be one, or by posting up notices in three (3) or more public places in such village, and shall specify in such notice a time or times, not less than twenty (20) days nor more than forty (40) days from the date thereof, when the persons charged with taxes in such list may pay their taxes in labor, materials or money; and the persons charged with such tax may, at such time and place as may be required by the said street commissioner, pay their taxes in labor or materials; provided, the labor and materials offered in payment of such taxes are such as may be required by the said street commissioner, and done and furnished to his satisfaction. The street commissioner shall be provided with a book or memorandum by the village recorder, in which he shall keep an accurate account of all moneys coming into his hands by virtue of his office; the amount received and disbursed by him; the name of every person from whom money or labor is due; the amount paid in money or labor, and a correct account of all expenditures by him made as a street commissioner. The book containing the account so kept shall, at all times when required, be furnished for the inspection of the village council and ten (10) days before the expiration of his term of office shall be handed to the village recorder, to be filed in his office for the inspection of the taxpayers in his district.

SEC. 32. At the expiration of forty (40) days from the date of said notice, given by the said street commissioner, he shall make out and deliver to the recorder of such village a certified list of the lots, pieces, or tracts of lands in said village upon which any such tax remains unpaid, with the amount of such delinquent tax upon each of said lots or parcels of land; and at any time before the first (1st) day of September any party liable may pay any such tax to the village recorder, who shall thereupon pay the same over to the village treasurer, taking his receipt therefor. And such recorder on the first (1st) day of September, or within five (5) days thereafter, if any such tax remains unpaid, shall certify a copy of such delinquent taxes to the county auditor of his county, and the said auditor shall, upon the receipt of said statement and list, enter and carry out the same upon the proper tax lists, and they shall be collected the same as other taxes are collected, and when collected, pay over the same to the village treasurer. Every county treasurer who shall collect or receive any moneys on account of such delinquent taxes shall pay the same to the treasurer of the proper village and take duplicate receipts therefor, and file one of said receipts with the recorder of said village.

SEC. 33. No part of the streets or highways of any village shall be in any road district established by the town board, nor be under the control of town officers. Nor shall the town be liable for any damages occasioned by any insufficiency or want of repair thereof; and all bridges in such village shall be built, maintained and repaired by the village in which the same are situated. No overseers of highways shall be elected in or for any such village, but the poll tax shall be collected as hereinafter provided, and shall be expended, and the streets, highways, and public places governed by the village council and officers of their appointment.

SEC. 34. The village council shall, on or before the fifteenth (15th) day of August in each year by resolution, to be entered of record, determine the amount of corporation taxes to be levied and assessed on the taxable property in such village for the current year, which shall not exceed in any one (1) year two (2) per centum of the assessed valuation of such property. Before levying any tax for any specific purpose the board may, in their discretion, submit the question of levying the same to the village electors, at any special or general election, and in such manner as they may prescribe; when so submitted they shall be bound by the veto [vote] thereon. On or before the first (1st) day of September, in each year, the village recorder shall deliver to the county auditor a copy of all such resolutions, certified under his hand and the corporate seal of such village, and such auditor shall enter such taxes upon the tax books in the same manner as he is required to do in levying town taxes.

SEC. 35. All prosecutions for violating any of the ordinances, rules, or by-laws enacted under the provisions of this act, shall be brought in the corporate name of said village, and shall be commenced by warrant, upon complaint being made as required by law in criminal cases before justices of the peace; and the same proceedings shall be had therein as are required to be had by the laws of this State in criminal or civil actions before justices of the peace: Provided, that no warrant shall be necessary in any case of the arrest of the person or persons while in the act of violating any law of the State of Minnesota, or ordinance of said village; but in such cases a complaint shall be made, which the justice shall reduce to writing, and the party be required to plead thereto, as to warrant in other cases; and the person or persons so arrested may be proceeded against in the same manner as if the arrest had been made by warrant. All processes issued by the justice of the peace of said village shall be directed to any constable of said village or county. It shall be a sufficient pleading of the by-laws or ordinances of said village to refer to the chapter and section thereof, which are hereby declared to have all the force and effect of general laws within the jurisdiction of said village, and it shall not be necessary to read or give them in evidence upon the trial of any proceeding or action, criminal or civil.

SEC. 36. Judgment shall be given, if for the plaintiff, for the amount of fine, penalty or forfeiture fixed by such ordinance, resolution or by-law, or such part thereof, if a discretion be given, as the court shall deem proportionate to the offense, together with the costs of suit; and shall in all cases further adjudge and order that in default of payment thereof the defendant be committed to the common jail of such county for such time not exceeding ninety (90) days as the court shall think fit. If such payment be not forthwith made the justice shall make out a commitment stating the amount of judgment and costs and the time for which committed, and in the usual form of commitments by justices of the peace. Every person so committed shall be received and committed to prison by the keeper of the county jail, and kept at the expense of the county until the expiration of the time; but he shall be released by order of the justice on payment to him of such fine and costs or by due course of law.

SEC. 37. Appeal may be taken to the district court in the same manner as from judgments in civil actions by justices of the peace, except that if taken by the defendant, he shall, as a part thereof, execute a bond to the village with surety to be approved by such justice, conditioned, that if judgment be affirmed in whole or in part, he will pay the same and all costs and damages awarded against him on such appeal; and in case such judgment shall be affirmed in whole or in part, execution may issue against both defendant and his surety. Upon perfection of such appeal, the defendant shall be discharged from custody.

SEC. 38. All fines, forfeitures and penalties recovered for the violation of any ordinance, rule regulation, resolution or by-law of any such village, and all moneys paid for licenses and permits shall be paid into the village treasury for the use of such village. The justices of the peace shall report and pay into the treasury, quarterly, all moneys collected by them belonging to such village; which reports shall be verified by affidavit, and filed in the office of the treasurer; and such justice shall be entitled to duplicate receipts for such moneys, one of which such justice shall take and file with the village recorder.

SEC. 39. Whenever a final judgment shall be obtained against any village, the judgment creditor, his assignee or attorney, may file with the village recorder, a certified transcript of such judgment, or of the docket thereof, together with his affidavit, showing the amount due thereon and all payments, if any, and that the judgment has not been appealed from or removed to another court, or if so appealed or removed, has been affirmed; and thereupon the village council shall assess the amount thereof, with interest from date of its rendition to the time when the same shall be paid, as near as may be, upon the taxable property of such village, and the village recorder shall return and certify the amount of such tax to the county auditor to be collected the same as other taxes levied upon said village.

SEC. 40. All fines and penalties imposed under or by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall belong to the village, and shall constitute a fund to pay the expenses incurred under the provisions of its charter.

SEC. 41. The justice of the peace and constables of said village shall have and may exercise, in addition to the powers and authority herein specifically granted to such officers, all the powers, authority and jurisdiction in any case possessed by justices of the peace or a constable elected in the county or counties in which such village is situated. The village justices and constables shall make the same oath of office, and execute, before entering upon the discharge of their duties as such officers, the same bond as township justices of the peace and constables, and file their bonds with the same officers as justices of the peace and constables elected elsewhere in the State are now or hereafter may be required to do, and shall receive the same fees for their services as justices of the peace and constables elected elsewhere in the State, are allowed under the General Statutes of the State, now or hereafter in force; and in all cases where a village is situated in more than one county, the justice of the peace and constable of such village shall have and possess all the powers and jurisdiction conferred by this act in each of the counties in which such village is situated, and shall file their bonds in each of said counties.

SEC. 42. Should a vacancy occur in any of the offices other than justices of the peace provided for in this act, the village council, or the remaining members thereof, may fill the same by appointment.

SEC. 43. The village so organized shall constitute one (1) road district, and the street commissioner or roadmaster thereof be appointed by the village council; and all taxes raised within the limits of said village for road purposes shall be expended under the direction of the village council.

SEC. 44. The village council shall constitute a board of auditors for the purpose of auditing all accounts payable by said village. Said board shall draw up a report, stating in detail the items of accounts audited and allowed, the nature of each account, and the name of the person to whom the account was allowed, and also including a detailed statement of the financial concerns. Such report shall be filed with the recorder, and a copy thereof shall be posted at the time and place of holding the annual election, or published in a newspaper of general circulation in said village, two (2) weeks before such election.

SEC. 45. The legal voters of said village may, at any annual or special meeting, authorize the village to levy a tax for any legitimate object, but in no case shall the tax so levied exceed the sum of five (5) mills upon the dollar valuation in any one year; and all taxes levied, except for improvements of streets, sidewalks and crossings, shall be levied and collected as prescribed by the statutes of this State for the levying and collection of township taxes: Provided, that the village council shall, on or before the first (1st) day of September, in each year make and certify to the county auditor of the county in which any of the lands or village lots within the corporate limits of such village are situate, a statement of all taxes levied and assessed by them, and shall also, at the same time, make and certify to the auditor of the proper county a list of the names of the owners of personal property subject to taxation within such village; and the county auditor shall, upon the receipt of said statement and list, enter and carry out the said tax or taxes against the property within such village, and the same shall be collected as other taxes are collected, and, when collected, paid over to the village treasurer.

SEC. 46. The village recorder may administer oaths and take acknowledgments, and he shall give a bond in form similar to that required of town clerks. It shall be his duty: First, to perform the duties of clerk of election, and keep a record of all proceedings at the annual and special elections of the village; to give notice of such elections as required by law, and to notify persons elected or appointed to office thereof.

Second—To transmit to the clerk of the district court, within ten (10) days after election and qualification, a certified statement of the name and term for which elected of all the officers elected at such election; and in case of the appointment or election of any justice of the peace, constable, treasurer or recorder, of said village to fill a vacancy, a like notice shall be so filed within ten (10) days [days] after such election or appointment.

Third—To attend all meetings of the village board; to record and sign the proceedings thereof, and all ordinances, rules, by-laws, resolutions and regulations adopted, and to countersign and keep a record of all licenses, commissions and permits granted or authorized by them, and for such purposes to keep the following books:

A minute book in which shall be recorded in chronological order all the papers mentioned in section twenty-two (22) of this act; full minutes of all elections, general or special, and the statements of the judges thereof; full minutes of all proceedings of the village council; the titles of all ordinances, rules, regulations and by-laws, with a reference to the book and page where the same may be found.

An ordinance book, in which shall be recorded at length, in chronological order, all ordinances, rules, regulations and by-laws.

A finance book, in which shall be kept a full and complete record of the finances of the village, showing the receipts, the date, amount and source thereof, and the disbursements, with the date, amount and object for which paid out, and to enter in it such other matters as the council shall prescribe; and to keep such other books as the council direct.

Fourth—To countersign and cause to be published or posted every ordinance, by-law or resolution, as required by law, and to have proper proof thereof made and filed.

Fifth—To be the custodian of the corporate seal, and to file, as required by law, and to safely keep all records, books, papers or property belonging to, filed, or deposited in his office, and deliver the same to his successor when qualified; to permit any person, with proper care, to examine and copy any of the same, and to make and certify a copy of any thereof, when required, on payment of the same fees allowed town clerks therefor.

Sixth—To draw and countersign all orders on the village treasury ordered by the council, and none other.

Seventh—To file, when presented, all chattel mortgages and affidavits relating thereto, and to enter at the time of filing, in a book properly ruled and kept therefor, the names of all the parties, arranging mortgages alphabetically; the date of each mortgage, and the date of filing the same and of each affidavit relating to it; for which he shall receive the same fees allowed town clerks.

Eighth—To perform all other duties required by law or by any ordinance or other directions of the village council.

SEC. 47. The constable shall give a bond similar to that required of constables elected by towns, and shall be deemed included and governed in every respect by the law prescribed to them. It shall be his duty to obey all lawful written orders of the village council; to arrest with or without process, and with reasonable diligence to take before the village justice every person found in such village in a state of intoxication, or engaged in any disturbance of the peace, or violating any law of the state or ordinance of such village. He may command all persons present in such case to assist him therein, and if any person being so commanded shall refuse or neglect to render such assistance, he shall forfeit not exceeding ten (10) dollars. He shall be entitled to the same fees allowed to constables for similar services; for other services rendered the village, such compensation as the council may fix.

SEC. 48. The legal voters of any incorporated village shall have the power and authority to vote upon and determine for themselves the question whether license for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, shall be granted by the council of said village or not; and it shall be the duty of the recorder of any such village, upon receiving a petition for that purpose of ten (10) or more legal voters of his village at any time not less than fifteen (15) days before any annual election of such village, to give at least ten (10) days' notice that the question of granting license for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage in said village, will be submitted to the legal voters thereof at the next ensuing annual election, which question shall be determined by ballots containing the words, "In favor of license," or "Against license," as the case may be; provided, however, that the neglect of the recorder to give the required notice shall not invalidate the vote and determination made under the provisions of this act, if the petition named shall have been duly filed. The votes upon said question shall be taken, canvassed, returned and announced in the same manner as is prescribed by law for taking, canvassing, returning and announcing the votes for the election of village officers, which determination so made shall continue until the same shall be reversed at a subsequent annual election in the same manner; and, if such returns show that a majority of the votes cast at such election on said question shall be "against license," no license for the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be granted by the authorities of such village, except for medicinal or mechanical purposes, but if such returns show that a majority of the votes cast at such election, on said question, shall be in "favor of license," then the village council may grant license to any suitable person of lawful age for the sale of intoxicating liquors. The village council shall have the exclusive right to license persons vending, dealing in or disposing of intoxicating liquors within the limits of such village, and persons so licensed shall not be required to obtain a license from the board of county commissioners, nor shall said commissioners have authority to license any person to vend, deal in or dispose of, or sell intoxicating liquors in any such village. And no person shall be licensed by such village council to deal in or sell intoxicating liquors as a beverage in such village, unless he shall fully comply with all the requirements, and be subject to all the penalties as provided in the General Statutes of the State, relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors, except as herein provided; and, provided that no license shall be granted by such village for a less sum than one hundred (100) dollars, nor for a greater sum than five hundred (500) dollars, at the discretion of the village council, and that previous to granting any such license, a bond shall be executed with the same conditions, and with the same penal sum as required by the General Statutes of this State; and the moneys received for such license shall be paid to the village treasurer for the use of such village; and all licenses granted by any such village council shall expire May 1 after the annual election in and for said village.

SEC. 49. All ordinances, rules and by-laws shall be enacted by a majority of all the members of the village council, and shall be signed by the president, attested by the recorder, and published once in a newspaper published in the county in which said village shall be situated; and if there be no newspaper published in said county, then by posting them conspicuously in three (3) of the most public places in said village for ten (10) days, and shall be recorded in a book kept for that purpose. Proof of such publication by the affidavit of the printer or foreman in the office of such newspaper or of such posting, by the certificate of the village recorder shall be attached to and filed with such ordinance or by-laws, and noted on the record thereof, and shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated. All ordinances shall be suitably entitled, and in this style: "The village council of —— do ordain as follows:" All authorized ordinances and by-laws shall have the force of law, and remain in force until repealed.

SEC. 50. Said village council shall have power and authority to declare and impose fines, penalties and punishments, and to enforce the same against any person or persons who may violate any of the provisions of any ordinance, rule or by-law enacted by them; and all such ordinances, rules and by-laws are hereby declared to have the force of law: Provided, they are not repugnant to the constitution and laws of the United States and the State of Minnesota.

SEC. 51. No member of the village council shall become a party to, or interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract made by the village council of which he may be a member; and every contract or payment voted for, or made contrary to the provisions hereof, is void; and any violation of the provisions of this section, hereafter committed, shall be a malfeasance in office, which shall subject the officer so offending to removal from office. All contracts for village improvements, except expenditures of road and poll tax, shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, after public notice of time and place of receiving bids therefor.

SEC. 52. The president and each trustee shall be officers of the peace, and may suppress in a summary manner any riotous or disorderly conduct in the streets or public places of the village, and may command assistance of all persons under such penalty as may be prescribed by the by-laws and ordinances.

SEC. 53. Every village officer shall deliver to his successor, when qualified, all the books, records, papers, property and money in his hands as such officer; and if a vacancy happen before such successor is appointed or elected and qualified, then to the village clerk, who shall demand and receive all such property, and deliver the same to the person who shall be selected to fill such vacancy, when qualified.

SEC. 54. The trustees of each village shall constitute a council, designated the village council of (name of village), in which shall be vested all the powers of the village not specifically given some other officer. Three (3) trustees shall constitute a quorum, but a less number may adjourn from time to time. The president shall preside at all meetings when present; in his absence the council may select another trustee to preside. Regular meetings shall be held at such times as may be prescribed by their by-laws. Special meetings may be called by any two (2) trustees in writing, filed with the recorder, who shall thereupon seasonably notify all the trustees of the time and place thereof, in the manner directed by the by-laws. All meetings shall be open to the public. The council shall keep a record of all its proceedings, shall have power to preserve order at its meetings, compel [the] attendance of trustees, and punish non-attendance; and it shall be judge of the election and qualification of its members; the president and trustees shall be entitled to receive, as compensation the sum of one (1) dollar each per day for time actually employed as such officers, not to exceed ten (10) dollars each in any one year.

SEC. 55. Every contract, conveyance, commission, license, or other written instrument, shall be executed on the part of the village by the president and clerk, sealed with the corporate seal, and in pursuance only, of authority therefor from the village council.

SEC. 56. Whenever an application, in writing, signed by one-third (⅓) as many electors of any such village as voted for village officers at the last preceding election therefor, shall be presented to the village council, praying for a dissolution of the village corporation, such council shall submit to the electors of such village, at an annual election, or special election called by them therefor, the question whether or not such village corporation shall be dissolved; the form of the ballot shall be "For dissolution," or "Against dissolution;" said ballots shall be deposited in a separate box, and such election shall be conducted, the votes thereat canvassed and statement thereof made, filed and recorded as in other cases.

SEC. 57. If a majority of the ballots cast at such election, on such proposition, shall be for dissolution, such village shall, at the expiration of six (6) months from the date of such election, cease to be an incorporated village. Within six (6) months the village council shall dispose of the village property, and settle, audit and allow all just claims against the village. They shall settle with the village treasurer and other officers of the village, and shall cause the assets of the village to be used in paying the debts thereof. If anything remain after paying the village debts, they may designate the manner in which the same shall be used. If they have not sufficiency of funds to pay the debts of the village, they may levy a tax to cover such deficiency, which shall be collected as other taxes and shall be paid out by the town treasurer in payment of the outstanding village orders or bonds.

SEC. 58. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 59. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 10, 1885.

AN ACT to appropriate for the support of the fire department of each city, town, village or other municipal corporation in the State of Minnesota, a part of the tax paid by fire insurance companies upon premiums received by them in any such city, town or village.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two hundred and ninety-eight (298), of title six (6), of chapter thirty-four (34), of General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be, and the same hereby is, amended by adding thereto the following subdivision, to wit:

"Seventh, the amount of cash premiums received in such city, town and village in the State of Minnesota, having an organized fire department therein, provided that this subdivision shall apply only to fire insurance companies."

SEC. 2. The recorder or clerk of any city, town, village or other municipal corporation having an organized fire department shall, on or before the thirty-first (31) day of October in each year, make and file with the insurance commissioner his certificate, stating the existence of such department, the number of steam, hand or other engines, hook and ladder trucks and hose carts in actual use, the number of organized companies and the system of water supply in use by such department, together with such other facts as such insurance commissioner may require.

SEC. 3. The insurance commissioner shall embody in his annual statement blank a blank form with the names of the towns thereon entitled to benefits under this act, and require the companies to report at the time of making their annual statements the amount of premiums received by them during the year ending December thirty-first (31) in each and all of the several towns named in said blank, and thereafter, and before the first day of July, the insurance commissioner shall certify to the state auditor the names of the towns, cities, villages or other municipal corporations which have organized fire departments as reported to him under section two (2) of this act, and the amount of premiums received by said companies in each of said towns, cities, villages or other municipal corporations of tax paid in such year by said companies upon such premiums.

SEC. 4. The auditor at the end of the fiscal year [shall] issue and deliver to the treasurer of any such city, town, village or other municipal corporation his warrant upon the treasurer of state for an amount equal to one-half of the said tax so paid by such fire insurance companies upon the premiums by them received in any such city, town, village or other municipal corporation as specified in the said certificate of said insurance commissioner.

SEC. 5. The treasurer of state is hereby authorized and directed to, and upon the presentation to him of the said warrant of said auditor he shall pay to the treasurer of any such city, town, village or other municipal corporation out of the general revenue fund of this State, the amount in such warrant specified.

SEC. 6. The moneys so paid to any city, town or village under the provisions of this act shall be by it set aside as a special fund, and may be approriated and disbursed in the same manner that other funds belonging to such city, town or village are appropriated and disbursed, but only for the following purposes, viz: First, for the support and relief of firemen injured or disabled while in the discharge of their duties; second, for the equipment and maintenance of such fire departments.

SEC. 7. No city, town or village shall be entitled to any of the benefits arising from this act unless its fire department shall have been in actual existence for one year prior to the filing of the certificate required by section two (2) of this act, and unless such department shall have had for such period, as a part of its equipment, at least one steam, hand, or other fire engine, or hook and ladder truck, or hose cart.

SEC. 8. If the certificate required by section two (2) of this act is not filed with the insurance commissioner on or before October thirty-first (31), in any year, the city, town or village so failing to file such certificate shall be deemed to have waived and relinquished its right for such year to the appropriation herein provided for.

SEC. 9. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize the incorporation of certain villages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all villages heretofore incorporated under and by virtue of any act of the legislature, either general or special, that may have become reincorporated or attempted to become incorporated under or may have adopted or attempted to adopt any of the provisions of chapter seventy-three (73) of the General Laws of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same hereby are duly incorporated and all such villages shall possess and are hereby endowed with all the franchises, rights, powers and privileges and subject to all the duties in said act enumerated and contemplated. And all officers of any such village, and all persons acting as officers of any such village, shall continue to occupy their respective offices, in like manner as if said act had been constitutional and valid. And all votes taken by the electors of such villages and all official acts of all persons heretofore acting as officers of any such village are hereby legalized and declared to be of the same force and validity as if said act had been constitutional and valid.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections forty-six (46) and fifty-four (54), of chapter seventy-three (73), General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), incorporating villages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section forty-six (46), of chapter seventy-three (73), General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), be, and the same is hereby amended, by adding the following subdivision after subdivision seven (7), as the section now is:

Subdivision Eight—To keep a correct record of all the births and deaths occurring in the village, as is now required by city and town clerks, with same law penalty and fees.

SEC. 2. That section fifty-four (54), of said chapter seventy-three (73,) General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), be, and the same is hereby amended, by striking out the words three (3) trustees in the fourth (4th) line of said section fifty-four (54), and inserting in lieu thereof the words any three (3) of the village council.

SEC. 3. That subdivision eight (8), of section forty-six (46), of said chapter, be, and hereby is changed to and to be described as subdivision nine (9), of said section forty-six (46), of chapter seventy-three (73), General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883).

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT empowering township and other officers to condemn certain lands, to improve and repair the public highways and streets under their jurisdiction.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever it shall be deemed necessary for the public good by any board of county commissioners of any county, any board of supervisors of any township, any board of trustees of any incorporated village or the board of aldermen of any city for the purpose of making, repairing or improving any of the public highways or streets within their respective jurisdictions, they may for the uses and purposes herein specified enter upon and condemn any plat of ground not exceeding five acres, together with the right of way to the same anywhere within two miles of the public highway or street where the same is to be used as hereinafter provided.

Provided, That the same shall be largely composed of gravel or stone and suitable for road purposes.

SEC. 2. Whenever any board of county commissioners of any county, the board of supervisors of any township, the board of tustees of any incorporated village or the aldermen of any city wish to procure land as provided in Section 1 of this act and cannot agree with the owner or owners of land proposed to be taken for such purposes, application may be made to the district court of the judicial district and in the county wherein said land is situated, giving twenty days' notice thereof to the owner or owners by leaving a copy with him or them or at their usual place of abode, and said court shall appoint a committee of three disinterested persons, who, having been sworn faithfully and impartially to discharge the duties of their appointment, and after giving at least five days notice to the owner or owners of the time and place of their meeting, shall proceed to examine the premises and determine on the public necessity of procuring said land and upon the quantity, boundaries, damage and value of the land which they should deem proper to be taken for the purposes specified; and make report thereof in writing to said district court by filing the same in the office of the clerk thereof, and shall give the same notice of the filing of their report or of such meeting; and the parties interested may appear before said court and be heard thereon at such time as the court may appoint; and if said committee shall report that the demand for public good requires the acquisition of said territory, and the court shall accept the same the decision of such court thereon shall have the effect of a judgment, and execution may be issued thereon accordingly in favor of the person or persons to whom damages may be assessed for the amount thereof. But said land shall not be taken or used, or any stone or gravel or other material taken therefrom; until the damages so assessed shall be paid to said owner or owners or deposited with the treasurer of the county for his or their use, which shall be done within thirty days after such report shall be accepted; and the title of such land shall therefore be vested in the proper officers of such county, town, village, or city making claim to it under the provisions of this act, and a copy of the report of said committee and of the judgment of the court thereon, certified by the clerk thereof, together with a certificate of the payment of the damages determined by the committee, sworn to by the chairman of the board of officers acquiring title thereto shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the county where said premises are located; and such record shall be notice to all parties of the title acquired therein; and may be used in evidence of such title in all the courts in this state:

Provided, That the right of way shall be of sufficient width to allow teams to pass and shall be by most practicable way to nearest highway.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT relative to plats of towns and cities in this State, and of additions to and subdivisions thereof, and the correction and legalization of the same.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. In all cases where the plats, or what purport to be the plats, of any towns or cities in this State, or of additions to or subdivisions thereof, or copies thereof, fail to identify and show upon their face the tract of land covered, or intended to be covered thereby, the surveyor or surveyors, or any one of them who laid out or surveyed the same, and, in case said surveyor or surveyors shall have died, or his or their place of abode be unknown, or he or they be unable or refuse to make and execute such certificate, one or more of the proprietors who has signed said plat may, within one year from the passage of this act, make and file in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which said lands are situate, a certificate duly executed and acknowledged by him or them as deeds are to be executed and acknowledged, wherein shall be set forth a full description of the real estate covered and intended to be covered by said plat. If such certificate be made by a proprietor or by proprietors of such town or city, addition or subdivision, the same shall also be sworn to by him or them as being correct in all respects; and such certificate, so executed and acknowledged and verified, shall be recorded at length by said register of deeds in a book to be by him provided for that purpose, entitled "Book of Plat Certificates," and said register of deeds shall thereupon note upon such plat and the copy thereof filed in his office as aforesaid, and referred to in such certificate and affidavit, the fact of filing such certificate and the book and page where recorded, and he shall receive from the person offering said certificate for record the fees provided by law for similar services.

And said certificate, or the record thereof, shall together with such plat be prima facie evidence in all cases as to the real estate covered by said plat, to the same extent as if the description thereof was originally endorsed on said plat.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 27, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section thirty-three (33) of chapter thirteen (13) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to roads, cartways and bridges.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section thirty-three (33) of said chapter thirteen (13) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 33. The supervisors of the town may alter or discontinue any road or lay out any new road upon the petition of not less than six (6) legal voters who own real estate or who occupy real estate under the homestead or pre-emption laws of the United States or under contract from the State of Minnesota within one mile of the road to be altered, discontinued or laid out, or upon the petition of eight (8) legal voters who are freeholders and residents of the town within two (2) miles of the road to be laid out, altered or discontinued. Said petition shall set forth in writing a description of the road and what part thereof is to be altered or discontinued, and if for a new road the names of the owners of the land, if known, over which the road is to pass, the point at which it is to commence, its general course and the point where it is to terminate."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the collection of judgments against municipal corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever a judgment shall be entered in any action against a city or other municipal corporation in any court of record having jurisdiction of such action, and there shall be no officers in such city or municipal corporation authorized by law to levy taxes for the payment of such judgment, it shall be the duty of the governor to appoint suitable persons, residents of the State, who will accept the offices of such city.

SEC. 2. Such officers so appointed shall be known and designated by the same names respectively and have the same powers, rights and privileges, respectively, as officers duly elected pursuant to the provisions of the charter of such city or municipal corporation; and it shall be the duty of such officers to assess, levy, and collect such taxes as may be necessary to pay such judgment and such counsel fees for the defense of the action in which judgment is rendered as may be allowed by the court in which said judgment is rendered.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 28, 1885.

AN ACT to punish trespasses on pine lands.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whoever commits any willful trespass upon lands now or hereafter held in trust or otherwise by the State in manner as follows, by cutting pine timber for lumber purposes, or evidently to endanger and expose pine timber to fire or decay, or whoever countenances such trespass, or whoever willfully burns over or causes to be burned over, any of said lands shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison not more than one year or by fine not exceeding one thousand (1,000) dollars, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to incorporate and legalize the organization of certain villages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all villages heretofore declared or adjudged to be incorporated villages, by any order or judgment of any of the district courts of this state, under chapter seventy-three (73), of the General Laws of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation of villages, and to define their duties and powers, and to repeal certain laws in relation thereto," be, and they are hereby duly incorporated as villages, with the same territorial boundaries specified in the order or judgment of the district court declaring any such village to be an incorporated village under the provisions of said act: and all such villages shall possess, and are hereby endowed with all the franchises, rights, powers and privileges, and subject to the duties in said act enumerated and contemplated; and all officers of any such village, and all persons acting as officers of any such village shall continue to occupy their respective offices and in like manner as if the said act had been constitutional and valid, and as if the court declaring or adjudging any such village or villages incorporated had been legally empowered so to do; and all official acts of all persons heretofore acting as officers of any such village are hereby legalized and declared to be of the same force and validity as if such village or villages had been duly organized and incorporated from the date of the entry of the judgments or filing of the order of the district court, purporting to incorporate any such village under said act.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Jan. 29, 1885.

AN ACT authorizing the corporate authorities of villages, towns or cities, organized under the General Laws of the State, to establish voting precincts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the corporate authorities of any village, town or city, which has been or which may hereafter be organized under the General Laws of the State of Minnesota, shall establish as many voting precincts or voting places as may be convenient for the inhabitants of said village, town or city.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section forty-nine (49), chapter seventy-three (73), of the General Laws of A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-three (1883) relating to incorporation of villages; ordinances, etc.—how enacted and published.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section forty-nine (49) of chapter seventy-three (73) of the General Laws of A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 49. All ordinances, rules and by-laws shall be enacted by a majority of all the members of the village council, and shall be signed by the president, attested by the recorder, and published once in a newspaper published in said village; and if there be no newspaper published in said village, then by posting in three of the most public places in said village. Proof of such publication by the affidavit of the printer or foreman in the office of such newspaper, or of such posting by the certificate of the village recorder, shall be attached to and filed with such ordinance or by-laws, and noted on the record thereof, and shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated. All ordinances shall be suitably entitled, and in this style: The village council of ——— do ordain as follows: All ordinances and by-laws shall have the force of law, and remain in force until repealed."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

Corporations.

AN ACT to provide for incorporation and regulation of co-operative or assessment life, endowment and casualty insurance associations and societies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Any number of persons, not less than nine, residents of the State of Minnesota, hereafter desiring to form an organization, fraternal or non-fraternal, for the purpose of transacting the business of life, casualty or endowment, or both life, casualty and endowment [insurance] upon the co-operative or assessment plan, may associate themselves together, and effect such organization as hereinafter prescribed, and not otherwise.

SEC. 2. Such persons shall file in the office of the insurance commissioner a declaration, signed by each of the corporators, and duly acknowledged before an officer authorized under the laws of this state to take the acknowledgment of deeds, and shall therein express their intention to form an organization for the transaction of life, endowment or casualty insurance, upon the co-operative or assessment plan, which said declaration shall also, contain the proposed name of the association, corporation or society (which shall not be the same as, nor too closely resemble the name of, any other corporation organized under the laws of this state), the place where the principal office for the transaction of its business shall be located, which shall be at some place within this state; the mode and manner in which the corporate powers granted by this act are to be exercised; the mode and manner of electing the trustees, directors or representatives, or other persons, by whatsoever name or title designated, who are to have and exercise the general control and management of its affairs and all its funds; which election shall be in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of such corporation, association or society, or in case of fraternal societies, by representatives chosen by subordinate lodges, councils or bodies, who shall be members of such society, and a majority of them citizens of this state.

SEC. 3. Upon the filing in the office of said commissioner of the declaration required by the next preceding section, together with the sworn statement by two of said corporators, that at least fifty persons, eligible under the proposed laws of such corporation, association or society to membership therein have made application in writing for such membership, the same shall be referred to and examined by the attorney general of the State, and if by him found conformable to the requirements of this act, and not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States and of this State, he shall certify accordingly, and return the same with his certificate of such conformity to said commissioner; and thereupon said commissioner shall cause the said declaration, with the certificate of the attorney general, to be recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall deliver to such corporation, association or society a certified copy of the papers so filed and recorded in his office, and of the certificate of the said attorney general, together with the license of said commissioner to such corporation, association or society to engage in the business proposed in said declaration; and upon such certified copy and license being filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the association is to be located, the said corporators, and those that may thereafter become associated with them or their successors, shall be constituted a body politic and corporate, and lawfully entitled to commence its business; and any copy of any paper referred to in this act, certified by said commissioner, may be used in evidence with the same effect as the original.

SEC. 4. The corporators, trustees, directors, members or representatives, as the case may be, of any association, corporation or society organized under this act, shall have power to make such by-laws, not inconsistent with the constitution or laws of this State or of the United States, as may be deemed necessary for the government of its officers and the conduct of its affairs, and the same, when necessary, to alter and amend; and they and their successors may have a common seal, and may change and alter the same at their pleasure.

SEC. 5. Any corporation, association or society which issues any certificate, policy or other evidence of interest to, or makes any promise or agreement with its members, whereby upon the decease of a member, or the maturity of a certificate, any money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid is to be paid, provided or rendered by such corporation, association, or society, to the legal representatives of such member, or to the beneficiary designated by such member, which money, benefit, charity, relief or aid are derived from voluntary donations or from admission fees, dues and assessments, or any of them, collected or to be collected from the members thereof or members of a class therein, and interest and accretions thereon or rebates from amounts payable to beneficiaries or heirs; and wherein the paying, providing or rendering of such money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid is conditioned upon the same being realized in the manner aforesaid; and wherein the money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid so realized is applied to the uses and purposes of such corporation, association or society, and the expenses of the management and prosecution of its business, shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of life or endowment insurance upon the co-operative or assessment plan; and shall be subject only to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6. Any corporation, association or society which issues any certificate, policy or other evidence of interest to, or makes any promise or agreement with, its members whereby upon the sickness or other physical disability of a member, or by reason of having attained a certain age, any money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid is to be paid, provided or rendered by such corporation, association or society, to such member or beneficiary designated by him, which money, benefit, charity, relief or aid are derived from voluntary donations or from admission fees, dues and assessments, or any of them, collected or to be collected from the members thereof, or members of a class therein, and interest and accretions thereon; and wherein the paying, rendering or providing of such money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid is conditioned upon the same being realized in the manner aforesaid, and wherein the money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid is applied to the uses and purposes of such corporation, association or society, and the expenses of the management and prosecution of its business, shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of casualty insurance upon the co-operative or assessment plan, and shall be subject only to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 7. Every such corporation, association or society doing a life, endowment or casualty insurance business upon the co-operative or assessment plan, as herein defined, shall, on or before the first day of February of each year, make and file with the commissioner of insurance of this state a report of its affairs and its operations during the year ending on the thirty-first day of December immediately preceding. Such reports shall be upon blank forms provided by such commissioner, and shall be verified under oath by the duly authorized officers of such corporations, associations or societies, and shall be published, or the substance thereof, in his annual report by such commissioner, and shall contain answers to the following questions:

First—Number of certificates or policies issued during the year or members admitted.

Second — Amount of indemnity effected thereby.

Third—Number of death losses.

Fourth—Number of death losses paid.

Fifth—The amount received from each assessment in each class for the year.

Sixth — Total amount paid policy holders, beneficiaries, legal representatives or heirs.

Seventh—Number of death claims for which assessments have been made.

Eighth—Number of death claims compromised or resisted, and brief statement of reason.

Ninth—Does society charge annual dues?

Tenth—How much on each one thousand dollars annually, or per capita, as the case may be?

Eleventh—Total amount received and the disposition thereof.

Twelfth—Does the society use moneys received for payment of death claims to pay expenses of society, in whole or in part; and, if so, state the amount so used?

Thirteenth—State total amount of salaries paid to officers.

Fourteenth — State total amount (including commissions) paid to agents.

Fifteenth—State total amount paid medical examiners and employes.

Sixteenth—State total expenses of management of business.

Seventeenth — Does society guarantee fixed amount to be paid regardless of amount from assessments, dues, admission fees and donations?

Eighteenth—If so, state amount guaranteed and the security for such guarantee.

Nineteenth—Has the society a reserve fund?

Twentieth—If so, how is it created, and for what purpose, the amount thereof, and how invested?

Twenty-first—Has the society more than one class or division?

Twenty-second—If so, how many, and the amount of indemnity in each.

Twenty-third—Number of members in each class or division.

Twenty-fourth—If organized under the laws of this State, state under what law, and at what time.

Twenty-fifth—If organized under the laws of any other State, state such fact, and the date of organization.

Twenty-sixth—Number of policies or memberships lapsed during the year.

Twenty-seventh—Number in force at beginning and end of year in each class or division, if more than one.

Twenty-eighth — Aggregate maximum and minimum and average age of membership in each class or division in the society.

Twenty-ninth—The assets applicable to life, endowment or casualty insurance other than reserve fund, and how invested.

Thirtieth—Amount received from all sources for life, endowment or casualty insurance, and the disposition thereof.

No deposit of securities with the commissioner shall be required from such corporation, association or society. Any corporation, association or society refusing or neglecting to make such report, or to make payment of any of the fees mentioned in section fifteen of this act, may, upon the suit of said commissioner, be enjoined by the district court from carrying on any business until such report and payment shall be made, and until the cost of such action be paid.

SEC. 8. Every such corporation, association or society doing business within this State, except such as have already made such designation, and every such association hereafter commencing business within this State shall, before doing business therein, designate some one place within this State as the principal office in this State of such association, and some person residing in the same city, village or town where such office is located as a person upon whom service of legal proceedings and papers may be made, as upon such association, such designation to be made by an instrument under the hand of the president and secretary or other duly authorized officers of such association, filed in the office of the superintendent of the insurance department of this State; and any legal process affecting such association, corporation or society served on the commissioner of insurance of this State shall have the same effect as if personally served on the association or its authorized attorney. Whenever service of any such legal process is made on the commissioner of insurance he shall at once notify by mail the association, corporation or society affected thereby. If the person designated as above provided shall die or remove from such place, another person shall be appointed in his place within thirty days, and such attorney, or location of principal office, may, at the option of such association, corporation or society, be changed at any time. Notice of any change of the office of such association, or any new or different designation of a person upon whom service may be made as above provided, shall, under the hand of such president and secretary or other officer, be filed with the commissioner aforesaid within thirty days after such change or new designation is made. Upon failure to comply with any of the provisions of this section within thirty days after written notice by said commissioner of such default and requiring such compliance, such association shall cease to do business in this state until compliance therewith; and any officer, agent or representative of such association who shall collect any moneys or issue any certificate carrying on said business during such failure, after the expiration of such notice to comply with those requirements, shall be liable to punishment as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 9. No such corporation, association or society, organized under the laws of any other state or territory of the United States, or the District of Columbia, or foreign countries, except such secret fraternal societies having subordinate lodges or councils as are now authorized to transact business within this state, with the consent of such commissioner, shall transact business therein until it has received from the commissioner of insurance a certificate of authority, a record of the issue of which shall be filed in the office of said commissioner. It shall be the duty of said commissioner, annually to issue to such foreign corporation, association or society, renewal certificates of authority to continue its business if its annual report is satisfactory to him, which certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county where its principal office is located in this state, within sixty days after filing such annual report; and no such foreign corporation, association or society, excepting such secret fraternal societies having subordinate lodges or councils as are now authorized as aforesaid, shall be authorized to continue such business after the expiration of such sixty days, unless such certificate shall have been so received and filed. Whenever the insurance commissioner shall have reason to doubt the solvency of any such foreign corporation or association, he may, at the expense of such corporation or association, cause an examination of its books and papers to be made; and, if in his judgment, such examination establishes the fact that such corporation or association is not financially sound, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or if it should fail to make the statement required by this act, he may revoke the authority of such corporation or association, and prohibit it from doing business in this state until it can again comply with the provisions of this act; and it shall be the duty of said commissioner to refuse such certificate of authority, or the renewal thereof, to any such foreign corporation, association or society, when, by the laws of the State or Territory under which the same is organized, corporations, associations or societies of this State doing a life, endowment or casualty business upon the co-operative or assessment plan are not permitted to transact such business in such other State or Territory. When any other State or Territory shall impose any obligation upon such corporation, association or society of this State, or their agents transacting business in such other State or Territory, the like obligations are hereby imposed on similar corporations, associations or societies of such other State or Territory and their agents or representatives transacting business in this state; and such corporation, association or society of such other State or Territory, and their agents or representatives, shall pay all licenses, fees or penalties to and make deposits with the state treasurer. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize any such foreign corporation, association or society, except such fraternal secret societies having subordinate lodges or councils now authorized, as aforesaid, to transact such business within this state, without obtaining the consent of such commissioner thereto and the renewal certificate of authority aforesaid.

SEC. 10. Every charter created by or under this act for the purposes aforesaid shall continue until revoked by the judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction. Provided, always, that charters hereafter to be filed in the insurance department shall be considered as abandoned and become inoperative and void, unless the corporators perfect their organization thereunder, and issue certificates of membership within the period of one year from the date of filing such charters.

SEC. 11. Any existing corporation, association or society transacting business of life, endowment or casualty insurance, upon the co-operative or assessment plan, and incorporated under the laws of this state, may reincorporate under the provisions of this act by filing with said commissioner the declaration required by the second section of this act, signed and duly acknowledged by a majority of its board of directors, trustees or managers, and the certificate of conformity from the attorney general of the state; whereupon the said commissioner shall record and deliver to such corporation, association or society a certified copy of such declaration, and such certificate, together with his license to transact business; and upon the same being filed in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the principal office for the transaction of its business is located, the same shall thereupon be deemed to be incorporated under the provisions of this act. Provided, always, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed as requiring or making it obligatory upon any such existing corporation, association or society to reincorporate under the provisions of this act; and any such existing corporation, association or society may continue to exercise all rights, powers and privileges not inconsistent with this act, pursuant to its articles of association or incorporation, the same as if reincorporated under this act.

SEC. 12. All such corporations, associations or societies, together with their books, papers and vouchers, shall be subject to visitation and inspection by the commissioner of insurance, or such person or persons as he may designate. If said commissioner shall be of the opinion that such corporation, association or society shall be restrained from doing business, he shall report the same, with the facts upon which such opinion is based, to the attorney general, whose duty it shall be, if he shall be of the opinion that the facts warrant such report, to apply to the district court, at a special term thereof, within the judicial district in which the principal place of business of such corporation, association or society within this State is located, for an order requiring the officers of such corporation, association or society to show cause, at a reasonable time and place within such district, why such corporation, association or society should not be restrained from continuing to transact business, with power to the said court to adjourn the hearing thereof from time to time, not exceeding, however, sixty days in the aggregate. Such corporations, associations or societies shall be entitled to be heard, and to a trial by jury, of the facts stated in said report, and to examine papers and witnesses under oath in the usual mode of trials of actions; and the verdict of said jury shall be conclusive upon the propriety of restraining such continuance of business upon such report and opinion. And judgment shall be entered upon such verdict in the same manner as in ordinary actions.

SEC. 13. The commissioner of insurance is hereby authorized and empowered to address any inquiries to any of the corporations, associations or societies referred to in this act, in relation to its doings or condition, or any other matter connected with its transactions relative to the business contemplated by this act; and it shall be the duty of the officers of the corporation, association or society so addressed to promptly reply in writing to all such inquiries, under the oath of its president and secretary, or other officers, if required.

SEC. 14. There shall be paid to the commissioner of insurance by every corporation, association, society, person or persons, to whom this act shall apply, the following fees: For filing and recording the declaration herein required, the sum of ten dollars; for filing the annual statement, the sum of ten dollars; for each certificate of authority and certified copy thereof, the sum of one dollar; for making copy of paper filed in his office, the sum of twenty cents per folio of one hundred words, and for affixing the seal of said office to such copy and certifying the same, one dollar; for expenses of examination by the department, the commissioner shall be paid the necessary and actual outlay for railroad fare and hotel bills, not to exceed, for any organization, the sum of fifty dollars in any year. All fees collected by the commissioner shall be returned to the State by him, the same as now required by law in the case of life companies.

SEC. 15. All corporations, companies, societies, organizations or associations of this or any other State or country transacting the business of life, endowment or casualty insurance on the co-operative or assessment plan, as referred to in the fifth and sixth sections of this act, are hereby made subject to all the provisions of this act, and all corporations, companies, societies, organizations, or associations organized and having its principal office within this State shall hold, within the county in which the principal office is located in this State, a stated annual meeting of their members or policy holders, or representatives of local boards or subordinate bodies, in such manner and subject to such regulations, restrictions and provisions as the constitution or by-laws of the same may provide. In cases of secret or fraternal societies having a grand or supreme body, such meeting of the grand or supreme body may be at such time and place as shall be designated by such grand or supreme body. At such meeting a full and specific report of all receipts and expenditures of the preceding year, or since the last meeting, as the case may be, shall be submitted. Notice of each such meeting shall be given in such manner as the by-laws may direct, but not less than five days before such meeting, to each director, member and policy holder, except that in lieu thereof such notice may be given to a subordinate body of a society having a grand or supreme body, or to a local board subordinate to the association. The books and papers of such association shall, at all reasonable times, be opened for examination by members or their representatives. All associations, societies, companies, corporations or organizations now transacting, or hereafter desiring to transact the business of life, endowment or casualty insurance in this State, upon any other plan than that defined in and by sections five and six of this act, shall comply with all the provisions of the general life and health insurance laws.

SEC. 16. Each notice of assessment made by any corporation, association or society transacting the business of life, endowment or casualty insurance, upon the co-operative or assessment plan, made upon its members or any of them, shall truly state the cause and purpose of such assessment.

SEC. 17. The money or other benefit, charity, relief or aid to be paid, provided or rendered by any corporation, association or society authorized to do business under this act, shall be exempt from execution, and shall not be liable to be seized, taken or appropriated by any legal or equitable process to pay any debt or liability of a member.

SEC. 18. Any officer or agent of any corporation, association or society, whose duty it is to make any report or perform any act as provided in this act, who shall neglect or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this act in respect thereto, or who shall make in any report or statement aforesaid any intentionally false or fraudulent statement, and any person who shall act within this state as agent, solicitor or collector for any such corporation, association or society, which shall have failed, neglected or refused to comply with or violated any of the provisions of this act, or shall have failed or neglected to procure from said commissioner the certificate of authority to transact business in this state, as required by law, shall, for such acts committed during such period of default, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail of not less than ten days, nor more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 19. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to require any society or any subordinate lodge or body of any secret or fraternal or industrial society now organized in this state paying only sick benefits not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars in the aggregate to any one person in any one year, or a funeral benefit or relief to those dependent on a member, not exceeding three hundred and fifty dollars, to make any report thereof as herein contemplated; nor to require the subordinate lodges or councils or other bodies, by whatever name known, of fraternal or secret, or industrial societies to make and file reports with the commissioner of insurance, when the money, benefit, charity, relief or aid, is payable by the grand or supreme body of the same, and is derived from assessments upon such subordinates or their members; but such reports shall be made and filed by such grand or supreme body. Nor shall anything in this act prevent the creation of a reserve fund by any corporation, association or society transacting the business of life, endowment or casualty insurance, upon the co-operative or assessment plan, which funds or its accretions, or both, are to be used for the payment of assessments or death losses, or for benefits. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to affect the grand or subordinate lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows as they now exist, nor to any grand or subordinate lodge of Free and Accepted Masons.

SEC. 20. Any solicitor, agent or examining physician who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for membership, or for the purpose of obtaining any money or benefit in any corporation, association or society transacting the business of life, endowment or casualty insurance upon the co-operative or assessment plan in this State, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided in section nineteen of this act.

SEC. 21. At the stated meeting for the election of officers, trustees, directors or managers a majority of the persons entitled to vote at such meeting shall not be necessary to a quorum; nor shall failure to elect on the day designated for such meeting dissolve any corporation under this act; but it shall be lawful to hold such election on a subsequent day on the same notice as required for the stated meeting. No newspaper publication of a by-law regulating any election shall be necessary to its validity.

SEC. 22. This act shall take effect on the first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend an act entitled an act to authorize the organization and incorporation of annuity, safe deposit and trust companies, approved March fifth (5th), one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883).

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two (2) of an act to authorize the organization and incorporation of annuity, safe deposit and trust companies, approved March fifth (5th) one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be, and the same is hereby amended, by adding to said section two (2) thereof the following words:

And except that no corporation heretofore organized, or hereafter to organize under this act, shall be required to state in its articles of association, the amount of indebtedness or liability to which such corporation shall at any time be subject.

It shall not be lawful for any corporation hereafter organized, or for any association, partnership or individual, except corporations authorized under this act, to advertise or put forth any sign as either a trust, annuity, guaranty or safe deposit company, or in any way to solicit, receive or do business as either a trust, annuity, guaranty or safe deposit company, and any such corporation, association, partnership or individual who shall offend these provisions, shall forfeit and pay for any such offense the sum of one hundred (100) dollars for every day such offense shall be continued, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the people of this State, by the district attorneys of the several counties, in any court having cognizance thereof, for the use of the poor chargeable to said county in which such offense shall be committed. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state, and of the register of deeds of the several counties to refuse to receive or file in their respective offices, any articles of association for incorporation under any general law of this state (except under this act) which conflicts with the foregoing provision.

SEC. 2. That section three (3) of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

Section 3. The amount of the capital stock of any such corporation hereafter organized shall not be less than five hundred thousand (500,000) dollars, but the same may be increased at any time by a resolution of two-thirds (⅔) of the directors to any amount not exceeding two million (2,000,000) dollars; and the same shall be divided into shares of one hundred (100) dollars each.

SEC. 3. That section four (4) of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

Section 4. No such corporation, hereafter organized, shall be authorized to transact any business or exercise any powers as such until five hundred thousand (500,000) dollars of its capital stock shall have been subscribed for, and two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars on account of said stock shall have been actually paid in, invested and deposited as hereinafter provided. Said two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars shall be invested in bonds of the United States or of the State of Minnesota, or in the bonds of other states which shall have the approval of the state auditor or public examiner; or in the bonds or obligations of the city of St. Paul or Minneapolis, or in the bonds or obligations of any incorporated city of the state containing a population of not less than five thousand (5,000) souls, which bonds have not been issued as a bonus for, or purchase of, or subscription to, any railroad or other private enterprise, and whose total bonded indebtedness does not exceed five (5) per centum of the then assessed valuation of the real and personal property of such city; or in the bonds of any organized county in this state, containing a population of not less than ten thousand (10,000) souls, which bonds have not been issued for any of the purposes aforesaid, and whose total bonded indebtedness does not exceed five (5) per centum of the then assessed valuation of the real and personal property of such county; or in bonds or promissory notes, secured by first (1st) mortgages or deeds of trust, upon unincumbered real estate situated within this State, worth double the amount of the obligation so secured, and any corporation which has been heretofore organized and qualified to do business under this act, shall be allowed at any time hereafter to increase its deposits of such securities with the state auditor, so that the whole deposit of such corporation shall amount to two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars, and not less than one-fourth (¼) of its capital stock.

SEC. 4. That section five (5) of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 5. Whenever any such corporation hereafter organized shall have so invested two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars of its paid in capital, and shall assign, transfer and deliver to the state auditor the said securities, and all evidence of such investments so made, he shall execute and deliver a certificate of such deposit; and thereupon the said corporation may commence and carry on business under the provisions of this act. Whenever the capital stock of such corporation exceeds eight hundred thousand (800,000) dollars the amount of such deposit with the state auditor shall at all times be equal to one-fourth (¼) of said capital stock. The state auditor and his successors shall hold the said securities as collateral security for the depositors and creditors of said corporation and for the faithful execution of any trusts which may lawfully be imposed upon and accepted by such corporation, such corporation may from time to time withdraw the said securities from said state auditor, or any part thereof, upon their depositing with him other securities of equal amount and value, and of the kinds specified in section four (4), so that an equal amount and value of such securities shall at all times during the existence of such corporation remain in the possession of the state auditor for the purposes aforesaid; and until otherwise ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction, the said state auditor shall pay over to such corporation the interest, dividends, or other income which he shall collect upon such securities; or he may authorize the said company to collect the same for its own benefit.

SEC. 5. That subdivision first of section nine (9) of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

First—To acquire, lease, purchase, own, hold, use and improve, and for that purpose mortgage, lease, sell and convey, such real estate and personal property as may be necessary for the convenient transaction of its business, and for the use and occupation of its officers, agents, employes, and the safe keeping of its assets, deposits and property held in trust, any estate or interest in real estate, which such corporation shall acquire under or by virtue of the foreclosure of any deed of trust, mortgage or other security, or by the compromise, compounding, or settlement of any obligation, or security or otherwise, in the course of its legitimate business, whether as owner or trustee it may continue to own, hold, use, occupy, lease, bargain, sell and convey the same, as the directors may deem best for the interests of such company or of the particular estate or trust to which the same belongs. And to that end it may become a purchaser at any foreclosure sale, or sale under decree or judgment to which it is a party as trustee or otherwise. But no part of its capital, accumulations, deposits, trust funds, property, or securities owned or held by such company in trust or otherwise, shall be invested in real estate, except as herein authorized, unless the same is done under and by virtue of a particular contract, agreement or other instrument which shall confer a special power and authority so to do, and then, only with and to the extent of the moneys or funds thereby provided and belonging to such particular trust; and for the general transaction of its business to make and deliver, and in like manner to accept and receive, all necessary and proper deeds, conveyances, mortgages, leases and other contracts and writings obligatory, and to have [and] exercise all necessary rights, franchises, muniments, estate, powers and privileges necessary to that end, and such corporation is authorized to loan money and funds, and secure such loans by mortgage; and shall have power to purchase notes, bonds, mortgages and other evidences of indebtedness, and to sell and assign such notes, bonds, mortgages, and other evidences of indebtedness and other securities, and to convert them into cash or other securities, and to insure owners of real estate mortgages and others interested in real estate from loss, by reason of defective titles, liens and incumbrances.

SEC. 6. That the third (3d) subdivision of section nine (9) of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

Third—To take, accept and hold on deposit, or for safe keeping, any and all moneys, bonds, stocks, other securities, or personal property whatsoever, which any state, county, city or town officer, or any railroad or other corporation, public or private, or private person, shall be authorized or required by law or otherwise to deposit in a bank or other safe deposit, or to pay into or deposit in any court of record of this state. And whenever any state, county, city or town officer, or any railroad or other corporation, public or private, or any executor, administrator, or guardian, assignee, receiver, trustee, or person acting in a trust capacity of whatsoever nature, or any individual, shall be authorized or required by law or otherwise to pay into or deposit in any court of record of this state, any moneys, bonds, instruments in writing, stock or other securities, or personal property whatsoever, the same may instead thereof be paid into or deposited with any corporation organized and acting under this act, which shall be designated for that purpose by the court, into which said moneys, bonds, instruments in writing, stocks or other securities, and personal property, would otherwise be authorized or required to be paid or deposited.

Whenever any executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, trustee, or any person acting in any trust capacity whatsoever, shall deposit any moneys, bonds, instruments in writing, stocks or other securities, or any personal property whatsoever, belonging to his trust with any corporation, organized and acting under this act, and shall take the receipt of such corporation therefor, he and his sureties shall thereafter be relieved and discharged from all liability therefor until the same shall again be delivered by said corporation to him or to his successors.

SEC. 7. That the eighth subdivision of section nine (9) of said act be, and the same is hereby amended by adding to said eighth subdivision, at the end thereof, the following words:

Ninth, (9) It shall be lawful for any such corporation which has made the deposit and received the certificate of the state auditor, as provided in section five (5) of said act, to become the assignee under any assignment for the benefit of creditors, or to act as receiver, or to accept any other trust which it is authorized to accept under said act, whether conferred by any person, corporation or court, without giving any bond or other security, which would be otherwise necessary under the laws of this State, to enable a natural person to execute any such trust. It shall also be lawful for any such trust company to become the sole surety upon any bond or undertaking, for or on behalf of any person or persons or corporation, in any suit, action or special proceeding in any court in this State where a bond or undertaking shall be necessary under the laws of this State, or in any other matter, municipal or otherwise, where a bond or undertaking shall be required, without any other bondsman or surety, and without justification or qualification. In a case where a bond, or new sureties to a bond, may be required by a judge of any probate court of this State, from an executor, administrator, guardian or other trustee, or by the judge of any other court of record, or by the provisions of any statutes from this State, from any person acting or to act as assignee, receiver, or in any other trust capacity whatsoever, if the value of the estate or fund is so great that the judge of the court having jurisdiction of the proceedings in which such bond or new sureties shall be required, deems it inexpedient to require security in the full amount prescribed by law, he may direct that any securities for the payment of money belonging to the estate or fund, be deposited subject to the order of such trustee, executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, or other person acting in a trust capacity, countersigned by a judge of said court, with any trust company duly organized and qualified to do business under this act. After such deposit has been made, said judge may fix the amount of the bond with respect to the value of the remainder only of such estate or fund.

A security thus deposited shall not be withdrawn from the custody of said trust company, and no person other than the proper officer of the trust company shall receive or collect any of the principal or interest secured thereby without the special order of a judge of said court, duly entered in the records of such court. Such an order can be made in favor of the trustee appointed only where an additional bond has been given by him or upon proof that the estate or fund has been so reduced, by payments, distribution or otherwise, that the penalty of the bond originally given will be sufficient in amount to satisfy the provisions of law relating to the penalty thereof if the security so withdrawn is also reckoned in the estate or fund.

SEC. 8. That section ten (10) of said act be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

Section 10. Any sum of money not less than one hundred (100) dollars, which shall be collected or received by any such corporation in its capacity of executor, administrator or guardian, or upon any deposit under any order of any court of record, and which money shall not be required for the purposes of such trust, or is not to be accounted for within one year from date of such collection, receipt or deposit, shall be invested by such corporation as soon as practicable, and in such securities as are mentioned in section four (4) of said act, and the net interest and profits of such investments, less the reasonable charges and disbursements of said corporation in the premises, shall be accounted for and paid over as a part of such trust; and the net accumulations of such interest and profits thereon shall likewise be invested and reinvested as a part of such principal, and such investments shall be received and allowed by the probate or other court, in the settlement of such trust.

SEC. 9. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT for an act relating to foreign corporations doing business in this State.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Where, by the general or special laws of this State, relating or in any way appertaining to any foreign corporation, it is provided in substance or effect that in suits and proceedings upon causes of action arising in this State, in which such corporation shall be a party, such corporation shall be deemed to be a domestic corporation; it is hereby provided, that if such corporation shall make application to remove any such suit or proceeding into the United States circuit, or district or federal court, it shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for each application so made and for each offense so committed for making such application, the same to be recovered by suit in the name of the State of Minnesota. The county attorney of the proper county may, and the attorney general, upon any complaint being made to him, shall institute the necessary action to recover such penalty.

SEC. 2. In addition to the penalty above prescribed such corporation shall forfeit all right to transact business within this State, and shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per day for each and every day that it shall do business within this State after such forfeiture, which penalty shall be collected in the manner provided for in the above and preceding section.

SEC. 3. That sub-section three (3) of section two hundred and ninety-one (291) of chapter thirty-four (34) of General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 3. Upon complying with the foregoing conditions and all laws of this State applicable to such companies, the insurance commissioner may issue a certificate to such company authorizing it to become, for the purpose of transacting its business, a domestic corporation within this State so long as it shall not violate the laws thereof and until the same expires by the limitations of this act or the laws of this State.

SEC. 4. If any insurance company or association shall make application to remove any case from the state court into the United States district, circuit or federal court, or do any act or thing not authorized by law, all right of such company or association to transact any business whatever in this State shall cease, and it shall be the duty of the insurance commissioner, if the certificate mentioned in section three (3) of this act has been issued to such company or association, to revoke the same.

SEC. 5. If any insurance company or association shall make application to remove any case from the state court into the United States circuit or district or federal court, for each such application it shall be liable to the penalty provided for in section one (1) of this act, to be collected as therein provided for; and if such company or association shall, when not duly authorized, do or transact any business within this State, it shall forfeit and be liable to the penalty provided for in section two (2) of this act, to be collected as therein provided.

SEC. 6. No foreign corporations now or hereafter doing business in this State shall have, possess or exercise any right, privileges or immunities not possessed by domestic corporations; but unless otherwise provided by law shall, in all respects, be deemed, if it shall remain in [this] State for sixty days next ensuing after the passage of this act, to be a domestic corporation, and entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities of domestic corporations, subject to all laws of this State which now are in force or may be hereafter enacted.

SEC. 7. No foreign corporation shall commence, prosecute or maintain any action, suit or proceeding upon any cause of action arising within this State in the United States circuit, district or federal court, nor make application to remove any such claim, suit or proceeding into any federal court nor do any other act not permitted to a domestic corporation. Any corporation that shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit and be liable to the penalty provided in section one (1) of this act, to be collected as therein provided for; and if any such corporation shall thereafter transact any business within this State it shall forfeit and be liable to the penalty provided [provided] in section two (2) of this act, to be recovered as herein provided.

SEC. 8. Whenever any foreign corporation doing business in this State shall transfer any case from a state to a federal court, contrary to the provisions of this act, it shall thereby forfeit any permission or license, express or implied, heretofore granted, obtained or enjoyed, or hereafter to be granted, obtained or enjoyed, to do business in this State, and it shall thereafter be unlawful for any such company to do any business whatever in this State, and all rights, privileges, immunities or franchises heretofore granted to or enjoyed by, or which shall hereafter be granted to or enjoyed by any such company, shall thereupon and thereby be and stand revoked, denied and withdrawn. Every contract made by any such company, after its right to do business in this State shall have terminated as herein provided, shall be null and void. Provided, however, that such contract may be enforced by and in favor of any person who entered into said contract in good faith and without notice that said company's right to do business in this State had ceased. It shall be unlawful for any such railway company, after having taken a transfer of any case whereby, under the provisions of this act, its right to do business in this State shall have terminated, to run any locomotive, car or train of cars on any railway in this State, and it shall be liable for all damages done by it in the performance of said unlawful act to any person or property.

SEC. 9. Whenever any case shall be transferred by any foreign corporation the clerk of the court from which the transfer is taken shall immediately make a certified copy of the pleadings therein, and of the petition for removal, and of the order of removal, if any, and a certificate of the date of the filing of the petition, and of the date of the order of removal, if any, and transmit the same to the railroad commissioner of this State, if the removal is taken by a railway or telegraph company, and to the commissioner of insurance, if the removal is taken by an insurance company, and to the secretary of the State, if the removal is taken by any other company. Said officer shall preserve said papers in a convenient form for reference.

SEC. 10. Nothing in this act shall be construed to deny to any foreign corporation any right of removal or lay any penalty upon any removal taken by it which it might have taken had it been a domestic corporation.

SEC. 11. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections one (1) and thirteen (13) of chapter thirty-four (34), title one (1) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Sections one (1) and thirteen (13) of title one (1) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eighty (1878) are hereby amended by adding next after the word "river" whenever the same occurs in either of said sections, the word "bay."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section two hundred ninety seven (297) of title six (6) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), being an act regulating insurance companies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two hundred and ninety-seven (297) of title six (6) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) of this State be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the following words in the sixth (6th), seventh (7th), eighth (8th) and ninth (9th) lines of said section, to-wit: "Said statement must be published at least three (3) times in some newspaper of general circulation, printed and published either at the capital of the State or in the county where the State agency of such insurance company is located," and inserting in the place thereof the following words, to-wit: "Said statement must be published at least three (3) times in a daily or weekly newspaper of general circulation printed and published in either Hennepin or Ramsey counties in this State, and having a bona fide circulation of two thousand (2,000) copies or more, or in the county where the State agency of such insurance company is located."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 63 of title 1, of chapter 34, of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 63 of chapter 34, of the General Statutes of 1878, be and the same hereby is amended by inserting before the word "corporation," in the first line of said section, the word "other;" and also by inserting after the word "road," in the third line of said section, the following, to-wit: "For the passage of vessels or articles of commerce through their canals, locks or other works; or for the use of water from their canals or other works for power purposes."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the extension of the term of corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized under any law of this State may amend its articles of incorporation in any respect which might have been made part of said original articles, and may renew the term of its corporate existence from time to time, not exceeding the term originally limited therefor, by adopting a resolution expressing such proposed amendment or renewal, by a two-thirds (⅔) vote of all its members, shareholders or stockholders present and voting at any regular meeting of such corporation, and filing and publishing such resolution in the manner provided for filing and publishing its original articles.

SEC. 2. This act to be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize the proceedings for the incorporation of certain societies under title 3 of chapter 34 of the General Statutes 1878.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That when proceedings for incorporation under title three (3) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) have heretofore been had or taken by any persons, and the corporation so formed or attempted to be formed has entered upon the transaction of business, without having filed its articles of incorporation for in the office of the secretary of state or with the register of deeds of the proper county, the said proceedings for such incorporation, if otherwise conformable to law, are hereby legalized and made of the same validity and force on and after the filing and recording thereof as required by law, and all acts, contracts or proceedings of such corporation, its trustees, officers and agents are hereby legalized and confirmed, and made of the same validity as though such articles had been filed in the office of the secretary of state and the register of deeds for the proper county before any such business has been transacted.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend title 3 of chapter 34 of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 166, of title 3, of chapter 34, of the General Statutes of 1878, be and the same hereby is amended by the inserting of the words, "memorial association" after the words, "cemetery association" in the fifth line of said section 166.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 249, chapter 34, of General Statutes 1878, relating to cemetery associations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 249, title 5, chapter 34, General Statutes of 1878, be and hereby is amended by striking out the word "eighty" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "one hundred and sixty."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three hundred and forty-seven (347) of title six (6), chapter thirty-four (34), General Statutes of 1878, relating to "Town Insurance Companies."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three hundred and forty-seven (347) of said chapter thirty-four (34) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "while on the premises or running at large."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section twelve (12) of chapter eighty-three (83) of the General Laws of 1875, relating to town insurance companies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section twelve (12) of chapter eighty-three (83) of the General Laws of 1875 be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 12. It shall be the duty of the secretary of every company as aforesaid to prepare a statement showing the condition of such company on the day preceding their annual meeting, which statement shall contain the amount insured, the number of policies issued, and such other matters pertaining to the interest of the company as may be deemed important, which statement shall be filed in the office of the town clerk of the town in which said company may be located, on or before the fifteenth day of January in each year, and which statement shall also be read to the members of said company at their annual meeting.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to validate the proceedings of religious corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all proceedings of any religious corporation by which it may have heretofore changed its name, or attempted so to do, and which proceedings were invalid, are hereby declared to be as valid and binding, and of the same force and effect, as though such proceedings had been duly authorized by law.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 26, 1885.

AN ACT concerning religious corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That any diocesan council, synod, presbytery, conference, association, consociation or other general organization for ecclesiastical or religious purposes, existing in any church or religious denomination in this State, and which, according to the polity, constitution, canons, customs, dicipline or usages of such church or denomination, is composed of or represents, several parishes, congregations or particular churches, may organize as, or form a corporation with perpetual succession, in the manner hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. For that purpose it may adopt a canon, or resolution, in which shall be stated,

First—Its purpose to organize and form a corporation under this act.

Second—The name of the corporation and its general purposes and powers, not inconsistent with the laws of this State.

Third—The name of the church or religious denomination to which the body so organizing a corporation shall belong, the name by which such body shall have been known, and the district or territorial limits over which it exercises jurisdiction.

Fourth—The number and official titles of the officers, (such as president, directors, trustees or otherwise) through whom such corporation shall act, and by whom and in what manner such officers shall be elected or appointed, the length of their official terms respectively, and the general duties, powers and authority of such officers, respectively.

Fifth—The names and postoffice address of those appointed or elected as the first directors, trustees and other officers of the corporation.

SEC. 3. A copy of such canon or resolution, certified to by the presiding officer of the body passing the same, and verified by the affidavit of its secretary or clerk, shall be presented to the attorney general, whose duty it shall be to examine the same, and, if found to be in all respects in conformity with the provisions of this act, he shall so certify, and thereupon the same, with his said certificate thereon, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall record the same at length in a suitable book to be kept in his office for that purpose, and he shall thereupon issue his certificate that the provisions of this act having been complied with, the said corporation has become duly incorporated according to law, and thereupon the same shall become a body corporate. The secretary of state shall keep in a book in his office an alphabetical index or list of such corporations formed under this act.

SEC. 4. The body organizing such corporation, or its successor, may by canon or resolution passed by it, at two regular successive sessions thereof, and certified and verified (including the certificate of the attorney general as aforesaid), and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, as provided in the last preceding section, amend or modify the canon or resolution under which such corporation was organized, in respect to the jurisdictional limits of such corporation, or to the number, official titles, terms of office of, or the manner of electing or appointing the officers of such corporation, or of their respective duties, powers and authority, or to the purposes and powers of the corporation not inconsistent with the laws of this state, and not in any wise impairing any trusts or rights of property theretofore vested in such corporation.

SEC. 5. Any corporation formed under this act may adopt a corporate seal, make contracts, establish by-laws, rules and regulations for the management of its business, sue and be sued by its corporate name, and may acquire real and personal property by purchase, gift, grant, devise or bequest, and hold and employ the same for religious, charitable or educational purposes; and may invest, transfer or mortgage the same, and may also receive in trust for any parish, mission, local church society or congregation, whether incorporated or not, any property, real or personal, which may be given, granted, transferred, devised or bequeathed to it for the use of such parish, mission, local church society or congregation for religious, charitable or educational purposes, and may hold the same, and the rents, issues and profits thereof (accounting from time to time, as may be required, for such rents, issues and profits) until such parish, mission, local church society or congregation shall, being then incorporated, demand a conveyance of such property so held in trust as aforesaid; and any property now held in trust by any person, corporation or trustees for the use and benefit of the religious body or organization forming a corporation under this act, or any of its component parts, or any of its such parishes, mission societies, congregations or local churches, may, with the consent of the beneficiary, be conveyed to and the title thereto vested in the said corporation as the successor in such trust.

SEC. 6. No corporation organized under this act shall have power in any manner to create any lien upon or encumber any property held by it in trust as aforesaid.

SEC. 7. This act is subject to any limitation or modification which may be hereafter enacted by general laws, as to the amount of real estate and personal property to be held by the corporations respectively provided for herein.

SEC. 8. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 26, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three hundred and forty-seven (347) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to town insurance companies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three hundred and forty-seven (347) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding at the end thereof, the following words: "except such property as is located upon lands actually used for farming purposes."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT authorizing the formation of companies for mutual insurance, against loss and damage by hail, tornadoes, cyclones and hurricanes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Any number of persons not less than twenty-five (25) residing in this State who shall collectively own real estate herein of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) in value, may associate themselves and become incorporated for the purpose of mutual insurance against loss or damage by hail, tornadoes, cyclones and hurricanes, by complying with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 2. They shall organize by adopting and signing articles of incorporation, which shall contain:

First—The name of the corporation, which shall not be the same as that previously assumed by any other corporation in the state.

Second—The general nature of its business, and the place of the principal office or headquarters.

Third—The names and residence, and the value of the real estate owned by the persons, respectively, so associating to form such corporation.

Fourth—The time of the commencement, and the period of the duration of such corporation.

Fifth—The number, names and places of residence of the directors, and of the president, secretary and treasurer of such corporation for the first year of its existence, and the time and place of the election of their successors.

SEC. 3. Such articles shall be acknowledged by the persons signing the same in the manner by law provided for the acknowledgement of deeds, and shall be filed for record in the office of the secretary of state.

SEC. 4. The secretary of state shall before recording such articles submit the same to the attorney general, who shall examine said articles, and if he find the same to have been executed in conformity to law, he shall endorse the word "approved" thereon, and date, sign and return the same to the secretary of state, who shall thereupon record the same in the records in his office, and shall issue under his hand and official seal, and deliver to the said corporation his certificate to the effect that such corporation has been duly incorporated under the provisions of this act, and is authorized to transact business from and after the date thereof. Such certificate shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county wherein such corporation shall have its principal office, and said certificate and records, and any certified copies of such records shall be received in all of the courts of this state as prima facie evidence that such corporation has been duly organized and created under the laws of the State of Minnesota.

SEC. 5. Upon the issuance of such certificate, the persons therein named shall be and become a corporation and authorized to transact the business of mutual insurance against loss or damage to property by hail, tornadoes, cyclones and hurricans in such manner and upon such terms as in and by its by-laws may be provided. It shall have perpetual succession, sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, implead and be impleaded by its corporate name in any of the courts of this state, and shall possess the usual powers and be subject to the usual duties of corporations.

SEC. 6. The general management of the business of said corporation shall be vested in directors, each of whom shall during his term of office be a policy holder in said corporation. Such directors shall be elected annually and shall hold their offices for one year, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The directors shall choose from their own number a president, secretary and treasurer, whose respective terms of office shall be one year, and whose duties and compensation shall be such as may be in the by-laws of the corporation provided.

SEC. 7. Such corporation before commencing its business shall prepare and adopt by-laws which shall describe the duties of its officers, the manner, place and time of electing them, the directors, the scheme and manner of transacting its business, and such other rules and regulations as may be deemed essential for the government of the corporation and the management of its officers. Such by-laws shall not be amended, changed, suspended or repealed except in the manner therein set forth, and a copy of the same and of any subsequent amendments thereto, or changes therein, shall be by the secretary forthwith filed with the commissioner of insurance, who shall safely keep the same in his office.

SEC. 8. Such corporation is authorized to issue policies of insurance, signed by its president and secretary, agreeing to pay to the person assured thereby all loss and damage to the property insured which he may sustain by hail, tornadoes, cyclones and hurricanes for a period of not more than five (5) years, and not exceeding in amount the sum specified in such policy.

SEC. 9. Every holder of a policy of such insurance shall be a member of the corporation. He shall have the right to participate in the election of directors, and shall be eligible to election to any office in such corporation; he shall be liable to the corporation for his pro rata share of all losses and damages by hail, tornadoes, cyclones and hurricanes sustained by any other member, and also for his pro rata share of the expenses of the management of the business of such corporation, and shall also be bound and subject to the by-law thereof.

SEC. 10. The corporation shall, in and by its by-laws, provide for the manner in which such insurance shall be effected, and the terms and conditions thereof; the time and manner in which losses by it sustained under its policies of insurance shall be determined, proved, adjusted and paid; the time and manner in which assessments shall be made upon its members for their respective pro rata share of such losses, and the time, manner and place in which, and the person to whom such assessments shall be paid. It shall also, in and by its by-laws, provide such other regulations, terms and conditions as it may be necessary for effectively and fully carrying out its scheme of insurance, and the said by-laws in force at the time of the date of any policy of insurance, insured by the corporation, shall have the force and effect of law in the determination of all questions and claims arising under such policy between the holder thereof and the said corporation.

SEC. 11. The said corporation shall also, in and by its by-laws, provide the manner, terms and conditions upon which any member thereof may withdraw or be suspended or expelled therefrom.

SEC. 12. The secretary of the corporation shall prepare and submit to the members thereof, at each annual meeting, a detailed statement of the condition of such corporation, and its transactions for the preceding year, showing the date and number of policies issued, to whom the same were issued, and the amounts respectively insured thereby; the number of assessments made during the year, and the amount actually paid in upon each assessment, respectively; the losses sustained during the year, and whether the same has been paid or adjusted, or remain unpaid or unadjusted, or are disputed; the number of members of the corporation; the number of new members received during such year; their names, and residence of members who have withdrawn or been suspended or expelled from the corporation during the year; the policies and respective numbers thereof which have been canceled during the year, and an itemized statement of the expenses of such corporation during the year, and of the amount and condition of its funds, and such other matters as may be of interest to the members. A copy of such annual statement shall within thirty (30) days after such meeting be filed with and preserved by the insurance commissioner.

SEC. 13. No corporation formed under this act shall continue for a longer period than thirty (30) years.

SEC. 14. No corporation formed under this act shall insure any property outside of the State of Minnesota, nor any property other than detached dwellings and farm buildings, and their contents, and live stock while on the premises or running at large, and hay, grain and other farm products while growing or while in the shock, stack, bin, crib, or granary upon such premises; nor shall it insure any property whatever in any incorporated city or village.

SEC. 15. All the books, papers and files of any such corporation shall at all times be open to the examination of any member thereof, or his agent or attorney; and any such member, agent or attorney, shall at all times have the right to make such copies of such books, papers and files as he may wish to have.

SEC. 16. The articles of association may be amended in any respect which might have been lawfully made a part of such original articles at any annual meeting of the members of the corporation, upon a vote of two-thirds of the members present at such meeting.

SEC. 17. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT relating to Millers' and Manufacturers' Mutual Insurance companies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever the capital of any company heretofore or hereafter organized under the provisions of chapter ninety-one of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-one of the State of Minnesota, shall amount to the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, of which amount not less than forty thousand dollars shall be actual funds, as defined in said act, such company may assume risks on the all cash plan and issue policies against loss or damage by fire or lightning on any property, real or personal, to an amount not exceeding five per centum of its capital, and on making to the insurance commissioner proof of such amount of capital, shall be entitled to receive from him a certificate stating that it is entitled to assume risks and carry policies as herein provided.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after it passage.

Approved February 28, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three hundred and twenty-nine (329) of title six (6) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to home fire insurance companies doing farm business only.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three hundred and twenty-nine (329) of title six (6) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and that the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 329. Any fire insurance company or association already organized under the laws of this state, doing a farm business only, may continue to do such business by investing the accumulations of such company or association, to the amount of thirty thousand dollars, as provided in section two hundred and eighty-nine (289) title six (6) chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) which shall be held as a contingent, safety and reserve fund, for the security of the assured, and shall be in lieu of all other funds and reserves whatsoever. And for the further security of the assured, such company or association may increase its contingent, safety and reserve fund by issuing shares of stock, constituting each shareholder a member, who shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock held; and when the capital and accumulations amount to one hundred thousand dollars, such company or association may insure any and all kinds of property, for such time and on such conditions as it may determine.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to authorize all insurance companies doing a general fire or marine insurance business under the laws of Minnesota to insure against hail, tornado, cyclones and windstorms.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That any insurance company chartered and doing a general fire or marine insurance business, either by virtue of any special charter of the Territory or State of Minnesota, or under the General Laws of such Territory or State, or which may hereafter be incorporated for such purpose, under the laws of said State, be, and is hereby authorized and empowered to also insure against loss or damage by hail, tornado, cyclones and wind-storms; and to make contracts and policies accordingly.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section two (2) of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight (138) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, relating to chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all that part of section two (2) of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight (138) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, which precedes subdivision third of said section 2, be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. All persons so associating shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of title one (1) of chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota, so far as the same are, or may be applicable, and every such corporation shall be endowed with the following, in addition to its ordinary power, viz., First—Said corporation may constitute and appoint committees of reference and arbitration, and committees of board of appeal, who shall be governed by such rules, by-laws and regulations as may be prescribed by said corporation for the settlement of such matters of difference as may be voluntarily submitted for arbitration by members of the said corporation, or by other persons not members thereof. The acting chairman of either of said committees or boards, when sitting as arbitrators, may administer oaths to the parties and witnesses; and, upon request of any party to such arbitration, any clerk of any court of record, on payment of his fees therefor, shall issue subpœnas for the attendance of witnesses and production of papers before said committees, and the same may be served, and obedience thereto enforced, in like manner as process requiring attendance before the court issuing the same. Second—When any such submission shall have been made in writing pursuant to the rules and by-laws of such corporation, and no appeal therefrom taken within the time fixed by said rules or by-laws, or when a final award shall have been rendered, on appeal duly taken, such submission with the award, and in cases of appeal the final award, may be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court in and for the county in which such corporation is located; and thereupon the prevailing party may, upon notice of least eight days, apply to said court at any general or special term thereof, for an order confirming such award, and directing judgment to be entered thereon. Upon such hearing, if the application be opposed, like proceedings shall be had as are provided in sections eleven (11) to eighteen (18) inclusive, of chapter eighty-nine (89) of the General Statutes of Minnesota relating to arbitrators; and except as otherwise herein provided, all provisions of said chapter subsequent to the filing of the award in the office of the said clerk shall be applicable to awards rendered by said committees and boards created pursuant to this act. No such submission shall be made respecting the claim of any person to any real estate, or any interest therein, or lien thereon. Neither party shall have power to revoke a submission made under the rules of said corporation, without the consent of the other, and after due submission, if either neglects to appear before said committees and prosecute or defend, as the case may be, according to said rules, the committee or board may proceed to hear and determine the cause on the evidence produced by the other party.

The form of submission and the mode of procedure until the filing of the award in the office of the clerk of said court shall be substantially such as are prescribed by the rules and by-laws of such corporation, provided always such submission shall be in writing, signed by both parties, and set forth in plain and concise language the facts on which the controversy depends; and when they are not agreed upon the facts, the submission may be in the form of a complaint and answer, and, if needful, a reply. The filing of such pleadings, signed by the party, with the secretary of such corporation, shall be deemed a submission on the part of the party filing the same.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

County and District Courts.

AN ACT for an act prescribing the time of holding the general terms of district court in the Ninth (9th) Judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the general terms of the district court in and for the Ninth (9th) judicial district shall be held at the times and in the several counties comprising said district, annually, as follows:

In the county of Brown, on the second (2d) Monday of April and the second (2d) Monday of October.

In the county of Nicollet, on the fourth (4th) Monday of April and the fourth (4th) Monday of October.

In the county of Redwood, on the second (2d) Tuesday of May and the second (2d) Tuesday of November.

In the county of Renville, on the fourth (4th) Tuesday of May and the fourth (4th) Tuesday of November.

In the county of Lyon, on the second (2d) Tuesday of June and the second (2d) Tuesday of December.

In the county of Lincoln, on the first (1st) Tuesday after the fourth (4th) day of July, and the first (1st) Tuesday after the first (1st) day of January.

SEC. 2. All writs, recognizances, bonds, continuances and proceeding issued, made or returnable to the district courts of the several counties aforesaid, as fixed by law prior to the passage of this act, shall be, and the same are hereby, made returnable to the terms of said courts as the same are prescribed by the provisions of section one (1) hereof.

SEC. 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act, or prescribing any other time of holding any of said general terms of said court are hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. This act shall effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 27, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section two (2) of title one (1) of chapter sixty-five (65) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to courts of justices of the peace.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two (2) of title one (1), of chapter sixty-five (65), of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same is amended so as to read as follows:

"Provided further, That no justice of the peace shall hold his office or court in any saloon, or in any room adjacent to a saloon, where there is communication by door or otherwise between said place where said court is held and said saloon."

SEC. 2. Every justice of the peace shall keep his office in the town, city or ward for which he is elected; but he may issue process in any place in the county, and may in his discretion, for the convenience of parties, make any process issued by him, either civil or criminal, returnable, and may hold his court at any place appointed by him in a town, or ward adjoining the town or ward in which he resides, or in any incorporated village located within the town in which said justice resides, provided the place so appointed be within his county.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for the establishment of a new judicial district, to be known as the thirteenth (13th) judicial district, and to fix dates for holding court therein.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the counties of Jackson, Nobles, Rock, Pipestone, Murray and Cottonwood be, and the same are hereby detached from the sixth (6th) judicial district, and are hereby created into a judicial district, to be known and designated the thirteenth (13th) judicial district of Minnesota.

SEC. 2. The terms of courts in said district to be held as follows: In Cottonwood county the first Tuesday after July fourth and the first Tuesday in January of each year. In Jackson county the first Tuesday of June and December of each year. In Murray county the third Tuesday in April and October of each year. In Nobles county the first Tuesday in March and November of each year. In Pipestone county the third Tuesday in May and December of each year. In Rock county the third Tuesday in March and September of each year.

SEC. 3. A district judge shall be elected therefor at the next general election; and the governor is hereby authorized to appoint a district judge for said district, to serve until his successor be elected.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 59 of chapter 64, General Statutes 1878, relating to district courts and general terms thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the third subdivision of section fifty-nine of chapter sixty-four, of the General Statutes of 1878, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "In the county of Hennepin on third Tuesday in April, the second Tuesday in September, and the first Tuesday in December."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage; but nothing herein contained shall be construed as interfering with the holding of the term of court on the third Tuesday in February, 1885, as now provided by law.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT relating to the records in the office of the clerks of the district court.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the clerks of the several district courts of the state shall enter upon the registers provided for that purpose, all cases, civil and criminal, which through the mistake, inadvertence or neglect of their predecessors in office, shall not have been registered; the true date of the filings in such cases shall be entered on said registers and said entries when so made shall have the same force and effect, as if made by the clerk of the district court at the proper time; provided, that the fees for such services shall be paid by the county only upon the order of the court, and provided further, that in docketing any such a judgment the date thereof shall be the time when the same is actually docketed, and the lien thereof shall attach only from such date.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section sixty-two (62), of title three (3), of chapter sixty-four (64), of the General Statutes, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to district courts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixty-two (62) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-four (64) of the General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be, and hereby is amended so as to read as follows:

Section 62. In Seventh district.—That the general term of the district court in the Seventh judicial district shall be held each year, in the several counties in said district as follows:

In the county of Benton, on the second Monday of January.

In the county of Douglas, on the first Monday of May and the first Monday of October.

In the county of Grant, on the second Monday of September.

In the county of Mille Lacs, on the fourth Monday of January.

In the county of Morrison, on the first Monday of March and the third Monday of September.

In the county of Otter Tail, on the first Monday of May and second Monday of November.

In the county of Pope, on the third Monday of October.

In [the] county of Sherburne, on the first Monday in February.

In the county of Stearns, on the second Monday of June and the first Monday of December.

In the county of Todd, on the third Monday of February.

SEC. 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after April 1, A. D. 1885.

Approved Feb. 28, 1885.

AN ACT to amend an act entitled an act regulating the time for holding the terms of the district court in the County of Freeborn, in the Tenth (10th) judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1) of an act entitled an act regulating the time for holding the terms of the district court in the county of Freeborn, in the Tenth judicial district, approved March second (2d), one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (1881), be, and the said section is so amended as to read as follows:

Section 1. The general terms of the district court in and for the county of Freeborn, in the Tenth judicial district, shall be held on the fourth (4th) Tuesday in November and on the third (3d) Tuesday in May in each and every year. Provided, that in case the business at said May term shall not be completed for any cause prior to holding any other term of court in said district, said May term shall be adjourned to the second Monday in July following for the transaction of such unfinished business.

SEC. 2. That the judge of said court may, and he is empowered to adjourn any term of said court from time to time during any term thereof, and to order and to hold special terms of said court in said county, for the trial and determination of both civil and criminal business and causes, or either, and said judge may direct grand and petit jurors to be drawn and summoned for any adjourned or special term of said court in the manner prescribed by law; and he may, and is empowered to order and direct the issuing of special venires, and the summoning of petit jurors at any time for the trial of civil or criminal actions and causes at any special or adjourned term of said court. Provided, that notice of the time of holding any such special term shall be given at least twenty (20) days previous to the holding thereof by publishing such notice in a newspaper printed and published in said county, but said judge is authorized and empowered by an order made by him at any general term of said court to appoint and fix the time of holding any special term herein provided without such printed notice being given.

SEC. 3. That all writs, processes, bonds, recognizances, appeals, continuances and proceedings issued, had or made returnable to or for the general terms of court in and for said county as heretofore fixed by law, shall be continued, taken and made returnable to the terms of said court in said county as fixed and provided by this act.

SEC. 4. That all acts and parts of acts in conflict or inconsistent with this act are repealed.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section fifty-nine (59) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-four (64) of the General Statutes of A. D. 1878, relating to the holding of the terms of district court in the Fourth Judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section fifty-nine (59) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-four (64) of the General Statutes of A. D. 1878, be amended as follows, to wit: That all of section fifty-nine (59) after the words "in the county of Wright," in the eighth line, be stricken out and the following substituted, as follows, to wit: "on the first Monday of June and the first Monday of December."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the general term of the district court of Pope county.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The general terms of the district court in and for the county of Pope, in the Seventh (7th) judicial district, shall be held on the second (2d) Monday in March and on the third (3d) Monday in October of each year.

SEC. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force on and after the fourth (4th) day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-five (1885).

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT fixing the times for holding the general terms of the district court in the Eleventh judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The general terms of the district court in and for the Eleventh judicial district of this state shall be held as follows:

In the county of Aitkin, on the fourth Monday in September in each year.

In the county of Wadena, on the first Monday after the twenty-eighth (28th) day of May and on the fourth Monday in November in each year.

In the county of Carlton, on the first Monday in April and on the first Monday in October in each year.

In the county of Clay, on the first Monday after the first day of January and on the first Monday after the fourth day of July in each year.

In the county of Crow Wing, on the second Monday in March and on the second Monday in September in each year.

In the county of Kittson, on the fourth Monday in March in each year.

In the county of Marshall, on the last Monday but one in May and on the third Monday in November in each year.

In the county of Becker, on the first Monday after the eleventh day of June and on the second Monday after the twenty-eighth (28th) day of November in each year.

In the county of Polk, on the first Monday in June and on the first Monday in December in each year.

In the county of St. Louis, on the first Monday after the first day of January and on the last Monday in April and on the first Monday in September in each year.

In the county of Norman, on the third Monday in May and on the second Monday in November in each year.

SEC. 2. All writs, processes, bonds, recognizances, continuances, appeals, notices and proceedings had, issued, or returnable to the terms of court in and for each of said counties as fixed by law prior to the passage of this act shall be deemed and construed as made, taken and returnable to the terms of court in each of said counties fixed by this act.

SEC. 3. Chapter eighty-two (82) of the General Laws of Minnesota for A. D. 1881, regular session, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 27, 1885.

AN ACT to detach the county of Aitkin, Minnesota, from the county of Crow Wing, and to organize the same for judicial purposes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the county of Aitkin, Minnesota, which has heretofore been attached to the county of Crow Wing, Minnesota, for judicial purposes (Chapter 94, General Laws of 1871), be, and the same is hereby detached from said Crow Wing county and organized for judicial purposes, with the rights and privileges of other organized counties of this state.

SEC. 2. That the county commissioners of said Aitkin county shall within thirty (30) days after the passage of this act appoint to the office of the clerk of court and to the office of county attorney of said county, persons eligible to said offices respectively, who shall qualify in the manner required by law, and who shall hold their said office until the next general election and until their successors are elected and qualified.

SEC. 3. That there shall be held in said county of Aitkin two terms of the district court in each year, the time for the commencement of which shall be fixed by the judge of said court, at least (90) ninety days before the commencement of said term of court, notice of which shall be given as said judge may direct, until otherwise provided by law, and all suits, actions and proceedings now pending in the district court for the counties of Crow Wing, Cass, Itasca and Aitkin, which by law would have been triable in said Aitkin county if the same had been organized for judicial purposes, shall be transferred to said Aitkin county, and all records pertaining to, or which properly belong to said Aitkin county, where no other provision is made by law, shall be transferred from said Crow Wing county to said Aitkin county, the expense of said transferring and transcribing, shall be paid by said Aitkin county. Provided, that a grand jury shall be summoned only at the first term of each year, unless otherwise ordered by the judge of the district court.

SEC. 4. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 6, 1885.

AN ACT to detach certain territory from the unorganized county of Cass and attach the same to Crow Wing county, and to change the boundary lines of Crow Wing county.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all that part of Cass county lying east of the range line between ranges twenty-eight (28) and twenty-nine (29), and south of the township line between townships one hundred and thirty-five (135) and one hundred and thirty-six (136), the same being the territory described as township one hundred and thirty-five, in ranges twenty-seven (27) and twenty-eight (28), and township one hundred and thirty-three (133), in range twenty-eight (28), be and the same hereby is detached from the county of Cass, and annexed and attached to the county of Crow Wing.

SEC. 2. This act shall be submitted to the electors of the county of Crow Wing at the next general election held therein after the passage of this act, and the qualified electors of said county may at said election vote, by ballot, for or against the including of said townships and territory in said county.

That at the time of giving notice of the next general election to be held in said Crow Wing county it shall be the duty of the officers of each voting precinct in said county, who are required to give notice of such election, in the same manner and at the same time to give notice that at such election the provisions of this act will be submitted to the electors of said county for their approval or disapproval.

Provided, That a refusal or neglect to give such notice shall not invalidate any election that shall be held pursuant to this act.

SEC. 3. That at said election, each voter of said county of Crow Wing in favor of attaching said territory to said county, and the change of the north and west boundary lines of said county which would be caused thereby, shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, on his ballot "For attaching territory to Crow Wing county;" and those opposed to the same shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed on their ballots the words: "Against attaching territory to Crow Wing county." Such votes shall be received and canvassed at the same time and in the same manner, and the returns thereof made to the same officers by the judges of election and county canvassing board, as is required with reference to votes for county officers.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 28, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section fifty-six (56) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-four (64) of General Statutes eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to the terms of the district court of the First judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section fifty-six (56) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-four (64) of General Statutes eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows, to wit:

SEC. 56. The general terms of the district court of the First judicial district of this state shall be held at the times following: In the county of Goodhue on the second Tuesday in March and the fourth Tuesday in October in each year.

In the county of Dakota on the third Tuesday in January, and the third Tuesday in June in each year.

In the county of Washington on the fourth Tuesday in May, and the second Tuesday in November in each year.

In the county of Pine, on the first Tuesday in October in each year.

In the county of Chisago, on the third Tuesday in October in each year.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of July, A. D., eighteen hundred and eighty-five.

Approved Jan. 21, 1885.

AN ACT entitled an act providing for terms of the district court for Otter Tail county, in the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That terms of the district court in Otter Tail county, State of Minnesota, shall be held as follows: On the third Monday of May and the second Monday of November in each year.

SEC. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after April 1st, 1885.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one (1), chapter twenty-two (22), of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), relating to the terms of the district court of the county of Martin, Minnesota, in the Sixth (6) judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1), chapter twenty-two (22) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), be and the same are hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. There shall hereafter be two (2) terms of the district court in said county of Martin in each year. One of said terms shall be held on the second (2) Tuesday of February and the other on the second (2) Tuesday of September of each and every year; but no grand jury shall be summoned for the September term in said Martin county unless the judge of the Sixth (6) judicial district shall make and file with the clerk of court for said Martin county, at least fifteen (15) days before such term, an order directing the summoning of such grand jury.

SEC. 3. That all writs, proofs, bonds, recognizances, continuances, appeals, notices and proceedings had, issued or returnable to the term of court in and for said county as fixed by law prior to the passage of this act, shall be deemed and construed as made, taken and returnable to the proper term of court in said county as fixed by this act.

SEC. 4. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 20, 1885.

AN ACT to fix the times for holding the general terms of the district court in the Eighth judicial district.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. General terms of the district court shall be held in the several counties comprising the Eighth judicial district as follows:

In the county of Carver, on the second Monday of March and the second Monday of September in each year.

In the county of Le Sueur, on the second Monday of April and the first Monday of October in each year.

In the county of McLeod, on the second Monday of May and the second Monday of November in each year.

In the county of Sibley, on the fourth Monday of May and the fourth Monday of November in each year.

In the county of Scott, on the second Monday of June and the second Monday of December in each year.

SEC. 2. All written process, bonds, continuances, appeals, notices, proceedings and recognizances issued, made or returnable to general terms of court in and for said counties, as respectively fixed by law prior to the passage of this act, shall be deemed and construed as made, taken and returned to the proper term of said court in the said counties respectively, as fixed by this act.

SEC. 3. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 5, 1885.

Counties and County Officers.

AN ACT to amend section 3, title 3, chapter 7, General Statutes of 1878, relating to salaries of county attorneys.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three (3) of title (3) of chapter seven (7) General Statutes of 1878 be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "twelve hundred" in the second line of said section three (3) and insert in lieu thereof the words "two thousand."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section two of chapter fifty-five of the General Statutes, 1878, in relation to probate bonds.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 2 of chapter 55 of the General Statutes of 1878 be and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto the following provisions:

"Upon application to the probate court having jurisdiction, made by a surety of an executor, administrator or guardian, to be discharged from further liability as such surety, said court shall by order require such executor, administrator or guardian to furnish a new bond to the satisfaction of said court within ten days after personal service of such order. Compliance with such order shall operate to discharge such surety from liability for any subsequent act or omission of such executor, administrator or guardian; and an order shall be thereupon made to that effect, and in such case the surety so exonerated may enforce an accounting before the court by such executor, administrator or guardian concerning all his prior acts and doings. If an executor, administrator or guardian, upon being ordered to furnish a new bond as aforesaid, shall fail to comply therewith, he shall be removed and compelled to render and settle his account as soon as practicable."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the change of county seats.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever a majority of the freeholders who are legal voters and residents of the county shall present to the board of county commissioners of such county a petition, signed by them asking a change of the county seat to some other place in said county, such place to be designated in said petition, it shall be the duty of such board of county commissioners to submit the question of the change and removal of the county seat of such county to the place designated in said petition to a vote of the qualified electors of such county in the manner herein provided and subject to the provisos and conditions herein contained.

SEC. 2. Such election shall be held only on the day of the general election for state and county officers, and shall be conducted and the votes canvassed, certified, returned and recorded in the same manner as other votes cast at said election.

SEC. 3. Upon receipt of said petition by the board of county commissioners it shall be filed in the office of the county auditor of such county; and shall be open to public examination and inspection, and the auditor shall give public notice of such filing by publishing for four successive weeks in all the newspapers of said county a notice containing the substance of the petition, the date of filing the same and the number of names signed or attached thereto; and if there is no paper printed and published in said county, then by posting or causing to be posted three copies of said notice in each organized town in said county for the same length of time; and no action shall be taken on said petition until the expiration of such period of notice and publication.

SEC. 4. The board of county commissioners of such county, after due notice of the filing of said petition has been given as herein provided, shall give at least four weeks' notice of such election by publishing the same in all the newspapers printed and published in such county; and if there is no newspaper printed and published in such county, then by posting or causing to be posted three copies of said notice in three of the most public places in each organized town in said county for the same time.

SEC. 5. At such election those voting on such question of change or removal of the county seat shall deposit their ballots in a separate box to be provided for that purpose. The ballots used at such election shall have printed or written or partly printed and partly written thereon the words: "For change of county seat to .... Yes." "For change of county seat to .... No."

SEC. 6. If a majority of all the voters present and voting at such election shall vote in favor of such change of county seat, it shall be the duty of the chairman of the board of county commissioners to certify to the same with the attestation of the county auditor to the governor of the state, who thereupon shall issue his proclamation to that effect and cause the same to be published and printed in some newspaper printed and published at the capital of the state, and from the date of such proclamation the place so designated shall be the county seat of such county. But if there shall not be a majority of such votes in favor of such change then it shall not be lawful for the county commissioners to again submit the question of the change or removal of the county seat at any time within five years from the time such election is held. Provided, That in all counties where the question of the change or location of the county seat therein has heretofore been submitted to a vote of the electors of such county and the county seat therein has been fixed or located by such vote, no such county seat so fixed or located shall be changed or removed under the provisions of this act unless three-fifths (3-5) of all the voters present and voting at such election shall vote in favor of such change or removal.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT allowing compensation to county commissioners in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section twelve (12) of chapter fifteen (15) of the General Statutes of 1878 is hereby amended by adding thereto the following proviso:

"Provided, That in the performance of the duties required by this section such county commissioner shall receive the sum of three dollars per day for each day necessarily employed, and ten cents per mile for every mile necessarily traveled in the performance of such duty, but no commissioner shall receive pay for the performance of such duty for more than fifteen days service nor mileage to exceed one hundred miles in any one year."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section seventy-four (74) of chapter thirty-six (36), General Statutes eighteen hundred seventy-eight (1878), providing for assistant county superintendents of schools.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section seventy-four (74) of chapter thirty-six (36), General Statutes eighteen hundred seventy-eight (1878), be amended by adding thereto the following: "That in any county having one hundred seventy-five or more organized school districts the county superintendent of schools of such county may appoint an assistant superintendent of schools, said appointment to be confirmed by the board of county commissioners. The duties of such assistant superintendent shall be to assist in all the general duties prescribed to be done by the county superintendent, under whose direction the same shall be performed, and to whom report shall be made. The salary of such assistant superintendent shall be fixed by the board of county commissioners at any amount not to exceed fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) per annum, to be paid monthly as salaries of other county officers."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and seventy-two (172) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to salaries of county treasurers.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and seventy-two (172) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and is hereby amended by adding thereto the following words:

Provided further, That whenever the salary of the county treasurer is limited to a fixed sum by the second proviso of this section, said fixed sum shall be paid in the manner provided above, at the end of each month, in twelve equal installments; and no treasurer receiving pay for his services under said second proviso, whose salary cannot be certainly and exactly fixed at the beginning of his official year, shall receive more than one-twelfth of his annual salary at the end of each month, as carefully estimated and recorded by the board of county commissioners at their January meeting in each year, and the balance of the year's pay found to be legally due the treasurer shall be paid to him on the computation of said board of commissioners at their next January meeting.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of January, A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-six (1886).

Approved February 24, 1885.

AN ACT authorizing county commissioners to require county officers to give new official bonds in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The county commissioners of any county in the State of Minnesota may require any county officer to give a new official bond whenever, in the opinion of a majority of said commissioners, the original bond of any county officer has become insufficient.

SEC. 2. Any person who is a surety upon the official bond of any county officer may file with the board of county commissioners of the proper county, at any regular or special meeting of said board, or with the county auditor of such county, a request, in writing, that the officer for whom he is surety, naming him, be required to furnish a new official bond, and giving the reasons for such request. Such request shall be laid before the board of commissioners on the first (1st) day of their next meeting following the date of filing said request, and shall take precedence of all other business before said commissioners.

SEC. 3. When any board of county commissioners shall deem the bond of any county officer insufficient, or when the request of any surety on the official bond of any county officer, as provided in the preceding section, is laid before them, they shall cause a notice to be issued by them, signed by the chairman of said board and countersigned by the auditor of said county, and directed to the county officer named in such request, or whose bond is deemed insufficient, requiring him to furnish a new official bond, to be approved by them, before the first (1st) day of the next regular, special or adjourned meeting of said board, but not earlier than twenty (20) days from date of said notice, under the penalty of forfeiture of his office, which notice shall be served personally upon such officer at least twenty (20) days before such general, special or adjourned meeting of such board, and the same shall be served and returned in the same manner as summons in district courts.

SEC. 4. Whenever any county officer has been served with the notice as provided in the preceding section, and fails or neglects to furnish such new bond as so required, the office held by such officer shall be deemed vacant; and the vacancy thus created shall be filled as provided by law; provided, that if it shall be made to appear to said board of county commissioners that such officer has been prevented by sickness or other physical disability from furnishing such new bond as so required, said commissioners may grant such officer further time, but not later than the next meeting of said board of commissioners, to furnish the same, and, if said new bond is not furnished as required the office of such officer shall be deemed vacant, as before provided.

SEC. 5. That when a new bond is taken and approved as provided, the original bond and the rights and liabilities of the parties thereto, incurred or existing at or prior to the time of the approval of the new bond, shall not be anywise affected or impaired, but such original bond and the sureties thereon shall not be liable for the acts of such officer after said new bond is approved and accepted.

SEC. 6. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the proper indexing of all records in the office of the clerk of the district court.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the district court of every county in the State to procure, at the expense of the county, two (2) well bound books, to be denominated "Plaintiffs' Index to Court Records" and "Defendants' Index to Court Records," to be ruled and printed substantially in the following manner:

Plaintiffs.	Defendants.	Kind of Action.	Term Commenced.	Record Book.	Pages.	Term Disposed of.	Date of Judgment. Mo.	Date of Judgment. Day.	Judgment Docket. Book.	Judgment Docket. Page.	Execution Docket. Book.	Execution Docket. Page.	Fee Book. Book.	Fee Book. Page.	Satisfied, or not Satisfied.	Number of Case.

In which all cases shall be entered in alphabetical order by the name of each plaintiff and defendant. Said books shall set forth the names of the parties, kind of action, term commenced, the record books and pages on which cases are recorded; the term disposed of, date of judgment, books and pages of the judgment dockets, execution dockets, fee books, satisfied or not satisfied, and number of case.

The defendants' index shall be ruled and printed in the same manner as the plaintiffs', except the parties shall be reversed.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections 92, 95, and 96, of chapter 8, General Statutes 1878, relating to the term of office of county commissioners.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 92, chapter 8, General Statutes 1878, be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 92. Every county shall be deemed an organized county for the purposes of this title, and shall have a board of county commissioners. In those counties which are organized into townships and which poll eight hundred votes or more, the said board shall consist of five members, and in all other counties of three members, whose term of office shall be four years, and until their successors are elected or appointed and qualified."

SEC. 2. That section 95 of said chapter 8 be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 95. Every county which has not a township organization shall be divided into three commissioner districts, which shall contain as near an equal number of electors as convenient, and in one of each of said districts a commissioner shall be elected and the person elected from district number one shall hold his office for the term of two years; the person elected, from district number two shall hold his office for the term of four years; and the person elected from district number three shall hold his office for the term of two years; and commissioners shall be elected thereafter for the term of four years. Provided that if the county commissioners are not elected as herein provided for, they shall be appointed by the governor from the qualified electors of the said county, and shall qualify in the same manner as commissioners elected in accordance with General Laws; provided further, that the term of all county commissioners elected at the general election in November, 1884, shall expire on the first Monday of January, 1887."

SEC. 3. That section ninety-six of said chapter be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 96. At the first election, when the board of county commissioners will consist of five members, the persons elected from districts numbered one, three and five, shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and the persons elected from districts numbered two and four, for the term of four years, and thereafter the commissioners elected shall hold for the term of four years; and in every county where the board of county commissioners will consist of three members, the persons elected from districts numbered one and three shall hold their offices for two years, and the person elected from district number two, for four years, and thereafter the commissioners elected shall hold office for the term of four years.

"Provided that the term of all county commissioners elected at the general election in November, 1884, shall expire on the first Monday of January, 1887."

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 21, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and seventy-nine (179) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of 1878 of the State of Minnesota, relating to registers of deeds.

Be it enacted by the Legislature in the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and seventy-nine (179) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of 1878 be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 179. The register shall exhibit free of charge, during the hours that his office is or is required by law to be open, any of the records or papers in his official custody, to the inspection of any person demanding the same, either for examination or for the purpose of making or completing an abstract or transcript therefrom. Provided, that whenever in the opinion of the board of county commissioners it is for the benefit of the people of their county that any person, company or corporation, who has or may have a set of abstracts of title, should be permitted to occupy any part of the county buildings for an office, such board, may by resolution give such person, company, or corporation permission so to do; and in every such case such board shall require of such person, company or corporation, a bond in a sum not less than five hundred dollars, nor more than five thousand dollars with two or more sureties to be approved by the commissioners, conditioned, that such person, company, or corporation, will handle all public record belonging to the county with due care, and will not charge any greater fee for making abstracts than is or may be allowed the register of deeds for like services, and for the faithful performance of his duty as an abstractor.

Provided, further, that nothing contained in this act shall be construed as giving any person the right to have or use the said records for the purpose of making or completing an abstract or transcript therefrom, when it would interfere or hinder the register of deeds in the performance of his official duties or as permitting any person to take any of said records from the register of deeds office without his consent. [But no register of deeds is bound to record any deed, mortgage or other instruments, unless the fees therefor are tendered him in advance.]

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and ninety-eight (198) of title seven (7) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to sheriffs.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and ninety-eight (198) of title seven (7) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 198. If any sheriff or deputy sheriff fails to settle with and pay over to the board of county commissioners, according to law, any money collected or received by him for the use of or belonging to the county, or shall fail to settle with and pay over to the person or persons entitled thereto any money he may have collected or received by virtue of any execution, process, judgment order or decree, or in any other way by virtue of his office, such board of county commissioners, or such person or persons, may proceed against such sheriff and deputy sheriff in a summary manner before the district court by an order upon him to show cause why he should not pay over such money, and upon the hearing thereof the court may order such sheriff or deputy sheriff to pay to such board of county commissioners or to the person or persons so entitled thereto the amount found due, with twenty per centum thereon as damages for such failure, together with all costs of the proceedings under this section, and upon failure to comply with such order he may be committed to jail as for a contempt.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 24, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and twenty-five (125) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to county commissioners.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and twenty-five (125) of chapter eight (8) of the General Statutes of A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same is hereby amended by inserting between the words "direct" and "a" in the fifth line thereof the following words, "the county surveyor and, where there be no county surveyor then."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT relating to the records in the offices of the register of deeds.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That in all cases where deeds or other conveyances of real estate within this state, or letters of attorney authorizing the same, have heretofore been actually recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county where the real estate thereby affected was at the time of the making of such records or is situate, whether such deeds, conveyances and letters of attorney were duly and properly admitted to record or otherwise, all such records may nevertheless be read in evidence in any court within this state, and shall be received as prima facie evidence of the contents of the original instruments of which they purport to be the records, and all such records shall in all respects have the same force and effect as they would have if such original instruments at the time they were so recorded had been legally entitled to record.

SEC. 2. That duly authenticated copies of aforesaid record may be read in evidence in any court within this state with the same effect as the records themselves aforesaid.

Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to affect any vested rights, nor apply to any action commenced or now pending in any of the courts of this state.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 27, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for a change of the county lines of the counties of Polk and Marshall, in the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the east and west line dividing the counties of Polk and Marshall, instead of being where it now is, shall be on the south line of township one hundred and fifty-four from its intersection with the west line of the state in center of the main channel of the Red river on the west, to the east line of said county of Polk.

SEC. 2. At the time of giving notice of the next general election in the said counties of Polk and Marshall it shall be the duty of the several officers in said counties, required by law, to give notice in like manner that at said election the question will be submitted to the electors of said counties as to whether this law shall be adopted.

SEC. 3. At said election the electors of said counties in favor of the adoption of this law shall have distinctly written or printed or partly written and partly printed, on their ballots, "For change of county line;" those opposed to such adoption the words "Against change of county line." Such vote shall be received and canvassed at the same time and in the same manner and returned to the same officers by the judges of election as votes for county officers.

SEC. 4. The county canvassing boards of said counties, to whom the returns of election are made, shall canvass the returns upon said question in the same manner and at the same time as returns for county officers, and the abstracts thereof shall be made out on one sheet and signed and certified in the same manner as in the case of abstracts of voters for said officers, and shall be deposited in the office of the county auditors of said counties immediately thereafter, and copies thereof duly certified by said auditors forwarded by them to the secretary of state, and the governor of said state shall thereupon, if this law is adopted, make proclamation to that effect in such manner as he may deem advisable.

SEC. 5. When the adoption of the change of county lines herein provided for shall have been proclaimed by the governor as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the register of deeds of said Marshall county to copy and transcribe from the records of the register of deeds of said Polk county, all instruments of any and all descriptions into the proper record book of said Marshall county that relate to the territory so transferred from said Polk county to said Marshall county, and he shall receive from the treasurer of said Marshall county for such services the sum of ten (10) cents per folio for such service, and said records so transcribed shall be legal records of and pertaining to the property so affected, and shall have the same force and effect in law as though made from the original instruments.

SEC. 6. This act shall in no manner affect the tax levied and uncollected upon the property in the territory so transferred from said Polk county to said Marshall county, but all such taxes shall be collected and the payment thereof enforced by the officers of said Polk county in the same manner as though such change in the county lines had not been made; and the proportion of said taxes so collected by the officers of said Polk county, or any moneys coming into the hands of said Polk county officers belonging to any town or school district within the territory so transferred at the time this act shall take effect, shall be paid over to the town or school district so entitled to the same.

SEC. 7. The indebtedness of Polk county at the time this act shall take effect by proclamation of the governor as aforesaid, except for aid to railroads or for public buildings or public property of said county purchased or contracted for after the passage of this act, shall be borne by said Polk county and said Marshall county in proportion to the value of taxable property of said Polk county and of the territory so transferred respectively, as shown by the then last general assessment of said Polk county for purposes of taxation, and the proportion of such indebtedness belonging to said Marshall county to pay, shall be paid to the treasurer of said Polk county within six months after the adoption of this law shall be proclaimed by the governor as aforesaid, with interest to the date of payment.

SEC. 8. For the purpose of meeting its proportion of the indebtedness of said Polk county as aforesaid and of funding its floating debts, the said county of Marshall is hereby authorized to issue its bonds, bearing seven per cent interest, and payable in ten years, in a sum not exceeding two thousand (2,000) dollars.

SEC. 9. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 10. Section one of this act shall take effect and be in force from and after the proclamation of the governor of the adoption thereof by the vote of the counties of Polk and Marshall, as provided in section four of this act and the balance thereof from and after its passage.

Approved February 21, 1885.

The Public Schools.

ANACT to provide for establishing and conducting a state public school.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The governor shall appoint five (5) commissioners for the purpose of selecting a suitable location and erecting thereon suitable buildings for a state school or temporary home for dependent and neglected children, such institution to be known as the state public school.

SEC. 2. The said commissioners shall have power to receive proposals for the donation of such land to the state for such site, and to receive the same by gift, or they may purchase such site if no proper location shall be given for that purpose, and they may receive donations of money or other securities in behalf of the State of Minnesota for the benefit of such school; and they may locate the same at such point as they shall deem for the best interests of this State. They shall receive no pay for their services under this act, except their traveling and other official expenses. That the governor shall be, ex-officio, a member of such board.

SEC. 3. That the deeds for such site shall be duly executed to the State of Minnesota and delivered to the state auditor; and the state treasurer, thereupon, is hereby directed to pay on the warrant of the state auditor, to such grantor of whom such site shall be purchased, in case of the purchase of the same, such sums of money as may be required to pay for the site. Provided: That not over one thousand ($1,000) dollars shall be paid for that purpose. The said commissioners shall, at their first meeting, appoint from their number a secretary and treasurer.

SEC. 4. That the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886), and ten thousand ($10,000) dollars for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887) is hereby appropriated from any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary of said commissioners to render annually to the state auditor accounts current of all cash transactions and all moneys received with the proper vouchers, and no money shall be drawn by said commissioners unless they shall have first filed with the state auditor an estimate and statement showing the purpose for which money is required.

SEC. 6. The said commissioners shall have the superintendence of the grounds and the design and construction of the necessary buildings, with power to appoint an architect, superintendent and other necessary agents and assistants and to fix the compensation for their services subject to the approval of the governor, the principal building to have a capacity for not less than one hundred (100) children.

SEC. 7. Said commissioners before they enter upon the duties of their office shall each take and subscribe an oath of office and file the same in the office of the secretary of state, and the treasurer of said commissioners shall execute an official bond to the State of Minnesota in the penal sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, with two (2) good and sufficient sureties approved by the governor, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties required of him, and to properly account for all moneys received by him under this act.

SEC. 8. When the state public school shall be finished the said commissioners shall make under their hands a certificate thereof, which shall be transmitted to the governor, who shall thereupon give public notice that the same is ready for the reception of dependent and neglected children. That after the completion of the state public school building, and until the last day of the session of the legislature next succeeding such completion, said commissioners shall have the control and government of said state public school, with the same authority and duties as are given to the board named in section nine (9) of this act.

SEC. 9. The general supervision and government of said state public school shall be vested in a board of control to consist of three (3) members, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, the members of which board shall hold their offices for the respective terms of two (2), four (4) and six (6) years from the last day of the session of the legislature next after the completion of the state public school building, and until their successors shall be appointed and qualified, said respective terms of office to be designated in their several appointments, and thereafter there shall be one of the said board appointed every two (2) years, whose term of office shall continue for six years, or until his successor is appointed and qualified. The members of the said board shall constitute a body corporate, under the name and style of the "Board of Control of the State Public School," with the right of suing and being sued, of making and using a common seal, and altering it at pleasure.

That said board of control shall have the power of taking and holding, by purchase, gift, donation, devise or bequest, real or personal estate to be applied to the use of the institution.

SEC. 10. It shall be the duty of said board of control to meet once in three (3) months on its own adjournments, and oftener if necessary; that the said board shall elect from its own number a president and secretary; also a treasurer, who may or may not be a member of the said board; each of whom shall hold his office during the pleasure of the said board; that the said treasurer shall give his bond to the people of this State, with two (2) or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by the said board and the governor, in the penal sum of at least ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, or in such additional penal sum as said board may require, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties required of him by law, and to account for and pay over as required by law all moneys received by him as such treasurer, and when not a member of said board may be paid for his services as other employes of said institution.

The said board of control shall establish a system of government for the institution, and shall make all necessary rules and regulations for enforcing discipline, imparting instruction, preserving health, and for the proper physical, intellectual and moral training of children. The said board shall appoint a superintendent, a matron, and such other officers, teachers, and employees as shall be necessary, who shall severally hold their offices or places during the pleasure of said board, and said board shall prescribe their duties and fix their salaries, subject to the approval of the governor.

SEC. 11. There shall be received as pupils in said school those children who are declared dependent on the public for support, as provided in this act, who are over three (3) and under fourteen (14) years of age, and who are in suitable condition of body and mind to receive instruction. That said board is authorized in admitting children to give preference to those under twelve (12) years of age. That those admitted, unless sent from the institution as provided by this act, shall be retained until they are sixteen (16) years of age, and may be retained after that age in the option of said board until a home is procured for them. That said board is authorized to return to the county sending it any child when it shall become sixteen (16) years of age and no home has been procured, or whenever after its admission it shall be ascertained to the satisfaction of said board that the child was of unsound mind or unsound body at the time of its admission, or if for any other reason said board shall consider said child an improper inmate of said school; that, in the case of the return of any child as herein provided to the county sending it, the guardianship of this board shall cease and the child shall again become a charge on the county sending it. The said board of control shall report in writing to the county commissioners of the proper county the reason for returning the child.

SEC. 12. The children in such school shall be maintained and educated in the branches usually taught in common schools, and shall have proper physical and moral training.

SEC. 13. It is declared to be the object of this act to provide for such children a temporary home only in said school until homes can be procured for them in good families. The said board of control is hereby made the legal guardian of all children who shall become inmates of the said school. It shall be the duty of said board of control to use special diligence in providing suitable homes for such children, and it is hereby authorized to place them in such families on a written contract during minority, or until eighteen (18) years of age, in the discretion of said board of control, providing for their education in the public schools where they may reside, for teaching them some useful occupation, for kind and proper treatment as members of the family where placed, and for the payment, on the termination of such contract, to said board of control, for the use of the child, any sum of money that may be provided for in said instrument.

SEC. 14. That whenever there shall be sufficient room for the reception of the class of children described in this act in such state public school, no such children shall hereafter be maintained in county poorhouses. That in receiving such children into such school preference shall be given first to dependent and indigent orphans or half-orphans of deceased soldiers of this State.

SEC. 15. Whenever inquired of by the county commissioners of any county, and whenever there is room for one or more children in said school from any county, it shall be the duty of the superintendent of said school to notify the county commissioners of such county how many children they can send to said school. That whenever there are more admissible children in the several counties than can be received in said school, it shall be the duty of the superintendent of said school to divide such admissions pro rata among the counties according to the number of dependent children in each at the time of such admission, giving preference to counties of the same or larger population that have had less admitted into said school. That whenever the county commissioners of any county shall be informed by the superintendent of said school that any dependent children from their county can be admitted into said school it shall be their duty to forward them to said school as provided in this act as soon as practicable. That the expense of transportation of children to said school pursuant to law and the expense of returning any of said children to their counties after their admission by said board of control as improper inmates of said school shall be audited by the board of state auditors and paid from the general fund.

SEC. 16. Before the county commissioners shall send any child to said school they shall cause him to be brought before the judge of probate, in the county where the child belongs, for examination by the judge of probate as to his alleged dependence; and it shall be the duty of the county commissioners of each county, in the case of children in the poorhouses, or other children which shall be found in a state of want or suffering, or being abandoned or improperly exposed, or children in any orphan asylum, where the officers thereof desire to surrender them to the care of the State, whenever there shall be a vacancy for their county in said school, to bring such children before the said judge of probate for said examination, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the said judge of probate to investigate the facts in each case, and ascertain whether such children are dependent, their ages, names, and residence of parents, and in what county poorhouse or orphan asylum they have been kept, if any, and for how long a time; and said judge of probate shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and may, in his discretion, request the attendance of the prosecuting attorney for such examinations, and if so requested it shall be the duty of such prosecuting attorney to attend in behalf of the county. The parents or any friend may appear in behalf of any child, and in his discretion the said judge of probate may request any county commissioner to appear in behalf of any child, and if on such examination the said judge of probate shall find that any child is dependent and neglected, he shall enter such finding by a proper order in the journal of the probate court in his office, and shall deliver to the county commissioners procuring such examination a certified copy of such order, which shall contain, besides said findings, a statement of the facts so far as ascertained as to the age of the child, names and residence of parents, and name of county poorhouse or orphan asylum where the child has been maintained, and the length of time of such maintenance; and in the case of the examination of two or more children at the same time, only one (1) order need be made, and said certified copy of said order shall be delivered with the child at said school to the superintendent thereof.

SEC. 17. It shall be the duty of said board of control to provide and keep in said institution a record in which shall be entered the names, residence and ages of the children received, the residence, business habits, and character of the parents if living and known, the date of reception in school, the date of indenture contract, and the name, occupation and residence of the person with whom the child is placed. A brief history of each child shall be maintained during its minority.

SEC. 18. The said board of control is authorized to designate some officer, teacher or other employe connected with said school, to act as agent thereof, and who shall act in that capacity during the pleasure of said board of control, and shall be known as the agent of the state public school; and his duties as such agent shall be prescribed by said board, and shall include the visiting, as often and at such times as said board of control shall determine, any and all children placed in charge of any person by said board of control; to inquire into the condition of such children, and make such investigation as may be necessary in relation thereto, and report the same to said board of control, to investigate all applications to take such children by adoption or otherwise to such suitable persons who are willing to adopt, take charge of or otherwise take and keep any children sent to said school, and to enter into a contract in writing, in behalf and under the instructions of said board of control with the persons taking such child, and all such contracts shall contain a clause reserving to said board of control the right to withdraw the child from any person having him when, in the opinion of the board, the welfare of the child requires it.

The said agent, while acting as such, shall be paid his necessary traveling expenses by the treasurer of said board of control, after being allowed and certified by said board of control.

SEC. 10. The said board of control shall biennially report to the governor, legislature and superintendent of public instruction, presenting a detailed statement of the operations of said institution for the two (2) fiscal years preceding the regular session of the legislature, which shall include the report of the treasurer of said board of control of all receipts and disbursements in his office for the same period, and the report of the superintendent for the same period, setting forth the condition of said school, the names of regular employes and the salary of each, the number of children who have received instruction, the average number during each year in the school, the discipline prescribed, the studies pursued, the books used, the expense per capita for average attendance, the expense per capita estimating therein the expenses additional for those indentured, and such other information as he may deem important, or the governor or superintendent of public instruction may request. The members of said board of control shall be allowed the expenses necessarily incurred by them in the discharge of their official duties, and three (3) dollars per day for their official services actually and necessarily performed, which shall be audited by the state auditor and paid from the general fund.

SEC. 20. That whenever the county commissioners of any county shall bring any child before the judge of probate for examination as to his alleged dependence, as provided in section sixteen (16) of this act, they shall present to said judge an application in writing which shall be filed in his office for such examination, which shall be signed by at least two (2) of said commissioners, in which they shall certify that in their opinion the child named is dependent on the public for support, and that he has no parents against whom his support can be enforced.

SEC. 21. That the superintendent, or agent, or board of control of the state public school, is hereby authorized to consent to the adoption of any child who has or shall become an inmate of said institution, by any person or persons, pursuant to the provisions of any act entitled "An act to provide for changing the name of minor adopted children and of other persons," approved February twenty-sixth (26), Eighteen hundred and seventy-six, and that on such adoption the said board of control shall cease to be the guardian of the child so adopted.

SEC. 22. That whenever, on the examination provided for in this act, the judge of probate shall determine that the child is dependent on the public for support or neglected, he shall cause it to be examined by the county physician, if there be one, and if not, then by a respectable practicing physician, and shall in no case enter the order in his journal showing the child is admissible to this school unless the physician making such examination shall certify in writing, under oath, filed in said court, that the child examined by him is, [in] his opinion, of sound mind, and has no chronic or contagious disease, and in his opinion has not been exposed to any contagious disease within fifteen (15) days previous to such examination before the judge of probate. That a copy of such certificate shall be attached to the other papers provided by this act, to accompany each child to this school.

SEC. 23. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section sixteen (16) of chapter thirty-six (36) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to education.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the second proviso of section sixteen (16), chapter thirty-six (36), General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 16. Provided, second, that if any five or more voters, who are freeholders residing in the district and who may feel aggrieved by the alteration or organization of their district, shall make and file with the county auditor a written application to the county commissioners for a rehearing of any matter in relation to school districts upon which they have entered their order not more than twenty days prior to such filing, said auditor shall present the same at their next session thereafter to said commissioners, who shall thereupon cause notice of a rehearing of such matter to be served upon the clerks of the affected districts, and posted as provided in case of petition; and at the time and place stated in such notice, or at any subsequent time to which the same may be adjourned, they shall hear such grievance, and make such order in the premises as they may think justice requires.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT requiring the education of all healthy children.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That every parent, guardian or other person in the State of Minnesota, having control of any child or children between the ages of eight and sixteen years shall be required to send such child or children to a public school or private school, taught by a competent instructor, for a period of at least twelve (12) weeks in each year, at least six (6) weeks of which time shall be consecutive, unless such child or children are excused from such attendance by the board of the school district or the board of education of the city or independent school district in which such parent, guardian or person having control resides, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that such parent or guardian was not able, by reason of poverty, to clothe such child properly, or that such child's bodily or mental condition has been such as to prevent his attendance at school or application to study for the period required, or that such child or children are taught at home in such branches of study as are usually taught in the public schools, subject to the same examination as other pupils of the district or city in which the child resides, or that he has already acquired the ordinary branches required by law, or that there is no school taught within two (2) miles by the nearest traveled road.

SEC. 2. Any parent, guardian or other person failing to comply with the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined in a sum not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars for the first offense, nor less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars for the second and every subsequent offense. Said action shall be prosecuted in the name of the State of Minnesota, before any court of competent jurisdiction, and all fines so collected shall be paid into the county treasury of the proper county for the support of common schools.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of any school director or president of the board of education to inquire into all cases of neglect of the duty prescribed in this act, and ascertain from the person neglecting the reasons, if any, therefor, and shall forthwith proceed to secure the prosecution of any offense occurring under this act; and any director or president neglecting to secure such prosecution for such offense within ten days after a written notice has been served on him by any taxpayer in said district or city, unless the person so complained of shall be excused by the district or city board or board of education, for reasons hereinbefore stated, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine of not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, which fine shall be prosecuted for and in the name of the State of Minnesota; and such fine, when collected, shall be paid into the county treasury, as in section two of this act.

SEC. 4. That upon the trial of any offense as charged herein, if, upon such trial, it shall be determined that such prosecution was malicious, then the costs in such case shall be adjudged against the complainant and collected as fines in other cases.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section twenty (20), of chapter thirty-six (36), of the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the time of holding annual school meetings in common school districts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twenty (20) of chapter thirty-six (36), General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 20. The officers of each common school district shall be a director, a treasurer and a clerk, who shall be elected by a ballot at the annual meeting, which shall be held on the third Saturday in July of each year, at seven o'clock p. m., unless a different hour shall have been fixed by a vote at the last preceding annual meeting. And the term of office of any common school district officer that should expire in September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885), shall expire on the last day of July, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885), and the term of office of any common school district officer that should expire in September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886), shall expire on the last day of July, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886), and the term of office of any common school district officer that should expire in September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887), shall expire on the last day of July, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven. The clerk shall, within three (3) days after the meeting notify such persons of their elections, and they shall enter upon their terms of office on the first day of August in each year, and continue in office until their successors are elected and qualified, under the following order of the boards elected at the annual meeting in October, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two (1872). The director shall hold his office one year, the treasurer two years, and the clerk three years, and thereafter one trustee shall be elected annually. But when a new district is formed, a meeting for organization may be called by a notice stating the object of such meeting, signed by three freeholders or householders residing within the limits thereof, and posted in five conspicuous places in the district, ten days before the time fixed for holding such meeting, and such meeting so called shall have the same power as annual meetings; provided, that the board of trustees elected at such meeting shall hold their respective offices until the next annual meeting; and, of the officers elected by any district at the first annual meeting after the organization, the director shall hold his office for one year, the treasurer two years and the clerk three years. Provided, second, if an annual meeting is not held, or if for any reason a trustee is not elected to an office the term of which expires at the regular annual meeting of that year, the incumbent of such office shall hold over until its next annual meeting in the following year, and until his successor is duly elected at a regular annual meeting."

SEC. 2. That section ninety-seven (97) of chapter thirty-six (36) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, as amended in 1881, chapter forty-one (41), section nine (9), be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "first Saturday in September" in the seventh and twelfth lines, and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "third Saturday in July," and also by adding to the said section (97) the words: "The terms of all members of boards of education elected at the annual school meetings in 1882, 1883 and 1884 shall expire on the first Saturday in August, [illegible] two years and eleven months from the date of their election.

SEC. 3. That section ninety-nine (99) of said chapter thirty-six (36) be amended by striking out the words "third Saturday in September" in the second and third lines and inserting in lieu thereof the words "first Saturday in August."

SEC. 4. That section thirty-nine (39) and one hundred and five (105) of said chapter thirty-six (36) be and the same are hereby amended by striking out the word "September" wherever it occurs and inserting the word "August."

SEC. 5. That section seventy-one (71) of said chapter thirty-six (36) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the word "October" in the first line and inserting "September."

SEC. 6. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend an act entitled "An act to establish and maintain a system of public schools in the State of Minnesota."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section eight of an act entitled "An act to establish and maintain a system of public schools in the State of Minnesota," approved February 28, 1877, being section twenty-six of chapter thirty-six of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota of A. D. 1878, is hereby amended by adding to the end thereof the following, to wit:

Immediately after the issuing of orders or bonds pursuant to the provisions of this section, the clerk of the school district so issuing its orders or bonds shall file with the county auditor of the county within which such district is situate, certified copies of all the proceedings had in such district relative to the issue of such bonds or orders, and before any bonds or orders issued under the provisions of this section are sold or disposed of, they shall be presented to the county auditor of the county within which the school district issuing the same is situate. He shall carefully examine the proceedings of such school district upon the question of issuing such bonds or orders as filed with him, as hereinbefore directed, and shall satisfy himself by the evidence thus furnished, that all the provisions of the laws of the State of Minnesota relative to the issue of such bonds or orders have been complied with; and if so satisfied he shall, in a book kept for such purpose, preserve a registry of each bond or order, showing in separate columns and entries the name of the school district issuing the bond or order, the number of such bond or order, the denomination thereof, the date of its issue, the date when it will mature, the names of the school officers executing the same, and such other facts as may be pertinent.

And he shall then indorse on each of said bonds or orders the following certificate:

I hereby certify that the within bond (or order) for ——— ( ) dollars, issued by ——— school district ——— of ——— county, Minnesota, is issued in accordance with law, and by authority of two-thirds of all the legal voters of said school district present and voting at a meeting of the legal voters of said district, duly held for that purpose on the — day of ———, 188 .

That said bond (or order) is duly registered in this office, and that said school district is legally organized.

The blanks shall be filled according to the facts and the certificate officially signed by the county auditor, and attested by his official seal.

The validity or obligation of any school district bond or order so registered and certified shall not be questioned in any court or tribunal, but every such bond or order shall be and remain valid and binding upon the district issuing it.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

Amending Civil Code.

AN ACT to amend chapter eleven (11) of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to the assessment and collection of taxes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixteen (16) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by inserting after the word "horses" in the first (1st) subdivision, the words "mules and asses," and by inserting after the words "the number of cows two years old and over," in the second (2nd) subdivision, the words "the number of working oxen," and by striking out the third (3rd) subdivision entirely, and numbering the succeeding sections from "third (3rd)" to "twenty-ninth (29th)" successively.

SEC. 2. That section forty-four (44) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by inserting after the word "auditor," where it occurs in the second line of said section, the words "or in the absence of the county auditor the deputy county auditor," and by striking out of the fifth (5th) subdivision of said section the words "showing the facts and evidence upon which their action is based."

SEC. 3. That section fifty-one (51) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words, "first (1st) day of December," where they occur in the second line of said section, and inserting the words "first day of January" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 4. That section fifty-three (53) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "first (1st) day of December" where they occur in the third (3rd) line of said section and inserting the words "first (1st) Monday in January" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 5. That section fifty-eight (58) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 58. All unpaid personal property taxes shall be deemed delinquent on the first (1st) day of March next after they become due; and thereupon a penalty of ten (10) per cent shall attach and be charged upon all such taxes.

"On the first (1st) day of April in each and every year the county treasurer shall make a list of all such delinquent personal property taxes, which he shall certify to the clerk of the district court of his county, and the said clerk shall immediately issue his warrants to the sheriff of the county directing him to proceed to collect the same, and if such taxes are not paid on demand said sheriff shall distrain sufficient goods and chattels belonging to the person charged with such taxes, if found within the county, to pay the same, with the said penalty of ten (10) per cent and all accruing costs, together with twenty-five (25) cents from each delinquent as compensation to said clerk; provided that in case the sheriff shall fail to collect the tax such sum of twenty-five (25) cents, as compensation, shall be paid by the county. The sheriff shall immediately proceed to advertise the same in three (3) public places in the town or district where such property is taken, stating the time when and the place where such property will be sold; and if the taxes for which such property is distrained and the costs which accrue thereon are not paid before the day appointed for such sale, which shall not be less than ten (10) days after the taking of such property, such sheriff or his deputy shall proceed to sell such property at public vendue, or so much thereof as will be sufficient to pay such taxes and the costs of such distress and sale."

SEC. 6. That section fifty-nine (59) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 59. If the sheriff of said county is unable, for the want of goods and chattels whereon to levy, to collect, by distress or otherwise, the taxes, or any part thereof, which may have been assessed upon the personal property of any person or corporation or any executor or administrator, guardian, receiver, accounting officer, agent or factor, such sheriff shall file with the clerk of the court on the first (1st) day of June following a list of such taxes, with an affidavit of himself or of the deputy sheriff intrusted with the collection of said taxes, stating that he had made diligent search and inquiry for goods and chattels wherewith to make such taxes, and was unable to make or collect the same. He shall note on the margin of such list the place to which any delinquent taxpayers may have removed, with the date of his removal, if he is able to ascertain the fact. The clerk shall deliver such list and affidavit to the board of county commissioners at their first (1st) session thereafter, and they shall cancel such taxes as they are satisfied cannot be collected."

SEC. 7. That section sixty (60) of said chapter eleven (11) be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 60. Within ten (10) days after the adjournment of the board of commissioners the auditor shall file a copy of such revised list with the clerk of the district court of the county; and within ten (10) days after the filing of such copy the clerk shall issue and deliver to the sheriff of the county where the person against whom such tax is claimed may at the time reside, for service, a citation to each delinquent named on the list, stating the amount of tax and penalty, and requiring such delinquent to appear on the first day of the next general term of the district court in the county appointed to be held at a time not less than thirty (30) days after the issuance of such citation, and show cause, if any there be, why he should not pay said tax and penalty; and if he fails to pay said tax, penalty and cost to the sheriff before the first (1st) day of the term, or on said day to show cause as aforesaid, the court shall direct the clerk to enter a judgment against such delinquent for the amount of such tax, penalty and cost.

"Provided, however, that if said sheriff shall for any reason be unable to serve the citation on the person or persons to whom the same is issued, he shall return the same to the clerk of said court with his return thereto, that he was unable to make such service, and thereupon, or in case the court shall for any reason decide that the service of such citation made, or attempted to be made, or that the issuance thereof by the clerk was illegal, the clerk of said court shall issue another citation of the character aforesaid and requiring such delinquent to appear on the first (1st) day of the next general term of the district court to be held in said county, and show cause as aforesaid, and if he fails to pay said tax, penalty and costs to the sheriff before said first (1st) day of said term, or on said day to show cause as aforesaid, the court shall direct the clerk to enter judgment as foresaid. Provided further, That whenever the sheriff has for any reason been unable to serve any citation heretofore issued in such proceeding in any year or years, or whenever the court has or hereafter may for any reason decide that the service of any such citation heretofore made, or attempted to be made or that the issuance thereof by the clerk was illegal, the clerk of said court shall in every such case, issue another citation of the character aforesaid, and requiring such delinquent to appear on the first (1st) day of the next general term of said district court to be held in said county, and to show cause as aforesaid; and if he fail to pay such tax, penalty and costs to the sheriff before the first (1st) day of said term, or on said day to show cause as aforesaid, the court shall direct the clerk to enter judgment as aforesaid. And provided further, That all citation other than said first (1st) shall only be issued on the request of the county attorney.

"Provided further, The citation herein provided for shall be prima facie evidence that all the provisions of law, in relation to the assessment and levy of taxes, have been complied with; and no omission of any of the things by law provided in relation to such assessments and levy, or of anything required by any officer or officers to be done prior to the issuance of such citation, shall be a defense or objection to such taxes, unless it be also made to appear to the court that such omission has resulted to the prejudice of the party objecting, and that such taxes have been unfairly or unequally assessed; and in such case, but in no other, the court may reduce the amount of such taxes and give judgment accordingly. It shall, however, always be a defense to such taxes that the same have been paid or that the property upon which the same were assessed was not subject to taxation."

SEC. 8. That section sixty-one (61) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 61. The clerk shall receive as fees for issuing such citation and perfecting the judgment one (1) dollar and fifty (50) cents in case not contested, and in contested cases such fees as are allowed by law in civil actions. The clerk shall also receive the sum of twenty-five (25) cents for each citation issued in cases where the sheriff shall fail, after diligent inquiry, to find the defendant. Execution shall be issued upon such judgment at the request of the county attorney, and shall state that the judgment was obtained for delinquent personal property taxes, and no property shall be exempt from seizure thereon, and such execution may be renewed and reissued in the same manner as now provided by law in executions upon judgments in civil actions, and all of which said fees and costs shall be entered, taxed and made part of the judgment herein provided for."

SEC. 9. That section sixty-two (62) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 62. If the sheriff of any county shall refuse or neglect to collect any tax assessed upon personal property, where the same is collectible, or to file the delinquent list and affidavit, as herein provided, he shall be held liable for the whole amount of such taxes uncollected, and the same shall be deducted from any bill or bills presented by him to and allowed by the board of county commissioners, and applied to the several funds for which they were levied."

SEC. 10. That section sixty-three (63) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 63. The county auditor, within thirty (30) days after the first (1st) day of June in each year shall make out and forward to the clerk of the court of any county in this state to which any delinquent personal property taxpayer may have removed, statement or account of such delinquent taxes, specifying the value of the property on which said taxes were levied and the amount of taxes levied thereon, to which he shall add an amount equal to the sum of twenty-five (25) per centum on the taxes levied if said delinquent personal property taxpayer left the county in which said taxes were levied after the day upon which the said taxes became due; but if he left the county previous to the said day, then the said county auditor shall not add the said twenty-five per centum."

SEC. 11. That section sixty-four (64) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 64. On receipt of any such statement or account the clerk of the court receiving the same shall issue his warrant to the sheriff of his county, and the sheriff shall immediately proceed to collect the same of the person so charged with said taxes and per centum, together with a fee of twenty-five (25) cents for each warrant so issued, which sum when collected shall be paid to the clerk as his fee for issuing the same, and all taxes thus collected shall be by him remitted to the treasurer of the county to which said taxes belong; and at the same time he shall return the original statement or account to the auditor of the county from which it was received, stating the amount of his collections, and if any taxes remain unpaid the reason why such taxes could not be collected, certifying in his official capacity to the same, and the auditor shall charge the treasurer to whom such remittance is made, with the amount thereof, and cancel said taxes from the list.

"Provided, That in case of all delinquent taxes collected by the sheriff receipts shall be issued to him and payment shall be made in the manner provided in section fifty-six (56) of this chapter."

SEC. 12. That section sixty-five (65) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 65. The sheriff or his deputy shall be allowed the same fees for collecting the said tax, and for making distress and sale of goods and chattels for the payment of taxes, as are allowed by law to constables for making levy and sale of property on execution; traveling fees to be computed from the county seat to the place of making distress, unless such distress is made by his deputy, in which case the same shall be computed from the residence of such deputy, which fees shall be added to the tax and collected by the sheriff. Upon payment to the county treasurer of any personal property tax for which judgment has been obtained, the treasurer shall deliver a certificate of the fact of such payment to the clerk of the court, who shall satisfy the judgment upon the margin of the record thereof, by stating date of payment and number of receipt given therefor, and file such certificate."

SEC. 13. That section sixty-six (66) of said chapter eleven (11) be, and the same is hereby amended by striking out the word "September," in the second (2nd) line of said section, and inserting the word "October" in lieu thereof, and by striking out the words "the February and May settlements" in the seventh (7th) line and inserting the words "each settlement" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 14. That section sixty-eight (68) of chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out "September" in the second (2nd) line of said section and inserting the word "October" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 15. That section sixty-nine (69) of the said chapter eleven (11) be and the same and is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 69. On the first (1st) day of June of each year a penalty of ten (10) per cent shall immediately accrue and thereafter be charged upon all unpaid taxes on real estate on the lists in the hands of the county treasurer; and any treasurer who shall make out and deliver any receipt for such taxes without including such penalty therein, and who shall receive payment of such tax without including such penalty therein, shall be liable to the county for the amount of such penalty. On the first (1st) Monday in January of each year the county treasurer shall return to the county auditor the several tax lists in his hands, having compared the same with his duplicate receipts on file in the auditor's office, and written opposite the amount of each tax so receipted for the word "paid," and the number of the treasurer's receipt given in discharge of such tax, and each tract or lot of real property against which the taxes remain unpaid shall be deemed delinquent, and thereupon an additional penalty of five (5) per cent on the amount of the original tax shall immediately accrue and thereafter be charged upon all such delinquent taxes, and any auditor who shall make out and deliver any statement of delinquent taxes without including the penalties imposed by this section therein, and any treasurer who shall receive payment of such taxes without including such penalties, shall be liable to the county for the amount of such penalties omitted."

SEC. 16. That section seventy (70) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "fifteenth (15th) day of June," where they occur in the second line of said section, and inserting the words "twentieth (20th) day of January" in lieu thereof; and by inserting the word "total" before the word "amount" in the eighth (8th) line of said section.

SEC. 17. That section seventy-one (71) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words, "first (1st) day of June," where they occur in the eleventh (11th) line of said section, and inserting the words, "first (1st) Monday in January" in lieu thereof, and by striking out the words, "within twenty (20) days after the last publication of this notice," where they occur in the fourteenth (14th) line of said section, and inserting the words, "on or before the twentieth (20th) day of March 18—," in lieu thereof.

SEC. 18. That section seventy-two (72) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words, "or at the meeting of said board in March," where they occur in the twelfth (12th) and thirteenth lines of said section, and adding to said section the following:

"Provided, That the papers designated by the commissioners of the several counties in January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885), shall be entitled to publish the list of lands delinquent for taxes on the first (1st) Monday in January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886)."

SEC. 19. That section seventy-six (76) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "upon the expiration of twenty (20) days from the last publication of said notice and list," where they occur in the first (1st) and second (2d) lines of said section, and inserting the words "on the twenty-first (21st) day of March 18—" in lieu thereof, and by inserting before the word "enter" in the third (3rd) line of said section the words "proceed to," and by striking out the words "on the first (1st) of June, 18—," where they occur in the ninth (9th) and eleventh (11th) lines of said section, and inserting the words "on the first Monday in January, 18—," in lieu thereof, and by inserting the words "and the twentieth (20th) day of March, 18— has passed" before the word "and" in the fourteenth (14th) line of said section, and by striking out the words "and more than twenty (20) days having elapsed since the last publication of said notice and list," where they occur in the sixteenth (16th) and seventeenth (17th) lines of said section. That section ninety-five (95) be amended as follows: By striking out the word twelve (12) wherever it appears in said section, and insert in lieu thereof the word fifteen. [illegible]

SEC. 20. That section eighty-two (82) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "on the third (3rd) Monday in September" where they occur in the first (1st) line of said section, and inserting the words "on the first Monday in May" in lieu thereof, and by striking out the words "first (1st) day of June" where they occur in the twenty-fourth (24th) line of said section and inserting the words "first (1st) Monday in January" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 21. That section one hundred and one (101) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "all tracts or lots becoming so forfeited to the state shall be stricken from the tax lists, and shall not be assessed or taxed until sold to an actual purchaser," and by adding to said section the following:

"Provided, That if any lands having valuable timber thereon have been or may hereafter be sold under the provisions of this section and an amount of timber equal in value to the amount paid by the purchaser under this section shall have been removed or sold by said purchaser, or his assignee, then said purchaser or assignee shall not be entitled to any refundment from the county, if the title obtained from the State proves to be invalid for any reason except that the taxes had been paid prior to said sale under this section."

SEC. 22. That section one hundred and five (105) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "first day of December," when they occur in said section and inserting the words "first Monday in January" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 23. That section one hundred and thirteen (113) of said chapter eleven (11) as amended by chapter five (5) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (1881) be and the same is hereby amended by adding the following: "If any tax on any property liable to taxation is prevented from being collected for any year or years by reason of any erroneous proceedings or other cause, the amount of such tax which such property should have paid shall be added to the tax on such property for the current year.

SEC. 24. That section one hundred and twenty-seven (127) of said chapter eleven (11) be and the same is hereby repealed.

SEC. 25. The taxes extended on the tax lists, December first (1st), one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four (1884), shall become delinquent, and penalties shall accrue and sales take place in the manner and form as provided by said chapter eleven (11) as amended by this act.

SEC. 26. That section seventy-five of said chapter eleven be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "within twenty days" where they occur in the third line of said section and inserting the words "on or before the twentieth day of March next" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 27. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 28. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to establish a board of inspectors for steam vessels and steam boilers, and to provide for licensing engineers of steam engines, and to amend chapter 111 of the General Laws of Minnesota, for the year 1881.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter one hundred and eleven (111) of the General Laws of Minnesota for the year 1881, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. There shall be appointed by the governor a board of three (3) inspectors, whose duty it shall be to inspect all steam boilers in use within the State, not subject to inspection under the laws of the United States, and to examine and grant certificates of license to all steam engineers entrusted with the care and management of steam boilers. Said inspectors shall hold their respective offices for three (3) years from the date of appointment, unless removed, for cause, by the governor.

SEC. 3. No person shall be eligible to hold the office of inspector of boilers who is either directly nor directly interested in he manufacturer or sale of boilers or steam machinery, or any patented article required to be used in or of general use in the construction of steam engines or boilers, or who is not of good moral character, and suitably qualified by experience in the construction of steam boilers, or such experience in their manufacture as to enable him to perform the duties of the office, and no person shall enter upon or perform any of the duties of inspector who has not taken and subscribed an oath, and filed the same with the secretary of state, that he will faithfully and impartially perform the duties of his office.

SEC. 4. Said inspectors shall, in April next after the passage of this act, and each year thereafter, meet as a board at the capitol in St. Paul, and establish such rules and regulations for the inspection of the steam boilers herein provided for as shall be required by the terms of this chapter. They shall also prescribe rules and regulations for the inspection of the hulls, machinery, boilers, steam connections, fire apparatus, life saving appliances, and equipments of all steamers propelled in whole or in part by steam, and navigating the inland waters of the state. They shall also designate the number of passengers that each steam vessel may safely carry, and it shall be unlawful for any master or owner of any steam vessel herein provided for, to carry a greater number of passengers than is allowed by the inspector's certificate, and such regulations, when approved by the governor, shall have the force of law.

SEC. 5. Every owner, lessee or other person, having charge of steam boilers, or any boat propelled in whole or in part by steam, not subject to inspection, under the laws of the United States, shall cause the same to be inspected at least once in each year, by the inspectors herein provided for, and every such owner, lessee or person, having charge of such boilers or steam vessel, who shall raise steam and operate such boilers and machinery, without such inspection, shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred (100) dollars, said amount to accrue to the State.

SEC. 6. The said inspectors shall once in each year, at least, upon application in writing of the owner, lessee, or manager, carefully inspect the hull, boiler, machinery, and equipments of all steam vessels liable to inspection under this act, and shall satisfy themselves that every such vessel is of a structure suitable for the service in which she is to be employed, and has suitable accommodations for passengers and the crew, and is in a condition to warrant the belief that she may be used in navigation as a steamer with safety to life, and that such equipments as life preservers, floats, pumps, hose, anchors and other things necessary to insure safety, have been provided. When the inspection of a steam vessel is completed and the inspectors approve the vessel and her equipments throughout, they shall make and subscribe a certificate to the secretary of state, in such form as the board of inspectors shall prescribe; such certificate shall be subscribed and verified by the oath of the inspector making it, and a copy of said certificate, shall be furnished by the inspector to the managing owner or master of said steam vessel, who shall post the same in a conspicuous place on said boat. The original certificate shall be kept on file in the office of the secretary of state.

SEC. 7. The said inspectors shall, in addition to their duties as inspectors of steam vessels, inspect all steam boilers or steam generators before the same shall be used, and once at least in every year thereafter they shall subject all boilers to hydrostatic pressure, and shall satisfy themselves by a thorough examination that the boilers are well made of good and suitable material; that the openings for the passage of water and steam respectively, and all pipes and tubes exposed to heat are of proper dimensions and free from obstructions; that the flues are circular in form; that the friction [fire line] of the furnace is at least two (2) inches below the prescribed minimum water line of the boilers; that the arrangements for delivering the feed water is such that the boilers cannot be injured thereby, and that such boilers and their steam connections may be safely employed without peril to life.

They shall also satisfy themselves that the safety-valves are of suitable dimensions, sufficient in number and properly arranged, and that the safety-valve weights are properly adjusted so as to allow no greater pressure in the boilers than the amount prescribed by the inspection certificate; that there is a sufficient number of gauge cocks properly inserted, and to indicate the pressure of steam, suitable gauges that will correctly record the pressure of steam; and that the fusible metals are properly inserted so as to fuse by the heat of the furnace, whenever the water in the boilers falls below its prescribed limits, and that adequate and certain provisions for an ample supply to feed the boilers at all times, so that in high pressure boilers the water shall not be less that four (4) inches above the top of the flues, and that means for blowing out are provided, so as to thoroughly remove the mud and sediment from all parts of the boiler, when they are under pressure of steam.

In subjecting to the hydrostatic tests boilers usually designated as high pressure, the inspectors shall assume one hundred and twenty-five (125) pounds to the square inch, as the maximum pressure allowable, as a working pressure for new boilers of forty-two (42) inches in diameter, made in the best manner, of plates, one-fourth of an inch thick, of good materials; but the inspector shall rate the working power of all high-pressure boilers according to their strength, compared with this standard, and in all cases the test applied shall exceed the working power allowed, in the ratio of one hundred and sixty-five (165) to one hundred and ten (110).

In subjecting to the hydrostatic test boilers usually designated as low pressure, the inspector shall allow as a working power for each new boiler, a pressure of only three-fourths the number of pounds to the square inch to which it has been subjected by the hydrostatic test. Should the inspector be of the opinion that any boiler, by reason of its construction or material, will not safely allow so high a working pressure as herein provided, they may, for reasons to be stated specially in their certificate, fix the pressure of such boiler at less than three-fourths of the test pressure. No boiler or steam pipe nor any of the connections therewith shall be approved, which is made in whole or part of bad material, or is unsafe from any cause. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the use of any boiler or steam generator which may not be constructed of riveted iron or steel plates, when the board of inspectors have satisfactory evidence that such boiler or steam generator is equal in strength and as safe from explosion as boilers of the best quality constructed of riveted iron or steel plates.

SEC. 8. Every person who constructs a boiler or steam pipe of iron or steel plates known to be faulty or imperfect, or who drills any rivet hole to make it come fair, or who delivers any such boiler for use knowing it to be imperfect in its flues, flanging, riveting, bracing or in any other of its parts, shall be fined two hundred (200) dollars, one-half for the use of the informer.

SEC. 9. In addition to the annual inspection, it shall be the duty of the inspectors to examine at proper times when in their opinion such examination shall become necessary all such boilers as shall become unsafe from any cause, and to notify the owners or person using such boilers of any defect and what repairs are necessary in order to render them safe, and it shall be the duty of the person operating any such boiler to cease to use the same until such repairs are made; and in case of failure to comply with the requirements of said inspector, the person operating any such boiler shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred (100) dollars, and liable for any damage to person or property resulting therefrom.

SEC. 10. Every steam boiler shall be provided with a fusible plug of good Banca tin, inserted in the flues, crown-sheet or other parts of the boiler most exposed to the heat of the furnace when the water falls below the prescribed limits.

SEC. 11. It shall be the duty of owners or managers of steam boilers, mentioned in this act, to allow said inspectors free access to the same, and it is hereby made the duty of engineers operating the same to assist the inspectors in their examinations and to point out any defect they may know in the boiler or machinery in their charge.

SEC. 12. No person shall be entrusted with the operating of any steam boiler or steam machinery who has not been examined by an inspector and found competent to perform the duties of an engineer, and received from such inspector a written or printed license to so act.

Engineers shall be divided into three classes, viz: Chief engineer, assistant engineer and special engineer.

No license shall be granted to any person to perform the duties of chief engineer whose knowledge of steam machinery and experience as an engineer is not such as to justify the belief that he is competent to take charge of all classes of boilers and machinery. No license shall be granted to any person to act as assistant engineer unless his knowledge of steam machinery and habits of life are such as to warrant the belief that he is competent to manage safely and without danger to life ordinary steam machinery.

Special engineers may be licensed to operate steam thresher engines and engines of kindred class where found on examination to be sufficiently acquainted with the duties of an engineer to warrant the belief that he can safely be entrusted to perform such duty. Whenever complaint is made against an engineer holding a license from a state inspector that he has, through negligence, want of skill, or inattention to duty permitted his boilers to burn or otherwise become in bad condition, it shall be the duty of the inspector upon satisfactory proof of such negligence to revoke the license of such engineer.

SEC. 13. In making the inspection of boilers, machinery or steam vessels, herein provided for, the inspectors may act jointly or separately, but the inspector or inspectors making such inspections shall, in all cases, subscribe and make oath to the certificate of inspection. Any inspector who shall wilfully certify falsely regarding any steam boiler or their attachments, or the hull and equipments of any steam vessel, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred (500) dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding one year in the state prison, or both, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. 14. The inspectors shall be authorized to charge a fee of five (5) dollars for the inspection of each single boiler and its steam connections, and two (2) dollars for each additional boiler, when connected, said fee being payable at the time of the delivery of the inspector's certificate of approval. The fee for the examination of engineers and for the issuing of a license certificate shall be one dollar, and for the annual renewal of the same, fifty cents, said amounts to be equally divided among the inspectors, who shall receive no other compensation for their services.

SEC. 15. This act shall not apply to railroad locomotives, nor to boilers owned or controlled by railway companies, unless used upon steam vessels navigating the inland waters of the state; nor shall it apply to boilers inspected by insurance companies, and certified by their authorized inspectors to be safe. Nor shall engineers employed by railroad companies be required to procure licenses from the state board of inspectors, but the penalties herein provided for shall not obtain in any case prior to the time the inspector or inspectors have notified the persons affected that they are ready to make the inspection as herein provided for.

SEC. 16. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 17. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after April 15th, 1885.

Approved March 10, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and eight (108) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), relating to the draining and reclaiming of lands.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two (2) of chapter one hundred and eight (108) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows: That before the board of county commissioners shall establish any ditch, drain or water course there shall be filed with the auditor of such county a petition signed by one or more of the land owners whose lands will be liable to be affected by or assessed for the expense of the construction of the same, setting forth the necessity thereof, with a general description of the proposed starting point, route and terminus; and such petitioner or petitioners shall give a bond with good and sufficient freehold sureties, payable to the State, to be approved by the auditor, conditioned to pay all expense in case the board of commissioners shall fail to establish said proposed ditch, drain or water course. As soon as said petition is filed, said board shall, if in regular session, or at their next regular session, appoint three (3) resident freeholders of the county not interested in the construction of the proposed work and not of kin to any parties interested therein, as viewers, to meet at a time and place specified by said board preparatory to commencing their duties as hereinafter specified; and it shall be the duty of the auditor, thereupon, to issue to said viewers a certified copy of the petition and order of the board, who shall proceed, at the time set in said order, with a surveyor who shall be a civil engineer, and shall make an accurate survey of the line of said ditch, drain or water course, from its source to its outlet; and they shall, when the nature of the ground will admit, cause stakes or monuments to be set along said line, numbered progressively down stream, at each one hundred (100) feet, and they shall make a computation of the total number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed from said ditch, drain or water course, and an estimate of the total cost of construction of the whole work; and they shall, if they deem it consistent and practicable, set apart and apportion to each parcel of land and to each corporate road or railroad and to the county, when public highways are benefited, a share of said work in proportion to the benefits which will result to each from such improvements, and give location of each share, its length in feet and the estimated number of cubic yards of earth to be removed therefrom, and the price per cubic yard, and the cost of construction of each share or allotment separately when allotments shall have been made, and specify the manner in which the work shall be done; and they shall have power, when they find it necessary, to provide for running said ditch under ground, through drain tiles or other materials as they deem best, by specifying the size and kind of tile or other material to be used in such underground work, and shall estimate the cost of the same as a part of the total cost of the work; and they shall accurately describe, as the same is described on the county tax duplicate, each parcel of the land to be assessed for the construction of said ditch, giving the number of acres in each tract assessed, and the estimated number of acres benefited, the amount that each tract of land will be benefited by the construction of said work and the amount that each tract is assessed therefor. And they shall, in tabular form, give the depth of cut, width at the bottom and width at the top, at the source, outlet, and at each one hundred (100) foot stake or monument, when the same shall have been erected, of said ditch, drain or water course. And they shall also, ascertain and give the names of the owners of the lands that are assessed for the construction of said ditch, drain or water course, as far as they can be ascertained with reasonable inquiry and search of the public records, and report also whether or not the proposed ditch, drain or water course will be of public utility.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section four (4) of chapter thirty-seven (37) of the General Laws of 1875, the same being section eight (8) of chapter seven (7) of General Statutes of 1878 relating to reimbursing the county treasuries of the several counties for the salaries of probate judges, and expenses of probate courts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section four (4) of chapter thirty-seven (37) of the General Laws of 1875, the same being section eight (8) of chapter seven (7) of General Statutes of 1878, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 4. For the purpose of reimbursing the county treasury for the salaries provided to be paid in this act to the judge of probate, it shall be the duty of each executor, administrator or guardian to pay or cause to be paid to the county treasurer for the use and benefit of the county in whose probate court proceedings are to be instituted to settle the estate of any deceased person, minor, spendthrift, or insane person, the following sums according to the value of the estate and property of such deceased person, minor, spendthrift or insane person, shown by the inventory and appraisal, that is to say, ten dollars when such value shall exceed $2,000 and shall not exceed $5,000, $25 when such value shall exceed $5,000 and not exceed $10,000, $35 when such value exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $15,000, $50 when such value exceeds $15,000 and does not exceed $20,000, $75 when such value exceeds $20,000 and does not exceed $35,000, $100 when such value exceeds $35,000 and does not exceed $50,000, $200 when such value exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $75,000, $300 when such value exceeds $75,000 and does not exceed $100,000, $500 when such value exceeds $100,000 and does not exceed $150,000, $800 when such value exceeds $150,000 and does not exceed $200,000, $1,000 when such value exceeds $200,000 and does not exceed $500,000, $5,000 when such value exceeds $500,000; and in addition such executor, administrator or guardian shall pay all sums necessarily expended in serving or publishing notices required by law.

There shall be no discrimination made between resident and non-resident executors, administrators or guardians or the estate of residents or non-residents of the State. No other or different sum shall be required to be paid by any party asking the aid of such probate court, except as provided above.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, save that estates now pending shall be required to pay no more than the law in force of which this is amendatory requires.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter five (5) General Laws of the State of Minnesota, passed at extra session 1881, entitled, "An act to amend title nine (9) of chapter sixty-five (65) of General Statutes of 1878, relating to the action of replevin in justices' courts."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1) of chapter five (5) of General Laws passed at extra session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (1881) be amended so as to read as follows: The plaintiff shall also execute a bond to the defendant, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the justice, in a penalty at least double the value of the property sought, as appears by the affidavit filed, conditioned that he will appear on the return day of the writ and prosecute his action to judgment, and return the property to the defendant, if a return thereof is ordered by the court, and also pay all costs and damages that may be adjudged against him. The bond shall be filed with the justice for the use of any person injured by the proceedings, and an action may be maintained on such bond to recover the amount of any judgment rendered on dismissal of the action for want of jurisdiction, or any other cause, or for failure to abide by any such judgment, or to return the property when ordered by the court upon such dismissal.

SEC. 2. That section two (2) of chapter five (5) of General Laws passed at extra session 1881, be amended to read as follows: Upon the approval and filing by the justice of the bond required by section one (1) of this act, the justice shall issue a writ directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county in which the action may be brought, commanding him to take the property described therein, and deliver the same to the plaintiff, and summon the defendant to appear and answer the same on the return day mentioned in the writ."

SEC. 3. That section three (3) of chapter five (5) of General Laws passed at extra session of 1881 be amended so as to read as follows: "In obedience to such writ, the officer receiving such writ shall forthwith take possession of the property mentioned in the writ, if the same is in the possession of the defendant or his agent, for which purpose he may break open any dwelling house or other enclosure, having first demanded entrance, and exhibited his authority, if required, and shall return the writ immediately after the service thereof, and state in his return fully in what manner he served and executed the same."

SEC. 4. That section four (4) of chapter five (5) of General Laws passed at the extra session of 1881 be amended so as to read as follows: If the property sought be not obtained, the plaintiff, if he establishes his right thereto, shall recover the value of that right; whether obtained or not, he shall recover the damages and costs he has sustained in consequence of the illegal detention, or the taking or withholding thereof, and upon the entry of any such judgment the justice shall, at the expiration of ten days thereafter, if no appeal be taken from said judgment, issue execution for the costs and damages awarded to said plaintiff, together with the amount due plaintiff as the value of the property not obtained and to which plaintiff is entitled.

SEC. 5. That section five (5) of chapter five (5) of General Laws passed at extra session of 1881 be amended so as to read as follows: If the plaintiff fails to establish his right to the property, or the action is dismissed by the justice for want of jurisdiction, or other cause, or the action is dismissed by the plaintiff, the defendant shall recover such damages and costs as under the circumstances he shows himself entitled, and in addition thereto may have judgment for the return of the property or the value thereof, if the same shall have been taken out of his possession or delivered to the plaintiff.

SEC. 6. All laws or parts of laws heretofore passed, and inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections thirteen (13), fourteen (14), seventeen (17), eighteen (18) and nineteen (19), of chapter fifty-nine (59), of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to guardians and wards.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That sections thirteen (13), fourteen (14), seventeen (17), eighteen (18) and nineteen (19), of chapter fifty-nine (59), of the General Statutes of 1878, be amended to read as follows:

Section 13. That when any person has been or hereafter is appointed guardian of any person, said guardian shall, within three months after the passage of this act if already appointed, and within three months after his appointment if hereafter appointed, make and file in the probate court by which the appointment is made a schedule of all the property belonging to the estate of such person.

Section 14. Upon the filing of such schedule the probate judge shall make an order appointing a time and place when and where he will hear, examine and allow claims against the estate of such person which have vested at and prior to the appointment of such guardian, which time shall be not less than six (6) nor more than twelve months from the time of making said order in the first instance, and shall cause a copy of said order to be served upon the next of kin of such person by posting it in four public places in said county and a publication thereof for a period of four weeks in some newspaper printed and published in the county where such person resides, or by personal service of the said order upon them at least ten (10) days before the day appointed for such examination, as the judge shall determine.

Section 17. Every person having a claim against any person proper to be allowed as hereinbefore provided, who shall not after the publication of notice as herein before required present his claim to the court within the time limited by the court for that purpose, shall be forever barred from recovering such demand or from setting off the same in any action whatever.

Section 18. No action shall be instituted against the guardian of any person except for the recovery of real estate or the possession of personal property, nor any attachment or execution be issued against the estate of any person under guardianship, until after the expiration of the time allowed for the payment by the guardian of claims allowed by the court, as aforesaid.

Section 19. The right to appeal the time for the payment of claims allowed by the court and the contingent claims and the distribution of assets among the creditors of any person under guardianship shall be governed by the same rules applicable in proceedings for the payment of debts of a deceased person, substituting the probate court for the commissioners and the guardian for the executor and administrator. Provided, that the provisions of said sections fourteen (14), seventeen (17), eighteen (18) and nineteen shall not apply to minors under guardianship.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and from its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections 1, 37 and 45 of chapter one (1), General Statutes 1878, relating to elections.

Be it enacted bs the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1), chapter one (1), General Statutes 1878, be and is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1. On the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, in each even-numbered year, an election shall be held in the several election districts of the State, which shall be known as the biennial election, and the several State and county officers, judges of the supreme and district courts, members of the legislature and representatives in congress of the United States shall be elected at the biennial election next preceding the expiration of the term of each of the said officers respectively, and on the year when a president and vice president of the United States are to be chosen, a number of electors of president and vice president of the United States equal to the number of senators and representatives to which this State is entitled in the congress of the United States shall be elected at said election.

SEC. 2. That the proviso at the end of section thirty-seven (37) of said chapter be amended by striking out the word "annual" where it occurs therein and inserting in lieu thereof the word "biennial."

SEC. 3. That section forty-five (45) of said chapter be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 45. The regular term of office of all state and county officers shall commence on the first Monday in January next succeeding their election, except as otherwise provided by law.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 27, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize certain foreclosure proceedings by executors and administrators.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all foreclosures heretofore made under section twenty-five (25), of chapter eighty-one (81), of the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), and the executor or administrator was, at the commencement of such foreclosure, authorized so to do, by said section twenty-five (25), except that he had filed the authenticated copy of his appointment required by said section twenty-five (25), with the probate court of the proper county, instead of filing such authenticated copy for record in the office of the register of deeds, of the proper county, be, and the same are hereby legalized and made valid from and after the filing and recording thereof in the office of the register of deeds.

Provided, that the time to redeem from such foreclosure is hereby extended one year from and after the filing and recording of said authenticated copy; Provided further, that this act shall not be construed as to impair, or in any way affect any vested right, nor actions now pending.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, A. D. 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend chapter 132 of the General Laws of 1883, relating to boards of health.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 4, of chapter 132, of the General Laws of 1883 be, and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows: "The town supervisors of each town, together with a physician to be employed by said supervisors when in their judgment necessary, or when ordered by the state board of health, shall constitute a board of health, and all villages, boroughs and cities shall have a board of health, to be chosen and to consist of the number hereafter provided, anything in the charter of any such village, borough, or city to the contrary notwithstanding. Such boards shall, within their respective towns, villages, boroughs or cities, have and exercise all the powers necessary for preservation of the public health. Said village, borough or city board shall consist of not less than three members, one of whom shall be a physician, and such physician shall be health officer and executive of the board, and shall receive such compensation for his services as the council or other body answering thereto, of the village, borough or city, shall determine. Said board shall be elected by the council, or other body answering thereto, of each village, borough and city, on the first Monday of April, A. D. 1885. One member of such board shall be elected for and hold such office for the term of 3 years, one for 2 years and one for 1 year, and one member of such board shall be so elected annually thereafter, and all vacancies occurring in said board shall be filled in like manner. It shall be the duty of the health officer to perform and superintend the work prescribed in this act, and shall perform such other duties as the board may require. He shall furnish to the board such information cognate to this act as from time to time they may deem necessary, and to make once in each year, in the month of May, and oftener if necessary, a thorough sanitary inspection of said town, village or borough or city, and present a written report of such inspection at the next meeting of the board of health, and he shall forward a copy of such report as soon as rendered to the state board of health; and be may at any time when necessary, examine into all nuisances, sources of filth and causes of sickness; and said board may make such regulations respecting the same as they may judge necessary for the public health and safety of the inhabitants; and every person who shall violate any order or regulation made by any board of health, and duly published, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars (100), or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three (3) months.

SEC. 2. That section 29 of said chapter be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"All expenses so incurred for the control of infectious diseases, etc., by any town or village board of health hereafter, shall be audited by the county commissioners and paid out of the county treasury, by orders on the treasurer drawn by the county auditor, and paid out of the general revenue fund of the county as other claims against the county are audited and paid. All expenses hereinafter incurred by any city board of health shall, in the first instance, be borne and paid out of the city treasury. The proper authorities of said city shall certify the amount required to reimburse said city, to the county auditor, at the time of certifying other taxes, and such auditor shall extend on the tax list of the county a tax sufficient to pay the amount so certified, which tax shall be collected as other taxes, and paid over to the treasurer of such city."

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to change the rate of interest upon the sale of public lands from 7 to 5 per cent, being an amendment to section seven (7) of chapter 38 of the General Statutes of A. D. 1878.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section seven of chapter thirty-eight of General Statutes of A. D. 1878 be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 7. The terms of payment of all state lands shall be for lands, other than pine lands, which are chiefly valuable for the timber thereon, the value of such timber to be paid at the time of sale, and for all other lands fifteen per cent of the purchase price thereof, to be paid at the time of sale, and the balance of the purchase money of all lands at any time thereafter, from time to time within thirty (30) years, at the option of the purchaser, with interest annually in advance at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum on the unpaid balance, payable on the first day of June, or within six days thereafter, in each and every year.

SEC. 2. This act shall effect from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter thirty-nine (39) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) relating to state text books.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota;

SECTION 1. Chapter thirty-nine (39) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same is hereby amended as follows: Insert immediately preceding section one (1) the words, "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota," and amend section one (1) by striking out from lines thirty-eight (38) and thirty-nine (39) of the same as printed in the printed volume of the General Laws of 1883 the words: "After the passage of this act and annually thereafter," and insert in lieu thereof the words, "In January of each year, and in case of any failure to make the appointment at said meeting, then the said board shall make the same at their next meeting, and not later than the 15th day of May." Also, add after the words "sale of such books," in the forty-first (41st) line of said section one (1) the words, "And such agents shall continue in office till the fifteenth (15th) day of January next succeeding, and until their successors are appointed and qualified."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 48 of chapter 11, of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to assessment and collection of taxes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section forty-eight of chapter eleven of the General Statutes of 1878 be and the same is hereby amended by inserting after the word annually, in the seventh line of said section, the following: "He shall also notify each county auditor of the amount due the state from his county on account of school text books furnished such county, and it shall then be the duty of said county auditor so notified to levy a tax sufficient to meet such indebtedness, which tax shall be levied and collected and paid into the state treasury in the same manner as other state taxes.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section eighty (80), chapter six (6), of the General Statutes of (1878) relating to the duties of township assessors.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section eighty (80) of chapter six (6) of the General Statues of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) is hereby amended by adding thereto the following:

The township assessors shall receive as compensation for making the statement required by this section to be returned to the county auditor, at the rate of ten (10) cents for each form so returned, which said sum shall be paid by the state. Upon the return of said abstract statement to the county auditor, if the same is correctly made out, he shall issue an order to the assessor for the amount due him on the treasury of the state; which said order shall be received in payment of state taxes.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section twelve (12) of chapter ninety (90) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the satisfaction and discharge of mechanics' liens.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twelve (12) of chapter ninety (90) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be, and the same hereby is, amended by adding the following words at the end thereof: "All liens may also be released and discharged in the same manner as is now provided by law for the release and discharge of mortgages."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and forty-eight (148), of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-one (1881), entitled: An act to prevent debtors from giving preferment to creditors and to secure the equal distribution of the property of the debtors among their creditors and for the release of debts against debtors.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter one hundred and forty-eight (148), of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (1881) be and hereby is amended by adding thereto the following section:

Section 46. Whenever at the time of the appointment of a receiver under sections one (1) or two (2), of this act, the property or any part thereof of said insolvent debtor is under attachment, levy or garnishment by virtue of any writ or process issued by any justice of the peace of this State said attachment, levy or garnishment shall be dissolved in the same manner as when said attachment, levy or garnishment is by virtue of any writ or process issued by any court of record of this State, and the plaintiff therein and the officer making the same shall thereafter have the same rights and no greater rights by virtue thereof, and the attachment, levy or garnishment shall thereafter be proceeded with in the same manner as though the same had been made by virtue of a writ or process issued out of a court of record of this State; provided, however, that section one (1) shall not apply to any case where an execution has been issued upon a judgment in an action wherein the complaint has been filed with the justice of the peace twenty

(20) days prior to the date of the levy upon said execution.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section eleven (11) and section sixteen (16) of chapter forty-two (42) of General Statutes 1878, relating to official trusts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eleven (11) of chapter forty-two (42) of "General Statutes A. D. 1878" is hereby amended by adding thereto, at the end thereof, the following:

And provided further, that in case no such conveyance or controversy of or concerning any certain lots, blocks, parcels or shares of said lands has been made or had, then, upon the application of any person or persons claiming the same, the judge of the district court shall, on such notice as he shall prescribe, summon before him such claimant or claimants, and all other claimants thereto, and cause such proofs to be adduced by oral testimony, affidavit, deposition or otherwise, as shall be satisfactory to him, as to the person or persons properly entitled to the same; and whenever it shall be thus determined to his satisfaction who are the person or persons thus entitled to any such lots, blocks, parcels or shares of said lands, then the said judge shall, upon like demand or request, and like payment or tender, execute to such person or persons a deed of conveyance thereof, as prescribed in the second section of this chapter.

SEC. 2. That section sixteen (16) of said chapter forty-two (42) is hereby amended by adding thereto the following: "And whenever neither the judge so entering lands, nor his successor in office, has fully executed such trust, any district judge shall succeed to such trust as to all such trust lands within his judicial district; and he shall have authority, and it shall be his duty, to execute the same and make all the conveyances in this chapter prescribed, as fully as if he had originally entered such lands in trust; provided, that the provisions of these amendments shall apply only to Blue Earth county; and provided further, that nothing contained in these amendments shall be construed to apply to, or in any manner affect, that part or portion of the town site of Shelbyville, in said county of Blue Earth, to which J. S. Wallace has or claims some estate, right, title or interest, unless he consents thereto.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March, 9 1885.

AN ACT to amend section sixty-three (63), title five (5), chapter sixty-six (66), General Statutes of the State of Minnesota, eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixty-three (63), title five (5), chapter sixty-six (66), of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota, be amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Section 63. Service on Domestic Corporations Without Resident Officers.—Whenever any corporation created by the laws of this State, or late Territory of Minnesota, does not have an officer in this State upon whom legal service of process can be made, of which the return of the sheriff shall be conclusive evidence, an action or proceeding against such corporation may be commenced in any county where the cause of action or proceeding may arise, or said corporation may have property; and service may be made upon such corporation by depositing a copy of the summons, writ, or other process, or citation in any proceeding for the collection of unpaid personal property taxes, in the office of the secretary of state, which shall be taken, deemed and treated as personal service on such corporation. Provided, that when any process, writ or citation against or affecting any corporation aforesaid is served on the secretary of state, the same shall be by duplicate copies, one of which shall be filed in the office of said secretary of state, and the other by him immediately mailed, postage prepaid, to the office of the company, or to the president, secretary, or any director or officer of said corporation, as may appear or be ascertained by said secretary from the articles of incorporation on file in his office.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT entitled an act to amend section twenty-nine (29) of chapter forty-one (41) of the General Statutes eighteen seventy-eight (1878) of the state of Minnesota, relating to assignments for benefit of creditors.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twenty-nine (29) of chapter forty-one (41) of the General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) of this State, be and the same is hereby amended by adding at and to the end of said section twenty-nine (29), the following, to-wit:

And whenever said trust estate shall have been or shall be taken out of the hands of said assignee, by means of any legal proceedings or actions in any court or courts; and whenever said assignment shall have been declared void as to creditors, or by reason of said proceedings, or from any cause the further administration of said trust is or has been rendered impracticable, inadvisable or nugatory, said assignee shall, upon proper showing thereof, and upon such notice as shall be required by the court, be in like manner discharged, and the sureties on his official bond released.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 13, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section six (6) of chapter one hundred and forty-two (142) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), entitled "An act to reorganize the State Agricultural society, and to appropriate money thereto and to other agricultural societies."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section six (6) of chapter one hundred and forty-two (142) of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-three (1883) is hereby amended by adding after the word "fairs" in the fourth (4th) line and "Minnesota butter, cheese, dairy and stock association."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved, March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and thirteen (113) title three (3) of chapter eight (8) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to annual statement of county commissioners.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and thirteen (113), title three (3) of chapter eight (8) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words third Tuesday in March in the second line of said section, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "first Tuesday in January."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885.)

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section one hundred and sixty (160), of chapter sixty-six (66), of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the vacation and release of attachment.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and sixty (160), of chapter sixty-six (66), of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be and the same hereby is amended by adding the following words at the end thereof:

"Fifth—Whenever any attachment has been or shall be levied, and more than three (3) years have or shall have elapsed without judgment being entered in the action, any person having any interest in the attached property, although not a party to the original action, may move for the release of any such property from the lien of such attachment; and if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that no proceedings have been had in said action for a period of three (3) years, or from other evidence that said action has been abandoned, said attachment shall be vacated and the lien thereof released."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend sections six (6) and seven (7) of chapter ninety (90), of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to liens.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section six (6) of chapter ninety (90) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) relating to liens, is hereby amended by striking out the words sixty (60) days, in the fifth (5th) line thereof and inserting in place thereof the words six months, and by striking out the word "one" in the ninth (9th) line of said section six (6) and inserting instead thereof the word "two." Section seven (7) of said chapter is hereby amended by striking out the words "one year" in the fifth (5th) line of said section and inserting instead thereof the words "six months."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first (1st) day of July, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885).

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize the filing of affidavits in certain cases, and making them evidence.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That in all cases where affidavits and proof of service authorized by sections sixty-one (61) and sixty-two (62) of chapter seventy-three (73) and sections five (5), nineteen (19), twenty (20) and twenty-three (23) of chapter eighty-one (81), of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) have been heretofore filed and recorded, or which shall be hereafter filed and recorded within one (1) year after the passage of this act, such affidavits and proofs, or duly certified copies thereof, shall be received in evidence in the same manner and with same effect as if the same had been filed and recorded within the time in said sections limited.

SEC. 2. No proceedings in which such affidavits might have been heretofore filed and recorded shall be deemed invalid in consequence of the failure to file and record the same within the time specified by said sections. Provided that nothing herein contained shall be held to affect any vested right of any person or persons not parties to such proceedings.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section eighty-four (84), title eight (8), chapter six (6), General Statutes eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to returns of births and deaths.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eighty-four (84) of title eight (8), chapter six (6) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be and the same is hereby amended by adding after the word December in the fifth line of said section, "The said clerk of the district court shall issue his certificate to the said clerk of the said town or city showing the amount due him for said returns, and upon the presentation of said certificate to the county auditor of the county in which said births and deaths are recorded, then the said auditor shall issue his warrant for the whole amount found to be due said clerk for said returns.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and thirty-five (135), of the General Laws of 1881, entitled an act to enforce the payment of taxes which became delinquent in and prior to the year 1879.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eight, of chapter one hundred and thirty-five, of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1881, be and the same is hereby amended by adding the following proviso: "Provided, however, That upon the application of the party entitled thereto, the auditor shall give to such party his warrant upon the treasurer for any money paid into the treasury on the sale of any piece or parcel of land in excess of the amount due upon such piece or parcel at the time of the sale; and if a distribution of such excess has been made, the several funds which received such excess shall be charged with the amount paid upon the warrant of the auditor."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 26 of chapter 107 of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to the discharge of the grand jury.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 26 of chapter 107 be and the same is hereby amended [so as] to read as follows:

Section 26. The jury to be discharged on the completion of the business before them; they shall be discharged by the court, or the court may in its discretion adjourn their session from time to time during the same term; but whether the business is completed or not they are discharged by the final adjournment of the court.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT amending section one hundred and two of chapter eleven of the General Statutes, relating to the sale of property forfeited to the State.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and two of chapter eleven of the General Statutes, be amended by adding thereto the following proviso:

Provided, That such deed or the record thereof shall be evidence in like manner and with the same force and effect as the certificate provided for in section eighty-four of this chapter.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage. "But shall not apply to or affect any deed the validity of which is involved in any action now pending in any court of this state."

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section two hundred and forty-six (246) of title eighteen (18) of chapter sixty-six (66) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two hundred and forty-six (246) of title eighteen (18) of chapter sixty-six (66) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) is hereby amended by adding thereto the following:

Third (3d), That whenever in the opinion of the presiding judge of a district court in this State, a press of business makes the same advisable and necessary, such judge, counsel consenting thereto, may make an order referring any civil action or proceeding of a civil nature (except an action for divorce) to a referee for trial and judgment, or for any one or more of the purposes named in this title, and the fees of such a referee after being taxed by the judge making the order of reference shall be paid on the order of said judge out of the state treasury as salaries of state officers are now paid. Said judge shall state as a part of said order of reference that in his opinion the press of business makes such reference advisable.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and thirteen of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883.)

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1) of chapter one hundred and thirteen (113) of General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) as the same is printed in the session laws of said year be and the same is hereby amended by striking out of the fifth (5th), sixth (6th) and seventh (7th) lines of said section the following words, viz: "And such probate court has made an order in terms discharging the executor or administrator of such estate."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 22, chapter 11, of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota of A. D. 1878, relating to taxation.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 22, chapter 11, is hereby amended by adding thereto the following, viz: The monthly installments deposited in building associations and subject to withdrawal on demand, or on thirty (30) or sixty (60) days' notice, as provided in the by-laws of such associations, are an indebtedness which may be deducted from the value of their stock as provided in this section. Mortgages of said associations, which are represented in their stock and assessed as stock, shall not be assessed as mortgages. They shall list their real estate and all personal property as provided in this section.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 107 of chapter 8 of the General Statutes, relating to the drawing of jurors.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the last proviso of section one hundred and seven (107) of chapter eight (8), General Statutes 1878, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows: And provided further, that in counties having two or more terms of court in one year, after the jurors have been drawn for the first or any term of said court the clerk of said court shall retire from the original list the names of all persons who were drawn for said term and notify the county commissioners thereof, and it shall be the duty of the county commissioners, at the next session thereafter, to select new names, equal in number to those retired, and the said clerk shall add the names so selected to the original list.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect from its passage.

Approved Feb. 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section forty-six (46) of chapter fifty-nine (59), General Statutes 1878, relating to accounts of guardians.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section forty-six (46) of chapter fifty-nine (59), General Statutes 1878, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Sec. 46. Guardians of minor children, spendthrifts, insane persons, and all persons under guardianship, shall be required to render an account, on oath, of the property, money and effects in their hands, or which shall have come to their hands as such guardian, and all proceeds and interest derived therefrom, and the management and disposition thereof, within one year after their appointment, or within one year from the passage of this act, and at such other times as the judge of probate of the county having jurisdiction of the person and estate of their said wards may require."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and approval.

Approved February 20, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section eight (8) of chapter sixty-seven (67) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight relating to costs.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eight of chapter sixty-seven of General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended so as to read as follows: Section eight. Costs and disbursements shall be taxed and allowed in the first instance by the clerk upon two days' notice by either party and inserted in the entry of judgment. The disbursements shall be stated in detail, and verified by affidavit, which shall be filed. A copy of the items of the costs and disbursements, with the affidavit verifying the same, shall be served with the notice of taxation. The party objecting to any item shall specify in writing the grounds of objection, and the same in case of appeal shall be certified to the court by the clerk, and the appeal shall be heard and determined upon the objection so certified and none other.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 4 of chapter 34, General Statutes of 1878, relating to amendments to articles of incorporation.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section four of chapter thirty-four, of General Statutes of 1878 is hereby amended by adding at the end of the first proviso of said section the following words: And also the number of directors, their term of office, and the manner of their election.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act requiring publication of notice of expiration of time for redemption of lands from tax sale.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Each county auditor shall, at least three (3) months before the expiration of the time for redeeming lands hereafter sold for taxes, cause to be published in a newspaper printed in the English language, published in his county, if there be such a newspaper, and if there be none, then in a newspaper printed at the State capital, once a week for three successive weeks, a list of all unredeemed lands so sold, specifying each tract or lot, the name of the owner if known, and if unknown so stated, and the amount required to redeem the same, calculated to the last day of redemption, due on each parcel, lot or tract of land, together with a notice giving the date on which the time for redemption will expire.

SEC. 2. The publisher of the paper who shall publish the list and notice as provided in section one (1) of this act shall receive for such publication the sum of twenty-five (25) cents for each description so published, to be paid by the county and charged to each description of land so published.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 148 of chapter 66 of General Statutes 1878, relating to bonds in attachment.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and forty-eight (148) of chapter sixty-six (66) of General Statutes 1878 be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Before issuing the writ the judge or court commissioner shall require a bond on the part of the plaintiff with sufficient sureties, conditioned that if the defendant recovers judgment, or if the writ shall be set aside or vacated, the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages that he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the penalty of the bond, which shall be at least two hundred and fifty dollars."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend subdivision tenth of section three hundred and ten (310) of chapter sixty-six (66) of General Statutes 1878, relating to property exempt from execution.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That subdivision tenth of section three hundred and ten (310) of chapter sixty-six (66) of the General Statutes 1878, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Tenth—Necessary seed grain for the actual personal use of the debtor for one season, to be selected by him; not, however, in any case to exceed the following kinds and amounts, respectively, viz: Fifty bushels of wheat, fifty bushels of oats, fifteen bushels of potatoes, three bushels of corn and thirty bushels of barley, and binding material sufficient for use in harvesting the crop raised from the seed grain above specified.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section seventy-six (76) of chapter ninety-five (95) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to offenses against property.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section seventy-six (76) of chapter ninety-five (95) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended by adding thereto the following:

"And provided further, That none of the provisions of this or the foregoing section shall apply to any case when the board of county commissioners drain any such lake under the provisions of chapter one hundred and eight (108) of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-three (1883)."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 28, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 9, of chapter 54, of the General Statutes of Minnesota of 1878, relating to the rendering of accounts by executors and administrators.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section 9, of chapter 54, of the General Statutes of 1878, is hereby amended so as to read and be as follows, to wit: "Every executor or administrator shall render his account of his administration within one year from the time of his receiving letters testamentary or of administration; and the court shall extend said time beyond the period of one year, whenever the time for selling the estate or paying debts has been extended, or when upon good cause shown for any other reason it shall appear to be for the interest or advantage of said estate; and he shall render such further accounts of said administration from time to time as are required by the court until the estate is wholly settled."

SEC. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall be in force and take effect from and after the date of its passage.

Approved Feb. 27, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize certain conveyances and other instruments and the records thereof heretofore defectively executed, acknowledged or made.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all deeds, contracts and powers of attorney conveying or relating to the conveyance of real estate in this State, heretofore executed in this State or in any other State or Territory of the United States and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county, whether duly or properly admitted to record or otherwise, in which any of the following defects of execution or acknowledgment exist either in such instrument or in the records thereof, viz:

Where there is no seal affixed to the signature of any person or persons executing the same; where there is but one subscribing witness, where the instrument has been acknowledged before a notary public or other officer required to keep an official seal, to whose signature his official seal is not affixed, all such conveyances and the records thereof are hereby legalized and made as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes and of the same force and effect in all respects for the purpose of notice evidence and otherwise as if such defects of execution, acknowledgment or record had not existed.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall in any manner effect the right of title of any bona fide purchaser, without notice of such instrument or record, thereof for a valuable consideration, of any such real estate prior to the passage of this act; and a purchaser without notice at any execution or mortgage foreclosure sale shall be considered such bona fide purchaser.

And provided further, that this act shall not extend nor apply to any action or proceeding now pending in any court of this state.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections four (4) and five (5) of title two (2), chapter thirty-two (32), of the General Statutes of Anno Domini one thousand and eight hundred and seventy-eight, (1878), relating to lumber districts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section four (4) of title two (2), chapter thirty-two (32) of the General Statutes of Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Section 4." "There are established seven" "districts" "for the survey and measurement" "of logs, lumber" "and timber within" this State.

SEC. 2. That section five (5) of title two (2), chapter thirty-two, of the General Statutes of Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: Section 5. The St. Croix lake and river and their tributaries constitute the first district. The Mississippi river and its tributaries above the mouth of the St. Croix lake and Little Fork and Big Fork rivers and their tributaries, constitute the second district. The Mississippi river and its tributaries between the mouth of St. Croix Lake and the outlet of Lake Pepin constitute the third district. The Mississippi river and its tributaries below the outlet of Lake Pepin to the southern line of Wabasha county constitute the fourth district. All the waters tributary to Lake Superior, and all the waters in the counties of St. Louis, Lake and Cook, except Little Fork river and it tributaries, constitute the Fifth district. The Mississippi river and its tributaries from the southern line of Wabasha county to the southern line of the State of Minnesota constitute the sixth district. The Red River, Red Lake, Lake of the Woods, Rainy Lake and river and their respective tributaries, except Little Fork and Big Fork rivers and their tributaries, and except waters east of the west line of St. Louis county, constitute the seventh district.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 6, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and eight (108), of General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), relating to the drainage and reclamation of lands.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eleven (11), of chapter one hundred and eight (108), of General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883), be amended as follows: By striking out the word "viewers," in line thirteen (13) of said section, and inserting the word "reviewers" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 2. That section fourteen (14) of said chapter be amended by striking out the word "viewers," in line seven (7) of said section, and inserting the word "reviewers" in lieu thereof.

SEC. 3. That section thirty-one (31) of said chapter be amended by striking out the word two (2), in line eleven (11) of said section, and inserting the word three (3) in lieu thereof, and by adding to said section the following: "The county auditor shall receive such compensation for his services under this act as the board of county commissioners shall determine."

SEC. 4. That section thirty-four (34) of said chapter be amended by striking out the word "viewers," in line ten (10), and inserting the words county surveyor in lieu thereof.

SEC. 5. The notices required by section nine (9) and nineteen (19) of said chapter shall be published in the official paper of the county once in each week for three (3) consecutive weeks immediately preceding the date at which action upon the subject matter of the notice is to be taken, and all copies thereof to be posted or mailed to non-residents may be printed copies of such notice, instead of such notice being given as provided in said sections.

SEC. 6. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to amend section sixteen (16) of chapter eleven (11), and sections seventy-nine, eighty, and eighty-one of chapter ninety-five (95), of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to dogs and other domestic animals.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixteen (16) of chapter eleven (11), of the General Statutes of 1878, be amended by adding item thirty-first: "The number of all dogs over six months of age and the value thereof."

SEC. 2. That sections seventy-nine and eighty of chapter ninety-five, General Statutes of 1878, be amended by adding [after] after the words "sheep or lamb," wherever they occur in such sections, the words, "or other domestic animal or animals, including poultry."

SEC. 3. That section eighty-one (81) of chapter ninety-five (95), of the General Statutes of 1878, be amended so as to read as follows: It shall be lawful for any person to kill or cause to be killed any dog which has been or shall be found injuring, fretting, or killing any lambs or sheep within this State, and any sheep owner or person in his employ may kill or cause to be killed any dog found on his premises on which sheep are kept, not under the restraint or control of the owner or other person, without incurring penalty for such act.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter forty-three (43) of the General Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) relating to the husband's agency in the case of mechanic's liens.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the proviso in section one (1), chapter forty-three (43), of the General Laws of the State of Minnesota for the year (1883) one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the word "section" in line two (2) of said proviso and inserting in lieu thereof the word "chapter."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend An act to prevent debtors from giving preference to creditors, and to secure the equal distribution of the property of debtors among their creditors, and for the release of debts against debtors, being chapter 148 of the General Laws of Minnesota for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the proviso at the end of section one of said act is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "That this section shall not apply to cases where an execution has been issued upon a judgment, in an action, where the complaint has been filed in the office of the clerk of the court in the county wherein the defendant resides twenty days prior to the entry of the judgment."

SEC. 2. That said section one of said act be amended by striking out the words "of record" in the third line of said section.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 27, 1885.

AN ACT to be entitled "An act to amend section thirty-six (36) of chapter seventy-three (73) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the testimony of witnesses.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section (36) thirty-six of chapter (73) seventy-three of the General Statutes of (1878) one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight be amended by inserting the words "within or" after the word "person" where it occurs in the second line of said section.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26.

AN ACT to be entitled "An act to amend section fifteen (15) of chapter forty-nine (49) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to probate courts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section fifteen (15) of chapter forty-nine (49) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) as the same is numbered in said edition of the statutes, be amended by adding at the end of said section the following provisos:

Provided, further, that such district court shall, upon cause shown, require the appellant to give further and other security for the payment of any costs and disbursements of such appeal which may be adjudged against the appellant.

Provided further, any adverse party on whom it may be necessary to serve a notice of appeal may be served with such notice in the same manner that notices are served in civil actions, and if such service be made on the clerk of court, it shall be made on the clerk of the district court to which such appeal is taken.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 24, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section thirty-eight (38), chapter one (1) General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to the fees of messengers.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section thirty-eight (38) of chapter one (1) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), is hereby amended by adding at the end of said section the following words: "The county auditor shall, upon the receipt of said returns, draw a warrant on the county treasurer in favor of said messenger for the amount found to be due him for carrying said returns.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three (3) of chapter forty-six (46) of General Statutes 1878, relating to title to real property by descent.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three (3) of chapter forty-six (46) of General Statutes 1878 be and the same hereby is amended by striking out of the tenth subdivision of said section the words following: "Provided, that no debt or claim against any deceased person which had not become a lien upon his real estate before his death shall continue to be a lien upon such real estate after the lapse of three years from the date of such death."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect, and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 224, of chapter eight, General Statutes 1878, relating to the term of office of court commissioner.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section two hundred twenty-four, of chapter eight, General Statutes 1878, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 224. There shall be chosen in each organized county one person who shall be called a court commissioner, and hold his office for the term of four years and until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 2. The term of all court commissioners elected at the general election in November, 1884, shall extend to the first Monday of January, 1889, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT entitled An act providing for the hearing of demurrers in civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section eighty-seven of chapter sixty-six, of the General Statues of 1878, is hereby amended by adding thereto the following proviso: Provided, that demurrers in civil actions may be brought on for argument by either party at any time the court may fix for that purpose at chambers or at any regular or special term of court in any county in the judicial district in which the action is pending.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section thirty-two (32) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-six (66) of the General Statutes 1878, relating to the appointment of guardians ad litem for infant defendants in civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section thirty-two (32) of title three (3) of chapter sixty-six (66) of the General Statutes 1878, be, and the same hereby is, amended by striking out the word "or" after the words "this state," and before the words "if such infant," in the eleventh line of the second subdivision of said section, and inserting in place thereof the word "and."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 23 of chapter 57 of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to sales of lands by guardians in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota.

SECTION 1. That section number twenty-three (23) of chapter fifty-seven (57) of the Statutes of 1878 be amended to read as follows:

Section 23. When the goods, chattels, rights and credits in the hands of a guardian are insufficient to pay all the debts of the ward, with the charges of managing the estate, the guardian may be licensed to sell or mortgage the real estate of his ward in like manner and upon like terms and conditions as are provided in this chapter in the case of a sale by executors or administrators, except as hereinafter provided; provided that no guardian shall be licensed to mortgage the real estate of his ward for any purpose except to pay the debts of his ward contracted prior to his appointment as guardian; provided, further, that no guardian shall be licensed to mortgage the real estate of his ward for any longer period than three years from the granting of such license.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 17, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections 34 and 35 of title 5 of chapter 32, General Statutes 1878, relating to booms.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section thirty-four (34) of title five (5) of chapter thirty-two (32), General Statutes 1878, be amended, so as to read as follows;

Section 34. The parties constructing and operating side booms upon any of the rivers or streams of this state shall construct and operate the same so as to reasonably exclude the logs and other floatables of other parties floating in said rivers or streams from entering such booms; and they shall also make and provide proper and sufficient openings for the admission of logs into such side booms.

In case logs, timber or other floatables belonging to other parties, run, or by mistake are driven, into any such private boom or booms, neither the owners of such logs, timber or floatables, nor any other person or party, shall be permitted to cut, open, or in any way injure such private boom, or otherwise interfere with the same, except so far as may be necessary to obtain the logs, timber or floatables so run, or by mistake included therein, and then only when it can be done without injury to such private boom. When, however, such release cannot be made without hazard to such private boom, and the logs and timber or other floatables are there by accident or mistake, such logs and timber shall, upon the request of the owner thereof, be scaled, and other floatables counted by the surveyor general of the district, and the value thereof fixed by him, or by consent of the parties, to be paid for by the owner of such pond or private boom within thirty days from the time such scale is made. Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the First lumber district.

SEC. 2. That said section thirty-five (35) of title five (5) of said chapter thirty-two (32) be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 35. Whoever willfully and maliciously opens, breaks, cuts, or otherwise destroys or injures any side or other boom, or turns the whole or any part of the logs or timber contained therein loose or adrift, except for the purpose herein mentioned, and except also in case such boom materially obstructs the navigation of any navigable stream, or unlawfully intrudes upon the property of any such person, the person so opening, breaking, cutting, injuring, or destroying such boom, or turning loose or adrift such logs, or who willfully or maliciously cuts loose or turns adrift any boom, brill, string, or raft of logs, timber or lumber, is guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the state's prison for not less than six months, nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and shall further be liable for all the damages sustained by reason of such wrongful act.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 44 of chapter 11 of the General Statutes of 1878, relating to assessment and collection of taxes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 44 of chapter 11 of the General Statutes of 1878 be amended by adding thereto the following: Provided, if, by reason of sickness or any other cause, the county auditor cannot be present at the meeting of said board of equalization, the deputy auditor, or, in case there be none, then the clerk of the district court, shall act for the county auditor at said meetings of said board.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section eighteen (18) of chapter sixty-seven (67) of the General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) in relation to payment of costs in the supreme court.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section eighteen (18) of chapter sixty-seven (67) of the General Statutes eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended by adding thereto and in continuation thereof the following: And in all cases, except where it is otherwise ordered by the supreme court, the costs and disbursements provided in this and the two next preceding sections, together with the fees and charges of the clerk of the supreme court, shall be paid by the adverse and losing party before any remittitur of the case shall be made or had, and as a condition precedent to any further proceedings in the cause, by the adverse or losing party, in the district court or court below.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section two (2) of chapter twenty-six (26) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to notary public commissions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the word "two" before the word years in the second line of said section be stricken out, and the word "seven" be inserted in place thereof. Provided, this act shall not apply to notary public commissions already issued.

SEC. 2. That this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section twenty (20) of chapter fifty-seven (57) of the General Statues of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878).

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twenty (20) of chapter fifty-seven (57) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 20. That a duly authenticated copy of letters testamentary, or of administration or guardianship, of any executor, administrator or guardian appointed in any other state or territory, or the District of Columbia, or in a foreign country, or other explification of the record of any such appointment, may be filed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of any county in this State; and such record in the register's office, or a transcript thereof duly certified, shall in all cases be prima facie evidence of such appointment.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 14, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and eight (108) of General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) relating to the drainage of lands.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter one hundred and eight (108) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same hereby is amended by striking out the words ["regular session["] wherever they occur in said chapter, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "session," and and by striking out the words "regular meeting" wherever they occur in said chapter and inserting in lieu thereof the word "meeting."

SEC. 2. That section thirty-three (33) of said chapter be and the same hereby is amended by striking out the first (1st) five (5) lines of said section and the first (1st) word of the sixth (6th) line thereof.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT entitled an act to amend section six (6) of chapter one hundred and forty-two (142) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) relating to the State Agricultural society and other agricultural societies.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section six (6) of chapter one hundred and forty-two (142) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same is hereby amended by striking therefrom the words and figures "six thousand dollars ($6,000)" appearing in the first line of said section six (6), and inserting in lieu thereof the words and figures "twelve thousand dollars ($12,000)," and adding after the word "societies," in the sixth line of such section six (6), "and the further sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000) be annually appropriated to the Southern Minnesota Fair association, to be paid by the state treasurer on the order of the president and secretary of the Southern Minnesota Fair association.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter ninety-one (91) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six (1876), the same being an act providing for the adoption of children.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter ninety-one (91) of the General Laws of 1876, entitled An act providing for the adoption of children, be amended by adding thereto the following sections:

Section 9. In case any person heretofore or hereafter, adopted, either according to the provisions of this chapter, or in any other lawful manner, shall die intestate, his property, acquired by himself or by gift from his adopting parent, shall be distributed according to the provisions of the laws in force at the time of decease of such intestate, relating to the title of real property by descent and the distribution of personal estate, among the persons who would have been his kindred if he had been born to his adopting parent in lawful wedlock; and property received by gift or inheritance from his natural parents or kindred shall be distributed in the same manner as if no act of adoption had taken place, such distribution to be ascertained in such manner as the court may decree. No person shall, by being adopted, lose his right to inherit from his natural parents or kindred.

"Section 10. The term child, or its equivalent, in a grant, trust, settlement, devise or bequest, shall be held to include a child adopted by the settler, grantor or testator, unless the contrary plainly appears by the terms of the instrument; but when the settler, grantor or testator is not himself the adopting parent, the child by adoption shall not have, under such an instrument, the rights of a child born in lawful wedlock to the adopting parent, unless it plainly appears to have been the intention of the settler, grantor or testator to include an adopted child."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 61 of chapter 34 of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota, relating to railroad crossings.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 61, of chapter 34 of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota be amended, and the same is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following proviso: "Provided, however, and in case such two railroads crossing each other, or in any way connecting at a common grade, shall by any works or fixtures to be erected by them, or either of them, render it safe to pass over said crossings without stopping, and such works or fixtures shall first be approved by the railroad commissioner and the plan of such works or fixtures for such crossing, designating the place of such crossing, shall have been filed with said railroad commissioner, then and that case, the foregoing provisions of this section requiring the stoppage of trains at such crossings shall not apply; but if such railroad commissioner shall disapprove such plan or fail to approve the same within twenty days of the filing thereof with him, such companies or either of them may apply in the county where such crossing is situated to the district court in and for said county, or to a judge thereof in vacation, by petition in writing setting forth the object of said application, and said court or judge shall thereupon appoint a time and place for the hearing of said petition, and a copy of the order appointing such time and place, together with a copy of said petition, shall be served on said railroad commissioner at least ten days before the day appointed for said hearing, and said district court or judge thereof in vacation shall have full power, upon the hearing of said petition, to grant the prayer thereof or make such other order thereon as may be proper in the premises.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three (3) of chapter thirty-seven (37) Session Laws of Minnesota, being an act to amend an act entitled "An act to secure proper commitments to the Minnesota State Reform School," approved Feb. 26, 1872—approved March 2, 1883.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section three (3) of an act to amend an act entitled "An act to secure proper commitments to the Minnesota State Reform School," approved February 26, 1872—approved March 2, 1883, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. That the children received by said managers, under the conviction of any court within this State, shall be clothed, maintained and instructed by said managers at the public expense of the State.

SEC. 3. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section sixteen (16) of chapter thirty-nine (39) of the General Statutes of 1878 as amended by section 2 of chapter 38 of the General Laws of 1883, relating to chattel mortgages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixteen of chapter thirty-nine (39) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) as amended by section two (2) of chapter thirty-eight (38) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three (1883) be and the same hereby is amended by inserting the word "vendee" in the place of the word "vendor" first occurring in said section sixteen (16) as amended.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section seventeen (17) of chapter ninety (90) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to liens upon personal property.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section seventeen (17) of chapter nintety (90) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 17. Any person who is a common carrier and any person who at the request of the owner or lawful possessor of any personal property carries, conveys or transports the same from one place to another, and any person who safely keeps or stores any personal property, any keeper of a livery or boarding stable, and any person pasturing or keeping any horses, mules, cattle or stock, at the request of the owner or lawful possessor thereof, shall have the same lien for all his charges for keeping, supporting and caring for such property, and the same right to hold and retain the possession thereof, and the same power of sale for the satisfaction of his reasonable charges and expenses upon the same conditions and restrictions as provided in the preceding section.

SEC. 2. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT in reference to the place of trial of civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. All actions for the recovery of real property, or of an estate or interest therein, or for the determination in any form of such right or interest, and for injuries to real property, shall be brought and tried in the county in which the subject of the action, or some part thereof, is situated, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial in the cases specified in subdivisions second, third and fourth of section fifty-one (51) of chapter sixty-six (66) of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878). If the county designated in the complaint is not the proper county, the court therein shall have no jurisdiction of said action.

SEC. 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to empower independent school districts, organized under chapter thirty-six (36), General Statues 1878, to dissolve the organization by a two-thirds vote of the qualified electors of the same.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That any independent school district, organized under chapter thirty-six (36), of the General Statutes 1878, may dissolve its organization at any election held in such district in the same manner, as nearly as may be, as elections are held under said chapter for the purpose of organizing such independent school districts; provided, that such school district shall only be dissolved when two-thirds of the legal voters voting at any such election shall cast their ballots in favor of dissolving the same.

SEC. 2. At any election held for the purpose of dissolving any such school district the electors in favor thereof may deposit ballots worded thus: "Dissolving independent school district, yes;" and those opposed thereto may deposit ballots worded thus: "Dissolving independent school district, no."

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize the records of certain certificates executed under and by virtue of section eleven (11), chapter eighty-one (81), title one (1), General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to foreclosure of mortgages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That no certificate executed under and by virtue of section eleven (11), chapter eighty-one (81), title one (1), General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), shall be deemed invalid by reason of the same not having been made, executed, proved, acknowledged or recorded within twenty (20) days mentioned in said section, and the record of all such certificates heretofore executed, proved or acknowledged, and recorded after the expiration of the said twenty (20) days is hereby legalized and made valid, and the said record shall have the same force and effect as if said certificate had been executed, proved and acknowledged and recorded within the said twenty (20) days: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply to cases now pending which involves the legality or validity of such certificates of sale.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter sixty-five (65) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to practice in justice courts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section twelve (12) of said chapter is hereby amended by adding thereto the following proviso: Provided, that every summons or other process issued by a justice of the peace in a civil action shall not be returnable earlier than nine (9) o'clock in the forenoon, nor later than five (5) o'clock in the afternoon.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved M arch 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 19 of chapter 38 of the General Statutes of, 1878, relating to interest on public lands.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section nineteen (19) of chapter thirty-eight (38) of the General Statutes one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be amended so as to read as follows:

Section nineteen (19). In all cases where the rights of a purchaser have become forfeited under the provisions of this chapter, by failing to pay the amount due upon his certificate of purchase, if such purchaser, his heirs or assigns, shall, before the resale at public auction of the lands described in such certificate, pay to the state treasurer the amount of interest then due and payable on such certificate, and all costs which have been incurred in addition thereto, together with interest at the rate of twelve (12) per cent per annum on the interest and costs so due, from date of delinquency to date of payment, such payment shall operate as a redemption of the rights of such purchaser, his heirs or assigns, and said certificate from the time of such payment shall be in full force and effect as if no such forfeiture had occurred.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to regulate the business of operating telegraph lines and imposing penalties for misconduct of owners and agents of such lines.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Persons, companies and corporations engaged in the business of transmitting messages by telegraph lines are hereby declared to be common carriers, and as such shall serve the public without discrimination or preference, at reasonable rates of compensation.

SEC. 2. In the transmission and delivery of messages, such persons, companies and corporations shall be liable for want of ordinary care, any contract, notice or condition to the contrary notwithstanding; and any notice, condition or contract stipulating for exemption from consequences of lack of ordinary care shall be void.

SEC. 3. When the party to whom a message is addressed resides or does business within the corporate limits of any city or village where a telegraph office is located, at the point of destination, the same shall be promptly delivered at his place of residence or business, if known; in other cases he shall be notified by next mail where he can find [the] same.

SEC. 4. Messages delivered to the owner or agent of any telegraph line, operated in this State, in whole or in part, shall be transmitted in the order they are received; provided, however, that any messages directing the movement of railroad trains, in case of sickness or death, and those relating to the administration of criminal laws, and government dispatches, shall take precedence, if the officer or person sending the same shall so request.

SEC. 5. If any person, persons, company or corporation owning or operating a telegraph line, in whole or in part, within this State, shall fail to transmit any message within a reasonable length of time, or if it is shown due diligence has not been exercised after reception thereof for that purpose, or shall fail to deliver the same to the party to whom the same is addressed, if known, as provided for in section three (3) of this act, within a reasonable length of time after the same shall have arrived at the point of destination, shall be liable in a civil action at the suit of the party injured for all actual damages sustained by reason of such neglect or omission, with the legal costs of suit to be recovered in such action before any court having competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 6. Any telegraph company delivering a message shall state plainly upon such message the date and the hour at which such message was received at the original point for transmission.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter fifty-eight (58) of the General Laws of the extra session of eighteen hundred and eighty-one, entitled "An act relating to locating, establishing and vacating highways and cartways in Goodhue county, and to amend section forty-nine (49), chapter thirteen (13), General Statutes."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one (1) of chapter fifty-eight (58) of the General Laws of the extra session of eighteen hundred and eighty-one, entitled "An act relating to locating, establishing and vacating highways and cartways in Goodhue county, and to amend section forty-nine (49), chapter thirteen (13) General Statutes," be and the same hereby is so amended as to read as follows:

"That section forty-nine (49) of chapter thirteen (13) of General Statutes, 1878, be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows: "If twenty-four (24) freeholders of any county containing one hundred or more legal voters, and twelve freeholders of any county containing less than one hundred voters petition the board of commissioners of such county for the location, establishment, change or vacation of any highway running into more than one town of said county, and not within the limits of any incorporated city, whether such highway is connected or to be connected with other roads or not, setting forth in such petition the beginning, course and termination of the highway proposed to be located, established, changed or vacated, together with the names of the owners of the lands, if known, through which the same may pass, the auditor of such county shall lay such petition before the board of county commissioners at their next session thereafter.

SEC. 2. That section two (2) of said chapter fifty-eight (58) of the General Laws of the extra session of 1881 be and the same is hereby repealed; provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to the county of Goodhue, and that as to said county the said chapter fifty-eight (58) of the General Laws of the extra session of 1881 shall be and remain in full force and effect.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 10, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section twenty-eight (28) of title three (3) of chapter nineteen (19) of General Statutes of 1878, relating to distraining beasts doing damages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twenty-eight (28) of title three (3) of chapter nineteen (19) of General Statutes eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, be and the same hereby is amended so as to read as follows:

Section 28. The owner or occupant of lands may distrain all beasts doing damage upon his lands, and when any such distress is made the distrainer shall keep such beasts in some secure place other than the public pound until his damages are appraised. And within twenty-four hours after such distress, unless the same is made on Saturday or Sunday, in which case before the Tuesday morning thereafter, he shall apply to the nearest justice of the peace in the county, who shall appoint three disinterested inhabitants of such town to appraise the damages. Such appraisers shall receive as compensation for their services one dollar per day for every day actually consumed in making the appraisal and six cents per mile as mileage in going to and returning from the place where the damages are done, to be paid in the first instance by the distrainer; distance traveled and time spent to be certified to and made a part of the returns of said appraisers.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend sections twenty-eight (28) and thirty-two (32) of title three (3) of chapter nineteen (19), General Statutes 1878, relating to distraining beasts from doing damage.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section twenty-eight (28) of title three (3) of chapter nineteen (19), General Statutes 1878, be amended by inserting after the word "town" in the seventh (7th) line of said section the words "or of any nearer justice of the peace in any adjoining town or city within the same county."

SEC. 2. That section thirty-two (32) of said title and chapter be amended by inserting after the word "town" in the fifth (5th) line of said section the words "or in the nearest pound in any adjoining town or city within the same county.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 10, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section three of chapter forty-six, General Statutes of 1878, relating to title to real property by descent.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That subdivision third of section three of chapter forty-six, of General Statutes of 1878 be amended by adding to said subdivision the following words: "And to the lawful issue of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and four (104) of chapter one (1) of the General Statutes 1878, relating to elections in cities of over twelve thousand (12,000) inhabitants.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and four (104) of chapter one (1) of the General Statutes 1878 be and the same is hereby amended, by inserting in the tenth (10th) line of said section one hundred and four (104) the word "general" before the word "election" therein, and the words "as well as at any intervening special election" after the word "election" in said tenth (10th) line thereof; also by inserting in the fourteenth (14th) line of said section one hundred and four (104) the word "general" before the word "election" therein, and the words "as well as at any intervening special election" after the word "election" in said fourteenth (14th) line thereof.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 21 of chapter 108, General Laws of 1883, relating to drains, ditches and water courses.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section 21 of chapter 108 of the General Laws of 1883 be and the same is hereby amended by striking out the words "and when the county surveyor accepts it" where they occur in line 17 thereof, and inserting in lieu thereof the following words: "And in all cases, whether the allotment sold belongs to a non-resident of the county or not, when the county surveyor accepts such job."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and twenty-eight (128) of the General Laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-one (1881), as amended by chapter seventeen (17) of General Laws of the extra session of eighteen hundred and eighty-one (1881), relating to senatorial and representative districts.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter one hundred and twenty-eight (128) of the General Laws of A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-one (1881), as amended by chapter seventeen (17) of General Laws of the extra session of eighteen hundred and eighty-one (1881) be amended, so that the portion of the same which defines the Twenty-third (23) senatorial district shall read as follows, viz: "Twenty-third district—The Twenty-third district shall be composed of the county of Wabasha, and shall be entitled to elect senator and three (3) representatives. Representative districts divided as follows: The towns of Lake, Mount Pleasant, Gilford, Chester, Hyde Park and city of Lake City shall be entitled to elect one (1) representative. The towns of Mazeppa, Elgin, Zumbro, Plainview and Oakwood shall be entitled to elect one representative. The towns of Minneiska, Watopa, Greenfield, Glasgow, Pepin, West Albany and Highland, the village of Reed's, and the city of Wabasha shall be entitled to elect one (1) representative.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

Miscellaneous.

AN ACT to regulate the practice of pharmacy, the licensing of persons to carry on such practice, and the sale of poisons in the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That it shall hereafter be unlawful for any person, other than a registered pharmacist, to retail, compound or dispense drugs, medicines or poisons, or to institute or conduct any pharmacy, store or shop for retailing, compounding or dispensing drugs, medicines or poisons, unless such person shall be a registered pharmacist, or shall employ and place in charge of said pharmacy, store or shop a registered pharmacist, within the full meaning of this act, except as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. In order to be registered within the full meaning of this act, all persons must be either graduates in pharmacy, graduates in medicine, or shall at the time this act takes effect be engaged in the business of a dispensing pharmacist on their own account, in the State of Minnesota, in the preparation of physicians' prescriptions, and in the vending and compounding of drugs, medicines and poisons, or shall be licentiates in pharmacy.

SEC. 3. Graduates in pharmacy shall be considered to consist of such persons as have had four (4) years' practical experience in drug stores where prescriptions of medical practitioners are compounded, and have obtained a diploma from such college or schools of pharmacy as shall be approved by the board of pharmacy as sufficient guarantee of their attainments and proficiency.

SEC. 4. Licentiates in pharmacy shall be such persons as have had three (3) years' practical experience in drug stores wherein the prescriptions of medical practitioners are compounded, and have sustained a satisfactory examination before the state board of pharmacy, hereinafter mentioned. The state board may grant certificates of registration to licentiates of such other state boards as it may deem proper, without further examination.

SEC. 5. Immediately upon the passage of this act the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association shall elect fifteen (15) reputable and practicing pharmacists doing business in the State, from which number the governor shall appoint five (5). The said five (5) pharmacists, duly elected and appointed, shall constitute the Board of Pharmacy of the State of Minnesota, and shall hold office as respectively designated in their appointments for the term of one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4) and (5) years, respectively, as hereinafter provided, and until their successors have been duly elected and appointed. The Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association shall annually thereafter elect five (5) pharmacists, from which number the governor of the state shall appoint one (1) to fill the vacancy annually occurring in said board. The term of office shall be five (5) years. In case of resignation or removal from the state of any member of said board, or of a vacancy occurring from any cause, the governor shall fill the vacancy by appointing a pharmacist from the names last submitted, to serve as a member of the board for the remainder of the term.

SEC. 6. The said board shall, within sixty (60) days after its appointment, meet and organize by the selection of a president and secretary from the number of its own members, who shall be elected for the term of one (1) year, and shall perform the duties prescribed by the board. It shall be the duty of the board to examine all applications for registration, submitted in proper form; to grant certificates of registration to such persons as may be entitled to the same under the provisions of this act; to cause the prosecution of all persons violating its provisions; to report annually to the governor and to the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association upon the condition of pharmacy in the state, which said report shall also furnish a record of the proceedings of the said board for the year, as well as the names of all pharmacists duly registered under this act. The board shall hold meetings for the examination of applicants for registration, and transaction of such other business as shall pertain to its duties, at least once in three (3) months. And the said board shall give thirty (30) days' public notice of the time and place of such meeting. The said board shall also have power to make by-laws for the proper execution of its duties under this act, and shall keep a book of registration, in which shall be entered the names and places of business of all persons registered under this act, which registration book shall also contain such facts as such persons claim to justify their registration. Three (3) members of said board shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 7. Every person claiming the right of registration under this act, who shall, within three (3) months after the passage of this act, forward to the board of pharmacy satisfactory proof, supported by his affidavit, that he was engaged in the business of dispensing pharmacist, on his own account in the State of Minnesota at the time of the passage of this act, as provided in section two (2), shall, upon the payment of the fee hereinafter mentioned, be granted a certificate of registration: Provided, that in case of failure or neglect to register as herein specified, then such person shall, in order to be registered, comply with the requirements provided for registration as graduates in pharmacy or licentiates in pharmacy within the meaning of this act.

SEC. 8. Any person engaged in the position of assistant in a pharmacy at the time this act takes effect, not less than eighteen (18) years of age, who shall have had at least three (3) years' practical experience in drug stores where the prescriptions of medical practitioners are compounded, and who shall furnish satisfactory evidence to that effect to the state board of pharmacy, shall, upon making application for registration, and upon payment to the secretary of said board of a fee of one (1) dollar within ninety (90) days after this act takes effect, be entitled to a certificate as "registered assistant," which certificate shall entitle him to continue in such duties as clerk or assistant, but shall not entitle him to engage in business on his own account. Thereafter he shall pay annually to the said secretary the sum of fifty (50) cents during the time he shall continue in such duties, in return for which sum he shall receive a renewal of said certificate. Provided any applicant who has had seven (7) years' experience in compounding and dispensing medicines, immediately prior to the passage of this act, may receive a certificate of a registered pharmacist.

SEC. 9. Every person claiming registration as a registered pharmacist under section seven (7) of this act shall, before a certificate is granted, pay to the secretary of the state board of pharmacy the sum of two dollars, and a like sum shall be paid to said secretary by graduates in pharmacy, and by such licentiates of other boards who shall apply for registration under this act. And every applicant for registration by examination shall pay to the said secretary the sum of five (5) dollars before such examination be attempted: Provided, that in case the applicant fails to sustain a satisfactory examination by the said board, the said five (5) dollars shall be refunded to him.

SEC. 10. Every registered pharmacist who desires to continue the practice of his profession shall annually, during the time he shall continue such practice, on such date as the board of pharmacy may determine, pay to the secretary of said board a registration fee, the amount of which shall be fixed by the board, and which in no case shall exceed two (2) dollars, in return for which payment he shall receive a renewal of said registration. Every certificate of registration and every renewal of such certificate shall be conspicuously exposed in the pharmacy to which it applies.

SEC. 11. The secretary of the board of pharmacy shall receive a salary which shall be determined by said board; he shall also receive his traveling and other expenses incurred in the performance of his official duties. The other members of said board shall receive the sum of five (5) dollars for each day actually engaged in such service, and all the legitimate and necessary expenses incurred in attending the meetings of said board. Said expenses shall be paid from the fees and penalties received by said board under the provisions of this act; and no part of the salary, or other expenses of said board shall be paid out of the public treasury. All moneys received by said board in excess of said allowances, and other expenses hereinbefore provided for, shall be held by the secretary of said board as a special fund for meeting the expenses of said board, said secretary giving such bonds as the said board shall from time to time direct. The said board shall, in its annual report to the governor and to the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association, render an account of all moneys received and disbursed by them pursuant to this act.

SEC. 12. Any person not being or not having in his employ a registered pharmacist, within the full meaning of this act, who shall after the expiration of ninety (90) days from the passage of this act, retail, compound or dispense medicines, or who shall take, use or exhibit the title of a registered pharmacist, shall for each and every such offense be liable to a penalty of fifty (50) dollars. Any registered pharmacist, or other person, who shall permit the compounding and dispensing of prescriptions, or the vending of drugs, medicines or poisons in his store or place of business, except under the supervision of a registered pharmacist, or except by a "registered assistant," or any pharmacist or "registered assistant" who, while continuing in business, shall fail or neglect to procure his annual registration, or any person who shall wilfully make any false representation to procure registration for himself or any other person, or who shall violate any other provision of this act, shall for each and every such offense be liable to a penalty of fifty (50) dollars; provided, that nothing in this act shall in any manner interfere with the business of any physician in regular practice or prevent him from supplying to his patients such articles as may seem to him proper, nor with the making of proprietary medicine or medicines placed in sealed packages with the name of the contents and of the pharmacist or physician by whom prepared or compounded, nor prevent shopkeepers whose place of business is more than one mile from a drug or apothecary shop from dealing in and selling the commonly used medicines and poisons, if such medicines and poisons are put up by a registered pharmacist, or from dealing in and selling of patent or proprietary medicines, nor with the exclusively wholesale business of any dealers except as heretofore provided.

SEC. 13. Every proprietor or conductor of a drug store shall be held responsible for the quality of all drugs, chemicals and medicines sold or dispensed by him, except those sold in the original package of the manufacturer, and except those articles or preparations known as patent or proprietary medicines. Any person who shall knowingly, willfully or fraudulently falsify or adulterate, or cause to be falsified or adulterated, any drug or medicinal substance, or any preparation authorized or recognized by the pharmacopoeia of the United States, or used, or intended to be used in medical practice; or shall mix or cause to be mixed, with any such drug or medicinal substance, any foreign or inert substance whatsoever for the purpose of destroying or weakening its medicinal power and effect, or of lessening its cost, and shall willfully, knowingly or fraudulently sell or cause the same to be sold for medicinal purposes, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall pay a penalty not exceeding five hundred (500) dollars, and shall forfeit to the State of Minnesota all articles so adulterated.

SEC. 14. No person shall sell at retail any poisons commonly recognized as such, and especially aconite, arsenic, belladonna, biniodide of mercury, carbolic acid, chloral hydrate, chloroform, conium, corrosive sublimate, creosote, croton oil, cyanide of potassium, digitalis, hydrocyanic acid, laudanum, morphine, nux vomica, oil of bitter almonds, oil tansy, opium, oxalic acid, strychnine, sugar of lead, sulphate of zinc, white precipitate, red precipitate, without affixing to the box, bottle, vessel or package containing the same, and to the wrapper or cover thereof, a label bearing the name "poison" distinctly shown, together with the name and place of business of the seller. Nor shall he deliver any of the said poison to any person without satisfying himself that such poison is to be used for legitimate purposes: provided, that nothing herein contained shall apply to the dispensing of physicians' prescriptions specifying any of the poisons aforesaid. Any person failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of not less than five (5) dollars for each and every such omission.

SEC. 15. All suits for the recovery of the several penalties prescribed in this act shall be prosecuted in the name of "The State of Minnesota," in any court having jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the county attorney of the county wherein such offense is committed, to prosecute all persons violating the provisions of this act, upon proper complaint being made. All penalties collected under the provisions of this act shall inure one-half (½) to the board of pharmacy, and the remainder to the school fund of the county in which the suit was prosecuted and judgment obtained.

SEC. 16. All acts or portions of acts regulating the practice of pharmacy and the sale of poisons, or the adulteration of drugs, within this State, enacted prior to the passage of this act, are hereby repealed; provided, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any person who has once been a registered member, and may have forfeited his membership by non-payment of dues or fees, from renewing his membership within two (2) years by paying the required dues or fees without examination.

SEC. 17. All persons registered under this act shall be exempt from jury duty in the State of Minnesota.

SEC. 18. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to prohibit and prevent the sale or manufacture of unhealthy or adulterated dairy products.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. No person or persons shall sell or exchange or expose for sale or exchange any unclean, impure, unhealthy, adulterated or unwholesome milk, or shall offer for sale any article of food made from the same or of cream from the same. This provision shall not apply to pure skim cheese made from milk which is clean, pure, healthy, wholesome and unadulterated except by skimming. Whoever violates the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five (25) dollars nor more than two hundred (200) dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than one (1) or more than six (6) months, or both such fine and imprisonment for the first offense, and by six (6) months' imprisonment for each subsequent offense.

SEC. 2. No person shall keep cows for the production of milk for market, or for sale, or exchange, or for manufacturing the same, or cream from the same into articles of food, in a crowded or unhealthy condition, or feed the cows on food that is unhealthy, or that produces impure, unhealthy, diseased, or unwholesome milk. No person shall manufacture from impure, unhealthy, diseased or unwholesome milk, or of cream from the same, any article of food. Whosoever violates the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five (25), nor more than two hundred (200) dollars, or by imprisonment of not less than one (1), or more than four (4) months, or by both such fine and imprisonment for the first offense, and by four (4) months' imprisonment for each subsequent offense.

SEC. 3. No person or persons shall sell, supply or bring to be manufactured to any butter or cheese manufactory any milk diluted with water, or any unclean, impure, unhealthy, adulterated or unwholesome milk, or milk from which any cream has been taken (except pure skim milk to skim cheese factories), or shall keep back any part of the milk commonly known as "strippings," or shall bring or supply milk to any butter or cheese manufactory that is sour (except pure skim milk to skim cheese factories).

No butter or cheese manufactories except those who buy all the milk they use shall use for their own benefit or allow any of their employes or any other person to use, or the product thereof brought to said manufactories without the consent of the owners thereof. Every butter or cheese manufacturer except those who buy all the milk they use shall keep a correct account of all the milk daily received and of the number of pounds and packages of butter, the number and aggregate weight of cheese made each day, the number of packages of cheese and butter disposed of, which shall be open to inspection to any person who delivers milk to such manufacturer. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not less than twenty-five (25) dollars or more than two hundred (200) dollars, or not less than one (1) or more than six (6) months' imprisonment, or both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 4. No person shall manufacture out of any oleaginous substance, or substances, or any compound of the same, or any other compound other than that produced from unadulterated milk, or of cream from the same, any article designed to take the place of butter or cheese produced from pure, unadulterated milk, or cream from the same, or shall sell or offer for sale the same as an article of food. This shall not apply to pure skim milk cheese, made from pure skim milk. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred (100), nor more than five hundred (500) dollars, or not less than six (6) months' or more than one (1) year's imprisonment, or by both such fine and imprisonment for the first offense, and by imprisonment for one (1) year for each subsequent offense.

SEC. 5. No person shall offer, sell, or expose for sale in full packages, butter or cheese branded or labeled with a false brand or label as to county or state in which the article is made. Whoever violates the provision of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five (25) or more than fifty (50) dollars, or imprisonment of not less than fifteen (15) or more than thirty (30) days for the first offense, and fifty (50) dollars or thirty (30) days' imprisonment for each subsequent offense.

SEC. 6. No person shall manufacture, sell, or offer for sale any condensed milk, unless the same shall be put up in packages upon which shall be distinctly labeled or stamped the name or brand by whom or under which the same is made; no condensed milk shall be made or offered for sale unless the same is manufactured from pure, clean, healthy, fresh, unadulterated and wholesome milk, from which the cream has not been removed, or unless the proportion of milk solids contained in the condensed milk shall be in amount the equivalent of twelve (12) per centum of milk solids in crude milk, and of such solids twenty-five (25) per centum shall be fat. When condensed milk shall be sold from cans or packages not hermetically sealed, the vendor shall brand or label such cans or packages with the name of the county or counties from which the same was produced and the name of the vendor. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not less than fifty (50) or more than five hundred (500) dollars, or by imprisonment of not more than six (6) months, or both such fine and imprisonment for the first offense, and by six (6) months imprisonment for each subsequent offense.

SEC. 7. The governor shall appoint a commissioner who shall be known as the state dairy commissioner, who shall be a citizen of this State and who shall shall hold his office for the term of two (2) years, or until his successor is appointed, and shall receive a salary of eighteen hundred (1,800) dollars per annum and his necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties under this act. Said commissioner shall be appointed within ten (10) days after the passage of this act and shall be charged under the direction of the governor with the enforcement of the various provisions thereof. Said commissioner may be removed from office at the pleasure of the governor, and his successor appointed as above provided for. The said commissioner is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint a clerk, whose salary shall be twelve hundred (1,200) dollars per year, and such assistant commissioners, and to employ such experts, chemists, agents and such counsel as may be deemed by him necessary for the proper enforcement of this law, their compensation to be fixed by the commissioner. The sum of six thousand (6,000) dollars annually is hereby appropriated to be paid for such purposes out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. All charges, accounts and expenses authorized by this act shall be paid by the treasurer of the state upon the warrant of the state auditor. The entire expenses of said commissioner shall not exceed the sum appropriated for the purposes of this act. The said commissioner shall make biennial reports to the legislature, not later than the fifteenth day of January, of his work and proceedings, and shall report in detail the number of assistant commissioners, experts, chemists, agents and counsel he has employed, with their expenses and disbursements. The said commissioner shall have a room in the capitol to be set apart for his use by the governor.

SEC. 8. The said commissioner and assistant commissioners, and such experts, chemists, agents and counsel as they shall duly authorize for the purpose, shall have access, egress and ingress to all places of business, factories, farms, buildings, carriages, cars, vessels and cans used in the manufacture and sale of any dairy products or any imitation thereof. They shall also have power and authority to open any package, can or vessel containing such articles which may be manufactured, sold or exposed for sale in violation of the provisions of this act, and may inspect the contents therein, and may take therefrom samples for analysis.

SEC. 9. The district and municipal courts of this state shall have jurisdiction of all cases arising under this act, and their jurisdiction is hereby extended so as to enable them to enforce the penalties imposed by any or all of the sections hereof.

SEC. 10. In all prosecutions under this act the cost thereof shall be paid out of the fine if one is collected; if not, the same shall be paid in the manner now provided for by law and the rest of the fine shall be paid into the state treasury.

SEC. 11. In all prosecutions under this act relating to the sale and manufacture of unclean, impure, unhealthy, adulterated or unwholesome milk, if the milk be shown to contain more than eighty-eight (88) per centum of water or fluids, or less than twelve (12) per centum of milk solids, which shall contain not less than three (3) per centum of fat, it shall be declared adulterated; and milk drawn from cows within fifteen (15) days before and five (5) days after parturition, or from animals fed on distillery waste or any substance in the state of putrefaction or fermentation, or upon any unhealthy food whatever, shall be declared unclean, impure, unhealthy and unwholesome milk. This section shall not prevent the feeding of ensilage from silos.

SEC. 12. The doing of anything prohibited being done and the not doing of anything directed to be done in this act shall be presumptive evidence of a wilful intent to violate the different sections and provisions hereof.

SEC. 13. All acts or parts of acts conflicting with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 14. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after April first, eighteen hundred and eighty-five (1885).

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT for an act to prevent the spread of contagious or infectious diseases among cattle horses and other domestic animals.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The local boards of health of towns, villages and cities, in case of existence in this State of the disease called pleuro-pneumonia among cattle, or farcy or glanders among horses, or any other contagious or infectious disease among domestic animals, shall cause the animals in their respective towns, villages or cities which are infected, or which have been exposed to infection, to be secured or collected in some suitable place or places within their respective towns, villages or cities, and kept isolated, and, when taken from the possession of their owners, one-fifth of the expense of their maintenance shall be paid by the town, village or city wherein the animal is kept, and four-fifths by the State; such isolation to continue as long as the existence of such disease or other circumstances may render it necessary.

SEC. 2. The said local boards of health when any such animal is adjudged by a veterinary surgeon or physician, by them selected, to be infected with any contagious or infectious disease, may in their discretion order such diseased animal to be forthwith killed and buried at the expense of such town, village or city.

SEC. 3. The said local boards of health may cause all such animals that have been within the state for six (6) months next preceding the adjudication mentioned in section two (2), to be appraised by three (3) competent and disinterested men under oath, at the value thereof at the time of the appraisement. And in making such appraisement the appraisers shall take into consideration the fact of the existence of such disease in such animals, and the amount of the appraisement shall be paid as provided in section one (1), except as provided in section fifteen (15) of this act.

SEC. 4. The said local boards of health may, within their respective towns, villages and cities, prohibit the departure of animals from any inclosure, or exclude animals therefrom.

SEC. 5. The said local boards of health may make regulations in writing, to regulate or prohibit the passage from, to, or through their respective towns, villages or cities, or from place to place within the same, of any cattle or other domestic animals, and may arrest and detain, at the cost of the owners thereof, all animals found passing in violation of such regulations, and may take all necessary measures for the enforcement of such prohibition; and also for preventing the spread of any disease among the animals to their respective town, village or city, and the immediate vicinity thereof.

SEC. 6. Such regulations shall be recorded upon the records of their respective towns, villages and cities, and shall be published in such towns, villages and cities in such manner as may be provided in such regulations.

SEC. 7. Any person disobeying the orders of said local boards of health, made in conformity with the preceding provisions, or driving or transporting any animals contrary to the regulations made, recorded and published as aforesaid, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor exceeding five hundred (500), or by imprisonment of not less than thirty (30) days nor exceeding one (1) year.

SEC. 8. Whoever knows or has reason to suspect the existence of any such disease among the animals in his possession, or under his care, shall forthwith give notice thereof to the said local boards of health of the town, village or city where such animals are kept, and for failure so to do shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty (50) dollars nor exceeding five hundred (500) dollars, or by imprisonment of not less that thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year.

SEC. 9. Any member of any local board of health who neglects or refuses to carry into effect the preceding provisions shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor more than five hundred (500) dollars for each day's neglect.

SEC. 10. When the state board of health make and publish any regulations concerning the extirpation, care or treatment of animals infected with, or which have been exposed to, any contagious disease, such regulations shall supersede those made by the local boards of health; and said local boards of health shall carry out and enforce all orders and directions of the state board of health to them directed.

SEC. 11. The state board of health shall have all the power and authority herein conferred upon local boards of health.

SEC. 12. The local boards of health, within twenty-four (24) hours after they have notice that any domestic animals in their respective towns, villages and cities are infected with or have been exposed to any such disease, shall give notice thereof in writing to the state board of health.

SEC. 13. The state board of health may make all necessary regulations for the quarantine of such animals and extirpation of such disease, and may direct local boards of health to enforce and carry into effect all such regulations as may from time to time be made for that end; and any member of any local board of health who refuses or neglects to enforce or carry out any regulation of the state board of health shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred (100) dollars nor more than five hundred (500) dollars for every offense.

SEC. 14. The state board of health, when in their judgment the public requires it, may cause to be killed and buried any domestic animals which are infected with or have been exposed to such disease; and except as provided in the following section, shall cause such animals to be appraised in the manner provided above. And the appraised value of such animals shall be paid, one-fifth by the town, village or city in which such animals were kept, and the remainder by the state.

SEC. 15. In all cases of farcy or glanders the state board of health, having condemned the animal infected therewith, shall cause such animal to be killed without an appraisement or compensation to the owner thereof, but may pay the owner an equitable sum for the killing and burial thereof.

SEC. 16. Any person who fails to comply with the regulation made or an order given by the state board of health shall be punished by fine not exceeding five hundred (500) dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one (1) year.

SEC. 17. All appraisement made shall be in writing and signed by the appraisers and certified by the local boards of health or state board of health, respectively, to the governor and to the treasurer of the several towns, villages and cities wherein the cattle appraised were kept.

SEC. 18. The state board of health may examine under oath all persons believed to possess knowledge of material facts concerning the existence or dissemination or danger of dissemination of diseases among domestic animals; and for this purpose shall have all the powers vested in justices of the peace to take depositions and to compel witnesses to attend and testify. All costs and expenses incurred in producing the attendance of such witnesses shall be certified by the state board of health and paid from the treasury of the State, upon being certified to and approved by the governor.

SEC. 19. Whenever animals exposed to contagious diseases, or killed by an order of the state board of health, and upon a post mortem examination are found to have been entirely free from disease, the state board of health shall cause the same to be sold under their direction, first giving to the purchaser notice of the facts; and if said purchaser, or any other person, shall sell said slaughtered animals, or any part thereof, he shall in like manner give notice to the parties to whom such sales are made, and the proceeds of the sales made by order of the state board of health shall be applied in payment of the appraised value of said animals.

SEC. 20. Whoever violates any of the provisions of the preceding section shall be punished by fine not exceeding one (1) hundred (100) dollars and the cost of prosecution.

SEC. 21. The state board of health shall keep a full record of their doings, and report the same to the legislature, unless sooner required by the governor.

SEC. 22. The state board of health may by order require any two (2) or more local boards of health to act together for the purposes of this act.

SEC. 23. The sum of three thousand (3,000) dollars, or so much thereof as necessary, is hereby annually appropriated for the payment of expenses incurred by the state in enforcing this act; said expenses to be approved by the state board of health and by the governor.

SEC. 24. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to insure the better education of practitioners of dental surgery and to regulate the practice of dentistry in the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person who is not at the time of the passage of this act engaged in the practice of dentistry in this state, to commence such practice unless he or she shall have obtained a certificate as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. A board of examiners to consist of five practicing dentists, is hereby created whose duty it shall be to carry out the purposes and enforce the provisions of this act.

The members of said board shall be appointed by the governor, who shall select them from ten candidates whose names shall be furnished him by the state dental association; at least three members of said board shall be members of the state dental association. The term for which the members of said board shall hold their offices shall be five years, except that the members of the board first to be appointed under this act shall hold their offices for the term of one, two, three, four and five years respectively, and until their successors shall be duly appointed. In case of a vacancy occurring in said board, such vacancy shall be filled by the governor from names presented to him by the Minnesota State Dental association. It shall be the duty of the Minnesota State Dental society to present twice the number of names to the governor of those to be appointed.

SEC. 3. Said board shall choose one of its members president and one the secretary thereof; and it shall meet at least once in each year, and as much oftener and at such times and places as it may deem necessary. A majority of said board shall at all times constitute a quorum, and the proceedings thereof shall at all reasonable times be open to public inspection.

SEC. 4. Within six months from the time that this act takes effect, it shall be the duty of every person who is at that time engaged in the practice of dentistry in this state to cause his or her name and residence or place of business to be registered with said board of examiners, who shall keep a book for that purpose.

The statement of every such person shall be verified under oath before a notary public or justice of the peace in such manner as may be prescribed by the board of examiners. Every person who shall so register with said board as a practitioner of dentistry may continue to practice the same as such without incurring any of the liabilities or penalties provided in this act, and shall pay to the board of examiners for such registration a fee of one dollar. It shall be the duty of the board of examiners to forward to the clerk of the court of each county in the state a certified list of the names of all persons residing in his county who have registered in accordance with the provisions of this act, and it shall be the duty of all clerks to register such names in a book to be kept for that purpose.

SEC. 5. Any and all persons who shall so desire may appear before said board, at any of its regular meetings, and be examined with reference to their knowledge and skill in dental surgery; and if the examination of any such person or persons shall prove satisfactory to said board, the board of examiners shall issue to such persons as they shall find to possess the requisite qualifications a certificate to that effect, in accordance with the provisions of this act. Said board shall also endorse as satisfactory diplomas from any reputable dental college, when satisfied with the character of such institution, upon the holder of such diploma furnishing evidence satisfactory to the board of his or her right to the same.

All certificates issued by said board shall be signed by its officers, and such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the right of the holder to practice dentistry in the State of Minnesota.

SEC. 6. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction may be fined not less than fifty dollars or more than two hundred dollars, or be confined six months in the county jail. All fines received under this act shall be paid into the common school fund of the county in which such conviction takes place.

SEC. 7. In order to provide the means for carrying out and maintaining the provisions of this act, the said board of examiners may charge each person applying to or appearing before them for examination for a certificate of qualification a fee of ten dollars, which fee shall in no case be returned; and out of the funds coming into the possession of the board from the fees so charged the members of said board may receive as compensation the sum of five dollars for each day actually engaged in the duties of their office, and all legitimate and necessary expenses incurred in attending the meetings of said board. Said expenses shall be paid from the fees and penalties received by the board under the provisions of this act, and no part of the salary or other expenses of the board shall ever be paid out of the state treasury. All moneys received in excess of said per diem allowance and other expenses above provided for shall be held by the secretary of said board as a special fund for meeting the expenses of said board and carrying out the provisions of this act, he giving such bond as the board shall from time to time direct. And said board shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the governor by the 15th of December of each year, together with an account of all moneys received and disbursed by them pursuant to this act.

SEC. 8. Any person who shall receive a certificate of qualification from said board shall cause his or her certificate to be registered with the clerk of the court of any county or counties in which such persons may desire to engage in the practice of dentistry, and the clerks of the court of the several counties in this state shall charge for registering such certificate a fee of twenty-five cents for such registration. Any failure, neglect, or refusal on the part of any person holding such certificate to register the same with the clerk of court, as above directed, for a period of six months, shall work a forfeiture of the certificate, and no certificate when once forfeited shall be restored, except upon the payment to the said board of examiners of the sum of twenty-five dollars as a penalty for such neglect, failure, or refusal.

SEC. 9. Any person who shall knowingly and falsely claim or pretend to have or hold a certificate of license, diploma, or degree granted by any society, or who shall falsely and with intent to deceive the public, claim or pretend to be a graduate from any incorporated dental college, not being such graduate, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be liable to the same penalty as provided in section six of this act.

SEC. 10. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to prevent the pollution of rivers and sources of water supply.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. No sewage, drainage or refuse or polluting matter, of such kind as either by itself or in connection with other matter will corrupt or impair the quality of the water of any spring, well, pond, lake, stream or river for domestic use, or render it injurious to health, and no human or animal excrement shall be placed in, or discharged into, or placed or deposited upon the ice of any pond, lake, stream or river used as a source of water supply by any town, village or city, nor shall any such sewage, drainage, refuse, or polluting matter, or excrement be placed upon the banks of any such pond, lake, stream or river within five miles above the point where such supply is taken, or into any feeders or the banks thereof of any such pond, lake, stream or river, provided nothing in this section contained shall apply to Lake Superior.

SEC. 2. The state board of health shall have the general supervision of all springs, wells, ponds, lakes, streams or rivers used by any town, village or city as a source of water supply, with reference to their purity, together with the waters feeding the same, and shall examine the same from time to time, and inquire what, if any, pollution exists and their causes. In case of a violation of any of the provisions of section 1 of this act, said board may appoint a time and place for hearing parties to be affected, and shall give due notice thereof, as hereinafter provided to such parties, and after such hearing, if, in its judgment, the public health requires it, may order any person or corporation, or municipal corporation, to desist from the acts causing such pollution, and may direct any such person or corporation to remedy the pollution or to cleanse or purify the polluting substances in such a manner and to such a degree as shall be directed by said board, before being cast or allowed to flow into the waters thereby polluted, or placed or deposited upon the ice or banks of any of the bodies of water in the first section of this act mentioned. Upon the application of the proper officers of any town, village or city, or of not less than —— legal voters of any such town, village or city to said state board, alleging the pollution of the water supply of any such town, village or city by the violation of any of the provisions of this act, said state board shall investigate the alleged pollution, and shall appoint a time and place when and where it will hear and examine the matter, and shall give notice of such hearing and examination to the complainant and also to the person or corporation or municipal corporation alleged to have caused such pollution, and such notice shall be served not less than ten days prior to the time so appointed, and shall be served in the same manner that now is or hereafter may be, by law, provided for the service of a summons in a civil action in the district court. Said board, if in its judgment any of the provisions of this act have been violated, shall issue the order or orders already mentioned in this section.

SEC. 3. The district court, or the judge thereof may, upon the complaint of said state board, or of the proper authorities of any town, city or village whose source of water supply shall be so polluted, issue an injunction to enforce the orders of said state board.

SEC. 4. Such orders of the state board shall be served upon the persons, corporations or municipal corporations found to have violated any of the provisions of this act, and any party aggrieved thereby shall have the right to appeal to the district court of the county in which is situate the town, village or city whose source of water supply is found to have been polluted, and such aggrieved party shall have the right to a trial by jury in the same manner as in a civil action in said court. During the pendency of the appeal the pollution against which the order has issued shall not be continued contrary to the order of the state board, and upon the violation of the order the appeal shall forthwith be dismissed.

SEC. 5. Any person, corporation or municipal corporation desiring to appeal from any such order of the state board shall, within thirty days after the service upon him or it of a copy of such order, file in the office of the clerk of the district court of the proper county a notice of such appeal, together with a bond in the sum of not less than two thousand dollars, with two sureties to be approved by the judge of said court, conditioned for the prosecution of such appeal to judgment, and for the payment of all the costs and disbursements that may be adjudged against him or it therein, and shall, within three days after such filing, serve a copy of such notice and bond upon the secretary of said board; and said secretary shall, within ten days thereafter, deliver such copies so served upon him to the mayor or other chief executive officer of any such city, village or town whose source of water supply has been found to have been so polluted.

SEC. 6. Water boards, water commissioners, water companies, and the proper officers of any city, village or town making use, as a source of water supply, of any well, spring, pond, lake, stream, river, reservoir or well within or partly within this State, and distributing the waters thereof for public, domestic and general uses, shall, from time to time, and whenever required by said state board, make returns to said board, upon blanks to be furnished by it, of such matters as may be required by said board and called for by such blanks; and any such water board, water commissioners, water company or officers of any city, village or town, who shall, for the space of thirty days after being furnished with such blanks, fail or neglect to make any such report so required, shall, for each and every such neglect or failure, forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for the use of the local board of health, or the proper officer acting as such, of the city, town or village where such delinquent has its principal office. Said state board shall, in the name of the state, prosecute in the district court of the proper county an action for the recovery of the penalty or forfeit herein imposed.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to change the rate of interest upon the sales of public lands heretofore made from seven (7) to five (5) per cent, being an amendment to section eight (8) of chapter thirty-eight, of the General Statutes of A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878).

Whereas, By the terms of sale of public lands heretofore made, the purchasers are required to pay interest at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum upon the deferred payments of the purchase money due this state on the sale of such lands; and,

Whereas, The requiring and receiving of such a high rate of interest on such deferred payments has a tendency to cause and has heretofore caused a rapid and early payment of all sums unpaid on account of such purchase money, and thereby necessitating a reinvestment of the funds so received by the State in other interest-bearing securities; and,

Whereas, Such reinvestment is not and cannot now safely be made so as to return a higher rate of interest than from three to four per cent per annum, thereby materially diminishing the income of the school fund of the State; and,

Whereas, It is deemed expedient and for the interest of said fund to reduce the rate of interest on the balance due on the purchase money due on past sales of public lands to such a figure as will encourage the purchasers of such lands to defer payment of the balance of the principal purchase money until the time fixed and required by the terms of the sale, and to continue to pay the interest thereon at a higher rate of interest than could be obtained by the State by a reinvestment of such funds: now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SEC. 1. That section eight (8) of chapter thirty-eight (38) of the General Statutes of 1878 be amended by adding to the end thereof the following:

Provided, that any holder of one or more certificates mentioned in this section, heretofore issued on sales heretofore made, who shall have paid all interest due thereon before the presentation thereof as herein provided, may return to the state land commissioner such certificate or certificates accompanied by an agreement duly signed and acknowledged by him, in such form as the state land commissioner may prescribe and provide, conditioned that the balance of the purchase price of the land described therein shall not be payable before the expiration of fifteen years from the date of such agreement, and that during all of said time he will pay five per cent interest per annum in advance on the balance of said purchase price; whereupon the state land commissioner shall endorse on said certificate that the time of payment is so extended and the rate of interest changed from seven to five per cent per annum, in consideration of such extension of time, and shall return said certificate so endorsed to said holder, and thereupon said holder of said certificate shall only pay interest at the rate of five per cent per annum in lieu of seven per cent per annum, from the first day of June next thereafter; and provided further, that in case any holder of a certificate mentioned in this section, desires for any reason to pay for said land at any time within fifteen years from the time of sale, or from the time of the change of the terms of the certificate herein provided for, he shall make application to the state land commissioner for leave to make such payment, and such application shall thereupon be granted, provided the said holder of said certificate pay into the state treasury over and above the principal of said purchase money, and the interest accrued on said lands and to accrue thereon during such year, two per cent interest per annum on the purchase price of said land, during all the time in which said holder or purchaser has paid five per cent interest on said purchase price.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to prevent the sale or otherwise disposing of obscene, immoral and indecent books, pamphlets, papers, pictures and other objectionable wares.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. First, a person who sells, lends, gives away or offers to give away or shows or has in his possession with intent to sell or give away or to show, or advertise or otherwise offer for loan, gift, sale or distribution, an obscene or indecent book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, story paper, writing, paper, picture, drawing or photograph, or any article or instrument of indecent or immoral use, or who designs, copies, draws, photographs, prints, utters, publishes or prepares such a book, picture, drawing, paper or other article, or writes or prints or causes to be written or printed a circular, advertisement or notice of any kind, or gives information, orally, stating when, where, how or of whom or by what plans such indecent or obscene article or thing can be purchased or obtained; or, second, sells, lends, gives away or shows, or has in his possession with intent to sell or give away, or to show or advertise or otherwise offers for loan, gift or distribution, any book, pamphlet, magazine, newspaper or other printed paper devoted to the publication or principally made up of criminal news, police reports or accounts of criminal deeds, or pictures and stories of deeds of bloodshed, lust or crime; or, third, exhibits upon any street or highway or in any other place within the view of which may be within the view of any minor child, any book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, writing, paper, picture, drawing, photograph or other article or articles coming within the description of articles mentioned in the first and second subdivisions to this section, or any of them, or exhibits or circulates or posts, or causes to be exhibited or circulated or posted in any conspicuous place, any picture, handbill or poster containing obscene, indecent or immoral representations; or, fourth, in any manner hires, uses or employs any minor child to sell or give away or in any manner to distribute, or who, having the care, custody or control of any minor child, permits such child to sell, give away or in any other manner to distribute any book, magazine, pamphlet, newspaper, story paper, writing, paper, picture, drawing, photograph or other article or matter coming within the description of articles and matter mentioned in the first and second subdivisions of this section, or any of them, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than three months, or by fine not less than twenty-five dollars or more than one hundred dollars, or by both imprisonment and fine, one-half of said fine to be paid to the informer.

SEC. 2. All municipal courts and justices of the peace, on complaint supported by oath or affirmation that any person has in his possession or control any obscene and indecent books, papers, articles and things described in this act, shall issue a warrant, directed to the sheriff of the county within which such complaint shall be made, or to any constable, marshal or police officer within said county, directing him, them, or any of them, to search for, seize and take possession of such obscene and indecent books, papers, articles and things; and said court and justice of the peace shall, upon the conviction of the person or persons offending under the law any of the provisions of this act, forthwith, in the presence of the person or persons upon whose complaint the said seizure or arrest is made, if he or they shall, after notice thereof, elect to be present, destroy or cause to be destroyed the aforesaid books, papers, articles and things, and shall cause to be entered upon the records of his court the fact of such destruction.

SEC. 3. Justices of the peace and municipal courts shall have jurisdiction of the offenses mentioned in this act.

SEC. 4. Section twelve, of chapter one hundred, of the General Statutes of the State of Minnesota, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT regulating the admission of evidence in civil actions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. A party to the record of any civil proceeding in law or equity, or a person for whose immediate benefit such proceeding is prosecuted or defended, may be examined as if under cross-examination at the instance of the adverse party, or any of them, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner, and subject to the same rules for examination as any other witness to testify, but the party calling for such examination shall not be concluded thereby, but may rebut it by counter testimony.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT for the collection, preservation and report of criminal statistics.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the county attorney of every county in this state to procure at the expense of the county a suitable book, to be known and designated "A Register of Criminal Actions," and which book shall be preserved and kept by him as hereinafter provided, and at the expiration of his term of office be delivered by him to his successor in office.

SEC. 2. Immediately after the conclusion of any preliminary examination or prosecution conducted by such county attorney, and immediately after the receipt by him of any report of a justice of the peace as provided in section 3 of this act, and within ten (10) days after the adjournment of any term of a court of record in his county having criminal jurisdiction, it shall be the duty of such county attorney to enter in such register the title of all criminal causes conducted, prosecuted or so reported to him, the date when such examination or prosecution was begun, the date of the finding of an indictment or the filing of a criminal appeal in such court, the nature of the criminal accusation against the defendant, the result of such examination, prosecution or trial; if convicted, the nature and extent of the punishment inflicted, and whether the crime charged was committed under the influence of intoxicating liquors. He shall also, upon the receipt of the report from the justice or clerk hereinafter provided for, enter in such register under each case the amount of costs taxed therein, the amount of fines, if any, imposed, and the amount paid thereon.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of every justice of the peace, within ten (10) days after the conclusion of every criminal prosecution begun and prosecuted before him, to report to the county attorney of his county, or to the county attorney of the county to which his county is attached for judicial purposes, the title of such criminal cause, the nature of the accusation, the result thereof, and, if the defendant is convicted, the nature and extent of the punishment inflicted, whether the crime charged was committed under the influence of intoxicating liquors, the amount of costs paid or incurred by the state in such case, and the amount of fines and costs or fines of costs paid by the defendant.

SEC. 4. It shall be the duty of the clerk of every court of record having criminal jurisdiction, either before the adjournment or within ten (10) days after the adjournment of any term of such court, to tax the amount of costs paid or incurred by the county or state in the trial of each criminal case tried in said court during said term, including witness fees, and to enter the amount thereof in the record of such case, and immediately thereafter to report to the county attorney of the county the amount of costs so taxed in each of such cases, the amount of fines imposed and the amount paid thereon.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of every sheriff or other officer or person who serves any subpoena or other process issued in a criminal action by any court of record having criminal jurisdiction, on or before the last day of every term of such court, to file such subpoena or other process, with his fees for the service thereof endorsed thereon, with the clerk of such court.

SEC. 6. It shall be the duty of every county attorney on or before the 10th day of January of each year to prepare and transmit to the attorney general, in such form as the attorney general prescribes, a report of the number, character and result of all criminal cases prosecuted by or reported as aforesaid to him during the preceding year, which report shall also contain such other or further information as the attorney general may require; and said register, if properly kept, may furnish, together with the cost of such prosecution to the county or state. Upon the reception of such report it shall be the duty of the attorney general to send to the county attorney a receipt for the same, which receipt shall be filed with the county auditor of the county; and thereupon, and not otherwise, it shall be the duty of the county auditor to issue to such county attorney a warrant for the salary due him for the preceding month of December, and no warrant shall be issued for said month's salary until such receipt is filed as aforesaid. Provided, that the report for the year A. D. 1885 shall include the period between November 15, 1881, and January 1, 1886.

SEC. 7. Section 216 of chapter 8 of the General Statutes of 1878 is hereby repealed.

SEC. 8. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 10, 1885.

AN ACT proposing an amendment to article eight (8) of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The following amendment of article eight (8) of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota is hereby proposed to the people for approval or rejection. That is to say, that said article eight (8) be amended by adding thereto the following section, viz.:

"Section 5. The permanent school funds of the State may be loaned upon interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum to the several counties or school districts of the State, to be used in the erection of county or school buildings. No such loan shall be made until approved by a board consisting of the governor, the state auditor and the state treasurer, who are hereby constituted an investment board for the purpose of the loans hereby authorized; nor shall any such loan be for an amount exceeding three (3) per cent of the last preceding assessed valuation of the real estate of the county or school district receiving the same. The state auditor shall annually at the time of certifying the state tax to the several county auditors also certify to each auditor to whose county or to any of the school districts of whose county any such loan shall have been made, the tax necessary to be levied to meet the accruing interest or principal of any such loan; and it shall be the duty of every such county auditor forthwith to levy and extend such tax upon all the taxable property of his county or of the several school districts respectively liable for such loans, as the case may be, and in all such cases the tax so assessed shall be fifty (50) per cent in excess of the amount actually necessary to be raised on account of such accruing principal or interest. It shall be levied, collected and paid into the county and State treasuries in the same manner as State taxes, and any excess collected over the amount of such principal or interest accruing in any given year shall be credited to the general funds of the respective counties or school districts. No change of the boundaries of any school district after the making of any such loan shall operate to withdraw any property from the taxation herein provided for. Nor shall any law be passed extending the time of payment of any such principal or interest, or reducing the rate of such interest, or in any manner waiving or impairing any rights of the State in connection with any such loan. Suitable laws not inconsistent with this amendment may be passed by the legislature for the purpose of carrying the same into effect."

SEC. 2. This proposed amendment shall be submitted to the people of the State for their approval or rejection at the general election occurring after the passage of this act, and the qualified electors of the State, in their respective districts, may at such election vote by ballot for or against said amendment, and the returns thereof shall be made and certified within the time, and such votes canvassed and the result thereof declared in the manner provided by law with reference to election of members of congress, and if it shall appear thereupon that a majority of the electors present and voting for or against the proposed amendment to the constitution, as provided in the next section, have voted in favor of the same, then the governor shall make proclamation thereof, and such amendment shall thereupon take effect, and be in force as a part of the constitution.

SEC. 3. The ballots used at such election by electors voting in favor of this amendment shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed thereupon the following words: "Amendment of article eight (8) of the constitution—Yes." The ballots used by such electors voting against said amendment shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed thereupon the following words: "Amendment of article eight (8) of the constitution—No."

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT relating to the collection of judgments.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. When a judgment is recovered against any city, village or borough in this State, no execution shall issue on such judgment, but the same, if for the recovery of money, shall be paid by the treasurer of such city, village or borough, upon demand, and the delivery to him of a certified copy of the docket of such judgment, from any moneys in his hands belonging to such city, village or borough, and which has not been otherwise appropriated; and if such treasurer shall not have sufficient of such moneys in his hands to pay such judgment, then such treasurer shall pay upon such judgment so much of such moneys as shall be in his hands; and such treasurer shall hereafter retain all such moneys as he may receive and pay the same to the owner of such judgment, on demand, until such judgment be fully paid, and if such treasurer fails so to pay such judgment he and his bondsmen shall be personally liable for the amounts not so paid, unless the collection of such judgment is stayed on appeal; provided that the treasurer of said city, village or borough shall retain of the moneys belonging to the same a sum sufficient to pay the necessary current expenses of said city, village or borough.

SEC. 2. Whenever a judgment against a city, village or borough remains unpaid at the time required by law for the officers of any city, village or borough to levy taxes to be collected in such city, village or borough for the ensuing year, it shall be the duty of such officers to levy the amount of such judgment in addition to any other taxes levied by them, and to certify the same and the purpose thereof to the county auditor, who shall extend the amount of such judgment upon the taxable property of such city, village or borough, and the same shall be collected with the other taxes for that year, and the amount so collected shall not be used or appropriated for any other purpose; provided that if such officers refuse or neglect for the space of thirty days after being requested by the owner of such judgment to set apart and provide sufficient funds so that said judgment shall be paid before the time for the collection of the next tax levy, it shall then and thereupon become the duty of such officers, and they shall levy the amount of such judgment, and certify the same, and the purposes thereof to the county auditor, and such amount shall be expended in the tax duplicate and collected as hereinbefore provided.

SEC. 3. If payment of such judgment is not made within twenty days after the time fixed by law for the county treasurer to pay over to the treasurer of such city, village or borough the moneys in his hands belonging to such city, village or borough, next after the rendition of such judgment, execution may be issued on such judgment, but only the property of such city, village or borough shall be liable thereon.

SEC. 4. This act shall apply to any city, village or borough, organized or created under any general or special law of this State, except where the act under which any city, village or borough is organized and created shall provide some other mode for the collection of judgments.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 4, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the storage and disposal of unclaimed baggage, freight and merchandise.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. When any personal baggage shall have remained for a period of thirty (30) days, in the possession of any carrier of passengers, at any station of such carrier in this state, to which it may have been carried, in performance of the contract of such carrier relative thereto; or when any freight or merchandise shall have remained for a period of sixty (60) days after notice given by mail to the consignee thereof, in the possession of any common carrier, at any office or station of such carrier within this state, to which such freight or merchandise may have been consigned, then, and in that case, such carrier, upon payment of its just charges for the transportation and storage of the same, may deliver such baggage, freight or merchandise to any warehouseman or storage company doing business in this state.

SEC. 2. Any warehouseman or storage company receiving any property as provided in section one (1) of this act, shall provide suitable storage for the same: and such warehouseman or storage company shall have a lien upon such property for all charges paid to the carrier from which the same was received, and for all reasonable charges for handling, storage, insurance and other expenses necessarily incurred in safely keeping the same, with legal interest on all thereof.

SEC. 3. If the owner of such property or his agent, does not appear and duly claim the same within twelve (12) months of its receipt from the carrier, such warehouseman or storage company may proceed to sell the same, at public auction, to the highest bidder. A notice specifying the time and place of such sale shall be published at least once in each week for three (3) successive weeks, prior to such sale, in a newspaper printed and published at the capital of the state, and also in a newspaper printed and published in the county where such sale is to take place, if there be such a newspaper, and also by mailing a copy thereof to the owner if his address be known, and by posting a copy of the same in three (3) public places in the town, city or village where the property is to be sold.

SEC. 4. The proceeds of all sales made under the authority of this act, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied to the payment of all reasonable charges of such warehouseman or storage company and the expenses of such sale; and the surplus, if any, shall be immediately paid over to the treasurer of the county in which the property was sold, accompanied by a statement as provided in section nineteen (19), of chapter nineteen (19), of General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), which statement shall be filed and surplus disposed of in all respects as provided in sections twenty (20), twenty-one (21) and twenty-two (22) of said chapter nineteen (19).

SEC. 5. Before any warehouseman or storage company shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of this act such warehouseman or storage company shall execute a bond to the State of Minnesota, with at least two (2) sureties, to be approved by the governor of the state, in the sum of ten thousand (10,000) dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of all duties enjoined upon such warehouseman or storage company under the provisions of this act, which bond shall be for the use of any party interested, and shall be deposited in the office of the secretary of state.

SEC. 6. The provisions of this act shall apply to all property now held by any carrier in this state, or which has been heretofore delivered to any warehouseman or storage company in accordance with the provisions of this act, as fully as though this act had been in force at the time of the receipt of such property by such carrier, warehouseman or storage company.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 10, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for service of summons or other process upon municipal corporations.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Every summons, process and notice whatever, affecting any city or other municipal corporation shall be served upon the mayor or chief executive officer of such corporation, and in his absence, upon the president of the council, and in the absence of both, upon the clerk; and if there is no mayor or president of the council in such city, or municipal corporation, then by leaving a certified copy at the office of such clerk, if any, and if there is no such clerk, then by posting the same in a conspicuous place within the limits of such municipality. Provided: That the court in which any complaint may be filed, or any judge thereof may in his discretion direct such other or further notice of the pendency of such action to be given by publication or otherwise as to the court or any judge thereof may seem meet and proper, and shall upon the request of five propertyholders of such corporation appoint counsel to defend any such action.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 28, 1885.

AN ACT requiring railroad companies to provide suitable passenger waiting rooms at cities, towns and villages.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all railroad corporations or companies operating any railroads in this State shall provide at all stations on their respective roads, suitable waiting rooms for the protection and accommodation of all passengers patronizing such railroads, and at all stations in villages of one thousand inhabitants or over, all such railroad companies or corporations shall provide a separate waiting room for ladies, and a separate waiting room for gentlemen, both of which said waiting rooms shall be properly and comfortably furnished, heated, lighted and ventilated, which said rooms shall each be at least equal in size to fifteen (15) feet by eighteen (18) feet square, with a height of ceiling at least ten (10) feet above the floor, and that all villages of less than one thousand (1,000) shall have at least one (1) such waiting room; and waiting rooms, shall in all cases when necessary be constructed of such greater size as to accommodate all passengers patronizing such railroad at any station.

SEC. 2. Any such railroad company or corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this act shall forfeit and pay to the State of Minnesota a penalty of not less than five hundred (500) dollars, nor more than one thousand (1,000) dollars for each and every violation of this act, and each period of thirty (30) days that any such railroad company or corporation shall fail to comply with the provisions of this act, at any such station, shall be taken and deemed to be a separate violation of this act.

SEC. 3. All suits commenced and prosecuted under this act shall be in the name of the State of Minnesota, and all penalties collected shall be paid into the state treasury.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force on and after June first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five (1885.)

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to prescribe the manner by which the money appropriated by an act entitled "an act to provide for annual exhibits of the agricultural, stock-breeding, horticultural, mining, mechanical and other products and resources of the State of Minnesota, in aid of the purposes of the State Agricultural society, and to appropriate moneys and property for such purposes."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the money appropriated by section three (3) of "an act entitled an act to provide for annual exhibits of the agricultural, stock breeding, horticultural, mining, mechanical and other products and resources of the State of Minnesota, and in aid of the purposes of the state Agricultural society, and to appropriate moneys and property for such purposes," shall be disbursed in the manner hereinafter prescribed, and not otherwise, anything in said above entitled act to the contrary notwithstanding. All contracts, bills and vouchers, for or on account of any of the purposes for which said appropriation was made shall be presented to and passed upon by the executive committee of the State Agricultural society, and if allowed by said executive committee, the fact of such allowance shall be attested by the president and secretary of said society, and such contracts, bills and vouchers with such attestation shall be presented to the governor for approval, and when approved by the governor shall be filed in the office of the state auditor, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the state auditor to draw a warrant on the state treasurer for the amount of such voucher in favor of the person entitled thereto, and no part or portion of said appropriation shall be paid out except in the manner hereinbefore provided.

SEC. 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act is hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the disposition of the estate of insane persons.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever the husband or wife of any insane person, or the person having an interest in the estate of such insane person, make petition to the probate court of the county wherein such petitioner resides, showing that such insane person has an interest in the real estate of said petitioner, and showing that it is desirable that such real estate shall be mortgaged or sold, such probate court may make an order directing the guardian of such insane person to execute such mortgage or deed for and on behalf of such insane person; such petition shall contain a description of the real estate to be mortgaged or sold, and the amount for which said mortgage or deed is to be executed, to whom, and such reasons as may exist for mortgaging or selling the same. If the real estate to be mortgaged or sold be situated in another county than that in which the petitioner resides, the petition shall be made to the probate court of the county wherein said real estate is situated.

SEC. 2. Before such order is made, notice of the time and place of the hearing upon the petition shall be given, as now provided by law for the hearing upon the petition of executors and administrators for the sale of lands.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the date of its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to prevent and punish fraud in the use of false stamps, brands, labels or trade marks.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Any person or persons who shall knowingly and willfully forge or counterfeit, procure to be forged or counterfeited, any representation, likeness, similitude, copy or imitation of the private stamps, brands, wrapper, label or trade mark usually affixed by any mechanic, manufacturer, druggist, merchant or tradesman to and upon the goods, wares, merchandise or preparation of said mechanic, manufacturer, druggist, merchant or tradesman, with intent to pass off any work, goods, manufacture, compound or preparation to which such forged or counterfeit representation, likeness, similitude, copy or imitation is affixed or intended to be affixed as the work, goods, manufacture, compound or preparation of such mechanic, manufacturer, druggist, merchant or tradesman, shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, upon conviction thereof, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not less than six months nor more than twelve months, or fined not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.)

SEC. 2. Any person or persons who shall, with intent to defraud any person or persons, body corporate or politic, have in his or their possession any die or dies, plate or plates, brand or brands, engraving or engravings, or printed labels, stamps, imprints, wrapper, or trade marks, or any representation, likeness, similitude, copy or imitation of the private stamps, imprint, brand, wrapper, label or trade mark usually affixed by any mechanic, manufacturer, druggist, merchant or tradesman to or upon articles made, manufactured, prepared or compounded by him or them, for the purpose of making impressions, or selling the same when made, or using the same upon any other article made, manufactured, prepared or compounded, and passing the same off upon the community as the original goods, manufactures, preparation or compounds of any other person or persons, body corporate or politic, or who shall wrongfully and fraudulently sell or use the genuine stamp, brand, imprint, wrapper, label or trade mark, with intent to pass off any goods, wares, merchandise, mixtures, compounds or other articles not the manufacture of the person or persons, body corporate or politic, to whom such stamp, brand, imprint, wrapper, label or trade mark properly belongs, as genuine and original, shall upon conviction thereof be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not less than six months nor more than twelve months, or be fined not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000).

SEC. 3. Any person who shall vend or keep for sale any goods, wares, merchandise, mixture or preparation upon which any forged or counterfeit stamps, brands, imprints, wrappers, labels or trade marks shall be placed or affixed, and intended to represent the said goods, wares, merchandise, mixture or preparation as the genuine goods, wares, merchandise, mixture or preparation of any other person or persons, knowing the same to be counterfeit, shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) in each case so offending, and shall also be liable in a civil action to the person or persons whose goods, wares, merchandise, mixture or preparation is counterfeited or imitated, or whose stamps, brands, imprints, wrappers, labels or trade marks are forged, counterfeited, placed or affixed, for all damages such person or persons may or shall sustain by reason of any of the acts in this section mentioned, and may be restrained or enjoined by any court of competent jurisdiction, from doing or performing any of the acts above mentioned.

SEC. 4. Any person or persons who shall with intent to defraud any person or persons, body corporate or politic, knowingly affix or cause to be affixed, to or upon any bottle, case, box or package, containing any goods, manufacture, mixture, preparation or compound, any stamp, brand, label, wrapper, imprint or trade mark, which shall designate such goods, manufacture, mixture, preparation or compound, either wholly or in part the same to the eye, or in sound to the ear, as the word or words, or some of the words used by any other person or persons, for designating any goods, manufacture, mixture, preparation or compound, manufactured, or prepared by or for such other person or persons, or who shall knowingly sell or expose, or offer for sale, any such bottle, case, box or package, with any such stamp, brand, label, wrapper, imprint or mark, affixed to or upon it, shall, provided such person or persons, so affixing or causing to be affixed, any such stamp, brand, label, wrapper, imprint or mark, or so selling or exposing or offering for sale any such bottle, case, box or package, shall not have been the first to employ or use such words to designate wholly or in part, any goods, manufacture, mixture, preparation or compound, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail, not less than six nor more than twelve months, or be fined not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000), and shall also be liable to the party aggrieved in the penal sum of one hundred dollars ($100) for each and every offense, to be recovered by him in a civil action.

SEC. 5. Any person or persons who with intent to defraud, or to enable another to defraud any person, shall manufacture or knowingly sell, or cause to be manufactured or sold, any article or articles marked, stamped or branded or encased, or inclosed in any box, bottle or wrapper, having thereon any engraving or engravings, or printed labels, stamps, imprints, marks or trade marks which article or articles are not the manufacture, workmanship or production of the person named, indicated or denoted by such marking, stamping or branding, or by or upon such engraving or engravings, printed labels, stamps, imprints, marks or trade marks, shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and for such offense shall forfeit and pay a fine of two hundred dollars ($200), to be recovered with costs in a civil action to be prosecuted by the county attorney of any county in the State, in the name of the county in which said action shall be commenced; and the one-half of such recovery shall be paid to the informer, and the residue shall be applied to the support of the poor in the county where such recovery is had.

SEC. 6. A "trade mark" is a mark used to indicate the maker, owner or seller of any goods, wares, merchandise, mixture, preparation or compound, and includes among other things any name of a person or corporation, or any letter, word, device, emblem, figure, seal, stamp, diagram, brand, wrapper, ticket, stopper, label or other mark, lawfully adopted by him and usually affixed to any goods, merchandise, mixture, preparation or compound to denote the same was imported, manufactured, produced, sold, compounded, bottled, packed or otherwise prepared by him.

SEC. 7. A trade mark is deemed to be affixed to any goods, wares, merchandise, mixture, preparation or compound when it is placed in any manner in or upon either.

1. The article itself; or 2, a box, bale, barrel, bottle, case, cask or other vessel or package, or a cover, wrapper, stopper, brand, label or other thing in, by or with which the goods are packed, inclosed or otherwise prepared for sale or disposition.

SEC. 8. An imitation of a trade mark, stamp, brand, wrapper or label is that which so far resembles the genuine trade mark, stamp, brand, wrapper or label as to be likely to induce the belief that it is genuine, either by the use of words or letters similar in appearance or in sound, or by any sign, device or other names whatsoever.

SEC. 9. No testimony or evidence given by any person in any civil action to which such person may be a party, or by any other witness in such action, or on any reference or proceeding which may be had in such action, nor any evidence or testimony derived from the books or papers of such party or witness, produced by him as a witness, or otherwise, in such action, or on any reference or other proceedings which may be had therein, can or shall be used in any criminal prosecution against such party or witness under any of the provisions of this act. Nor shall any party or witness refuse to testify, or furnish evidence in any civil action, by reason of any of the provisions of this act.

SEC. 10. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to determine the heirship to real estate in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. In case of the death heretofore or hereafter of any person intestate seized in fee of real estate within this state, it shall be lawful for the heirs at law of such person, or any one of them, or for any person interested in such estate, or in any piece of real estate embraced therein, to make an affidavit setting forth the fact of such death, the last place of residence of said intestate, the number of the heirs of said intestate, with their names, ages, places of residence and relationship to the deceased respectively, and as nearly as possible, describing such real estate, and the respective interests of such heirs therein.

SEC. 2. Such affidavit, when so made, shall be presented to the probate judge of any county in which any part of such real estate is situated, and said probate judge may, in his discretion, examine any witness or witnesses under oath, as to the truth of the matters in such affidavit stated, and upon being satisfied of the truth of all such matters, shall make a decree reciting the facts stated in said affidavit and found true, and thereupon such decree shall be entered in the records of said court, and a certified copy thereof may be recorded in the office of the register of deeds in each county where such lands are situated; and from the date of such record said decree shall be taken and held in all legal proceedings in this state, in respect to the succession of such real estate, as prima facie evidence of all the facts found in said decree.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to secure manufacturers and owners of railroad equipment and rolling stock, in making conditional sales and certain contracts for the lease thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That in any written contract of or for the sale of railroad equipment or rolling stock deliverable immediately or subsequently at stipulated periods, by the terms of which the purchase money, in whole or in part, is to be paid in the future, it may be agreed that the title to the property so sold or contracted to be sold shall not pass to or vest in the vendee until the purchase money shall have been fully paid, or that the vendor shall have and retain a lien thereon for the unpaid purchase money, notwithstanding delivery thereof to and possession by the vendee:

Provided, that the terms of credit for the payment of the purchase money shall not exceed ten years from the execution of the contract.

SEC. 2. In any written contract for the leasing or renting of railroad equipment or rolling stock it shall be lawful to stipulate for a conditional sale thereof at the termination of such lease, and to stipulate that the rentals received may, as paid or when paid in full, be applied and treated as purchase money, and that the title to such property shall not vest in such lessee or vendee until the purchase money shall have been paid in full, notwithstanding delivery to and possession by such lessee or vendee, subject, however, to the proviso contained in section 1 of this act.

SEC. 3. Every such contract specified in sections 1 and 2 shall be good, valid, and effectual, both in law and in equity, against all purchasers and creditors. Provided,

1. The same shall be acknowledged by the vendee or lessee before some officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments of deeds.

2. Such instrument shall be filed or recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which at the time of execution thereof is situated the principal office or place of business of the vendee or lessee in this state and in the office of the secretary of state of this state.

3. Each locomotive engine or car so sold or contracted to be sold or leased as aforesaid shall have the name of the vendor or lessor or the assignee of such vendor or lessor plainly placed or marked on each side thereof, or be otherwise marked so as to indicate the ownership thereof.

SEC. 4. This act shall not be held to apply to or invalidate any contract heretofore made of the character described in the first or second section, but the same shall be and remain valid.

SEC. 5. The acknowledgments of such contracts may be made in the form required as to conveyances of real estate.

SEC. 6. That all acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 7. That this act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26, 1885.

AN ACT entitled An act to provide for the collection and payment of bonds, coupons, orders, and other evidences of indebtedness issued by school districts, when the offices of the trustees of such school district have become vacant.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever the trustees of any school district shall have duly issued any bond, coupon, order or other evidence of indebtedness of such school district, and a majority of the trustees of such school district shall afterwards cease to act or their offices otherwise become vacant and such vacancy shall not be filled before the tenth (10th) day of October next preceding the time when such indebtedness shall become due and payable, so as to prevent the levying and certifying by the trustees of such district to the county auditor of the county, of the tax for the payment of such indebtedness, at the proper time, the holder of any such bond, coupon, order or other evidence of such indebtedness, may, at any time between the tenth day of October aforesaid and the time when the annual tax lists are next thereafter, or in any subsequent year, made out by the county auditor, file the same in the office of the county auditor of the county in which such school district is situated.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the county auditor to file all such bonds, coupons, orders and evidences of indebtedness, and to keep a record of the filing thereof and the date when filed, and he shall immediately cause a notice of such filing, setting forth the nature and amount of said claim, to be published for three (3) successive weeks in the newspaper in which was published the delinquent tax list of such county for the year last past, the cost of publishing such notice shall be paid by the person filing such claims at the time of filing the same, and he shall, at the time of making out such tax lists next after the date of such filing, levy upon the taxable property of the school district by the trustees of which such bond, coupon, order, or other evidence of indebtedness was issued, a tax sufficient to pay the amount thereof with interest, if any is payable thereon, and extend the same upon the tax lists of the proper district, and said tax shall be collected in the same manner and by the same officers as state and county taxes are collected, and shall be subject to the same penalties for the non-payment thereof; provided, no tax shall be levied by the county auditor under the provisions of this act, if a written notice signed by not less than three (3) persons who would be affected by such tax levy, setting forth that such school district has a just and valid defense against the payment of said claim be served upon him before the expiration of twenty (20) days after the last publication of the notice provided for in the foregoing section.

SEC. 3. After the completion of such tax lists, and on or before the first (1st) day of December in each year the county auditor of each county shall make a copy of the record of filing of all bonds, coupons, orders and other evidences of indebtedness filed in his office, as aforesaid, for the payment of which a tax is extended upon the tax lists of that year, and certify and deliver such copy to the treasurer of said county, and shall, upon request, surrender and deliver such bonds, coupons or orders and evidences of indebtedness to the person or persons respectively entitled to receive the moneys payable thereupon, and the county treasurer, shall, upon presentation and surrender to him of any such bond, coupon, order or evidence of indebtedness, pay to the person presenting the same the amount due thereupon, in the order in which they are filed in the office of the county auditor, out of any moneys in his hands collected for the payment of such indebtedness.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to cure defective organizations of corporations, and for the protection of rights acquired thereunder.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That in case where there has been heretofore an attempted formation and organization or renewal of any corporation under any of the General Laws of this State, and the persons so attempting to form or organize or renew any corporation have actually adopted, signed and filed in the office of the secretary of state articles of association, in which the business specified to be carried on by them as such corporation was such as might lawfully be carried on under said laws, and have in fact proceeded as such corporation, under the corporate name assumed by them to transact and carry on such business, and in the pursuit thereof have in good faith received and transferred by conveyance to or from such body corporate in such corporate name any property, real or personal; such attempted formation and organization or renewal in each and every such case is hereby legalized and declared a valid and effectual formation and organization or renewal of a corporation under the names assumed, from and after the time of the actual filing, as aforesaid, of such articles, notwithstanding the omission of any other matter or thing by law prescribed to be done or observed, in the formation, organization or renewal thereof; and any and all conveyances of property, real or personal in good faith and lawful form, made to or by any such body, in the corporate name so assumed, are hereby legalized and declared as valid and effectual for the purpose intended thereby, as if such body corporate had been originally in all things duly and legally incorporated.

Provided, That no such corporation nor any of the acts or doings thereof shall be or are hereby validated unless such so-called corporation has filed in the office of the secretary of state, and also in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which is the principal place of business of said corporation; and provided further, nothing in this act shall be construed to discharge any liability of any person upon any contract of said corporation heretofore made in its articles of incorporation.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to protect all citizens in their civil and legal rights.

Whereas, It is essential to just government that we recognize the equality of all men before the law and hold that it is the duty of government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever nativity, race, color or persuasion, religious or political, and it being the appropriate object of legislation to enact great fundamental principles of law,

Therefore, Be it enacted by the legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all persons within the jurisdiction of the State of Minnesota, shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities, and privileges of inns, public conveyances, on land or water, theaters and places of public amusement, restaurants and barber shops, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law and applicable alike to all citizens of every race and color, regardless of any previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. That any person who shall violate the foregoing sections by denying to any citizen, except for reasons by law applicable to citizens of every race and color, and regardless of any previous condition of servitude, the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges in said section enumerated, or by aiding or inciting such denial, shall for every such offense be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or shall be imprisoned not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to regulate offensive trades and employments.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The board of health of each town, village or city in this State shall from time to time assign certain places within such town for the exercise of any trade or employment which is a nuisance or hurtful to the inhabitants, or dangerous to the public health, or the exercise of which is attended by noisome or injurious odors, or is otherwise injurious to the estates of such inhabitants; and may prohibit the exercise of such trade or employment in places not so assigned. Said board may also forbid such exercise within the limits of the town or particular locality thereof. All such assignments shall be entered in the records of the town, and may be revoked when said board shall think proper.

SEC. 2. It shall not be lawful for any person or corporation to exercise within any town, village or city, any trade or employment mentioned in section one of this act without having first obtained from the board of health of such town, village or city permission so to do, and the assignment provided in said section; and any person or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars for each and every day that any such trade or employment is exercised or carried on, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction thereof and sitting within the county wherein such trade or employment is exercised or carried on. Such action shall be commenced and prosecuted by such board in its name and for its benefit.

SEC. 3. When any assignment mentioned in section one hereof shall be revoked, said board shall serve upon the occupant, corporation or person having charge of the premises where such trade or employment is exercised a written notice of such revocation. If the person or corporation upon whom such order is served, for twenty-four hours after such service refuses or neglects to obey the same, said board shall take all necessary measures, by injunction or otherwise, to prevent such exercise; and the person or corporation so refusing or neglecting shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every day that such trade or employment shall be exercised after the service of such notice, to be recovered in the manner, and by the party and for the benefit as provided in section two hereof.

SEC. 4. Any person or corporation aggrieved by any order of such board may appeal therefrom to the district court of the county in which such trade or employment is exercised. Such appeal shall be taken by the filing of such aggrieved person or corporation, within five days after the service of such order, in the office of the clerk of the court, of a notice of such appeal, together with a bond in the sum of not less than five hundred dollars, with two or more sureties to be approved by the judge of said court, conditioned for the prosecution of such appeal to judgment and for the payment of all costs and expenses that may be awarded against such appellant, and by the service of a copy of such notice and bond upon such board. If such appeal be taken within twenty days next before the time appointed for holding a general term of said court within said county, the same shall be heard at such time as other civil causes, and, at the request of either party, shall be tried by jury. If such appeal is taken more than twenty days before any such term the judge shall, by order, appoint a time and place for the hearing of such appeal, and shall, if the appellant demand a trial by jury, direct the sheriff of such county to summon a jury of twelve persons having the qualifications of jurors to appear at the time and place named in said order to serve as jurors in said cause. Any person so summoned may be challenged, as in civil actions. If a sufficient number of such persons so summoned do not appear, the court shall require talesmen to be called as in other cases, and said appeal shall be tried as other civil causes. During the pendency of such appeal such trade or employment shall not be exercised contrary to the order of said board; and upon the violation of any such order the appeal shall forthwith be dismissed. Upon the return of the verdict of the jury the court may either alter or amend the order of the board, or affirm or amend it in full to conform to such verdict. If the matter be tried by the court it shall have and exercise the same power.

SEC. 5. Any person injured, either in his comfort or the enjoyment of his estate, by the exercise of any such trade or employment, may have and maintain an action for the damages sustained thereby.

SEC. 6. When it appears, on a trial before the district court for the proper county, upon a complaint made by any person, that any place or building assigned, as provided in section one of this act, has become a nuisance by reason of offensive smells or exhalations proceeding from the same, or is otherwise hurtful or dangerous to the neighborhood or to travelers, said court may revoke such assignment and prohibit the further use of such place or building for the exercise of either of the aforesaid trades or employments, and may cause such nuisance to be removed or prevented.

SEC. 7. When any building or premises within any city, village or town are occupied or used for the exercise of any trade or employment aforesaid, the state board of health shall, upon application made to it for that purpose, appoint a time and place for hearing the parties and give notice, of not less than ten days, thereof to the complainant and the party against whom such application is made, and after such hearing may, if in its judgment the public health or the public comfort and convenience so require, order any person to desist and cease from further carrying on such trade or occupation in such building or premises; and any person or corporation thereafter continuing to occupy such building or premises shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for every day of such occupancy or use, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction thereof by action commenced and prosecuted in the name of the board of such city, village or town and for its use and benefit. Any person or corporation aggrieved by any such order may appeal therefrom, and said appeal shall be taken, prosecuted and determined in the same manner provided in section four of this act. During the pendency of such appeal such trade or employment shall not be exercised contrary to the orders of said state board, and upon the violation of any such order the appeal shall forthwith be dismissed.

SEC. 8. The district court or the judge thereof may issue an injunction or other proper writ to enforce the orders of said state board, issued undtr the provisions of this act.

SEC. 9. Nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to impair any other remedies which may exist in cases of nuisance.

SEC. 10. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT act for the taking of the census and for the enumeration of the inhabitants of this State.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The assessors of the several towns in this State, under the direction of the county auditors of their respective counties, are hereby authorized and required to take an enumeration of the inhabitants in their respective towns, omitting in such enumeration, Indians not entitled to the right of suffrage under the constitution and laws of the State, and in case there shall be no town or shall be no assessor in any district composing the whole or a part of any county, then, and in every such case, the county auditor of the county to which any such district may be attached for judicial purposes shall appoint one or more assistants with power to perform the service required of town assessors by this act; and within the limits of any incorporated city or village, the said service shall be performed by the assessor of the corporation.

SEC. 2. The secretary of state shall prepare appropriate forms, distinguishing therein persons of each sex and their respective ages, deaf and dumb, blind, insane, persons of color, nativity of persons, persons of foreign parentage, number of families, numbers of churches, value of church property and property held by church associations exempt from taxation, and shall cause a sufficient number of copies thereof to be printed and transmitted to the several county auditors on or before the 15th day of April next; and immediately thereafter each of said auditors shall forward the requisite number of such forms to the town assessors and assistants appointed by him within his county to enable them to take said census in a uniform manner.

SEC. 3. The town assessors and assistants shall severally take and subscribe an oath before some person authorized to administer oaths previous to entering upon the discharge of the duties imposed by this act, that they will well and truly cause to be made a just and perfect enumeration of all persons within their city, town or division, as the case may be, and make a true return thereof in pursuance of the provisions of this act according to the best of their ability; which oath shall be returned, with the census taken by each person respectively, to the county auditor of the county, on or before the first day of August next.

SEC. 4. The said enumeration shall be made by an actual inquiry by the person taking such census at every dwelling, or by personal inquiry of the head of every family in their several cities, towns or districts, and shall commence on the first day of May next, and shall be completed and closed in two months thereafter; and said enumeration shall include only those whose place of residence shall be in said cities, towns or districts on the first day of May, aforesaid; and the several assessors and assistants shall deliver to the county auditor a true and accurate enumeration of all persons within their respective cities, towns and districts, which enumeration shall be set forth in schedule according to the form prescribed by the secretary of state designating the city, town or district, and shall embrace the several families by the name of the head thereof and the aggregate population therein.

SEC. 5. The several county auditors shall on the first day of August or sooner, if all the returns shall be received by him from the assessors and assistants, prepare the duplicate copies of the enumeration of the inhabitants of their respective counties, and transmit said copies to the secretary of state and deliver the returns received from the assessors and assistants to the clerk of the district court of the county, and the said clerk shall preserve the same on file in his office.

SEC. 6. The persons appointed to take said census shall be allowed compensation for the services to be performed in taking the same, as follows:

Assessors of incorporated villages and cities shall be paid at the rate of one dollar and seventy-five cents ($1.75) for every one hundred persons enumerated by them respectively. Town assessors and assistants appointed by the county auditors shall be paid at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) for every one hundred (100) enumerated by them respectively, and the compensation for taking the enumeration in unorganized counties shall be five (5) cents for each name so taken. Provided, that each county auditor shall be allowed for making his returns ten dollars, in case the schedules returned by him shall contain one thousand names or less, and five dollars for every one thousand the schedules returned shall contain exceeding that number.

The accounts for taking the census shall be certified in duplicate by the county auditors respectively, on blanks to be furnished by the state auditor, and such accounts shall be payable to the respective county treasurers, and shall be endorsed by the person taking the census, and to whom compensation is to be paid, as follows: "I authorize the payment of the amount due me on the within voucher to the treasurer of ....county..............Assessor of......

And said county treasurer shall receipt for the total amount found to be due persons in their respective counties, and shall distribute the same to the parties entitled thereto. Such accounts shall be in duplicate, and when adjusted by the state auditor a warrant shall be sent to the treasurer of the proper county with the duplicate of the bill as allowed and adjusted, and shall be paid out of the state treasury. Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be subject to any of the provisions of section 142, chapter 8, nor section 88, chapter 10, of the General Statutes of A. D. 1878.

SEC. 7. In case any of the assessors should refuse to perform the duties required by this act, then it shall be the duty of the auditors to appoint assistants for the performance of such duties, as in case of unorganized towns.

SEC. 8. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state, after receiving the returns from the auditors, to digest and compile the contents of such returns showing the number of inhabitants belonging to the respective classes in the several counties and in the State, and to make his printed report to the legislature at the commencement of its next regular session, and the secretary of state shall receive five hundred (500) dollars as an additional compensation for the performance of his duties under this act. The secretary is authorized to employ the necessary assistants, whose compensations shall not exceed three dollars per day, to be paid on the warrant of the state auditor.

SEC. 9. Every county auditor, town assessor or assistant appointed and who shall have accepted said appointment, who shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties required by them in taking, or returning the census as herein directed shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred and fifty (250) dollars, to be recovered in the manner provided by law for the collections of fines and forfeitures.

SEC. 10. The sum of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of carrying into effect this act.

SEC. 11. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, A. D. 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the admission of patients to the second hospital for the insane.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section nineteen of chapter thirty-five, of the Statutes of 1878, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 19. Every insane person who is a bona fide resident of this State shall be admitted to one of the hospitals for the insane for the State of Minnesota, and maintained at the public expense, free of charge to his or her relatives or friends, and upon equal terms with every other insane person. Provided, no person shall be admitted in either of the hospitals the second time unless by the consent of the superintendent of said hospital, the president of the board, and one trustee.

SEC. 2. That section twenty-one of said chapter thirty-five be amended so as to read as follows: Section 21. The probate judge, or in his absence, the court commissioner of any county, upon information being filed before him that there is an insane person in his county needing care and treatment, shall cause the person so alleged to be insane to be examined by a jury consisting of two respectable persons besides himself, one at least of whom shall be a physician, to ascertain the fact of his or her insanity; and if the said person is found to be insane, he shall, upon the written certificate of the judge, directed by a majority of the jury, issue duplicate warrants committing the person so found to be insane to the care of the superintendent of one of the hospitals, and shall place the warrant in the hands of the sheriff, or some other suitable person whom he shall authorize to convey the said insane person to the hospital; and such warrant may be in the following form, to-wit:

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of..................

To the Superintendent of the .... Hospital for the Insane:

..............., having been, upon examination, found to be insane, you are therefore required to receive him (or her) into the hospital, and keep him (or her) there until legally discharged.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the probate court (or of the court commissioner) of said county, this ...... day of ...., 18...

Judge of Probate.

The duplicate warrant shall be filed in the office of the superintendent, and the original shall be returned with the superintendent's indorsement to the judge of probate, and filed in his office.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section one hundred and forty-seven (147) of chapter eleven (11) of the General Statutes of 1878, as amended by section two (2) of chapter fifteen (15) of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (extra session) relating to taxes.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section one hundred and forty-seven of chapter eleven of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, as amended by section two of chapter fifteen of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one (extra session) be amended so as to read as follows:

The taxes so collected shall be paid by the county treasurer upon the warrant of the county auditor issued to the person or persons presenting coupons therefor, if authorized to receive the same. Each coupon so redeemed shall be effectually canceled by the said county auditor, and by him transmitted to the city, village, township or other organization issuing the same, and the proper officer of such organization shall return to said auditor his proper receipt for the amount of the coupons so remitted, which receipt said auditor shall file in his office as his sufficient authority for auditing the claim and issuing his said warrant.

SEC. 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize the foreclosure of mortgages by foreign executors and administrators in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. In all cases where mortgages have been foreclosed by foreign executors or administrators, without having filed for record in the office of the register of deeds in the county where such foreclosure was had an authenticated copy of his appointment as such executor or administrator, before the commencement of such foreclosure, such foreclosure shall not, for that reason, be invalid. Provided, that since such foreclosure was commenced such authenticated copy has been so filed, showing that he had been duly appointed such executor or administrator in some other state or county before the commencement of such foreclosure.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section 70 of chapter 124, Statutes of 1878, as amended by chapter 44 of General Laws of 1883, relating to timber culture.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section seventy of chapter one hundred and twenty-four, General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, as amended by chapter forty-four (44), General Laws of 1883, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 70. That every person who has heretofore or who shall hereafter plant and cultivate one acre and not more than ten acres of prairie land with any kind of forest trees except black locust, and keep the same in a thrifty and growing condition for a period of six years; and every person who shall plant, cultivate, protect and keep in a thrifty, growing condition one-half mile or more of such forest trees along any public highway shall be entitled to receive compensation at the rate of three dollars annually for each acre of grove planted and two dollars annually for each half mile of such line of trees for the period of six years. To entitle any person to compensation under this act for trees planted by the acre, such person shall plant or grow not less than twenty-seven hundred trees on each acre in the first instance, and cultivate, maintain and keep in a thrifty, growing condition at least thirteen hundred trees on each acre during the first and second years next succeeding the year of planting, and maintain in a thrifty and growing condition for the remaining three years thereafter not less than six hundred trees on each acre; and to entitle any person to compensation for the planting, protecting, cultivating and maintenance of trees along the public highway such person shall plant the trees not more than eight feet apart, cultivate the same, the first and second years after the year of planting and maintain the same in a thrifty, growing condition not more than eight feet apart for the remaining three years. Provided, that the planting of cuttings or sowing of seed shall be construed to be a planting of trees within the meaning of this act, but no person shall receive compensation for the year in which such cuttings are planted or tree seeds are sown, and the years succeeding the sowing of such tree seed and planting of cuttings shall be construed to be the six years for which compensation is granted under this act. Provided, also, that this act shall not apply to any railroad company planting trees within two hundred feet of its track, nor to any person planting trees in compliance with the requirements of the act of congress entitled "An act to encourage the growth of timber on western prairies," approved March third, eighteen hundred and seventy-three, or an act amendatory thereof.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), to provide for the incorporation of posts of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That chapter thirty-four (34) of the General Statutes of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto the following:

"Title 10, Section 427. That any post of the Grand Army of the Republic of the State of Minnesota may become incorporated in the manner provided herein.

"Section 428. Such post shall cause to be prepared a certificate which shall contain:

"First—The charter, name and number of such post.

"Second—The time when and the authority by which such post was instituted.

"Third—The names of the charter members of such post.

"Fourth—The name of its commander, senior vice commander, junior vice commander and adjutant for the current term of such post. Such certificate shall be signed by the commander, senior vice commander, junior vice commander and adjutant of such post, and shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where such post is located.

"Section 429. Upon filing such certificate in the office of such register of deeds such post shall become a body corporate under its charter, name and number, and shall have and possess all the powers of corporations at common law, and shall have power to sue and be sued by its corporate name, and in such name to acquire or receive by purchase, gift, grant, devise or bequest any property, real, personal or mixed, and the same to hold, sell, transfer, mortgage, convey, loan, let, or otherwise use in accordance with the laws and usages of said order; but said corporation has no power to divest any gift, grant or bequest from the specific purpose designated by the donor.

"Section 430. When the charter of any such post shall be surrendered or taken away, or whenever by the laws and usages of such order any such post shall become defunct, the corporate powers of such post shall cease and determine, except such corporation, as such, shall have power to sell, convey and dispose of its property and collect debts due it, the proceeds to be disposed of in accordance with the laws of said order."

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1885.

AN ACT relating to seed-grain loans of 1877 and 1878, and providing for cancellation of certain claims of the State for repayment of such loans by individuals.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota.

SECTION 1. That on or before the 15th day of July, 1885, the several county auditors in the counties that received loans under the provisions of chapter 156, General Laws of 1877, and chapter 94, General Laws of 1878, shall make a report to the state auditor, showing the names of persons in their respective counties who received a portion of said loans, and have died or removed from the State leaving said loans unpaid, or who are in such impoverished condition as to be utterly unable to pay such loans or any part thereof. Such report shall also show the amount of each of said loans such persons received, the amount of penalty accrued on said unpaid loans; also the amount of general taxes on any lands that said loans were levied upon, and the accrued penalties on said general taxes. Said statement shall also show, if in the knowledge of the auditor, the circumstances as to ability of the estate of deceased persons to pay such loans. And if any lands of any persons who received a portion of said loans have been sold under mortgage foreclosure the auditor shall give a description of such lands, the assessed valuation of the same at the time of such foreclosure, and the amount sold for under such foreclosure sale, with the date of mortgage and date of levy of such seed grain tax. The county auditor shall also report any land owned by any persons receiving such loans upon which mortgages had been given prior to receiving such loans, and the register of deeds shall upon the request of the county auditors give the date of existing mortgages on said lands without charge.

SEC. 2. Upon receipt of such reports the state auditor shall examine the same and authorize the county auditor to strike from the tax judgment book and tax lists the amount included in such judgment and taxes for seed grain taxes and penalties thereon, all such seed grain taxes which he may from the evidence furnished in the reports consider proper to be abated: provided, such abatement shall not be made until the general taxes are paid.

SEC. 3. Upon abatement of such seed grain taxes the county auditor shall credit the state account with the penalties accrued on the general taxes so paid after deducting the costs of advertising, entering judgment and sale, and such penalties so credited to the state shall be reported to the state auditor in the next settlement as a part of the state funds, and be paid by the county treasurer in the same manner as other state taxes.

SEC. 4. The county commissioners of the several counties may allow county auditors for their services under this act such compensation as the commissioners may deem proper.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to regulate employment bureaus or offices.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. No person shall engage in the business of keeping an employment bureau or office or agency for the purpose of hiring men to work for others and receive a compensation for such hiring without first having obtained a license so to do, as hereinafter provided; and any person who shall engage in such business without such license shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding ninety days, or both.

SEC. 2. Any person who desires to engage in said business may apply to the common council if such business is to be carried on in a city, or to the village council if in a village, or to the county commissioners of the county in which such business is to be carried on if in the country, for such license; and upon paying into the treasury of such city, village or county the sum of one hundred dollars, and upon executing and delivering to such common council, village council or county commissioners a bond in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by such common or village council or county commissioners, he shall be entitled to such license.

SEC. 3. The bond shall run to the State of Minnesota, and shall be conditioned for the payment of any damage which any person secured or engaged to labor for others by the obligor may sustain by reason of any unauthorized act, fraud or misrepresentation on the part of such agent for such hiring. The bond shall be filed with the city clerk, if approved by the common council, with the village recorder, if approved by a village council, and with the county auditor if approved by the board of county commissioners. Any person licensed and having given bond as herein provided, may, while continuing to reside or to maintain his office at the place mentioned in such license, prosecute his said business in any part of the State.

SEC. 4. Any person hired or engaged to work for others, by one so licensed as aforesaid, who shall fail to get employment according to the terms of such contract of hire or engagement by reason of any unauthorized act, fraud or misrepresentation on the part of such agent, may bring an action upon said bond, and may recover in such action against the principal and sureties the full amount of his damages sustained by reason of such unauthorized act, fraud or misrepresentation, together with his cost and disbursement in such action.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved February 28, 1885.

AN ACT to entitle women to vote for county superintendents of schools.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That any woman of the age of twenty-one (21) years and upward, belonging to either of the classes mentioned in section one (1) of article seven (7) of the constitution of the State of Minnesota, who shall have resided in the United States one year, and in this State for four months next preceding any election at which a county superintendent of schools is elected, shall be entitled to vote for county superintendent of schools at such election in the election district of which she shall at the time have been for ten (10) days a resident.

SEC. 2. Any woman entitled to vote under this act shall be required to register as now provided by law for male voters.

SEC. 3. The ballot offered by any woman entitled to vote under this act shall not contain the name of any person to be voted for at such election, except such county superintendent of schools; and all such ballots shall be deposited in a separate ballot box, but canvassed with the other ballots cast for county superintendent of schools at such election.

SEC. 4. The supervisors of the several townships, and the city council of the several cities, shall procure at the expense of the said townships and cities respectively, a separate ballot box for each election district destitute of the same, in which the ballots of women entitled to vote under this act shall be deposited.

SEC. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize acknowledgments of conveyances and other instruments, and the record thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all acknowledgments to any conveyance or other instruments taken by any person, previously appointed or elected, and then acting as a notary public, or other officer authorized to take such acknowledgments, be and the same are legalized and made of the same validity as though the term of office of such officer had not expired at the time of taking such acknowledgments," and the record of such conveyances or other instruments is hereby declared to be legal, and valid and effectual for all purposes.

Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any action or proceeding now pending in any court of this State.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the levy of taxes for State purposes for the fiscal years ending July 31, 1886, and July 31, 1887.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of the State for the fiscal year ending July thirty-first (31), one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886), a tax of six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000), or as near that amount as practicable, shall be levied on all the taxable property of the State; provided, that the tax hereby levied shall not exceed a rate of one and one-half mills (.0015) on each dollar of taxable property.

SEC. 2. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of the State for the fiscal year ending July thirty-first (31), one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887), a tax of four hundred and thirty thousand dollars, or as near that amount as practicable, shall be levied on all taxable property in the State; provided, that the tax hereby levied shall not exceed a rate of one mill (.001) on each dollar of taxable property.

SEC. 3. All taxes levied under the provisions of this act, when collected and paid into the state treasury, shall be placed to the credit of the general revenue fund.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to regulate the labor of locomotive engineers and firemen.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. On all lines of railroad operated in this state, the time of labor of the locomotive engineers and firemen employed in running or operating the locomotive engines on or over such roads shall not at any time exceed eighteen (18) hours during one day; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed as allowing any locomotive engineer or fireman to desert his locomotive in case of accident or other unavoidable delay.

SEC. 2. Any officer, director, superintendent, master mechanic, foreman, agent or employe who compels any locomotive engineer or fireman to labor in running or operating any locomotive engine on or over such roads for more than eighteen hours during one day, except as provided in section one (1) of this act, or in cases of urgent necessity, such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five or more than one hundred dollars.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to provide clothing and transportation to indigent pupils of the Minnesota deaf, dumb and blind institute.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That in all cases where persons sent to the Minnesota deaf, dumb and blind institute are unable to furnish themselves with sufficient clothing and pay their expenses of transportation to and from said institute, the probate judge of the county in which any such person resides, upon application of any relative or friend of such person, or of any officer of his town or county, shall, if he deem such person a proper subject for either the deaf and dumb or the blind departments of said institute, and if in his judgment such person be unable to meet the necessary expenses of clothing and transportation, make an order to that effect to the superintendent of said department of the deaf and dumb, or the blind, as the case may be, who shall provide the necessary clothing and transportation at the expense of the county to an amount not exceeding forty dollars ($40) per annum for every such pupil, and upon his sending his proper account therefor to the board of county commissioners of said county they shall audit the same, and the treasurer of said county shall pay the same as other county expenses.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 7, 1885.

AN ACT to provide for the examination and commitment to the hospital for the insane of persons holding the office of judge of probate who may have become insane or otherwise unfitted through derangement of mind to perform the duties of said office, and to provide for the appointment of a successor.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever the probate judge of any county becomes or is considered insane, the judge of the district court for such county shall, upon the verified petition of five (5) legal voters thereof, proceed to examine into such alleged insanity, substantially in the manner and for the purpose prescribed in title three (3), chapter thirty-five (35), General Statutes 1878. If, on such examination, such probate judge is found to be insane or incapacitated to act from mental derangement, the governor shall, on presentation of the certificate of such finding or authenticated copy thereof, declare the office of such probate judge vacant, and appoint a suitable person to fill such vacancy, as provided by law.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to authorize the refunding of money paid by mortgagees for taxes which have been or shall be declared void.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever money has been paid or hereafter shall be paid for taxes on any land by a person who holds a mortgage on such land, or who in good faith believes himself to be the owner of such land under a mortgage foreclosure, which foreclosure has been or hereafter shall be declared void, the money so paid, with interest from the date of such payment at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum, shall be refunded to such person, his executors, administrators or assigns, whenever such taxes have been or hereafter shall be adjudged void in an action for the foreclosure or re-foreclosure of said mortgage.

SEC. 2. Such moneys shall be refunded on the order of the county commissioners by the county treasurer on the presentation to said commissioners of a certified copy of the final decree or judgment declaring said taxes void, and said lands shall thereafter become subject to re-assessment for the taxes so adjudged void.

SEC. 3. All moneys so refunded shall be charged among the various taxing districts in the proportion in which they shared in the amount originally paid.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force on and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to regulate the amount of toll that may be taken by any custom mill in this State for the grinding and bolting of wheat or other grain that may be brought to such mill for that purpose.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That it shall be unlawful for any custom mill doing business in this State to take a larger proportion than one-eighth (1/8), as toll for grinding and bolting any lot of wheat or other grain, brought as a grist to such mill. Provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to compel mills to receive unmerchantable grain, or to flour the same.

SEC. 2. That for the willful violation of the terms of this act, by any miller in any custom mill in the State, it shall be the duty of any justice of the peace, within the county in which such mill is situated, upon complaint of the aggrieved party, to issue his warrant directed against such offending person and upon the conviction of such person, he shall be fined not less than ten ($10) dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars ($100).

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize certain instruments, and the record thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. All deeds, mortgages, powers of attorneys, and other instruments heretofore executed without a seal, scroll or device opposite the name of the grantor, are hereby legalized and made valid, as though such deed, mortgage, power of attorney or other instrument had been duly sealed, with the seal of the grantor, at the time of the execution thereof; and the record of such deeds, mortgages, powers of attorney and other instruments are hereby legalized and made valid and effectual to the same extent, and for all purposes, as though such deeds, mortgages, powers of attorney and other instruments had been properly executed.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT providing for the defense by the State of suits brought by a railroad company against persons claiming lands embraced in the relinquishment made in pursuance of section ten (10) chapter two hundred and one (201), Special Laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-seven (1877).

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. When any railroad company shall, solely for the purpose of testing or trying the title to any land covered, referred to or embraced in the relinquishment made by the governor of this State in pursuance of section ten of chapter two hundred and one, of the Special Laws of 1877, commence or institute any suit or proceeding against any person resident of this State, living upon and holding any such land under or by virtue of the homestead or pre-emption laws of the United States, or shall institute or commence any such suit or proceeding for the purpose of barring such person of or from any right, title or claim, or demand in or to any such land, or for the purpose of declaring the title to be in any such railroad company, and in all cases of the character aforesaid now pending in any of the courts of this State or of the United States, upon the application of the defendant in any such suit or proceeding, it shall be the duty of the attorney general of the State, or of some attorney employed by the attorney general and the expense of the State, to defend such suit or proceeding.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT entitled an act to provide for the organization of corporations empowered to loan money on real estate mortgages and other real estate securities, for themselves and others.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Any number of persons, not less than three (3) citizens of this State, may associate themselves by an agreement in writing, and become incorporated for the purpose of loaning money, either for themselves or as agents for others, upon bonds, promissory notes, or other obligations which are secured by mortgage upon real estate situated within this State or elsewhere, and in the negotiation of such loans for themselves or for other persons or corporations, and in connection with such business, either for themselves or others, to purchase, acquire, hold, sell, hypothecate, assign, transfer and convey any obligations of such corporation, or of any person or other corporation, which are secured by mortgage or other real estate security, and to collect, foreclose, compound, compromise, release, satisfy and discharge the same of record; and any such corporation shall also have and possess all the power and authority of an association for buying, owning, improving, selling and dealing in lands, tenements and hereditaments, under title two of chapter thirty-four of the General Laws of this State and the amendments thereof.

SEC. 2. The provisions of sections two, three, four, seven, eight, nine, ten and eleven, of title one, chapter thirty-four, and of sections one hundred and twelve to one hundred and nineteen, both inclusive, of title two, as amended, shall apply to and be observed by corporations organizing and conducting business under this act.

SEC. 3. Any corporation heretofore duly organized under said title two of chapter thirty-four, for the purpose of loaning money upon real estate security, shall have the power and authority conferred by this act upon corporations which may hereafter organize thereunder.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 3, 1885.

AN ACT to amend section sixty-three (63) of chapter thirty-two (32) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878), relating to liens of laborers.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That section sixty-three (63) of chapter thirty-two (32) of the General Statutes of eighteen hundred and seventy-eight (1878) be, and the same is hereby, amended by inserting after the word logs in the third line of said section the words railroad crossties.

SEC. 2. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

AN ACT to punish offenses committed on railway cars, coaches, trains or public conveyances and upon lakes or streams.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. The route traversed by every railway car, coach, train or public conveyance and the lake or stream traversed by any boat shall be deemed and are hereby declared to be criminal districts, and jurisdiction of all public offenses, which shall be committed on any such railroad car, coach, train, boat or other public conveyance, or at any station or depot upon such route, shall be in any county through which said car, coach, train, boat or other public conveyance may pass during the trip or voyage or in which the trip or voyage may begin or terminate.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 26, 1885.

AN ACT to prevent the abandonment of any person committed to any hospital for the insane for the State of Minnesota.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That any officer or person who shall receive into his custody any person for the purpose of conveying such person to any hospital for the insane for the State of Minnesota and shall abandon such person before delivering him or her to the superintendent of any such hospital, and obtaining the indorsement of the receipt of such person by such superintendent upon the warrant or other order by virtue of which he received such person into his custody, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three (3) months nor less than ten (10) days, or by fine not exceeding one hundred (100) dollars, nor less than twenty (20) dollars.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 6, 1885.

AN ACT authorizing county commissioners and town supervisors to offer bounties for killing blackbirds.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That the county commissioners of any county in the state and the supervisors of any town in the state are hereby authorized and empowered to offer a bounty for the killing of blackbirds, and they shall have power to provide such rules and regulations for the payment of such bounty as they may deem necessary.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT relating to the service fees for domestic animals.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That neglect or refusal on the part of the owner of any mare, cow, ewe or sow to pay the service fees of any stallion, jack, bull, ram or boar kept for public service, until the birth of the offspring, shall in such case constitute a lien upon the offspring resulting from said service.

SEC. 2. The owner or owners of every stallion, jack, bull, ram or boar kept for public service, shall keep a full and accurate description of every female bred, such description to state color, supposed age, name and any other description that may be necessary for identification, and upon settlement of service fees, shall file with the description before mentioned a full release of said offspring with the clerk of the township where said female is owned.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 7, 1885.

AN ACT authorizing mortgagees and pledgees of personal property to purchase at public sales of such property.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Whenever a mortgagee or pledgee of personal property has a remedy to enforce his lien upon such property by sale thereof in case of default, by virtue of the contract creating such lien, any such mortgagee or pledgee, their legal representatives or assigns may fairly and in good faith purchase such property or any part thereof, at any sale so made, provided that such sale, if such mortgagee or pledgee shall wish to bid thereat, shall be at public auction and upon like notice as is required in case of execution sales in this State, and shall be conducted by the sheriff or his deputy of the county, or by a constable of the town in which such mortgaged or pledged property or some part thereof is situated at the time of giving such notice.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 13, 1885.

AN ACT to legalize acknowledgments of conveyances and other instruments, and the record thereof.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all acknowledgments to any conveyance or other instruments, heretofore taken by any deputy register of deeds of any county in this State, be, and the same are hereby so legalized, and the records of such conveyances and other instruments so legalized and made valid for all purposes of notice, evidence or otherwise, that the same shall be of the same force and effect as though such acknowledgments had been taken by the register of deeds of such county instead of by his deputy. Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any action or proceeding now pending in any court of this State.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved Feb. 20, 1885.

AN ACT declaring dogs to be personal property.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. All dogs owned or kept by any person for domestic or personal use, or for pleasure are hereby declared to be personal property within the purview and meaning of the criminal laws of this state, and the laws of this state relating to larceny and malicious mischief or injury shall be construed to embrace and apply to said animals.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 2, 1885.

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and nine of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, relating to savings banks.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. Section twenty-eight of chapter one hundred and nine of the General Laws of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, being section twenty-eight of an act to conform all savings banks or institutions for savings to conformity of powers, rights and liabilities, and to provide for the organization of savings banks, for their supervision, and for their more efficient protection of depositors of such institutions, approved March 11th, 1879, is hereby amended by adding to the end of said section the following:

Whenever any bank, banking association or trust company, indebted to any savings bank organized or doing business under this act becomes insolvent, the debt of such savings bank against such bank, banking association or trust company shall be paid before that of any other creditors except only the United States and the State of Minnesota.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved March 9, 1885.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
DEPARTMENT OF STATE. }

I hereby certify that the foregoing laws have been carefully compared with the original on file in this office, and that the same are true and correct copies thereof. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State this 19th of March, A. D. 1885.

FRED. VON BAUMBACH,
Secretary of State.

[NOTE.—The Criminal Code will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1886. Copies of same will be furnished by secretary of state on application.]

MINOR MENTION.

WILKIE COLLINS has just celebrated his 61st birthday anniversary.

THERE are ninety different styles of collars in use by gentlemen in this country.

THE South Carolina supreme court has decided that no insolvent person can give any preference.

IT is said that Mr. John C. Eno intends to build a large hotel on the island of Orleans, a few miles from Quebec.

IT is rumored that Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, will enter the Methodist Episcopal ministry at the close of his term of office.

AN ex-pitcher of the Mutual Club of Jackson, Mich., away back in the fifties, is now a judge of the supreme court in that state.

SENATOR J. N. DOLPH, of Oregon, has a residence in Portland which cost him $750,000. He is a large holder of Northern Pacific bonds.

MRS. HARRIET SMITH, of Tuckertown, Fla., has proved that women have a soul above the fashions. She is making money by running a large sawmill.

LIVERPOOL has been presented with a marble bust of Mr. Gladstone, "because," as the donor says, "the premier is one of Liverpool's most illustrious sons."

JOHN W. ROOKWALTER, the Ohio millionaire, free-trader, and manufacturer, is reported to have purchased a villa on the Meditteranean sea, where he will devote himself to literature and art.

THE Buffalo Commercial remarks: "The town of Charlestown, W. V., is the only American city paved with bricks in the middle of the streets, bricks turned endwise and set on wood. They last well, and have been known 200 years in Holland."

PETROLEUM as a fuel has been experimented with for several days past on a freight-boat at Oakland, Cal. The experiments thus far have been eminently successful, and the steam producing properties of the fuel satisfactorily demonstrated. Several economic questions in relation to its use however, remain to be decided.

NICHOLAS VAN HORN, a well-to-do farmer and widower, of Habershan, Ga., and the father of two children over 30 years of age, was married recently to Miss Ivy, a child of 12. During the ceremony the child began to sob, when the old man patted her on the head in a fatherly manner, and wiped away her tears with his big bandana.

IN cutting a tunnel of the Oregon Short Line railway, in Wyoming territory, four coal veins were struck, the shortest of which was twenty feet thick. The coal burns to a white ash, is a good steaming coal, but possesses the defect of slaking badly upon exposure to the air. In mining, about one-fourth is waste, because of this disposition to slake and crumble.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL, United States minister to England, was asked recently, by a New Orleans exposition exhibitor, for his autograph, and asked to write it upon a piece of silk which was furnished. The ink on the silk blurred badly, and, returning it, Mr. Lowell got off the following: "I suppose an author might be glad to have what he writes spread, but in this case I have vainly tried to prevent it."

A NEW horseshoe is now being made, which is in two parts, the upper part designed to remain permanently upon the foot, where it will last for an indefinite time, as no wear comes upon it; the other, that which contains the corks, and which is joined to the upper in an ingenious manner. The lower halves of the shoes are interchangeable—sharp corks for icy weather and dull ones for heavy draft horses, or they may be removed entirely at night to prevent injury to the animal while in the stall.

IT is reported that the village system among the Mennonites, in the northwest, is likely to be to a considerable extent broken up in the coming spring. Of the thirty families now in Schanzenfeldt, all except about a dozen will take up residence on their several farms, removing their buildings, which are of logs, from the village. Two smaller villages in the same section of country are to be entirely broken up. Various circumstances have contributed to this result, financial difficulties being one of the chief causes.

THE San Franciscans are proud of what they term their Golden Gate park of over a thousand acres. Of all the great parks of the world they assert that there is none so picturesque and none having so many resources of arboriculture. Nearly all semi-tropical trees will thrive in it. For ten years the work of tree planting has been going on, and the park is rapidly becoming a most attractive spot. One of the best features of the place is the ocean view, the park being located on the shore of the bay, with a driveway along the beach.

THE largest hanging bell in the world is in a Buddhist monastery, near Canton, China. It is eighteen feet high and forty-five feet in circumference, and is of solid bronze. It is one of eight great bells which were cast by command of the Emperor Yung-lo about A. D. 1400, and is said to have cost the lives of eight men, who were killed during the process of casting. The whole bell, inside and out, is covered with an inscription in embossed Chinese characters about half an inch long, covering even the handle, the total number being 84,000. The characters tell a single story—one of the Chinese classics.

ASKING FOR A PASS.

Bill Nye Constructs a Form of Appeal Suitable for Editors.

The general passenger agent of a prominent road leading out of Chicago toward the south tells me that he is getting a good many letters lately asking for passes, and he complains bitterly over the awkard and unsatisfactory style of the correspondence. Acting on this suggestion, and though a little late in the day, perhaps, I have erected the following as a kind of guide to those who contemplate writing under similar circumstances:

OFFICE OF "THE EVENING SQUEAL," Jan. 14, 1884—GENERAL PASSENGER AGENT GREAT NORTH AMERICAN GIT-THERE RAILROAD, Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sir: I desire to know by return mail whether or no you would be pleased to swap transportation for kind words. I am the editor of The Squeal, published at this place. It is a paper pure in tone, world-wide in its scope, and irresistible in the broad sweep of its mighty arm.

I desire to visit the great exposition at New Orleans this winter, and would be willing to yield you a few words of editorial opinion set in long primer type, next to pure reading matter, and without advertising marks.

My object in thus addressing you is twofold. I have always wanted to do your road a kind act that would put it on its feet, but I have never before had the opportunity. This winter I feel just like it, and am not only willing but anxious. Another object, though trivial, perhaps, to you, is vital to me. If I do not get the pass I am afraid I shall not reach there till the exposition is over. You can see for yourself how important it is that I should have transportation. Day after day the president will come on to the grounds and ask if I am there. Some official will salute him and answer sadly: "No, your highness, he has not yet arrived, but we look for him soon. He is said to be stuck in a mudhole somewhere in Egypt." Then the exposition will drag on again.

You may make the pass read, "For self. Chicago to St. Louis and return," and I will write the editorial, or you may make it read "Self and wife," and I will let you write it for yourself. Nothing is too good for my friends. When a man does me a kind act, or shows signs of affection, I just allow him to walk all over me, and make himself perfectly free with the policy of my paper.

The Evening Squeal has been heard everywhere. We send it to the four winds of heaven, and its influence is felt everywhere the English language is respected. And yet if you want to belong to my coterie of friends, you can make yourself just as free with its editorial columns as you would if you owned it.

And yet The Squeal is a bad one to stir up. I shudder to think what the result would be if you should incur the hatred of The Squeal. Let us avoid such a subject, or the possibility of such a calamity.

The Squeal once opposed the candidacy of a certain man for the office of school-district clerk, and in less than four years he was a corpse! Struck down in all his wanton pride by one of the popular diseases of the day.

My paper at one time became the foe of a certain road which tapped the great cranberry vineyards of northern Minnesota, and that very fall the cranberries soured on the vines!

I might go on for pages to show how the pathway of The Squeal has been strewn with the ruins of railroads, all prosperous and happy till they antagonized us and sought to injure us.

I believe that the great journals and trunk lines of the land should stand in with one another. If you have the support and moral encouragement of the press you will feel perfectly free to run over anyone who gets on your track. Besides, if I held a pass over your road I should feel very much reserved about printing the details of any accident, delay, or washout along your line. I aim to mould public opinion, but a man can subsidize and corrupt me if he goes at it right. I write this to kind of give you a pointer as to how you can go to work to do so if you see fit.

Should you wish to pervert my high moral notions, in relation to railways, please make it good for thirty days, as it may take me a week or so to mortgage my property and get ready to go in good style. I will let you know on what day I will be in New Orleans, so that you can come and see me at that time. Should you have difficulty in obtaining an audience with me, owing to the throng of crowned heads, just show this autograph letter to the doorkeeper, and he will show you right in. Wipe your boots before entering. Yours truly,

DANIEL WEBSTER BRIGGS,
Editor of The Squeal.

It is my opinion that no railroad official, however disobliging, would hesitate a moment about which way he would swing after reading an epistle after this patern. Few, indeed, are the men who would be impolitic enough to incur the displeasure of such a paper as I have artfully represented The Squeal to be. BILL NYE.

HUDSON, Wis., Jan. 14.
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Dynamiter's Weapon.

The wretches who fight their battles in secret by murdering unoffending people and destroying the world's architectural treasures have been quick to turn the recent discoveries of civilization against itself. The results obtained by the study of explosives in the past half century have been remarkable, and have given to the world destructive agencies whose terrible powers make gunpowder seem, by comparison, almost harmless. Of these, by far the most important is nitro-glycerine; and this in some form or other, generally composes the frightful weapon of the dynamiters, for nitro-glycerine is the explosive principle contained in all the various preparations known as dynamite.

Nitro-Glycerine is in substance glycerine treated drop by drop with concentrated nitric and sulphuric acid. It was discovered in 1847 by a student at Paris, but was not practically applied, except as a homeopathic remedy for headache, till 1864, when Alfred Nobel, a Swedish engineer, who had been soaking gunpowder in it for blasting, found that it could be exploded by detonation. He began its manufacture on a large scale, and to him we owe as well the steady improvements that have made it, as dynamite, the safest of all explosives. Its power is tremendous. Pound for pound, it produces at least three and a half times as much gas and twice as much heat as gunpowder, and has thirteen times its force, while, practically, the effect is even greater, because the explosion of nitro-glycerine is much quicker. It does not burn readily, and is usually exploded with a detonating fuse; but when badly prepared, or confined or frozen, it is very easily exploded. This liability, which has cost many lives, and the further fault that it can not long be kept, led Nobel, in 1867, to mix it with silicious ashes, or infusorial earth, and in this form it is known as dynamite or giant powder. Kaoline, tripoli, alumina, sugar, alum, burnt clay, and a mixture of sawdust and chalk are also sometimes used as absorbents; but that most frequently employed as an infusorial earth found in Germany and called kieselguhr. This earth will take up three times its weight of nitro-glycerine without becoming more than damp to the touch, and it gives to dynamite the appearance of a mass of moist brown sugar. The great advantage over the pure nitro-glycerine is that it can be handled with almost entire safety; no ordinary shocks will explode it, unless it is confined under pressure; it will withstand higher and lower temperatures than nitro-glycerine will bear, and when ignited in the open air will burn slowly. But it is as easily exploded as nitro-glycerine itself by a percussion fuse, and its explosive force is probably as great, though on this point there is some conflict of authorities. These qualities and the ease with which it is made, taken in connection with the other important fact that confinement and dryness are not requisite for explosion, as is the case with gunpowder, peculiarly fit it for the work of secret plotters like these who have just made such terrible use of it in London.

Moreover, a certain control can be exerted over the quickness of its action by altering the proportions of its ingredients, and the dynamiters have evidently been making good use of the fact. There are indications, too, that they have been carefully studying into other modern destructive agencies. Chloride of nitrogen, for instance, is one of the most terrible explosives known to chemists, though it decomposes itself within a day or two, and hypochloric acid is hardly less dangerous. Potassium chlorate is exceedingly violent, and various attempts have been made to utilize it, though not with great success, because of its dangerous sensibility to friction and heat; and the danger is greater when sulphur is used in the compound. This sort of mixture is peculiarly well adapted to the bombs of the Nihilists, and the dynamiters are thought to have employed it on occasion; but as it involves the handler in personal danger it can never become popular with such cowards, and they generally stick to the safer compounds of which nitro-glycerine forms the base.—St. Louis-Globe-Democrat.

Faithful Canine Paper Carriers.

Sagacious dogs on the line of the Naugatuck Railroad serve their masters as news boys. They have been taught when young to go a considerable distance from home to the trains and bring papers when thrown out by the newsmen or baggage masters. Their habits have been observed and are related by trainmen, who have witnessed them day after day. A dog owned by Philip McLean, proprietor of the Gate House on the Thomaston road, goes every morning from home to Inchliff's bridge where the train crosses the river, a distance of one and one-half miles, and carries the morning paper home. The paper was formerly thrown off by the brakeman on the last car and there the dog watched for it. Lately it has been thrown from the baggage car. The dog appeared angry at the change, barked furiously, and waited sullenly for some time before going on his errand. He has not yet become reconciled to the new way of delivering his paper. Another dog owned by Edward Osborne at a farmhouse a mile back from the railroad comes regularly to meet the early morning paper train below Naugatuck. His nose is seen through the board fence as the train winds a curve, waiting patiently. He leaves the house when he hears the whistle at Beacon Falls, and reaches the train in proper time without ever getting left.

During the recent political campaign his owner, who had been for a long time taking The News, changed to another paper. The keen instincts of the sagacious animal soon discovered the change and he at once refused to carry the new paper home. His master was unable to coax or drive him. New and different papers were experimented with to no avail. While a young dog he was taught to carry The News and he firmly persisted. The late Senator William Brown had a pet dog that could readily distinguish the whistles of the New-England engines from the Naugatuck and New-England roads at the same time side by side. The faithful dog always found his train and car, and stood in waiting for The Hartford Times, which he carried home to his master for many years. There is a dog below Derby, on the Naugatuck road, who has acted as family newsboy for several years, carrying papers from the cars for his entire neighborhood. The papers are thrown out of the cars under full speed. Whether one or a large bundle of them the dog is able to lug them off, making good time back. Newspaper Agent W. H. Beardsley tells of a number of other dogs that perform a like service. He mentions one that has become an old veteran as newsboy and cannot now, from age and rheumatism, get down to the cars. A younger dog has made his place good; a fate that has greatly grieved the old dog, whose master still cars for him on account of the good he has done.—New Haven News.

Astonishing and Immodest.

Apropos of the low dresses worn this winter, a visitor here wrote home after the White House reception of the brilliancy of the occasion, and added, "But the arms and neck, back and breast of some, bared to the gaze of the world, were below anything to be imagined." Now, the most astonishing thing, and shockingly immodest, is that the extremely low corsage is worn by the stout woman of middle age, whose shoulders and arms are coarse and red. All the powder in Christendom could not make them fine and white, or make such a woman young and pretty. The fashion is not encouraged by leading ladies in society, but by would-be leaders, who have had their day in desperate efforts to lead, but failed. I have genuine respect for a young girl here who is much in society, because she resists every attempt of her mother to have her gowns made with low waists. But it is not the young ladies, as I have said before, whose dresses are objectionably low, but stout women, who will not see that they are no longer young and fair to look upon.—From a Washington Letter.

The David of to-day slings ink; Goliath is hit as hard as he was hurt in the valley of Elah.—Chicago Current.

Drinking Men.

The bartender of a popular rendezvous leaned gracefully over the bar during the slack hours of business, the other day, and discussed his customers with a reporter.

"I notice that men nowadays order exactly what they want," he said, toying gently with his blonde mustache, while the reporter transferred a clove from the glass to his mouth. "Three or four years ago a man looked more or less ashamed of himself when he ordered lemonade or seltzer. His companion usually remonstrated with or made fun of him, and he generally offered some sort of an apology to the bartender for ordering a non-intoxicating drink. This was particularly so with young business men, clerks, and politicians. They ordered brandy-smashes, plain brandy, whisky punches, plain whisky, or some other heavy drink. Of course one-half of them didn't want it. You can't stand behind a bar long before you find out that a large percentage of the men who are led up to the bar to drink would rather have nothing at all than liquor of any sort. Very many men have scruples against drinking hard liquor of any sort. Others have scruples against drinking hard liquor, and others find that it goes against them to drink brandy or whisky before dinner. Still the majority of them used to drink their whisky straight and said nothing. When I first went into the business, fifteen years ago, we used to pass out the whisky bottle and glasses without asking a question. If the man wanted anything else he would push the bottle back and give his order. In those days if a party of young men went into a bar-room and ordered lemonade the barkeeper felt aggrieved, and the bystanders made fun of him. Nowadays, however, everything is changed. No one thinks anything when two or three of a group of men order lemonade, seltzer, or apollinaris at the bar.

"The simon-pure American bar-room, too, is rapidly going out of fashion. Men no longer enjoy rushing into a room, and taking a drink standing. They have more time now than they had ten years ago, and like to sit down and chat with their friends over 'sherry-chickens,' 'bees-wings,' etc. A place with comfortable chairs and tables catches the customers now, and the modern restaurants and cafes, where they can peacefully sit out of sight of the general public, do the most business. Their rooms are always filled.

"In my opinion drinkers are not so numerous as they used to be. The man who came in for his cocktail every morning before breakfast or luncheon, and the man who took four or five good drinks of whisky every day, no longer exist to the extent they did ten years ago. The fact is, habitual drinking over the bar is not fashionable nowadays. Men drink more at dinner than they used to, and only drink away from home for the fun of the thing. The wholesale absorption of liquor has gone out of style. Now and then a party of students or clerks go to a place and drink until they can hold no more, but this is very seldom. Of course there are others among the laboring classes who deliberately make up their minds to get 'full,' and go about it in a business-like way and drink to excess, but they are now comparatively few."—Troy Telegram.

The Man With a Hobby.

When the gods showered humanity with blessings, one of the biggest in the bunch struck the man with a hobby, and made the days of his life the same as a summer in Elysium. If some old fossil would take a locomotive head-light and start out on a pilgrimage with a determination to keep on going until he cornered an absolutely happy man, he would only have to go over to the next block and get the man with a hobby under the beams of his lantern, and his mission would come to a sudden end. He could blow out his torch and go back to his tub at once. The man with the hobby fills the bill as closely as the specifications seem to require. At all events, he comes as near enjoying perennial sunshine as any body enrobed with flesh ever can, for contentment never leaves his doorstep, and the birds are always singing in his heart. Corn bread is the same as pie to him, and a summer coat as warm as a buffalo robe. While others are worrying about hard times, losing appetite, ambition, and desire to live, this man with the shining garments has straddled his beast of leather and straw, and is galloping along with a speed that fills his veins with warm blood and keeps his heart bounding with joy. While dyspeptics are brooding in despair, he is filled with transports by the excitement of his ride, and is drinking bliss from the contemplation of scenery of his own construction. Every sense is ravished by the delights imagination has planted along his pathway. Roses here, tiny rivulets yonder, meadows of beauty on either hand, and the fragrance of benisons everywhere. This man, with heaven under his hat, never grows old in heart, but goes bounding along, day after day and year after year, with unabated ardor, until his limbs grow weak with age and his step too feeble to carry him to his steed. But, as long as he is able to climb into the saddle he will be there, galloping away from the cares of earth; going foward, ever forward, with his face to the sun, bearing the talisman of hope, and turning all things into the pure gold of joy. The grade is always the same, and his steed never tires. No mountains to climb; no hills to decend; no streams to ford, or deserts to cross. No changing of speed; always the same delightful canter in the meadows of Beulah Land. He may be poor in purse, and enjoy few of the comforts of earth; but the stores of heaven are always within easy reach, and he is rich in the posession of that imperishable gem so few ever get even a glimpse of—serene content. Find a happy man and you will soon discover that he is mounted. Put your hand on the shoulder of the unfortunate who is always under a cloud, and you will observe that he is plodding along on foot. Reader, if you would have turkey for dinner all the year round, and enjoy digestion as unswerving as an air line or a woman's opinion, take the advice of an experienced equestrian of the foregoing order, who keeps a well-filled stable, and get into the saddle without an hour's delay.—Chicago Ledger.

Funeral Rites.

From the very earliest times, the necessary act of disposing of a dead body has always been attended by ceremonies of some kind expressive of affection and grief, and also of the popular religious sentiment among those taking part therein. Funeral rites among the most primitive people, always involved extravagant expressions of grief, as tearing the hair, beating, and sometime cutting the body. Funeral feasts have prevailed almost universally, from the most barbarous ages down to the present time. These had their origin, no doubt, not simply in a desire to do honor to the dead, but in a belief that the departed spirit also took part in the good cheer. The rude music which usually formed a part of the funeral ceremony among uncivilized races, was undoubtedly intended to ward off the evil spirits which were supposed to be in the vicinity of a corpse. Funeral dirges were adopted as an expression of poignant grief. These were an important part of funeral rites among the Greeks. The Egyptians held a tribunal over the dead. Any one was allowed to bring to this tribunal accusation against the corpse, and if it was shown that he had lived an evil life burial was refused. If no accusation was brought, the relatives ceased lamenting, and pronounced encomiums on the dead, enlarging upon his many virtues. The laudations of the dead, to which we may trace the funeral sermon of the present day, probably originated with the Jews. The Greeks had funeral orations in which they gave a full history not only of the deceased but of all his ancestors. The Romans took this custom from the Greeks. The funeral customs of the early Christians were partly adapted from the Romans, and modified so as to express the belief in resurection. They adapted the custom of vigils also, in which the survivors were expected to ponder upon the shortness and uncertainty of life and "the narrow house appointed for all living." A service also took place at the grave, the object of which was originally to declare the belief of the survivors in the future rising of the body. This service was abolished at the Reformation, and a service and exhortation in the church substituted. A part of the service is still performed at the grave by all using the form of burial adopted by the English Church or that of the Roman Catholics, but many Protestants omit it.—Inter Ocean.

Running Down a Storm.

About two years ago the signal-service bureau at Washington notified The Constitution that a cyclone—or certainly a very heavy wind-storm—might be expected to pass through Georgia within twenty-four hours after the notification, on its way from the gulf to the Atlantic. The cyclone did not come within the time prescribed. Upon inquiry, the bureau folks stated that they had lost the cyclone somewhere in the gulf, but they expected it to turn up later. It did turn up the next day, and it turned up a pretty big slice of Georgia.

That was about the first definite attempt in this section to foretell a storm. It is now a common thing for the bureau to notify us that in forty-eight hours a cold wave or a storm will reach our city. The storm signal afloat over the custom-house is held to be about as reliable as the clock over the way on the capitol. The business of the weather is rapidly becoming one of the great sciences. For example, the observer at Portland, Oregon, reports the barometer very much depressed at his station. There is the nucleus of a storm. Instantly the points around Portland are tested and the area and location of the storm thus accurately outlined. An hour later the same points are questioned again. Of course the storm has shifted its position, for storms never stand still. A line drawn from the initial point of the storm to its second point shows the direction in which it is traveling. A comparison of the time of the observations shows the speed at which it is going. These two points settled, the people along its path are notified that it is coming and when they may expect it.

This foreknowledge can be carried much further. As a matter of course, there are certain conditions that precede a storm. These are carefully recorded. By looking over a long series of cyclones, for example, and noticing the exact changes of atmosphere that precede each one, a general principle of ante-cyclonic action can be established. This once done, whenever these conditions are observed it may be safely predicted that they will breed a cyclone. The signal-service bureau is already of vast practical benefit. In predicting even for a day or two a storm, its warning will save thousands of dollars to the people. When it reaches the point where it can accurately predict the coming of a cyclone in time for the people to escape its fury, it will have done a work that will command universal respect. —Atlanta Constitution.

A Great Festival.

Sunday, the 18th inst., was the anniversary of one of the most characteristic festivals of the Russian empire—the "Kreshtchenie Vod," or "Christening of the Waters." The performance is said to date 900 years back to the time when Prince Vladimir and his chief spearsmen dipped themselves in the Dnieper and swore "to be true to Christ and his law." Ever since on the 18th day of January, in every part of the vast empire, the cross is plunged through the ice into the rivers, and the priest's traditional formula of blessing is uttered over it. In St. Petersburg the ceremony assumes the aspect of a national festival. As the noonday gun sounds, the gate of the Winter Palace swings slowly open and a single figure appears—that of the Grand Duke Constantine, his brother Michael, or even the Czar himself. Then the High Priest descends to an opening previously cut through the ice in the Neva, and, plunging the cross into the water solemnly pronounces the words of consecration.—Toronto Globe.

Protected by a Horse.

A lady well advaced in years was found recently wandering along the road near the residence of Mrs. Colonel Hunt, and, on being questioned, she said she was searching for a buggy containing a child. She had left the buggy a short distance from the house, and the horse attached to it had wandered off. The night was bitter cold. Yesterday it was discovered that the horse had wandered into the woods, and becoming tired, had lain down. The child, a bright little girl, was found by some boys next morning snugly sleeping against the breast of the horse, with its head lying on one of the animal's forelegs. The little one had evidently become cold, and when the horse lay down went to try to make it get up, when, the boys think, the sagacious animal managed to place it with its head on its arm, so to speak, to keep it from freezing to death. The mother was overjoyed to recover her child, and will keep the faithful horse as long as she lives.—Leavenworth Times.

DOMESTIC HINTS.

BEEF ESSENCE.—Cut into small, square pieces one pound of entirely lean beef. Place these pieces in a brown jar with a little salt on it and a teacupful of water. Tie firmly over the jar a piece of stout brown paper and leave for five or six hours in a wellheated oven until all the goodness is extracted.

ALMOND ICING.—Beat the white of three eggs to a strong froth, pound 1 lb. of Jordan almonds very fine, with rose water; add them lightly to the eggs, and by degrees stir in 1 lb. of crushed loaf sugar. When the cake is sufficiently baked and ready to come out of the oven, lay on the icing the usual thickness, and smooth it over with a knife; then put it back into the oven to brown.

NORMANDY CAKE.—A very nice and simple desert is made from a plain round "delicate" or "gold" cake. When the cake is cold cut off the top and cut the whole of the inside out to within an inch and a half of the crust. Crumble up part of the cake you have taken out into a dish and mix with it thoroughly some spoonfuls of raspberry or grape jam and a rich custard. Fill the cut-out cake with this mixture and pile over the top some nice whipped cream.

WATERCRESS SANDWICHES.—Well wash some watercress, and then dry it in a cloth, pressing out every atom of moisture, as far as possible. Have a stale tin loaf and some fresh butter, and with a sharp knife cut as many thin slices as will be required for two dozen sandwiches; then cut the cress into small pieces, removing the stems; place it between each slice of bread and butter, with a slight sprinkle of salt, press down the slices hard, and cut them sharply on a board into small squares, leaving on crust.

CHICKEN SOUP FOR INVALIDS.—Take all the bones of a chicken, crack them and stew them down for many hours with the dark meat of the carcass—using the breast as a broil or stew, as the invalid prefers. Flavor the broth delicately with a bit of thinly cut lemon peel and some sweet herbs tied in a piece of muslin. When cold this soup will be a delicate jelly, and it is sometimes preferred by invalids in this form. When soup is wanted the jelly has only to be melted down. Of course all fat must be eliminated from the soup.

SUGAR ICING.—To 1 lb. of extra refined sugar add 1 oz. of fine white starch, pound finely together, and then sift them through gauze; then beat the whites of three eggs to a froth. The secret of success is to beat the eggs long enough, and always one way; add the powdered sugar by degrees, or it will spoil the froth of the eggs. When all the sugar is stirred in, continue the whipping for half an hour longer, adding more sugar if the ice is too thin. Take a little of the icing and lay it aside for ornamenting afterward. When the cake comes out of the oven spread the sugar icing smoothly over it with a knife, and dry it at once in a cool oven. For ornamenting the cake the icing may be tinged any color preferred. For pink, use a few drops of cochineal; for yellow, a pinch of saffron, dissolved; for green, the juice of some chopped spinach. Whichever is chosen, let the coloring be first mixed with a little colorless spirit, and then stirred into the white icing till the tint is deep enough. To ornament the cake with it, making a cone of stiff writing paper, and squeeze the colored icing through it, so as to form leaves, beading, or letters, as the case may be. It requires nicety and care to do it with success.

Some Man to be Surprised.

I was in Mme. Hewitt's corset institution the other day, on Nineteenth street, when the wife of a rich brewer brought her two daughters in to be newly rigged with stays and cordage. "Don't get them corsets too tight," was her parting admonition, as she left them awhile. The oldest disrobed to fit on the new thing. She was a tall, slender girl with a nicely rounded waist and a good bust and pretty arms, while she stood in her tailor-made suit; but when she undressed, ye Gods! her handsome myrtle green cloth waist was lined with silk. It was padded an inch thick on the back. It was padded five inches thick over the breast. The upper part of the sleeve was slightly padded, but the under half had fully three inches of cotton. From this padded cell the lady escaped and I trembled lest some one should open a door and let in the high wind blowing outside. Every bone in the narrow little chest was as visible as the bars of the grate. Two such broom-sticks as those poor arms I have seldom seen. I suppose she had a pair of drumsticks to match and a bold, brave woman she is to trust herself round on 'em." Madame produced the corsets—a marvellous feat of white embroidered on blue satin. Behold then, corsets were padded in front at the top and at the bottom behind; so between Hewitt, the stay-maker, and Everhall, the dressmaker, Miss Malt Extract was turned out a "plump and pleasing person." But oh, my! there will be one indignant man in the world by and by, and the resort of the swindled will be denied him. He can't go down to the mayor's office and make a complaint; he will have to grin and bear it and pray that the cotton crop don't fail.—New York Letter in St. Louis Republican.

The Remorseful Dancer.

A dramatic incident occured last night in a dancing saloon at La Chapelle. One of the dancers was suddenly seen to rush toward the door, his eyes rolling wildly and his face livid with terror. He shouted out frantically to one of the municipal guards posted at the entrance: "Arrest me! I am a murderer!" The soldier was stupified with astonishment and recoiled before the strange action of the man, who seemed more like a maniac than a rational being. The self-confessed assassin, however, reiterated his appeal, and was immediately handed over to the police, who took him to the adjacent station. Here he told the inspector that yesterday, after an altercation with his wife and her mother, he stabbed the two women to death with a knife. He at once fled from the scene of butchery, and, after wandering about the suburban streets aimlessly for some moments plunged into the midst of the dancers in order to drown the remembrance of his guilt. The soidisant murderer's name is Joseph Persuy. He is a shoemaker, and thirty-one years of age. He has been living apart from his wife for the last five years. The police are not quite certain whether they have to deal with a madman or a real criminal, and an inquiry has been ordered.—Paris Dispatch to London Telegraph.

PASSING EVENTS.

The socialists are holding high carnival in Pittsburg, Pa.

A belief in witchcraft seems to be revived in Lancaster city, Pa.

Massachusetts built only twenty miles of new railway last year.

The moral city of Washington, D. C., is now erecting its first roller skating rink.

The Mormon high priests outnumber the Congregational ministers of the United States.

The indigent students of Dartmouth receive $5,000 yearly from the state of New Hampshire.

The permanent population of Washington is estimated at 212,000 and the transient in town at 10,000.

A Mechanicsburg, Pa., man wears a silk hat twenty-four years old, and a pair of boots fifty-two years old.

The old city of St. Augustine, Fla., is to celebrate the 320th anniversary of its foundation March 27-28.

Nevada having no institution of the kind of her own, pays for her veterans being kept in the California veteran's home.

The Battle of Bennington monument association has voted in favor of the design submitted by Prof. Weir, of the Yale art school.

Catholic priests in several northern Ohio towns have denied the communion to members of their churches who visit skating-rinks.

Emil Pearson, a young Swede, maintained an unbroken fast for two weeks, at the San Jose (Cal.) infirmary, prior to the 10th instant.

It is claimed that refined petroleum in tin cases exerts an influence upon the ship's needle, the same as do cargoes of iron and steel.

On several transatlantic ships telephones are now used between the bridge and the wheel-house, instead of speaking tubes heretofore.

According to The Nautical Gazette nine-tenths of all accidents occur at sea during the second mate's watch. It suggests that second mates should be examined and licensed.

At $30 a ton for grapes, wine costs only 2 cents a pint. It is thought that 20 cents a gallon for new wine will be the ruling price in California, at which rate a vineyard will produce $100 worth of wine per acre.

In several American railway stations clock-dials are now shown having the hours numbered up to twenty-four, and with the figures in two circles, the inner containing the hours of the night, the outer those of the day.

Merchants who occupy the stores under the arches of the New York end of the East river bridge no longer complain of the dampness from water from bridge locomotives, and pronounce their quarters in every way comfortable.

The first railway guide-book was called "Gadsby's Monthly Railway Guide," and it appeared in 1839, its price being three pence. Out of it grew "Bradshaw's," the great European guide-book, which was first issued in 1842.

London astrologer predicts a grave catastrophe in London in February and another one between the 16th and 23d of March. He says there will be earthquakes in America in April, and that the empire of Germany will not survive the year.

The leading military paper of Great Britain expresses the hope that a detachment of American volunteers or state militia will form part of the American exhibition to be held in London in 1886, as there is to be a royal military tournament at Islington that year.

Capt. Williams, the famous police officer of New York, is a strong temperance man, and urges the practice of temperance upon the men in his command. He congratulates himself that four of his sergeants, four roundsmen, and two detectives are good solid temperance men.

The following gives the attendance at the leading colleges: Harvard, 1,568; Columbia, 1,458; Oberlin, 1,458; Michigan, 1,271; Yale, 1,086; Technology, 579; Cornell, 539; Princeton, 505; Dartmouth, 402; Vermont, 346; Amherst, 334; Lehigh, 307; Johns Hopkins, 273; Williams, 253; Brown, 248.

Early marriages are popular at Tenant's Harbor, Me. A girl of 13 was married there Dec. 6. Most of the girls are married between 12 and 15 years of age, and it is said to be nothing uncommon to find in the same family parents and from one to four children drawing school money.

Among the meanest of thefts is the one perpetrated a few nights ago in Atlanta, Ga., where a number of lamps which were placed around an excavation to warn people of the danger were stolen. Although no persons were killed, several were injured, one pedestrian falling to the bottom of the hole.

The competent waiter never returns thanks for a tip. He sweeps it up with such other crumbs as happen to be on the tablecloth and puts it into his pocket with a nonchalance which, being interpreted into words, says: "Oh, yes; I'll take it as a gratuity, not as a tip, and I take it only to please you, not that I want it. I am too much of a gentleman to offend you by refusing your tribute to my distinguished worth."

Judge (to witness:) Repeat the prisoner's statement to you exactly in his own words. Now, what did he say? Witness—My lord, he said he stole the pig. Judge—impossible! He couldn't have used the third person. Witness—My lord, there was no third person. Judge—Nonsense! I suppose you mean he said, "I stole the pig." Witness (shocked)—Oh, my lord! He never mentioned your lordship's name! Dismissed ignominiously.

"Talk about hard times?" he scoffed, as he leaned back in his chair at one of the down-town restaurants. "Why, gentlemen, it's all in knowing how to reach the public." "You used to speculate in grain, I believe?" observed the man at his right. "I did, and I lost money. I was in a hole eleven months in the year and hard up the remainder. I didn't know how to reach the public." "And now?" "Well, I am on the road, exhibiting a fat woman who weighs 740 pounds—admission 15 cents. I have no margin to put up, dividends are declared with the most annoying regularity, and if anybody disputes her weight she has a lead corset weighing 210 pounds to bring her up to the mark."

Oklahoma Payne, in the flesh, was an undoubted nuisance, but his soul goes marching on. The discussions of the last month prove that. It would seem that the Inevitable were seldom without its herald running far ahead of his day and generation.—Chicago Current.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA

General Grant still lives, though his death may be looked for at almost any moment. He faces his inevitable fate with splendid courage and submission.

Telegrams from nearly all the larger cities announce an improved feeling as to the outlook for general trade. At most points, with the arrival of better weather, there has been an increased number of sales in dry goods and other staples, although interior purchasers do not appear to be taking goods in excess of immediate wants in any instance.

Heavy shipments of oats have recently been made to Liverpool from New York and Boston, and a large quantity is now in transit from Chicago. The British markets have obtained their supplies of foreign oats in the past from Baltic ports, but the chance of war with Russia has caused England to look to the United States and Canada for any prospective deficiency that may be created.

The New York Tribune estimates the weight of farm products being moved by the railroads from the far west to the eastern states at 15,000,000 tons. At $4 per ton, the average charge from Chicago to New York, the cost of all this immense transportation is $60,000,000. In 1860 the average price was $13 per ton, or $195,000,000 for the same freightage. This is a yearly saving of $135,000,000 for the joint benefit of producers and consumers.

The woman suffragists found chilling weather for "the cause" in various quarters during the legislative sessions. The Connecticut legislature refused to allow ladies the humble privilege of voting even at school meetings. Legislatures of other states had their fun over propositions for women suffrage and then dropped them suddenly. Dakota legislature passed a bill giving women the right to vote, but it was vetoed by Gov. Pierce. But the women will up and try again.

Beecher is strongly opposed to horse-racing as at present conducted. He said: "When I look at the adminstration of race courses and see what the effects are on the young and the easily tempted, no matter how fine the horses are, I can't afford to waste a whole generation of young men for the sake of getting one-tenth of a second off a trotter's time. I don't think there is any harm in horse-racing to the horse, in the first place, but to the man a good deal. Newspapers say we ought not to stand in the way of men that are developing horses, but I say it is very poor economy to feed horses with young men."

The census bureau has at last been closed up, and the officers relieved from their duties. It has taken the bureau ever since 1880 to figure up the results of the census and some volumes have not yet been printed. The original plan for the publication of the results of the census contemplated the issue of 26 volumes, and 10 volumes have been issued up to the present time. Proof sheets numbering 5,000 pages, principally devoted to the mortality statistics are now in type. The statement of these facts is enough to show how the whole matter has been bungled—for bungled it is, when it takes five years to learn the result of a decennial census.

Electricians are not agreed as to the feasibleness of the scheme to substitute electricity for horse power in the operation of street railways, but the special committee appointed by the American Street Railway Association to investigate that question reports that the prospects are flattering. The electric railway now in operation at Cleveland is a surface line, and the conductors which supply electricity to the motor of the car are placed in a conduit, similar to the conduit which contains the cable of the cable railways, and a brush attached to the car is said to keep the crevice of the conduit free from obstructions of mud or snow. A grade of 500 feet to the mile occasions no difficulty, and the line is to be extended to twenty miles of track next summer, the proprietors say. Few persons appreciate the possibilities of electricity as motive power for railways.

A writer at Humboldt, Iowa, on the question of western farm mortgages, gives Bradstreet's financial journal the following interesting points: "All northern Iowa was formerly a spring wheat country, and like others had its prosperous and its disastrous years. Very many of the mortgages then made were foreclosed, and the mortgageor went on west. "All wheat" was followed by more corn, timothy, clover, blue grass—short horns and Poland chinas were introduced, and after a time it was found that first quality butter could be made here. Farm mortgages multiplied—not that the mortgageor would buy a self-binder and a steam-thresher, but that he might buy some dividend-paying cows, or build a big barn or a creamery—foreclosures dropped off, and the lawyer bewailed the great falling off in business. I have been here in northern Iowa thirty-five years—have seen this country prosperous and prostrate from our crop farming—but have never known a mortgage foreclosed on a dairy or stock farm."

NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED.

The New Government Officers.

Macolm Hay, nominated first assistant postmaster general, has never held office, except membership of the convention which framed the present constitution of Pennsylvania, although he has been somewhat active in the politics of that state. He lives in Alleghany county, in the western part of Pennsylvania, and is a lawyer of large practice and good reputation in Pittsburg. He was a delegate to the national democratic conventions of 1880 and 1884. At the Chicago convention Mr. Hay was a member of the committee on resolutions and is credited with the authorship of the tariff plank of the platform adopted by that committee.

Milton J. Durham, nominated to be first controller of the treasury in place of Judge Lawrence, was born in Mercer, Ky., May 16, 1824. He graduated at the Asbury university, Ind., in 1844; studied law at Louisville law school. He was one of the circuit judges of Kentucky in 1861 and 1862, and with the exception of those years he has been engaged in the practice of law at Danville since 1850. He was elected to the Forty-third congress and re-elected to the Forty-fourth, served on the committee on banking and currency, department of justice and revision of laws. In the speakership contest he was a warm supporter of Mr. Randall. Mr. Durham has an excellent reputation for integrity and is a man of great industry and fair attainments as a lawyer.

Martin V. Montgomery, the new commissioner of patents, is a young man and a lawyer of considerable prominence in Michigan. He was once a member of the state legislature, but never held any other office, although he was urged but declined to accept the nomination to congress from the Lansing district. His friends urged him to apply for the position of United States attorney for Michigan under the present administration, which he declined to do. Mr. Montgomery was in Washington last winter, and appeared before the house committee on public lands in connection with the Ontonagon land cases. He is represented as being a good lawyer and as possessing great industry, and capacity for work.

Francis Wharton, LL. D., of Philadelphia, appointed by Secretary Bayard as his legal adviser on questions of international law, is a descendant of an old Pennsylvania family, one of his ancestors being Gov. Wharton, the first Revolutionary governor of Pennsylvania. He is the nephew of William Rawle, the first United States district attorney. He is a graduate of Yale, and was elected at the age of twenty-two, during the administration of Gov. Shunk, assistant state attorney. In that position he was first associated with Judge Kelly, with whom he has ever since held strong and affectionate relations.

New Government Officials.

The President has appointed ex-Gov. James D. Porter of Tennessee, assistant secretary of state, and John D. Atkins of the same state for commissioner of Indian affairs.

Hon. James D. Porter, named for assistant secretary of state, was twice elected governor of Tennessee, first in 1874 and again in 1876. For several years he has been president of the Nashville & Chattanooga railroad. In the exciting controversy over the payment of the state debt which prevailed in Tennessee a few years ago, Mr. Porter was one of the most prominent advocates of maintaining the good faith and credit of the state, and it was when Mr. Bayard visited the state several years ago to discuss the financial question that he became intimate with Mr. Porter. At the outbreak of the war Mr. Porter was a Union member of the legislature of Tennessee, but went with his state into the confederacy. He served during the war as adjutant general on Gen. Cheatham's staff. He is a lawyer by profession, graduating from Lebanon university. He has regular features and iron gray moustache and goatee and curling iron gray hair. He is six feet in height and about fifty years old. His wife is a sister of Senator Jackson of Tennessee.

John D. Atkins of Tennessee, who will assume direction of Indian affairs, is fifty years old, and a native of Tennessee. He graduated from the east Tennessee university in 1846, studied law after leaving the university; was a member of the state legislature in 1849 and 1851; a senator in 1855, a presidential elector in 1856, a representative in congress in 1857, and a presidential elector again in 1860. When the war broke out he went into the confederacy as lieutenant colonel of the fifth Tennessee regiment, but was subsequently elected to the Confederate congress. He was a member of the Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-sixth congresses, and was appointed chairman of the committee on appropriations by Speaker Randall. He is about medium height, with a thin frame and slightly bald. His thin, sandy brown hair is just beginning to turn gray. His long service in congress has rendered him familiar with the operations of the Indian bureau.

Judge Baxter of the Seventh District.

Col. L. L. Baxter of Fergus Falls has been appointed as additional judge of the Seventh judicial district by Gov. Hubbard. Col. Baxter was endorsed by twenty-one members of the Otter Tail county bar; thirty-eight members of the bar of the district outside of Otter Tail county; 122 business men of Fergus Falls and Judges Vanderburg, Wilkin, Koon, Young, Brown and Lochren. Baxter's principal opponent was Mr. Mason, a lawyer of Fergus Falls and a Republican.

Luther L. Baxter was twenty-four years old when, in 1857, he arrived in Minnesota from Wisconsin, having spent two years in the Badger state, into which he came from his birthplace in Vermont. He became a resident of Scott county, and Sept. 30, 1852, was commissioned as captain of Company A, Fourth regiment of infantry, Minnesota volunteers. He was promoted to the majority of this regiment during the siege of Corinth, in April, 1862, and resigned in October of that year, but not until the fight at Iuka and the conclusion of the Corinth siege. Returning to the practice of his profession, he soon after the war removed to Chaska, Carver county, and in 1869 he was elected senator in the twelfth legislature from the Twenty-first district. He continued as senator through the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth legislatures (representing the Thirty-third district in the reapportionment) and in the seventeenth was a member of the assembly. In the twenty-first and twenty-second legislatures he was again a representative, in the intervening years having served as county attorney. He twice ran against Judge Macdonald for the honors of the bench in the Eighth judicial district, but was defeated. In 1881 he moved to Minneapolis, where he lived more than a year, and eighteen months ago, settled in Fergus Falls, Otter Tail county, where he now resides.

Bradstreet on the Business Situation.

There were 247 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the week ending 31st, against 250 in the preceding week, 192, 116 and 118 in the corresponding weeks of 1884, 1883 and 1882 respectively. About 87 per cent were those of small traders whose capital was less than $5,000. Among those reported embarrassed were Frank Tousey, publisher, New York city; Cambria County bank, Johnstown, Pa.; Muskegon, Mich., Car and Engine company; Southern Agricultural works, Atlanta, Ga.; H. J. Mullan, wholesale hardware, New Orleans; W. B. Williams & Son, cotton factors, Charlestown, S. C. The cold weather checked trade during the week, and from almost all the larger cities word is telegraphed that the season in business circles is backward. The shipments of dry goods from Boston and New York are about as heavy as one week ago, but takings are no larger, jobbers in dry goods continue to monopolize the business reported, and makers' agents await the depletion of stocks in second hands. Collections, in general lines, which were better during the early part of the month, have fallen away.

Nellie Grant with Her Father.

The steamship Baltic, which brought Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, passed Sandy Hook and came to anchor at the White Star slip, where she lay until a change of tide. Mrs. Sartoris met her brother, with a look of anxiety on her face, which was quickly dissipated, however, by the favorable news of her father's condition which they were able to give her. The party arrived at the barge office and took the elevated road to the general's house. Mrs. Sartoris ran up the stoop with a quick, nervous step, and the door was opened by Col. Grant. All the curtains were pulled down and lights appeared in the second and third stories only. Mrs. Grant welcomed her daughter first, and then the party hastened up stairs to the general's room, where he had gone to meet her from the library. The general greeted his favorite pleasantly, and whatever emotion he felt, except that of joy, was hidden under his wonderfully calm face. Mrs. Sartoris was overjoyed at finding her father appearing so well and bright, and after an hour's chat the general went to bed.

The New Delaware Senator.

George A. Gray, who will succeed Mr. Bayard as senator from Delaware, is forty-five years old. He is a lawyer and is now serving in his second term as attorney general of the state. This is the only office that he has ever held, aside from once serving as chairman of the board of education of New Castle. Outside of Delaware he has twice presented the name of Mr. Bayard to national Democrat conventions as a candidate for president, the first time at Cincinnati in 1880, and again at Chicago last year. Politically, Mr. Gray represents the Bourbon end of the Democratic party, as Mr. Lore does the business end. Personally he will be an acquisition to the senate. He is a man of fine presence, of gentle and engaging manners, of a genial and obliging disposition. He will be easy-going, luxurious, courtly and honest. Within the limits of his political comprehension he will be fair and just.

At Kalkaska, Mich., recently, the thermometers registered 44 deg. below.

M. W. Klein & Co., private bankers of Johnstown, Pa., have failed for $40,000.

It is declared that Senator Leland Stanford is in failing health and has become a spiritualist.

The village of South Evanston, Ill., brings a $5,000 ejectment suit against Archbishop Feehan.

Gov. Sherman of Iowa called out the militia and took forcible possession of the auditor's office.

Gen. Hatch telegraphs that Couch still threatens to invade the Indian Territory, but his strength does not exceed 600 should he attempt it.

Mr. Joslyn is still acting as assistant secretary to Mr. Lamar, his successor, Mr. Clark, who is suffering with chills, not being able to assume his new duties.

J. L. Weed, a prominent society man of Binghampton, N. Y., has been arrested on a charge of forgery. It is thought that many worthless notes are out.

It is semi-officially stated in Paris that Bismarck has offered to arbitrate for a settlement of the dispute between England and Russia in regard to the Afghan boundary.

David Allen, one of the wealthiest men in Monroe county, Ind., shot W. W. Pitts twice, near Bloomington. Pitts is mortally wounded. It was the culmination of an old quarrel.

The highest figure obtained at the auction sale of Charles O'Conor's library was $18 per volume for Wallace's three volumes of Third circuit reports. The sale will realize about $8,000.

Hon. Bayliss W. Hanna of Indiana, who was said to be an applicant for minister to Mexico, has turned his telescope toward Japan, and he is being urged for the place now filled by John A. Bingham of Ohio.

The late C. W. McCune, of the Buffalo Courier, left his residence and a life interest in $100,000 to his wife, the interest on $50,000 to his sister, and $20,000 to his private secretary and business manager.

Gen. William Preston of Kentucky is a candidate for the Spanish mission—a position he held under a former Democratic administration, long ago. He is seventy years old, but vigorous and straight as a pine.

Louis Hubbell, living in the country near Elkhart, Ind., was about to be removed to an asylum on account of aberrations of the mind, but, taking advantage of his watchman, he shot his wife and then himself dead.

In the court martial, Gen. Hazen's friends manifested their sympathy with him not only by their presence, but by loading the table at which he and his counsel sit with baskets and bouquets of choice cut flowers.

A certificate has been issued to Director General Burke, of the New Orleans exposition, by the controller of the treasury, showing that the returns, vouchers, etc., made to the government by the exposition management, as to the disposition of the $1,000,000 government loan, are correct.

At Quincy, Ill., a young colored man, J. C. Hensen, swore out a warrant charging Elder T. C. Henderson, pastor of the African Methodist church, with having committed rape upon Henson's sister on the 15th of October last. Henderson, whose standing in the community is above reproach, gave bonds to appear at the examination.

Ed Dolittle and John Schonbach, the two railroad strikers arrested at Hannibal, Mo., a few days ago by United States Marshal Couzins for interference with the operations of the Wabash railway, had a hearing before Judge Brewer, of the United States circuit court, and were each sentenced to sixty days in jail.

The Senate confirmed the following appointments: Col. Nelson H. Davis, inspector general with the rank of brigadier general; Lieut. Col. Absolum Baird, inspector general, with the rank of colonel; Edward D. Clark, Mississippi, assistant secretary of the interior; Sidney D. Jackman, Texas, United States marshal Western district of Texas.

When Miss Cleveland, now lady of the White House, left her position as teacher in the Lebanon high school some years ago, the pupils gave her a surprise in the course of the chorus sung at the concluding exercises. They amended the lines, "We are ready to fight, ready to die, for our fatherland, and sung, "We are ready to fight, ready to die, for Miss Cleveland."

T. W. Henderson, the colored pastor of Quincy, Ill., who was charged with rape, proved an alibi, and the prosecuting attorney dismissed the case. Henderson was then examined on a charge of bastardy, sworn out by the woman Henson. Although the same evidence was given, the justice bound the accused over to the June term of the county court, in $5,000.

The principal gift of the Emperor William to Bismarck on the occasion of the latter's seventy-first birthday—the 1st proximo—will be a copy by Von Werner of his famous historical picture entitled "The Proclamation of the German Empire at Versailles." The original was presented to the kaiser by the reigning sovereigns of Germany at the time of the unification.

Mary Baker, the sixteen-year-old daughter of William Baker, a German comedian, and Justin Segrist, both of Buffalo, were arrested in Cleveland while on the way to St. Louis. Segrist is nineteen, and was a clerk in a Buffalo wholesale house. Segrist lamented his fate, and accused the girl of getting him into trouble. The girl says she is determined to marry Segrist. She was taken back to Buffalo, and the young man, being released, proceeded to St. Louis.

Two new senators—Gray of Delaware and Wilson of Maryland—were sworn in the senate. Senator Wilson is about five feet eight inches tall, looks to be about sixty years of age and has a scant head of hair, which is as white as snow. His face, which is very pale, is smooth shaven. He was given a seat in the second tier from the rear and to the right of the vice president. There are still vacant chairs in the senate to be filled by senators chosen from Illinois, Arkansas and Oregon.

Joseph Skelton and George K. Osborn were shadowed by United States detectives at Chicago, and arrested while passing counterfeit quarters. In some part of the house Capt. Hall unearthed $130 in counterfeit quarters, $8 in imperfect silver dollars, put aside to be remelted, one face die for the dollar issue of 1884, two back dies for silver dollars and a face and back die for quarters of 1877, and two strips of German silver or composition in which standard silver of 80 per cent value is found.

Congressman Wellborn of Texas is not well pleased with the civil service reform. He wanted a Democratic constituent appointed to a postoffice. This is what he says of his interview with Gen. Vilas: "The postmaster general looked at me as if I was a public enemy, and said only one way could any officer be removed who holds office for a four year term, and that is by filing in one form written charges showing either he mismanaged his position or else has used it in a partisan way. These statements must be supported by proof."

It does not appear that all the heads of departments are yet educated up to the point of heroic economy reached by Secretary Lamar. Secretary Endicott uses the horses and carriage provided for the secretary of war, whenever he so desires, and says he has given no thought to the matter of dispensing with them. In the treasury department there are five horses and four carriages provided for the use of the officials. Secretary Manning has given no notice of his intention to abolish his equipages other than that of the commissioner of internal revenue.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

Two Leading Medical Journals Give Reports and Comments upon the General's Condition.

New York, March 19.—After his visit to Gen. Grant to-night Dr. Douglas said:

The general slept seven hours continuously last night. He was very well through the day. He asked for roast mutton, and ate it during the afternoon and evening. The general revised enough of his books to keep the printers busy three days. When I left him to-night he was inclined to sleep. The patient's throat looks better this evening. It has not the angry appearance it has had. There was a catarrhal difficulty in the morning that caused gagging, but no bad results. Cocaine is not now being used, and there is no pain. There is mental occupation that renders the general wakeful.

MORE MEDICAL LORE.

The following will appear in the Medical Record on Saturday:

During the past week the local disease of Gen. Grant has shown no marked tendency toward progressing ulceration. At the recent weekly consultation Dr. Fordyce Barker was unavoidably absent. Drs. J. H. Douglas, Henry B. Sands and George F. Shrady, who were present, made a thorough examination of the general's throat with a view of discussing the expediency of a surgical operation for the removal of the growth. Such a measure would involve the division of the lower jaw in the median line, the extirpation of the entire tongue and the greater part of the soft palate, together with the removal of the ulcerated and infiltrated fauces and indurated glandular structures under the right angle of the lower jaw. This was considered mechanically possible, despite the close proximity and probable involvement of tissues adjoining the large arteries and veins in the neighborhood of the ulceration; but in the best interests of the distinguished patient the surgeons did not feel inclined to recommend the procedure. Even by such means there could be no guarantee, in view of the extensive surrounding infiltration, that the limits of the disease would be reached without immediate risk to the life by a severe shock to the constitution already much enfeebled. His vital power is so low that for the present, at least, no kind of operation will be undertaken. The ulceration on the side of the tongue has not progressed far enough to produce the usual intolerable pain reported with that condition; but should the latter symptoms appear it may be advised to divide the gustatory nerve. The general tone of the patient's system remains about the same as at last reports, notwithstanding he has suffered much from insomnia. The latter, within the last day or two, has been kept under control by suitable anodynes. There is no pain in swallowing, and sufficient food is taken with reasonable relish.

A PHILADELPHIA CONTRIBUTION.

The Philadelphia Medical News this week will say editorially, concerning the disease from which Gen. Grant is suffering:

Lingual epithelioma, as a rule, rapidly progresses toward fatal termination when left to itself. The life of the patient, from the first appearance of the disease, varies in accordance with the estimates of different observers from five to thirteen months, the average being seven months. Death ensues first from generalization of the disease; secondly, from the inhalation of putrid emanations, which result from decomposition of the products of the ulcerated surface; third, from starvation through the pressure of infiltrated lymphatic glands and surrounding parts upon the œsophagus, thereby interfering with deglutition; and lastly from hemorrhage proceeding from ulcerated lingual arteries or vessels of the neck. The duration of the life of those who survive an operation averages nineteen months. Not only does operative interference prolong life and relieve suffering, but it effects a cure in 14 per cent. of all cases. In obtaining these results it must be remembered that the incision of the tongue is attended with a mortality of 23 per cent., the principal dangers being the shock, hemorrhage, œdima of the glottis, septic lung affections, picatumone, or erysipelas—some of which risks can be avoided by taking careful precautions during the operation and by perfecting antiseptic measures during and after the procedure. When in addition to disease of the tongue itself, the palate and tonsils are involved, and prognosis is far more grave—whether the disease shall be permitted to pursue an unaided course or whether it shall be subjected to the knife. In the latter event not only will the tongue have to be extirpated, but disease of the palate and tonsils have to be reached. So far as we can learn, there is no example of the performance of a double operation on record, and it is, in our opinion, not justifiable.

A Double Tragedy in St. Paul.

On the afternoon of the 18th inst., Harvey W. Kellogg, late proprietor of the Buckeye restaurant, No. 151 East Seventh street St. Paul (an establishment that failed two weeks before,) left his family in their rooms over the restaurant, ostensibly to go to Minneapolis to get work. This was the last seen of him by his family. His dead body was found lying by the dead body of Mrs. D. B. Barrette, in the latter's apartments at No. 314 East Seventh street, over Anderson and Co.'s saloon. The theory formulated is that Kellogg killed the woman and then made way with himself.

Years ago H. W. Kellogg was a merchant in Knapp, Wis. He came to St. Paul frequently, and on one of his trips here met an old Wisconsin friend, Mrs. D. B. Barrette, the wife of a noted gambler—Dave Barrette—from whom she had separated. Mrs. Barrette was in needy circumstances, and Kellogg befriended her.

Something over a year ago Kellogg came to St. Paul with his family, opened the Buckeye restaurant, made some money, lost it all, and a short time ago, failed in business. He was infatuated with Mrs. Barrette, and would haunt her rooms continually. Recently she called on Dr. Westlake and told him that Kellogg had threatened to kill her and then shoot himself. Mrs. Barrette was shot in the right temple, and so was Mr. Kellogg, there not being over an inch difference in the relative location of the wounds upon each. Death must have been instantaneous. Mrs. Barrette was dressed in a loose Mother Hubbard gown and Kellogg clothed just as he came in from off the street. Kellogg was forty-five years old, and had a family consisting of a wife and five children—one a son, twenty-one years old, living at Knapp, Wis.

He was not exactly sound in mind, was troubled with insomnia and melancholia, and had made threats to kill this woman. As yet, no one knows if he was ever criminally intimate with her. Mrs. Barrette came to St. Paul from La Crosse. She was about forty years old, and her mother is at Neillsville, Wis. Her husband was a painter by trade, but has bein living away from St. Paul for some time.

The Senate on Central America.

In the executive session of the senate the injunction of secrecy was removed from the following resolution introduced by Edmunds and agreed to by the senate:

Whereas, The senate of the United States has learned that the government of the republic of Guatemala has on foot, or threatens to set on foot, an invasion of the territories of the republics of Nicaragua, Costa Rica and San Salvador, with the professed object of consolidating into one governments the republic of Central America by force of arms and against the wishes of several republics concerned; and, whereas there is pending between the United States and the republic of Nicaragua a treaty for the construction of an inter-oceanic canal across the continent and in the republic of Nicaragua, for the general benefit of all the Central American republics as well as the United States, which treaty it is understood the republic of Nicaragua has ratified; therefore be it

Resolved, as the judgment of the senate, That in view of the special and important interests of the United states in conjunction with these republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica in inter-oceanic transit across the continent now in progress of adjustment, any invasion of the territory of Nicaragua or Costa Rica by the forces of Guatemala under the circumstances and with the purposes before stated, is regarded by the senate and ought to be treated by the United States an act of unfriendly and hostile interference with the rights of the United States and of the republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica in respect to the said matter.

Rear Admiral Jouett, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, has telegraphed Commander Clark, of the Alliance, at New Orleans, instructing him to proceed to Carthagena and Baranquilla, United States of Columbia, and protect American interests in that country during the present disturbed condition of affairs. The dispatch informs Commander Clark that vessels belonging to American citizens which have been seized by insurgents without compensation may be forcibly recovered, and says the United Magdalena Steam Navigation company of New York has called the attention of the secretary of state to the seizure of their steamers by armed force.

The dynamite infernal machine found in the Philadelphia postoffice proved on examination to be a bottle of asphalt varnish.

MINNESOTA NEWS CONDENSED.

A New Minnesota Judge.

The governor has appointed Reuben Reynolds, of Crookston, judge in the eleventh district, thus filling the last of the judicial appointments. Judge Reynolds was recommended by fifteen members of the bar of Polk county, a majority thereof, and also forty-two members of the bar of the district outside Polk county. Judge Reynolds is about sixty years old, and is a pioneer Minnesotian. He was elected judge of probate of Olmsted county in 1868 and held the office for four years, removing to Minneapolis in 1872. There he served as associate judge of the municipal court for some time, and in 1876 removed to Fergus Falls. Thence he soon transferred his residence to Detroit, and when the land office was removed to Crookston, followed to the latter place, which has been his home for the past eight years. Judge Reynolds has a reputation among his fellow members of the bar for a logical, judicial mind, and they recommend him highly for the position to which he was appointed.

George H. Wakefield, a prominent citizen of Winona is dead.

A $35,000 flour mill will be built at Elysian, Le Sueur county, this spring.

The Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad office at Eggleston, Goodhue county was burned.

At St. Paul a coroner's jury decided that Kellogg killed both Mrs. Barrette and himself.

A. La Duo of Mantorville is said to be a candidate for United States marshal of Minnesota.

Hendrick Witman of Washington, was robbed of $750 by colored hariots at Sioux City.

The Bohn Manufacturing company completed its purchase of the Nelson lumber yard in St. Paul.

The suit of Thompson vs. The Pioneer Press, at Minneapolis, resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

The Winona & St. Peter Railroad company under the recent decision, got a large body of land near Lamberton.

It is said the governor offered Congressman Nelson the Seventh district judgeship, but he declined for political reasons.

A movement is on foot, which seems recently to have taken definite shape, for establishing an iron rolling mill in St. Paul.

Red Wing reports that the total liabilities of the Clauson estate aggregate $132,046, and that creditors will get 33 1-3 cents on the dollar.

Daniel Moriarity of Hastings has begun an action against Eugene Hicks, who for some time has been living with Moriarity's wife.

Adam Fergolson, an employe of Lawrence's lumber camp on Lake Leighton, below Pokegema, was killed in the pineries by a falling tree.

On his return home to Brainerd, C. F. Kindred was prostrated with a threatening attack of congestion. He was confined to his bed for a time, but no more further serious trouble is anticipated.

Washington Sipes, a convict at the prison, was transferred to St. Peter, having recently become insane. He was sentenced from Winona for five years for manslaughter, and his term expires in June next.

At St. Vincent, Hugh Griffith, one of the lately elected supervisors, was assisting in moving a house, he fell and was caught under it, causing a fracture of the skull and other injuries. He is in a critical condition.

Frank Harpin was before Judge Titus at Moorhead, on the charge of rape on the person of a fourteen-year-old girl name Christian Jacobin, two miles north of Moorhead. He was bound over in $500 to await the action of the grand jury.

Henry Oster, a former resident of St. Cloud, and later a farmer near St. Joseph, Stearns county, was killed the 17th inst., while felling a tree in the woods with his son. The tree lodged in falling, and the butt swinging around struck Oster in the side of the head killing him instantly.

Enterprising Duluth people want the county commissioners to authorize a vote at the spring election submitting the question of granting a bonus of $100,000 in twenty 6 per cent. bonds to aid in the construction of the Duluth & Winnipeg, to be delivered on completion of the road in March, 1888.

C. N. Parker has leased the Northern Pacific foundry at Brainerd and taken a contract to furnish the road with their iron and brass castings for a term of five years. The Brainerd foundry has a capacity of from fifty to seventy-five tons a day. Mr. Parker takes possession on the 1st of April.

The Meridian mill at Willmar, operated by C. L. Hurlburt, was burned. The mill was recently transferred by Locke & Bunker of Minneapolis to Williams Brothers & Wiggins of Willmar for $8,000. C. L. Hurlburt lost stock and household furniture stored in the mill worth $1,500; no insurance.

A trust deed from the Minnesota, St. Croix & Wisconsin to C. L. Colby and E. H. Abbott, of the Wisconsin Central, was executed—the company, for $400,000, giving to Colby and Abbott, in trust, their terminal property in St. Paul, covering all that lies between Lake Phalen junction to John street, in Kittson's addition.

Henry Beanhein, John Ballinger and Henry Fairbanks, accused of selling liquor to the Indians on the White Earth reservation were brought before Commissioner Mills at Moorehead were all bound over to the June term of the United States circuit court at Winona, with bonds at $500 each. The prisoners are half breeds.

At Winnebago City, fire was discovered in a building occupied by Whitney & Son, and before it could be checked four buildings were burned to the ground. The losses are: J. Bathrick, drug stock, $3,500; B. K. Whitney, building, $2,500; J. Huntington, building, $1,500; J. Beacher, furniture, $450; P. McKinstry & Co., stock and building, $1,500; Whitney & Son, stock, $300.

The state board of pharmacy has been completed by the appointment by the governor of R. O. Sweeny of St. Paul for five years, S. L. Crocker of Faribault for four years, Thomas F. Stark and H. G. Webster of Minneapolis for three and two years respectively, W. S. Getty of St. Paul for one year. The board was constituted by the recent legislature and its objects have been fully explained.

The Fergus Falls Daily Journal and Daily Telegram consolidated, the paper to be continued as the Daily Journal under the following management: A. J. Underwood, president; Vernon A. Wright, Vice president; B. D. Underwood, secretary; Elmer E. Adams, treasurer; H. G. Page, director. A. J. Underwood will edit the paper as formerly, and Elmer E. Adams, former editor of the Telegram will assume charge of the business department.

A two-days' session of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons of the southern jurisdiction of the United States, Valley of Minneapolis, convened at Minneapolis last week. The especial business of the session was the conferring of the degree of Scottish Rite Masonry, upon the following candidates: F. V. Dotty, Duluth; A. T. Ankeny, W. C. Kintrington, S. B. Lovejoy, S. G. Cook, G. G. Farnham, Frank Goodwin, R. C. Leavitt, W. A. Spaulding, Minneapolis.

At New Ulm, fire started in C. Brust's building, formerly the Merchant's hotel which was destroyed; also Mrs. A. Bergman's building, occupied by Mr. P. Roiering, Mr. Held's carpenter shop and several stables close by. Mr. Brust's loss is $6,000 with insurance of $3,500 in several insurance companies. The St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company carried $1,000. Mrs. Bergman's loss is $2,000 with $850 insurance. S. D. Peterson's loss on machinery and sheds is $2,500; insurance unknown. Mr. Held's loss is about $400; insured for $150.

At a meeting of the Minnesota association of trotting and racing horse breeders at St. Paul, the following gentlemen were elected additional members of the association: Henry C. Chase, Charles Morton, H. F. Brown, T. R. Merritt, D. S. Hall, Ward Stone, J. J. Rhodes, J. C. Meloy, L. S. Follett, J. F. Norrish, Charles Espenshied, N. P. Clarke, Dr. R. G. Patton, L. S. Van Vliet, N. E. Perkins, Dr. C. G. Lyford, Horace Pratt, E. T. Archibald, C. E. Smith, Jay Le Duc, A. T. Stebbins, C. L. Cook, J. R. Smith, V. Simpson, Adam Fetsch, Clarke Chambers, H. R. Gardner, H. B. Smith, E. A. Parker, Charles Brown, D. J. Cameron, L. J. Phelps, Merrill Clough, John Grasschock, Abe Rohrbach.

COMIC VALENTINES.

New Varieties Which Will Shortly Amuse or Disgust Recipients.

The designs in comic valentines for the present season are as varied as ever. Every phase of life is represented in its most exaggerated and ridiculous aspect, and no event that offers a suggestion of ridicule or satire occurs that is not seized upon by the artist whose caricatures at this time of the year bring vexation and wrath to the old maids and bachelors who receive them. The more nearly they hold to the truth on the overdrawn side, the greater is the vexation they create in those who receive them and the greater the enjoyment of those who send them. The lines which accompany the pictures also add to the bitterness in which they are received according as they approach truth and are appropriate.

A visit was paid by a reporter of The Mail and Express yesterday to a large manufacturing house of these goods on Duane street. The tables and floors were piled high with pictures of monstrous ugliness painted in glaring colors.

"Are there many new designs?" the salesman was asked.

"Well, every condition of life almost has been caricatured over and over, but oftentimes there are other circumstances to be added, and this prevents them from being stale. These are the latest varieties," said the salesman, showing the picture of a man lying on his back on the polished floor of a skating rink. His lower limbs with a pair of rollers strapped to the extremities, are elevated in the air at an angle of 45 degrees, while his broad hands vainly endeavor to hide a rent just made in his pantaloons.

The young lady who inserts personals, has the following lines composed in her honor:

You think yourself a lovely maid,
Got up in style and full of grace;
But that in which you are strongest is
The brass you carry in your face.
To catch a man, and one with cash,
You make this fancy-goods display,
The thought forever fills your mind,
'Tis what you're after night and day.

A more refined assortment of the comic description are made on thick cardboard attached to the easels. An old lady looking very glum and mournful through a pair of blue glasses is one. A little attachment is pulled, a cup and teapot appears on the table before her, the frown disappears, and in its place a self-satisfied and complacent smile that extends over nearly half the picture.

Another is an old man whose chilling look would freeze the hot springs of the Yellowstone park until a little piece of card is drawn out. Immediately a bottle and glass are on a table in front of him, a pair of spectacles lift off his nose and disappear behind his head, and a most glorious and expansive smile takes the place of the icy frown.

A benevolent-looking face with bloated nose and patches of sticking-plaster, develops on pressure, into a jolly Fritz with a bean barrel for the main portion of his body. These are known as useful hints to refined comics, and others are designated sharp darts, fault-finders, hit-em-hards, long jokes, comical dudes, etc.—New York Mail and Express.

A Yankee Farmer's Wife.

She has received a certain amount of instruction at a public school, says a writer in Cassell's Family Magazine, then marries young, and begins her, to me, herculean labors. It is her part to perform all the daily household tasks with but seldom any outside aid. She must make butter, milk the cows, feed the chickens, and attend to the kitchen garden, as well as to her special pet flower-beds and vines. Then she harnesses her horse and drives to a neighboring town to barter (no one else can) with her butter, eggs, and garden produce. If anything is broken or out of order in the house or farm she mends it, and, being a woman of infinite resources, she may even construct some of her own furniture or paint her fence. Her "parlor" is adorned with all the latest absurdities in the way of worsted work or pressed bouquets, while her store closet is well stocked with preserves, and her garret hung with dried fruits. It is probable that she has children, and none are more thoughtfully tended in all their needs, be they physical, moral, or mental. The clothing of the family, even to their stockings and mittens, is her handiwork, while occasionally a garment is made for one of the village poor.

But where is her self-culture? say you. Ah! there is the mystery—how and when is it accomplished? And there is no denying the fact, a narrow, provincial education it may be, but that is owing solely to her circumscribed life.

If you were to enter a small commonplace, whitewashed farm house in any of the straggling New England villages, which appear little else than a cluster of huts in a wilderness to English eyes—if you were so bold as to enter in, and so fortunate as to have an uninterrupted conversation with the mistress of the house, you would find her a plain, probably faded, woman, clad in neat calico, sharp-voiced, and sharp-visaged, perhaps, but gentle in manners, and displaying as she talks a well-cultivated intelligence, and more or less familiarity with literature in all its branches of history, philosophy, science and belles-lettres. You would find her a member of the nearest library, and a subscriber to all the leading periodicals. But in order to make this a strictly truthful account, I must add that she seldom reads the newspapers, and is utterly devoid of that knowledge of current affairs that distinguishes particularly the women of New York and Chicago. But then, consider how precious to her is each moment of time, and how far is she removed from the centers of life and civilization! She has no amusements, no diversions, no trips away; nothing but the dull, everlasting grind. And yet is she patient, and never resisting from her round of necessary duties, and that to her, no less necessary one of self-culture. Someone has beautifully said that "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rocks the world." The children of Priscilla—or, more correctly, "Sairey Ann"—will doubtless be rich, and some will call them parvenus, perhaps; but as for her grandchildren and great-grandchildrens what may they not become!

Afraid of His Own Son.

A rural man who concluded to bounce into wealth with a short jump by the incubator route, was out hunting up eggs one day with which to feed the machine, and stopped at the house of an Irish woman who had a good many chickens.

"How many chickens have you, Mrs. Dempsey?" said he, "and what kind are they?"

"Well, Mr. Corey," said she, "I suppose I have a hundred, and ris[illegible] and pullets, and they're ivery mother's son av thim yer rig'lar g[illegible] wine American dominockers—th[illegible] some folks calls the Plymouth Rocks —barin' four phazents an' wan yaller buff scotchan."

"Do you like that breed?"

"Troth an' I do, Mr. Corey; they're the barreds for me, an' I don't want no bether. They're as tough as an Irishman on a spree, an' wan av thim can bate me two b'ys diggin' for wurrems. Sure, it's no feed ye'll have to give them at all, intoirely. They'll scratch for thimselves, an' kape fat on it, an' grow to the bigness of small turkeys—an' not so very small, aither. They're the h'arty barreds—tough as a duck, an' their mate's as swate as good beef at the ind av Lint. Take the eggs, Mr. Corey; they'll be a j'y to yer honor, I know they will."

Just then an old rooster walked up, clapped his wings, and had his little say about the election; but the echo of his crow had scarcely got back from the other side of the creek, when a half-grown cockerel of opposite politics darted after him, and the two disappeared from view behind a hay-stack.

"God savin' yer honor's presence, Mr. Corey," said Mrs. Dempsey, "that ould rooster's the biggest fool ye iver saw in all yer borren days."

"How so?"

"Why, sure, the bla'g'ard's afraid av his own son an' he'll run at the sight av him, ivery time; as ye've seen. But take the eggs Mr. Corey, that's the good soul. I don't belave ye'll find anther spalpeen like him in the whole lot. I think he has a taste av the yaller buff scothan blood in him, an' her head'll come oft nixt Sunday."—Chicago Ledger.

Where the Storm King Reigns.

Many of our severest storms form in the region just west of the Mississippi river, pass eastward off the Atlantic coast, and augmenting in force as they cross the ocean, continue their course over Europe until dissipated by encountering some range of mountains. Between July and October the United States is usually visited by from one to three heavy storms, which come up from the West Indies, crossing the extreme Southern states in a north-easterly direction, and then following up the coast. Violent gales always attend. It is claimed that millions of dollars annually are saved to shipping interests of the Atlantic ports by means of the warnings displayed by the signal service several hours in advance of these storms. A cold wave is an immense river of air flowing from the Arctic regions southward through British America, and entering the United States between the Rocky mountains and the great lakes, whence it spreads out East and South. It always comes from the same direction, and usually takes about twenty-four hours to travel from St. Paul, Minn., to New York and Washington. As the cold waves come from the Northwest, it would be natural to suppose that the warm waves come from the equatorial regions. But such is not the case. They also come from the Northwest. When observations become more general over the entire world, it is presumed that this seeming inconsistency will be explained.

No storm of the Pacific coast ever reaches us, as in crossing successively the several ranges of mountains intervening, the atmosphere is forced up to such an elevation that all moisture is condensed by cold and it descends the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains a perfectly dry air; indeed, so void of all humidity that hunters cure fresh meat in the middle of summer by simply hanging it on the limbs of trees, and the region for a hundred miles east of the hills is a barren waste—New York Mail and Express.

A Slight Mistake.

An amusing incident took place the other night at a house in the Fifth Ward, where a woman lay dead. At a late hour three young men who had known the deceased went to the place where the body lay for the purpose of attending the wake. They entered the front door quietly and passed into the front room, where several women were carrying on a conversation in a low tone of voice. The excellent qualities of the deceased were being rehearsed and all seemed to be bowed down under the great affliction. On a sofa in the room lay the form of a woman. The three young men crossed the floor softly, knelt beside the sofa, and uttered fervent prayers for the wellfare of the spirit of the departed. The women in the room ceased talking when the young men knelt down, apparently awed by the solemnity of the occasion.

The prayers were finally concluded, and the young men rose to their feet. In rising the skirt of one young man's coat touched the face of the form on the sofa. Instantly her eyes opened wide, and she raised herself on her elbow. The feelings of the young men can better be imagined than described. Their hair stood on end and their eyes bulged out, but they did not move. Suddenly one of the number gave vent to a piercing yell, and ran from the house, closely followed by his companions. The corpse was in the next room, and the person over whom they had been praying was a relative of the deceased who had laid down for a short rest.—Oswego Palladium.

Women Worth Millions.

The reported resolution of the widow of Mark Hopkins to erect a palace at Great Barrington, Mass., has turned attention to our millionaires in the female sex. It is difficult to enumerate them all at once. Mrs. A. R. Allen, of St. Louis, pays taxes on $1,197,000, and Miss Bernice Morrison, of the same city, is taxed at $964,990. A cattle queen named Rogers, living near Corpus Christi, Tex., owns 40,000 head of cattle and is worth over $1,000,000. She is the financial agent of the ranch, keeps the pocketbook and oversees the stock, while she sends her second husband to the Texas legislature. Catharine Wolfe, of New York, the daughter of old Peter Wolfe, who married Lorillard's two sisters and got $1,000,000 with each of them, has an income of $500,000 a year, and she owns real estate to the amount of about $6,000,000. She is about fifty-five years old, and plain in all her habits. She is single, too, and lives alone in a big house. Mrs. Wm. Astor is worth $1,000,000, and Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts, the wife of the mining king, who died some years ago, is said to have assets which will foot up $8,000,000. Mrs. A. T. Stewart might be added to the list. The wealth of women is more likely to attract attention than that of men, because the latter are far more apt to distribute it in various ways, and thus deceive the public as to the aggregate amount.—Utica Observer.

The County Commissioners' Meeting—March Session.

The [illegible] Secs. 10, 17, and 18, Tp. 151, R. 48, were attached to Dist. No. 129.

The claim of A. J. Greinseth, of Vineland Tp., amounting to $114.45, was audited and allowed at $57.70.

The school petition of James E. and Mary Sullivan was rejected.

The school petition of Michael McGuire was granted.

The following liquor licenses were granted: John Jarvis, J. Freedsam and Mary Franklen, of Grand Forks, and T. Robellard, of Lake Pleasant.

Tp. 151, R. 45, was organized and named "Parnel."

School Dist. No. 137, was organized, its territory being the e½ of Tp. 148, R. 40.

The sw¼ of Liberty Tp. was organized into a new school district, No. 67.

School petitions from Farley Tp. were rejected.

Herman Shultz' school petition filed and hearing set at next meeting of the County Board.

The school petition from citizens of School Dist. No. 55, was filed and a hearing set at July session of Co. Board.

Jas. McDonald's school petition filed and a hearing set at July session.

The petition from Lambert for changing the boundaries of Dist. No. 76, presented and a hearing ordered.

School Dist. No. 138 was organized, comprising the se¼ of Tp. 147, R. 40.

Bernt Johnson's school petition rejected.

The application for poor aid from Humedal Tp. was referred to Commissioner Schmidt.

The petition for poor aid to John Erickson was referred to Com'r Brown.

Mrs. E. Sankey's petition referred to Commissioner Goodrich.

The petition for county road near St. Hilaire, and also for a county road in Gervais and Torrebonne Tps. was referred to Messrs. Brown, Schmidt and Bradish.

The county road petition from the Thirteen Towns was referred to Messrs. Goodrich, Bradish and Schmidt.

Dr. W. H. Welch of St. Hilaire was appointed text book agent at that point.

The matter of State aid to build a bridge at St. Hilaire was referred to Messrs. Brown and Schmidt with power to act.

The following resolution was passed:—Resolved, That no claim against this county incurred by reason of any criminal proceeding conducted before any justice of the peace shall be entertained or passed upon unless such claim contains a statement by the justice of the peace before whom the proceeding was had, giving the title of the case, the date thereof, the nature of the offence charged, the final disposition of said case, together with a certificate from such justice that the service charged for were necessarily and actually rendered, which statement and certificate shall be officially signed by the justice of the peace making the same.

The Board selected the names for grand and petit jurors to be drawn from, and also allowed the usual budget of bills, many of which were pruned down pretty thoroughly.

THE BIRD FAINTED.

Detroit Record: Billy Norcross, while upon a tour of inspection through the Erie woods one day last week, discovered a ferocious looking partridge on a tree near by. Billy knew that his life was in danger and it was with fear and trembling, for both the law and the bird, that he brought his "fusee" to bear directly upon the heart of the fierce bird of prey. The gun was loaded for bear and when it was discharged Billy went one way and the gun the other, and the fractional portion of the bird remaining perched upon the tree cocked its remaining eye, and finally fainted and dropped from fright at seeing the maneuvers through which its visitor had gone. Before the opening of the spring shoot Billy should take lessons of Peters on the hip shot at the lung. It is much safer than the fainting act or the k[illegible]-um-alive-as-they-pass-under-your-n[illegible]. Other sportsmen have special shots which they recommend, but none who have witnessed the effects of Pete's "lunger" have any doubt of its entire practicability.

Detroit Record: Andrew Dietrich died at Pelican Rapids recently of glanders, contracted from a diseased horse. We understand that the horses in and about the Rapids are badly affected with this loathsome disease, which is spreading to an alarming extent. If the reports are true there are many horses in that vicinity which should be put out of the way immediately. Too much care cannot be taken against the glanders, which are so easily contracted by human beings, and which prove fatal almost invariably.

In Polk County.

Grand Forks Plaindealer.

A reporter of the Plaindealer took a trip through the county into Minnesota yesterday and found the farmers on the Marais ready and waiting for a little more spring weather to put in their crops. The bright black soil turned up to the bright sun seemed to be inviting the seed. The farmers in Polk County will do well this coming year. Most of their grounds are well drained and are in a condition better than ever before. The people of Polk County are in a decidedly prosperous condition.

The American Agriculturist for April opens with a spirited full page engraving entitled "The First Trout of the Season." There are one hundred other large and small engravings of House and Farm Conveniences, Sheep, Bavarian oxen, Shetland Ponies, Sebastopol Geese, Whistling Ducks, etc. "The First Lamb of the Season" is an exquisite illustration, while there is also a picturesque view of Historic Ground around New York. There is a great variety of original articles pertaining to Farm, Garden and Household from the ablest writers of the country in their particular spheres of labor. The Household and Domestic departments of the April number are unusually full. The same is true of the Boys' and Girls' Departments. In fact this is really the most practical number of this periodical issued for several years. This may be inferred from the titles of some of the articles, such as follows: Setting out Currant Bushes, Cultivation of Barley, Early Peas, Spring Seeding for Grass, Permanent Pastures, etc. D. W. King, the well-known architect, begins with this number a series of House Plans for the Country. R. G. Newton, of Dakota, gives very valuable instructions for Raising Poultry on the Prairies. Other writers are Dr. Slade, of Harvard, Dr. Thurber, Joseph Harris, Wm. Clift, Philip Snyder, and a host of others. The announcement is made that E. P. Roe, author of Small Fruits, and the genial story writer, is to be connected with the American Agriculturist in the future. The cover page gives a beautiful view, representing the Return of Spring. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Single numbers 15 cents. 751 Broadway, New York.

Go visiting at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing Store and see the immense display of fine clothing and furnishing goods. Their buyer has just returned from New York and Chicago and are now prepared to exhibit the largest and most complete stock in the state.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week. Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

ALL HAIL TO TYRANNY.

But few people are yet aware that the bill just signed by Gov. Hubbard, extending the city limits, bringing Merriam Park into St. Paul, contains a provision prohibiting the city council forever from issuing license for any saloon within a distance of about four and a half square miles, of which Merriam is the center, and the bill with that provision is now a law; and a statute of Minnesota, so that whatever becomes of the high license bill, here, at least, in one spot of our State practical prohibition exists by legislative enactment, and that, too, in a most important spot, exactly midway between the two depots of the two cities. When this fact becomes generally known, there is no doubt whatever that the property in that section will be in great demand for homes by people who wish to bring up their families away from the contaminating influence of saloons. We look for a rapid rise in values of property there as a result—especially as the property at present is held at only about one-fifth the price of outlying property on St. Anthony Hill, though it can be reached on the Milwaukee short line in about one-fourth the time—beside the exemption from taxes on city debt which is also allowed this property in the same bill. Numerous sales were made the past week in that section, and already a strong movement in that direction has set in.—[Pioneer Press.

Mothers, we can fit the boys in all grades and styles of clothing, all wool suits for $6 at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House.

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

Farm to Rent!

One hundred and forty acres, all plowed, only one mile from Carman. Easy terms given. Enquire of or address,

A. M. CHILDS,
[46-tf] Carman, Minn.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[37-tf] Crookston, Minn.

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,

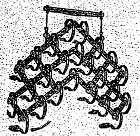
Crookston, - Minn.

And Manufacturers of

Carriages, Wagons,

BUGGIES,

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock,



DEALER IN

FARM MACHINERY.

We keep a full supply of the Leading Machines. We have Seeders, Harrows, Plows, and everything a farmer needs. Among the different kinds may be mentioned the celebrated Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Diamond Tooth Harrows, and the Strowbridge Broadcast Seeders.

Farmers, when you want ANYTHING in our line call in and examine our stock before you purchase. We can suit you in price, style and quality.

—EXTRAS—

For all Machines constantly on hand

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 82-100 dollars, ($277.82-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:35 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 316, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

O. D. ROOD,

CONTRACTOR

AND BUILDER,

CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Estimates made on brick work and Plastering.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

M. BAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,

CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS. CROOKSTON, MINN.

[illegible] ready for the Spring trade with a full supply [illegible] Work and Light Harness, Single and Double [illegible]addles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me [a c]all before you purchase.

For Sale.

A high grade Shorthorn bull calf, one year old, a high grade Jersey bull calf, eight months old, and a high grade Holstein bull calf, four months old. Will sell for cash or will trade for heifer calves. Address A. N. Hopkins, on the farm near Crookston, or at the JOURNAL office for further particulars.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars, ($333.11-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedsam and Anna Friedsam, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1881; and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1881, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 431, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18,) in block twenty-three (23,) in Trails' Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.

EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Atty's for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 28th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 87-100 dollars, ($571.87-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Luc Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 345, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22,) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 20th A. D. 1885.

JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.

LEO & GEORGE,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [48-2]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

THE

St. Paul, Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL.		Stations	TO ST. PAUL.
No. 3 Daily.	No 1. Ex. Sun.		No. 2. Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's.	2 40 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 25 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 20 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 31 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 48 "	9 18 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 33 "	6 23 "
9 23 "	9 59 "	Beltrama	5 08 "	6 12 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson n.n	4 38 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	2 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 pm	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 55 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 53 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 32 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 53 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 10 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 20 }	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } AM
4 05 "	2 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Lv.	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 35 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 20 a m	Crookston	5 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 18 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 23 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } " D		2 25 " } D
1 25 } "	Arvilla	2 00 "
1 43 "	Larimore	1 43 "
2 08 "	Shawnee	1 15 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 55 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lacota	11 48 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 35 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.
C. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

John Crawford & Son

Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S., No. 9128, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezer Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.

[48-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good, thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.

FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

Crookston Tonsorial PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.

Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to in the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop,

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man, constantly on hand

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs, Valencia raisens for	1,00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
CANNED GOODS
12 cans plums	1,00
12 cans corn for	1,45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN.

Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

FOR SALE

20 NEW Milch Cows, 20

—ALSO—

5 Yoke of Steers. 5

The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns, good milkers, and will be sold

Cheap for Cash.

Call on or address

B. SAMPSON,
[48-tf] Crookston, Minn.

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon.

CROOKSTON, - - - MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[9-tf

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal.

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.

MAIN STREET, - - CROOKSTON, MINN

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

[illegible] The school petition of [illegible] and [illegible] Sullivan was rejected.

The school petition of Michael McGuire was granted.

The following liquor licenses were granted: John Jarvis, J. Breedsant and [illegible] Franklin, of Grand Forks, and [illegible] Robellard, of Lake Pleasant.

[illegible] T. 151, R. 46, was organized and named Parnell.

School Dist. No. 187 was organized, its territory being the e½ of Tp. 148, R. 40.

The sw¼ of Liberty Tp. was organized into a new school district, No. 67.

School petitions from Farley Tp. were rejected.

Herman Shultz's school petition filed and hearing set at next meeting of the County Board.

The school petition from citizens of School Dist. No. 55, was filed and a hearing set at July session of Co. Board.

Jas. McDonald's school petition filed and a hearing set at July session.

The petition from Lambert for changing the boundaries of Dist. No. 76, presented and a hearing ordered.

School Dist. No. 188 was organized, comprising the e½ of Tp. 147, R. 40.

Bernt Johnson's school petition rejected.

The application for poor aid from Humedal Tp. was referred to Commissioner Schmidt.

The petition for poor aid to John Erickson was referred to Com'r Brown.

Mrs. E. Sankey's petition referred to Commissioner Goodrich.

The petition for county road near St. Hilaire, and also for a county road in Gervais and Torrebonne Tps. was referred to Messrs. Brown, Schmidt and Bradish.

The county road petition from the Thirteen Towns was referred to Messrs. Goodrich, Bradish and Schmidt.

Dr. W. H. Welch of St. Hilaire was appointed text book agent at that point.

The matter of State aid to build a bridge at St. Hilaire was referred to Messrs. Brown and Schmidt with power to act.

The following resolution was passed: Resolved, That no claim against this county incurred by reason of any criminal proceeding conducted before any justice of the peace shall be entertained or passed upon unless such claim contains a statement by the justice of the peace before whom the proceeding was had, giving the title of the case, the date thereof, the nature of the offence charged, the final disposition of said case, together with a certificate from such justice that the service charged for were necessarily and actually rendered, which statement and certificate shall be officially signed by the justice of the peace making the same.

The Board selected the names for grand and petit jurors to be drawn from, and also allowed the usual budget of bills, many of which were pruned down pretty thoroughly.

THE BIRD FAINTED.

Detroit Record: Billy Norcross, while upon a tour of inspection through the Erie woods one day last week, discovered a ferocious looking partridge on a tree near by. Billy knew that his life was in danger and it was with fear and trembling, for both the law and the bird, that he brought his "fusee" to bear directly upon the heart of the fierce bird of prey. The gun was loaded for bear and when it was discharged Billy went one way and the gun the other, and the fractional portion of the bird remaining perched upon the tree cocked its remaining eye, and finally fainted and dropped from fright at seeing the manœuvers through which its visitor had gone. Before the opening of the spring [illegible] Billy should take lessons of Peter [illegible] on the hip shot at the sling. It is much safer than the fainting act or the [illegible] alive as they pass under your [illegible]. Other sportsmen have special shots which they recommend, but none who have witnessed the effects of Pete's [illegible] have any doubt of its entire practicability.

Detroit Record: Audrey Dietrich died at Pelican Rapids recently of glanders contracted from a diseased horse. We understand that the horses in and about the Rapids are badly affected with this loathsome disease, which is spreading to an alarming extent. If the reports are true there are many horses in that vicinity which should be put out of the way immediately. Too much care cannot be taken against the glanders, which are so easily contracted by human beings and which prove fatal almost invariably.

In Polk County.

Grand Forks Plaindealer.

A reporter of the Plaindealer took a trip through the county into Minnesota yesterday and found the farmers on the farms ready and waiting for a little more spring weather to put in their crops. The bright black soil turned up by the [illegible] seemed to be inviting the seed. [illegible] farmers in Polk County [illegible] this coming year. [illegible] are well drained and [illegible] condition better than ever before. The people of Polk County are in [illegible] condition.

The American Agriculturist [illegible]

[illegible] Circling Around New York. There is a large variety of original articles pertaining to the Farm, Garden and Household, from the ablest writers of the country in their particular spheres of labor. The Household and Domestic department of the April number are unusually full. The same is true of the Boys' and Girls' Departments. In fact this is really the most practical number of this periodical issued for several years. This may be inferred from the titles of some of the Articles, such as follows: Setting out Currant Bushes, Cultivation of Barley, Early Peas, Spring Seeding for Grass, Permanent Pastures, etc. D. W. King, the well-known architect, begins with this number a series of House Plans for the Country. R. G. Newton of Dakota gives very valuable instructions for Raising Poultry in the Prairies. Other writers are Dr. Slade, of Harvard, Dr. Thurber, Joseph Harris, Wm. Cliff, Philip Snyder, and a host of others. The announcement is made that E. P. Roe, author of Small Fruits, and the genial story writer, is to be connected with the American Agriculturist in the future. The cover page gives a beautiful view, representing the Return of Spring. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Single numbers 15 cents. 751 Broadway, New York.

Go visiting at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing Store ane see the immense display of fine clothing and furnishing goods. Their buyer has just returned from New York and Chicago and are now prepared to exhibit the largest and most complete stock in the state.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week.—Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

ALL HAIL TO TYRANNY.

But few people are yet aware that the bill just signed by Gov. Hubbard, extending the city limits, bringing Merriam Park into St. Paul, contains a provision prohibiting the city council forever from issuing license for any saloon within a distance of about four and a half square miles, of which Merriam is the center, and the bill with that provision is now a law, and a statute of Minnesota, so that whatever becomes of the high license bill, here, at least in one spot of our State practical prohibition exists by legislative enactment, and that, too, in a most important spot, exactly midway between the two depots of the twin cities. When this fact becomes generally known, there is no doubt whatever that the property in that section will be in great demand for homes by people who wish to bring up their families away from the contaminating influence of saloons. We look for a rapid rise in values of property there as a result, especially as the property at present is held at only about one-fifth the price of outlying property on St. Anthony Hill, though it can be reached on the Milwaukee short line in about one-fourth the time. Beside the exemption from taxes or city debt, which is also allowed this property in the same bill. Numerous sales were made the past week in that section, and already a strong movement in that direction has set in.—Pioneer Press.

Mothers, we can fit the boys in all grades and styles of clothing, all wool suits for $6 at the C. O. D. One Price Clothing House.

Teachers' Examinations.

Crookston, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher school house, [illegible] 1885.

At East Grand Forks school house, April [illegible]

At Red Lake Falls school house, April 6th and 7th.

At Crookston court house, April [illegible]

[illegible]
County Supt. of Schools.

Farm to Rent.

One hundred and [illegible]

$100,000 [illegible]

McKINNON BRO'S

CARRIAGE WORKS!

Robert Street,

Crookston, - Minn.

And Manufacturers of

Carriages, Wagons,

BUGGIES,

Axles, Springs, and all Repairs kept in stock.

DEALER IN

FARM MACHINERY.

We keep a full supply of the Leading Machines. We have Seeders, Harrows, Plows, and everything a farmer needs. Among the different kinds may be mentioned the celebrated Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Diamond Tooth Harrows, and the Strowbridge Broadcast Seeders.

Farmers, when you want ANYTHING in our line call in and examine our stock before you purchase. We can suit you in price, style and quality.

—EXTRAS—

For all Machines constantly on hand

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 82-100 dollars ($277.82.00) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee, bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:35 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 316, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said village, duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars, ($333.11-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedsam and Anna Friedsam, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1881, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1881, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 487, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18,) in block twenty-three (23,) in Trails Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.

EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[45-8]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 87-100 dollars ($571.87-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Luck Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 26th day of October A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 26th day of October A. D. 1882, at [illegible] o'clock p. m., in book [illegible] of mortgages, on page [illegible] and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage [illegible]

Now therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described [illegible]

[illegible]

JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.

O. D. ROOD,

CONTRACTOR

AND BUILDER,

CROOKSTON, - MINN.

Estimates made on brick work and Plastering.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

[illegible]

For Sale.

A high grade Shorthorn bull calf [illegible]

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,

NORTHERN MINNESOTA,

NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL		Stations	TO ST. PAUL
No. 3 Daily.	No. 1 Ex. Sun.		No. 2 Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's	2 40 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 35 "	Barnesville	8 40	9 14 "
7 20 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 35 "
8 05 "	8 24 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 48 "	9 18 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Bolette	5 33 "	6 33 "
9 23 "	9 58 "	Beltrama	5 08 "	6 18 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson	4 38 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 53 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	3 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 pm	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 53 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 53 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 32 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 18 p m
3 10	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 D
3 30	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 AM
4 05 "	2 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Lv	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 15 "

Devil's Lake Division.

	Stations
10 20 a m	Crookston	5 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 18 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 D		2 25 D
1 25	Arvilla	2 00
1 43 "	Larimore	1 43 "
2 05 "	Shawnee	1 18 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 55 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lakota	11 46 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 35 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.

C. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

John Crawford & Son

Proprietors of

Crawford's
Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. [illegible] for the lots 6 and 7, and the s½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezer Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.

[48-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879.

Tree Claim Stock

I will furnish my customers and others trees and seeds for tree claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of Small Fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries and Raspberries. [illegible] Cottonwood and Box Elder [illegible]

[illegible]

Crookston Tonsorial

PARLORS.

[illegible]

Crookston City Bakery,

Peter Lorge, Prop,

Keeps constantly on hand a full line of all goods usually found in a

First-Class Bakery

Cigars and Tobacco, Nuts, Fruits, Candies, Pies, Cakes, Bread,

And everything to fill out a hungry man constantly on hand

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs, Valencia raisens for	1,00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
Climax Tobacco	48c
Best white syrup	50c
CANNED GOODS
12 cans plums	1,00
12 cans corn for	1.45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you ean get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN

Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

FOR SALE

20 NEW Milch Cows, 20

—ALSO—

5 Yoke of Steers, 5

The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns good milkers, and will be sold Cheap for Cash

Call on or address

B. SAMPSON,

[48-tf] Crookston Minn

JOHN N. IVES,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon.
Crookston, - Minn.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[19-1]

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE
Office Over Merchants' Bank.

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms,
Main Street, [illegible] Crookston, Minn.
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [illegible]

DR. [illegible] WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
[illegible]
[illegible] calls by day or night [illegible] promptly.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, March 26th, 1885

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning	Hendrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
John Paterson	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
D. H. Hatlestad	Court Commissioner.
John Lee	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
Ole Hamery	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist.	Woodside.
R. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d "	Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HEART LODGE, No. 71, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.

C. H. MIX, M. W.

F. BEHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.

T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.

O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.

F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.

R. B. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.

T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.

JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.

W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.

GEO. D. BUCKNAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.

C. W. BARNES, C. C.

W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE

AND

SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

18 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green sages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported, for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	25

Boots and shoes at cost!

Boots and shoes below cost!

BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business, but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for this money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?

MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank T. Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds, and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before spring opens. [49-tf]

Roller Rinktums.

It is fair to give both sides, and the Chicago Tribune in an able editorial says the following: Young people who have any self-respect can meet as properly in a skating rink as elsewhere, and those who have not need not single out the skating rink for their improprieties. They will find opportunities everywhere. The numerous young women who have been running off with coachmen, blacksmiths, barkeepers and negro minstrels, did not find them in skating rinks. Roller skating at best is a craze, and is no worse than other crazes, such as tobogganing, bobbing, progressive euchre, 4 o'clock teas, metaphysical seances, and other mild forms of insanity, at which all that is charged against roller skating may be committed. Has it never occurred to these moralists, who, we fear, have passed the heyday of youth, that the toboggan offers facilities for flirtation, and that in the wild and reckless struggle for the booby prize in progressive euchre many a young man may be sowing the seeds of progressive poker? If the young person cannot be trusted in the roller skating rinks, can he or she be trusted anywhere else?

In discussing roller skating, a Milwaukee paper says: "The occasional bad effects of roller skating are due to the abuse of this healthful means of recreation. There is everything in it to tempt one to exceed the limits of healthful exertion. There is a charm in the sense of physical movement, in the graceful harmony, in the music, in the mental rest. These things make it a most healthful exercise, but at the same time they tempt to excess. Women need a measure of physical exercise even more than men. The toning up of the muscular system is a remedy for many of the troubles peculiar to women. But excess is a positive injury."

The latest thing in the rink line is the "roller skating flirtation." As it involves a series of extraordinary gymnastic gyrations, including spread-eagles, glides, pirouettes, and several other complicated movements hitherto unknown in the skatorial arena, it is deemed best to leave the code unpublished in the interest of life and limb.—[Philadelphia Call.

Tally one for the roller skating rink! For two years Ira Rogers and wife, of Onstead, have been living apart and divorce proceedings were pending. Recently they met at the Springville rink; both enjoyed the sport; they glanced at each other; the old love burst forth anew; reconciliation followed, and peace once more dwells in their hearts.

New York Aldermen think they see a boodle in the regulation of roller rinks. The Sunday concert halls and open saloons are not unworthy to be classed with the arena of clattering wheels, yet nobody dreams of regulating them.

The roller skating craze increases, and nearly every public hall in the city is devoted to the exercise. Independence Hall, however, still remains open for bids.—[Philadelphia Call.

The roller rink craze in Maine has reached fearful proportions; even the Penobscot Indians have caught the disease.

It is estimated that in New York city every evening there are 15,000 persons on roller skates at the same time.

A doctor who has a grudge against roller skating says that the dust of the rinks is ruinous to the complexion.

The Minneapolis Tribune Company has just been reorganized with a capital of $500,00. Their newspaper property alone is valued at $200,000, and their new building is paying ten per cent. on $215,000, which was the actual cost of property when completed. There is not a better equipped newspaper in the west than the Tribune.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MOECKEL.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,

[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 80-100 dollars, ($487.80-100,) which is claimed to be due to the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 330, 331 and 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.65-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.51-100 taxes for the year 1883 and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,

Mortgagee.

H. STEENERSON,

Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 65-100 dollars, ($705.65-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 3d day of February A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1883, at 7:20 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 136, 137, 138 and 139, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.37-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1883, and $17.65-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,

Mortgagee.

H. STEENERSON,

Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES.,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

☞ Good Turnouts at all times a reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

First National Bank

OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL,	$100,000
SURPLUS,	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.

K. D. CHASE, Vice President,

CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bed Steads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

DENTISTRY!

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,

ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.

Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a speciality. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

AIME GABOURY,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.

Office over Barber's store, Second St.

CROOKSTON MINN

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros.' Hardware Store,

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law,

MAIN STREET,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 408, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February A. D. 1884 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 12th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 22th, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.

45-50] Pro Se.

By request of the mortgagee the above sale is adjourned until Thursday, April 16th, at 10 o'clock a. m.

W. F. ZWICKEY,

Sheriff of Polk County, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 18th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Pierre Dulude, as mortgagor, did on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of July 6th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, and the south half of the northeast quarter, of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west, of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and twenty-five dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, at 9:45 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "E" of mortgages, on pages 87, 88, 89 and 90; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty-eight and 30-100 dollars, due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of July, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of three hundred and seventy-seven and 40-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1884, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 18th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,

Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,

Fergus Falls, Minn. [42-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 82-100 dollars, ($277.82-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:35 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 516, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,

Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,

Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 23d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7312, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillis, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.

[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 1st, 1885, viz: THOMAS R. BENNISON, H'd No. 2,757, for the sw¼ S. 22, T. 149, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Miller, James K. Gray, Seth Fetzer and Wm. Ritchie, all of Crookston, Minn.

[43-48] JOHN CROMB, Register.

Fortier's Place,

Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT

AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.

PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DROUGHT.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS Israel Dion, as mortgagor, did on the 25th day of January, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of January 25th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section eighteen (18,) in Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west of the 5th principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with five interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 26th day of January A. D. 1881, at 3 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 92, 93 94 and 95; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of forty-six dollars, due as interest upon said mortgage and the said interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of thirty-two and 25-100 dollars, for which sum so paid the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lien on said mortgaged premises for the amount so paid with interest, from the date of such payment; and whereas it was stipulated and agreed by and between the parties to said mortgage that if default should be made in any of the conditions or covenants therein contained, on the part of said mortgagor to be kept and performed, that then and from thenceforth it shall be lawful for said mortgagees, their heirs or assigns, to consider the whole sum thereby secured as immediately due and payable; and whereas the legal representatives of John L. Hammond, deceased, one of said mortgagees, and Charles E. Bush, the surviving mortgagee, have exercised their option to consider and declare, and do hereby declare the whole sum of money secured by said mortgage to be due and payable; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid the sum of three hundred and fifteen and 55-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1884, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 17th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,

Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,

Fergus Falls, Minn. [42-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 17th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Arthur Cole, as mortgagor, did on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of March 1st, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The southeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, at 4:20 o'clock, p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 126, 127 and 128; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred and fifty-six and 85-100 dollars due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of March, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did, on the fifth day of September, 1883 pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of eighteen and 20-100 dollars, for which sum so paid, the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lein on said premises for the amount so paid, with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid, the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine and 15-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1884, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.

CHARLES E. BUSH,

Surviving Mortgagee.

C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,

Fergus Falls, Minn. [41-49]

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.

Special term, held Feb. 25th, 1885.

In the matter of the estate of Peter Anderson deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of E. E. Lommen the administrator of said estate setting forth the amount of personal estate that has come to his hands, and the disposition thereof; the amount of debts outstanding against said deceased, and a description of all the real estate of which said deceased died seized, and the condition and value of the respective portions thereof; and praying that license be to him granted to sell the whole of said real estate or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay the debts of said deceased. And it appearing, by said petition, that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said administrator to pay said debts, and that it is necessary in order to pay the same, to sell a part of the whole of said real estate; and that it will be for the best interests of said estate that said real estate be sold at private sale.

It is therefore ordered, That all persons interested in said estate, appear before the Judge of this Court, on Saturday the eleventh day of April A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the office of the Probate Judge, in the City of Crookston, in said County, then and there to show cause, if any there be, why license should not be granted to said administrator to sell said real estate according to the prayer of said petition.

And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order shall be published for four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, the last of which publication shall be at least fourteen days before said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said County, and personally served on all persons interested in said estate, residing in said County, at least fourteen days before said day of hearing, and upon all other persons interested according to law.

Dated at Crookston this 25th day of February A. D. 1885.

By the Court.

ROBERT J. MONTAGUE,

[46-49] Judge of Probate.

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH. BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

TO THE

CITY OF CROOKSTON

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS,

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in

BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

Dupuis & LaFramboise,

DEEP WELL

CONTRACTORS.

Now ready to contract to Put down wells, by the foot, day or job. If you want a good

Flowing Well

call on or Address the undersigned at Crookston

DUPUIS & LaFRAMBOISE.

STEWART & LAURENCE,

SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants,

CARRY A FULL LINE OF

Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,

STOVES,

REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BUILDING PAPER,

Etc., Etc.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor.

DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII.

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, APRIL 2, 1885.

TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

NO. 49

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 00	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	3 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Wheat Farm Mortgages in the Northwest.

One of the Hardships of "Frontier" Life as Described in "Bradstreet's" of January 17th, 1883.

To the Editor of Bradstreet's.

SIR—Frank Wilkeson, in your issue of December 13, handles Kansas wheat farm mortgages very roughly. He also goes out of his way to attack farming and farm mortgages in the Northwest. I know but little about Kansas, but I have lived thiry years in the Northwest, and what he says of this section is certainly not warranted by my experience.

He makes the astonishing assertions that the Dakota part of the Northwest, in particular, is so cursed with an Arctic-like climate and lack of timber and fuel that farmers there cannot be highly prosperous; that they obtained their land from the government for nothing after two or five years' residence and cultivation as homesteads, and then were compelled to mortgage them to pay living expenses and government fees in order to secure patents, and that it is only a question of a little time when they will become impoverished under the burden of those mortgages.

That Mr. Wilkeson should have forgotten ordinary prudence and discretion when he made these statements is strange. He must have known that Minnesota also extends north to the British line, and is therefore, within the same lines of latitude and must of necessity be subject to like climatic conditions. Western Minnesota, and especially the southwestern part, lacks timber and fuel as much as Dakota, with the advantage of supply on the part of Dakota, for the whole western and northwestern part of that territory is underlaid with coal of good quality for fuel, that can be easily mined and cheaply transportated.

As regards timber, north and northwestern Dakota, where timber is most lacking, is nearer the pine regions than the bulk of the farm lands of Minnesota. The soil and products of the two are essentially the same.

Minnesota stands alongside this newer northwest to-day, not only all-powerful as a teacher of this later flood of emigration, but with the record of nearly forty years of successful trial that puts to shame all such statements as these that Mr. Wilkeson has so recklessly made.

As to getting lands for nothing by homestead residence, very few of the farmers of the newer northwest have occupied their lands two or five years before proof and payment. On the contrary, most of them make six months, residence only, and then pay full prices under the pre-emption and commuted homestead laws of the United States. Counting the usual fees, commissions and expenses, it costs from $250 to $450 for each one hundred and sixty acres, according to the class of lands selected. My statements in these respects the records of the United States land offices very clearly confirm. Even where the farmer does obtain title by homestead residence and cultivation, it is still another exception that such a man mortgages his property. I have been very familiar with farm mortgages for ten years, and such is the result of my observation.

Now let us see about this matter of farming and mortgage improvement.

The following is a St. Paul price list of the best grade of wheat from the 31st of December, 1858, to the 31st of December, 1884, inclusive. As I personally compiled this table I know it is correct.

Date.	Per bushel.
1858	$0.80
1859	.60
1860	.50
1861	.50
1862	.68
1863	.90
1864	1.15
1865	.90
1866	1.60
1867	1.40
1868	.90
1869	.75
1870	.85
1871	1.10
1872	.85
1873	.95
1874	.82
1875	.95
1876	1.15
1877	1.00
1878	.78
1879	1.18
1880	.88
1881	1.28
1882	.93
1883	1.00
1884	.76

These are Minnesota wheat prices for twenty-seven years of the past. Now for the present. It should not cost over 40c. a bushel to raise wheat. Mr. Wilkeson concedes that. The best grade of wheat sold in St. Paul, December 31, 1884, for 76c. a bushel. The average price, since the crop of 1884 was harvested, is about 75c. But all farmers do not have the best grade of wheat. My object is to be fair, so I will allow 10c. a bushel for difference in extremes between market grades, which is liberal; 10c. difference in extremes gives 5c. average reduction in price, which brings it down to 71c. Here is a profit of 31c. a bushel over cost of production. Let us see how much the farmer got.

In Fargo, Dakota, at the above date the best grade sold at 57c.; and the average since harvest to that date was 53c. At Jamestown, on the James River, in north central Dakota, the price on December 31 was 54c. a bushel. Average in north Dakota, 55½c. for the best wheat and 50½c. for the average grade where the farmer unloads his teams in the extreme northwest.

We will now assume that these newer wheat fields averaged no more per acre than Minnesota in 1884. As Minnesota has been in wheat so long that many think the soil has become impoverished, no one will object to such a comparison. This gives about sixteen bushels to the acre as the average yield of Dakota in 1884; 10½c. a bushel average profit on average wheat gives $1.68 an acre net income in this year of extreme low prices. The farmer gets pay for his time and tems and the wages of his help out of the 40c. cost of production. Many a laborer in our large cities, who has nothing but his hands and team, is working to pay off a larger mortgage on his house and lot than the average farmer has on his farm, and people think nothing of it.

We compute by averages, because it is the only correct way to make such comparisons. A year of low prices is usually succeeded by one of high prices. It is as unfair to take the low year alone for comparison as it is the high one. So there are many overmortgaged farmers, remotely situated and subjected to extortionate elevator and railway charges, who are now in distress. These also are exceptions, and no one in his sober senses will attempt to prove rules by exceptions, Mr. Wilkeson to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The above table shows these facts:

1. That five times during the past twenty-seven years the price of wheat was lower than present quotations; that December 31, 1878, it was only 8c. a bushel higher; that in three of the years above mentioned it ranged from 40c. to 60c. a bushel, and that the fourth year it rose only to 68c. a bushel. No railroads within a hundred miles, and wheat clear below the cost of production in all interior towns four years in succession. Times were pretty snug here during those four years. Interest more than twice as high as it is now, wheat way down and prices for everything the farmer needed way up where they had to be reached with a pole, and very few had the pole. Old settlers will remember there were lugubrious Wilkesons in those days also, who wrote and talked about the northwest going to the dogs. But it didn't go. And now to think of such a thing in these days, when every dollar is worth 100 cents and nearly every farmer within easy reach of competing lines of railroad.

Please note another thing, for the table above is very instructive:

2. That the average price of wheat for the six years ending December 31, 1884, the period during which this new emigration was coming into the northwest most rapidly, was but a fraction under $1 a bushel, and the average price during the past nineteen years was a fraction over $1 a bushel. The reports of the Commissioners of Statistics of this State show, further, that the average product of wheat for nineteen years last past has been within a fraction of fifteen bushels per acre, which is under the average product of the wheat crop of the northwest for 1884. As I have included in the above estimate the three years of failure and partial failure of the crop in some of our best wheat counties by the ravages of grasshoppers, I shall not be accused of dodging figures when they happen to be unfavorable.

The above table shows another interesting fact.

3. That nearly every alternate year since wheat has been systematically graded, prices have been low and every other year they have been higher again, and that for twenty-two years the northwest has not seen extreme low prices for wheat two years in succession. With such a record behind it seems as if there ought to be some little comfort in the prospect ahead.

Another weighty fact in connection with this table is also worthy of consideration. The average price of wheat for the past twenty-seven years is 88c. Now I am prepared to prove—

4. That the farmer could take the 76c. that he got for his bushel of wheat on December 31, 1884, and buy more of what he uses (money for mortgages included) than he could have bought for the 93c. during the average of all those twenty-seven years. If anyone says I am unfair in applying averages in such a manner I am ready to prove that the farmer could have bought more with the 76c. on December 31, 1884, than he could have purchased with the highest market price per bushel on December 31 during each consecutive year from 1868 to 1875, inclusive, the year 1871 alone excepted.

The article of Mr. Wilkeson is very unfair in another regard also. He says wheat was selling in the wheat belt of Kansas, December 1, 1884, at an average of 27c. a bushel, and leaves it to be inferred that it sold at that rate on the same date in the northwest. A table carefully compiled by the Pioneer Press of this city, January 7, 1885, gives the price of wheat at prominent as well as interior stations in Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas. The price in St. Paul, December 1, 1884, was 76c., the lowest point reached since the harvest of 1884. On January 7 wheat stood in St. Paul at 80c. This rise of 10c. a bushel should, therefore be deducted from the rates below to make them stand the same as at the date of Mr. Wilkeson's article. It will be seen that when wheat was selling in Saline, Kan., at 27c., the rate he claims for the Kansas wheat belt, the price stood at 48c. at Devil's Lake, the most interior and distant point in Dakota. Here is a difference of 21c. a bushel in favor of the hard wheat of the northwest over the soft wheat of the southwest. Since it is just as easy to be fair as unfair, why couldn't Mr. Wilkeson have said this? The table as follows:

	Per bushel.
DAKOTA.
Fargo	60c.
Ojata	59
Devil's Lake	48
Grand Forks	60
Ardock	59
Mapes	58
MINNESOTA.
St. Paul	80
Sauk Center	62
Barnesville	60
Darwin	66
Crookston	60
Pelican Rapids	60
IOWA.
Independence	55
Dubuque	65
Keokuk	60
Council Bluffs	45
Sioux City	55
NEBRASKA.
Alma	40
David City	48
Fremont	45
Plum Creek	42
Albion	40
Falls City	85
Bloomington	30
Tecumseh	40
Alaxandria	42
Lincoln	47
KANSAS.
Abilene	36
Wichita	45
Leavenworth	45
Saline	37
Emperia	44

But raising wheat is not all that the northwest is good for. Millions of bushels of corn, oats, potatoes and flax seed are also raised here. But there is still another industry rapidly coming to the front, which promises to dwarf even wheat raising in comparison. This is the dairy interest. One hundred and sixty-one varieties of grasses suitable for forage grown here, and a sample of each are now on exhibition at the World's Exposition in New Orleans. Twenty-eight million pounds of butter were made in the creameries of this State alone during the year ending November 1, 1884—an increase of nearly 800,000 pounds over 1883. In creamery neighborhoods there has been no stringency of money the past year. The fact was also brought out in the late Dairymen's Convention at Austin, of this State, that on the oldest farms in Olmsted County (one of the oldest counties of this State), where dairying has been introduced, more wheat is now raised per acre than ever.

There are millions of acres in the lately settled parts of the northwest as well adapted to creamery and dairy products and stock-raising as those above noted. That this business will be largely extended and alternated with wheat culture, and continue to be one of the main resources of the northwest, is one of the surest promises of the future.

That some of the newer parts of the northwest are now suffering from the effects of low prices no one attempts to deny. There is much extravagance and lack of adaptation in the early years of every new territory. This is especially true in this case. That half a million people, new to the country and to each other, and many of them new to the climate, could be poured on the northwestern frontier inside of the last six years, and have everyone happily and comfortably suited, is about as nearly impossible as to expect the millennium next week. The fact is, very few of these people have gone there for their health, therefore it must be expected that this pinch of low prices will cause complaint, and a good deal of it. But the experience is healthy; already it has killed booming and speculation, so that their friends can hope of immediate resurrection at least.

The trouble up here, however, is merely local, and really confined to narrow limits. Taking the northwest as a whole, there is not a section of country in America, east or west, north or south, that now has better prospects, or shows more activity or signs of substantial growth and progress. St. Paul, the financial gateway where the northwest pays tribute, reports at the close of 1884 the astonishing fact that her bank capital and surplus aggregate nearly $8,000,000—an increase of nearly $1,000,000 since 1883. In bank exchange there is a total of $108,972,365—an increase of $5,279,286 since 1883.

That the northwest could go through the wild-cat times that followed 1857, when wheat sold below the cost of production four years in succession; then quell the savage Indian outbreak of 1862 and drive the whole Sioux nation beyond the Missouri; then re-people a frontier almost wholly depopulated by the terrible massacre of that year, and at the same time fully supply its quota of soldiers in the great civil war, and pay heavier interest and larger mortgages than the Dakota farmer now pays; then stand the financial depression of 1874 and breast the ebbing tide which came of that, and then meet the grasshopper scourge of 1876-77 and '78, and come out of all with such favorable results as we see around us to-day, is the surest kind of guarantee that everything is not going to the dogs up here because wheat in remote settlements happened to average but a few cents over cost of production from September 1 to Dec. 31, 1884.

I now submit some facts which drive and clinch the nail directly through the falsehood that mortgages are impoverishing the northwestern farmers.

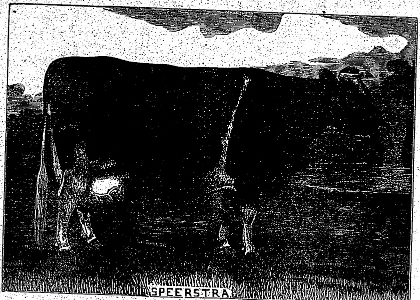
I have devoted my entire time during the past ten years to placing farm mortgages in the northwest. At present we have nearly five thousand of these mortgages on our books. The average of all the loans we have made in Minnesota and Iowa is less than $3 an acre. Of those we have placed in Dakota the average is but a little over $2 an acre. Our loans in Dakota are mostly on double minimum land, which costs at the start from the government nearly $3 an acre. Whether in Minnesota, Iowa or Dakota our loans are confined almost wholly to improved farms near to railroads. We loan in Dakota as we do in other widely separated fields of the northwest, to equalize the risk—the same principle upon which a successful fire or life insurance company is conducted. Now mark our experience in the business. We carried our loans through the depression following 1874, and the loss of crops in the northwest occasioned by grasshoppers in 1876-77 and '78, and up to this time have never lost one dollar. But this is not all. Our interest, as a whole, has not been paid so promptly in ten years as it is being paid this winter.

For about ten years after I came to this county it was the general opinion of the south and east that Minnesota "was too cold for corn." But multiplied millions of bushels of Minnesota corn are now annually heaped on the grave of that mistake. Then, after over twenty years of wasteful, slip-shod habits of wheat farming, to which the northwest had been addicted, it came to be said that the soil up here was becoming too much exhausted for wheat production. Minnesota, finding her reputation at stake, replies in 1884 with more millions of bushels and as large an average per acre as in any single year since the State was settled.

We next hear that India and the Soudan and all the rest of the world are on the way with their soft wheat to extinguish our "No. 1 hard." But, as in the past, this year with its low prices will also go, and be followed by a lessened acreage of wheat culture on lands which can grow only the softer, cheaper varieties, and the low priced lands of the northwest, where the high priced No. 1 hard wheat is at home, will again come to the front, and the wheat belt will move on till it passes into and beyond the valley of the Saskatchewan and reaches at last the line where frosty summers put their ban on its further progress. But the great-grandchildren of this generation will all be dead before wheat-raising ceases to be profitable, even in the farthest rear of this great procession. The old battle of the "survival of the fittest" may and doubtless will have to be fought over again on these northwestern prairies, but we have a corner on the best wheat of the world up here, and when it comes to the "survival" we are not all alarmed about who will be the "fittest."

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.

D. S. B. JOHNSTON.



SPEERSTRA

The above cut represent "SPEERSTRA," who has a milk record of 87 pounds per day, showing to what extent the

HOLSTEINS

may be developed. As a general purpose cow, the Holsteins are world beaters. For quantity and quality of milk and weight of carcass, they are unexcelled.

The Journal is happy to announce that the farmers of Polk County have now an opportunity to

SECURE GRADE CALVES

from one of the Finest Sires of the Holstein Race,

EVERETT!

Registered in the next volume of the Holstein Herd Book.

Everitt is a descendent of the famous Aaggie family on the side of his dam and fron old Mooie, one of the heaviest animals of his kind, who, as a three-year old, weighed a trifle over 3,000 pounds.

Everitt is two past this spring and bids fair to rival his illustrious ancestor in weight.

I have a pasture containing 80 acres, large enough to accommodate all who, living at distance, may wish to leave their cows for a few days. Cows will be kept free of charge at owner's risk a reasonable length of time, not to exceed two weeks.

Farmers, and all interested in good stock, are invited to call on the undersigned, on Sec. 8, Tp. 150, R. 49, (town of Crookston, two miles northeast of the city.)

Terms made known on application.

J. O. MILNE.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Jure & Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

☞ Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

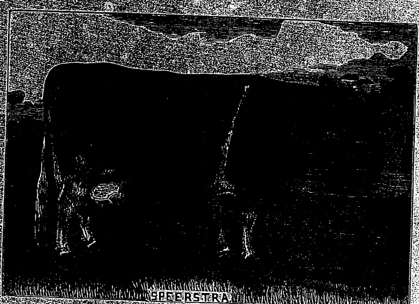
LOW PRICES

☞ FOR CASH. ☜

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. | DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII. | CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, APRIL 2, 1885. | TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum. | NO. 49



SPEERSTRA

The above cut represent "SPEERSTRA," who has a milk record of 87 pounds per day, showing to what extent the

HOLSTEINS

may be developed. As a general purpose cow, the Holsteins are world beaters. For quantity and quality of milk and weight of carcass, they are unexcelled.

The Journal is happy to announce that the farmers of Polk County have now an opportunity to

SECURE GRADE CALVES

from one of the Finest Sires of the Holstein Race,

EVERETT!

Registered in the next volume of the Holstein Herd Book.

Everitt is a descendent of the famous Aaggie family on the side of his dam and fron old Mooie, one of the heaviest animals of his kind, who, as a three-year old, weighed a trifle over 3,000 pounds.

Everitt is two past this spring and bids fair to rival his illustrious ancestor in weight.

I have a pasture containing 80 acres, large enough to accommodate all who, living at distance, may wish to leave their cows for a few days. Cows will ke kept free of charge at owner's risk a reasonable length of time, not to exceed two weeks.

Farmers, and all interested in good stock, are invited to call on the undersigned, on Sec. 8, Tp. 150, R. 49, (town of Crookston, two miles northeast of the city.)

Terms made known on application.

J. O. MILNE.

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 year.
½ inch	.50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 50	4 50	$6 00
1 inch	.75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 00	2 25	2 50	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	16 00	25 00
[illegible] inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Wheat Farm Mortgages in the Northwest.

One of the Hardships of "Frontier Life as Described in "Bradstreet's" of January 17th, 1885.

To the Editor of Bradstreet's:

SIR—Frank Wilkeson, in your issue of December 13, handles Kansas wheat farm mortgages very roughly. He also goes out of his way to attack farming and farm mortgages in the Northwest. I know but little about Kansas, but I have lived thirty years in the Northwest and what he says of this section is certainly not warranted by my experience.

He makes the astonishing assertions that the Dakota part of the Northwest, in particular, is so cursed with an Arctic-like climate and lack of timber and fuel that farmers there cannot be highly prosperous, that they obtained their land from the government for nothing after two or five years residence and cultivation as homesteads, and then were compelled to mortgage them to pay living expenses and government fees in order to secure patents, and that it is only a question of a little time when they will become impoverished under the burden of those mortgages.

That Mr. Wilkeson should have forgotten ordinary prudence and discretion when he made these statements is strange. He must have known that Minnesota also extends north to the British line, and is therefore, within the same lines of latitude and must of necessity be subject to like climatic conditions. Western Minnesota, and especially the southwestern part, lacks timber and fuel as much as Dakota, with the advantage of supply on the part of Dakota, for the whole western and northwestern part of that territory is underlaid with coal of good quality for fuel, that can be easily mined and cheaply transported.

As regards timber, north and northwestern Dakota, where timber is most lacking, is nearer the pine regions than the bulk of the farm lands of Minnesota. The soil and products of the two are essentially the same.

Minnesota stands alongside this newer northwest to-day, not only all powerful as a teacher of this later flood of emigration, but with the record of nearly forty years of successful trial that puts to shame all such statements as these that Mr. Wilkeson has so recklessly made.

As to getting lands for nothing by homestead residence, very few of the farmers of the newer northwest have occupied their lands two or five years before proof and payment. On the contrary, most of them make six months residence only, and then pay full prices under the pre-emption and commuted homestead laws of the United States. Counting the usual fees, commissions and expenses, it costs from $250 to $450 for each one hundred and sixty acres, according to the class of lands selected. My statements in these respects the records of the United States land offices very clearly confirm. Even where the farmer does obtain title by homestead residence and cultivation it is still another exception that such a man mortgages his property. I have been very familiar with farm mortgages for ten years, and such is the result of my observation.

Now let us see about this matter of farming and mortgage improvement. The following is a St. Paul price list of the best grade of wheat, from the 31st of December, 1858, to the 31st of December, 1884, inclusive. As I personally compiled this table I know it is correct:

Dec. [illegible]	Per bushel.
[illegible]	[illegible]
1874	.82
1875	.95
1876	1.16
1877	1.00
1878	.78
1879	1.18
1880	.88
1881	1.28
1882	.93
1883	1.00
1884	.76

These are Minnesota wheat prices for twenty-seven years of the past. Now for the present. It should not cost over 40c. a bushel to raise wheat. Mr. Wilkeson concedes that. The best grade of wheat sold in St. Paul December 31, 1884, for 76c. a bushel. The average price, since the crop of 1884 was harvested, is about 75c. But all farmers do not have the best grade of wheat. My object is to be fair, so I will allow 10c. a bushel for difference in extremes between market grades, which is liberal; 10c. difference in extremes gives 5c. average reduction in price, which brings it down to 71c. Here is a profit of 31c. a bushel over cost of production. Let us see how much the farmer gets.

In Fargo, Dakota, at the above date the best grade sold at 70c., and the average since harvest to that date was 63c. At Jamestown, on the James River, in north central Dakota, the price on December 31 was 54c. a bushel. Average in north Dakota, 55½c. for the best wheat, and 50½c. for the average grade, where the farmer unloads his teams in the extreme northwest.

We will now assume that these newer wheat fields averaged no more per acre than Minnesota in 1884. As Minnesota has been in wheat so long that many think the soil has become impoverished no one will object to such a comparison. This gives about sixteen bushels to the acre as the average yield of Dakota in 1884; 10½c. a bushel average profit on average wheat gives $1.68 an acre net income in this year of extreme low prices. The farmer gets pay for his time and tems and the wages of his help out of the 40c. cost of production. Many a laborer in our large cities, who has nothing but his hands and team, is working to pay off a larger mortgage on his house and lot than the average farmer has on his farm, and people think nothing of it.

We compute by averages, because it is the only correct way to make such comparisons. A year of low prices is usually succeeded by one of high prices. It is as unfair to take the low year alone for comparison as it is the high one. So there are many overmortgaged farmers, remotely situated, and subjected to extortionate elevator and railway charges, who are now in distress. These also are exceptions, and no one in his sober senses will attempt to prove rules by exceptions, Mr. Wilkeson to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The above table shows these facts:

1. That five times during the past twenty-seven years the price of wheat was lower than present quotations; that December 31, 1878, it was only 5c. a bushel higher; that in three of the years above mentioned it ranged from 40c. to 60c. a bushel, and that the fourth year it rose only to 68c. a bushel. No railroads within a hundred miles, and wheat clear below the cost of production in all interior towns four years in succession. Times were pretty snug here during those four years. Interest more than twice as high as it is now, wheat way down and prices for everything the farmer needed way up where they had to be reached with a pole, and very few had the pole. Old settlers will remember there were lugubrious Wilkesons in those days also who wrote and talked about the northwest going to the dogs, but it didn't go. And now to think of such a thing in these days, when every dollar is worth 100 cents and nearly every farmer within easy reach of competing lines of railroad.

Please note another thing, for the table above is very instructive:

2. That the average price of wheat for the six years ending December 31, 1884, the period during which this new emigration was coming into the northwest most rapidly, was but a fraction under $1 a bushel, and the average price during the past nineteen years was a fraction over $1 a bushel. The reports of the Commissioners of Statistics of this State show further, that the average product of wheat for nineteen years last past has been within a fraction of fifteen bushels per acre, which is under the average product of the wheat crop of the north[illegible] for 1884. And I have included in the above estimate the three years of failure and partial failure of the crop in south[illegible] wheat counties by the ravages of grasshoppers. [illegible]

[illegible]

of what he uses (money or mortgages included) than he could have bought for the [illegible] during the average of all the twenty-seven years. If anyone says I am unfair in applying averages in this manner, [illegible] farmer could have bought more [illegible] on December 31, 1884 [illegible] could have purchased with the [illegible] market price per bushel on December 31 during each consecutive year from 1858 to 1876 inclusive [illegible] for the Kansas wheat belt, the price stood at 48c.; at Devil's Lake, the most interior and distant point in Dakota. Here is a difference of 21c. a bushel in favor of the hard wheat of the northwest over the soft wheat of the southwest. Since it is just as easy to be fair as unfair, why couldn't Mr. Wilkeson have said this? The table is as follows:

[illegible]

DAKOTA.

	Per bushel.
Fargo	60c
[illegible]	[illegible]
Devil's Lake	[illegible]
Grand Forks	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul	[illegible]
Sauk Centre	[illegible]
Barnesville	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]
Crookston	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]

[illegible]

Fremont	45
Plum Creek	42
Albion	40
Falls City	35
Bloomington	30
Tecumseh	40
Alexandria	42
Lincoln	47

KANSAS.

Abilene	[illegible]
Wichita	45
Leavenworth	45
Salina	37
[illegible]	[illegible]

But raising wheat is not all that the northwest is good for. Millions of bushels of corn, oats, potatoes, and [illegible] are also raised here. [illegible] out in the late Dairymen's Convention at Austin, of this State, that on the oldest farms in Olmsted County (one of the oldest counties of this State) where dairying has been introduced, more wheat is now raised per acre than ever [illegible].

[illegible]

There are millions of acres in the lately settled parts of the northwest as well adapted to creamery and dairy products and stock raising as those above noted. That this business will be largely extended and alternated with wheat culture, and continue to be one of the main resources of the northwest, is one of the surest promises of the future.

That some of the newer parts of the northwest are now suffering from the effects of low prices no one attempts to deny. There was much extravagance and [illegible] speculation in the early years of every new territory. This is especially true in this case. That half a million people moved to the country [illegible] prices will cause complaint, and a good deal of it. But the experience is healthy, already it has killed booming and speculation, so that their friends can hope of immediate resurrection at least.

[illegible]

The trouble up here, however, is merely local, and really confined to narrow limits. Taking the northwest as a whole, there is not a section of country in America, east or west, north or south, that now has better prospects, or shows more activity or signs of substantial growth and progress. St. Paul, the financial gateway where the northwest pays tribute, reports at the close of 1884 the astonishing fact that her bank capital and surplus aggregate nearly $8,000,000—an increase of nearly $1,000,000 since 1883. In bank exchange there is a total of $108,972,365—an increase of $5,279,286 since 1883.

That the northwest could go through the wild-cat times that followed 1857, when wheat sold below the cost of production four years in succession, then quell the savage Indian outbreak of 1862 and drive the whole Sioux nation beyond the Missouri; then re-people a frontier almost wholly depopulated by the terrible massacre of that year, and at the same time fully supply its quota of soldiers in the great civil war, and pay heavier interest and larger mortgages than the Dakota farmer now pays; then stand the financial depression of 1874 and breast the ebbing tide which came of that, and then meet the grasshopper scourge of 1876-77 and '78, and come out of all with such favorable results as we see around us to-day, is the surest kind of guarantee that everything is not going to the dogs up here because wheat in remote settlements happened to average but a few cents over cost of production from September 1 to Dec. 31, 1884.

I now submit some facts which drive and clinch the nail directly through the falsehood that mortgages are impoverishing the northwestern farmers. I have devoted my entire time during the past ten years to placing farm mortgages in the northwest. At present we have nearly five thousand of these mortgages on our books. The average of all the loans we have made in Minnesota and Iowa is less than $3 an acre. Of those we have placed in Dakota the average is but a little over $2 an acre. Our loans in Dakota are mostly on double minimum land, which costs at the start from the government nearly $3 an acre. Whether in Minnesota, Iowa or Dakota our loans are confined almost wholly to improved farms near to railroads. We loan in Dakota as we do in other widely separated fields of the northwest, to equalize the risk—the same principle upon which a successful fire or life insurance company is conducted. Now mark our experience in the business. We carried our loans through the depression following 1874, and the loss of crops in the northwest occasioned by grasshoppers in 1876-77 and '78, and up to this time have never lost one dollar. But this is not all. Our interest, as a whole, has not been paid so promptly in ten years as it is being paid this winter.

For about ten years after I came to this county it was the general opinion of the south and east that Minnesota "was too cold for corn." But multiplied millions of bushels of Minnesota corn are now annually heaped on the grave of that mistake. Then after over twenty years of wasteful, slip-shod habits of wheat farming to which the northwest had been addicted, it came to be said that the soil up here was becoming too much exhausted for wheat production. Minnesota, finding her reputation at stake, replies in 1884 with more millions of bushels and as large an average per acre as in any single year since the State was settled.

We next hear that India and the Soudan and all the rest of the world are on the way with their soft wheat to extinguish our "No. 1 hard." But, as in the past, this year with its low prices will also go, and be followed by a lessened acreage of wheat culture on lands which can grow only the softer, cheaper varieties, and the low priced lands of the northwest, where the high priced No. 1 hard wheat is at home, will again come to the front, and the wheat belt will move on till it passes into and beyond the valley of the Saskatchewan and reaches at last the line where frosty summers put their ban on its further progress. But the great-grandchildren of this generation will all be dead before wheat-raising ceases to be profitable, even in the farthest rear of this great procession. The old battle of the "survival of the fittest" may and doubtless will have to be fought over again on these northwestern prairies, but we have a corner on the best wheat of the world up here, and when it comes to the "survival" we are not all alarmed about who will be the "fittest."

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.

D. S. B. JOHNSTON.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTO[illegible]

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAP[illegible]

In fact everything usually found in [illegible]

[illegible]

LOW PRICES

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 2d, 1885

'ROUND HOME.

Big bargains in crash and table linens at the New York store.

Dupuis & Laframboise will sink a well on the Himmelsback place.

If you want cottons, bleached, half-bleached, pilow-case goods, or anything in that line, call and examine the fine stock at the New York store.

A farmers' mass meeting is called to meet to-day at the court house.

Ladies' jerseys, just received, at the New York store.

A car-load of Phil Best Milwaukee bottled beer just received at Max Ericsson's.

The New York store shows an endless variety of dress goods in every style and price. Elegant patterns for prices to suit the times.

The first day of April was no April fool. It was a genuine snow storm with no fooling.

At the New York store they are showing a large line of carpet samples from a large eastern firm. Call and see them in Ingrains, Tapestry and Brussels.

Jas. Grey, who has been working in a Carman elevator goes to Beltrami to take charge of the Northwestern elevator.

For embroideries in every style and in endless varieties and prices, go to the New York store.

Terry Sheley, of Red Lake Falls greeted us one day last week and ordered the JOURNAL sent him. They all do it.

W. M. Clements has just received a large stock of wall paper, which he proposes to sell at reduced prices. Call and see him at the Chas. A. Davis old stand, corner of Main and Second streets. [48-50]

No. 1 Hard wheat has been selling in this market this week for 66 cents. Quite a large amount has been marketed.

Ira DeCamp has cut down his office counter several inches and had it upholstered in fine shape making a very neat and pretty counter.

Mr. L. Grey lost a valuable mare soon after his arrival from his Canadian trip. He censures McLean's management and care of his stock during his absence.

Mr. Thomas Belair was taken sick very suddenly on Friday last and died on Saturday. The funeral was attended on Tuesday by a large concourse of friends and relatives.

The Fay Templeton Opera Troupe that is to appear in this city two nights next week are said to be one of the best troupe's that travel. The press speaks well of them everywhere.

We are told that E. H. Draper hauled 9,000 lbs. of bridge timber to Red Lake Falls one day last week with two horses. We confess that we should like to have seen the load weighed anyhow.

Our local reporter has been "under the weather" this week, suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. He will be on deck next week we hope, and doubtless will if this spell 'o weather lets up.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Norton have been called to mourn the loss of their little daughter who died on Sunday after a brief illness. They have the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in their sad bereavement.

The lot and building lately occupied by Frank Goodin for restaurant is for sale or rent. Enquire of [49-50] FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Mr. H. George has bought of Max Ericsson a fine residence lot down on Sletten & Cromb's Addition, has bought the Stewart & Laurence lumber office building and will move it down and fix up a cosy little residence.

Mrs. I. U. Jennings has just received a large assortment of spring and summer hats in all the new shapes and colors. Also a fine assortment of gold laces, flowers, pompons and novelties, and intends to maintain her reputation for low prices. [49-50]

A rumor prevailed on the streets on Tuesday morning that P. A. Dufour was dead. It was contradicted later and doubtless sprung from the fact that his mother and sister had been summoned by telegram to his bedside as he is considered dangerously sick. He has been taken to St. Peter for treatment. The chances seem to be against his recovery.

Convention Notes.

C. C. Utzinger received the highest number of votes for Assessor on the second formal ballot and was duly elected. He afterward appeared before the convention and declined to accept.

Chas. Jefferson publishes a card in this issue declining to accept the nomination as Alderman at Large which leaves that office vacant.

The office of Assessor did not seem to be sought after clamorously. We are told that a new deal will be attempted and it would be a matter of surprise if it was not, as we have never seen a ticket nominated in this city that suited everybody.

It cannot be said that the convention was a packed affair as almost every delegate had a different candidate in view for each office. Well, here's your ticket, and the count next Tuesday will determine how it suits.

CITY CAUCUSES.

The city caucuses were held in their respective wards on Saturday evening. In the

FIRST WARD

Ole Bang was re-nominated as his own successor in the council. Henry Steege and H. E. Cooke were elected delegates to represent the ward in the city convention. H. E. Cooke, A. J. Bigham and Wm. Anglim were appointed ward committee.

SECOND WARD.

In the Second Ward, A. J. Thompson was nominated Alderman and F. M. Schwark and Albert Holmboe, delegates. Jos. Laurence, Ole Hamery and Ben Clements were appointed ward committee.

THIRD WARD.

In the Third Ward John McLean was nominated for Alderman and O. H. Lucken and Wm. Lanctot, delegates. R. J. Montague, O. H. Lucken and N. P. Stone were appointed ward committee.

FOURTH WARD.

In the Fourth Ward R. B. Gates was nominated for Alderman, and John Cromb and Frank Jerome, delegates W. F. Zwickey, Al. Chiniquy and Frank Jerome were appointed ward committee.

THE CITY CONVENTION.

The city convention met at City Hall at 7:30 p. m. John Cromb was elected chairman and H. E. Cooke, secretary. The following ticket was placed in nomination:

For Mayor—Hon. H. Steenerson.
For Recorder—Al. Chiniquy.
For Treasurer—Henry Steege.
For Assessor—Max Ericsson.
For Justices—G. H. Palmer,
G. W. Lewis,
For Constable—Jas. Creighton.
Alderman at Large—Chas. Jefferson.

The chairman appointed as city committee, H. E. Cooke, Frank Jerome and F. M. Schwark. Adjourned.

To the Voters of Crookston.

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby respectfully withdraw as a candidate for Alderman at Large.

C. H. JEFFERSON.

We have just received another bill of Wall Paper, new and very pretty patterns. Our spring stock is now complete in every department. We buy direct from manufacturers and importers at the lowest possible prices for spot cash, and will give our customers the benefit.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

For Sale.

The N. E. ¼ Section 12, Township 149, Range 46, (town of Fairfax) situated six miles from the city of Crookston. One hundred acres cultivated, house and good barn and well on premises. Will be sold at a bargain. For terms and further particulars address Peter Cornelius, or call at the JOURNAL office.
[49-tf]

Farm to Rent!

One hundred and forty acres, all plowed, only one mile from Carman. Easy terms given. Enquire of or address,
A. M. CHILDS,
[46-tf] Carman, Minn.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,
JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

At Sealy's.

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider; old bourbon whisky, eight years old. Maryland Club, pure rye; Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne; imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.
[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing
JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

H. STEENERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 8, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to in the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First Publication April 2d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of nineteen hundred and sixteen and 68-100 dollars ($1,916.68-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 479, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 23d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April, 2d, 1885.
JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[49-8] Pril Se.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.
The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

A. Yvenault,
Dealer in
General
Merchandise,
—MAIN STREET,—
Crookston, Minn
All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

John Crawford & Son
Proprietors of Crawford's
Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn
CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

Crookston Nurseries.
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also, garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1881. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.
FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg. Quebec. Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON, MINN.

JOHN KNUPPE,
R. R. LAND OFFICE.
Money to Loan on Farm Lands.
—WILL—
Buy Town Bonds,
AND SCHOOL BONDS.

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - MAIN STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.
Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or
SADDLE HORSES
Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES,
CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.
☞ Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Horses and careful driver when needed.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquor and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DRAUGHT.

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.
H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President, St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,..........Vice President, Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO........Second Vice President, Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS.....................Cashier, Crookston, Minn.
CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82,
Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

BURPEE'S WELCOME OATS.
Of this oat the proprietor says: "The Welcome Oats grew from four to six feet high, with long straight straw not liable to be prostrated by wind or rain, and ripens from a week to two weeks ahead of other oats. The heads are very large and handsome, branching freely on all sides and from 16 to 23 inches in length. They weigh from 47 to 51½ lbs. per bushel, and often grow from 40 to 76 stalks from one oat."
From 10 oz. of seed sowed in 1883, I harvested 80 lbs. In 1884 I sowed this on 3 acres. It measured one and one-half bushels. It yielded 200 bushels. Parties desiring to procure seed can do so for $1 per bushel at Stone & Pinkerton's Warehouse, Crookston, where samples may be seen.
[48-59] C. P. CARGON.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD
DR. A NELSON, Prop.
The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of
DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.
It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn
DR. A. NELSON.

Frank M. Brown
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.
Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOICITED.
☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN
First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

DEEP WELLS!
Having one of the Best
AMERICAN PATENT
Hydraulic Drilling Machines
I AM NOW PREPARED TO
Sink Wells to any Depth
Desired to obtain
Flowing Water
Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address
IRA D. BLANCHARD,
Crookston, Minn.

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java offee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us
STANTON & CO.,
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors, and Cigars constantly on hand.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 2d, 1885.

ROUND HOME.

Big bargains in crash and table linens at the New York store.

Dupuis & Laframboise will sink a well on the Himmelsback place.

If you want cottons, bleached, half bleached, pilow-case goods, or anything in that line, call and examine the fine stock at the New York store.

A farmers' mass meeting is called to meet to-day at the court house.

Ladies' jerseys just received at the New York store.

A car-load of Phil Best Milwaukee bottled beer just received at Max Ericsson's.

The New York store shows an endless variety of dress goods in every style and price. Elegant patterns for prices to suit the times.

The first day of April was no April fool. It was a genuine snow storm with no fooling.

At the New York store they are showing a large line of carpet samples from a large eastern firm. Call and see them in Ingrains, Tapestry and Brussels.

Jas. Grey, who has been working in a Carman elevator goes to Beltrami to take charge of the Northwestern elevator.

For embroideries in every style and in endless varieties and prices, go to the New York store.

Terry Sheley, of Red Lake Falls greeted us one day last week and ordered the JOURNAL sent him. They all do it.

W. M. Clements has just received a large stock of wall paper, which he proposes to sell at reduced prices. Call and see him at the Chas. A. Davis old stand, corner of Main and Second streets. [48-50]

No. 1 Hard wheat has been selling in this market this week for 66 cents. Quite a large amount has been marketed.

Ira DeCamp has cut down his office counter several inches and had it upholstered in fine shape making a very neat and pretty counter.

Mr. L. Grey lost a valuable mare soon after his arrival from his Canadian trip. He censures McLean's management and care of his stock during his absence.

Mr. Thomas Pelsir was taken sick very suddenly on Friday last and died on Saturday. The funeral was attended on Tuesday by a large concourse of friends and relatives.

The Fay Templeton Opera Troupe that is to appear in this city two nights next week are said to be one of the best troupe's that travel. The press speaks well of them everywhere.

We are told that E. H. Draper hauled 9,000 lbs. of bridge timber to Red Lake Falls one day last week with two horses. We confess that we should like to have seen the load weighed anyhow.

Our local reporter has been "under the weather" this week, suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism. He will be on deck next week we hope, and doubtless will if this spell o' weather lets up.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Norton have been called to mourn the loss of their little daughter who died on Sunday after a brief illness. They have the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in their sad bereavement.

The lot and building lately occupied by Frank Goodin for restaurant is for sale or rent. Enquire of

[49-50] FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

Mr. H. George has bought of Max Ericsson a fine residence lot down on Sletten & Cromb's Addition, has bought the Stewart & Laurence lumber office building and will move it down and fix up a cosy little residence.

Mrs. I. U. Jennings has just received a large assortment of spring and summer hats in all the new shapes and colors. Also a fine assortment of gold laces, flowers, pompons, and novelties, and intends to maintain her reputation for low prices. [49-50]

A rumor prevailed on the streets on Tuesday morning that P. A. Dufour was dead. It was contradicted later and doubtless sprung from the fact that his mother and sister had been summoned by telegram to his bedside as he is considered dangerously sick. He has been taken to St. Peter for treatment. The chances seem to be against his recovery.

Convention Notes.

C. O. Plzinger received the highest number of votes for Assessor on the second formal ballot and was duly elected. He afterward appeared before the convention and declined to accept.

Chas. Jefferson publishes a card in this issue declining to accept the nomination for Alderman at Large, which leaves that office vacant.

The office of Assessor did not seem to be sought after clamorously. We are told that a new deal will be attempted and it would be a matter of surprise if it was not, as we have never seen a ticket nominated in this city that suited everybody.

It cannot be said that the convention [illegible]

CITY CAUCUSES.

The city caucuses [illegible] held in their respective wards on Saturday evening [illegible]

FIRST WARD.

Ole Bang was renominated as his own successor in the council. Henry Steege and H. E. Cooke were elected delegates to represent the ward in the city convention. H. E. Cooke, A. J. Bigham and Wm. Anglim were appointed ward committee.

SECOND WARD.

In the Second Ward, A. J. Thompson was nominated Alderman, and F. M. Schwark and Albert Holmboe, delegates. Jos. Laurence, Ole Hamery and Ben Clements were appointed ward committee.

THIRD WARD.

In the Third Ward John McLean was nominated for Alderman and O. H. Lucken and Wm. Lanctot, delegates. R. J. Montague, O. H. Lucken and N. P. Stone were appointed ward committee.

FOURTH WARD.

In the Fourth Ward R. B. Gates was nominated for Alderman, and John Cromb and Frank Jerome, delegates. W. F. Zwickey, Al. Chiniquy and Frank Jerome were appointed ward committee.

THE CITY CONVENTION.

The city convention met at City Hall at 7:30 p. m. John Cromb was elected chairman and H. E. Cooke, secretary. The following ticket was placed in nomination:

For Mayor—Hon. H. Steenerson.
For Recorder—Al. Chiniquy.
For Treasurer—Henry Steege.
For Assessor—Max Ericsson.
For Justices—G. H. Palmer,
G. W. Lewis.
For Constable—Jas. Creighton.
Alderman at Large—Chas. Jefferson.

The chairman appointed as city committee, H. E. Cooke, Frank Jerome and F. M. Schwark. Adjourned.

To the Voters of Crookston.

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby respectfully withdraw as a candidate for Alderman at Large.

C. H. JEFFERSON.

We have just received another bill of Wall Paper, new and very pretty patterns. Our spring stock is now complete in every department. We buy direct from manufacturers and importers at the lowest possible prices for spot cash, and will give our customers the benefit.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

For Sale.

The N. E. ¼ Section 12, Township 149, Range 40, (town of Fairfax) situated six miles from the city of Crookston. One hundred acres cultivated, house and good barn and well on premises. Will be sold at a bargain. For terms and further particulars address Peter Cornelius, or call at the JOURNAL office.
[49-tf]

Farm to Rent!

One hundred and forty acres, all plowed, only one mile from Carman. Easy terms given. Enquire of or address,
A. M. CHILDS,
[49-tf] Carman, Minn.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,
JOHN MCLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

At Sealy's

You can find some extra fine crab apple cider, old bourbon whisky, eight years old, Maryland Club, pure rye, Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne, imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.
[14tf] H. STEENERSON.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing
JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[17-tf] Crookston, Minn.

H. STEENERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 8, U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS
[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE

First Publication April 2d, 1885.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of nineteen hundred and sixteen and 58-100 dollars ($1,916.58-100) which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November, A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "I" of mortgages on page [illegible], which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883, duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 200 and 201, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise, having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 22d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 2d, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[49-6] Pro Se.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. F. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the travelling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VANDYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

A. Yvenault,
Dealer in
General
Merchandise,
—MAIN STREET,—
Crookston, Minn
All my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

John Crawford & Son
Proprietors of Crawford's
Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn
CONFECTIONERY.
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line

Crookston Nurseries
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
[illegible]

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
[illegible]

JOHN KNUPPE,
R. R. LAND OFFICE.
Money to Loan on Farm Lands
—WILL—
Buy Town Bonds,
AND SCHOOL BONDS.

IF YOU
WANT A FINE JOB OF ANY KIND DONE IN THE Watch or Jewelry Line
GO TO
C. H. SAAKE, - MAIN STREET.
You will get in deed and in fact,
Not simply in name but in truth.
FINE WATCH REPAIRING A SPECIALTY.
C. H. SAAKE,
Practical Watchmaker, Jeweler and Optician, Crookston

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.
Dealers in
HARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.
WE KEEP A
FULL & COMPLETE STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.
BEST TURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.
Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or
SADDLE HORSES
Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout, call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES,
Corner Main and Fourth Sts.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
VERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.
Good Turnouts at all times, reasonable prices, Good Horses and careful drivers when needed.

Porter's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
[illegible]

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.
H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President,
St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,.............Vice President,
Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President,
Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS..........................Cashier,
Crookston, Minn.
CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.
Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

BURPEE'S WELCOME OATS.

Of this oat the proprietor says: "The Welcome Oats grew from four to six feet high, with long straight straw not liable to be prostrated by wind or rain, and ripens from a week to two weeks ahead of other oats. The heads are very large and handsome, branching freely on all sides and from 16 to 23 inches in length. They weigh from 47 to 51½ lbs. per bushel, and often grow from 40 to 78 stalks from one oat."

From 10 oz. of seed sowed in 1883, I harvested 90 lbs. In 1884 I sowed this on 3 acres. It measured one and one-half bushels. It yielded 200 bushels. Parties desiring to procure seed can do so for $1 per bushel at Stone & Pinkerton's Warehouse, Crookston, where samples may be seen.

[49-59] C. P. CAHOON.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD
DR. A NELSON, Prop.
The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of
DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.
It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
I am also ready to answer all calls day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn.
DR. A. NELSON.

Frank M. Brown
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK
Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOLICITED.
Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

Commercial Hotel
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
[illegible]

DEEP WELLS!
Having one of the Best
AMERICAN PATENT
Hydraulic Drilling Machines
I AM NOW PREPARED TO
Sink Wells to any Depth
Desired to obtain
Flowing Water
Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address
IRA D. BLANCHARD,
Crookston, Minn.

THE
J. I. CASE
THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY!
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY STEENERSON BROS.,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!
Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java offee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.
HOW TO BE WEALTHY!
COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy
AND IF YOU ARE WISE
You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.
E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
[illegible]

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, [illegible]
[illegible]

The Society Call.

The society call, as at present practiced, is a nuisance of great and vast proportions. It is one of those heritages of the past which, like the buttons on the back of a man's coat, though neither useful nor ornamental, are retained because no one is willing to set the fashion of getting along without them. It is like an offensive pond on a rich man's land, from time immemorial an eye-sore to all the neighbors, yet not abolished because a united movement among those interested is impossible, and unless all are united efforts at its abatement are useless.

But among all the absurdities of social habits and customs, there is certainly none more absurd than fashionable calling. It may be set down as a fundamental principle of the subject, that, so far as your entertainers are concerned, they do not care a button whether they see you or not, and as to yourself, it is equally certain that no call pleases you better than that made at a house where the inmates are not at home. This being clearly understood, and the further fact remembered that during the progress of a social call the entertainers and entertainees are heartily wishing each other dead or at home, the beauties of the system come more prominently into view than ever before.

But suppose you are a gentleman, and preparing to go calling. You invoke the assistance of your tailor, for it is well known that one of the leading purposes of social visiting is to furnish an opportunity for the display of new raiment, and having inserted yourself into your garments with due care, introduced your feet into toothpick shoes three sizes too small, and astonished your cranium by crowding it into a hat never intended for it, you sally forth to do your social duties. "Are the ladies at home?" "Yes, sir; the ladies are at home." And you are shown into the parlor to await their coming, which may be in half a minute or in half an hour, according to the habits of the ladies aforesaid, who may be in a state of chronic neglige, and therefore require time to prepare for a becoming entrance.

You amuse yourself by looking around the parlor at the various objects there displayed for the edification of such sufferers as yourself, take a look in the mirror to make sure that the tuft of hair at the back of your head is lying down and not erect as usual, give your cravat an extra touch, and when you hear a rustling in the hall compose yourself in a chair in a position suggesting perfect ease, but from which you can rise at a moment's notice to greet your entering hostess. She enters, and asks you how you do, and you tell her you do very well, thank you, for it would be out of order to tell her that your head aches from the tight hat, and your back feels like it would break from the tight coat, and your corns are red-hot from the tight shoes. Then she tells you it is a fine day, and you tell her: "Yaas, it is a remarkably fine day for calling," and the serious work of entertaining begins.

The feast of reason that follows will be notable chiefly from the desperate attempts to keep up a conversation without saying anything. Words must be used, and that in abundance; but the fewer the accompanying ideas the more successful the entertaining, since it is understood that the parties to the conversation are not at all interested in the subject-matter, and so it is of no consequence whether anything is said or not so long as a continual noise is kept up which bears some distant resemblance to intelligent discourse. You will therefore not be surprised to learn that the weather has been bad for some time, nor that she hopes it will now continue good until it turns bad again. Important matters like these are not to be neglected in social calling, for they are the life of the call, and the caller, more than any other member of society, earns his reputation by the sweat of his jaw.

Occasionally some glimpse of reason will appear in the conversation of your hostess, and when they do they will always be characteristic of the woman. If you heed these you will be able, at subsequent calls, to give her the impression that you are a very intelligent man, by leading the conversation into such channels as she is interested in, and inducing her to suppose that she herself is a woman of extra smartness when she succeeds so well in entertaining you. Every woman has her hobby, and it is by ascertaining it and bringing her to talk about it that you will succeed in getting the brain-wearing task of gabbling for fifteen minutes without giving utterance to an idea, transferred from your shoulders to hers.

It may be dress, and if so, you shall hear of gores and bias pieces and tucks and frills and fluting and other fripperies innumerable, for a quarter of an hour at a time, without an interval even for breath. It may be her children, in which case all the smartness they have done for the last six months will be treasured up and repeated, with a thousand additions from the imagination of the fond parent, and you will be lucky if all the family, down to the baby, be not paraded for your especial behoof. It may be household affairs, and in that case you may be sure that the utter worthlessness of all manner and condition of servants will be the burden of the song. It may be church affairs, when you will learn all the good and bad points of the preacher except those he made in his last sermon, to which there will invariably be complete oblivion-ness. It may be missionary enterprise, upon which you will be enlightened as to the respective moral blindness of the inhabitants of Timbuctoo as compared with the people of the Congo Valley. But whatever it is she will be in earnest about it and will demand a show of interest from you.

It is this quality of the feminine mind which perhaps more than any other has tended to preserve the society call as an institution. To men it is an unspeakable bore; to women it is a joy forever. They enter upon it with a zeal born of a desire to show other women their new dresses, and so long as there are women in the world, which will probably be for some time yet, and so long as those women have new dresses, which will likely be as long as there are women; just so long will the society call live and flourish. It is a feminine institution; women revel in it. Against it argument is useless and reason is shivered to splinters by the contact. It exists and will continue to exist and prosper for that dearest and, to the feminine mind, most satisfactory reason, because.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Maintenance of Plant Life.

"Hard times" come to most living things. Plants as well as animals have periods when they need to conserve all their energies, husband all their vitality. All vegetation obeys the injunction to multiply and replenish the earth, but with the greatest determination when there are present suffering and impending death. A drought hastens the process of reproduction, and insufficient nourishment encourages an early if not an abundant fruitfulness. In a climate where hot and cold or wet and dry seasons regularly succeed each other, many of our most common economic plants have adapted themselves to these stated changes of outward conditions, and run their course during a single growing season. Such plants constitute that large portion of our vegetation known as the animals. The great sunflower, that grows into a giant in a single season, and defies the summer sun and storm, falls an easy victim to the frosts of autumn. It, however, prepared the way for many successors in the ripened seeds, each one of which when given favorable conditions will germinate, grow, reproduce its kind, and thus finish another cycle in the realm of vegetable life. The bean plant, in a different way, climbs its appointed pole, enjoys the same sunshine and shower, produces its blossoms, fills long pods with ripened seeds, and gives up its life like all its fellows in the field. A corn plant completes its growth in not far from a hundred days, and leaves its accumulated vitality stored up in the grains upon the ear. The prospective life and activity of a whole field of waving corn may be considered as stored up in a few pecks of apparently lifeless seed-corn safely housed in the granary. We thus see that in the annual plants the life of the species is, so to speak, carried over from one growing season to another in the ripened seed. The seed is also the form in which plant-life is easily transported from place to place. The seed of some hedgerow weed, as it becomes loosened from its attachment upon the lifeless mother plant, and is blown for rods or even miles over the surface of the incrusted snow, is a familiar and perhaps striking example that may enforce the meaning to be here conveyed. The young plantlet in the seed, snugly packed within thick coats, is preserved from death, and at the same time is carried far from the place where it was produced. The seed is the offspring of the plant and the childhood of its kind, though so fashioned and protected that it can pass safely through a period of drought or cold when its parent would have succumbed.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Consequence of Shallow Draining.

We notice in one of our exchanges, a failure in shallow draining, that ought to be a timely warning to all who are about to engage in this sort of improvement. A rural improver, two years ago laid a three-inch tile drain in a springy spot in his field, for the purpose of clearing it of water. The pipe was laid two feet deep, the joints being covered with caps. It seemed to work perfectly for a time. Last season the plot was planted with potatoes, but the soil was unaccountably wet for drained land. After the crop was gathered, the tiles were examined, and found to be packed so full of grass roots, as to stop the running of the water. Spring water makes a long season for grass, and in two years the roots had obstructed the passage of water and made the drain useless. A neighbor of ours has drained several swales upon his farm, laying the tiles only eighteen inches below the surface, and thus lost the better part of his investment. The shallow drains are not only liable to be stopped by roots of grasses, and other plants, but there is a large loss in the failure to drain what lies immediately below the drained surface. The roots of grass, of fruit trees, and of hoed crops, will go down four or five feet in search of food, if they have the opportunity. They cannot thrive below the water line, which lies very near the bottom of the drain. If the drains are but eighteen inches deep, that is about the limit of the pasture-ground of roots. If the drain goes down three feet, the area of soil that will furnish food for crops is nearly doubled. The cost of draining to that depth is but little more, since the ditch grows narrower as we go down. The cost of the tile, and the work of laying them, are the same, whether the ditch is eighteen inches or four feet in depth. But if the cost were doubled in making deep drains, it would be a "penny wise and pound foolish" business to have the shallow drains for the sake of saving the expense of the last half of the necessary digging. The draining is a permanent investment, and the tiles if properly laid, will clear the soil of water three feet deep, as thoroughly as they will clear it eighteen inches deep. The difference in results is great, that in cost is small. —Wm. Crift in American Agriculturist.

Speaking of Cats.

A physician in love with cats talks as follows: No error is more common than that of starving a cat to make it a good mouser. The practice has arisen from the mistaken notion that a cat kills rats and mice for food, whereas it is quite as much for sport. The cat should have at least two meals a day at regular hours. A cat's disposition is spoiled by feeding her with delicacies from the table. This habit should be discouraged.

Cats will never thrive without grass to eat. It is a panacea for all their ills; keeps their stomach in order, cools their blood, prevents humors and aids digestion. It is supposed to aid in getting rid of the hair swallowed during the process of washing. During the winter it can be procured by keeping a piece of turf in the cellar or hothouse, or it may be cultivated in a flower pot. Cats are fond of asparagus, which many persons raise especially for them, and their natural preference for catnip will suggest a like course.

Roller Skating Flirtation.

Lying on the left side, "My heart is at your feet."

Lying on the right side, "I have money in the bank."

Standing on your nose, "I have no objection to a mother-in-law."

Jumping on your skates, "I'm afraid I can't trust you."

Laying on your back, "Assist me."

One leg in the air means, "Mashed."

One skate in your mouth, "Crushed again."

Hitting on the back of your head with your heel, "I'm gone."

Suddenly placing your legs horizontally on the floor like the letter V indicates, "I'm paralyzed."

Punching your neighbor in the stomach with your left foot, "I'm onto your little game."

A backward flip of the heels and sudden cohesion of the knees to the floor indicates, "May I skate the next music with you?"—Norristown Herald.

WE, TOO, HAVE TESTED IT.

To The Public:

In view of the harmful results which so frequently attend the use of so-called patent or proprietary cough syrups containing morphia, opium and other equally dangerous drugs, the undersigned, physicians of Maryland, take pleasure in endorsing the official opinions expressed by the Commissioner of Health of Baltimore; Dr. Samuel K. Cox, analytical chemist, of Washington, and other authorities to the effect that the RED STAR COUGH CURE is not only a perfectly harmless, but at the same time an original and most effective remedy, and that it commends itself alike for being entirely vegetable—free from opiates, poisons and narcotics—and for its prompt efficacy, as demonstrated by practical tests.

BALTIMORE, MD., Feb. 11, 1885.

C. FAWCETT, M. D.,
For thirty-three years Resident Physician Union Protestant Infirmary.

J. J. GROSS, M. D.,
St. Vincent's Hospital.

J. D. FISKE, M. D.,
Port Physician.

S. R. MORSE, M. D.,
Marine Hospital.

CHAS. W. FILLER, M. D.,
Physician to Fire Department.

JAMES GORE, M. D.,
Baltimore County, Maryland.

JOHN J. CALDWELL, M. D.,
Author of "Electro-Therapeutics," &c., and Member of Medical Societies of New York, Brooklyn and Baltimore.

For centuries it has been contended that a cough medicine to be effective must contain morphia, opium, or some other equally dangerous drug, and to-day nearly every cough mixture in the market has for its base some one of these deadly poisons. A purely vegetable and at the same time efficacious cough cure has been considered an impossibility. The harmful and at times fatal results attending the use of morphia and opium cough mixtures are of common occurrence everywhere, and in every part of the Union deaths have, according to the testimony of physicians and coroners, resulted from the use of these dangerous preparations. It is for this reason that medical authorities and leading public men speak so enthusiastically of the importance and value of the discovery of Red Star Cough Cure. Governor McLane and Attorney General Roberts, of Maryland; Mayor Latrobe and Postmaster Adreon, of Baltimore, and other well-known officials of Federal, State and municipal governments have publicly certified to the harmlessness and marked efficacy of Red Star Cough Cure. Every one will find it a safe, sure cure. It is entirely free from opiates, narcotics, emetics and poisons. It leaves no bad effects. It does not derange the system. It is pure, pleasant, prompt. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine throughout the United States at fifty cents a bottle. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY, Sole Proprietors, Baltimore, Maryland.

The Young Man Who is "Fresh."

You ask what is meant by freshness. I will tell you.

When a young man has inordinate love and respect for his parents, or real hearty affection for his brothers and sisters, or especial fondness for a young lady, and does not think it expedient to hide his emotion behind a mask, then, is that young man very fresh.

That young man is fresh, also, who is so deeply interested in his chosen profession, and so determined to excel in it, that he can only talk shop. When the topic of conversation rises to the dignity of horse racing, base ball and shinny, he is as dumb as an oyster.

And very fresh, likewise, is the young man who believes there are such things as honor among men and purity among women.

He, too, is fresh, who is willing to admit that it is barely possible that people who have lived a great many years longer than he, and who have consequently seen much more of the world, may know a trifle more upon some subjects than himself.

The young man who would take the advice of his father or mother in preference to the opinion of Tom Tosspot or Harry Harebrain, everybody must admit, is jolly fresh.

The young man is called fresh, and of course, very properly, who prefers wearing old clothes to getting trusted for new ones with no intention of ever paying his tailor.

Very fresh is the young man who can have any respect for a young woman who has not a pretty face, who does not dress in the height of fashion, and who cannot talk slang as glibly as a bar-room loafer, but who wastes her time in useful occupations and can only talk plain common sense.

The young man is frightfully fresh who would have the respect and esteem of the learned and reputable ninnies of creation rather than the approbation of the great ones of the earth who frequent the saloon and other occult resorts.

In a word, the fresh young man is he who is guided by well-grounded principles, who is earnest in whatever he undertakes, and who does not think that the sum of earthly wisdom is contained within his own cuticle.—Boston Transcript.

Wonders Never Cease.

Prof. C. Donaldson, New Orleans, La., proprietor of Museums, who suffered eighteen years with rheumatic pains, states he has spent ten thousand dollars to get cured. After trying doctors, famous baths, electric appliances and legions of liniments without relief, he tried St. Jacobs Oil, which completely cured him. It is a wonderful remedy, he says, and he has sold his crutches.

New Minister to Turkey.

The president has nominated and the Senate confirmed S. S. Cox of New York as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Turkey. Mr. Cox was born at Zanesville, Ohio, Sept. 30, 1824. He was educated at the Ohio University and Brown University, Providence, studied and practiced law and owned and edited the Columbus (Ohio) Statesman in 1853-54. The following year he was appointed secretary of legation to Peru. He represented the Columbus (Ohio) district in the Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth congresses, and having removed to New York city in 1865, has been a Democratic member of every congress since and including the Forty-first. He is also a member-elect of the Forty-ninth. In the Forty-fourth congress he served for a time as speaker pro tem. He is the author of several works, and was for many years a constant contributor to the periodical press.

Reverend Doctors H. R. Naylor (Methodist), W. A. Bartlett (Presbyterian) and W. A. Leonard (Episcopal), all ministers of Washington, called upon President Cleveland, and presented a memorial earnestly urging him to enforce the Edmunds anti-polygamy act.

Report of Gen. Grant's Condition.

The following appeared in the New York Medical Record on March 28.

During the past week Gen. Grant has been in a comparatively comfortable condition. The insomnia with which he has been affected has been controlled so he obtains, by aid of anodynes, a normal amount of sleep. He has not lost flesh, and his powers of assimilation are not impaired. At the weekly consultation, attended by Drs. J. H. Douglass, H. B. Sands and George F. Shady, it was decided that the local disease was still in abeyance and that the area of ulceration had not perceptibly increased. Virtually the same stationary tendency was noted by Dr. Fordyce Barker, who had visited the distinguished patient at intervals during that period. The swelling under the right angle of the lower jaw is somewhat greater, but the gland in that situation is not more indurated, nor has it become more firmly fixed. The ulcerated surfaces in the throat and on the tongue are covered with a yellowish exudation, to which alternate applications of lime water and a weak solution of permanganate of potash have been effectively made by Dr. Douglass. The topical remedies employed have had their desired effect in reducing the local irritation and imperceptibly checking the progress of infiltration. There is no pain in swallowing. No fear is entertained at present of any sudden failure of the vital powers, nor of any encroachment of the ulcerative process upon any of the neighboring blood vessels. The general is able, with no other assistance than that of his cane, to walk about his rooms, ascending and descending the stairs, and was strong enough to enjoy an airing in his carriage during the fine afternoon of Wednesday.

Rupture, Breach or Hernia.

New guaranteed cure for worst cases without use of knife. There is no longer any need of wearing awkward, cumbersome trusses. Send two letter stamps for pamphlet and references. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

At Chicago, Mackin and Gallagher were admitted to $50,000 bail.

Is it Not Singular

that consumptives should be the least apprehensive of their own condition, while all their friends are urging and beseeching them to be more careful about exposure and overdoing. It may well be considered one of the most alarming symptoms of the disease, where the patient is reckless and will not believe that he is in danger. Reader, if you are in this condition, do not neglect the only means of recovery. Avoid exposure and fatigue, be regular in your habits, and use faithfully of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It has saved thousands who were steadily failing.

The annual reunion of the Society of the Army of the Potomac will be held at Baltimore, May 6-7.

Don't hawk, hawk, blow, spit, and disgust everybody with your offensive breath, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

A Hudson Bay company vessel, with $250,000 worth of furs, is imprisoned by ice in James bay, and in danger of loss.

DESERVING OF CONFIDENCE.—There is no article which so richly deserves the entire confidence of the community as BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Those suffering from Asthmatic and Bronchial diseases, Coughs and Colds, should try them. Price 25 cents.

At Yonkers, N. Y., fire damaged W. L. Washburne Manufacturing company's buildings $25,000; insurance, $8,000.

It is not understood why druggists keep in stock so many kinds of medicines for coughs, colds and consumption, when it is only necessary to keep Allen's Lung Balsam, that old, reliable remedy, which is a pure vegetable preparation, and perfectly harmless, as it contains no opium in any form. Sold everywhere.

Carter H. Harrison was recently unanimously renominated for mayor by the Democratic city convention.

FROM THE WORST stages of Heart Disease I consider myself cured by the use of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR.—T. M. Towns, Tilton, N. H. Thirty years have proved the Heart Regulator a sure remedy. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

At Tompkinsville, L. I., a block of eight stores was burned, with nearly all its contents. Loss, $50,000.

IT IS DANGEROUS to tamper with irritating liquids and exciting snuffs. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which is safe and pleasant and is easily applied with the finger. It cures the worst cases of Catarrh, Cold in the Head, and Hay fever, giving relief from the first application. All druggists have it. Price 50 cents. By mail 60 cents. Ely Bros.; Owego, N. Y.

I HAVE been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years. I could not tell how many different remedies I have tried, and none seemed to reach my case like Ely's Cream Balm. I had lost my smell entirely for the last fifteen years, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, and my smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for Catarrh.—Mrs. E. E. Grimes, 67 Valley St., Rendrill, Perry Co., Ohio.

Milton W. Smith was convicted at Omaha of killing his wife.

Butter Buyers

everywhere are refusing to take white, lardy looking butter except at "grease" prices. Consumers want nothing but gilt-edged butter, and buyers therefore recommend their patrons to keep a uniform color throughout the year, by using the Improved Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. It is the only color that can be relied on to never injure the butter, and to always give the perfect color. Sold by druggists and merchants.

It is thought that Col. Wherry, Thirteenth infantry, will succeed Col. Hughes as inspector general of the army.

A Bold Counterfeit.

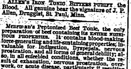
A Bold Counterfeit or Imitation of Dr. G. D. WARNER'S WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP and GERMAN HOP BITTERS is being sold in the Northwest. Beware of the dangerous imitations. The worthless stuff is sold to Druggists at $2.50 per dozen, or about 20 cts. per bottle, and they charge you 50 cts. The Genuine WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP and GERMAN HOP BITTERS bears the name of Dr. G. D. WARNER on label and wrapper and blown in bottle. Take no other.

ALLEN'S IRON TONIC BITTERS PURIFY the Blood. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

MENSMAN'S Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its ENTIRE NUTRITIOUS PROPERTIES. It contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. CASWELL, HAZARD & Co., Proprietors, New York. Sold by Druggists.

Scratches.

J. M. Shaffer, Madison, Wis., says: "I cured a horse of the worst case of scratches that I ever saw, with Veterinary Carbolisalve. Of all the salves or ointments that I ever saw, this is the 'boss.'" 25 and 50 cents at Druggists.



ST. JACOBS OIL TRADE MARK

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES. Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages. THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO. (Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

A cable dispatch states that the Danish unpleasantness has reached such a degree of acrimony that there is danger of a physical revolution. The folkething, or popular branch of the legislature, is backed by the masses in its contest with the Conservative ministry and nobility and King Christian, who holds to his premier, Estrup, with determined obstinacy, although the folkething will pass no appropriations for the extraordinary sums demanded for coast defense, the navy and the army. It is a contest between privileged classes and the people, and doubtless Estrup and his Conservatives will have to yield. The prospect is that the Liberals will have their own way, and if they are not afflicted with too much radicalism, the change will be good for Denmark.

The burning of the Ruffner building at Charleston, W. Va., was caused by the plugging of a steam boiler's safety valve. Loss, $175,000.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The finest tonic for nervous people is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures perfect digestion and assimilation, and the active performance of their functions by the liver and bowels. As the system acquires tone through the influence of this benign medicine, the nerves grow stronger and more tranquil, headaches cease, and that nameless anxiety which is a peculiarity of the dyspeptic, gives way to cheerfulness. To establish health on a sure foundation, use the peerless invigorant. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Allen's Lung Balsam

A GOOD FAMILY REMEDY!

THAT WILL CURE

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP!

MOTHERS,

Have you delicate, weakly children, who are always taking cold and subject to Croup? Remember, there never was a case of Croup which did not originate in a cold! Lung Balsam is your remedy.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

WHOOPING COUGH CURED.

O. A. HARRIS, of Benevolence, Ga., writes, Dec. 13, 1884: "My little boy, but little more than a year old, had a severe attack of WHOOPING COUGH, which my family physician said could not be cured, as it was winter. Having heard of the merits of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, I immediately proceeded to town and purchased a bottle. To my surprise, this one bottle cured him sound and well. Others, hearing of the result, tried it, with equally good results. Later, my two little girls had Whooping Cough, and one bottle cured both of them. We think Whooping Cough is not much to be dreaded, if ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM can be had and given."

By its faithful use CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED, when other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed: but try this remedy and you will not be deceived.

It will cure when all others fail.

Directions accompany each bottle.

As an Expectorant it has no Equal. It Contains no Opium in Any Form.

CALL FOR ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

It is Sold by MEDICINE DEALERS generally.

HOPS & MALT TRADE MARK BITTERS

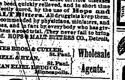
DOES WONDERFUL CURES —OF— LIVER COMPLAINTS AND KIDNEY DISEASES.

They cleanse the system of the poisonous humors that develop in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Constipation, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

They prevent the growth to serious illness of a dangerous class of diseases that begin in mere trivial ailments, and are too apt to be neglected as such. They cause free action of all the organs and functions, thereby CLEANSING THE BLOOD, restoring the normal powers to throw off disease.

THOUSANDS OF CASES of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in short time perfectly cured, by the use of Hops and Malt Bitters. All druggists keep them. Recommended by physicians, ministers, and nurses, and in fact by everybody who has given them a good trial. They never fail to bring relief. HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.

NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul.
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul.
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis.
Wholesale Agents.



EVERY SPOOL WARRANTED

100 PAGE PAMPHLET WITH RULES FOR KNITTING, EMBROIDERY, CROCHET, ETC., SENT FOR 10 CENTS IN STAMPS. WASTE EMBROIDERY SILK, ASSORTED COLORS, 40 CTS. PER OZ. WASTE SEWING SILK, BLACK OR ASSORTED 25 CTS. PER OUNCE.

EUREKA SILK CO., Chicago, Ill.

Did you Suppose Mustang Liniment only good for horses? It is for inflammation of all flesh.

FOR CLEANSING THE SKIN and Scalp of Birth Humors, for allaying Itching, Burning and Inflammation, for curing the first symptoms of Eczema, Psoriasis, Milk Crust, Scall Head, Scrofula, and other inherited skin and blood diseases, CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are infallible. Absolutely pure. Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON. ☞ Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

The New Bracket Wardrobe.

Holds 15 garments; made of polished hardwood; metal castings finished in old gold bronze; brass trimmings; weight 5½ lbs.; expressed anywhere. Price $2. Circular free. THE BROADWAY M'F'G CO., 202 BROADWAY NEW YORK.

MINNEAPOLIS SCHOOL FURNITURE CO.,

Sole Manufacturers for the Northwest of

THE PATENT CHALLENGE AUTOMATIC SCHOOL SEATS,

Which fold on patent solid taper BABBIT JOURNALS. The seat joint is bored to a standard size, making a PERFECT JOINT; is NOISELESS AND EVERLASTING.

Capacity of our works 125 seats a day. Our work will stand, being made from thoroughly kiln dried lumber.

Address Minneapolis School Furniture Co., Minneapolis, Minn. P. O. Box 518.

No. 3.

PINKEYE.

A Remarkable Cure of a Horse.

In the fall of 1881 I had a valuable horse taken with the pinkeye, resulting in blood poison. After nine months of doctoring with all the remedies to be found in horse books, I despaired of a cure. His right hind leg was as large as a man's body, and had on it over forty running sores. He was a most pitiable looking object. At last I thought of Swift's Specific, and commenced to use it. I used fifteen bottles. In August last all symptoms of the disease disappeared. There have been no signs of a return, and the horse has done a mule's work on my farm ever since.

January 8, 1885. JAS. L. FLEMING, Augusta, Ga.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 159 W. 23d St., N. Y.

STROWBRIDGE BROAD CAST SOWER

BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!

Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a lifetime. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.

C. W. DORR, Manager
RACINE SEEDER CO.,
258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES OF KIDNEY DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, Why?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all Female Complaints.

☞ SOLID PROOF OF THIS.

IT WILL SURELY CURE CONSTIPATION, PILES, and RHEUMATISM,

By causing FREE ACTION of all the organs and functions, thereby CLEANSING the BLOOD restoring the normal power to throw off disease.

THOUSANDS OF CASES of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time PERFECTLY CURED.

PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail. WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt. 3 Send stamp for Diary Almanac for 1884.

KIDNEY-WORT

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. No Seeds produce finer Flowers, Vegetables and Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. All tested. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Catalogue free. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis.

TOWER'S TRADE MARK FISH BRAND POMMEL SLICKER

THE BEST WATERPROOF RIDING COAT. Covers the entire saddle, and will keep you dry in any storm. Sold everywhere. Illustrated catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston.

J. A. SALZER, LA CROSSE, WIS. BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Conceded that our tested reliable Northern Seeds (our growth), produce by all odds, the finest Flowers, best Vegetables and largest farm crops—increasing yields fully ½ to ¾! Try them. New Vegetables, Wheat, Oats, Barley, etc. Roses and Plants by 100,000. ☞ Will pay to get our new catalogue, free. JOHN A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best FEMALE POPULATION.

Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.

Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify. It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life. It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

Thousands Hastened to Their Graves.

By relying on testimonials written in vivid glowing languages of some miraculous cures made by some largely puffed up doctor or patent medicine has hastened thousands to their graves; the readers having almost insane faith that the same miracle will be performed on them; that these testimonials mention, while the so-called medicine is all the time hastening them to their graves. Although we have of testimonials of the most wonderful cures, voluntarily sent us, we do not publish them, as they do not make the cures. It is our medicine, Hop Bitters, that make the cures. It has never failed and never can. We will give reference to any one for any disease similar to their own if desired, or will refer to any neighbor, as there is not a neighborhood in the known world but can show its cures by Hop Bitters.

Thousands Upon Thousands ! ! !

A Losing Joke.

"A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to 'a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure 'her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The 'lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, 'from which she obtained permanent health. 'She now laughed at the doctor for his joke, 'but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost 'him a good patient.

The fee of doctors at $3.00 a visit would tax a man for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from Kidney and Liver trouble!"

☞ None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

GRAPE VINES, Strawberries, &c., by mail. Send for price list. Latham's Nursery, Excelsior, Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No Knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

Learn Telegraph or Shorthand and earn big wages. Situations guaranteed. Valentine Bros. Janesville, Wis.

Send stamp for my circular, "$150 a year, or, How I Manage Poultry." How to make an Incubator costing less than $5. How to build cheap poultry-houses, prevent and cure cholera, make hens lay, &c. Address C. C. Pavey, Abilene, Kansas. Breeder P. R. Fowls and P. C. Swine; circulars free.

NATIONAL HOTEL, $2 a day house for New house, new furniture. Only $2 a day house in Northwest with Elevator. J. B. Ames Prop. 205 Wash. Av., S., Minneapolis, Minn. $2

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR [illegible] L. L. SMITH & CO., Agents, Palatine, Ill.

BIG BOSTON Minneapolis, cor. of Washington and 2nd Av. S. is now filled with the finest of Spring Goods, including all the very latest Novelties in Men's Youth's and Children's suits and overcoats. Fine Furnishing Goods and all of the latest blocks of Soft, Stiff and Silk hats. Goods sent C. O. D to all parts of the country subject to examination and if not satisfactory, returned at our expense. Mail orders solicited.

CONSUMPTION.

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York

25,000

Bushels of the famous

Saskatchewan Fife Wheat

For Sale for Season of 1885.

The most remarkable Wheat ever brought to the Northwest. Has yielded the past season right along from 50 to 100 per. cent. more than the Common Fife, sown beside it. Our illustrated 16-page Catalogue, containing its history, together with numerous testimonials from those who have tried it, sent free on application. Address W. J. ABERNETHY & CO., Originators and Proprietors, 42 Third street South, Union Building, Minneapolis.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

ALL RIGHT Self-feed STRAW & HAY CUTTER

The best in the world. The knife is Steel, and tempered, and is fastened to lever with three bolts, and can be easily taken off to sharpen. The length of cut is regulated by the lever to which the knife is bolted. The higher the lever is raised, the longer it will cut. All are warranted. Send for circular which will be mailed FREE. NEWARK MACHINE CO., Columbus, O.

DRS. WHITTIER.

214 East 7th Street, St. Paul, Minn. Regularly Graduated and legally qualified; longer engaged in Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases, than any physicians in America. Medicines sent by mail or express. Diseases from Indiscretion, Excess or Exposure, Nervousness, Debility, Melancholy, Loss of Spirits, rendering marriage improper, cured. Safely, privately, speedily. No change of business. Pamphlet and symptom lists free, a friendly talk costs nothing. HIS CELEBRATED WORK, 300 pages. Elegant cloth and gilt binding. Sealed, for 50 cents in money or postage. Over fifty wonderful pen pictures on life, health, marriage, disease, decline, treatment. Same, paper cover, 25 cts. by mail, sealed. State case, and get time and cost of cure.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN

The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send 2ct. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones. WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

A Clear Skin is only a part of beauty; but it is a part. Every lady may have it; at least, what looks like it. Magnolia Balm both freshens and beautifies.

"UNCLE STANTON."

A STORY OF "THE CENTER."

The first time I saw Uncle Stanton he was standing at the open doorway of his shop, rubbing his hands on a leather apron. His face was stained with the black dust of the forge, and great beads of perspiration rolled down on his brow from under his confusion of hair—hair so thick that I used to wonder the possibility of a comb. He was short in stature, with a small featured face and restless blue eyes. He was bent by toil, and his careworn expression gave emphasis to a nervous habit of twisting one corner of his apron when he idled for a while. He was a shabby old man, but on a Sunday (it was always called "the Sabbath" at the "Center") he would don a threadbare suit of ill-fitting broadcloth in which he was very ill at ease. Everybody about the Center—and for that matter, everybody else for miles away—knew him as "Uncle Stanton." He was generally respected, and I doubt if there were any so well informed in the rise and decline of the old place. Yet he had not always lived in the Center. Years ago when Joe Wheeler died, there appeared to be no one at hand to take his place at the forge. Joe had built the shop in the early days when the Center promised to be much more than the pivot whose radius was then marked by "Kirby Run" and Deacon Greene's vineyard. The dear old Deacon! I can see him now with his freckled face, and hair as red as the autumn color of the leaves which used to fall from the big maple tree in front of my old home. The vineyard was on the side of the hill, steep enough to free it from stones and brush, yet not so steep but the Deacon could keep his foothold, and work all through the hot summer days. How often have I seen him with his head bobbing above the green leaves, and how often have I heard him ask for the folks at home with "God's blessing upon them!"

Well, Joe had mended the wagons, the ploughs, shod the horses and been considered "pretty handy" for many years, but it did not occur to one that a time would come when Joe's tools would be idle for the want of his hands to use them. Joe had provided for this emergency. "I've writ to Uncle Stanton, Marthy," he said to his wife when he found himself no longer able to rise. "He's a sartin sort of a man, and a good one to take hold of the smithy. I never seed a time when he missed the mark he aimed at, and I've knowed him, Marthy, a powerful long while. You see we growed up together, he was oncommon sharp, and likelier n'me, but I got the start somehow and went away, and Stanton's been trudging along the same old rut."

So it came about that four days after Joe Wheeler had been put in the little yard back of the Methodist Church whose steeple covered with rusty tin marked the Center for many miles, the big, creeky doors of the shop once more swung open, the smoke of the forge was then seen curling out of the tall red chimney, and Uncle Stanton gratefully welcomed his first customer.

We became acquainted easily enough. My first visit at the shop was with handsome gray Billy, who had cast a shoe. I can recall even now the noise of his hoofs as they clattered over the oaken floor, and the wonderment expressed in the glance of his noble, bright eyes, as Uncle Stanton bent down and critically examined his hoof. Billy had a great many friends, and I believe it was never decided which was the better animal, mine or the lean dark bay which the aggressive Mr. Mullens, the meat peddler, constantly drove.

"They've had a bad time over at the Kirby's I heard," Uncle Stanton said to me, as he paused over a shoe which he was hammering into shape. "Two funerals less'n a week. I didn't believe Rube would pull the second girl through—he ain't much on fevers, not so much as young Hawkins. He beat the world on fevers. Now, there was Southworth's boy over at Pineville t'want a week before he was up 'n about, and that gave Jim a settin' up. They ought to have had Jim, to my thinkin'."

And so Uncle Stanton would rattle on. The gossip of the village all came to him somehow; he never forgot what he heard, and very little happened in the place that did not in some shape or other reach Uncle Stanton's ears. Concerning himself, however, he was strangely reticent.

Sometimes I would stop at the shop door in the early evenings when the sun was setting back of the hills and throwing its golden mellow on the roofs of the farmhouses and lingering in the tree tops. Uncle Stanton always sat there smoking his pipe, and when he had no one to talk to would gaze off upon the road in dreamy silence. He always had a cheery sort of welcome for me, and I always used to think that he was freer with me than any one else. Perhaps it was because I was very young.

One day—it was a year or more after I had made Uncle Stanton's acquaintance—he said to me suddenly. "Davy, my boy, the world isn't so very big, and the people in it often run amuck when they don't calkerlate."

We were lounging at the doorway, and Uncle Stanton was seated on the raised floor with his back against the casement, pressing down the tobacco in his pipe with the end of his stubby finger.

"What is it uncle?" I queried. There seemed to be something on his mind, and I fancied he wanted to talk to me.

"Sit down here, and I'll tell you a little story. It's a story there's none left to tell but me, and I'm agoin' to let ye hear it, Davy, because you've bin good and kind and because in y'r face I've found the only comfort I've had many a long day. You don't know how those eyes of your'n have gone to my heart—how they've brought me back to when my boy Harry was so much like you that sometimes when I've looked at you I've stopped my work and let my irons grow cold."

Had he forgotten what he was about to say? He had paused and was searching his waistcoat pocket for a match, and his head was down. As he relit his pipe and puffed it into a glow I saw that his eyes were moist and his hand was trembling. I edged close to him, and placed my hand on his arm.

"He was a happy little chap, Davy, and the folks o' the village used to fill us with feelin' sort o' pride like, by the things they would say of him. You see, he was smarter'n a whip, and if thar was anythin' agoin' on among the young folks Harry was at the head of it. Well, he growed up and got to readin' all kinds o' books with larnin' in 'em that set his mind a wanderin', and then somehow Harry was changed like and didn't care for our old-fashioned ways; he wanted to go to the big city, and at last one day he went."

"Did he run away, uncle," I asked, "run away and leave you?"

"Yes, he ran away, Davy, leavin' me an' mother; mother who loved him and who used to pray for him every night until my heart would get to bleedin'! He ran away, Davy! He didn't come to us like the little man he used to be, but he stole away one night, it was just after harvestin' time, and then, but he never writ to us—never writ to mother!"

The old man touched his eyes with his apron and drew hard on his pipe.

All this was years ago, but I have not forgotten the deep impression it made on me—his sad, worn face, which seemed so much more troubled than ever before, and the nervous twitching of his hands, all of which I scarcely realized then, I can see it all know; we two sitting there in the old doorway, the sun setting back of the hills and the long shadows streaking the road that fell away from the shop into the little valley below.

"Don't tell me any more," I said, "it makes you feel so bad. Listen! There are the cows over at the deacon's; they're coming in for the milking."

He paused and then went into the shop. He raked the coals and covered them up for the night. I fancy that he did so that I might not discover his agitation.

"He never writ to us," he presently resumed, "but Joe Wheeler did, and when that letter came which told us how Harry—our little Harry—had been put in jail for a crime, it broke poor mother down. But we never knew what came of him. Thar was nothin' we could do; we were far away."

"Oh, uncle, and you have never seen him since that time?" I asked feeling a great lump in my throat.

"Seen him, Davy? Seen him? The world is wide and the years have been long, but Davy—"

He turned away from the forge and came near to me.

"Davy, I seed a face last night out on the road thar that kep' me awake till the light came in my winder this mornin'. I seed a face that's a bin growin' and a growin' on me; it t'want a ghost, Davy, but it was him, him! my Harry!"

It was dusk when I left Uncle Stanton that evening. I helped him close up the blacksmith shop and walked with him down the road to Joe Wheeler's old house, where Uncle Stanton boarded, and when I started back again to my own humble home I remember that I was so full of thought that mother who waited me anxiously, said:

"Davy, I didn't hear your happy whistle as you came along; what makes you so late, child?"

How well I remember next day with its drizzling rain and the wet leaves of the big maple tree which were tossing against my little window when I awoke! I had slept very late, and while I made my hasty dressing mother called me. Deacon Greene's rusty top buggy was standing at the door when I went down and the good old man was telling a piece of news that had aroused the Center to an excitement which is not forgotten to this very day.

Uncle Stanton was dead!

"We don't know how it all was, Davy," he said, turning to me. "Most likely it was his heart that did it. You see—well it couldn't have been an hour before candle-light when Marthy Wheeler heard a noise in Uncle Stanton's room, but afore she could get her fixings on and get her old bones up the stairs it was all over. Uncle Stanton was on the floor gone beyond help. The window was open and the little box he used to keep his money in was gone."

And this was all that ever came of it. Nothing was ever discovered; nothing was learned of the thief. But somehow or other when I think of that summer evening, when Uncle Stanton told me of a face he saw, there comes over me a shudder—a suspicion—Well I won't write here what I think. Could it be?

DESHLER WELCH.

ESPIONAGE IN FRANCE.

How the Paris Police Watch Every Class of Society.

The secret agents of Paris are provided with cards, which, in case of danger, will insure them the protection of the regular police. They are strictly forbidden to show these cards to any one save to state officials of high standing (when the indirect services of such officials are required), or the sergeants de viles to whom I have just alluded, and under the circumstances referred to. They frequent clubs and other meetings, the wine shops of the exterior boulevards, and houses and streets of ill fame, and also attend at the Senate and Chamber of Deputies during the parliamentary session. In the morning they prepare their reports, generally speaking, at the Prefecture, in the archives of which is to be found detailed accounts of the career and character of hundreds and thousands of individuals in France. These records form colossal pyramids in the lumber rooms, and are alphabetically arranged according to the names of the persons whose histories they chronicle, so that when any one comes suddenly to the front, or is compromised in any criminal affair, the librarians can have no difficulty in laying their hands on the official summary of his or her antecedents. So complete is the collection that the name of the most obscure rag picker in Paris is chronicled as well as the President of the Republic.

In regard to these secret agents of the second category, M. Andrieux is as he is indiscreet. "A man's coachman," he says, "a man's mistress, a man's barber, a man's valet may belong to this battalion." Many saloonkeepers and house-porters are actually compelled, under pain of forfeiture of their licenses and positions, to act as the spies of the prefecture. Several journalists who are the bitterest political opponents in opposition newspapers of the powers that be, and not a few frantic orators who "do" the stump at Socialistic gatherings and denounce the criminality of capital amid the cheers of the working men, are in the pay of the police authorities. The high-born and respectable Imperialist, who mixes in Prince Napoleon's society and calls him "My Lord," "Your Majesty," and sports a violet in his button-hole on the occasion of the anniversary mass for the repose of the soul of Napoleon III. at the Church of St. Augustine, keeps up his gorgeous equipages and pays for his Bonapartist dinner out of the public funds.

THE WEE LOVERS.

Mrs. Tom Thumb Officially Announces Her Matrimonial Programme—How the Bright Midgets Met, Cooed, Loved and Became Engaged.

The widow of the late General Tom Thumb, after spending a few days at the Murray Hill Hotel, left for Philadelphia to fill a professional engagement in that city. In an interview accorded to a reporter before her departure, this little lady expressed much indignation at the flippant manner in which the vital subject of her approaching nuptials with an Italion Count had been tossed about on newspaper pens. She was dressed in a becoming costume of black silk. Her hair was creped as artistically as when in the days of her youth she captured the heart of the redoubtable little General. She wore a white lace fichu, which if spread out would be about the size of a child's pocket-handkerchief, around her throat, and her little feet, clad in French boots of the number which children of 4 wear, dangled an inch or two below the cushion of the full-sized easy chair in which she sat.

"I am glad you called," said she, after having warmly shaken the little finger of the reporter's hand (she had clambered back upon the elaborately upholstered chair), "because I want the public generally to understand that there is nothing sensational about my present relations with the Count or our approaching marriage. We are not to be married in a dime museum," and the lady curled her lips in scornful disdain, "nor with fireworks and a brass band. I esteem the Count very highly, and he is devotedly attached to me. Our acquaintance dates back nearly eight years, and our union, when it takes place, will be the result of mutual respect and admiration between a gentleman, who, though small of stature, is and a lady who fancies that the public should by this time know her to be a woman of sense."

EVERY INCH A MAN,

There were seated in the room, besides the reporter and the widow, Mr. Sylvester Bleeker, who for 21 years has been the manager of this little lady, and Mrs. Bleeker, his wife. "The truth is," said this gentleman, "the general's widow has certain professional engagements to fill and her fiance is also under contract for some time yet. This renders it impossible for them to fix a date for their marriage, but it will certainly occur before long."

"Indeed it will, broke in the sprightly relict of General Thumb, "for the count has imperative duties connected with the settlement of his estate in Italy which require his presence in that country by the latter part of May and he is resolved that he will not return without me."

"Do I understand then," said the reporter as decorously as possible, "that Count Rosebud is?"—

"There is no 'Count Rosebud' about it!" exclaimed the little lady with considerable warmth. "My intended husband is Count Primo Magri, a member of a distinguished Italian family; a Count in his own right, and an accomplished scholar and a perfect gentleman."

"I feel it my duty at this point," broke in Mr. Sylvester Bleeker, "to assure you that the lady is not throwing herself away upon any mere adventure. I am in some respects the guardian of Mrs. Stratton, and was a lifelong friend and partner of her husband. She has a handsome fortune, including a beautiful country seat at Middleborough, Mass. Count Magri is not, however, a fortune-hunter. He, is himself a rich man, and the match is in every way desirable and equal."

HOW THEY MET AND LOVED.

The general's widow, who during this somewhat embarrassing explanation had sat with downcast eyes, her bejewelled hands folded in her lap, now looked up at the ceiling and breathed a deep sigh. "It is not," said she presently, putting the corner of a lace handkerchief, about the size of a childs penwiper to her eyes, "as if I were not well enough acquainted with the count. I have known him for more than seven years. We met first in Springfield, Mass. That was before the General had passed away. He was a member of our little company during two seasons and was a warm friend of the General's. After the death of the General in July, 1883, he wrote me a beautiful letter of condolence, and we frequently met thereafter in our travels through the country. I learned to look upon him almost as a brother. I was, you will remember, the wife of the General for more than 20 years, having been married in Grace Church, this city, February 10, 1863, I do not know" (and here the little lace handkerchief left the widow's eyes and wandered down to her lips, where it was held coquetishly, as if she feared her tongue would run truant with matronly wisdom) "how my relations to the Count gradually assumed that condition which rendered a courtship possible. Perhaps the Count can tell you more about that. All I need say is that we met last fall in Baltimore, Count Magri having obtained an engagement at the same place in which I was performing, and that I consented to become his wife. He is an accomplished gentleman between 35 and 36 years of age, master of several languages, and a finished and dexterous swordsman. It is our intention to be married in this city in time to sail for Italy not later than the middle of May. I shall meet the Count two weeks from to-day, and the details of our marriage will then be arranged. Our plans for the future are entirely indefinite, but it is not at all improbable that we will never return to this country, or only perhaps, for an occasional brief visit. We are not at all dependent upon our profession for a livelihood, and are at liberty to follow our own inclinations in the arrangements for our future lives."

Mrs. Stratton, who is 44 years of age, is estimated to be worth more than one hundred thousand dollars. She was, it will be remembered, before her marriage to Tom Thumb, a Miss Lavinia Warren. Her sister, Minnie Warren, who married Commodore Nutt, died in July, 1878. Count Magri, who is at present in Milwaukee, is one inch and a quarter taller than the wealthy widow he is about to wed.

The Sunflower in the Arctic Circle.

"In the most tropical part of the Arctic circle," said the Lieutenant, "grows a creeping willow. When it is very large and luxuriant it is two feet long and the stem is as big round as my thumb. Oscar Wilde would find his dear and esthetic blossom, the sunflower, there, but in a snubbed condition, only a few inches high and shorn of much of its glory, the raying disk dwindled and the number of petals diminished, until he would hardly recognize it. The dandelion and the buttercup are also to be found."

Mexico as a Winter Resort.

By Sylvester Baxter in Atlantic for March.

Arriving at Cuautla, we found an excellent hotel, the San Diego, directly across the plaza from the railway station. The landlord was a German, and had been in the country about thirty years. The hotel was a one-story structure, built around a large court, the rooms opening upon a tile-roofed veranda. In the court was a tall date-palm, with sprays of rich, orange-hued blossoms rising among its graceful plumes of dark green.

I hardly expected to meet in an obscure Mexican town a party of American tourists passing the time in placid, ease just as they might be encountered at a nice Swiss inn at some Alpine valley. Yet we encountered at the San Diego a most delightful company of our compatriots. One, an eminent artist, who was something of an invalid, was enthusiastic over the delicious air and glorious scenery of the place. These winter days in Cuautla were all like our ideal June weather at home, he said. There was no intense heat, while cold and chilliness were absolute strangers. Mexico he regarded as superior to Florida as a winter refuge. In these warm lands, besides the endless scenic variety, there was an unchanging climate all through the winter; at least on the Pacific side of the mountains. On the Gulf slope, as at Orizaba, there were occasional fogs, rain and raw northers.

"And then there are no mosquitoes here," said another friend. "I have never seen a land so free from them. The few insects one meets here are really contemptible; I feel inclined to pity them for their feebleness."

It is, indeed, a great mistake for people to come to Mexico from the North in the winter, and confine themselves to the capital. They experience the chilly weather which now and then visits the high regions of the central tableland at that season, and with the abrupt transitions of cold and heat from morning to noon and night they at times feel more discomfort than in their wintry Northern homes, where genial hearth fires glow, until at last they perhaps leave for home in disgust, anathematizing the whole country.

All this is a mistake, when on every hand are pleasant places like Cuautla, within easy reach of the capital by rail, journeying to which might fill many weeks with a round of pleasure, novel scenes greeting the eye everywhere. There is much of the great interest to tourists to be seen in and around the capital, but there are pleasanter winter abiding places near by. It is, however, a good central point from which to make agreeable tours all over the country. Now that railway communication with the United States is completed, there will be many pleasure travelers to Mexico. When they come they should remember that there are rich, warm valleys down below, close at hand, where simple existence seems a luxury, amid the delicious airs of genuine tropical surroundings.

Broad and Narrow-Tired Wagon.

Mr. J. W. Sanborn, of the Missouri agricultural college, has, with usual good common sense, been making some experiments to demonstrate the value o good roads and broad tires on road and farm wagons. He says that the condition of the country road is one of the surest indications of the civilization of the people. The trials were made with a carefully tested dynamometer; the loads drawn were 3,665 pounds each, and the felloes and tires were 1½ inch and three inches, respectively. The first test was on Blue Grass sward somewhat moist, though it had not rained for two weeks. The average draft of the narrow-tired wagon was 439 pounds, while that of the wide-tired was 310 pounds—a difference of over 41 per cent. in favor of the wide tire. Assuming the wagons to weigh 1,000 pounds each, the same team could draw 3,248 pounds on the wide tire as easily as 2,000 pounds on the narrow, and besides this, the wide tires did not cut through and injure the turf as the others did. In a further test, on a partially dried dirt road, the broad wheels showed a draft of 371 pounds to 441 for the narrow, being 12.7 per cent. in favor of broad tires, so that with the same wear and tear of team, the broad-tired wagon could carry 331 pounds per ton load more than the other. Although these differences disappear on hard well-made roads, he concludes that every farm should have one or more broad tired wagons, and says the teamsters on the College farm always prefer such for use about the farm. We have long known the value of a broad tire for farm wagons, and have such a one for all work on raw ground or meadow land. It costs very little, if any, more, and soon pays for itself by saving the team.

A Model Church.

From the Toronto Globe.

The Church of the Holy Communion, New York, sets an example worthy of all imitation as a working church. It has 900 communicants on its roll. These keep in operation a baby shelter; an industrial school, registering 354 names; an employment society, furnishing work to sixty poor women each week, a workingmen's club whose membership numbers 203, whose income last year was over $1,800 and which has in connection a literary club and a relief association; a special club for boys; a home for aged women, which had last year fourteen inmates, and provides this year for twenty; a shelter for respectable girls, which has never less than thirty inmates; a Summer home at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, where last Summer more than 100 persons were entertained; and a coal fund, by means of which poor people are able to obtain coal at greatly reduced rates. It may readily be conceived that a church whose members thus devote their energies to works of practical philanthropy is not likely to have either time or inclination for the numerous "entertainments" which seem the best expedient most modern churches are able to devise for promoting social intercourse and good will. We venture to say the loss is not felt by the members of the church in question; and that its methods in addition to all the material and moral benefits they confer on outsiders, will be found much more conducive to brotherly kindness, and much less fruitful of idle and mischievous gossip, not to say back biting and slander, than those of the churches so much given to socials of the tea-drinking and speechification kind.

NEW USES FOR WOOD.

Some Curiosities Manufactured Out of the Fibre of Wood.

From the New York Mail and Express.

"Have you seen my cabinet of curiosities?" asked a fruit dealer of a reporter for the Mail and Express, as he led the way into his office. On the wall of his office was arranged a black walnut cabinet with well filled shelves. Taking from one of them a piece of wood so pierced with holes that it seemed a wonder that it held itself together at all, the dealer continued: "This piece comes from Mexico. A contractor who was building a railroad across a salt marsh had occasion to examine some of the piles which had been driven into the water, twenty-six days after the work had been completed. What was his astonishment to find that everyone of the hundreds of piles which had been driven was pierced with holes and had been made utterly worthless. He found an immense number of small worms in the wood.

"One of the most wonderful things in the collection is a piece of the tree from which this is taken," continued the merchant, taking up what appeared to be a piece of plain meshed lace of fine quality. "The lace-bark tree from which that is taken grows in Jamaica. A sea captain, in whom I have an excellent friend, brought me this halter and whip made from the bark of this tree. Whenever a native wants a whip he cuts down a small sappling of the right length, and begins beating one end of it with a heavy piece of wood. The fibers soon separate, and by careful manipulating the 'lace' structure of the wood soon shows itself. When sufficient wood has been beaten to form the lash he braids the strands, and 'crack!' his whip is made."

The natives use the lace cloth or fiber for the manufacture of articles of clothing. The wife of an English officer who visited Jamaica, was so struck with the wonderful properties of the tree, and the beauty of the lace which was made from it, that she constructed a bonnet with admerable skill entirely from the material, and sent it as a present to Queen Victoria. The Queen was so well pleased with the curious gift, that she sent a personal letter to the officer's wife, thanking her for the present and expressing great surprise that a thing of such beauty could be made from the bark of a tree."

"This," remarked the speaker, taking up a big pod at least a foot and a half long and an inch or two wide, "is the famous storm-bean of the East Indies. I sent half way around the world to get this specimen. These pods, which contain a number of beans, when dry hang in great numbers from the trees on which they grow. The least breeze passing through the branches sets the beans a-rattling in the pods. When a tornado such as frequently visits the tropics comes tearing through the forest, the noise of the rattling storm-beans becomes terrific. The natives are often frightened at the unearthly sound, and believe themselves in great danger from the evil spirits who are said to inhabit the jungles."

A Story of George Bowie.

Cleveland Leader: A story I heard last night relating to George Bowie, the inventor of the bowie knife, "or the Arkansaw toothpick," as it is also called. It is said that Bowie was as gentle and chivalrous as he was brave and regardless of human life. One night, years ago, while riding in a stage toward Ohio, on the old national pike, a poorly-clad old woman and her little boy of about ten years were for miles the only other passengers. Bowie did not speak to them but wrapping himself up in his own coat, slept as well as he could under the jolting of the stage. An hour later a big burly German entered the coach at a way station, and immediately took out a clay pipe, which smelled as though it had been smoked since the days of Sir Walter Raliegh. This he filled with tobacco of the vilest brand, and began to smoke. The stage was soon filled with his exhalations and the smoke began to make the old lady sick, and she opened the window and sought relief from the fresh air which poured in. But the weather was bitter cold and she had to close it. She then asked the boy to beg the man to stop smoking. This he did, but the German loudly said: "If the old woman don't like it she can get out. I paid my passage and I will smoke what I please." In the meantime George Bowie had awakened and had seen the whole procedure. As the German uttered these words Bowie put his hand at the back back of his neck, and drawing out one of his famous bowies said coolly: You are mistaken about your smoking. You will put out that pipe at once and keep your mouth shut, or, by the eternal, I will run you through the heart! I would have you understand I am George Bowie, and George Bowie means what he says!" With that he slowly began to advance his knife toward the German's stomach, and the latter frantically threw his pipe out of the door and begged for his life. During the next half hour the German said nothing, but looked pale. As Bowie thought over his action and noted the sickness of the old woman he grew still more angry, and at the next station he forced the smoker to get out of the stage and ride with the driver for the remainder of his journey.

He Wasn't Sure.

Tennyson cries,—

"Oh, for a touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still;"

but the sentimental young man who boasted that he would know the touch of the hand anywhere, and identify the owner without the voice, was "farther along" in such matters than the tender stripling who is described below as doing escort duty.

Robert, a bashful lad, recently summoned up enough courage to escort a young lady home. At the breakfast-table next morning his father said,—

"Well, my son, did you go home with any of the girls last night?"

"Yes," said Bob.

"Who was she?"

Robert hesitated, but finally blurted out, "I thought it was Annie Warren, but when we got to the turn of the road, she went into Ellen Ham's house."

"But I should think you might have told by the sound of her voice," said his father.

"Neither of us said a word," said Bob, blushing and stammering.

Gen. O. F. Hatch of Minneapolis was an early schoolmate and friend of Gov. Cleveland. It is intimated by his friends that this early intimacy is going to be worth a postoffice to him now.

Vanderbilt and Grant.

About once in so often it becomes the duty of The Sun to say something decent of a millionaire, and some very respectable people have almost come to the conclusion that this paper is regularly retained by millionaires, to stand by them when they get in a tight place. No man is so poor that The Sun will not do him justice, and no man can be so rich that it will see a national injustice done him and not enter a protest. The subject of this interesting sketch is William H. Vanderbilt, of New York. Half the papers in the country are warming William up one side and down the other, because it is alleged that he is ruining General Grant by causing him to mortgage all his property, trophies, presents, etc., to secure the hundred and fifty thousand dollars Grant borrowed the day before his firm failed. The papers say Vanderbilt is a heartless wretch, a whelp and a nine-spot. "Vanderbilt Takes All!" is the heading of the article going the rounds, and editors who can think of anything mean to say, say it, and say it quick and often. And yet, Vanderbilt is showing more genuine heart in the matter than Grant's most intimate friends, and has allowed this stuff of Grant's to be covered by his mortgage in order to save the trophies from Grant away from the creditors of the thief Ward. Did Vanderbilt show a very mean disposition when Grant went to his house one Sunday and asked for a check for a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, to save his bank, and "Bill" signed the check and handed it over to Ulysses? Vanderbilt simply knew Grant as a great general, and he didn't ask any security except his word. Would he have done the same by any business man in New York? Not likely. He was not lending money as a business, and was not protecting banks from failure, but there came to him an old man, hobbling on crutches, a man who had saved his country, as nearly as one man could save a country. He did not come as a business man, but as a neighbor, a friend. Vanderbilt would have lost the money before he would have humiliated the old man by asking security. He just handed the money out as he would lend a shirt to a friend whose shirts had not come back from the laundry. The next day the check was used, and the bank busted, and there were not assets enough to put in tea. Vanderbilt no doubt felt sore, but he didn't feel as sore as Grant did. Grant knew what Vanderbilt had a right to think of him. He had a right to class Grant with Ward, the thief, and Grant went right to him and told him he had been deceived, and having borrowed the money on his own personal account he wanted to secure Bill, so he mortgaged, everything he had on earth. It is well he did, and well that a man with so kind a heart as Vanderbilt, the abused millionaire, holds the mortgage. When a subscription was started to raise money to pay the "Shylock" who held the mortgage on Grant's property, the "Shylock" says, "Well, you put me down for about $60,000." And if no money was raised the mortgage would never be foreclosed.

It is a very serious thing for a man to be worth as many hundred million dollars as Vanderbilt is, because it sets thousands and hundreds of thousands of people talking and writing against him, and a man has got to have a pretty level head to keep from hating the whole world, if he reads a thousandth part of the bad things said of him, but we doubt if there is a man in America who does more good with money than this same Vanderbilt. He cannot stand on the street or in his office and be giving all the time, in fact he can scarcely give at all, personally, except in cases like the half million dollar gift to the College of Physicians and Surgeons. If he gave audience to one in ten of those who want to talk to him to bleed him, or to get subscriptions, it would take him twenty hours a day, and because he refuses to be importuned, he is called a hard-hearted wretch, and yet through others he gives away enough every year to build a hundred miles of railroad. His action in regard to General Grant is generous, kind hearted and noble, and that case is not an isolated one by any means. If the public knew of a hundredth part of the good that side-whiskered man does, they would take off their hats to him when he passes on the street, instead sneering as many do, and when they pass his mansion on Fifth Avenue they would say "God bless that man," instead of what they often do say, and if the time ever came when his house was surrounded by a mob, as was Jay Gould's recently, a million men would march to its defense at a moment's notice, and make a human wall around Bill Vanderbilt and his loved ones that no crazy mob in all the world could have any impression on. It is cruel, unpatriotic and desperately mean for respectable newspapers to allow irresponsible reporters and cheap writers to have carte-blanche to abuse a man like Vanderbilt, and it is little wonder that he delights in getting in a wagon behind a fast horse and flying away from all mankind, and forgetting that he is abused and misunderstood and maligned because he is rich and does not advertise in the newspapers every time he gives away a million dollars for charity. About fifty years from now the fellows that are abusing Vanderbilt will be giving money freely to build a monument to him, and they will ask pardon of high heaven for the wrongs they have done him. He is a thoroughbred, and the time will come when everybody will believe it. Peck's Sun.

When Daunkenness Was A Virtue.

The reign of Geroge III. of England was the most openly dissolute period in the history of Great Britain. State officials who had required reputations for drunkenness were then the most popular. It was then that gout attained its highest degree of perfection. A man who did not wear a split shoe was only under protest admitted into the circles of polite society. Sir Philip Francis, upon awakening at night and finding himself sober, would immediately get out of bed and proceed to get drunk again. Lord Weymouth, after spending a fortune and becoming utterly worthless, was appointed Secretary of State in recognition of his abilities as a drunkard.

THE seacoast of California has been visited this season by several varieties of birds which have never before been known to leave the mountains. This has generally been supposed to indicate a severe winter, but, according to science, the migration is more probably due to the prevailing scarcity of all kinds of seeds in the mountains this season.

PASSING EVENTS.

Cravats and scarfs are made of paper by a Berlin manufacturer.

"The Hopping Disciples of the Devil," is the name of a dancing club in Texas.

New York proposes to introduce the London fashion of hiring empty houses for balls.

Over three hundred dwellings have been built in Montgomery, Ala., during the past twelve months.

Eight little bootblacks, who had beat their way from New Orleans, arrived at Los Angeles, Cal., recently.

The Washington Territory Insane asylum contains at present 149 inmates—110 men and thirty-nine women.

The United States possesses an Italian population of 170,000, of whom over 20,000 reside in the city of New York.

Malarial fevers are greatly prevalent in Toronto, Canada, and there have lately been numerous fatal cases of typhoid.

Of the 275 students at John Hopkins university 140 are "graduate students" from nearly eighty different institutions.

At the New Orleans exposition the electric lights alone cost about $1,250 per day; the music $250, and the police about $350.

An American caterer has introduced "crab sausages," which are declared by Ajacius of old to be "delicate and tempting." History repeats itself in gastronomy.

The Methodist Episcopal church is going to start another university in western Missouri or eastern Kansas. A Kansas citizen offers $500,000 if they will call it by his name.

There is great suffering and loss of stock on the north and south sides of the Red river, in Louisiana, caused by floods from recent rains. At least five thousand head of stock were lost.

A horse requires at least 400 cubic feet of fresh air per hour. The English army regulations allow in new stables, to each horse, 1,605 cubic feet, and 100 square feet of floor space.

The Gem Social club is the euphonious name of an opium den of large dimensions recently established in Philadelphia. White men are the godfathers of the infamous resort.

The flaxseed crop of the past season in this country is said not to exceed 7,500 bushels. Prices have ranged from $1.68 in May to $1.33 in November, and the average price for the year was $1.46.

When a house is to be let in Mexico the owner sticks an old newspaper in the window. It isn't very tasteful and seldom improves the appearance of the house, but it is economical and is understood by the community.

Sylvia Duboice, a negress aged 116, lives in destitution on the bleak summit of the Sourland mountain, in Hunterdon county, New Jersey, in a little frame cabin, with one room, hardly large enough for the swinging of a cat.

In the New York pilot service there are nineteen boats, with 133 licensed pilots, all but two of whom are in active service. During 1884 6,045 vessels were piloted in and out of the harbor at a total cost to the vessel owners of $415,513.45.

A handsome grotto, formed of rich gold and silver bearing ores, has just been erected in the Colorado section of the New Orleans expositon. The walls are composed of specimens from 250 mines, some of the specimens having an assay value of $5,000 a ton.

Not long since the Anchor line tried the experiment of a direct line from Calcutta to New York via the Suez canal, and it has been so successful that the fleet will be increased. The cargoes consist of linseed, indigo, hides, jute, and coffee from Ceylon.

A young married lady of "upper Manhattan," says The Mail and Express, who has been addicted to painting her lips as well as her cheeks and eyelashes, is now under medical treatment to reduce the size of her lips, which have become "horribly enlarged" by chemical poison.

It is now learned that the defalcations discovered in the office of the auditor of public accounts of Virginia will at least reach $100,000, and some of those engaged in the investigation of the accounts say they will not be surprised if the amount reaches $150,000.

There is a charming absence of circumlocution about the following verdict recently tendered by an Arkansas coroner's jury over the remains of a well-known drunkard: "The feller come ter his death by switchin' off from one kind o' whisky ter another. The moral o' this here verdick is, don't switch."

Texas is a great state. The El Paso jail is out of fix and there is no lumber at hand to tinker it up with, and so prisoners are chained by the neck. An innocent man was tied up in this way by mistake the other day, and waited thirty-six hours for the easy-going authorities to discover their blunder.

The largest bridge in the world crosses Lake Pontchartrain, at New Orleans, and is twenty-two miles in length. It is trestle-work, on piles, and is made of cypress wood, which was first saturated with creosote oil, which renders it impervious to moisture and proof against the attack of barnacles.

The number of plant specimens known to botanists has been placed at one hundred thousand, but it seems there are many still unknown. Last summer an English botanist made an excursion of but fifty miles into the mountains from Canton, China, and of the 320 specimens he procured, 15 proved wholly new to science.

A German experimenter, Prof. E. Wollny, has found that soil covered with living herbage or dead vegetable matter is colder in summer and warmer in winter than bare soil under otherwise similar conditions. The difference of temperature is greatest in summer and least in spring and autumn. Bare soil heats more quickly in the spring and cools more quickly in the autumn than that covered with living dead vegetable matter.

This remarkable story is vouched for by a correspondent of The Cleveland Herald: Benjamin Giaque, who died suddenly in Berlin, O., a few days ago, had a large dog which was his best friend in sickness and in health. Giaque would get intoxicated, and the dog would do the same and wabble and fall. When Giaque went to bed the dog would lie beside him, and when his master would groan the dog would howl. During the three weeks of Giaque's sickness the dog was very sick, and what capped the climax the very day and hour that he died the dog died.

CURRENT TOPICS.

THE marquis of Lorne always begins breakfast with a large bowl of oatmeal.

AUSTRALIA has four universities which rank with Oxford, Cambridge and Harvard.

THE Mississippi carries solid matter into the Gulf of Mexico at the rate of 150,000,000 tons a year.

A TOLEDO lawyer, on trial for kissing a young lady in an elevator, has entered a plea of insanity.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE'S "Ben Hur" has been translated into the Turkish by command of the Sultan.

A BOSTON man claims that residents of the Hub are nervous because of a peculiarity in the atmosphere.

MME. JENNY LIND GOLDSCHMIDT is losing health, and thinks of reducing her hours of labor at the Royal College of Music.

THE death is announced, at the age of 76 years, of the Countess de Cambaceres, eldest daughter of Marshal Davoust, prince of Eckmuhl.

AMONG the fashionable waltze now taught in London are "the Boston Slouch," "the New York Pumphandle," "the Kensington crawl," and "the English straight."

REV. DR. SPOTSWOOD, who died in New Castle, Pa., recently, was a lineal descendant of the colonial governor, Alexander Spotswood, after whom Spotsylvania county, the scene of the battle of Spotsylvania, was named.

AN exhibition of the works of Hans Makart has been opened in Vienna. His pictures are to be found in most of the great European galleries. The Art association of Vienna desires gradually to collect as many as possible of them.

CAMERON, the correspondent who was killed in the Soudan recently, was unmarried, but his aged mother was dependent upon him for support. The London Standard, for which he was working, has granted her a handsome life pension.

SENATOR HOAR is said to be the worst story-teller in the senate. He likes to entertain his friends by relating funny incidents now and then, but they say he would spoil the most laughable story ever known in the telling of it.

WHEN Adam Black, the Edinburgh publisher, was sounded on the subject of receiving knighthood, he said: "Nae, nae; it wad na do. You see," he added, "if a boy cam' into ma shop and said, 'a ha'peth o' slate-pencil, Sir Adam,' it would na sound weel."

PROF. W. J. ROLFE believes in the probability of Shakspeare having visited Italy. The atmosphere of many plays is thoroughly Italian. Portia says: "This night, methinks, is but the daylight sick, it looks a little paler." No such moonlight was ever seen in England.

IN his passage through Paris, en route for Cannes, the prince of Wales stopped thirty-six hours. He went to see Bernhardt in "Theodora." Between the acts he visited Sarah in her box, and warmly congratulated her. The actress ordered a bottle of champagne and the prince drank to her health.

A BOSTON lady recently invited Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes to one of her small receptions, and then half apologized to him, fearing he might think the invitation was inspired by a double motive. "Oh," said he in his usual kindly manner, "use me just as you please. If I can be of any service to you, I shall be very glad."

KNIGHTHOOD does not always come unexpectedly as a reward for faithful services. It is often secured by effect and influence, like some other honors. The mayor of Chichester recently applied for the title because he had nine times been elected to the civic chair, but Mr. Gladstone, in a diplomatic and noncommital note, refused the request.

THE marriage of Queen Victoria's grandchild, Princess Elizabeth of Hesse, with the Grand Duke Sergius of Russia is anything but a happy one. She has discovered that there is some foundation for the saying that you have only to scratch a Russian to find a Tartar. Still, they are both young, and matters may mend; many husbands and wives are far less happy duing the first year of married life than afterward.

THERE were only five French academicians younger than Edmond About, who was 56, namely: Francois Coppee, 42; Sully Prudhomme, 49; Philleron, 50; Halevy, 50, and Victorien Sardou, 53. Taine and Perraud are 56. Ollivier is 59; Dumas, 60; Renan and Cherbuliez, 61; Pasteur, Bertrand, Du Camp, and D'Aumale, 62; Octave Feuillet, De Mazade, and the Duc de Broglie, 63; Augier, 64; John Lemoinne and Labiche, 69; Jules Simon, 70; Duruy, 73; De Lesseps, 75; Legouve, 77; Victor Hugo, 82; and M. de Viel-Castel, the doyen, is 85.

INVITED to deliver the St. Patrick's day oration this year before the Irishmen of Ottawa, Canada, Mr. John Boyle O'Reilly, of The Pilot (Boston), inquired of the English home secretary if her majesty's government would on that occasion grant him immunity from arrest on British soil for his complicity in the Fenian operations of 1866. The answer was that such immunity "could not safely be granted." So, although his countrymen in Canada are still anxious for him to visit them, says The Pilot, "as he cannot afford to alarm his family and perhaps seriously interfere with his business by such an experiment, it is not probable that he will go."

"THAT WOMAN."

"Yes, Winona, the less you have to do with that woman the better pleased I will be," said Frank Bennett to his wife as they stood together on the veranda of the Mountain house.

"At any rate," replied Winona, "you might at least designate her by her proper title—'that woman' is scarcely a term for a gentleman to use in speaking of a lady."

Bertha Roland, the woman of whom they were speaking, was a widow, eight-and-twenty years of age. Her hair was a deep gold, which suggested hours of patience spent under the dyer's hands. Her complexion was beautified by the best cosmetics, but even without these artificial additions she would have been a handsome woman. Winona was just the opposite—dark, petite, and only pretty.

"Well, then," said her husband, "Mrs. Roland is not a fit companion for my wife, and I want your friendship with her to come to an end at once."

"Then you will want in vain," replied the wife. "I am not going to insult her just on account of your silly prejudice, which is caused by your begrudging me the little pleasure I get in her society."

"You are wrong, Winona, you are at liberty to enjoy yourself as much as you please, but not by putting yourself under obligations to that woman."

"There you are, 'that woman' again. Mrs. Roland, my dear husband, considers me under no obligation because I ride out with her on the back of one of her horses or play lawn tennis on her premises. She is my confidential friend, and I am not going to be ungrateful."

"Very well," Frank sadly said, "do as you please, Winona. I shall say no more, no matter how much I feel that Mrs. Roland is not a fit associate for a respectable woman." Then he walked away.

Winona was too angry to speak. This was their first quarrel and she felt it keenly. They had just been married six months, and until summer had brought them to the Catskills all had been peace and happiness.

No more was said in regard to Mrs. Roland until after supper, when Winona said:

"Frank, as you have promised to play cards with Mr. Jackson, I think I will just run over to Mrs. Roland's; I promised her I would."

"That woman again," exclaimed Frank; but he said no more and Winona went.

Her husband watched her enter the gate of the magnificent villa, and then turned away with a sigh. Mr. Jackson was beside him.

"You don't seem to like Mrs. Roland," said he.

"I do not dislike her," returned Frank; "but we know nothing about her or her antecedents. My wife is infatuated with her, and all I say will not keep her from that house."

"I agree with you; come take a turn in the garden and I will tell you the best cure in the world for your wife's infatuation."

In the meantime Winona hastened to her friend's house, and found it alive with mirth and music. Mrs. Roland's face beamed with smiles as she welcomed Winona, and until 10 o'clock the merriment was unbounded; then, to Winona's utter surprise and displeasure her husband was ushered into the parlor.

He spoke to the hostess, politely but coldly, and received her introduction to the other guests in a like manner.

Then he advanced to his wife, saying: "Winona, I have come to escort you home as soon as you are ready to go. You need not be in any particular hurry though."

Winona was pleased with his words, and followed her own inclination as to hastening her departure.

Music and wine followed, and while Winona played on the grand piano her husband talked to Mrs. Roland.

On the way home he said to Winona: "Your friend is a nicer woman than I thought her to be."

The young wife's face beamed with smiles. "Oh, Frank!" she cried, "I knew you would come to my way of thinking yet. When you know her more you will like her better.

This was not his last visit to Mrs. Roland's; many more followed, and soon the young man could not speak highly enough of her. Winona was overjoyed. At last Frank was coming to his senses and learning how to appreciate her friend. One evening she sat sewing on the hotel veranda when Mr. Jackson approached, and seating himself beside her asked:

"Have you ever read 'The Treachery of Laura?'"

"No," she replied.

"I have it here," he continued. "If you would like to read it you may. It is a remarkably well-written story. It deals with a subject I have often thought of. A woman pretends to be another woman's friend only to take from her her husband's affection. Do you not think such treachery is unpardonable?"

I do," cried Winona, "but—but the husband is often to blame." Then her face flushed and tears filled her eyes. "Why did you speak of this to me? You are only hinting at my husband and Mrs. Roland. He is infatuated with her. Oh, I wish I had never met that woman!"

"I fear, Mrs. Bennet," said Mr. Jackson, "that your husband is not to blame. I myself do not think Mrs. Roland entirely ignores his attentions; at least let me advise you to watch him a little more closely."

That evening Mrs. Roland gave one of her charming garden fetes, and the prettiest woman present was voted to be Mrs. Bennet. Mr. Jackson was there, and about 9 o'clock asked her to walk about the grounds. Soon the dazzling lights of the house were left behind, and they stood in an obscure summerhouse.

"Why have you brought me here, Mr. Jackson?" asked Winona, when she saw they were alone.

"Hush," he said; "some one is coming."

"I shall not remain here——" but her protest was cut short by the entrance of her husband and Bertha Roland. Being in the shadow they did not observe her and Mr. Jackson.

"What a pity," Bertha was saying. "What a pity you tied yourself down to that little doll-baby."

"I am very proud of my wife," he said.

"And you love her, too, I suppose?"

"Why should I not?"

"That is evading my question. You have led me to suppose your heart was wholly mine."

"But I have no money, my dear Bertha, and what good would I be to you?"

"You are unkind; you are cruel, when you know how much I love you. I have wealth sufficient for two; what should I care for your money?"

"I have heard enough!" cried Winona, springing from the darkness. "Frank, our paths will lie in opposite directions in the future. Mr. Jackson, take me home."

"Yes, Mrs. Bennet," said that gentleman, "after I have informed you that your husband is perfectly innocent and this has been a ruse of his to show the truecharacter and unbounded friendship of Bertha Roland!"

"Thank heaven!" gasped the young wife; "and thank you for opening my eyes to the treachery of that woman!"

"Mrs. Roland, my dear," said Frank, "not that woman!" Remember how you berated me for so designating her!"

Winona only sobbed and nestled closer to his breast.

Vassar Girls Discuss the Egyptian Question.

The Fat Contributor in Texas Siftings.

At the last regular meeting of the Blue-eyed Violet Club of Vassar College, the subject of the Egyptian complications came up for debate. We will explain that the Blue-eyed Violets is a society composed of the more advanced young ladies of Vassar, which has been organized for the examination and discussion of the popular topics of the day, and for mutual improvement. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, the President remarked that no question of the present time exceeded in interest and importance that of the Soudan. The eyes of the civilized world are at this moment turned upon Egypt and the Nile, and the great heart of humanity is throbbing its sympathy for the brave General Gordon shut up in Khartoum.

"Will some one please state where Egypt can be found?" asked the President bending her eyes on the assembled Violets.

There was an embarrassing silence for a few moments, when a young lady timidly suggested that perhaps it could be found on the map. Another said she found it in the Old Testament; it was the place where Joseph went to buy corn.

"I remember now," said a Chicago girl, whose father belongs to the Corn Exchange, "it is in Southern Illinois; General Logan came from Egypt."

"And he can go back again now," said a Mississippi girl, who wore a Cleveland badge pinned on her shoulder.

"Girls," exclaimed the President, sharply, "I must request you to avoid political subjects in these debates."

"Well, I don't care," pouted the Chicago girl; "it's a downright shame that Mrs. Logan isn't going to be the Vice President. She is just as sweet as she can be, and they say that she receives beautifully."

"You are quite in the wrong, young ladies," said the President. "the Egypt we are considering is not in Illinois, but in Africa. Can any one bound Egypt?"

"I can," cried a spectacled young lady from Boston.

"Proceed then," said the President.

"Egypt is bounded on the North by De Lesseps and the Suez canal, on the east by the Red Sea, on the South by the Abyssinia, and on the west by the Great Sahara."

"Bernhardt?" suggested a mischievous maiden near by.

"Its productions," continued the Boston girl, without noticing the interruption, "are wheat, corn, camels, rice, rhinoceroses, pyramids, obelisks, mamelukes and mummies."

"Bravo!" cried the President. "In bounding it, however, you might mention Tripoli on the northwest, which would make it——"

"More binding," put in a St. Louis girl.

This remark brought a severe reburke from the President. She deprecated in the strongest terms the employment of slang. It was unladylike and detracted from the dignity of their deliberations.

"Let us drop it from this time out," suggested a Denver girl.

"That's the ticket," said her neighbor, "count me in on that."

"Now you're shouting," cried the President, "let the show go on."

"I should like to sail on the beautiful Red Sea," said a brunette from Galveston; red is so becoming to my complexion. And it is the fashionable color in Paris now, I'm told."

"She would like to paint the town red," whispered a Montana girl to her neighbor.

"It must have been a red letter day when they discovered it," said a Philadelphia girl.

"Discovered what?"

"Discovered the Red C. of course."

A demure young lady who had been silent thus far, raised her eyes from her embroidery to remark that it must be an o-pun sea judging from the comments upon it.

"Speaking of De Lesseps," said another Violet, "they say his Panama scheme will inflict great injury on the United States."

"But we can collect damages from him in the courts," said the daughter of a Washington statesman confidently.

"In what way?" asked the President.

"Suez canal, you know," was the response.

The Great Grazing Country.

In response to an inquiry as to what are the boundaries of the great grazing country of the West, and what are its possibilities, the Denver Live Stock Record says: "The plains country—that susceptible of growing cattle—embraces a district of 3,000 miles in length from north to south, and 1,500 miles wide from east to west, and has a grazing capacity sufficient to maintain 20,000,000 of horned cattle and twice as many more of horses and sheep. To be more explicit, we will say the country where cattle grow and thrive on the open plain at all seasons of the year commences at the Gulf of Mexico in the south and extends far into the British Possessions in the north; commences on the westernmost border of Kansas in the east, and extends to the Sierra Nevada mountains in the west. We will furthermore say, Colorado, susceptible herself of holding 3,000,000 of cattle, is in the geographical centre of this vast grazing field."

Soudan and the Soudanese.

What is the extent of the region known as the Egyptian Soudan? What is the character of the country? What are its productions? How do its millions of inhabitants manage to subsist? What races or tribes constitute its population? These are questions often asked since the barbarian hordes under the leadership of a Nubian boat builder who calls himself the Prophet, took up arms against the detested Egyptian task-masters and tax-gatherers and their European ally.

The Egyptian Soudan is a vast territory stretching southward from the twenty-third degree of north latitude, which runs not far from the second cataract of the Nile. The principal provinces are Nubia, Sennaar, Kordofan, Dar Fur, and Dongola. These provinces have been made tributary to Egypt by conquest. Nubia lies east of the Nile and extends from the northern limit of the Soudan almost to the southern extremity of Sennaar, more than 300 miles south of Khartoum. A large part of Nubia is an arid waste, consisting of sandstone and granite. Vegetation is scanty and the water supply at best precarious. Along the banks of the Nile the soil is cultivable. The products are numerous, including maire, dates, tobacco, coffee and cotton. The Nubians, or Dongolawee, are a dark brown race, hardy and brave, and are excellent fighters.

The great province of Kordofan, stretching southwest from Khartoum, is a grassy steppe country, poorly watered except in the summer season when there are frequent showers. The inhabitants are of mixed races and are fanatical Mussulmans, ignorant, without tribal organization, and in every respect inferior to the Arabs. They cultivate the soil and engage to some extent in cattle raising. As warriors it is said the Kordofan people rank low; being badly armed and less courageous than the Dongolawee. On the plateau of Dar Fur, west of Kordofan, the soil is capable of cultivation, but yields a scanty return of corn and cotton. Mixed races inhabit that region, as in Kordofan, but they are more resolute and warlike. They raise cattle, sheep and camels, and are nomads, wandering from place to place, having no villages. The province of Sennaar, in the northern part of which Khartoum is situated, is an oasis in the desert. This province, lying between southern Nubia and Kordofan, is the river region and comprises the real riches of the Soudan. Here an abundance of fertile land is found along the Blue Nile and the White. Large crops of grain are raised near the rivers to a distance of 300 miles from Khartoum. The breeding of cattle and sheep is also extensively carried on in Sennaar. The city of Khartoum is the commercial center of this entire country, from Berber on the north, to the Shillook region on the White Nile. Its importance, therefore, from a military point of view in the present war is readily seen.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Management of Sheep.

Sheep management should be marked with regularity. With no other farm animals is the reward so great for punctuality and care in feeding, or the punishment so severe and certain in case of neglect. Ewes for breeding should be served by the ram from the middle of October to the fifteenth of November, if lambs are intended for the increase of the flock of stock sheep. If for fattening, they should come earlier, and will need greater care than those dropped when the warm days begin to come. Ewes that are to raise lambs in the spring, should be fed hay and a small quantity of grain, each day during the winter. We have found no trouble in keeping breeding ewes in good, strong condition by such treatment, and never have any trouble from ewes not owning their lambs. During the lambing period, the flock needs the best possible attention. Feed good clover hay and bran, alternating with their regular feed of unground corn and oats, mixed in equal quantities. The amount of feed required will depend upon the flock, their shelter and previous management. A safe quantity is six quarts twice daily, to forty ewes, provided they have been grained some during the winter. In flocks devoted to the raising of fine breeders, it is the custom for a man to sleep in the barn near the sheep during the period of lambing, in order to prevent any lambs from becoming chilled, or to render any attention which the flock may need during the night. In any ordinary flock this would not be best, but it serves to illustrate the constant watchfulness needed, as a few lambs dropped dead during a cold day, greatly reduces the profits of sheep raising. The ewes and their lambs should have the earliest and best pasture on the farm that the dams may give plenty of milk to keep the lambs growing. They will, in a few days, need no attention from the flock-owner. After harvest, when the early cut clover is springing up in fresh second growth, wean the lambs, turning them into the clover field, and give them a feed of bran every morning. With this treatment they will not fall away much in flesh.—G. G. Megrail in American Agriculturist.

Have You an Asparagus Bed?

The seedsmen of New York city now offer Colossal and Defiance, and, dealers in Boston and Philadelphia have their local varities. Probably there is no important difference between these large kinds. A pound of seed is variously estimated to furnish from three thousand to ten thousand plants. There are about twenty thousand seeds in a pound, and if carefully sowed by hand, he larger number may be raised. Those who grow the largest asparagus for market, set the plants six by four feet apart, but the planting is ordinarily much closer. Rows four feet apart, and the plants two and a half feet in the rows, will give good results. The land being marked out at the proper distances, a shovelful of good manure is worked in where the marks cross, and the plants set out, carefully spreading the roots. Four inches is deep enough to place the crown, though the Long Island growers, with a very light soil, cover the plants seven or eight inches deep. For the first two years the plants should not be cropped, and the third season only a moderate cutting should be made. It seems a long while to wait for returns, but when they do come they will continue regularly for twenty years or more. Planted in this manner, there should be an annual manuring to maintain productiveness.—Dr. Thurber in American Agriculturist.

Prepare for the Hatching Season.

The time is now approaching for the interested poultryman and the thrifty farmer who thinks, and rightly, that fowls properly managed, are good paying stock on the farm, to make preparation for the annual setting of eggs and hatching of chickens. It will not be well for those having no warm place for the young chicks, to attempt hatching before the last of March or the first of April. Pullets coming out at this time lay in October, and with good care, will continue to lay all winter, when eggs are scarce and high, and cockerels will bring more for broilers at three months old than when raised later and kept much longer. Keep watch of your flocks, so that the difference in their dispositions can be noted. Use only those hens for sitters that are quiet and not inclined to be nervous, for they will invariably make surer hatchers and better mothers. A hen that is uneasy and wants to be off the nest frequently during incubation, especially in the cold weather of spring, should not be depended on. Provide the hens with large, flattish nests, and place whole corn and fresh water each day near them. It is most necessary to keep the nest and body of the fowl free vermin, for if they are not, they will not sit quietly, and labor and eggs are lost. It cannot be expected that success will follow attempts at hatching and raising chickens, unless the hens have been kept in a clean and thrifty condition during the winter. Filth causes weakness and breeds disease, and the product, if any, of a slovenly kept flock of fowls, will always be weak and unprofitable in the extreme.—H. C. Brown, in American Agriculturist.

Feeding and Care of Swine.

None of our farm animals answers more quickly to, or yields more profit from good treatment, than swine; and, in many localities, none are more neglected than these homely, but useful animals. In the west, where hogs run at large and follow the droves of feeding steers, their management after they are weaned is very simple, but where hogs are kept in yards or pens and are expected to subsist mainly on skimmed milk, or the refuse from the kitchen, more care is necessary and their wants must be carefully attended to, or they will not thrive as they ought. The most important thing to remember in feeding hogs is, that there is no such thing as "stock order;" the pig that is not so fed that it gains in weight continually and rapidly, is not a profitable animal, and soon eats more feed than it is worth. Many farmers keep a pen of store hogs in low condition through the winter, at a dead loss; the pigs do not grow, and yet eat almost as much as the fattening hogs. Here, again, we come to the "food of support." The larger part of the pig's food is needed to keep him alive, and prevent him from going backward; and a very little more food, judiciously applied, will usually make all the difference between profit and loss in keeping pigs.

The cheapest pork is that made from pigs which have been fed all that they would eat. If it does not pay to make pork by liberal feeding, it does not pay to make it at all, and it had better be given up. The care of pigs should begin as soon as they are born; sometimes the sows are very savage and, if not prevented, will eat the pigs as soon as they appear. If the sow shows this disposition she should be watched and the pigs taken from her. When her labor is finished, they should be carefully put down beside her and she will generally take up with them at once. The pen for breeding-sows should be roomy and warm, the floor nearly level, so that the weight of her body will not settle down and crush the pigs.—Stock-breeder in American Agriculturist for March.

A Strange Story.

Here is a story that reads strangely, writes a Macon correspondent of The Atlanta Constitution. A farmer named William A. Evans lived near Summerfield, where he farmed and did a mercantile business. On March 15, 1884, he was discovered with his head beaten to a jelly. An ax was found in the room. A negro girl, Carrie Massey, was in the room under a pile of corn. There was much excitement, and a coroner's inquest returned a verdict that the girl did the deed. She denied it; said that she was paid by Marion Carr, a brother-in-law of the deceased, to let him into the room; with a negro man, and they killed him. After the killing Carr rumbled about among certain papers for the purpose of finding a will, which he knew was kept in a certain box. An experienced detective took the case. The will was never found. The girl was convicted and sentenced for life in the Dade coal mines. A long suit for the possession of the property followed and is now pending in the supreme court. Of the counsel in the case was the lamented Judge Bartlett. The negro man, who the girl said was let in the room, was killed afterward. The white man left the country under an assumed name. Judge Bartlett has died. For a number of months Marion Carr has acted queerly. He seemed to be dodging something only seen by himself. He would pace the floor, and at times appear melancholy. He seemed to be trying to shut out something from his vision. This has grown until Tuesday, when he died. His deathbed was described as most horrible. He never alluded to what was troubling him, and his secret was burried with him. His relatives entertain a thought that he was connected with the murder of Evans. The five principal actors in the life's drama are dead to the world. Can the negro girl be innocent?

A Theological Question.

"How many husbands did a woman have in the Old Testament?" asked Miss Sanderly, who has just completed her education at a fashionable institute, in Austin.

"What do you mean by such a silly question?" asked Mrs. Yerger, to whom the question was addressed.

"I don't think it is silly. It says in the Bible, that whenever a man dieth he was gathered to his fathers. If the mother of the deceased did not have more than one husband how could the deceased be gathered to his fathers, which means more fathers than one. He certainly must have had several fathers."

"Perhaps," said Mrs. Yerger demurely, "the man who was gathered to his fathers had several mothers."—Texas Siftings.

Childish Diplomacy.

The ten-year old daughter has been wearing one of her mother's rings. It disappears and she cannot find it. She is surely disturbed and puzzled a long time as to how she will break the accident to her mamma. At last she goes up, and with childish hesitation says:

"Mamma, please tell me what is the French for lost?"

"Lost, my darling? The French for lost is perdu."

"Well, the little ring you gave me is perdu."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Is Cholera Spread by Drinking-Water?

For good health, pure water is as necessary as pure air, good food, comfortable quarters, and so forth. I myself am an enthusiast in the matter of drinking water, but not from fear of cholera or typhoid fever, but simply from a pure love of the good. For the water is not only a necessary article of food, but a real pleasure, which I prefer, and believe to be more healthful than good wine or good beer. When water fails, man may suffer not only from cholera, but from all possible diseases. In places where cholera prevails the water may always be indicated; for the supply is always a part of the locality, and the doctrine will frequently hold good, because the part may be mistaken for the whole. Where the influence of the water is held up to the exclusion of all other local factors, error is liable to creep in. In England, where the water-drinking theory is fully believed in, two like influences, in which every other local factor was excluded, were observed in the cholera epidemic of 1854. In one case, in a street in London which was supplied by two water companies, the Lambeth with pure water, and the Vauxhall with impure water, it was found that the cholera was practically limited to the houses supplied by the Vauxhall company. I was so much impressed by this fact that I endeavored to see whether the epidemic of 1854 in Munich could not be explained on a similar hypothesis. But my researches led to a negative result. Without doubting the facts observed in London, I am of opinion that the impure water of the Vauxhall company did not spread the germs of cholera, for the propagation of cholera was not effected by this means in Munich, but that the water increased the personal predisposition to cholera, or perhaps the local predisposition, since the water would be employed in the house and about the soil. Later on, in 1866, Letheby doubted the accuracy of the drinking-water theory, and proved that there had been considerable confusion, so that a house which was registered on the Lambeth company really drew its water-supply from the main of the Vauxhall company, and vice versa. The cholera epidemic of 1866 was essentially limited to East London. The East London Water company supplied this district with water filtered from the river Lea. Letheby brought forward a series of facts to prove that we might with equal justice accuse the East London Gas company, since the first case of cholera broke out at the gas factory.—Popular Science Monthly.

Electric Lighting in America.

At the meeting of the Society of Arts on Dec. 3, Mr. W. H. Preece read a paper in which he stated that electric lighting is flourishing in America much more than in England. There are probably ninety thousand arc-lamps alight every night in the United States. He had found it a dismal experience to be transferred from the brilliantly illuminated avenues of New York to the dark streets of London. On the evening of Oct. 21 he drove from the Windsor hotel, New York, to the Cunard wharf, a distance of about four miles, through streets entirely lighted by electricity. On arriving in London, he drove from Euston to Waterloo without seeing a single electric light. In Montreal, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Indianapolis, and Boston he found the principal streets and warehouses, as well as stores and places of public resort, lighted by arc-lamps. Police supervision of the streets is rendered far simpler when they are brilliantly illuminated by the electric light. It is with arc-lighting that the greatest advances have been made in the States. In Chicago the number of arc-lamps installed has doubled during the past twelve months. It is now tw thousand, and increases daily. More than one electric light company pays dividends to its shareholders, and all of the manufactures of supplies are busy. The great ferry-boats of the Philadelphia railroad are lighted by electricity; those magnificent hotel-steamers that ply between New York and Fall River, those on Lake Superior, on the Mississippi and other large rivers, are either so lighted or are gradually being fitted for the lamps. Mr. Preece said that electric wires carried overhead, in the unsightly fashion which prevailed in the United States, were hideous in the extreme, and the only advantage he had found for them was that they afforded a welcome shade from the fierce glare of the sun. He had counted 144 wires on one post in New York, and six lines of posts might be found on Broadway, there being thirty-two companies in the city carrying wires on poles. There was no necessity for it at all, for it was found by the English postoffice that, whenever the number of wires through a town exceeded fifteen, it was cheaper to put them underground than overhead.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Earth's Surface.

Scientific men have been disposed to attribute the evidences of changes on the earth's surface to violent catastrophes in the operations of nature; but Lyall and the more recent geologists say that most of the alterations we witness were brought about by the slow operation of natural forces, acting through vast periods of time. The several earthquakes which have recently visited the northeast quarter of North America did something toward either raising or depressing the surface of the region affected. It is known that the Atlantic coast between Cape Hatteras and Cape Cod has been steadily sinking for centuries, and it is within the bounds of probability that before 2,000 years have elapsed the cities of New York and Brooklyn may be under water. When the Dutch colonized Manhattan island, 200 hundred years ago, the Indians told them that in the time of their great-grandfathers it was possible to cross Hell gate dry-shod from one bank to the other. Prof. Guyot estimated that the lowering of the Atlantic coast was 23¼ inches every century. At the same time it is certain that the greater portion of the American continent is rising, while the continent of Australia is as certainly sinking.

Very many islands of the Pacific ocean were once the tops of mountains on continents afterward submerged. The stupendous volcanic eruption of Krakatau, on Aug. 27, last year, entirely changed the physical aspect of the Sunda straits. A part of Krakatau was shot out of the sea and dropped into the straits eight miles northward. The greater portion of the island, containing several thousand million cubic yards of earth, was hurled through the air, over Zang island, and plunged into the channel seven miles to the northeast. These two new pieces of land, which have been named Steers and Calmeyer islands, now appear above the sea where previously 250 feet of water existed. Where the volcano of Krakatau stood, a sea fathomless by a line of 1,000 feet now exists.

In the neighborhood of England, recently, new lands have appeared composed of black volcanic rock, and so these mighty changes keep on. Oceans of vast antiquity are continents to-day, which the populous plains will, in the distant ages hence, be found at the bottom of the mighty seas.—Demorest's Monthly.

Facts for Skaters.

Said I the other day, to one of our leading physicians: "Doctor, what do you think of the present roller skating mania?"

"Well," he replied slowly, "It's a very good thing for the doctors, surgeons, and specialists, too. Oh, yes, indeed. It brings on the high-priced class of complaints, much more lucrative than common measles or rheumatism. In the first place, it is a sort of motion quite unnatural, and entirely different from anything to which a girl is accustomed, calling into most violent play muscles which are but little used. If it were not a 'craze' which seems to admit of no moderation, no gradual inuring of the muscular system which might grow tolerant of the exercise, the case would not be so bad. But this is not, after all, the worst feature. The prevalent, and all but universal mode of dress, is really the greatest cause of trouble. The average girl—though you may be sure she will indignantly deny it—could not get a full, free breath inside her corset to save her life. Oh, yes, she thinks she does, because she doesn't know what it is—a full, free breath, which reaches clear down to the waist line, and demands a free play of the abdominal muscles. Those muscles, and others so important to locomotion, are cramped and restricted, while all the time trying to respond to the violent and unnatural strain upon them, and as a result some of the more delicate organs of her complex system are sure to suffer, and suffer severely. It is with physicians no secret that there is a great increase of maladies and weaknesses among girls directly traceable to this sport. I would rather my daughter should run up and down stairs from cellar to attic forty times a day than become a devotee of this kind of amusement. The consequences are similar, but worse in the latter case."

"But do you consider it worse than skating on ice?"

"Skating on ice is not a good thing for many girls—for none but the heartiest who are accustomed to vigorous exercise—and not for them unless properly dressed. But the outdoor is, of course, an improvement on that of the rink, not only because of its purity and invigorating qualities, but because the cold puts a limit to the number of hours devoted to the amusement. Then, too, there is usually plenty of room, and, consequently, less liability to accidents of one sort and another. But, the one fact is, that girls can never profit by the present popular rage for physical exercises and pedestrian feats until they conclude to dress sensibly so as to allow the free use of the muscles they are ostensibly seeking to develop. It is perfectly absurd otherwise, and nothing can prevent its working an injury."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Experiments on the Farm.

In general farm and garden culture, the opportunities for investigation are endless, and the methods are simple. The trial of new seeds; the variation of time of planting and harvesting, to determine the best results; experiments with new or unusual crops, as seed-raising, new fodder crops, such as millet, sorghum, mustard, and others; the effects of drainage; the value of special fertilizers, as lime, bone-dust, potash; the trial of the various remedies suggested for insect pests; the methods for preserving posts and other timber; the feeding and management of stock; ensilage; the production of new varieties of vegetables, fruits, grains, and fodder plants, by selection, and it may be, by crossing the existing varieties; the invention or improvement of agricultural implements, etc.—these are a few of the many interesting branches of agricultural investigation. Consider next the methods of experiment. There are two great essentials at the foundation: exact measurement, and exact record. Measure everything, either by weight, by dimensions, or by duration of time, and keep a systematic record of everything. Add to this thoughtfulness, and you have the whole secret of experimental science. Think what you desire to ascertain, and direct the experiments accordingly. Think over the results of your experiments carefully, and draw your conclusions. In dealing with crops, the customary method is, to divide a sufficient area of land into carefully-measured small plots, and use each plot, or a number, for any particular plant under trial. Where it is a question of soil or manures, always have the crop under test on at least one plot, the soil of which is left in the natural condition. This last serves as a basis of comparison with other plots that have been variously fertilized.—X. Clark in American Agriculturist for March.

Demand for Lucifer Matches.

A large dealer in lucifer matches says the dull season in this line of business is between Dec. 1 and March 3. He adds: "The population of the United States is stated at about 55,000,000 persons. Of those, only 20,000,000 live in cities, leaving 35,000,000 in country places. During the summer time the men work in the fields, and when they want to light their pipes they use a match. In the winter the fires are kept up, and few matches are needed. Now, the non use of, say, ten matches a day for four months in perhaps 3,000,000 houses will alone cause a dull time in the match business, for it will amount to 5,000,000,000, to say nothing about those not used by the men. But the country people do not cause the only losses in the trade; for there are less used among city people in winter than summer."—Exchange.

Afraid of Dynamite.

"Are you an Irishman?" inquired an old lady of the conductor of a Third Avenue car, in New York, the other day.

"I am, body and sowl. Haven't I schlept wid O'Donovan Rossa?" he replied.

"Let me off!" screamed the old lady.

"Sure, ye've ped yer fare," said the conductor.

"If I stop here I might have to pay funeral expenses," she exclaimed, as she hobbled out of the car into the street.—Texas Siftings.

Cents do not circulate in New Orleans.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

The ice in the great lakes is reported to be unusually solid and masters of vessels believe it will be impossible to get through the straits to Buffalo before June.

If Enoch Arden wants to come back to New York he must do it within five years now instead of seven, as formerly. The court holds that when a wife has not heard from her husband for five years she may assume that he is dead—at any rate she cannot be prosecuted for bigamy.

Tax-payers in some of the large cities are organizing for protection against extravagant municipal expenditures. A very large proportion of the trouble in the government of cities, regarding money expenditures, arises from misconception of the functions of municipal government, and the lack of checks against the voting of money for purposes not germane to local government.

The lateness of the season at the south is even more unusual than with us at the north. Snow has recently fallen in various localities to the depth of several inches, and a South Carolina dispatch states that vegetables which are ordinarily ready for market in March have only just been planted, and fruit trees, which at this time of the year are generally in full leaf and blossom, have not begun to bud.

From the reports of medical men at the bedside of General Grant, and from other sources it is evident that death may be expected to occur within a short time almost at any moment though a possibility exists that life may be prolonged for a while. The death of the "foremost American" whenever it occurs, will create a sensation, of course, and there will be no end of tributes and honors to his memory.

The total loss by death among the officers and soldiers of the Union army, including the colored troops, is estimated to foot up in round numbers 313,000 men, or about 11 per cent. of the number of men who were enrolled during the war. This number includes those who died in Confederate prisons and from wounds or disease contracted while in the service. The death losses of the Confederate army, partly compiled from various sources, are estimated at from 275,000 to 300,000.

The President has before him no task more difficult than the selection of a new Commisisoner of Agriculture, if efficiency and practical value to the country are desired. There is needed a man of wide acquaintance with the farming and live stock interests of the country, broad-minded with regard to the inter-dependent relations of agriculture, manufactures and commerce, progressive and practical, with well-developed executive ability. So far, no one possessing these qualifications has been suggested.

The annual report of the Controller of the state of Connecticut shows that last year the politicians paid $3,600 of the tax-payers' money to eighteen journalists and it is estimated that within ten years the state has thus paid $32,000 to newspaper reporters, who were amply remunerated by the respective newspapers which they represented. These "pecuniary compliments" are very common among Western legislators, and some States suffer a loss of thousands at every session of their legislatures from this foolish and mischievous practice.

Newspapers and preachers are discussing the roller-skating craze, for the lack of more exciting topics. The Boston Herald argues that the skating mania must of necessity be a short-lived one. Sixteen or eighteen years ago we had the velocipede mania in the same way, and, if it had not been for the fact that the out-of-door bicycle was developed from this old fashioned machine, its existence would now be a matter merely of history. Unless the makers of roller skates can invent a form of skate which can be used for street travel, they will soon have to turn their attention to other methods of money making, and the rink keepers in any event will find their occupation gone. It is the novelty of the thing that has thus far been its chief attraction; but this is a feature that is certain to wear off in a year or two more.

Among many other good things in old Massachusetts is a Home for Intemperate Women. It takes women from the lockup and from the criminal courts and the streets; it takes them madly, stupidly, chronically drunk, and so dirty and degraded that the spark of humanity seems to have gone out in them; and yet, by good physical care from three to six months, and by lifting again tenderly the bedraggled souls which are in them, the home puts them upon an entirely new plane of hopefulness and self-respecting womanhood. The matron in charge reports that they are constantly coming back, after they have left her, to tell her what a debt of gratitude they feel that they owe her. Of 148 patients who left the home during the year ending April 1, 1884, only eleven were discharged as hopeless, while forty-two were sent to situations found for them, and forty-seven were returned to their homes or friends.

NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED.

British Preparations for War.

The queen has sent a message to the house of commons calling out the reserve militia for permanent service. In accordance with the message the war office has called out the army reserves, (35,000 men) and the militia (140,000 men). Orders have been sent to Chatham to supply immediately 5,000,000 cartridges. Orders likewise have been sent to the armories throughout the kingdom to return immediately to the Tower of London all Martini-Henry rifles which they have in stock. The object is that they will be inspected and sent to India. Fourteen thousand rifles, now at Portsmouth, will be forwarded to India. Orders were received at Portsmouth directing that the composite sloop Cormorant be made ready for sea. The government is placing large orders for rifles and munitions of war with the manufacturers. The men-of-war Mercury, Devastation, Colossus and Bacchanti are being rapidly prepared for sea.

The queen's message is as follows: The present state of public affairs and the extent of the demand on her majesty's military forces for the protection of the interests of the empire having constituted, in the opinion of her majesty, a case of great emergency, her majesty has deemed it proper to provide additional means for the military service. She has, therefore, thought it right to communicate to the house of commons that she is about to cause the reserve forces and such proportion of the militia as might be deemed necessary, to be called out for permanent service.

The London Times says: When Disraeli called out the reserves in 1878, Earl Derby retired from the ministry. Earl Derby's opinion, therefore, and his experience were unique. The risks of a rupture with Russia are now greater than they were then. The czar's forces are almost at the gate of Constantinople. Even if the cabinet were disposed to preserve the peace by concession after concession, it is now clear that such a policy is as unsafe as it would be dishonorable. Yielding would alienate the Afghans and degrade us in the eyes of all the people of the East, without in reality averting war which would only be postponed, at most, for three years.

The New Commissioner of Railroads.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnston appointed Commissioner of Railroads is well known as one of the ablest and most distinguished officers of the confederate army. He graduated at West Point in 1829 and was commissioned second lieutenant of the Fourth United States artillery. He served with distinction in the Florida and Mexican war, was twice wounded in Mexico and was breveted for gallant and meritorious conduct at Cerro Gordo and Chapultepec. Upon the breaking out of the Rebellion Gen. Johnston was quartermaster general, which position he resigned April 18, 1861, and accepted service with the Confederacy. After the war Gen. Johnston settled at Richmond. He was elected to the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth congresses, and, declining a third election, settled in Washington, where he has lived for the past four years. Gen. Johnston is popular with men of both parties who know him, and his appointment as railroad commissioner is well received.

Becky Jones Won a Victory.

New York Special: The general term of the supreme court ordered the discharge of Becky Jones, the refactory witness in the Hammersley will case, who has been confined in Ludlow street jail nearly a year. One of the most remarkable cases of contumacy on record was that of Becky Jones. She was a servant in the Hammersley family and, during the court proceedings incident to the adjustment of the dispute over Hammersley's will was called as a witness. She refused point blank to answer certain questions regarding the domestic relations of her employer's family, and the judge sent her to jail. This was nearly a year ago. Becky, while in prison, was frequently asked if she was ready to testify, but in every instance refused, expressing her determination to spend the rest of her life in the jail rather than bear witness in the case. Becky is about sixty years old.

The senate confirmed Daniel McConville of Ohio as auditor of the treasury for the post-office department.

Hon. Jacob Thompson, secretary of the interior under President Buchanan, died at his residence in Memphis, in his seventy-fifth year.

Mrs. Phelps, wife of the new minister to England, is said to be very handsome and extremely fond of society. She has a private fortune of $30,000.

Rev. William Harris, a prominent Presbyterian minister of Princeton, N. J., and treasurer of Princeton college, died in the Savannah (Ga.) hospital of apoplexy.

The jury returned a verdict acquitting Orth Stein, city editor of the Evening Star, who shot and killed George Fredericks, proprietor of a variety theater in Kansas City, in June, 1883.

Five distinguished German artists are in Chattanooga, Tenn., preparing a grand panorama of the battle of Chickamauga, for a Philadelphia company, who will pay them $35,000.

Both chambers of the Prussian landtag deputized their presidents to wait on Bismarck and tender him congratulations on his attaining his seventy-first birthday, April 1 next. The action of the landtag in this matter is unprecedented.

Dr. Frank Powell is being frequently mentioned by his hosts of friends as a candidate for next mayor of La Crosse, Wis. The doctor would be a hard man to defeat because of his great popularity among the working classes.

Prof. R. B. Anderson, of the University of Wisconsin, who has been an applicant for the Swedish mission, has, by the advice of Col. Vilas, transferred his wishes to the Danish mission. At present accounts, Dr. Heenan of Minnesota is likely to be appointed to Sweden.

Recently a young man named Pearce, of Rock Creek, Tenn., procured a marriage license to marry Miss Alice Penny. The young lady objected to having the ceremony solemnized on Sunday. Pearce became very angry, and exclaimed: "Marry me or I die." Miss Penny refused, and Pierce drew a pistol and shot himself through the heart.

The president sent to the senate the following nominations: Thomas C. Crinshaw, Jr., collector of internal revenue, district of Georgia. Postmasters: Aquilla Jones, Sr., Indianapolis, Ind.; Osbun Shannon, Lawrence, Kan.; John Melcham, Topeka, Kan.; N. C. Ridenam, Clarinda, Iowa; Vincent J. Lane, Wyandotte, Kan.; Mrs. Lizzie H. Ficlan, Charlestown, Ill.; Claiborne Bowman, Yazoo City, Miss.

By order of Attorney General Garland, the horse formerly used by Attorney General Brewster was sold to the highest bidder. It was bought by an Indiana man. The livery outfit of the interior department, under the old regime, has gone under the hammer. Among the articles enumerated are ten coupes and carriages and ten horses, with all the harness and other paraphernalia thereunto belonging.

Harcourt, home secretary in Westminster hall, London, has presented Policeman Cox the Albert medal in recognition of his bravery in attempting, at the risk of his life, to carry out from Westminster hall the smoking package of dynamite which caused the recent explosion there. The home secretary at the same time presented an address of congratulation to Policeman Cole, who was on duty with Cox at the time, and who also was dangerously injured by the explosion.

In political circles at Constantinople it is thought that in the event of war between Russia and England, the fighting will not be confined to the Afghan frontier but will extend to the Black sea. It is rumored that Great Britain has already sounded the porte in regard to obtaining permission to pass the Dardanelles in case of war. The prolonged stay in London of Hassan Fehmi Pasha, Turkish envoy, is attributed to a belief that the Afghan troubles are more likely than the Egyptian question to effect, under certain conditions, an alliance between Turkey and England.

London Special: The phenomenal vigor of England's preparations for war with Russia has [illegible]

THE MIGHT OF MINNESOTA.

Gen. Baker's Admirable Minnesota Day Address at the New Orleans World's Fair.

A Graphic Presentation of Our Achievements in the Past and the Possibilities of the Future.

The following full synopsis of the address delivered by Gen. Baker at New Orleans recently will be of interest to the readers of this paper. The speaker began by picturing in graphic language the commanding importance of the "Father of Waters" and its influence as a connecting link between the North and the South.

The Mississippi is our common inheritance. Its fountains are ours; its gates to the ocean are yours! It seems designed not alone for the drainage of empires, but for the uniting of the peoples on its shores into a single community of interests and destiny. Unlike as are the productions of its varied zones, this very diversity is a bond of union, for it substitutes inter-dependence for rivalry.

The speaker then spoke of its influence on social conditions, and sketched in graphic manner the enormous resources of the territory that it drains. He continued as follows:

Youngest of all the states which border on this illustrious stream, Minnesota presents herself to you, her eldest sister. Within the memories of most of you here present, our state has developed from barbaric solitudes into a well organized and equipped republic. That we are here to-day with a collective exhibit of which any people might be proud, with but twenty-seven years of statehood behind us, is indeed a miracle of creation. We represent a million of kindred Anglo-Saxons, who, upon the fertile lands of Minnesota, are working out the problems of American life. We exhibit to you the evidences of our activity, the witnesses of our resources. Minnesota has sought to align herself with that universal spirit of progress which marks the last decades of the century. Let us examine some of the elemental factors upon which we base our claim to the confidence and regard of our competitive sisters. The agricultural resources of a people is one of the means by which we measure the importance of a state. Here is a statement from the official ledger revised for this paper: We raised during the year 1884 of wheat, 44,307,000 bushels; of oats, 36,100,000 bushels; of corn, 25,630,000 bushels; of barley, 8,618,000; of potatoes, 7,000,000; tame hay, 2,627,000 tons, and of wild hay nearly 2,000,000 tons more. The average of corn was thirty-seven bushels per acre. That we are a corn-producing state is evidenced by the fact that the department at Washington, in the report for 1882, shows that Minnesota leads Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio in the per acre average of its corn crop. Consider in this connection how little of the 54,000,000 of acres which comprise the total area of our state are yet under cultivation. About 8,000,000 only are improved, and, deducting our lacustrine regions, but one-fifth of our land is yet in use. About 100,000 farms are now equipped and in running order.

WHEAT AND FLOUR.

That grand cereal, wheat, has reached the meed of perfection in our state. That spring wheat should supersede winter wheat in the quality of its flour product is one of the surprises Minnesota has given to the country. The royal exhibit made at this exposition certifies to the perfection of Minnesota Fife wheat. This great fact stimulated its growth, and the grand result is shown in creating for Minneapolis and Duluth the largest aggregate of actual business in this cereal of any cities in America, New York alone excepted. Its milling properties are superior to all others, as it has given name and fame to the finest brands of flour in the markets of the world. The combined results of these great facts has been to give our state, in the city of Minneapolis, the greatest milling center of the world. Twenty-seven establishments, with an aggregate capacity of 30,000 barrels of flour per day, is a superb and solid fact in commercial life. Minneapolis in eight days can grind enough flour to supply all the people of New Orleans for a year! The total milling capacity of our state is about 60,000 barrels per day, and the total production in 1884 was about 8,600,000 barrels. In addition to this there was 250,000 tons of millstuff, worth $2,250,000.

Minnesota flour is generally carried to New York at the same rate per pound as wheat, and at much less rate by ocean carriers to Europe. The flour package at every handling costs less, so that the great premium product of our state is laid down in Europe cheaper than wheat can possibly be. The result is that our surplus wheat and that of the Northwest is going to Europe as flour, we getting the milling profit and the offal to feed our increasing numbers of cattle and hogs. Thus more and more Minnesota is milling for Europe and changing a great commercial problem. These pre-eminent conditions will not change, for three reasons: First, from superior milling; secondly, the superior qualities of our wheat, and thirdly, there will always be a difference in favor of flour transportation as against wheat of at least 5 cents per bushel. The last milling year Minneapolis alone sent 1,500,000 barrels of flour to Europe, and the rest of the state nearly 1,000,000 more.

THE DAIRY INTEREST.

Gen. Baker then spoke of the increase of diversified farming in the state. The exhausting era of wheat has given way to the era of diversification. Above all, grass and the honest cow are to the fore.

We have herds of Shorthorns, Jerseys, Poll Angus, Herefords and Devons which cannot be surpassed in the United States. Our ability to compete with the best buttermakers of the world is demonstrated by the meritorious exhibit we have made at this exposition, where Minnesota captured twenty-one butter prizes, including the grand sweepstakes and gold medal. There are about 100 creameries in operation, many of which are large establishments. The butter product of 1883 was about 23,000,000 pounds, and of cheese 750,000 pounds, yielding a sum of fully $4,000,000. The butter prizes taken at this exposition mark an era in the history of our state. There was no element of chance in these awards. Butter is now as scientifically tested as sugar. There can be no mistakes. The competition was abundant and severe. The judges were experts from all parts of the country, and satisfactory to all exhibitors. The packages examined were stripped of every mark of identification, and the severest tests were applied. What we won we won upon merit. The total amount of dairy premiums awarded to Minnesota was $1,589.50. In cheese we took four premiums, with only two factories represented.

LUMBER.

The timber interests formed one of the earliest and most solid resources of our state. It employs millions of capital and thousands of men. It has built up parts of the northern portion of Minnesota with energetic and prosperous towns and villages. It has inspired the building of railroads. We have not less than 245 sawmills in the state, and many of these are among the largest in the world. In 1883 we cut more than one billion of feet, and very nearly the same in 1884. This does not include the enormous output of shingles and lath. The total value of this yield is put at $17,000,000. The hard woods are very abundant, such as oak, maple, butternut, cedar and walnut, and their manufacture into the finest and highest decorative order of furniture and house-finishing has made our mechanical skill celebrated over the whole country.

MINERAL WEALTH.

Nor is Minnesota wanting in true mineral wealth. She possesses on the north shore of Lake Superior a region of eruptive, igneous rocks, with tabular masses of trap, slate, granite, gneiss, conglomerates, and indeed the whole metamorphic family, wild in their grandeur. Here is one of the greatest iron deposits of the world. Hard, specular hematite, or the true Bessemer iron ore, is found in limitless quantities, breaking the trapean crust through ninety miles of territory, and to which already a line of railway has been constructed from the great lake, giving rise to new towns and new and substantial industries. Beyond this, there has recently been discovered veins of argentiferous quartz, richer than that of Silver Islet, which, twenty years ago, gave a Monte Christo celebrity to a little rocky island off the shore of the great lake. Since last September as much as two entire townships of this metamorphic rock in that region has been entered by experts as gold-bearing, and men and machinery are now at work opening mines, whose fabled wealth is as much a revelation to ourselves as to the world at large. Copper mining has recently begun in the same region with great promise. The slates of commerce are found in prolific quantities. Mica, porphyry, plumbago and byrates are abundant. Indeed, the whole north shore, once supposed to be the only worthless [illegible]

[illegible] state are removed. In 1884 we produced over 200,000 bushels. We have contributed several original apples, such as the Wealthy, to enrich the world's list of this royal fruit. The solidity and flavor of our apples and berries confirm their excellence, and give bright promise of future varied and profuse development. Cultivated grapes flourish well, and 300,000 pounds were reported as the product of 1884. Out of these good wine is produced. Minnesota was awarded at this exposition eleven premiums and three silver medals for best grapes east of the Rocky mountains. In all the varied family of berries and plums, ours cannot be excelled in the quality of their flavor and relish.

The sorghum exhibit Minnesota has made is more than a suggestion of great possibilities. It is a direct invasion of that saccharine field heretofore solely awarded to the tropics. Both in sugar and syrups our Northern state has done nobly, having captured the first premium for best amber cane syrup, and first premium for best amber cane sugar, with strong competition from every portion of the country. Minnesota has thus demonstrated that the sugar line can be removed eighteen degrees of latitude northward.

EDUCATIONAL.

The crowning glory of our state is her superb system of public and higher schools. At the beginning, the munificence of the national government equipped the state with a dowery of lands princely in extent. The sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections in each township are devoted to this purpose. It gives us a grand total of 3,000,000 acres, an area equal in extent to the state of Connecticut. The permanent school fund already amounts to $6,500,000, and in the future will fully realize $20,000,000. Beside the income from this fund, we raise annually about $2,500,000. The state has 223,209 enrolled pupils. There are 4,071 school houses, 4,802 common schools, with 6,086 teachers. These teachers were mostly educated in our normal schools, of which the state has three, with a present attendance of 1,375 pupils. As part of the common school system, we have 250 graded schools, of which sixty have high school departments, in as many cities and towns, in which students are fitted for the university. The kindergarten system is in operation in all our leading cities. The eighteen public school buildings of St. Paul and the twenty-three of Minneapolis, costing from $25,000 to $75,000, unique in their architecture, complete in their equipments, thorough in the systems and methods there in use, and with their 22,175 attending pupils, are probably without a rival in any cities of equal proportions on the globe. There are six colleges in the state under denominational control, one medical college and three theological seminaries. The state university justly ranks as one of the great universities of the country. Take it all in all, we proudly say that we do not believe that there is any other community better equipped with a system of seminaries of learning more complete, symmetrical and thorough than the state of Minnesota.

Northwestern Minnesota Business Men.

A meeting of business men for the purpose of forming an organization for the protection of the mutual interests of merchants and business men of Northwestern Minnesota was held at Fergus Falls. There were 24 delegates present from 9 counties. Following are the articles of association:

First—The name of this organization shall be the Northwestern Business Men's association.

Second—The object of the said association shall be to protect the business interest of Northern Minnesota in matters pertaining to the general public welfare.

Third—The officers of the said association shall be president, vice president, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, and an executive committee of three.

Fourth—Any town in Northwestern Minnesota shall be entitled to all the benefits of this association upon the payment of $1 annually for each member of its local organization. Any place now possessing a chamber of commerce or board of trade is free to avail itself of the benefits of this organization to the fee not exceeding $25 for any single association. When there is no local organization in a town, any business man or firm may become a member of this association upon the payment of $1 annually.

Fifth—The regular meeting of this organization shall be held semi-annually on the second Wednesday of March and September of each year. Special meetings can be held at the call of the executive committee, giving less than ten days notice.

Sixth—These articles can be amended by a majority vote at any regular semi-annual meeting.

The following officers were appointed:

President, H. G. Page, Otter Tail; vice president, I. H. Barrett, Grant; S. W. Rankin, Meeker; secretary, J. H. Grass, Otter Tail; treasurer, W. M. Ross, Polk; executive committee, A. O. Earstry, Grant; W. L. Winston, Otter Tail; J. F. Stevenson, Stearns; committee on by-laws, C. D. Wright, Otter Tail; W. B. Mitchell, Stearns; H. G. Page, S. Molen, W. D. Parkinson, Otter Tail.

Jacob Santer, who was convicted of manslaughter at Chaska, was about to receive sentence when a flaw was found in the indictment and he was set free.

Fire destroyed two store buildings at Byron belonging to Messrs. Moe and Cutting. Loss $10,000. Moe's building was not insured.

Thomas Larson, arrested in Minneapolis on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was bound over to the district court at Red Wing, in default of $500 bail.

W. H. Ryne of Northfield, has received $1,000 back pension and will receive $4 per week hereafter.

Ransom Davis of Union Grove, has received $1,200 back pension with $8 per month hereafter.

Special Examiner Charles F. Nichols, formerly of the Grand Rapids district, has been transferred to St. Paul, and will have charge hereafter of the pension examinations in that district.

Joseph Mecback, a blacksmith of Wheatland, Rice county, was shot in a thigh by the accidental discharge of a gun, and bled to death.

A Dutch emigration agency has bought 34,000 acres in Chippewa, Renville and Kandiyohi counties, on which it will place a large foreign colony.

One Walker, driver of the stage between Monticello and Buffalo, attempted to ravish a lady passenger. He has fled.

Rev. R. B. Riddell, D. D., has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church and left St. Paul for good. Dr. Riddell gave as his reasons for resigning, ill health and a desire to relieve the church from the burden which the allegations hanging over him have imposed upon it.

The death of Mrs. Minerva Gridley in Hartford, Conn., brings a valuable bequest to Carleton college, Northfield. Her husband, Eben Gridley, died some years ago and left his entire property to be divided between Carleton and Mount Holyoke female seminary, South Hadley, Mass., upon the death of his wife, the latter to have the use of the estate during her life. The estate is estimated at about $50,000 but will probably exceed that valuation.

M. W. Prins, Jr., of Prins & Zwaneburg, Amsterdam, Holland; Theodore F. Koch, Groningen, Holland; and N. C. Frederiksen, Chicago, have been in St. Paul perfecting plans for colonizing large bodies of land in Chippewa, Renville and Kandiyohi counties with foreign immigrants.

One American Girl Abroad.

From the Chicago Tribune

"Speaking of your American girl abroad," said a party from Canada, "I don't care where you find her—and I've traveled a bit myself—your American girl is usually up with the procession. I met her once at a ball in Hamilton, Ont. There were a lot of our English army fellows there, and they had a pretty good notion of their personal importance. The girl in question had just come from Chicago, and was going out of the ballroom on the arm of one of the fellows, [illegible] suggested to Captain —— of the Guards, that he'd like to introduce her to him. 'Awh, an American girl, of course,' said the Captain, twirling his mustache. 'Wants to know me, eh? Well, I don't mind, me boy. Trot her up, if you like.' A friend repeated this to the lady, and when the Captain was introduced, she surveyed him calmly and said: 'Ah, it's an officer, isn't it? I don't like it—trot it back.'"

A telegram was received at department headquarters in St. Paul from the commanding officer at Fort Totten, to the effect that [illegible] Thomas Sharp, of the Seventeenth infantry, who was wounded by a pistol shot through the neck a few days ago, [illegible] his recovery. [illegible] The captain is receiving the best of care and it is hoped he will be able to report for duty.

WHATEVER IS, IS BEST.

I know, as my life grows older,
And mine eyes have clearer sight,
That under each rank Wrong, somewhere
There lies the root of Right,
That each sorrow has its purpose,
By the sorrowing oft unguessed;
But as sure as the sun brings morning,
Whatever is, is best.

I know that each sinful action,
As sure as the night brings shade,
Is sometime, somewhere, punished
Tho' the hour be long delayed.
I know that the soul is aided
Sometimes by the heart's unrest,
And to grow means often to suffer;
But whatever is, is best.

I know there are no errors
In the great Eternal plan,
And all things work together
For the final good of man.
And I know when my soul speeds onward
In the grand, eternal quest,
I shall say, as I look earthward,
Whatever is, is best.

—The Rambler.

DAISY'S DREAMS.

"Down the burn, Davy love! Down the burn, Davy love!
Gang down the burn, Davy love, and I will follow thee!"

"Hush! What a voice!"

Two gentlemen, who were trampling down dried sticks and leaves in a woodland path, stopped as the foremost one held up a warning hand and spoke.

"What a voice!" he repeated, as the next verse of the old Scotch song rang out on the air. "Out doors and without accompaniment," he whispered, "and it seems to fill the woods."

"And as sweet as it is clear," said his companion, in a low tone; "those high notes are a good test. Oh! the shrieks I have heard on that last line! But cannot we get one peep at the singer?"

Very cautiously they crept along until, unseen themselves, they came to a spot where Daisy Carroll was plaiting straw hats, and singing as she worked. Her seat was a fallen log, and in front of her stood a basket with the material for her work. She wore a print dress, made in primitive simplicity, and her chestnut hair fell in natural curls round a fresh, girlish face. Quite unconscious of an audience, she suddenly ceased her song and broke into a warble of trills and runs, throwing her voice up and down in fantastic flourishes, then trilling like a bird with low, sweet notes dying away to silence, then bursting forth free and glad as the veritable warble of a feathered songster.

"Strange!" Hilman Brent whispered, "she looks like a perfect little rustic, but that voice has been carefully trained by a master."

"What an enthusiast you are," said Harry Dinsmore, his companion, laughing. "I hear nothing but a little country girl with a splendid voice imitating the birds."

He spoke a little too loudly. Daisy looked up, and seeing two faces only half concealed by foliage spying upon her privacy, started to her feet, evidently intending to run away. But a tall, gray-haired man, with a kindly face, came hastily forward.

"Do not let us disturb you," he said, courteously. "We are only passing through the woods to our hotel at Willard's Glen."

"You are a long way from there," Daisy said, too ignorant of the world's ways to be shy; "it is fully five miles from here."

"Yes!" said Harry, whose youthful eyes had detected the girl's beauty as quickly as his companion had the marvels of her voice, "we have had a long tramp. May we rest in your bower?"

"Certainly," was the smiling reply, "the woods are not mine, though they are so seldom visited that I am afraid I sometimes feel as if they were my own."

"You live near by, then?" asked Hilman Brent.

She pointed to a small, very small, house, half hidden in the trees.

"We live there—Aunt Hilda, myself and the piano. There are some hens, a cow, and a cat to share our home; but there is not much else there. We seldom see a strange face, unless I take the hats I make to Willard's Glen to be sent to New York. I will get you a glass of milk."

She was gone before they could make any objection, returning soon with a tray, upon which were glasses of milk, a dish of large strawberries, and some slices of home-made cake.

"Aunt Hilda has gone over to Foster's Mill," she said, "where Milly Foster is dying, but I found some fresh cake!"

She put the tray down and resumed her straw-platting, but her eyes strayed often to the handsome face of Harry Dinsmore, whose air of high breeding and careless grace were different from the rustics around her. Presently she said frankly, and yet not rudely:

"You are like my father! He was a gentleman, and I have seen no one like him since he died. He was Gustave Carroll, the violinist."

"Dead! Did you say he was dead?" Hilman Brent cried quickly. "I had not heard of that."

"You knew that he lost the use of his right hand, perhaps?"

"Yes, I knew of that. The whole musical world mourned for his accident."

"It broke his heart," the girl said gently.

"He came here to try to forget, but he could not. I was only a little girl then, but after a while he began to teach me to play and sing. He thought I would be a great singer some day; but all that is past."

"Why?"

"My father died a year ago, and I have no money to finish my studies or to go to great cities. So I plait straw hats, and, like my father, I try to forget my dreams of fame and music."

"If there was an opportunity made for you?"

The girl suddenly stood erect, her work falling unheeded. Into her great dark eyes flashed a strange radiance, while her lips parted and her cheeks glowed.

[illegible]

Then her cheeks paled, her eyes drooped, and her hands were clasped in a passion of despair.

"Don't! don't!" she cried, "waken the old dream. I cannot bear it!"

In a superbly furnished sitting-room in one of London's great hotels a woman was pacing up and down, often pausing to listen intently for some sound in an adjoining room; often striking her hands together in a passion of grief. Around her were tokens of wealth and lavish expenditure, and her dress is of richest material and Parisian make; jewels flash from her hands and upon her bosom; but her face—one of rare beauty—is deathly pale, and her great eyes are full of some new and crushing sorrow.

"He will die!" so her thoughts run in the words that the lips utter. "He has been my benefactor, my friend; and I loved him as I loved my own father! But he will die of this sorrow and disappointment! What could I do? Oh, my heart must break if he dies!"

"Margaret!"

A faint call, but heard instantly. In a moment the despairing woman is changed to a tender nurse, and with quick steps moves into the next room, where, upon the bed, lies a man sick unto death.

"Margaret," he repeated.

"I am here," Margaret replied, in a hoarse voice, evidently used with pain and difficulty.

"My poor child," he whispered.

In a moment she is kneeling beside him, weeping bitterly, her whole frame shaken by sobs.

"Oh, tell me you forgive me!" she pleaded. "After all that you have done for me I have failed you at last! Say you forgive me."

"My poor child," he repeated, "what have I to forgive? You must not grieve so, Margaret."

"But I have disappointed you."

"In one thing only. Will it comfort you to know, when I leave you, that for five years you have been the very sunlight of my life? When I took you from your country home to train you for a great singer, I did not know that I was taking a loving daughter into my heart. When I gave you advantages for cultivating your voice I grudged the time your studies stole from me. I was jealous of your piano, your violin, your voice, but I did not let you guess that."

"Never! I would have given them all up if you had asked me."

"But I would not do that. Even after I became the paralyzed cripple I have been for three long years I would not let your studies cease. Your triumphs in concerts were very precious to me, and you must not think my illness last night—"

"I caused it! I caused it!" she cried. "But you forgive me! When I left you I was so proud, so glad! At last I was to sing in opera. Aunt Hilda told me my dress was perfect, and you smiled when I bade you goodnight, as if you, too, were proud of the girl you had taken from obscurity to make one of the queens of song. Can you follow me to the opera-house? Can you see me waiting for the signal to go forward? Can you hear the storm of applause that greeted me? Then! then! Ah, if I had died then! When I opened my lips to sing, no sound came. In vain I strained every nerve and muscle. In my throat came a gurgle, hoarse and faint! That was all. I staggered back and fainted. Ah, pity me, forgive me! I would not have disappointed you, wasted all you lavished upon me if I could have helped it. When I reached home and found you had had a second stroke, I felt like your murderer, for I knew I was the cause."

"Margaret! Let me speak. My child, this second stroke came on before you could have reached the opera-house, when I thought of you as proud and glad, successful in your art, a queen of song."

"You say that only to comfort me," she said, wistfully.

"I did not know of your failure until an hour ago, when your Aunt Hilda told me."

There was a long silence, broken only by the sobs of Margaret Carroll, who was weeping softly now, all the passionate despair gone from her heart. Her failure was not the cause of Hilman Brent's illness, and she could bear it.

Presently the faint voice spoke again.

"Margaret, would you be glad if I told you your failure was not a sorrow to me? I see things more clearly now than I did when I took you from your old home. Music was my idol then, fame in its world seemed to me the highest good to be attained, but now—ah, Margaret, I have a confession to make. Harry Dinsmore loves you, but his father exacted from him a promise that he would never marry a public singer. He begged of me to give up my ambitious dreams for you, and let him woo you for his wife, but I bade him wait, and when your studies were completed let you make your own choice."

"Did he come yesterday?"

"Yes."

"And you?"

"I told him I could not be so ungrateful to you as to throw aside all the years of expense you had given me. I told him when I could repay you it would be time enough to talk of giving up my art. But I can never repay you now."

"You owe me nothing. Your love and care long ago repaid me for all I could do for you. Do you love Harry Dinsmore?"

"Ah, yes! I have always loved him!"

"Can Mr. Dinsmore come in?" asked Aunt Hilda, at the door.

But Harry Dinsmore did not wait for the answer. He was at the bedside, raising the kneeling figure in his arms, saying, exultingly:

"Now you are mine! My rival was your voice! Now there is nothing between your heart and mine. Uncle Hillman, will you give Margaret to me?"

"With all my heart!"

"But I cannot leave you!" Margaret cried.

"Harry will not ask that. Harry—do not wait long—let me see my children happy before I die."

So in the sick-room, with only a few friends as guests, there was a quiet wedding, and Daisy Carroll put aside her dreams to take up the realities of life as Harry Dinsmore's wife, and the nurse and comforter of his uncle. It was still many days before Hilman Brent died, leaving his wealth to his nephew and his adopted daughter, whose glorious voice had made him sharer in dreams of fame never to be realized.

Dust in the Eye.

When in traveling, a bit of dust gets in the eye, it is best to remain quiet for a little, as the tears may wash it away. The flow of tears may be promoted from time to time by opening and closing the eye.

Blowing the nose violently assists the operation.

The head of a pin, covered with the end of a pocket handkerchief and moistened with saliva, may be passed between the eyeball and eyelid, and will detach the intruder if not too firmly fixed.

Another plan is to get a fellow traveler to raise the eyelid with his fingers, and then gently wipe the mucous membrane with a moistened pocket handkerchief, or remove the foreign body if he can see it.

A little piece of paper twisted to a point is useful.

A drop of olive oil or castor oil introduced into the eye will often allay pain and intolerance of light produced by a fine irritant, as sand.

FACT AND FANCY.

W. H. Morton, of Athens, Ga., has a hen that lays two eggs at a time.

"Vending the public prints," is the magazine literary style for "selling newspapers."

The losses of cattle in Indian Territory this winter are placed as high as 68 per cent.

The Harvard annex for women is a success. It began with twenty-seven students, and now has over fifty.

Eighty-two turtles were frozen to death a few days since, on the train between Jacksonville and Savannah, Ga.

The Idaho legislature has passed a bill to erect a capitol building at Boise City, and an insane asylum at Blackfoot.

The Indianapolis street-car companies have established four places in that city where drivers and conductors are furnished hot coffee free of charge.

The population of Portland, Oregon, according to the new city directory, is 33,000. This does not include 2,000 Chinese, nor East Portland and Albina, which would swell the total to 42,000.

There is a child's rocking-chair in Quitman county, Georgia, that has rocked the children of four generations. It is sixty-eight years old, and is still good for many years to come.

The residences of foreign diplomats at Washington, which are technically territories, are not taxed, neither do the ministers nor attaches residing in them pay poll-taxes or any taxes upon personal property.

A negro child was born near Shelby, N. C., a day or two ago, with eyes in the forehead, two inches and a half above the proper place. It's face looked very much like that of an owl, and the eyes themselves were like frog's eyes.

A Sunday-school teacher asked a little girl of her class if she had been baptized. "Yes," said the little girl, "two times." "Two times! Why, how could that be?" exclaimed the teacher. "It didn't take the first time," said the little girl.

Extensive and valuable phosphate deposits are said to exist in a singular natural cavity in Alachua county, Florida, known as the Devil's Mill Hopper. About 57 per cent. of the rock is pure phosphate, which is 12 per cent. more than is yielded by the deposits in South Carolina.

Returns of the Bessemer steel production in the United States last year show a total quantity of ingots converted of 1,538,300 net tons, a falling off of 7 per cent. from 1883. The rail production for the past year was: Bessemer steel, 4,116,041 tons; iron, 21,890, and open hearth steel, 3,000.

Instead of sending his eldest boy to Florida, as the physicians recommended, H. P. Hubbard, of New Haven, has built a conservatory over his kitchen addition, and the boy spends six or seven hours in the sunshine every day, and is growing strong again.

Nantucket is ice-bound. A writer from there, on Feb. 6, said: "No boat has left or come to this little town since Saturday, January 31, thus debarring us from all intercourse with the mainland. 'Sconset and every other part of the island is frozen up so that no one can come to our assistance."

Hawaiian newspapers are appealing for popular subscriptions in aid of leper children, the number of whom is said to be largely on the increase. The government, it is explained, is so nearly bankrupt that it has no money to appropriate toward the home for leper children which it is proposed to build.

Maine ranks second in her sea and first in her river fisheries among the states in the union. In her sea fisheries 11,071 persons are employed, and the value of the product last year was $3,614,178. In river fishing 1,590 persons find employment, and they caught in 1883, fish to the value of $175,046.

A physician connected with one of the hospitals in New York where children receive special attention says that many of the cases of spinal trouble brought to his notice are the direct result of the careless handling of baby carriages. The matter of how nurses and others handle these little vehicles is one to which parents may well pay attention.

Since 1786 there have been sold to private parties 402 of the islands along the coast of Maine. They range in size from 1,000 to 16,000 acres. There are 8 islands comprising from 1,000 to 5,000 acres, and 42 comprising from 100 to 900 acres. A large number of these islands are settled, having fine farms upon them; others are wooded, and still others are barren.

An important discovery of gold, says The Alta California, has been made within the last few days near San Fernando, Los Angeles county, Cal. The location is within four or five hundred yards of Maclay Station, which is three miles south of San Fernando. The range of low hills where the mine is located resembles the famous Silver King mine in Arizona. The ledge has been traced about a mile. The vein is from four inches to a foot wide, and assays $250 to $300 per ton.

The officers of the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., experimented with some torpedoes on the ice a few days ago. The water and ice arose in a vertical column some two hundred feet. The holes blown in the ice clear about thirty-five or forty feet across, and it was shattered for some distance beyond that. These torpedoes were said to be charged with about thirty-four pounds of gun-cotton each, which it is estimated to possess a force equal to two hundred pounds of gunpowder.

A Virginia City, Nev., paper says: "The energetic hissing nightly accorded to the heavy villain in the melodrama now running at the Baldwin reminds old residents of the first theatrical performance ever given in Virginia City. Most of the miners had not seen a play for a score of years, and when the Johnston troupe opened in 'Othello' the house presented a packed mass of red shirts. Edwin Booth was the Iago, and so faithfully did he portray the traitorous friend that the audience lost control of itself, and in the second act began shooting at the fell conspirator. One shot struck Othello's sword-hilt, and all hands had to lie down on the stage and roll into the wings. The indignant miners were finally quieted and the play proceeded, but the final denouement was so taken to heart by the spectators that Booth remained in the theater all night for fear of the vigilantes, who talked seriously of lynching the 'cold-blooded cuss of a hand.'"

FARM NOTES.

American Agriculturist.

OATS AND PEAS.

We have for many years grown oats and peas together. On good, rich land, sown early, you can get a great mass of fodder and grain. The drawback in the older States is the pea-weevil. The peas are affected with the "bug," and we do not sell them, but feed them out on the farm to pigs and sheep, principally to the former. The pigs do not object to the bugs. What the bugs think of it is not reported. The fanning-mill will separate nearly all the oats from the peas. No matter if a few of the split peas will remain with the oats.

If cut before the oats get too ripe and the crop is carefully cured, the fodder is nearly as good as hay. As to the variety of peas, sow any that you can buy cheap enough. The seedsmen charge too much for it, or the White or Black-eyed Marrowfat would be good. The common Canada Creeper or any other small, round pea answers a good purpose, and a bushel goes farther than the larger varieties. We mean that it is not necessary to sow them so thick. Two bushels of these small peas and a bushel of oats is enough see pea acre. The marrowfats should be sown at the rate of not less than three bushels per acre and a bushel to a bushel and a half of oats, thoroughly mixed together.

Early sowing is very desirable, and as sod can be plowed earlier in the spring than stubble land, we prefer to sow on sod, putting in the seed as fast as the land is plowed. The crop can be drilled in or broadcast. If a drill is used, keep the grain well mixed, or the peas will be apt to sink to the bottom. If sown broadcast and the land is well plowed in narrow furrows, sow on the furrows before harrowing. Then harrow and roll, and the peas will be well covered. You can rely on that.

WHAT VARIETY OF POTATOES TO PLANT.

If you want potatoes as early as possible, select the best early potato you can find. The genuine Early Rose is good enough and early enough. The Beauty of Hebron is equally good, and there are a dozen other varieties any one of which, if you happen to have it, will ripen about as early, and give satisfaction. If any one tells you he has a potato that will ripen two weeks earlier than the Rose or the Beauty of Hebron, and yield as much again per acre, tell him that it is a most valuable variety, and that he had better plant all he has got, and not sell a tuber to anyone else for seed. For early potatoes, plant in good, rich, mellow soil as soon as the frost is out of the ground. You can hardly plant too early. Until the plants appear, severe frost will not hurt them. When the plants are up, a frost will sometimes destroy the crop, or at any rate, seriously retard or injure it. A piece of paper, or a light covering of soil will save the plant. For winter potatoes, select a variety that possesses at least four points, viz: quality, vigorous growth of leaves to resist the potato bugs, a good keeper, and productiveness.

When the potato bugs first appeared, everybody planted early varieties of potatoes, in hopes of getting ahead of the bugs. Now that we know how to keep the bugs in check, we can plant later kinds. As a rule, the early varieties cannot yield as well as the later sorts, which have a longer season to grow in; or if they do in exceptional cases, it is probably owing to unusual richness of land. On ordinary land, other things being equal, a late variety will yield better, and keep better, (the next spring,) than the early varieties. A late variety of potato should be planted as early as the soil can be got into good condition. If you do not wish to plant early—or perhaps we had better say, if you are behind with your work, and cannot plant as early as you wish, plant an earlier variety. The later you plant, the earlier should be the variety planted. The same principle, or rule as to planting, applies to cabbages, cauliflowers, tomatoes, cucumbers, melons, turnips, corn, beans, peas, etc. The earlier the variety, that is, the quicker it matures, the later can it be sown or planted.

WHY ARE ONIONS DIFFICULT TO RAISE?

Many of our readers seem to have trouble in raising onions from seed. The seed will grow, and so do the onions, but they do not form bulbs. They produce thick necks and keep green and growing until cut down by frost. Many think this is due to climate. Possibly this is so, but in many cases the trouble is more likely to be due to some of the following causes, namely: poor seed, poor land, late sowing and weeds. By poor seed we do not mean seed that will not grow, but ill-bred seed, seed grown from a crop of onions, the best of which have been sold and those not good enough to sell, planted for seed! A sea-lionish onion, or one with a small bulb and a thick, immature neck, will produce quite as much and quite as good-looking seed as the best formed bulb—in fact more seed and better looking seed. Seed grown from scullions, or from thick-necked onions will be very sure to produce scullions. We can row down stream faster than we can pull up against the current. The onion has been brought to perfection by high feeding and careful selection, and if we would maintain what we have gained, we must continue our efforts, but must not select the poorest onions to breed from.

By poor land, we do not mean land that will not produce a good crop of corn or wheat or potatoes or grass. Land might be too rich for wheat, but not rich enough for onions. This same land might, without any manure, become rich enough for onions. We know how, mucky land where onions are successfully grown year after year without manure, but which at first produced a very poor crop. It needed the thorough tillage and freedom from weeds which all onion growers find so essential. Onion seed should be sown the moment the frost is out of the surface soil. The land should have been made ready the autumn previous. If this is not done and you have to get the land ready in the spring, you may get a fair crop of onions, but can hardly expect a full yield. Even if everything else is favorable, if the onion patch is not kept free from weeds, you will be pretty certain of getting a liberal sprinkling of scullions. To a certain extent, rich land and freedom from weeds, you will be pretty certain of getting a good liberal sprinkling of scallions. To a certain extent, rich land and freedom from weeds have the same effect; both are favorable to rapid growth. Onion roots spread out very little on the surface; they strike straight down. This is probably why land that has been thoroughly tilled or heavily manured for years is best for onions. The fertility has had time to get down towards the subsoil.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE COW STABLE.

We like to feed each cow about one-half bushel of rye meal just before calving, commencing by giving a handful of meal in a gallon of boiling water to a feed, at first, and increasing the quantity daily, commencing about two weeks before calving. If the udder should become sore, swollen and inflamed, bathe it every two hours during the day with hot soap-suds, rubbing it long and gently, and drying with a woolen cloth. The last thing at night, apply lard as hot as she can bear it, rubbing it in well. For sore teats, wash clean with warm water, and apply glycerine. For an obstruction in a teat, use a silver milking-tube. The best way to manage a fresh-calved cow, as far as the cow herself is concerned, is to allow the calf to suck for two to five days, or until you are quite sure the udder is all right. Then take away the calf and milk the cow five times a day for a while, especially if she is fed liberally for milk. Garget and milk-fever are the two ailments most to be feared in a fresh cow. The former is produced by overfeeding with concentrated or stimulating food, like cotton seed, or corn meal. The best remedy to my knowledge is one ounce saltpetre in the feed. Use this medicine two or three times, and frequently foment the udder with hot soap-suds. Anything that interferes with the condition of the cow after calving may produce milk-fever. Exposure, too much exercise, or nervous excitement, are all sufficient to bring on an attack, and a recovery is of rare occurrence. It is the "ounce of prevention" in this case, as in so many others, that is worth the pound of cure. Keep the animal quiet for a week before and after calving, and nurse her well.

SETTING OUT CURRANT BUSHES.

The most important point in setting out currant bushes is to set them out. Set them where you can cultivate on each side of them, and not against the fence or wall. As often treated, currants are a nuisance. The bushes soon become stunted and covered with moss, the caterpillars destroy the leaves, and what few currants we get are small, unripe and nearly worthless. Why should they be otherwise? They are never manured, never cultivated or hoed, rarely pruned, and no efforts are made to destroy the caterpillars until half the leaves are stripped from the branches. If any of our readers have such bushes, the first thing to do is to set out new ones on new land. Let the old ones remain until the new ones come into bearing and in the meantime give the old ones a dressing of manure, cultivate or fork and hoe the ground around them and keep down the weeds, afterward cut out all dead branches, and all that are so far gone as to be hopeless. As a field crop, when you have access to a railroad station or near market, and can secure pickers, currants can be grown with considerable profit. But you must plant on rich land, or make it rich land, or make it rich with manure and keep the soil all through the growing season well cultivated and free from weeds. Were we about to set out several acres of currants, we should set them out in rows not less than six feet apart, and three feet apart in the rows. This would give twenty-four hundred and twenty bushes per acre. Seven or eight feet apart would be better. The most popular red variety is the Cherry. This is owing to its large size and handsome appearance. But with us it is not as productive as the common Red Dutch, or Victoria. The Versailles is also a productive and good currant of large size. Size, however, is largely a question of rich land, good cultivation and judicious pruning.

Forwarding Garden Vegetables.

American Agriculturist.

When the gardener gives the plant a special advantage the result of which is to cause it to produce or mature earlier than it otherwise would, he is said to "forward" it. Tomatoes will bear long before frost, if the seeds are sown in the open ground. By sowing seeds in a hot-bed and raising the plants, the tomato is forwarded. If the seeds were sown last fall and the plants kept in a hot house to produce fruit in the early spring, that would be "forcing." Cucumbers are forced under glass, but they may also be forwarded. For illustration? to forward the cucumber, fill some four-inch pots with fine, rich soil, sow half a dozen cucumber seeds in each and set the pots in a hot-bed, or stand them in a box which can be set on the sill of the kitchen window. Another method of starting the seeds, if a good piece of turf can be had, is this: Take up a thick, strong sod, and fit it to a shallow box with the grassy side down. The sides of the box need not be over three inches high. With a strong knife cut the sod into squares, which should be according to the size of the box, three or four inches square. Cut quite down through the grass roots and tops, to the bottom of the box, to make sure that the pieces can be separated readily. Sow several seeds in the earth of each piece of sod, which is of course bottom or earth side up. Set this box of sods in the window or in a hot-bed, as directed for the pots. Either pots or sods must be watered as needed. When the seeds are up and the plants begin to show their rough leaves, remove all but two or three in each pot or piece of sod. Do not pull out the extra plants, as it will disturb the roots of those which are to be left, but cut them off with a knife, or pinch them off with the thumb and finger nails, close to the ground.

When the gentleman, who for twenty-three years has been the chief editor of the American Agriculturist, assumed that position, the boys of the country were all anxious to go to cities and become clerks in dry goods, stores and other establishments. Now all our city boys are looking forward to the time when they shall become the owners of farms; so it is that under the teachings of such periodicals as the American Agriculturist, agriculture has now become universally regarded, as George Washington pronounced it to be, the most healthful, most useful and most noble employment of man.—[American Agriculturist.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week. Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

THE FALLEN JUDGE.

Youths' Companion.

Twenty-five years ago a young lawyer, tired of waiting for clients in his native town, opened a law office in the city of New York. As business came in slowly he drifted into politics, and his pleasant manners, aided by his fluent tongue, made him popular with the "boys" who pack ward meetings and nominate candidates.

In order to make new friends and retain old ones, he visited saloons and bar-rooms, and made himself "hail fellow well met" with the local politicians. The little money he earned during the day was spent at night in "treating" the men he wished to use as stepping stones.

Occasionally an old friend met him, and seeing his surroundings and tell-tale looks, dropped a word of caution. "Yes, yes, I know!" he would reply, "But, you see, I am making friends; when I carry out my purpose, I will drop them. Politics, you know, makes strange bed-fellows, and when one is in Rome he must do as the Romans do."

The "boys" elected him Judge of the Marine Court. When he took his seat at a high salary, his old-fashioned friends again cautioned him. "I am all right, now," he said, "I am going to drop the "boys" and do my best to make a reputation. You shall have no cause to be ashamed of the Judge in the future!"

He did remove himself from his bar-room associates and tried to do his duty as a Judge and a good citizen, but he had formed the habit of DRINKING, and THAT he did not eradicate. Instead of visiting saloons, he became a member of a fashionable club and drank champagne instead of whiskey. The club men were more genteel than the ward politicians, but not more helpful to a man who had promised himself to break away from evil.

When the Judge's term of office had expired, the "boys" resented being dropped. He was not re-elected, and the failure unmanned him. He took up again with whiskey, and became so dissipated that his genteel associates would not recognize him. He sank lower and lower, living in vile lodgings and frequenting vile groceries.

One morning, a week or two ago, a dozen vagrants and drunkards stood in the "dock" of a New York police court. As the Justice looked over the group, he saw the Judge with his long white locks and beard.

"What, you here again!" he exclaimed, and he shook his head sadly.

"Yes, Judge; and I want to be sent to the Island for the winter. I've no home, no money and no friends."

He was committed to the work house, where he had already served several terms. It is not necessary to give the man's name. The facts of his life are sufficient for the purpose we have in view, which is to show that ruin follows by an inevitable law when men adopt such methods to secure position as this man adopted. To-day his severest punishment lies in the knowledge of what he has lost by his own unwise acts, and from the clear perception of what, but for his folly, he MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Major C. B. Calton, of New York, has recently said; "I manufactured liquor for twenty-five years. I began the liquor business selling beer over my father's bar when I was fifteen years old. I know all about it and can make any kind. The adulteration of liquor is something you know very little about, and the extent of it will surprise you. A man stands about as good a chance of being struck by lightning as to get a pure article of brandy in the city of New York. With rectified whiskey as a basis we can imitate any kind of brandy. The French are more expert than we are; we begin where they leave off, and God pity the man who drinks the stuff we make. We make champagne which you buy for the genuine article. It costs to manufacture four dollars a basket; we sell it for ten dollars to dealers. We make the stuff and put it in our own bottles, make a fac-simile label of the genuine, import Spanish corks for the bottles and French straw and basket to pack them in. We want to make a genuine imported wine. We buy one barrel of it. Our cooper takes the barrel as a pattern and makes ours by it. They are new and bright. We put them through a staining process, and they come out old and musty and worn just like the genuine importation. Thirty-two deadly poisons are used in the manufacture of wine. Not one barrel in fifty sold here ever saw France. We sell thousands of barrels of whiskey to France to have them come back to us something else. Of all poisonous liquors in the world bourbon whiskey is the deadliest. Strychnine is only one of the poisons in it. A certain oil is used in its manufacture, eight drops of which will kill a cat in ten minutes, and a dog in nine minutes. The most temperate men in New York are the wholesale dealers. They dare not drink the stuff they sell."

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore in a recent lecture on temperance at Painesville, Ohio, thus detailed some of the horrible foot-prints of the traffic that had come under her own observation. She said she had been solicited to visit the State primary school near Boston. She went, and while standing on the platform, as the children passed into the chapel the matron gave her the story of each one; One child with an eye gouged out by a drunken and infuriated father; another, whose face seemed to be a one-sided formation. Her cheek and ear had been sliced off by her father, when maddened by drink and brandishing a butcher knife; another child was armless because thrown from an elevated window by a drunken parent and so severely injured that amputation was necessary; most horrible of all the numerous cases was that of a little girl who had been thrown on a hot stove by a drunken mother and severely burned, her screams bringing help before she was too badly injured to be saved. Mrs. Livermore said she wept at the recital of their terrible wrongs. Yes, and a nation that tolerates a system of iniquity that bears such fruits should not only weep but hide its head in shame.

WINTER DAIRYING.

A great deal has been written and said about the greater profit of winter dairying. After all it depends entirely on the kind of men that engage in it. If the man is intelligent enough to see the real facts and principles in the case, and then is energetic enough to put them into execution, there is no doubt there is much the most money in it. But winter dairying means a great deal. Some very excellent hints on this question are contained in the following from the National Live Stock Journal:

Profitable dairying can not be conducted upon hay alone, as cows are usually wintered. Some food, as nearly succulent as possible, must be provided. Those who have gone judiciously into the ensilage system will be quite prepared to furnish succulent food. Corn ensilage is what is usually found in nine-tenths of the silos in the whole country, and we will first consider the use of this. Green corn, properly put in silo, will be found in good condition, most of it a little sour, but yet relished by cows, and a healthy food, giving a fresh flavor to the butter, that dry food does not give. Yet, experienced feeders know that corn alone is far from being a complete food for milk, even if fed fresh from the field in autumn. Perhaps the best proportion of this corn ensilage is 60 lbs. per cow per day; 30 lbs. morning and evening, with 1 lb. linseed meal and 3 lbs. of finished middlings per feed, and about 5 lbs. of long hay at noon. This is a moderate ration for common sized cows. When an addition is to be made to this ration, one quart of corn meal at morning and evening feed will be a good improvement to the variety. This ration will produce good milk and a fair yield. We have very often urged the necessity for a variety of food in the dairy ration. If the dry hay given at noon is early cut, nicely cured clover, so much the better.

It must be understood that ensilage can not properly be fed in a cold stable, as it would freeze, and frost makes a very poor feed for milch cows. And this leads us to say that it is useless to attempt to feed profitably for winter butter in a cold stable. Milk secretion does not proceed well in a cold atmosphere. All experienced dairymen know that a cold wind in the fall will very much lessen the yield of milk. The very first requisite of profitable milk production in winter, is a warm, well ventilated stable. There is really no valid excuse for any dairyman having a cold stable. The cost of putting an inside lining and filling the space between the two boardings with sawdust, tanbark or cut straw, is so small that no dairyman can afford to have a cold stable. The cost will be repaid in half a winter. Some dairymen have tested and report very favorably upon artificial heat in milk stables. And, on a large scale, there can be little doubt of its economy. But this can not be adopted by very small dairymen, though he can make his stable too warm to freeze, at small expense.

One of the best improvements in winter dairying, is to winter the cows where they stand in the stable. This can be cheaply done on all farms, with an elevated spring so the water can be brought in wood or iron pipes, under ground, and kept at a temperature of 60°. When cows are let out to drink at a trough, the water being nearly at the freezing point they fill their stomachs with this cold water, which must be warmed up to blood heat by the heat in their bodies, and at the expense of the food that should be used to make milk. A large yield of milk is never produced under such circumstances. It is easy to arrange a trough in front of the cow, into which the water is conducted by a pipe, and the water is ready for her at any time she may wish it.

The cow in milk should not be exposed to cold storms. It is much better that she remain in a warm stable until the storm is over. Exercise in a storm will do her more harm than good. She should also be kept clean, and this is difficult to do in a common stable, even with good bedding, unless the stable is cleaned several times per day. And when cows are much soiled with manure it is very difficult to keep the milk from being contaminated. The self-cleaning stable grating is the only one that wholly succeeds in keeping the cow clean, without constant labor. This plan also saves all the liquid and solid droppings, which are always needed on a dairy farm as a fertilizer for the grain and grass crops. The large number of these gratings now in use proves that they are entirely practical, and they work even better when the droppings are thin. They are exceedingly important where ensilage is fed.

A difference in the yield of milk of 4 quarts a day, even at two cents a quart, is equal to $24 a year, which is the interest at 6 per cent on $400. A difference of 100 pounds of butter a year is equal to the same amount. With 10 cows this counts up pretty fast. A pure bred Ayrshire or Jersey cow will easily make this difference in the value of the yearly products; as there is no extra cost for the keeping, the increase is all profit.—[Hoard's Dairyman.

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT."

"An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents," This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price.

Address,
RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

The best five cent cigars is at th Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK RGION OF MINNESCTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL		Stations	TO ST. PAUL.
No. 3 Daily.	No 1. Ex. Sun.		No. 2. Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 20 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapolis	2 40 "	6 25 "
7 20 a m	6 55 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 50 "	7 30 p m	Glyndon	7 20 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 33 "	Felton	6 45 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 48 "	9 13 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 26 "	6 23 "
9 23 "	9 58 "	Beltrami	5 08 "	6 12 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson	4 33 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	3 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 43 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 p m	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 53 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 53 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 33 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 55 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 18 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } am
4 05 "	3 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Lv	11 30 p m	11 50 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 20 a m	Crookston.	6 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 18 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } D		2 25 } D
1 25 }	Arvilla	2 00 "
1 43 "	Larimore	1 48 "
2 08 "	Shawnee	1 18 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 55 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lacota	11 46 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 35 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.
O. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

CARRIAGE WORKS!

McKINNON BROS., Proprietors,

Robert Street, - - Crookston, Minn.

—MANUFACTURERS OF—

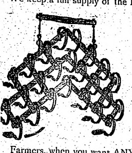
CARRIAGES, WAGONS, BUGGIES.

Axles, Springs, and All Repairs, Kept in Stock.

ALSO DEALARS IN

Farm Machinery.

We keep a full supply of the Leading Machines. We have



Seeders, Harrows, Plows, and everything a farmer needs. Among the different articles may be mentioned the celebrated

Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Diamond Tooth Harrows, and the Trowbridge Broadcast Seeder

Farmers, when you want ANYTHING in our line call in and examine our stock before you purchase. We can suit you in price, style and quality.

☞ Extras for all machines constantly on hand.

WALL PAPER.

Headquarters at Potter & George's Drug Store--Medical Hall!

A full line direct from the East. No two patterns alike and different from any ever shown in Crookston before.

No trouble to show our samples, and you are invited to call-YOU!

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

FOR SALE

20 NEW Milch Cows, 20

—ALSO—

5 Yoke of Steers. 5

The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns, good milkers, and will be sold

Cheap for Cash.

Call on or address

B. SAMPSON,

[48-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Bookcases, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

JOHN N. IVES.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant

Veterinary Surgeon,

CROOKSTON, - - - MINN.

Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.

[9-tf]

WM. WATTS,

ATTORNEY AT LAW

AND DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE:

OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,

Graduate McGill University, Montreal.

LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.

Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,

Sample Rooms.

MAIN STREET, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,

CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN.

ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness, Single and Double, Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

FARM NOTES.

American Agriculturist.

OATS AND PEAS.

We have for many years grown oats and peas together. On good, rich land, sown early, you can get a great mass of fodder and grain. The drawback in the older States is the pea weevil. The peas are affected with the "bug," and we do not sell them, but feed them out on the farm to pigs and sheep, principally to the former. The pigs do not object to the bugs. What the bugs think of it is not reported. The fanning-mill will separate nearly all the oats from the peas. No matter if a few of the split peas will remain with the oats. If cut before the oats get too ripe and the crop is carefully cured, the fodder is nearly as good as hay. As to the variety of peas, sow any that you can buy cheap enough. The seedsmen charge too much for it, or the White or Black-eyed Marrowfat would be good. The common Canada Creeper or any other small, round pea answers a good purpose, and a bushel goes farther than the larger varieties. We mean that it is not necessary to sow them so thick. Two bushels of these small peas, and a bushel of oats is enough per acre. The marrowfats should be sown at the rate of not less than three bushels per acre and a bushel to a bushel and a half of oats, thoroughly mixed together.

Early sowing is very desirable, and as sod can be plowed earlier in the spring than stubble land, we prefer to sow on sod, putting in the seed as fast as the land is plowed. The crop can be drilled in or broadcast. If a drill is used, keep the grain well mixed, or the peas will be apt to sink to the bottom. If sown broadcast and the land is well plowed in narrow furrows, sow on the furrows before harrowing. Then harrow and roll, and the peas will be well covered. You can rely on that.

WHAT VARIETY OF POTATOES TO PLANT.

If you want potatoes as early as possible, select the best early potato you can find. The genuine Early Rose is good enough and early enough. The Beauty of Hebron is equally good, and there are a dozen other varieties any one of which, if you happen to have it, will ripen about as early, and give satisfaction. If any one tells you he has a potato that will ripen two weeks earlier than the Rose or the Beauty of Hebron, and yield as much again per acre, tell him that it is a most valuable variety, and that he had better plant all he has got, and not sell a tuber to anyone else for seed. For early potatoes, plant in good, rich, mellow soil as soon as the frost is out of the ground. You can hardly plant too early. Until the plants appear, severe frost will not hurt them. When the plants are up, a frost will sometimes destroy the crop, or at any rate, seriously retard or injure it. A piece of paper, or a light covering of soil will save the plant. For winter potatoes, select a variety that possesses at least four points, viz: quality, vigorous growth of leaves to resist the potato bugs, a good keeper, and productiveness.

When the potato bugs first appeared, everybody planted early varieties of potatoes, in hopes of getting ahead of the bugs. Now that we know how to keep the bugs in check, we can plant later kinds. As a rule, the early varieties cannot yield as well as the later sorts, which have a longer season to grow in; or if they do in exceptional cases, it is probably owing to unusual richness of land. On ordinary land, other things being equal, a late variety will yield better, and keep better (the next spring,) than the early varieties. A late variety of potato should be planted as early as the soil can be got into good condition. If you do not wish to plant early—or perhaps we had better say, if you are behind with your work, and cannot plant as early as you wish, plant an earlier variety. The later you plant, the earlier should be the variety planted. The same principle, or rule as to planting, applies to cabbages, cauliflowers, tomatoes, cucumbers, melons, turnips, corn, beans, peas, etc. The earlier the variety, that is, the quicker it matures, the later can it be sown or planted.

WHY ARE ONIONS DIFFICULT TO RAISE?

Many of our readers seem to have trouble in raising onions from seed. The seed will grow, and so do the onions, but they do not form bulbs. They produce thick necks and keep green, and growing until cut down by frost. Many think this is due to climate. Possibly this is so, but in many cases the trouble is more likely to be due to some of the following causes, namely: poor seed, poor land, late sowing and weeds. By poor seed we do not mean seed that will not grow, but ill-bred seed, seed grown from a crop of onions, the best of which have been sold, and those not good enough to sell, planted for seed. A sea-lionish onion, or one with a small bulb and a thick, immature neck, will produce quite as much and quite as good-looking seed as the best formed bulb—in fact more seed and better looking seed. Seed grown from scullions, or from thick-necked onions will be very sure to produce scullions. We can row down stream faster than we can pull up against the current. The onion has been brought to perfection by high feeding and careful selection, and if we would maintain what we have gained, we must continue our efforts, but must not select the poorest onions to breed from.

By poor land, we do not mean land that will not produce a good crop of corn or wheat or potatoes or grass. Land might be too rich for wheat, but not rich enough for onions. This same land might, without any manure, become rich enough for onions. We know how mucky land where onions are successfully grown year after year without manure, but which at first produced a very poor crop. It needed the thorough tillage and freedom from weeds which all onion growers find so essential. Onion seed should be sown the moment the frost is out of the surface soil. The land should have been made ready the autumn previous. If this is not done and you have to get the land ready in the spring, you may get a fair crop of onions, but can hardly expect a full yield. Even if everything else is favorable, if the onion patch is not kept free from weeds, you will be pretty certain of getting a liberal sprinkling of scullions. To a certain extent, rich land and freedom from weeds, you will be pretty certain of getting a good liberal sprinkling of scullions. To a certain extent, rich land and freedom from weeds have the same effect. [illegible] are favorable to rapid growth. Onion roots spread out very little on the surface; they strike straight down. This is probably why land that has been thoroughly tilled [illegible] [illegible]

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE COW STABLE.

We like to feed each cow about one-half bushel of rye meal just before calving, commencing by giving a handful of meal in a gallon of boiling water to a feed, at first, and increasing the quantity daily, commencing about two weeks before calving. If the udder should become sore, swollen and inflamed, bathe it every two hours during the day with hot soap-suds, rubbing it long and gently, and drying with a woolen cloth. The last thing at night, apply lard as hot as she can bear it, rubbing it in well. For sore teats, wash clean with warm water, and apply glycerine. For an obstruction in a teat, use a silver milking tube. The best way to manage a fresh-calved cow, as far as the cow herself is concerned, is to allow the calf to suck for two to five days, or until you are quite sure the udder is all right. Then take away the calf and milk the cow five times a day for a while, especially if she is fed liberally for milk. Garget and milk-fever are the two ailments most to be feared in a fresh cow. The former is produced by overfeeding with concentrated or stimulating food, like cotton seed, or corn meal. The best remedy to my knowledge is one ounce saltpetre in the feed. Use this medicine two or three times, and frequently foment the udder with hot soap-suds. Anything that interferes with the condition of the cow after calving may produce milk-fever. Exposure, too much exercise, or nervous excitement, are all sufficient to bring on an attack, and a recovery is of rare occurrence. It is the "ounce of prevention" in this case, as in so many others, that is worth the pound of cure. Keep the animal quiet for a week before and after calving, and nurse her well.

SETTING OUT CURRANT BUSHES.

The most important point in setting out currant bushes is to set them out. Set them where you can cultivate on each side of them, and not against the fence or wall. As often treated, currants are a nuisance. The bushes soon become stunted and covered with moss, the caterpillars destroy the leaves, and what few currants we get are small, unripe and nearly worthless. Why should they be otherwise? They are never manured, never cultivated or hoed, rarely pruned, and no efforts are made to destroy the caterpillars until half the leaves are stripped from the branches. If any of our readers have such bushes, the first thing to do is to set out new ones on new land. Let the old ones remain until the new ones come into bearing and in the meantime give the old ones a dressing of manure, cultivate or fork and hoe the ground around them and keep down the weeds, afterward cut out all dead branches, and all that are so far gone as to be hopeless. As a field crop, when you have access to a railroad station or near market, and can secure pickers, currants can be grown with considerable profit. But you must plant on rich land, or make it rich land, or make it rich with manure and keep the soil all through the growing season well cultivated and free from weeds. Were we about to set out several acres of currants, we should set them out in rows not less than six feet apart, and three feet apart in the rows. This would give twenty-four hundred and twenty bushes per acre. Seven or eight feet apart would be better. The most popular red variety is the Cherry. This is owing to its large size and handsome appearance. But with us it is not as productive as the common Red Dutch, or Victoria. The Versailles is also a productive and good currant of large size. Size, however, is largely a question of rich land, good cultivation and judicious pruning.

Forwarding Garden Vegetables.

American Agriculturist.

When the gardener gives the plant a special advantage the result of which is to cause it to produce or mature earlier than it otherwise would, he is said to "forward" it. Tomatoes will bear long before frost, if the seeds are sown in the open ground. By sowing seeds in a hot-bed and raising the plants, the tomato is forwarded. If the seeds were sown last fall and the plants kept in a hot house to produce fruit in the early spring, that would be "forcing." Cucumbers are forced under glass, but they may also be forwarded. For illustration: to forward the cucumber, fill some four-inch pots with fine, rich soil, sow half a dozen cucumber seeds in each and set the pots in a hot-bed, or stand them in a box which can be set on the sill of the kitchen window. Another method of starting the seeds, if a good piece of turf can be had, is this: Take up a thick, strong sod, and fit it to a shallow box with the grassy side down. The sides of the box need not be over three inches high. With a strong knife cut the sod into squares, which should be according to the size of the box, three or four inches square. Cut quite down through the grass roots and tops, to the bottom of the box, to make sure that the pieces can be separated readily. Sow several seeds in the earth of each piece of sod, which is of course bottom or earth side up. Set this box of sods in the window or in a hot-bed, as directed for the pots. Either pots or sods must be watered as needed. When the seeds are up and the plants begin to show their rough leaves, remove all but two or three in each pot or piece of sod. Do not pull out the extra plants, as it will disturb the roots of those which are to be left, but cut them off with a knife, or pinch them off with the thumb and finger nails, close to the ground.

When the gentleman, who for twenty-three years has been the chief editor of the American Agriculturist, assumed that position, the boys of the country were all anxious to go to cities and become clerks in dry goods stores and other establishments. Now all our city boys are looking forward to the time when they shall become the owners of farms, hoping that under the teachings of such periodicals as the American Agriculturist, agriculture has now become universally regarded, as George Washington pronounced it to be, the most healthful, most useful and most noble employment of man.—American Agriculturist.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week.—Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

THE FALLEN JUDGE.

Youths' Companion.

Twenty-five years ago a young lawyer, tired of waiting for clients in his native town, opened a law office in the city of New York. As business came in slowly he drifted into politics, and his pleasant manners, aided by his fluent tongue, made him popular with the "boys" who pack ward meetings and nominate candidates.

In order to make new friends and retain old ones, he visited saloons and bar-rooms, and made himself "hail fellow well met" with the local politicians. The little money he earned during the day was spent at night in "treating" the men he wished to use as stepping stones.

Occasionally an old friend met him, and seeing his surroundings and tell-tale looks, dropped a word of caution. "Yes, yes, I know!" he would reply, "But, you see, I am making friends; when I carry out my purpose, I will drop them. Politics, you know, makes strange bed-fellows, and when one is in Rome he must do as the Romans do."

The "boys" elected him Judge of the Marine Court. When he took his seat at a high salary, his old-fashioned friends again cautioned him. "I am all right, now," he said, "I am going to drop the "boys" and do my best to make a reputation. You shall have no cause to be ashamed of the Judge in the future!"

He did remove himself from his bar-room associates and tried to do his duty as a Judge and a good citizen, but he had formed the habit of DRINKING, and THAT he did not eradicate. Instead of visiting saloons, he became a member of a fashionable club and drank champagne instead of whiskey. The club men were more genteel than the ward politicians, but not more helpful to a man who had promised himself to break away from evil.

When the Judge's term of office had expired, the "boys" resented being dropped. He was not re-elected, and the failure unmanned him. He took up again with whiskey, and became so dissipated that his genteel associates would not recognize him. He sank lower and lower, living in vile lodgings and frequenting vile groceries.

One morning, a week or two ago, a dozen vagrants and drunkards stood in the "dock" of a New York police court. As the Justice looked over the group, he saw the Judge with his long white locks and beard.

"What, you here again!" he exclaimed, and he shook his head sadly.

"Yes, Judge, and I want to be sent to the Island for the winter. I've no home, no money and no friends."

He was committed to the work house, where he had already served several terms. It is not necessary to give the man's name. The facts of his life are sufficient for the purpose we have in view, which is to show that ruin follows by an inevitable law when men adopt such methods to secure position as this man adopted. To-day his severest punishment lies in the knowledge of what he has lost by his own unwise acts, and from the clear perception of what, but for his folly, he MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Major C. B. Calton, of New York, has recently said: "I manufactured liquor for twenty-five years. I began the liquor business selling beer over my father's bar when I was fifteen years old. I know all about it, and can make any kind. The adulteration of liquor is something you know very little about, and the extent of it will surprise you. A man stands about as good a chance of being struck by lightning as to get a pure article of brandy in the city of New York. With rectified whiskey as a basis we can imitate any kind of brandy. The French are more expert than we are; we begin where they leave off, and God pity the man who drinks the stuff we make. We make champagne which you buy for the genuine article. It costs to manufacture four dollars a basket; we sell it for ten dollars to dealers. We make the stuff and put it in our own bottles, make a fac-simile label of the genuine, import Spanish corks for the bottles and French straw and basket to pack them in. We want to make a genuine imported wine. We buy one barrel of it. Our cooper takes the barrel as a pattern and makes ours by it. They are new and bright. We put them through a staining process, and they come out old and musty and worn just like the genuine importation. Thirty-two deadly poisons are used in the manufacture of wine. Not one barrel in fifty sold here ever saw France. We sell thousands of barrels of whiskey to France to have them come back to us something else. Of all poisonous liquors in the world bourbon whiskey is the deadliest. Strychnine is only one of the poisons in it. A certain oil is used in its manufacture, eight drops of which will kill a cat in ten minutes, and a dog in nine minutes. The most temperate men in New York are the wholesale dealers. They dare not drink the stuff they sell."

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore in a recent lecture on temperance at Painesville, Ohio, thus detailed some of the horrible foot-prints of the traffic that had come under her own observation. She said she had been solicited to visit the State primary school near Boston. She was standing on the platform as the children [illegible] One child with an eye gouged out by a drunken and infuriated father, another whose face seemed to be a one-sided formation. Her cheek and ear had been sliced off by her father when maddened by drink and brandishing a butcher knife; another child was armless because thrown from an elevated window by a drunken parent and so severely injured that amputation was necessary; most horrible of all the numerous cases was that of a little girl who had been thrown on a hot stove by a drunken mother and severely burned, her screams bringing help before she was too badly injured to be saved. Mrs. Livermore said she wept at the recital of their terrible wrongs. Yes, and a nation that tolerates a system of iniquity that bears such fruits should not only weep but hide its head in shame.

WINTER DAIRYING.

A great deal has been written and said about the greater profit of winter dairying. After all it depends entirely on the kind of men that engage in it. If the man is intelligent enough to see the real facts and principles in the case, and then is energetic enough to put them into execution, there is no doubt there is much the most money in it. But winter dairying means a great deal. Some very excellent hints on this question are contained in the following from the National Live Stock Journal:

Profitable dairying can not be conducted upon hay alone, as cows are usually wintered. Some food, as nearly succulent as possible, must be provided. Those who have gone judiciously into the ensilage system will be quite prepared to furnish succulent food. Corn ensilage is what is usually found in nine-tenths of the silos in the whole country, and we will first consider the use of this. Green corn, properly put in silo, will be found in good condition, most of it a little sour, but yet relished by cows, and a healthy food, giving a fresh flavor to the butter, that dry food does not give. Yet, experienced feeders know that corn alone is far from being a complete food for milk, even if fed fresh from the field in autumn. Perhaps the best proportion of this corn ensilage is 60 lbs. per cow per day; 30 lbs. morning and evening, with 1 lb. linseed meal and 3 lbs. of finished middlings per feed, and about 5 lbs. of long hay at noon. This is a moderate ration for common sized cows. When an addition is to be made to this ration, one quart of corn meal at morning and evening feed will be a good improvement to the variety. This ration will produce good milk and a fair yield. We have very often urged the necessity for a variety of food in the dairy ration. If the dry hay given at noon is early cut, nicely cured clover, so much the better.

It must be understood that ensilage can not properly be fed in a cold stable, as it would freeze, and frost makes a very poor feed for milch cows. And this leads us to say that it is useless to attempt to feed profitably for winter butter in a cold stable. Milk secretion does not proceed well in a cold atmosphere. All experienced dairymen know that a cold wind in the fall will very much lessen the yield of milk. The very first requisite of profitable milk production in winter, is a warm, well ventilated stable. There is really no valid excuse for any dairyman having a cold stable. The cost of putting an inside lining and filling the space between the two boardings with sawdust, tanbark or cut straw, is so small that no dairyman can afford to have a cold stable. The cost will be repaid in half a winter. Some dairymen have tested and report very favorably upon artificial heat in milk stables. And, on a large scale, there can be little doubt of its economy. But this can not be adopted by very small dairymen, though he can make his stable too warm to freeze, at small expense.

One of the best improvements in winter dairying, is to winter the cows where they stand in the stable. This can be cheaply done on all farms, with an elevated spring so the water can be brought in wood or iron pipes, under ground, and kept at a temperature of 60°. When cows are let out to drink at a trough, the water being nearly at the freezing point they fill their stomachs with this cold water, which must be warmed up to blood heat by the heat in their bodies, and at the expense of the food that should be used to make milk. A large yield of milk is never produced under such circumstances. It is easy to arrange a trough in front of the cow, into which the water is conducted by a pipe, and the water is ready for her at any time she may wish it.

The cow in milk should not be exposed to cold storms. It is much better that she remain in a warm stable until the storm is over. Exercise in a storm will do her more harm than good. She should also be kept clean, and this is difficult to do in a common stable, even with good bedding, unless the stable is cleaned several times per day. And when cows are much soiled with manure it is very difficult to keep the milk from being contaminated. The self-cleaning stable grating is the only one that wholly succeeds in keeping the cow clean, without constant labor. This plan also saves all the liquids and solid droppings, which are always needed on a dairy farm as a fertilizer for the grain and grass crops. The large number of these gratings now in use proves that they are entirely practical, and they work even better when the droppings are thin. They are exceedingly important where ensilage is fed.

A difference in the yield of milk of a quart a day, even of two quarts [illegible] difference of 100 pounds of butter a year is equal to the same amount. With 10 cows this counts up pretty fast. A pure bred Ayrshire or Jersey cow will easily make this difference in the value of the yearly products, as there is no extra cost for the keeping, the increase is all profit.—[Hoard's Dairyman.

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT."

"An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents." This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

The best five cent cigars is at th Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETSCHMAR.

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK RGION OF MINNESCTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL			TO ST. PAUL
No. 3 Daily.	No. 1 Ex. Sun.	Stations	No. 2 Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's	5 40 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 55 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 30 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 33 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 48 "	9 13 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 36 "	6 22 "
9 23 "	9 58 "	Beltrami	5 18 "	6 10 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson n.p	4 58 "	5 51 "
10 20 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 58 "	11 20 "	Shirley	3 43 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 pm	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 55 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 58 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 33 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 19 pm
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 }
4 05 "	2 58 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Ly	11 20 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 30 a m	Crookston	6 25 p m
10 55	Fisher's	4 45
11 18	Mallory	4 18
11 55	Grand Forks	3 50
12 25	Ojata	3 00
1 00 }	[illegible]	2 25
1 25 } D	Arvilla	3 00 } D
1 45	Larimore	1 48
2 05	Shawnee	1 18
2 23	Niagara	12 55
2 57	Michigan City	12 18
[illegible]	Mapes	12 06
[illegible]	[illegible]	11 46
4 40	Devil's Lake	10 30 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St Paul.
C. H. [illegible]
Local Ticket Agent.

CARRIAGE WORKS!

McKINNON BROS., Proprietors,

Robert Street, - - - Crookston, Minn.

MANUFACTURERS OF

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, BUGGIES.

Axles, Springs, and All Repairs, Kept in Stock.

ALSO, DEALERS IN

Farm Machinery.

We keep a full supply of the Leading Machines. We have

Seeders, Harrows, Plows, and everything a farmer needs. Among the different articles may be mentioned the celebrated Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Diamond Tooth Harrows, and the Trowbridge Broadcast Seeder

Farmers, when you want ANYTHING in our line call in and examine our stock before you purchase. We can suit you in price, style and quality.

☞ Extras for all machines constantly on hand.

WALL PAPER.

Headquarters at Potter & George's Drug Store--Medical Hall!

A full line direct from the East. No two patterns alike and different from any ever shown in Crookston before.

No trouble to show our samples, and you are invited to call-YOU!

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

FOR SALE

20 NEW Milch Cows, 20

—ALSO—

5 Yoke of Steers. 5

The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns good milkers, and will be sold

Cheap for Cash.

Call on or address
B. SAMPSON,
[48-tf] Crookston, Minn.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

X. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Tables, Lounges, Bed[illegible] Bed Springs, [illegible] Chairs, [illegible] Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE [illegible]

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon.
CROOKSTON, - - - - MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[9-tf]

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE:
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

A. H. DUNLOP M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [9-tf]

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
[illegible]

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 2d, 1885

City and County Directory.

☞We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb .... Register.
L. K. Aaker .... Receiver.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson .... Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge .... Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson .... Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning .... Hendrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague .... Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh .... Clerk of Court.
John Paterson .... Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire .... Auditor.
O. H. Lucken .... Treasurer.
D. H. Hatlestad .... Court Commissioner.
John Leo .... Attorney.
V. D. Carruth .... Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey .... Sheriff.
H. Shephard .... Coroner.
Ole Hamery .... Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist .... Woodside.
E. A. Bratlish—2d " .... Fisher.
M. B. Brown—3d " .... Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th " .... Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th " .... East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor .... E. M. Walsh.
Recorder .... W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer .... A. G. Gallasch.
Justices .... G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward .... Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d " .... Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d " .... N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th " .... S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large .... R. Houston.
City Attorney .... J. N. Ives.
City Engineer .... W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal .... J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal .... J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 3:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIRAM LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. P. Hall Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. Mix, M. W.
F. Behlmer, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. Shapleigh, H. P.
O. H. Lucken, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. Schwark, N. G.
R. B. Gates, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,480, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. Harris, Dictator.
Jas. Butler, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. Hurlbut, W. M.
Geo. D. Buckham, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. Barnes, C. C.
W. B. Dawley, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE

AND

SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

18 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	.25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	.10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green gages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported, for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs.	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	.25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	25

Boots and shoes at cost!
Boots and shoes below cost!
BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business, but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for this money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?

MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank T. Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before spring opens. [29-tf]

Beltrami Crumbs.

Rumors!

Rollers!

More weather! whence? where?

More whiskey? No.

Why is it we can't get a drink on Sunday any more? Oh, but pause; wait till Sunday evening and you can have all you want.

The fellow who went home at eleven o'clock the other evening found—his head planted in the snow?—oh, no, but his supporters were not as supporting as they might have been.

A. W. Mott and family went down to Ada last Friday and remained two days.

The Red River Valley Elevator Co are repairing their elevator here. They intend to make some improvements and put in a steam engine in place of the two blind horses.

D. W. Haight intends to go to Iowa in the near future.

The temperance lodge is a relic of the past—two weeks past.

The two Misses Murphy took the train for Rollette on Saturday to spend Sunday at the Lockhart.

The prevailing showers of false teeth and fillings of all sorts have eventually ceased, and the view of the horizon is again clear.

C. M. Olds and Ed. Boddy went down to Ada to take in the rink a few days ago. They say they had a truly tip-top time.

Geo. C. Rois is expected home this week.

(Pretty girl who came in to the dentist's office the other day.) "How much will you charge me for fillin a tooth with gold?" and she looked prayfully up into his pallid countenance. (Dentist.) "Can't tell—it depends entirely on the size of the cavity." On exploring the regions of her mouth, he hunted in vain for the "holey" tooth. He was perplexed.
OLD FOX.

Grand Forks Herald: News has just been received of the death of A. O. Barquist on the 10th inst., at Valparaiso, Ind. He formerly kept the Central House in this city.

Al. Barquist was formerly well-known in this section. He came to this place with Carlos Clough for whom he worked for several years going from here to Grand Forks.

The April number of Dorcas is an admirable one. In addition to the usual number of patterns and directions for crocheted and knitted articles, there is an article on "Tile Carving from Colorado Marble," which opens the way for a new industry for women. This magazine takes special pains to bring forward anything new, which may in any way help women to new and better means of self-support. Dorcas is a periodical which should be in the hands of every lady in the land who has any taste for art decoration or fancy work. The illustrations are excellent, and the patterns selected with extreme good taste, and written in so plain and explicit a manner that a novice will find no trouble in following them. Newsdealers and postmasters will take subscriptions or furnish sample copies. Subscription price, $1.00 per year. Send ten cents for sample copy. Address, "Dorcas," 872 Broadway, New York City.

St. Paul Globe: C. H. Warren, general passenger agent of the Manitoba road, returned on Friday morning from a trip to Chicago and Detroit, Mich. He states that within the last thirty-six hours over two hundred emigrants arrived at Chicago by special train bound for North Dakota, besides a large number who arrived by regular trains for points in Minnesota, Dakota and Manitoba. On Thursday 327 passengers left St. Paul via this popular Red River line for points beyond Barnesville. Mr. Warren states that information he received from agents while on his trip was to the effect that there would be a large exodus of emigrants from points in Canada and Michigan to the west this spring, and the agents expressed much surprise at the expanse of the Minnesota and Dakota business and at its early commencement. A number of European emigrants are coming in, mostly of the better class, with their outfit, to begin life anew. Mr. Warren states that the business so far this season exceeds that for the corresponding time last year.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.
MOSER & MOECKEL.

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretzschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.
[16-tf] C. KRETZSCHMAR.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.
Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] F. W. HASELTINE.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 87-100 dollars, ($571.87-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Luc Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 345, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22,) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.
JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.
LEO & GEDDES,
Att'y's for Mortgagee. [48-2]

MORTGAGESALE.

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 82-100 dollars, ($277.82-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:25 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 258, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 13th, A. D. 1885.
FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.
PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 23d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7312, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillies, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.
[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 13th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 1st, 1885, viz: THOMAS R. DENNISON, H'd No. 2,757, for the sw¼ S. 22, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Miller, James K. Gray, Seth Fetzer and Wm. Ritchie, all of Crookston, Minn.
[43-43] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 10th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 30th, 1885, viz: MARTIN M. DAVIS, H'd No. 1921, for the nw¼ S. 28, T. 153, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Cottet, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Sahamson, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.
[46-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 2d, 1885, viz: ALEXANDER ROBERG, H'd No. 3765, for the s½ se¼ and s½ sw¼ S. 10, T. 151, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Louis Huot, David Coe, Camille Bronilette and Peter Columbus, all of Huot, Polk Co., Minn.
[47-52] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. 9158, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezar Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.
[48-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

AIME GABOURY,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg., Quebec Late of Michigan University, U. S.
Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON MINN

A. A. JUST, M. D.,
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Elken Bros. Hardware Store,
CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

P. A. DUFOUR,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
—MAIN STREET,—
CROOKSTON, MINN

FIRST
National Bank,
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL,	$100,000
SURPLUS,	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
E. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. P. SAWYER, Cashier.

MORTGAGE SALE

First Publication Jan. 22d, 1885.

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty seven 65-100 dollars ($1857.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 430, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 250 and 251, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 13th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 20th, 1885.
JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
45-53 Pro Se

By request of the mortgagee the above sale is adjourned until Thursday, April 16th, at 10 o'clock a. m.
W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk County, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Pierre Dulude, as mortgagor, did on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of July 6th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, and the south half of the northeast quarter, of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west, of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and twenty-five dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, at 3:45 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "E" of mortgages, on pages 87, 88, 89, and 90; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty-eight and 10-100 dollars, due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of July, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of three hundred and seventy-seven and 40-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney
Fergus Falls, Minn. [42-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 66-100 dollars, ($705.66-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 136, 137, 138 and 139, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.87-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1883, and $17.85-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.
THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars, ($333.11-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedsam and Anna Friedsam, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1884, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1884, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 483, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18,) in block twenty-three (23,) in Trails Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.
EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.
PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn. [48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS Israel Dion, as mortgagor, did on the 25th day of January A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of January 25th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section eighteen (18,) in Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west of the 5th principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with five interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 26th day of January A. D. 1881, at 2 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 92, 93 94 and 95; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of forty-six dollars, due as interest upon said mortgage and the said interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of thirty-two and 25-100 dollars, for which sum so paid the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lien on said mortgaged premises for the amount so paid with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas it was stipulated and agreed by and between the parties to said mortgage that if default should be made in any of the conditions or covenants therein contained, on the part of said mortgagor to be kept and performed, that then and from thenceforth it shall be lawful for said mortgagees, their heirs or assigns, to consider the whole sum thereby secured as immediately due and payable; and whereas the legal representatives of John L. Hammond, deceased, one of said mortgagees, and Charles E. Bush, the surviving mortgagee, have exercised their option to consider and declare, and do hereby declare the whole sum of money secured by said mortgage to be due and payable; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid the sum of three hundred and fifteen and 53-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 13th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney.
Fergus Falls, Minn. [43-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Arthur Cote, as mortgagor, did on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of March 1st, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The southeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, at 4:20 o'clock, p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 196, 197 and 198; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred and fifty-six and 25-100 dollars due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of March, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did, on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of eighteen and 30-100 dollars, for which sum so paid, the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lein on said premises for the amount so paid, with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid, the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine and 15-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. H. CHAPMAN, Attorney.
Fergus Falls, Minn. [34-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 80-100 dollars, ($487.80-100,) which is claimed to be due to the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 320, 321 and 322, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.65-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.51-100 taxes for the year 1883, and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 10th A. D. 1885.
THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin.
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs, Valencia raisens for	1,00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
CANNED GOODS
12 cans plums	1,00
12 cans corn for	1,45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN.
Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

STEWART & LAURENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,
Hardware Merchants.
CARRY A FULL LINE OF Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
STOVES,
REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BULDIING PAREP,
Etc., Etc.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET,—
CROOKSTO MINNESOTA.

O. D. ROOD,
CONTRACTOR
AND BUILDER,
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.
Estimates made on brick-work and Plastering.

Hack & Gallasch
—Have just received a new and complete stock of—
DRY GOODS
Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.
Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.
☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

New York Store!
BEFORE BUYING YOUR
SPRING DRY GOODS
Call and See Our Stock and Prices.
☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS at prices within the reach of all.
WHITE GOODS.
Embroideries, Nainsook's Sussis, all over-embroideries and Laces.
Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.
Geo. G. Macdonell,
Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 2d, 1885.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register
L. K. Aaker	Receiver

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning	Hendrum

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court
John Paterson	Register of Deeds
P. J. McGuire	Auditor
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer
D. H. Hattlestad	Court Commissioner
John Leo	Attorney
Y. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff
H. Shephard	Coroner
Ole Hamery	Surveyor

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist	Woodside
F. A. Brailish—2d	Fisher
M. R. Brown—3d	Crookston
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th	Red Lake Falls
T. Sullivan—5th	East Grand Forks

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine
—2d	Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia
—3d	N. P. Stone, W. Walker
—4th	S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy
—at large	R. Houston
City Attorney	J. N. Ives
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut
Marshal	J. Dowling
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph. D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 3:00 p. m.

GERMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

HIAWATHA LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W.—Meets in K. P. Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
G. H. Mix, M. W.
F. Dehlmer, Secr.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M.—Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. Shapleigh, H. P.
O. H. Lucken, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F.—Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. Schwarr, N. G.
R. B. Gates, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,460, K. of H.—Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. Harris, Dictator.
Jas. Butler, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M.—Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. Hurlbut, W. M.
Geo. D. Buckman, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P.—Meets every Friday evening in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. Barnes, C. C.
W. B. Dawley, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE

AND

SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

18 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	.25
50 cent Japan tea for	.35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	.10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green gages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines (imported) for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	.25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	.25

Boots and shoes at cost!

Boots and shoes below cost!

BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business, but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for the money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?

MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank H. Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before [illegible] [illegible]

Beltrami Crumbs.

Rumors [illegible]

Rollers [illegible]

More weather [illegible]

More whiskey [illegible]

Why is it we can't get a drink on Sunday any more? Oh, but pause, wait till Sunday evening and you can have all you want.

The fellow who went home at eleven o'clock the other evening found his head planted in the snow?—oh no, but his supporters were not as supporting as they might have been.

A. W. Mott and family went down to Ada last Friday and remained two days.

The Red River Valley Elevator Co. are repairing their elevator here. They intend to make some improvements and put in a steam engine in place of the two blind horses.

D. W. Haight intends to go to Iowa in the near future.

The temperance lodge is a relic of the past—two weeks past.

The two Misses Murphy took the train for Rollette, on Saturday to spend Sunday at the Lockhart.

The prevailing showers of false teeth and fillings of all sorts have eventually ceased, and the view of the horizon is again clear.

C. M. Olds and Ed. Boddy went down to Ada to take in the rink a few days ago. They say they had a truly tip-top time.

Geo. C. Reis is expected home this week.

(Pretty girl who came in to the dentist's office the other day.) "How much will you charge me for fillin' a tooth with gold?" and she looked prayfully up into his pallid countenance. (Dentist.) "Can't tell—it depends entirely on the size of the cavity." On exploring the regions of her mouth, he hunted in vain for the "holey" tooth. He was perplexed.
OLD FOX.

Grand Forks Herald: News has just been received of the death of A. O. Barquist on the 10th inst., at Valparaiso, Ind. He formerly kept the Central House in this city.

Al. Barquist was formerly well-known in this section. He came to this place with Carlos Clough for whom he worked for several years going from here to Grand Forks.

The April number of Dorcas is an admirable one. In addition to the usual number of patterns and directions for crocheted and knitted articles there is an article on "Tile Carving from Colorado Marble," which opens the way for a new industry for women. This magazine takes special pains to bring forward anything new, which may in any way help women to new and better means of self-support. Dorcas is a periodical which should be in the hands of every lady in the land who has any taste for art decoration or fancy work. The illustrations are excellent, and the patterns selected with extreme good taste, and written in so plain and explicit a manner that a novice will find no trouble in following them. News-dealers and postmasters will take subscriptions or furnish sample copies. Subscription price, $1.00 per year. Send ten cents for sample copy. Address, "Dorcas," 872 Broadway, New York City.

St. Paul Globe: C. H. Warren, general passenger agent of the Manitoba road, returned on Friday morning from a trip to Chicago and Detroit, Mich. He states that within the last thirty-six hours over two hundred emigrants arrived at Chicago by special train bound for North Dakota, besides a large number who arrived by regular trains for points in Minnesota, Dakota and Manitoba. On Thursday 327 passengers left St. Paul via this popular Red River line for points beyond Barnesville. Mr. Warren states that information he received from agents while on his trip was to the effect that there would be a large exodus of emigrants from points in Canada and Michigan to the west this spring, and the agents expressed much surprise at the expanse of the Minnesota and Dakota business and at its early commencement. A number of European emigrants are coming in, mostly of the better class, with their outfit to begin life anew. Mr. Warren states that the business so far this season exceeds that for the corresponding time last year.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets
Ætna	9,182,644
American	1,804,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,899,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,408
Lancashire	10,787,983
Milwaukee Mech.	1,129,876
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years, we have acquainted ourselves with the business and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

[illegible]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretschmar's Grist Mill at Red Lake Falls is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on the [illegible]. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill, and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market prices.
[14-44] C. Kretschmar.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business I will announce to my former customers and all those desiring of obtaining trees and plants the coming spring that I will sell and book at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchases elsewhere. Residence, [illegible] block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 76.
Respectfully,
[18-?] [illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication March 26th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 87-100 dollars ($571.87-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Lug. Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 25th day of October A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:20 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page [illegible], and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 24th A. D. 1885.
JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.
Leo & Gronon,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 22-100 dollars ($277.22-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee, bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:35 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 216, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.
FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.
Pierce & Wilkinson,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 23d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7312, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillies, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.
[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 1st, 1885, viz: THOMAS R. DENNISON, H'd No. 2,757, for the sw¼ S. 22, T. 148, R. 47. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Miller, James K. Gray, Seth Fetzer and Wm. Ritchie, all of Crookston, Minn.
[43-48] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 10th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 20th, 1885, viz: MARTIN H. DAVIS, H'd No. 1921, for the nw¼ S. 28, T. 153, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Cottet, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Sehamson, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.
[46-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 2d, 1885, viz: ALEXANDER ROBERG, H'd No. 3765, for the e½ se¼ and s½ sw¼ S. 10, T. 151, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Louis Huot, David Coe, Camille Bronilette and Peter Columbus, all of Huot, Polk Co., Minn.
[47-52] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. 9196, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezer Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.
[18-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

AIME GABOURY,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Graduate Doctor in Medicine Laval University, Canada. Licensed Coll. Phy. Surg. Quebec. Late of Michigan University, U. S.

Office over Barber's store, Second St.
CROOKSTON, MINN.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Elken Bros. Hardware Store.

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

P. A. DUFOUR,

Attorney and Counselor at Law

MAIN STREET

CROOKSTON, [illegible] MINN.

FIRST

National Bank,

OF CROOKSTON.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus	[illegible]

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Exchange [illegible]. Collections made promptly [illegible].

Geo. O. Erskine, President.
[illegible] Chase, Vice-President.
[illegible], Cashier.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication Jan. 22d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of eighteen hundred and eighty-seven 65-100 dollars ($1887.65-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November, A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 4[illegible], which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February, A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 12th day of March A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated January 20th, 1885.
JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
45-50] Pro Se.

By request of the mortgagee the above sale is adjourned until Thursday, April 16th, at 10 o'clock a. m.
W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk County, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Pierre Dulude, as mortgagor, did on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of July 6th, A. D. 1881; whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situated in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The south half of the northwest quarter, and the south half of the northeast quarter, of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west, of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of three hundred and twenty-five dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was, on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1881, at 2:45 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 87, 88, 89, and 90, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of three hundred and fifty-eight and 14-100 dollars, due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of July, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of three hundred and seventy-seven and 40-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [43-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 66-100 dollars, ($705.66-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 186, 187, 188 and 189, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.87-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1883, and $17.85-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.
THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars ($333.11-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedsam and Anna Friedsam his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1884, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1884, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "K" of mortgages, on page 4[illegible], and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18) in block twenty-three (23,) in Traill's Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated [illegible] A. D. 1885.
EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.
Pierce & Wilkinson,
Att'ys for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[illegible]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Israel Dion, as mortgagor, did on the 25th day of January, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of January 25th, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northeast quarter (ne¼) of Section eighteen (18,) in Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, of Range forty-four (44) west of the 5th principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with five interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage, and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 28th day of January A. D. 1881, at 3 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 92, 93, 94 and 95, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of forty-six dollars, due as interest upon said mortgage and the said interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of thirty-two and 25-100 dollars, for which sum so paid the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lien on said mortgaged premises for the amount so paid with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas it was stipulated and agreed by and between the parties to said mortgage that if default should be made in any of the conditions or covenants therein contained, on the part of said mortgagor to be kept and performed, that then and from thenceforth it shall be lawful for said mortgagees, their heirs or assigns, to consider the whole sum thereby secured as immediately due and payable; and whereas the legal representatives of John L. Hammond, deceased, one of said mortgagees, and Charles E. Bush, the surviving mortgagee, have exercised their option to consider and declare, and do hereby declare the whole sum of money secured by said mortgage to be due and payable; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice, including taxes paid as aforesaid the sum of three hundred and fifteen and 53-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 28th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 12th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [43-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication Feb. 19th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, Arthur Cote, as mortgagor, did on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, duly execute and deliver to J. L. Hammond and C. E. Bush, of Addison County, Vermont, as mortgagees, his mortgage bearing date of March 1st, A. D. 1881, whereby he mortgaged to said mortgagees the following described lands, situate in the County of Polk, State of Minnesota, to-wit: The southeast quarter of Section fourteen (14,) in Township one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian, to secure the payment of the sum of two hundred and thirty dollars with interest, according to the conditions of one certain promissory note with three interest coupons attached, bearing even date with said mortgage and made by said mortgagor to said mortgagees, which said mortgage was on the 2d day of March, A. D. 1881, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, in book "D" of mortgages, on pages 196, 197 and 198; and whereas default has been made in the payment of the sum of two hundred and fifty-six and 25-100 dollars due as principal and interest upon said mortgage on the first day of March, A. D. 1884, and the said principal and interest is still unpaid and due; and whereas, said mortgagor having failed to pay the taxes lawfully assessed on the premises in said mortgage described, for the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the undersigned did, on the fifth day of September, 1883, pay said taxes and all interest and penalties thereon, amounting in all to the sum of eighteen and 30-100 dollars, for which sum so paid, the undersigned hold the treasurer's receipt, and claim a lein on said premises for the amount so paid, with interest from the date of such payment; and whereas there is now due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice including taxes paid as aforesaid, the sum of two hundred and ninety-nine and 15-100 dollars, and no proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the same or any part thereof; and whereas John L. Hammond, one of the above mentioned mortgagees, died intestate on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, at Middlebury, in the County of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas Thomas A. Hammond, Charles E. Bush and Thad M. Chapman, of said County of Addison and State of Vermont, were on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1882, appointed administrators of the estate of said John L. Hammond, deceased, by the Probate Court for the District of Addison, State of Vermont; and whereas an authenticated copy of the appointment of said administrators was, on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1882, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk, State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the lands therein described, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the postoffice in the City of Crookston, in said County, on the fourth day of April, A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the sum due on said mortgage together with the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees therein stipulated to be paid in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 13th, A. D. 1885.
THOMAS A. HAMMOND, CHARLES E. BUSH, THAD M. CHAPMAN, Administrators of the estate of John L. Hammond, deceased.
CHARLES E. BUSH,
Surviving Mortgagee.
C. E. CHAPMAN, Attorney,
Fergus Falls, Minn. [44-49]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 80-100 dollars, ($487.80-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 390, 391 and 392, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County, and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $12.63-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.[illegible]-100 taxes for the year 1883, and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th, A. D. 1885.
THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs. Valencia raisens for	1.00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
—CANNED GOODS—
12 cans plums	1.00
12 cans corn for	1.45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN.

Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

STEWART & LAURENCE,

SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants.

CARRY A FULL LINE OF

Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,

STOVES,

REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BULDIING PAREP,

Etc., Etc.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,

WATCHES,

JEWELRY,

—ROBERT STREET,—

CROOKSTO MINNESOTA.

O. D. ROOD,

CONTRACTOR

AND BUILDER,

CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Estimates made on brick-work and Plastering.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

New York Store!

BEFORE BUYING YOUR

SPRING DRY GOODS

Call and See Our Stock and Prices.

☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS, at prices within the reach of all.

WHITE GOODS.

Embroideries, Nainsook's, Sussis, all over embroideries and Laces.

Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.

Geo. G. Macdonell,

Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor.

DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY.

VOL. VIII.

CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, APRIL 9, 1885.

TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

NO. 50

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 25 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	3 m.	6 m.	1 year
½ inch	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 00	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 50	2 25	3 00	2 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	19 60	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	25 00	50 00
1 column	8 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	25 00	50 00	100 00

Entered at the Post-Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Holstein Cattle.

Manchester Mirror.

An effort will be made by some at the annual meeting of the Holstein Breeder's association to change the name of the cattle now known as Holsteins, to something else. Such a step, it seems to us, would be decidedly unwise. Under this name the breed of large black and white cattle has achieved a splendid notoriety, which is steadily gaining in lustre. A Holstein to-day stands at the head of all contestants for a thirty days' butter record, and the numerous magnificent results which members of this race have achieved for short and long periods, both as butter makers and milk yielders, are known to the world as Holstein records. The public, not a body to quickly grasp at technicalities, has become familiar with Holsteins, their characteristics, abilities, etc. If a change in name was made, for which there seems no good and sufficient reason, a long time would be necessary for farmers and breeders throughout the country to thoroughly understand it, and many awkwardnesses would result. Explanations would continually have to be made, and, it is evident, financial losses to breeders would occur. An association or an individual is always at a disadvantage which is placed as to be obliged to make an explanation. In view of the great progress which Holsteins as Holsteins have made, and with the grand promises which the future evidently has in store for the breed, it, in our judgment, would be the height of folly to substitute for a now universally well-known and understood name a title which cannot fail to be a hindrance to the advancement of the breed. There is no reason in the world why a name so long in use and applying to more than 10,000 registered animals should be dropped, and all the advantages which have accrued to breeders and importers under the use of it sacrificed, and a new appellation, to which no prestige would attach, adopted in its place.

STOCK-RAISING IN THE NORTHWEST.

Pioneer Press.

It always requires some degree of misfortune to bring the farmer to consent to any modification of the system into which he has been drifted by the current of custom. As a rule, if his neighbors raise wheat, he raises wheat; and if he has a tolerably satisfactory crop, he goes on raising wheat until some disturbance of his fortunes makes him look about him for a means of varying his industry and securing his profits against the sweep of unhappy accident. Through this experience the farmers of Southern Minnesota have already passed. And now those of Northern Minnesota and Dakota have been made to look about them by the persistently low market price of wheat. While their profits have been so cut into or entirely absorbed by current expenses, as in the last year, they are in a condition to listen to the unheeded advice of all these years, urging them to adopt diversified industry. A good many of them are not disposed to wait for some year of complete disaster before they cease to stake all their prosperity upon the chances of a favorable season for a single crop. They are ready to begin the process of diversification. And their first and very practical question is, what shall be substituted for the universal wheat crop? The latitude is too high for extensive cultivation of corn as a market crop, and the distribution does not yet warrant an extensive resort to any of the score of profitable crops that engage the attention of the small farmer. What, then, is to be the instrument of diversification? One answer to the question has already been presented in these columns. Flax is rising to a prominent place in the list of Dakota and Minnesota products. We have shown how profitable it is, how much more thoroughly all the products of the plant may be utilized, and how well adapted it is to any climate found south of the boundary line in the Northwest. Flax culture is one of the avenues of escape from the certain losses of wheat [illegible] culture. The Pioneer Press has repeatedly urged the advantages of stock raising, not only for Southern Minnesota, but for Northern Minnesota and Dakota as well. It has shown that the new prosperity which has dawned upon the communities that have resorted to dairying and cattle raising is one which the people of the Red River Valley and the Dakota prairies may enjoy just as well as the people of the Iowa border. It has endeavored to remove some of the skepticism prevailing as to the profitable cultivation of live stock in the alleged severer climate of the Northwest, and to persuade farmers to remove their doubts by giving it a trial. But facts are the most potent arguments. There is now available definite information on this point. The following practical experience in the matter of stock raising in the Northwest is worth more than a volume of abstract principles, and should be studied carefully by every farmer in Minnesota and Dakota.

In a letter in answer to numerous inquiries as to the possibility of raising stock in Northwestern Minnesota, Mr. James B. Power has jotted down some of the results of his own experience in this line. The intelligent efforts of the president of the Manitoba road to improve the breed of cattle in the Northwest have many times been noted. Mr. Power has taken it upon himself to prove that there was practical value in this experiment, by showing that cattle, whether of native or improved stock, can be raised without difficulty and at a handsome profit on the farms of the Northwest. The natural conditions are all favorable. Now here is the actual experience of a year. First, as to the cost and profit of summer's keep, we will give Mr. Power's statement in his own words:

"On the 30th day of April last I turned our cattle on to their summer pastures, then weighing every animal, young or old, as they went from the barns (all marked with a numbered tag in the ear, so that each one can be identified). They were brought in from their pastures about the middle of October and turned into the barn lots and adjoining fields, but not under cover until Nov. 16; during these four weeks they were given all the corn fodder and oat straw they would eat, with a few roots, but no hay or grain. On the 15th of November each one was again weighed and then put into winter quarters, and the gain on summer pasturage on each animal noted.

Of our non-breeding stock, the smallest gain in actual weight was on a native cow, three years old past; weight April 30, 1,000 pounds; Nov. 15, 1,045 pounds. The largest gain, also a three-year-old past cow, April 30, 910 pounds, Nov. 15, 1,300 pounds; or a gain of 350 pounds, or 38 3-10 per cent in the 200 days. The best relative gains in the same time were on a yearling heifer, going out at 340 pounds, and coming in at 690 pounds; and a yearling steer, going out at 530 and coming in at 880 pounds; the aggregate average gain on all the non-breeding stock being 47 4-5 per cent. on their weights of April 30. On the entire herd, including the breeding cows, the average gain in weight during same time was 34½ per cent. Bear in mind that this was exclusively on native prairie grass until brought in from the pastures; also, it may be well to say here that the stock here referred to is native stock principally, with a few hear having one cross of Shorthorn."

These are the results that ought, we think, to satisfy the most skeptical as to the capabilities of the Northwest in the direction of stock raising. But this is only the summer period. How about the winter season, which is the bugbear of the inexperienced? As we have seen the above record covers 200 days of the year. As to the winter expense, Mr. Power states that, with the exception of milch cows, a few head of pure breeds and those kept for fattening, the entire consumption of his herd averages a daily feed per head of one and three-fourths quarts of ground oats, ten pounds of hay and free run to oat-straw ricks, at a cost of not to exceed three cents per day. At the same time repeated tests by the scales show an average gain in weight during the winter one pound per day for each. And finally, as to the expense of shelter, another bugaboo to those who have forgotten that beast as well as man is comparatively little affected by the dry cold of this region, again the statistics show that, after charging 10 per cent. on building expenses as the cost of winter shelter, this item for the whole herd averages not more than 75 cents per head for the season. Cattle put up for fattening purposes, the average gain is from two to two and one-half pounds per day, while from 77 cows 60 calves, or 77 per cent. were raised. The results in other varieties of stock breeding are equally unequivocal. On a flock of 175 sheep, the wool clipped averaged eight and one-fourth pounds, and the increase from breed carried through was 95 per cent. Hogs and cattle do as well, though from the nature of things a less profitable investment. It is not necessary to dwell upon these results. A practical farmer can figure out the profits for himself, and he will not be slow to see how he can diversify his industry while increasing his income. There is as much money in proportion to capital invested in stock raising in Northern Minnesota and Dakota as on the Southern plains or the ranches of Montana. And there is in addition the security which the farmer seeks against the overwhelming disaster of a bad season, when all his resources have been concentrated upon a single product.

FARM NOTES.

American Agriculturist.

A GOOD TIME TO RUN IN DEBT.

We will not take the responsibility of advising you to run in debt. It may be all right and wise to do so, and it may not; one thing is certain, it is a good time to make needed improvements on the farm and elsewhere. Pluck is better than capital. Do not say that we are raising too much of everything now, and that it is a good time to stop. It will be a great mistake. If you are going to farm at all, farm well. Raise good crops, keep good horses, cows, sheep, hogs and poultry. Cultivate the land thoroughly, drain it where needed; feed stock liberally and make good manure, and apply it to the best paying crops. Have faith in the future. In England it is considered safe for a farmer to run in debt, in order to drain his land, and there are corporations ready to loan him money for this purpose. You may feel confident that the products of man's brains and labor, and skill, will always be needed. Make up your mind to do a certain work in the spring and get ready for it this winter.

CULTIVATION OF OATS.

New varieties of oats are constantly introduced. They have a run of popularity for a few years, and some other candidate takes their place. The truth of the matter is this: Oats grown in a northern locality are better than those grown further south. The true plan, no matter what variety you select, is to get the oats from as far north as convenient, and renew the seed every two or three years. Oats differ from barley in doing well on sod land—or on almost any land, from black muck to the heaviest clay. Oats are grown so easily that they are not appreciated. They are a profitable and useful crop. The straw is good, and the grain always in demand in market, and always wanted at home. No farmer ever has more oats than he knows what to do with. Really good, heavy oats, however, are scarce. Many of our oats are a disgrace to us. This is not because the variety is in itself a poor one, but because we have grown it too long without change of seed, and have taken no pains in selecting and preparing the land for the crop. Late sowing means light oats. Early sowing, with other things favorable, means heavy oats and a good yield. We like to sow oats on land plowed the fall previous. Sow as early in the spring as the frost is out of the ground—drilled or broadcast as most convenient, not less than two bushels of seed per acre. But as we have said before, oats are frequently sown on sod land plowed in the spring and sown on the furrows. An implement that will work the surface soil without disturbing the sod, is what is wanted to prepare the land and cover the seed, if sown broadcast. If drilled in, we like to follow with a fine-toothed harrow, and work the surface soil as fine as possible. But do not delay. Get in the seed and work the land afterwards or not, as the season and other work will permit.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or without driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moment's notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

PUBLIC SALE

AT

Auction! Auction!

I will offer for sale at my

Sale Stables in the City of Crookston,

TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER, ON

Wednesday, the 15th day of April,

Commencing at 1 o'clock, p. m.

18 GOOD LARGE 18

WORK HORSES.

TERMS CASH.

Let everybody come who wants to buy Good Horses at cash prices. A chance to save money seldom offered.

M. R. BROWN.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

Our goods are bought with great care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

FOR CASH.

WALL PAPER.

Headquarters at Potter & George's Drug Store--Medical Hall!

A full line direct from the East. No two patterns alike and different from any ever shown in Crookston before.

No trouble to show our samples, and you are invited to call-YOU!

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,

NORTHERN MINNESOTA,

NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL.		Stations	TO ST. PAUL.
No. 3 Daily.	No 1. Ex. Sun.		No. 2. Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's	2 40 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 55 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 30 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 31 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 43 "	9 13 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 28 "	6 22 "
9 23 "	9 53 "	Beltrami	5 08 "	6 12 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson n.n	4 38 "	5 51 "
10 20 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	2 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 pm	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 35 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 53 "	1 45 "
2 23 "	1 32 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 18 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } AM
4 05 "	2 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Lv	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 20 a m	Crookston.	5 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 16 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } "		2 25 " }
1 25 } " D	Arvilla	2 00 " } D
1 48 "	Larimore	1 48 "
2 08 "	Shawnee	1 13 "
2 32 "	Niagara	12 53 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lacota	11 48 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake.	10 35 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.

C. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

P. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, APRIL 9, 1885. NO. 50

Polk County Journal

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 25 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m.	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch	.50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$3 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch	.75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches	1 30	2 25	3 00	3 50	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	13 50	20 00
4 inches	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	16 50	25 00
5 inches	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	8 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

Holstein Cattle.

Manchester Mirror.

An effort will be made by some at the annual meeting of the Holstein Breeder's association to change the name of the cattle now known as Holsteins, to something else. Such a step, it seems to us, would be decidedly unwise. Under this name the breed of large black and white cattle has achieved a splendid notoriety, which is steadily gaining in lustre. A Holstein to-day stands at the head of all contestants for a thirty days' butter record, and the numerous magnificent results which members of this race have achieved for short and long periods, both as butter makers and milk yielders, are known to the world as Holstein records. The public, not a body to quickly grasp at technicalities, has become familiar with Holsteins, their characteristics, abilities, etc. If a change in name was made, for which there seems no good and sufficient reason, a long time would be necessary for farmers and breeders throughout the country to thoroughly understand it, and many awkwardnesses would result. Explanations would continually have to be made and, it is evident, financial losses to breeders would occur. An association or an individual is always at a disadvantage which is placed as to be obliged to make an explanation. In view of the great progress which Holsteins as Holsteins have made, and with the grand promises which the future evidently has in store for the breed, it, in our judgment, would be the height of folly to substitute for a now universally well-known and understood name a title which cannot fail to be a hindrance to the advancement of the breed. There is no reason in the world why a name so long in use and applying to more than 10,000 registered animals should be dropped, and all the advantages which have accrued to breeders and importers under the use of it sacrificed, and a new appellation, to which no prestige would attach, adopted in its place.

STOCK RAISING IN THE NORTHWEST.

Pioneer Press.

It always requires some degree of misfortune to bring the farmer to consent to any modification of the system into which he has been drifted by the current of custom. As a rule, if his neighbors raise wheat, he raises wheat, and if he has a tolerably satisfactory crop, he goes on raising wheat until some disturbance of his fortunes makes him look about him for a means of varying his industry and securing his profits against the sweep of unhappy accident. Through this experience the farmers of Southern Minnesota have already passed. And now those of Northern Minnesota and Dakota have been made to look about them, by the persistently low market price of wheat. While their profits have been so cut into or entirely absorbed by current expenses as in the last year, they are in a condition to listen to the unheeded advice of all these years, urging them to adopt diversified industry. A good many of them are not disposed to wait for some year of complete disaster before they cease to stake all their prosperity upon the chances of a favorable season for a single crop. They are ready to begin the process of diversification. And their first and very practical question is, what shall be substituted for the universal wheat crop? The latitude is too high for extensive cultivation of corn as a market crop, and the distribution does not yet warrant an extensive resort to any of the corps of profitable crops that engage the attention of the small farmer. What, then, is to be the instrument of diversification? One answer to this question has already been presented in these columns [illegible] raising to a prominent place in the list of Dakota and Minnesota products. We have shown how profitable it is, show how much more thoroughly all the products of the farm may be utilized, and how well adapted it is to any climate found south of the boundary line in the Northwest. [illegible] one of the avenues of escape from the [illegible] of wheat culture. The Pioneer Press has repeatedly urged the advantages of stock raising, not only for Southern Minnesota, but for Northern Minnesota and Dakota as well. It has shown that the new prosperity which has dawned upon the communities that have resorted to dairying and cattle raising is one which the people of the Red River Valley and the Dakota prairies may enjoy just as well as the people of the Iowa border. It has endeavored to remove some of the skepticism prevailing as to the profitable cultivation of live stock in the alleged severe climate of the Northwest, and to persuade farmers to remove their doubts by giving it a trial. But facts are the most potent arguments. There is now available definite information on this point. The following practical experience in the matter of stock raising in the Northwest is worth more than a volume of abstract principles, and should be studied carefully by every farmer in Minnesota and Dakota.

In a letter in answer to numerous inquiries as to the possibility of raising stock in Northwestern Minnesota, Mr. James B. Power has jotted down some of the results of his own experience in this line. The intelligent efforts of the president of the Manitoba road to improve the breed of cattle in the Northwest have many times been noted. Mr. Power has taken it upon himself to prove that there was practical value in this experiment, by showing that cattle, whether of native or improved stock, can be raised without difficulty and at a handsome profit on the farms of the Northwest. The natural conditions are all favorable. Now here is the actual experience of a year. First, as to the cost and profit of summer's keep, we will give Mr. Power's statement in his own words:

On the 30th day of April last I turned our cattle on to their summer pastures, then weighing every animal, young or old, as they went from the barns (all marked with a numbered tag in the ear, so that each one can be identified). They were brought in from their pastures about the middle of October and turned into the barn lots and adjoining fields, but not under cover, until Nov. 16; during these four weeks they were given all the corn fodder and oat straw they would eat, with a few roots, but no hay or grain. On the 15th of November each one was again weighed and then put into winter quarters, and the gain on summer pasturage on each animal noted.

Of our non-breeding stock, the smallest gain in actual weight was on a native cow, three years old past, weight April 30, 1,000 pounds; Nov. 15, 1,045 pounds. The largest gain, also a three-year-old past cow, April 30, 910 pounds; Nov. 15, 1,300 pounds, or a gain of 350 pounds, or 38 3-10 per cent. in the 200 days. The best relative gains in the same time were on a yearling heifer, going out at 340 pounds, and coming in at 690 pounds; and a yearling steer, going out at 630 and coming in at 880 pounds; the aggregate average gain on all the non-breeding stock being 47 4-5 per cent. on their weights of April 30. On the entire herd, including the breeding cows, the average gain in weight during same time was 34½ per cent. Bear in mind that this was exclusively on native prairie grass until brought in from the pastures; also, it may be well to say here that the stock here referred to is native stock principally, with a few head having one cross of Shorthorn.

These are the results that ought, we think, to satisfy the most skeptical as to the capabilities of the Northwest in the direction of stock raising. But this is only the summer period. How about the winter season, which is the bugbear of the inexperienced? As we have seen the above record covers 200 days of the year. As to the winter expense, Mr. Power states that, with the exception of milch cows, a few head of pure breeds and those kept for fattening, the entire consumption of his herd averages a daily feed per head of one and three-fourths quarts of ground oats, ten pounds of hay and free run to oat straw ricks, at a cost of not to exceed three cents per day. At the same time repeated tests by the scales show an average gain in weight, during the winter, one pound per day for each. And finally, as to the expense of shelter, another bugaboo to those who have forgotten that beast as well as man is comparatively little affected by the dry cold of this region, again the statistics show that, after charging 10 per cent. on building expenses as the cost of winter shelter, this item for the whole herd averages not more than 75 cents per head for the season. Cattle put up for fattening purposes the average gain is from two to two and one-half pounds per day. While from 77 cows 60 calves, or 77 per cent. were raised. The results in other varieties of stock-breeding are equally unequivocal. On a flock of 170 sheep the wool clipped averaged eight and one-fourth pounds, and the increase from breed carried through was 100 per cent. Hogs and cattle [illegible] profitable investment. [illegible] to dwell upon the results. A practical farmer can figure out the [illegible] and he will not be slow to [illegible] how the [illegible] industry while increasing his income. There is as much money in proportion to capital invested in stock raising in Northern Minnesota and Dakota as on the Southern plains or the ranches of Montana. And there is in addition the security which the farmer seeks against the overwhelming disaster of a bad season when all his resources have been concentrated upon a single product.

FARM NOTES.

American Agriculturist.

A GOOD TIME TO RUN IN DEBT.

We will not take the responsibility of advising you to run in debt. It may be all right and wise to do so, and it may not; one thing is certain, it is a good time to make needed improvements on the farm and elsewhere. Pluck is better than capital. Do not say that we are raising too much of everything now, and that it is a good time to stop. It will be a great mistake. If you are going to farm at all, farm well. Raise good crops, keep good horses, cows, sheep, hogs and poultry. Cultivate the land thoroughly, drain it where needed, feed stock liberally and make good manure, and apply it to the best paying crops. Have faith in the future. In England it is considered safe for a farmer to run in debt, in order to drain his land, and there are corporations ready to loan him money for this purpose. You may feel confident that the products of man's brains and labor, and skill, will always be needed. Make up your mind to do a certain work in the spring and get ready for it this winter.

CULTIVATION OF OATS.

New varieties of oats are constantly introduced. They have a run of popularity for a few years, and some other candidate takes their place. The truth of the matter is this: Oats grown in a northern locality are better than those grown further south. The true plan, no matter what variety you select, is to get the oats from as far north as convenient, and renew the seed every two or three years. Oats differ from barley in doing well on sod land—or on almost any land, from black muck to the heaviest clay. Oats are grown so easily that they are not appreciated. They are a profitable and useful crop. The straw is good, and the grain always in demand in market, and always wanted at home. No farmer ever has more oats than he knows what to do with. Really good, heavy oats, however, are scarce. Many of our oats are a disgrace to us. This is not because the variety is in itself a poor one, but because we have grown it too long without change of seed, and have taken no pains in selecting and preparing the land for the crop. Late sowing means light oats. Early sowing, with other things favorable, means heavy oats and a good yield. We like to sow oats on land plowed the fall previous. Sow as early in the spring as the frost is out of the ground—drilled or broadcast as most convenient, not less than two bushels of seed per acre. But as we have said before, oats are frequently sown on sod land plowed in the spring and sown on the furrows. An implement that will work the surface soil without disturbing the sod, is what is wanted to prepare the land and cover the seed, if sown broadcast. If drilled in, we like to follow with a fine-toothed harrow, and work the surface soil as fine as possible. But do not delay. Get in the seed and work the land afterwards or not, as the season and other work will permit.

E. D. Schreader

LIVERY,

Feed and Sale Stable.

BEST TURNOUTS

IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs with or without drivers [illegible]

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moment's notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby turnout call at the [illegible] Barn, corner Main and Third Streets.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

PUBLIC SALE

AT

Auction! Auction!

I will offer for sale at my

Sale Stables in the City of Crookston,

TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER, ON

Wednesday, the 15th day of April,

Commencing at 1 o'clock, p. m.

18 GOOD LARGE 18

WORK HORSES.

TERMS CASH.

Let everybody come who wants to buy Good Horses at cash prices. A chance to save money seldom offered.

M. R. BROWN.

Bigham & Olafson

(Successors to Iver Bergland.)

THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON

MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,

CROCKERY,

CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HATS AND CAPS.

In fact everything usually found in a first-class general store.

Our goods are bought with care and will be sold at

LOW PRICES

FOR CASH.

WALL PAPER.

Headquarters at Potter & George's Drug Store—Medical Hall!

A full line direct from the East. No two patterns alike and different from any ever shown in Crookston before.

No trouble to show our samples, and you are invited to call—YOU!

THE

St. Paul,

Minneapolis

—AND—

Manitoba

RAILWAY

—WITH ITS—

1,400 MILES OF ROAD,

Is the only line extending through the

PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA

To all principal points in

RED RIVER VALLEY,

NORTHERN MINNESOTA,

NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL.		Stations	TO ST. PAUL.
No. 3 Daily.	No 1. Ex. Sun.		No. 2. Ex. Sun.	No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's.	2 40 "	8 35 "
7 30 a m	6 35 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 30 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 20 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 31 "	Felton	6 45 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 08 "
8 43 "	9 13 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 46 "	Rolette	5 26 "	6 23 "
9 23 "	9 53 "	Beltrams	5 08 "	6 12 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson	4 28 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	2 40 "	4 25 "
11 20 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 p m	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 15 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 55 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 53 "	1 45 "
2 23 "	1 32 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 05 "	12 10 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 36 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } AM
4 05 "	2 52 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Ly	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 16 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 20 a m	Crookston	5 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 18 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } "		2 25 " }
1 25 } " D	Arvilla	2 00 " } D
1 43 "	Larimore	1 48 "
2 08 "	Shawnee	1 18 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 53 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lacota	11 48 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 33 a m

C. H. WARREN,
Gen'l Passenger Ag't, St. Paul.
C. H. MIX,
Local Ticket Agent.

EIKEN BROS.,

Corner of Fletcher and Main Street, Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

HARDWARE, TIWARE,

STOVES,

—AND—

SHELFWARE.

WE KEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE

STOCK,

—AND—

Invite the Patronage

OF ALL.

Furniture Store.

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

[illegible]

Keep constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Tables, Lounges, Bedsteads, Spring Beds, Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Pictures, Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE. ORDERS of all kinds kept constantly on hand. [illegible]

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 9, 1885.

'ROUND HOME.

The Italian band put up at the Commercial.

The Fay Templeton Troupe is booked at the Commercial.

Fay Templeton in Olivette, to-night. Don't fail to be there.

Big bargains in crash and table linens at the New York store.

The Ladies' Bazar on Broadway is a neat and attractive looking place.

Election day passed off very quietly, though much earnest labor was done on each side.

Skip-jacks begin to appear in this market. They are caught through the ice on the river.

See Mr. M. R. Browe's ad of auction sale elsewhere. This is no humbug. Secure a good cheap team now.

If you want cottons, bleached, half-bleached, pilow-case goods, or anything in that line, call and examine the fine stock at the New York store.

J. O. Milne has a fine grade Holstein bull calf, four months old that can be bought at a cheap figure for cash.

Capt. Russel has returned to Fisher from his trip up the Nile. The Bulletin says the Capt. is looking hale and hearty after his long trip.

Seventy-five persons took dinner at the Commercial Hotel on Sunday. S. P. is getting a good trade and amply deserves it as he keeps a first-class hotel.

Ladies' jerseys, just received, at the New York store.

Dupuis & LaFramboise struck a 120 barrel flow at a depth of 128 feet for Himmelsbach Bro's, in a day and a half. They are now at work for Julian Suave.

Capt. L. T. Soule will sell off his farm truck next Saturday, but we are pleased to say he does not contemplate leaving. He will remain and go into other business. Everybody should take the special and go down.

A car-load of Phil Best Milwaukee bottled beer just received at Max Ericsson's.

Girofle Girofla to-morrow night at the Opera House by the Fay Templeton troupe. Fay is a little fairy and her troupe one of the best, if not THE best a Crookston audience ever greeted. You will regret it if you miss it.

We trust our readers will not forget the great sale at Russia Farm next Saturday. Horses, mules, wagons, plows, seeders and all kinds of farm machinery. A special train will leave Crookston for the sale at 9 o'clock a. m.

E. O. Flanders has been obliged to give up trying to get water in the old well and is now boring a new one close by. He is down 100 feet or so and hopes to be more successful with this one. Ira D. Blanchard is doing the job.

The New York store shows an endless variety of dress goods in every style and price. Elegant patterns for prices to suit the times.

The wife of Baptiste Sauve died very suddenly on Friday evening last. She was apparently in her usual health until evening, when she had a sudden attack of heart disease, (it is supposed) and died before medical aid could be summoned.

Our informant led us into an error last week in relation to the death that occurred in the family of S. P. Norton. We were informed that it was a little girl, while the fact is it was a boy, little Marion S., aged 2 years and 4 months, who died of membraneous croup.

Our exchanges all unite in complimenting the Fay Templeton troupe very highly. Even the conservative Pioneer Press is lavish in its praises. It must be an exceptionally good troupe to deserve such compliments. To-night and to-morrow night at the Opera House.

M. R. Brown will sell at auction at his sale stables in the city of Crookston, to the highest bidder, on Wednesday, April 15th, 1885, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., 18 good large work horses. Terms cash. Let everybody come who wants to buy good horses at cash prices. A chance to save money seldom offered.

Complaint has reached this office that glanders exists near Angus and that sufficient care is not exercised by the owners of the horses to prevent its spreading. This is a matter demanding investigation by the proper authorities. Too much care cannot be exercised in this dangerous disease.

On Wednesday last Mr. A. P. Bond received a telegram from Redfield, Iowa, stating that his brother, W. T. was dangerously sick. Mrs. Bond immediately made arrangements for his mother to go and saw her off on the Thursday morning's train. Before noon, on Thursday, another telegram was received announcing his brother's death. He died of quick consumption. He was formerly a resident of this city and was universally respected.

No. 1 Hard wheat 68 cents per bushel.

Stone & Pinkerton seem to be doing a good business.

Rain on Monday followed by a freeze out on Monday night.

Mr. Frank Bivens expects to commence sowing wheat to-day.

Lilly has been there one year and we don't need to introduce him.

After all "we" did pretty well! "We" elected one man and he is a powerful good one.

The masquerade ball at the Opera House was a success as regards the enjoyment of those present, but was not a success financially.

Andrew Hanson is about to build a residence on Ross' Addition, near N. P. Stone's residence, and when completed will move into it.

After the result of the election had been definitely learned on Tuesday evening the band came out and a general jubilee was held. Speeches and whiskey galore. It was a splendid temperance victory—some say.

At the New York store they are showing a large line of carpet samples from a large eastern firm. Call and see them in Ingrains, Tapestry and Brussels.

J. B. Berthiaume, the new assessor, says you need not be alarmed, he don't propose to assess his goods any higher than before he was elected. You can buy of Berthiaume Bro's just as cheap for cash as ever. Try it.

A. C. Cowing, the new Treasurer, is one of the oldest (in business) business men in the city. He is young in years and will be a good official. He will have to get up in the morning to be a better treasurer than Adolph Gallasch made.

W. M. Clements has just received a large stock of wall-paper, which he proposes to sell at reduced prices. Call and see him at the Chas. A. Davis old stand, corner of Main and Second streets. [48-50]

Owing to fears that a break up is near at hand the timbers of the new bridge are being taken down and cared for until after the ice goes out. Had the iron arrived when it should the bridge could have been completed before the breakup.

Terry & Collins have just received a fine thoroughbred stallion, Highlander, which may now be seen at their stables in this city. Highlander is a fine animal, one of the best ever brought to the city, from imported stock and he cost the boys a good round figure. Call and examine him.

Mr. G. H. Palmer is the only sheep—the one poor lamb pulled in out of the wet—we came very near saying wreck—but don't you forget it he is a good one and was well worth saving. We predict that he will give universal satisfaction, and that everybody will be glad "we" saved him!

Constable Charboneau! How does that sound? We rather see it spelled with a J and an i and an m, but since that can't be did this hitch, we must confess that Ed will come as near to discharging his duties faithfully and well as they could be done. Ed is a good boy and has been a good deputy sheriff.

Father Lewis, who was defeated by a few votes on Tuesday is an old gentleman who is universally respected and beloved by all alike. His defeat is not owing to personal unpopularity but to one of those inexplicable turns that affairs political will sometimes take, inscrutable but unavoidable. Probably Jas. G. Blaine feels that way himself.

R. J. Montague, our Mayor-elect, is one of the leading men among the young business men of our city. He is a man that commands the general respect of all classes and his political career has shown him to be a man hard to beat. We predict an economical and a successful administration of the affairs of the city under Mr. Montague.

I have for sale a choice high-grade Jersey bull, nine months old. This animal, with the grade Holstein elsewhere mentioned, I will sell cheap for cash or I will trade them for good milch cows. These animals, if wanted before grass comes will be sold at a bargain; If I keep them until they can be turned out to pasture they will not be in the market before fall at least. They may now be seen at my barn on Section 8, town of Crookston.

J. O. MILNE.

C. M. Ohl was in from Edna this week to order some stationery and to inform the JOURNAL readers, through an ad in its columns, that he means to do business on the live and let live principle. That is, he don't want to make all the money himself, but believes in investing in a little printer's ink to inform his customers that he is a live man and to invite their patronage. Such a man is always generous in his dealings with his patrons, and it will pay our friends to drop in and examine his stock when in Edna. The live man always has something worth advertising and always advertises it. When a man is too stingy to invite people to patronize him he is generally too stingy to give good bargains.

For embroideries in every style and in endless varieties and prices, go to the New York store.

Wild geese were seen flying northward on Wednesday.

Indications are many that the first of next week will see seeding well under way.

Some good men and true men were defeated on Tuesday and some good men and true men were elected.

Wheat took a jump of two cents upward on Wednesday. [This has nothing to do with the election of Tuesday.]

The lot and building lately occupied by Frank Goodin for restaurant is for sale or rent. Enquire of [49-50] FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

It is rumored that Alex. McKinnon is the coming postmaster. Well, if a change is necessary "Sandy" will make a good one for the place.

The new alderman at large, Mr. John H. Locken, is a man in whom all may justly feel proud. Both parties worked for him and it is needless to say his majority was large. He is the right man for the right place.

Mrs. I. U. Jennings has just received a large assortment of spring and summer hats in all the new shapes and colors. Also a fine assortment of gold laces, flowers, pompons and novelties, and intends to maintain her reputation for low prices. [49-50]

Some of our friends were asking us on Wednesday morning: "How do you feel now!" Why, we feel well enough, why shouldn't we? We are only in the same "Box" with one name on the last ticket put up! We insist that we are all right. If "reform" is what we have got that is right in our line. We are aware that there cannot be too much of it and if we are to have a better government than we have had we are prepared to rejoice as hard as anybody.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

TRIUMPHANT!

THE REGULAR CITY TICKET A SUCCESS!

Blibox Beaten in Good Shape!

Otherwise Results are Meager!

IT FEELS SOME LIKE A LAST YEAR'S BLAINE VICTORY!

THE COUNT.

As yet we have not received the official count, and we do not care much about exact figures this week, as long as the regular city ticket made such a glorious run—killed a man—we do not wish to add to the confusion of the "Reformers" by publishing a long array of figures, so we will wait until we can get hold of the figures.

The following gentlemen are now smiling contentedly over the result of the election. They are the elect:

Mayor—R. J. Montague.
Alderman at Large—John H. Locken.
Treasurer—A. C. Cowing.
Assessor—John B. Berthiaume.
City Clerk—John Moser.
Constable—Ed. Charboneau.
Justices—G. H. Palmer, J. W. Lilly.
Ald. 1st ward—A. J. Bigham.
" 2d " —Duncan C. Terry.
" 3d " —Fred L. Durand.
" 4th " —R. B. Gates.

HORSES! HORSES!

AT AUCTION!

I will offer for sale at my sale stables in the city of Crookston, to the highest bidder, on Wednesday, April 15th, 1885, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., 18 good heavy work horses. Terms cash. Let everybody come who wants to buy good horses at cash prices. A chance to save money seldom offered.

M. R. BROWN.

The Boiler Inspection Law.

There has been some little flutter caused by the boiler inspection law, which, some claim if carried out to the letter will subject all boilers to a test that few can stand and those that do will by the test be rendered useless. In order to learn the opinion of practical mechanics we asked Mr. J. Wallace for his views. The following is his reply:

CROOKSTON, April 6th 1885.

ED. JOURNAL:—You request my opinion on the new Boiler Inspection Law, and in reply will say this for the present! The law is long and cumbersome and there is more in it than is sufficient for all practical purposes. I have carefully read it and it shows that its framers were not practical men and did not understand their subject. If that law is enforced there will be more swearing to the square mile than has been done since Minnesota became a State. The farmers will be the greatest sufferers. There is music in the air and don't you forget it! If you wish you can say that in your next week's issue some important information will be given on the threshing engine law.

J. WALLACE,
Steam Boiler Maker.

It seems that the ticket made by the caucuses and convention, called by the people and generally attended by the people did not suit all and the result was a new deal was ordered and the following ticket, called the "Reform" ticket, was placed in the field, viz:

For Mayor, R. J. Montague.
For Alderman at Large, J. H. Locken.
For Treasurer, A. C. Cowing.
For Clerk, John Moser.
For Assessor, John Berthiaume.
For Constable, Ed Charboneau.
For Justices, Wm. Box.
J. W. Lilly.
For Alderman 1st ward,
A. J. Bigham.
2d ward,
Duncan C. Terry.
3d ward,
Fred L. Durand.
4th ward,
R. B. Gates.

The ticket is composed of good men and would be unobjectionable if as much could be said of the methods of nominating. The charge was promulgated in the call that the "Land office" and the "Court House" ring had run the regular caucusses and convention and the blame for the kick laid at the door of the Democrats, (many of whom protest against the aspersion loudly. Any candid man could see that the regular convention was everything but a packed affair as there were, in some cases as many candidates as delegates and each had a following. Every one had a fair and equal showing and what more could be desired? If the ticket was not as satisfactory as some could wish they certainly could not, with reason charge that it was the result of ring rule. We submit that the regular convention would show by its balloting less of the "ring rule" policy then did the last one.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Olivette" Presented to an Admiring Audience—The Swedish Nightingale at the Exposition Building.

St. Paul Globe: The Fay Templeton Opera company presented Andrau's bright and pretty opera of "Olivette" to a good-sized, fashionable and sympathetic audience at the Grand last night, the disposition of the vocal material of the company and the instrumental being such as to give a very melodious and enjoyable interpretation of the composition.

Miss Templeton appeared in the little role, and she was vivacious and pretty, and impressed by her sprightly acting, and the earnest and pleasing manner in which she wrestled with the score. John Templeton is always funny and the role of Coquilicot is well suited to his training and temperament. His improvished jokes and gags are very telling. Miss Vane appeared as the countess and she gave a graceful and pleasant rendition of the role. Sig. Olmi made a good captain and Mr. Campbell was very acceptable as Valentine. The costumes were exquisite and the chorus and orchestra harmonized well.

Beltrami Items.

Spring!
Water!
Wind!
Wild geese and crows!

The crows are crowing, so are the temperance people who succeeded in voting out the liquor license at the annual election, and so do the saloon keepers crow, because they can sell their whiskey unmolested.

Geo. C. Reis came back from the East last Wednesday. He has spent the greater part of the winter in Pennsylvania and some time in Tennessee.

Many of the farmers about here expect to commence seeding this week.

Hon. Ole Vraa, who keeps a saloon and is also proprietor of the Norsk Hotel, was elected pound-master at our last election. This is very appropriate. Whenever a man gets too beastly drunk and begins to kick like a steer, all he has to do is to put him in the "pound."

Geo. C. Reis and D. T. Herriott took a trip up to Crookston last Friday.

A social dance was given at Brengman's last Thursday night. Quite a number were in attendance and they all seemed to have a very pleasant time.

"Not much, Sir! You can't have another drop of liquor on Sunday."

We have no street crossings in Beltrami. We would be justified in suggesting to the board of health, or some other board, to have some erected, or else supply the Beltrami promenaders with rubber boots. This, I think, would greatly improve the sanitary condition of the town. The mud on our streets is knee deep.

Daniel Haight and family leave for Iowa on Tuesday, and James Gray will have charge of the elevator during Mr. Haight's absence.

Where do all the people come from? Last Saturday and Monday the streets were crowded with teams, and we saw provisions and goods of all kinds leave the town by the wagon-load.

Mr. Ole Vraa took a pleasure trip to Crookston last Monday.

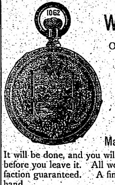
Frank Daubenberg swore a great big swear and said: "That's a lie!" We think so, too, but, by the way, what is it that's a lie?

Lewis Seger shot a goose on Saturday. Don't we wish we had the goose, though.

AL OLDYAX.

JOHN KNUPPE,
R. R. LAND OFFICE.
Money to Loan on Farm Lands.
—WILL—
Buy Town Bonds,
AND SCHOOL BONDS.

IF YOU HAVE A FINE WATCH,



—OR IF YOU HAVE A—
Watch that you Value
Or if you have a WATCH OF ANY KIND that you would like put in first-class order, if you will take it to
C. H. SAAKE,
Main Street, - - Crookston, Minn.,
It will be done, and you will know exactly what it will cost you, before you leave it. All work is warranted and perfect satisfaction guaranteed. A fine stock of Watches constantly on hand.

Edna Items.

Spring has come at last and is welcomed by all.

Mr. Geo. Reis has returned from the east.

D. Haight and family have taken their departure for Iowa.

Mr. Andrew Jackson has gone to his home in Iowa; his numerous friends hope to hear of his success and their best wishes follow him.

Mr. Curchill, of Ohio, has come here to take charge of the school.

Mr. William Reis, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is here visiting his brother George.

By an advertisement elsewhere you will see that H. M. Ohl is doing a rushing buisness, I think it must be the music that attracts them.

Go to Miss Ida Murphy for the latest styles in dressmaking.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Herriott assembled by invitation at their residence last Sunday to enjoy a feast of eggs; a most enjoyabe time was had.

Sidewalks here have been greatly improved lately; a few more improvements would be appreciated.

HARKLEY HARKER.

Notice!

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received up to April 17th, 1885, for building two bridges in the town of Andover. Plans and specifications can be seen at the residence of M. C. Perrin. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board of Supervisors.
M. C. PERRIN,
Town Clerk.
March 30th, 1885.

Save Money!
All wool spring and summer suits, well made, for $25 and upward, by
GJERBERG BRO'S,
50-52] Broadway, near P. O.

Lost. $5 Reward.

On Saturday, April 4th, a Lady's Cameo breast pin. The finder will receive a reward of FIVE DOLLARS ($5) for leaving the same at this office.

R. N. BROWN.

For Sale.

The N. E. ¼ Section 12, Township 149, Range 46, (town of Fairfax) situated six miles from the city of Crookston. One hundred acres cultivated, house and good barn and well on premises. Will be sold at a bargain. For terms and further particulars address Peter Cornelius, or call at the JOURNAL office.
[49-tf]

Farm to Rent!

One hundred and forty acres, all plowed, only one mile from Carman. Easy terms given. Enquire of or address,
A. M. CHILDS,
[46-tf] Carman, Minn.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending April 4th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Anderson, Lisabelt
Edward
Borge, Nellie
Carr, David
Calleno, Andrew
Grodenn, Anne
Pederson, Ole
Thompson, Linsey
Pederson, Knud M
Okre, Ommund O

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

YOUR PATRONAGE
Is hereby solicited, simply because I think I can satisfy you as to price and quality of anything you may want in the line of Groceries, Tobacco, Cigars,
CONFECTIONERY and NOTIONS.
Call and See Me.
C. M. OHL,
Beltrami, Polk County, Minn.

Chemical cloth-cleaning and repairing at cheapest rates, by
GJERBERG BRO'S,
[50-52] Broadway, near P. O.

THE FINE THOROUGHBRED
NORMAN STALLION
HIGHLANDER
Has arrived and may be seen at the Sale Stables of Terry & Collins during the season of 1885.
PEDIGREE.
HIGHLANDER is a beautiful jet black, six years old May, 1883, stands sixteen hands high and weighs 1,650 pounds. Was sired by French Emperor, imported by M. W. Dunham, of Du Pago Co., Ill. Dam sired by Sipes' imported Sampson. For terms call at the stables.
TERRY & COLLINS,
Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.
Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOICITED.
☞ Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

SECOND STREET
MEAT MARKET
STANTON & CO., Proprietors.
Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us
STANTON & CO.
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,
J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.
The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

M. M. VAN DYKE,
Physician and Surgeon,
Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

MERCHANTS'
BILLIARD HALL,
FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Eiken Bros. Hardware Store.
CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

DR. M. WATTS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.
Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

FOR SALE
20 NEW Milch Cows, 20
—ALSO—
5 Yoke of Steers. 5
The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns, good milkers, and will be sold
Cheap for Cash.
Call on or address
B. SAMPSON,
[48-tf] Crookston, Minn.

MERCHANTS'
Bank of Crookston.
H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President,
St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN,.............Vice President,
Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President,
Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS............................Cashier,
Crookston, Minn.
CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.
Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.
Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.
Agents for foreign passage tickets.
De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.
WM. ROSS, Cashier.

Crookston Nurseries.
Established in 1879.
Tree Claim Stock.
I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hislop Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Haseltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1884. E. W. Haseltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to to send for catalogue of prices
FRANK T. HASELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

NEW LIVERY,
Feed and Sale
STABLES.,
CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.
☞ Good Turnouts at all times a reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

H. STEENERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
Room 3., U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA.

Crookston Tonsorial
PARLORS.
PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor.
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to in the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

DENTISTRY!
J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.,
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street
EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT
—AND NOBBY.—
Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DRAUGHT.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN.
ready for the Spring trade with a full supply of Work and Light Harness, Single and Double [illegible] Saddles, Bridles, Whips, [illegible]. Give me a call before you purchase.

NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The president signed the commissions of the newly appointed ministers and consul generals.

Ex-Gov. T. Jarvis, the newly appointed minister to Brazil, has qualified at the state department.

The administration is afraid of trouble if an attempt is made to oust settlers from the Winnebago and Crow Creek reservations.

Secretary Whitney is informed that the force of marines sent recently would be sufficient to protect American interests at Aspinwall.

Owing to the critical condition of Gen. Grant, the president has postponed indefinitely the general evening reception to the public, which was to have been given the 7 inst.

The controller of the treasury says that while the failure of the Exchange National bank of Norfolk, Va., is a most serious one, the government is amply protected, and will suffer no loss in consequence.

The Galena, Commander Kane's vessel, is armed with Gatling and Hotchkiss guns, and is manned by 200 sailors, marines and officers. Navy officers at Washington express surprise that Kane did not blaze away at the Colombian rebels who insulted our flag.

John S. McAlmont of Pennsylvania was appointed commissioner of customs. John R. Garrison of Virginia becomes deputy first controller of the treasury. Judge Charles Chesley, solicitor of internal revenue, resigns at request of Secretary Garland.

The fact that Vice President Hendricks failed to vacate the chair in order that a president pro tem. might be chosen is exciting comment. Four years ago Mr. Arthur, who was then vice president, acted in like manner, which is believed to be the first omission of this kind known to the senate.

As the Republican senators acted on the principle that the president had no right to remove without cause, officials whose offices were covered by the tenure of office act, Mr. Cleveland has asked the attorney general for his opinion in the matter. The president thinks he has the right to make removals.

The president had invited as his guests last Saturday evening, James and Harry Garfield, who are now in the city from college, spending the Easter holidays. Their visit to Washington has been doubly pleasant for them by the graceful recognition of them by the president and his sister, and it is the first time that two school boys have been the sole guests of the president of the United States.

The secretary of the navy has received applications from nearly all the naval officers who are availably located to be sent to Aspinwall. The secretary says that if all who have applied were permitted to go he would have more officers than men. He received the following dispatch from Commander Kane, of the Galena: I hold two of the most prominent insurgents who assisted in firing Aspinwall. I do not think it is safe to deliver them to the Colombian authorities, who would permit their escape.

The report that the United States had refused permission to the Canadian authorities to allow military forces of the dominion to pass through the United States en route to the Winnipeg country, is denied by Secretary Bayard. The secretary says the permission of this government has not been asked for such a purpose. "You can say," said Mr. Bayard, "that the report has no foundation, so far as I know. What might be the action of the president in the event such request be made in the regular manner, is a matter for further consideration; but that question is not now pending."

The Indian bureau has not yet determined on the line of action to be pursued in the case of the Winnebago or Crow Creek reservation settlers in Dakota. Commissioner Atkins said that the white men who had gone upon the reservation would have to leave and that the government would adopt the mildest means possible to effect their removal. He anticipated no trouble in the matter, but other officers in the interior department believe that the government will experience great difficulty in removing those settlers who have gone upon the reservation in apparent conformity to the law and began improvements.

Gen. Sparks, commissioner of the general land office, has issued an order correcting what had grown to be a gigantic abuse. It has been the custom to give certain land cases a private hearing before the land commissioner or secretary of the interior to decide whether it was advisable to make them special cases or not. This custom opened the door to favoritism, and it became a common thing for senators and members of congress to get the land office to advance cases in which they were interested ahead of hundreds of others, thus saving months of waiting, but inflicting great delay upon poor claimants who had no influence to secure them a similar privilege. Hereafter a claim coming before the department will have to take its place at the foot of the calendar and wait its proper turn.

THE CASUALTY RECORD.

Mrs. James Davis of Spearfish dropped dead while waltzing at a ball on Crow creek, Dak.

William Romm, an old resident, was killed recently near Davenport, Iowa, by being kicked by a colt.

A falling plank on the sandwheel house of the Calumet & Hecla copper mine, Lake Superior, killed John Brons and badly injured Augusta Christmann, who fell twenty feet.

A fire occurred in the Cauchon block in Winnipeg caused by sparks igniting shavings in the boiler room. Loss to furniture owned by private lodgers, $5,000; damage to building, $8,000. The building was insured and the furniture partially so.

A Chicago & Northwestern freight train was derailed near Anamosa, Iowa, the 3rd inst., going down a fifty foot embankment, taking with it Conductor Clark, Engineer Mooney, a fireman and J. D. Cunningham, formerly in the employ of the company. Mooney and Cunningham are fatally injured, and Cunningham is expected to die. The other men were seriously injured.

PERSONAL MENTION.

N. & O. Phelps of St. Catherine's, Ont., have failed, with liabilities of $75,000.

Gen. Sheridan does not think that Riel will retreat into Montana, but that he will make for the British-American forests.

Ex-Gov. Sprague of Rhode Island, is now a business man in the City of Mexico, while Mrs. Kate Chase is educating her children in Europe.

The approaching death of Gen. Grant brings sorrow to many households here, and all intended movements in official society wait on the sad, inevitable event.

The collection of engravings belonging to the late J. L. Claghorn of Philadelphia becomes the property to President Garrett, of the Baltimore & Ohio, for $150,000.

Mrs. Matt Carpenter and her daughter are among the numbers at Fortress Monroe, spending a few weeks there on their way up from Florida. Miss Carpenter was converted to Catholicism by Mgr. Capel, and has lately joined that church.

When Grant awoke on Easter Sunday, his first words were in regard to his improved condition, but he also talked of the uselessness of prolonging a struggle whose close is so easy to predict. He has stated repeatedly to his doctors and his family that he is ready to die and would prefer to do so without further suffering.

FOREIGN NEWS GOSSIP.

The duke of Norfolk has given $2,500,000 to the Roman Catholic church since he became of age.

The new German tariff on lumber enhances the import duty on sawn lumber to 70 per cent of its actual value.

Col. Irvine telegraphs that the situation at Prince Albert is very critical and urges that reinforcements be sent.

General Wolseley, in his report to the British war department, intimates that it would be advisable to withdraw from the Soudan [illegible]

Mr. B[illegible]garten of Montreal has equipped [illegible] fifty men, with horses and supplies, to fight Riel. The horses alone cost him $10,000.

Princess Dolgorouki, widow of the late czar of Russia, is living in Paris in queenly style. The czar made excellent pecuniary provisions for his second family.

There is a loud call from the Grit newspapers in Canada for the prompt recall of Lieut. Gov. Jewdney from the Northwest, and the resignation of Sir David Mapherson, minister of the interior.

Mgr. Di Rende, papal nuncio at Paris, has been appointed cardinal protector of English-speaking Catholics at Rome. He will be the medium of appeal to the holy see by English-speaking Catholics instead of the episcopate.

The recent failure of Bartle Goldsmith, the London solicitor, for $1,000,000, has involved his mother and sisters in complete financial ruin. The Imperial bank is a heavy loser. Extravagant habits and speculation in mining shares caused Goldsmith's downfall.

About $73,200,000 has been expended in four months on Lesseps' Panama Canal, and only 5,000,000 out of the 102,000,000 meters to be excavated had been dug March 31, 1884. At this rate the canal can, perhaps, be completed in, say eighty years, at a cost of about $2,000,000,000.

The Mexican government believes in Ead's ship railway scheme sufficiently to guarantee 5 per cent for fifteen years on $25,000,000 of stock and the free importation of coal for the use of the railway and the ships. The railway will cost $50,000,000, and the distance across Tehuantepec is 132 miles.

Tracklaying on the Canadian Pacific railroad, at the gap, says the Montreal Herald, was proceeding at the rate of two and a half miles a day, when the work was suspended in order to push forward the troops by sleighs. Work was resumed a few days ago, and tracklaying will be finished by the 10 or 12 inst.

Lord Mayor John O'Connor is in another dilemma about the civic flag of Dublin. The lord mayor being a strong nationalist, at first declared in a public speech that if the prince of Wales came to Dublin the flag would be lowered from the mansion house, his lordship's official residence. Then he said the flag would be officially flown, and now the flag has been stolen.

Hostilities between Guatemala and the allied republics have been suspended and an armistice of one month's duration is announced. The legislative assembly of Guatemala has annulled the decree promulgated by President Barrios on Feb. 28, in which a union of the Central American republics was proclaimed and Barrios was announced as dictator and supreme military chieftain of all Central America. The gold-hilted sword of President Barrios was found on the battlefield of Chalchuaalpa broken. According to the latest intelligence received here, President Barrios is dead. No particulars have been received.

A judgment of the court of review at Quebec, composed of Judges Casault, Caron and Bourgers and three Roman Catholics, has just disposed of a "dangerous pretension" on the part of the ecclesiastical authorities. The case was that of one Francais L. Henreux, whose second marriage with a widow named Pagean had been ecclesiastically annulled on the ground of "spiritual affinity," from which an episcopal dispensation had not been previously obtained. Henreux applied to the superior court to civilly confirm this annullment, but Judge (now chief justice) Stuart decided the suit in favor of the wife, ruling that the civil code did not recognize such a cause of nullity as "spiritual affinity." The court of review has just unanimously affirmed this decision.

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

U. S. Marshal Hughes of Va., is a defaulter.

Alexander McIntosh of Aylmer, Ont., was shot dead by Samuel Mitchell.

Near Monmouth, Ill., Edward Nash, an insane youth, shot and killed his mother and sister.

At Portland, Or., missing Mrs. Thompson was found, and at once arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Adam Faust, who has hitherto borne a good reputation, is in jail at Sioux Falls, Dak., for horse stealing.

The notorious Felix Constant and McDonald were hanged, recently, at Beech Creek, near Benton, Mont., for horse stealing.

At Pierre, Dak., in the Small murder investigation, Bennett, the accomplice of Bell, turned state's evidence, and showed where the body was buried. Lynching is talked of.

John Siege of Dubuque suicided with a revolver. He was proprietor of a stone quarry, and had passed the prime of life. Infirmities and despondency are assigned as the cause of his act.

The Widow Jefferys, of reputed high respectability, and the owner of considerable real estate in Chelsea, was arraigned in a London court on the charge of being a procuress. She admits the charge, and boasts of her crimes.

William H. H. Bemis of Sherburne Falls, Mass., was arrested, charged with incest with his two daughters, aged eighteen and thirteen respectively. He was bailed in $5,000, but his bondsmen surrendered him, and he is now in jail awaiting examination.

Richard Bascombe and wife, living on a farm five miles from North Platte, were burned to death in their house recently. The post mortem went to prove that Bascombe and wife were murdered and the house fired to destroy all traces of the crime.

E. T. Pierce, student at the Cleveland Military academy, has been arrested at Erie, Pa., for thieving from several stores. He had gone to Erie with the intention of eloping with a Cleveland girl, who did not keep her agreement to meet him at the former place.

Fred Heldt, aged forty years, a well-to-do resident of Milwaukee was arrested by Detective Keller in Chicago and brought to Milwaukee on a charge of incest. The alleged victim is his niece, Mina Heldt, and the complainant is the girl's brother, who lives at Clinton, Iowa.

Samuel Trice, a well known sporting character of Bozeman, Mon., who has figured conspicuously in several criminal cases, and who was indicted by the grand jury for living in open adultery with one Mollie Burbank, made a murderous attack on A. K. Yerkes, the editor of the Bozeman Chronicle, for having published an account of the case in his paper.

F. H. Heldt, a wealthy tailor of Milwaukee was arrested in the postoffice at Chicago and brought to Milwaukee. He is charged with seducing his twenty-one-year-old niece, Minnie Exedt, from Clinton, Iowa, whom he traveled with through Europe and America. In Indianapolis, a short time ago she gave birth to a child, when he brought her to his home, telling his wife that the girl was married and had been forsaken by her husband.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS OF NEWS.

Two hundred and fifty marines left Brooklyn for Panama.

At a great revival just ended at Princeton, Ind., four hundred persons were converted.

The Tennessee legislature has passed a bill prohibiting playing base ball or cricket on Sunday.

Near Corning, Ohio, there is a reported discovery of hundreds of acres of stone, which, when exposed to fire, becomes a nearly pure article of soap.

Walnut, Iowa, has been thrown into a state of excitement over the question of closing saloons, of which there have been seven running without license and without any sort of permit.

W. J. and F. Ellsworth, dealers in groceries and crockery, at Madison, Wis., made an assignment to W. R. Main for the benefit of creditors. Liabilities are $5,000; nominal assets $8,000. The First National Bank of Madison is involved to the extent of $1,300, and Reed, Murdock & Fischer, Chicago, over $1,900.

The Minneapolis society for the suppression of vice filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The object of the society, as stated, is to aid the municipal, state and United States authorities in the enforcement of the laws for the suppression of the trade in, and the circulation of, obscene, immoral or indecent literature, etc. [illegible]

MINNESOTA NEWS CONDENSED.

Railroad Commissioners Appointed.

Gov. Hubbard has finally terminated the agony and announced his appointees as railroad commissioners—as usual, appointing the men who were least talked of, and least expected. They are S. S. Murdock of Swift county, republican, and George L. Becker of St. Paul, democrat. In connection with these appointments, the governor furnishes the following statement:

The legislation of last winter for the regulation of railroads and the warehousing and handling of grain was suggested by the necessities and demands of the producing classes of the state, and was enacted in their interest and for their relief. I therefore regarded it of the first importance that the board of commissioners should be constituted, as a whole, in a manner that would assure to the producing interests the amplest consideration in the discharge of its duties, and at the same time give promise of absolute justice to every other interest affected by the laws with whose execution it is entrusted. I felt that it was due to the agriculturists of the state that one of the appointees under the law should be a farmer, and one whom the farmers of the state would recognize as such. Mr. Murdock is a large farmer of Swift county, who has realized in his own experience just what the grievances of the farmers are that are most complained of, and who has practical and comprehensive views as to their remedies. His sole occupation for many years has been that of a farmer, who lives on and works his own farm. In former years he has been engaged in extensive business enterprises of a character that has given him much experience with railroads as a shipper, and during which he has had occasion to give much study to the question of transportation in its many phases. He has also had experience in the details of elevator management, and has practical knowledge regarding the handling and inspection of grain. Mr. Becker, as is generally known has had much experience in the practical operation of railroads, though for several years past entirely disconnected from their management. His technical knowledge of matters relating to the construction and operation of railroads, and also his acquirements as a lawyer, will prove of great value in the treatment of questions with which the board will have to deal. His present interests are largely agricultural, he being engaged in farming on an extensive scale in western Minnesota. Gen. Baker, the present commissioner, is also a farmer; hence, the board, as a whole, may be regarded as representative of the producing interests of the state. they are all able gentlemen, and will bring to the discharge of their duties intelligence and ability of a high order, together with business qualifications, acquired by experience, that peculiarly fit them for the special duties imposed by their appointment. The list of over seventy names offered for consideration afforded an abundance of excellent material from which to select the two appointees; yet it was something of a problem to give the point of locality such consideration as seemed desirable, and yet comply with the terms of the law and meet the question of special fitness most successfully.

THE NEW COMMISSIONERS.

George L. Becker was born in Locke, N. Y., Feb. 4, 1829. He graduated at Ann Arbor, Mich., in 1846, and three years later came to St. Paul, where he practiced law for eight years in the firm of Rice, Hollinshead & Becker. Soon after Mr. Becker became a railroad man, being land commissioner of the St. Paul & Pacific, and afterward president of the road. A few years ago he severed his connection with the road and retired from business. He has held several important offices in the state. In 1854, at the first municipal election, he was chosen alderman, and two years later mayor. He was a member of the constitutional convention in 1857, and elected to congress the next year. In 1859 he was unanimously nominated for governor, but defeated. In 1867 he was elected to the state senate and served four sessions, being re-elected without opposition.

S. S. Murdock's connection with the history of Minnesota dates from 1860, when he was practicing law in Stillwater, and where his brother, Judge Hollis R. Murdock, still resides. In 1865 he came to St. Paul as an active member of the firm of Bigelow, Murdock & Co., and when his connection with them was severed he assumed charge of the St. Paul Harvester Works. His health failing him, he resigned his trust and engaged in farming at Murdock, Swift county, (the town taking its name from him,) and also in the ownership and management of a large elevator. Called to Minneapolis to take charge of the Harvester Works there, he remained only a year and a half and then his poor health sent him back to agriculture, which he has followed since. Though a Republican, Mr. Murdock has not mixed in politics for the last ten years. He has a fine legal training, is well known in the state and bears a high reputation for probity. As the governor suggests, his long experience in shipping while in the harvester business and his years of farming since were doubtless the chief causes of his appointment.

Capt. A. J. Murphy of Lake Crystal died recently. He had suffered for years from calculus, and submitted to an operation in the hope of obtaining relief; but the result showed that he lacked vitality to undergo the ordeal.

A fire at Byron destroyed the buildings used as stores by A. L. Cutting and K. R. Mo, damaging Cutting's stock badly and almost utterly consuming the stock of Mr. Mo, on which there was no insurance. His loss was $5,000.

An unknown man, thought to be J. F. Patterson of Brown's Valley, was killed by a North Wisconsin train at Rice street crossing.

A syndicate of Amsterdam, Holland, and Chicago immigration agents have purchased 84,000 acres of St. Paul & Duluth railroad land in Renville, Chippewa and Kandiyohi counties, and will settle the land with immigrants from Holland, Norway and Germany.

Fire destroyed the barn and a large number of horses, cows and other stock, and farm machinery, grain and hay belonging to Mrs. Ann Killeen, near Wabasha.

Washington Sipes, convicted for the murder of James Reagan, at St. Charles five years ago was recently removed to the insane asylum at St. Peter. His five years sentence expires in June.

At Rochester fire damaged F. D. Livermore's iron foundry to the extent of $500.

Lyon county maintained a $5,000 poor farm last year for the accomodation of a single inmate and expended $700 for county poor outside of the institution.

Col. T. J. Sheehan has entered upon his duties as Indian agent at the White Earth agency.

Mrs. Harriett Burner of Minneapolis was sentenced to three years in state's prison for administering poison to Lillie J. Hadley.

The St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company has elected the following directors: C. Blakeley, C. H. Bigelow, H. C. Burbank, John S. Prince, H. M. Smyth, A. H. Welch, J. L. Merriam, W. F. Davidson, R. N. McLaren, H. E. Thompson, E. F. Drake, Peter Berkey and M. Auerbach.

The cottage residences of J. B. Tarbox, Dr. Bryant, Charles Nichols and Mrs. E. B. Gibbs, of St. Paul, at White Bear lake near St. Paul, were entirely destroyed by fire. All were insured.

In reply to Adj. Gen. MacCarthy, Adj. Gen. Drum, U. S. A., writes that letters or endorsements conveying information or instruction as to the performance of a duty, already authorized or ordered by the superior, may be signed by the adjutant general of the state, without using the name or authority of the commander; but orders, or expressions of satisfaction, or the reverse, must mention the authority by which written. Lieut. Gen. P. H. Sheridan concurs in this opinion.

Sheriff Connelly of Dakota county arrested Frank Amidon at Cannon Falls on a charge of forgery. Two years ago Chief of Police Anderson arrested Amidon and locked him up in his office, leaving him with handcuffs on. Returning in a few moments he found his prisoner gone, having escaped through a window.

William Simpson and William Gow, skating rink proprietors at Champlin, broke through the ice at Anoka and were drowned.

A spotted fever is epidemic among children at Breckinridge.

Thomas Gallagher was arrested and fined $10 at Glencoe for running a skating rink without a license.

C. G. Stocking, a barber, arrived in Stillwater with a woman who shows a certificate that she is his wife. In a few days another woman appeared and with a revolver compelled Stocking to march home with her. She is a barberess of Janesville, Wis., and claims that she is his wife. She states further that he has another wife at Fentonville, Mich. Stocking's mother resides at Lake Wilmar and a brother at Still[illegible] water [illegible]

A Pawned Bride.

A shilling used to be the fee, in New York, for administering an oath and signing an affidavit. In the days when the eccentric "Dicky" Riker was recorder of the city, there were many bad shillings in circulation, and "Dicky," to guard himself from being cheated out of his fee, used to swear an applicant for his signature in this style:

"You swear that the affidavit to which you have subscribed your name is true, to the best of your knowledge and belief, and that this is a good shilling, so help you God!"

A young justice of the peace, living in Georgia, recently displayed as much caution as the ancient recorder of New York, for he held a bride as security for the payment of the marriage-fee. The story, as told by the Atlanta Constitution, is amusing:

One of the most novel marriages in the history of Norwood took place last week. The applicants were a lady and gentleman of the ebony hue.

The young justice of the peace, who is very conversant with the law, but a little inexperienced in performing marriage ceremonies, proceeded to unite the happy pair.

His face bore marks of excitement, and, in a nervous tone, he bade the two join hands.

This they did, joining, however, their left hands, and were made one. The joyous couple then proceeded to depart, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

J. P.—Where's my fee; you didn't expect me to marry you for nothing, did you?

Groom (excitedly)—W'y, boss, I ain't got a cent! How much do you charge? I didn't know I had to pay for marryin'.

J. P.—$2.50. I'll just keep your wife here until you go and get the amount. (At the same time bidding the blushing bride to take her seat).

Groom—Well, I'll try to git it.

Off he went to procure an order from his employer, but, staying rather long, the bride moved restlessly toward the door.

"Take your seat," was heard in solemn tones from the justice of the peace.

She complied, but what her feelings must have been can't be easily described. However, the groom returned in due time, settled the bill, and took his "pawned" bride home, a wiser if not a better man.

The Fortunes of "Freaks."

From the Philadelphia times.

Speaking of the savings of freaks of nature, a prominent circus and museum manager said recently: "They are nearly all economical, and nine out of every ten are filled with a desire to own a farm. Tom Thumb spent a great deal of money, and yet left a snug fortune. Millie Cristine, 'the double-headed girl,' has made $60,000 or $75,000, but she lost the greater part of it backing the circus of a friend a few years ago. I suppose she is still worth $20,000. Hannah Battersby and her skeleton husband, who live in this city, are worth $10,000. John Powers, the fat man, accumulated $10,000. Capt. Bates and his wife, big people are worth $50,000. They have a fine farm in the west. If Lucia Zarete, the Mexican midget, had received all the salary she earned for her manager, she would be worth $25,000. As it is the manager, Frank Uffner, has the money, minus $4,000 or $5,000 he has paid to Lucia's father. Eli Bowen, the legless man, has $6,000 in bank. Cooper, the giant, has nearly as much. The dime museums have raised the salaries of freaks so much that they will all have farms if the managers' pocket-books hold out."

A Good Breakfast.

Mrs. E. W. Carpenter, Ovorlee, Baltimore county, Maryland, writes: "I was greatly benefited by the use of Red Star Cough Cure, when suffering from a severe cold. My cook was seriously ill from a deep-seated cough. She had consulted her doctor without relief. By my advice she used the Cough Cure in connection with an external application of St. Jacobs Oil to her side. In one night the change wrought was most gratifying and astonishing. In the morning she was like a new person.

He Didn't "Beller."

Old lady (who has met with an accident, but is coming out all right.)—'Josh, ye didn't beller none when ye thought I was dyin.' I dont' b'lieve ye care no gret fur me."

"Thet ain't no sign 's I know on," says Josh, "I was too busy over ye ter beller. I hadn't no time."

"Wa'al ye mought a bellered a little fur look's sake. I weren't so fur gone but what I'd a known't."

"I mought beller a little now ef 'twould do any good." This with a twinkle in his eye. The old lady seemed to think there was more to this than appeared at first, and, after studying the matter a little time, said:

"'Pears to me 'twould look a leetle as though you was sorry I come out on't."—Ex.

About $100,000 would have paid all the half-breeds of the Northwest claim from the dominion government. The war will cost several times that sum if it develops into seriousness.

Wisely Adopted by Dairymen.

The adoption by most of the prominent dairymen and farmers of the United States, of the Improved Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., is a proof of their wisdom in a business point of view. Nearly all winter butter is colored in order to make it marketable, and this color is the best, in regard to purity, strength, permanence, and perfection of tint.

Gen. Middleton advanced his forces to Fort Qu'Appelle, and was stopped by the open Saskatchewan.

Figures Won't Lie.

The figures showing the enormous yearly sales of Kidney-Wort, demonstrate its value as a medicine beyond dispute. It is a purely vegetable compound of certain roots, leaves and berries known to have special value in Kidney troubles. Combined with these are remedies acting directly on the Liver and Bowels. It is because of this combined action that Kidney-Wort has proved such an unequalled remedy in all diseases of these organs.

The Mexican congress began its session. President Diaz, in his message, giving notice that Barrios must be put down.

It is not understood why druggists keep in stock so many kinds of medicines for coughs, colds and consumption, when it is only necessary to keep Allen's Lung Balsam, that old, reliable remedy, which is a pure vegetable preparation, and perfectly harmless, as it contains no opium in any form. Sold everywhere.

At Cincinnati Emery's candle factory, one of the largest institutions of the kind in the country, was burned.

A New Suit. Faded articles of all kinds restored to their original beauty by Diamond Dyes. Perfect and simple. 10c. at all druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

I HAVE taken one bottle of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR for heart Disease and find it all I could desire.—A. Holbrook, Worcester, Mass. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

Ed Schofield of Duluth killed a full sized black bear with an ax.

O, my back! That lame back is caused by kidney disease. Stop it at once by Hunt's [Kidney and Liver] Remedy.

W. H. A. Brown, of the Chicago board of trade, is under arrest on the charge of bigamy.

Good news ought to be told; and it is good news that Hunt's Remedy has cured the worst of kidney diseases, and can do it again.

A skillet full of old Spanish coins was dug up near the entrance to Harvard college, Cambridge.

THOSE COMPLAINING of sore Throat or Hoarseness should use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. The effect is extraordinary, particularly when used by singers and speakers for clearing the voice.

RED STAR TRADE MARK COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

"I owe my Restoration to Health and Beauty to the CUTICURA REMEDIES."

Testimonial of a Boston lady.

DISFIGURING Humors, Humiliating Eruptions, Itching Tortures, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and Infantile Humors cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier, cleanses the blood and perspiration of impurities and poisonous elements and thus removes the cause.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, instantly allays Itching and Inflammation, clears the Skin and Scalp, heals Ulcers and Sores, and restores the hair.

CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier and Toilet Requisite, prepared from CUTICURA, is indispensable in treating Skin Diseases, Baby Humors, Skin Blemishes, Chapped and Oily Skin.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are absolutely pure, and the only infallible Blood Purifiers and Skin Beautifiers.

Sold everywhere. Price, Cuticura, 50 cents; Soap, 25 cents; Resolvent, $1.00. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON.

Allen's Lung Balsam

A GOOD FAMILY REMEDY!

THAT WILL CURE

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP!

MOTHERS,

Have you delicate, weakly children, who are always taking cold and subject to Croup? Remember, there never was a case of Croup which did not originate in a cold! Lung Balsam is your remedy.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

WHOOPING COUGH CURED.

O. A. HARRIS, of Benevolence, Ga., writes, Dec. 13, 1884: "My little boy, but little more than a year old, had a severe attack of WHOOPING COUGH, which my family physician said could not be cured, as it was winter. Having heard of the merits of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, I immediately proceeded to town and purchased a bottle. To my surprise, this one bottle cured him sound and well. Others, hearing of the result, tried it, with equally good results. Later, my two little girls had Whooping Cough, and one bottle cured both of them. We think Whooping Cough is not much to be dreaded, if ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM can be had and given."

By its faithful use CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED, when other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed; but try this remedy and you will not be deceived.

It will cure when all others fail.

Directions accompany each bottle.

As an Expectorant it has no Equal. It Contains no Opium in Any Form.

CALL FOR ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

It is Sold by MEDICINE DEALERS generally.

TUTT'S PILLS

25 YEARS IN USE.

The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and

CONSTIPATION.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer. They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.

TUTT'S HAIR DYE.

GRAY HAIR or WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.

Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

ELY'S CREAM BALM! Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste, Smell, Hearing.

A POSITIVE CURE.

CATARRH

Cream Balm

Has gained an enviable reputation wherever known, displacing all other preparations. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use.

HAY-FEVER

Price 50c by mail or at druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

ROCKFORD WATCHES

Are unequalled in EXACTING SERVICE.

Used by the Chief Mechanician of the U. S. Coast Survey; by the Admiral commanding in the U. S. Naval Observatory, for Astronomical work; and by Locomotive Engineers, Conductors and Railway men. They are recognized as THE BEST for all uses in which close time and durability are requisites. Sold in principal cities and towns by the COMPANY'S exclusive Agents (leading jewelers,) who give a Full Warranty.

Hon. Josh Royal, of the dominion parliament, will interview Riel and try and persuade him to cease his mad career.

"Shoot Folly as She Flies."

—Pope.

was the way it appeared in the proof-slip. The argus eyed proof-reader, however, knew the quotation intended and changed it to read: "Shoot Folly as she flies."—Pope. Of course it was an error, yet how many are daily committing much graver errors by allowing the first symptoms of consumption to go unheeded. If afflicted with loss of appetite, chilly sensations, or hacking cough, it is suicidal to delay a single moment the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery,"—the great and only reliable remedy yet known for this terribly fatal malady. Send two letter stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on this disease. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Minister Cox cannot go to Turkey until he finishes a book which he is under contract to produce by June 1, or he will forfeit $50,000.

"Laugh and Grow Fat,"

is a precept easily preached, but not so easy to practice. If a person has no appetite, but a distressing nausea, sick headache, dyspepsia, boils, or any other ill resulting from inaction of the bowels, it is impossible to get up such a laugh as will produce aldermanic corpulence. In order to laugh satisfactorily you must be well, and to be well you must have your bowels in good order. You can do this and laugh heartily with Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the little regulators of the liver and bowels and best promoters of jollity.

Ben Davis, a London solicitor, has failed. His liabilities are placed at $1,000,000, and it is stated he has fled to Spain.

* * * Delicate diseases radically cured. Consultation free. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

ALLEN'S IRON TONIC BITTERS CREATE a healthy appetite. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

PURE COD LIVER OIL made from selected livers, on the sea-shore, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

CHAPPED HANDS, FACE PIMPLES, and rough Skin cured by using JUNIPER TAR SOAP, made by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York.

Inflammation of the Eyes.

Jas L. Clapp, Milston, Wis., after being nearly blind for years, was entirely cured by the use of Cole's Carbolisalve, and now reads fine print with ease. 25 and 50c. at Druggists.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

CARDS Sample Book, Premium List, Price List sent free. U. S. CARD CO., Centerbrook, Conn.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

GRAPEVINES, Strawberries, &c., by mail. Send for price list. Latham's Nursery, Excelsior, Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

NATIONAL HOTEL, $2 a day house for New house, new furniture. Only $2 a day house in Northwest with Elevator. J. B. Ames Prop. 205 Wash. Av., S., Minneapolis, Minn. $2

CONSUMPTION.

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

TREES FOR THE PRAIRIES.

5,000,000 White Willow Cuttings,

EVERGREENS AND TREE SEEDLINGS.

LARGEST STOCK IN DAKOTA.

Also our H. M. Thompson & Son, St. Francis, Milwaukee Co., Wis., have the largest stock in America, of Scotch pine, etc., 4 to 6 feet, suitable for towns, parks, cemeteries, screens and shelter-belts. Send for price list. JULIUS H. THOMPSON, Lake Preston, Kingsbury Co., Dakota.

CLIMAX GRADE

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

DRS. WHITTIER.

214 East 7th Street, St. Paul, Minn. Regularly Graduated and legally qualified; longer engaged in Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases, than any physician in America. Medicines sent by mail or express. Diseases from Indiscretion, Excess or Exposure, Nervousness, Debility, Melancholy, Loss of Spirits, rendering marriage improper, cured. Safely, privately, speedily. No change of business. Pamphlet and symptom lists free, a friendly talk costs nothing. HIS CELEBRATED WORK, 260 pages. Elegant cloth and gilt binding. Sealed, for 50 cents in money or postage. Over fifty wonderful pen pictures on life, health, marriage, disease, decline, treatment. Same, paper cover, 25 cts. by mail, sealed. State case, and get time and cost of cure.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN

The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds and Consumption. For full information send 2ct. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.

WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

METAL POISON.

I am a coppersmith by trade, and the small particles of brass and copper from filing got into sores on my arms and poisoned my whole system. Mercury administered brought on rheumatism, and I became a helpless invalid. I took two dozen bottles of Swift's Specific. My legs, arms and hands are all right again. I use them without pain. My restoration is due to S. S. S.

PETER E. LOVE, Augusta, Ga.

Jan. 9, 1885.

MALARIAL POISON.

We have used Swift's Specific in our family as an antidote for malarial poison for two or three years, and have never known it to fail in a single instance.

W. C. FURLOW,

Sumter Co., Ga., Sept. 11, 1884.

ULCERS.

For six or eight years I suffered with ulcers on my right leg. I was treated with Iodide of Potassium and Mercury, and I became helpless. Six bottles of Swift's Specific made a permanent cure.

Feb. 22, 1885. M. D. WILSON, Gainesville, Ga.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta Ga., or 159 W. 23d St., N. Y.

TOWER'S TRADE MARK FISH BRAND

SLICKER COATS

THE BEST WATERPROOF COAT MADE.

Will keep you dry in any storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat. Sold everywhere. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

SNOW WHITE FLOUR MADE FROM SALZER NEW WHEAT

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS.

No seeds produce finer Flowers, better Vegetables, larger Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Try them. THE FARM! New tested Wheat (8 sorts), among these Saskatchewan Fife, Imperial French, etc. NEW EARLY DAKOTA WHITE OATS, POTATOES, BARLEY, ETC. SEEDS grown 80 miles north of here! Everything for farm. Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and other States will return to old time yield if our Seed grain is used. Try it.

Send for Catalogue. | Plants and Roses By the 100,000. Largest Greenhouses in the West.

JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis. Catalogue free.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best FEMALE POPULATION.

Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.

Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.

It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.

It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

Men Think

they know all about Mustang Liniment. Few do. Not to know is not to have.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The finest tonic for nervous people is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures perfect digestion and assimilation, and the active performance of their functions by the liver and bowels. As the system acquires tone through the influence of this benign medicine, the nerves grow stronger and more tranquil, headaches cease, and that nameless anxiety which is a peculiarity of the dyspeptic, gives way to cheerfulness. To establish health on a sure foundation, use the peerless invigorant. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

ARE YOU DISCOURAGED

Has your physician failed to arrest the disease from which you are suffering? Are you losing faith in medicines, and growing alarmed at your condition? If so, take

HOPS AND MALT BITTERS,

The Great Blood Purifier,

Compounded from the well-known curatives Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Sarsaparilla, Cascara Sagrada, etc. They are never known to fail in all cases of

LIVER AND KIDNEY

Troubles. They cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Rheumatism and all urinary troubles. They invigorate, nourish, strengthen and quiet the nervous system.

As a tonic they have no equal. They are a rational cathartic and a superb anti-bilious specific.

CAUTION

Should be exercised by persons when purchasing Hops and MALT Bitters. Do not get them confounded with other inferior articles of a similar name. For sale by all druggists and dealers. See that every label bears the name HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., Detroit, Mich.

NOYES BROS. & CUTLER, St. Paul. }
MERELL & RYAN, St. Paul. } Wholesale
LYMAN ELIEL DRUG CO., Minneapolis. } Agents.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S STEEL PENS

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

GOLD MEDAL PARIS EXPOSITION—1878.

THE GREAT OHIO WELL DRILL. Circulars FREE!

Drills the well and pumps out the cuttings of the Drill at each stroke. Drives the casing or drills a hole under it to let it follow. Tests the well without removing tools! Runs easier than any other and drops the tools faster! We also make machines and tools for boring LARGE WELLS!

LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

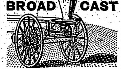
25,000

Bushels of the famous

Saskatchewan Fife Wheat

For Sale for Season of 1885.

The most remarkable Wheat ever brought to the Northwest. Has yielded the past season right along from 50 to 100 per cent. more than the Common Fife, sown beside it. Our illustrated 16-page Catalogue, containing its history, together with numerous testimonials from those who have tried it, sent free on application. Address W. J. ABERNETHY & CO., Originators and Proprietors, 42 Third street South, Union Building, Minneapolis.



STROWBRIDGE BROAD CAST SOWER

BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!

Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a lifetime. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.

C. W. DORR, Manager

RACINE SEEDER CO.,

258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

Many a Lady

is beautiful, all but her skin; and nobody has ever told her how easy it is to put beauty on the skin. Beauty on the skin is Magnolia Balm.

ALICE'S LETTER.

"Just as your pa think's best, my dear," said Mrs. Rossiter, as she folded her graceful morning robe indolently about her and leaned back among the soft cushions with a languid air.

It was very evident that Mrs. Rossiter was not in a mood for active exertion or remonstrance of any kind. If her pretty daughter, kneeling there on the carpet, with her curly head on her mother's knee, her blue eyes seconding the motion of her coaxing cherry-red mouth, her little hands, so soft and white and delicately shaped, clasped in playful supplication; if she, I say, had proposed a voyage to the South Sea Islands on a mission of charity instead of a pleasure trip to the country, Mrs. Rossiter would scarcely have found the strength of will to oppose her. As it was, the bright face of the kneeling girl grew brighter still, as she sprang up with a musical "Thank you, mamma," and changed her seat on the floor for one on the knee of a portly, pleasant-featured old gentleman, who sat in a lounging-chair before the window, reading.

With a quick movement, as graceful as it was audacious, she pulled his morning paper away from him, and dropped it on the floor, set her pretty little foot upon it firmly.

"What do you say, papa?" she asked.

"Well, what is it, my pet?"

The old gentleman did not seem much out of temper for the liberties she had taken, but, putting his arms about her, drew her toward him and kissed her over and over again. Any one, with half a glance at the pair, would have known that Alice Rossiter was the pride and darling of her father's heart.

"Well, you see, papa, instead of going to Brighton with Helen and Marion, I want to visit Auntie Russell, for a six weeks' rustication. It has been so long since I inhaled a real country breeze, that actually I have forgotten what one is like. Buttercups and daisies would be greater luxuries than jewels to me, and for the life of me I don't believe I could tell to a certainty whether potatoes grow on vines or bushes. Then I overheard Dr. Andrews telling grandma yesterday how shockimgly thin and sallow I was getting. He said I needed air and exercise more than physic—that a few weeks in the country, with plenty of romping, pudding and milk, fresh air and a flirtation with a rustic lover, would set me up in roses and dimples for a whole year. Besides, papa—"

"Hush, you rattle-headed pussy cat! Your reasons are forcible ones, and so plenty and well arranged that I think you must have made out a list of them and learned them by heart. But what about Brighton? I don't understand how the belle of its last season—the vain miss who came home again with her giddy little head quite turned with her numerous conquests—can relinquish thus the chance to repeat her triumphs."

Alice curled her scarlet lip disdainfully. Her father smiled. That question was disposed of.

"But Alley, it won't be prudent for you to go alone. What with fence-climbing, hunting for new-laid eggs and similar propensities which would develop themselves in you, I should be in continual fear of sprained wrists, dislocated ankles, a bruised head or a broken neck. You would need some one to keep continual watch over you. We could not spare any of the servants, and as for having a private companion——"

"That was just what I was going to say when you interrupted me," Alice broke in eagerly. "There is Miss Dunbar, Hattie's governess, who could be spared as well as not, and I am sure she would be willing to oblige me."

"Very well, just as you and she can agree. You have my consent to anything reasonable. And now be off, gypsy. Here is something to defray expenses. Pick up that paper under your toes, and don't smother me with kisses, pussy." And, placing a banknote in her hand, Mr. Rossiter unseated her from his knee, and following her graceful figure for a moment with a glance of pardonable fatherly pride, resumed his reading.

"Dear, sweet, unselfish Ally Rossiter! How from my heart of hearts I thanked her, when she came into my room a few minutes afterward and told me of her success. The day before when she was chatting gayly with me of the coming season at the fashionable watering-place—for I was more her confident than were either of her haughty elder sisters—I had accidently let fall a wish that I might have a few weeks' vacation from my duties as governess to pass in the coolness and quiet of the country. Ever since the spring I had been longing for the green fields, the singing birds, the smell of the young meadow clover and the sight of the growing corn; for I was born and bred a country maiden, and the old tastes and instincts were strong within me. The hot breath of town stifled me, and so I told her with wistful tears in my eyes. A shadow came over her fair face while I was speaking, and I checked myself involuntarily. I had without meaning it stirred her generous impulsive nature to pity. Blessed darling! She did not know that I saw through her affectionate little stratagem, when she came to me the next morning, and asked me if I should be willing to accompany her on a visit to her country relatives. Her air was anxious and inquiring, for she preferred to seem soliciting rather than conferring a favor—as though she did not mistrust how my very soul leaped up with delight at her question. At first I refused, confronting her with a knowledge of her self-denial and tender sacrifice; but she adhered so steadily to her resolution, declaring that if I did not accompany her, she would stay at home entirely, that she would not go anywhere if she could not go to Suffolk, coaxing me with kisses, and holding up before me the very picture that I had painted the day before in my yearning sadness, that at last I yielded a half-pleased, half-reluctant but inexpressibly grateful consent.

A week from that morning we were on our journey, and Alice entertained me with graphic descriptions of the places and persons I should see. She had not visited there before for years, not since she was a little girl in short frock and trousers, but I knew her memory must be a faithful one, so life-like were the pictures she drew. I could almost see the low brown farmhouse nestled down in the valley, with the smooth plat of grass-green meadow land in front, and the broad hillside orchard behind, almost see the clinging roses and vines that tangled their scarlet and green beauties over the narrow windows; and the pleasant sitting-room, and its striped carpet, its pretty chintz curtains, the old-fashioned brass candlesticks on the mantel-shelf, the three simple pictures on the wall—one a morning piece, where a fat, red-cheeked widow held a primly-folded handkerchief to her eyes, to catch the pea-like tears that rolled into it; called up, no doubt, by the sight of the very straight, very green weeping-willow that stood guard over a purple tomb, and whose tassels almost brushed the chubby, beet-colored cheeks of the fatherless little boy and girl that clung to her side.

And then she told me of her homely, kind-hearted Aunt Mary—her rough, blunt-spoken Uncle James—her eldest cousin Edgar away at school, and Frank, two years younger, whom she remembered as a wild, mischievous, bright-eyed boy, full of spirit, but generous and impulsive to a fault.

"But, my dear!" she said in conclusion, "I'll wager by this time he is a verdant, gawky, overgrown fellow—a veritable country clown. By the way, Catherine, do you know I mean to try my arts on him? A whole summer without a conquest will be intolerably stupid; and such a triumph would be a novelty in the flirting world, worth scheming for. Imagine a sun-burned, shock-headed youth standing before me, grinning with bashful simplicity, hoisting first one foot and then the other in sheepish embarrassment, and stammering out his ardent love-avowal something after this fashion: "W-w-w-ill y-y-you have me, Cousin Alice?"

I laughed in spite of myself at her comical picture, but bade her have a care; for coquettish games were always dangerous ones, and she might be the smitten one after all. She shook her head at me with a merry, skeptical laugh, but made me no reply in words. She did not speak again until we had reached the end of our journey.

The pleasant blue-eyed little woman, who came down to the wooden gate to meet us, was very like the picture she had painted of her; and the motherly way in which she smoothed back the brown curls of her niece and kissed her white forhead, her kindly voice, and above all, the cordial manner in which she clasped my hand at introduction, quite won my heart.

While we were directing the coachman about our baggage, a gentleman and lady on horseback galloped gaily down the valley road, and nodded to Mrs. Russell as they swept past.

"My son Frank," she said, in an explanatory way, as they went by. "We were not expecting you until to-morrow or he would have remained at home this afternoon."

I turned and looked after the retreating pair mentally comparing that tall, elegantly-formed man, carrying his head so proudly, and managing his spirited steed with that graceful, easy skill, which is the beauty of horsemanship, to the shock-headed, bashful youth of Alice's fancy. I think she recalled her own words, too, for her glance followed mine, and the look of pleased surprise that brightened her whole face did not vanish till the dust of their horses' hoofs had settled in the distance.

Deliciously cool and sweet was the little spare chamber assigned to us, and after a bath and a change of apparel, I seated myself by the low, open window, and leaned out through the climbing net-work of roses to enjoy the beautiful freshness of the summer scenery spread out before my gaze. Alice was—I know not where, though a snatch of gay song, warbled in the clearest of voices, or a thrill of merry laughter, occasionally betraying to me her whereabouts. All at once I saw her emerging from the barn—one foot slipperless, a great rent in her frock, her curls tangled with bits of hay, her gay silk apron filled with eggs. She was laughing and singing all in a breath; but as she danced along, her foot slipped on a pebble and she fell. I heard the clash of the eggs in her apron and saw the broken yolks and whites trickling out upon the ground in little rills of gold and pearls. Just as I was going to her assistance, I caught the sound of an amused mirthful laugh by the gate and the next moment Frank Russell was assisting her to rise.

"What carelessness! Six new laid eggs everlastingly ruined! How shall we remedy such a loss?" he said in a merry, mocking voice. "This is my cousin Alice, I am sure. Even if I had not been anticipating your arrival, I should have known this face among a thousand. You are very little changed—so little, indeed, that I dare greet you just as I used to years ago," and stooping he kissed her blushing cheek gallantly.

They came into the house together, chatting like old friends, and pretty soon Alice came up to change her dress for tea. She lingered longer than usual at her glass, and I smiled, in spite of myself, at the painstaking care which she manifested in dressing. That evening as we sat together in the porch, Alice asked her aunt, with a mischievous glance at Frank, who the young lady might be whom we had seen on horseback that afternoon.

"Oh, she is Annie Carter," was the reply, "I expect in a year from now you will be able to call her cousin. She has been engaged to my son this long while." And the old lady smiled good-naturedly over her knitting.

I saw a shadow come over Alice's face—very faint, but still a shadow—and noticing that, a sudden pain struck coldly to my heart—as instinctive fear of what the next few weeks would bring about. Frank was smiling, but there was not the slightest visible embarrassment in his manner, as he composedly pulled off handful after handful of leaves, and rolled them up into balls to pelt the big Newfoundland dog lying at his feet.

The events of the next two months (for our visit had been indefinitely prolonged) were but a realization of the prophetic dread that fell like a cloud over my spirit the first night of my stay in that house. Alice Rossiter's heart was singularly simple in its affectionateness and child-like confidence, and I noticed with a feeling akin to pity, the mastery which her fascinating cousin was gaining over it. They were inseparable companions. There were morning rambles on the river banks—long promenades under the summer moonlight—that white, magnetic flame in which Cupid so often dips his arrows. Now Alice would want wild flowers for a wreath; only Frank could show her where the finest grew. Again it was moss for a basket, or water lilies for her favorite vase; only Frank could procure them for her. Once she sprained her ankle in descending a hill; Frank brought her home in his arms, and I could but notice how tenderly he held her—how closely her white face nestled down against his breast, as though it would never ask to rise. A day or two after she was stung by a malicious bee. Frank must bandage the white, swollen arm, and then, (did he realize what he was doing, do you think?) cover the smarting wound with kisses, saying, with an audacious look into the half-averted eyes, that he knew as well as the bees where sweets were to be found. Annie Carter seemed to be forgotten, or, if I remembered, to be held in secondary consideration to his guest. With growing pain I witnessed their evident liking for each other's society—their intimacy, ripening every day into something more deep and tender. I could not interfere or warn them—the matter was too delicate for my skill to manage, and yet who could fail to know what the result would be? One heart must bleed, whether Alice's or that of the fickle Frank's betrothed I could not say. My selfish love would have chosen the latter.

One night we sat together, Alice and I, by our chamber window. Her chair was drawn up close to mine, and she half leaned against me, her head lying on my bosom, her arms clasped loosely across my shoulders. We had been very silent, neither of us speaking for nearly an hour, and I was wondering what had brought such a pensive shade to Alice's face, when she spoke abruptly. Her question gave me the clew to the long reverie she had been indulging in.

"You saw Miss Carter yesterday did you not, Catherine?"

"Yes," I replied.

"Am I as pretty as she is?" she asked.

"A thousand times prettier, my darling," said I. "Why, her face is no more to be compared with yours than a wax flower is to those roses in your hair—fresh, dewy, and sweet with perfume."

"Do you think so?" said Alice. "I am glad, though I don't know that I ever cared much for being pretty until lately. I suppose Frank likes—loves her very much—don't you?"

There was something more than a careless curiosity to hear my opinion in that question. Had I answered her frankly, I should have given a decided negative. But, with a nature like hers, I dared run no unnecessary risk. I would not encourage the latent hope that I saw slumbering in her heart.

"Of course," I answered.

She sighed—a long, dismal sigh, that smote my heart to the quick. Just then we heard voices underneath the window. Her ear was quicker than mine, for she lifted herself up eagerly, bent her head a moment, as if to listen, and then I saw a quick color like the flush of a rose, ripple into her cheek. We leaned together out of the window. Beneath us were Frank Russell and Annie Carter, pacing backward and forward on the grassy lawn, her hand on his arm—his handsome face bent down, till his dark looks almost brushed her forehead.

I saw Alice's eyelids droop to crush back the tears she would not have me see, and instinctively I put my arm about her and drew her away from the window. I could feel her heart beating stormily under her bodice, and when, with a long, low, sobbing cry, she threw herself into my arms and buried her face convulsively in my bosom, I knew she was conscious that her secret had passed into my possession.

The next day and the next passed dismally enough, but I saw, with a sensation of relief, that Alice shunned Frank's attentions. Once roused to a sense of her danger, the evil was half remedied I thought.

On the afternoon of the third day I went out for the solitary ramble I was accustomed to take after dinner. I walked down to the river, and, to my surprise, as I neared my favorite seat—a little clearing among the willows that thickly skirted the bank—I saw Ally's white sun-bonnet lying on the grass, and a little further on, herself thrown down on the ground, her arms crossed on the cool grass, and her face buried in them. Her very attitude was one of hopeless passionate grief, and I should have known she was weeping, even if I had not heard her stifled sobs.

While I stood hesitating, undecided, whether to go forward and speak with her, or leave her to conquer her sorrow alone, Frank Russell came out from among the willows opposite me. He, too, noticed the weeping girl, and, springing quickly forward, knelt by her side. Evidently he did not know what to say to comfort her, for he only smoothed her hair silently, apparently unconscious of my close proximity. For once, Alley's heart misled her. She thought the intruder was myself.

"Do not blame me, Catherine," she said, "I cannot help it—indeed I cannot. He was so good—so handsome—so kind to me, that I was loving him before I thought of the consequences. We will go away from here to-morrow,—will we not, dear, good Catharine?—where I shall never see Frank again. Oh, my heart will break!" she sobbed out, in broken accents, without lifting her head.

My heart leaped to my throat with a suffocating bound. I would have died rather than that my beautiful, sensitive darling should so unconsciously have opened her heart to the man who, of all persons, ought to be blinded to its secrets. It would kill her when she knew what she had done.

But I was unprepared for the revelation of the next few minutes. Not till I noticed the sudden start that Frank Russell gave, the flush that came over his face, the tenderness that leaped into his hazel eyes; not till I saw him gather her up in his arms, with passionate caresses, pouring a vehement story of love into her ears—love that had not dared to hope, and that, but for that unexpected revelation, would never have found utterance—did I realize that Ally, after all, was to be happier than I had dared to wish she might be.

But I was startled when I saw her struggle from his embrace, with a frightened cry, looking alternately from him to me, as if trying to comprehend her humiliating mistake—a hot flame of mortification blazing across her face, her blue eyes darkened by a look of pitiful distress.

"No, no! don't come near me, Frank Russell," she almost screamed, when he would have taken her hands. "I see how it is—what have I said—what have I done—what you would say to me to save my pride. But do not mock me so! Let me bear this disgrace as my punishment—only respect my secret for its own sake. Come, Catherine, let us go!" and she staggered towards me with both hands pressed hard over her burning face.

Moved by her suffering—her shame—scarcely knowing what I did, in my great pity for her humiliation, I said bitter, harsh things to Frank Russell, taunting him with fickleness, meanness, falsity, and concluding by bidding him to seek Miss Carter and rehearse the part he had been playing. He listened in indignant surprise, but at that name a new light seemed to break across his mind.

"Miss Carter," said he. "Is it possible that you have labored under such a mistake as that? She has been engaged to my brother Edgar for these two years."

The next moment Alice was in his arms, sobbing, laughing and blushing all at once.

I left them together by the river but not until I had whispered maliciously to Alice;

"W-w-w-will y-y-you have m-me-me, Cousin Alice?"

She Never Spoke to Her Father.

A recent number of the Lancaster (Pa.) New Era contained an account of the sudden death of Mrs. George W. Sensenich, of Beartown, in the extreme eastern end of the county. No one was present to witness the death but Mrs. Sensenich's daughter, who for twenty-five years had refused to talk to or with any one but her mother and two sisters. George W. Sensenich, the proprietor of a tannery on the old Downingtown turnpike, between the township line of East Earl and Caernarvon, married Miss Elizabeth Kurtz, from which union there were three children, all daughters. Lydia, the oldest, is married to James Emery, of Salisbury; Harriet is the esteemed wife of Levan Wenger, of Bareville; Emma, the youngest, and the subject of this sketch, has lived with her mother. She is about thirty years old, and during this time never spoke to anyone but her mother and two sisters until a few days since, when her mother fell over dead in her presence. She afterward related the circumstance to several ladies, and has since spoken to many others.

She went to school, but refused to recite any lessons, and seemed as mute as if she was unable to speak. Nevertheless, she acquired a very fair education. She attended church regularly, and was a consistent member at Bridgeville. She went into society, seemingly enjoying it very much, and when spoken to the only answer the speaker would receive was a smile. She has a special horror of men. Many a one thought that she must talk, and made vain efforts to get a reply. It is said that when quite small her father tempted her with gold-pieces if she would only speak one word to him, but it was useless. Four years ago her father died after a lingering illness, and she constantly attended him with the kindest care, but not one word would she speak to him to console him. The case is at present the talk of the entire eastern end of the county.

The Cow-Tree.

This singular and really wonderful tree is thus spoken of in Myers' "Life and Nature Under the Tropics," as the author saw it growing in Venezuela. He says: "The most interesting form of vegetation and one that flourishes abundantly through the rugged mountain wilds, is the famous palo de vaca or 'cow-tree.' From it is obtained, by incisions made in the trunk, a milky juice, sweet and agreeable to the taste and which is considerably used as food by the natives. It furnishes an exceedingly nutritious food.

"The tree attains a great height, the coriaceous leaves being from six to ten inches in length. The wood is red, very hard and durable. The fluid is put at Para upon the Amazon to various uses. When applied fresh from the tree as a glue, the milky sap hardens and holds with greater durability than the ordinary cabinet-maker's glue. It also makes good custard."

"Amid the great number of curious phenomena," says Humboldt, "which I have observed in the course of my travels, I confess there are few that have made so powerful an impression on me as the cow-tree."

There is, indeed, something peculiarly impressive in this remarkable tree, which will not be obliterated from the mind of the traveller by the many others wonders of the equatorial regions that may come under his observation. That there should be a tree mysteriously elaborating a substance devoid of all acidity or bitterness, or any of the deleterious qualities usually belonging to lactescent plants, and which is, moreover, a delicious and wholesome aliment, is no less a remakable fact than a beneficent provision for the inhabitants of a country who rely mainly upon the natural resources of the land for supplying their wants.

The Story of a Girl.

From the Eagle Grove (Iowa) Times.

An amusing incident occurred this week which may well be used as a good moral story for girls. It is of a young lady whose lover, a man of some 38 years, becoming impatient for the arrival of her 18th birthday, which was set as date for their marriage, induced her, with the aid of friends, to leave her home and sojourn until that time at a farmer's house a few miles distant from town. Reluctantaly she consented, and was safely lodged with the good lady of the house, who, learning the girl's story, used all the influence she could in pointing out to her the misery she had caused her parents and friends and the error of the step she had taken. The girl's mother sought her out and in a few moments gained her consent to return home. Her lover entered the room, and finding his plans interrupted, used such language that she now declares she will not marry him. Being young and unused to society, the girl was easily led astray, but she is now at home, and happiness is again restored. The lesson is plain, and one which may well be taken to heart by every girl. Father and mother know best. They have seen more of the world than you. Do not imagine that other than they can or should decide things for you. Their whole hearts are wrapped up in you, and there is no one more considerate of your happiness and welfare than they.

The Great Monument.

The Boston Advertiser says of the Washington monument: One may see it as he approaches the city, from a distance of many miles away, a faint white line rising against the purple sky of a cloudy day, and the first cry is some acknowledgement of delight for its beauty. Or he may see it near at hand, against a sunset glow, dark against light, with the lines sharp and hard, which before were so vague, and again he speaks of its beauty. Or the spectators may come to it on a lowering afternoon, when the clouds are heavy above the city, and his eye runs up to lose the phantom monument in the clouds. How far does it go beyond? As he asks this question, he expresses the same delight as before.

UNCHANGED.

If all the earth were barren should I care,
If all the birds forsook the sunless air?
I only know—
That if the day be dark, the day be fair,
My thought goes with thee everywhere.

Should seas forget to follow where
The moon's full charm rounds white and bare.
It matters not—
I only know that where thou art
Still turns to thee this throbbing heart—

Unchanged, and changeless, still to thee,
From time and through eternity.
I only ask—
That, when some day its pulse you miss,
Upon my dead face leave your kiss.

—MARGARET WHITE.

SNOWED IN.

Ada Carleton Stoddard in Harper's Young People.

One cloudy winter morning, not less than twenty years ago, there was an unusual commotion about a certain little old house standing far up on the St. John River.

Within, Mrs. Grace sat before the great fireplace in the fore-room, so bundled up in shawls and blankets and hoods that she could scarcely stir. In a warm corner of the hearth lay three or four hot bricks well wrapped in newspapers, and two home-made robes were hanging across a chair to warm—everything indicating preparations for a long journey. Without, Mr. Grace was hitching the old red mare into the thills of the still older red pung, that looked as if it might have come over in the Mayflower. His round, good-natured face wore a troubled expression, and he jerked at old Dolly's bit once or twice in an ungentle way which wasn't like himself.

The small part of Mrs. Grace's face that was visible among the folds of her home-knit hood showed the same look of anxiety, and her voice trembled a good deal when she spoke to the children, and gave Charly her last directions. There were four of the children—Dean and Emmy, and Joe and Charly—though Charly was not one of the Grace children. Mrs. Grace had taken her, a wee lame mite, when there was no one else to take her, and she often declared she couldn't and didn't love one of her own little ones better than she could and did love Charly. Emma and Dean and Joe were round, rosy little ladies, of 3 and 5 and 7 years, blue-eyed and yellow-haired. Charly was 11, and she was neither round nor rosy. Her face was thin, and her eyes were big and shadowy. And Charly was lame; there was a pair of tiny crutches always by her chair.

"I couldn't think of going," said Mrs. Grace, "if Charly wasn't the wise, patient little mother I know she is. I never was so worried in my life. But what am I to do?"

It was a hard question to answer, indeed, for the night before had come a letter to Mrs. Grace from her sister in a distant town saying that her mother—the children's dear old grandmamma—was very, very ill. "Come at once," the letter read; and it was a week old when Mr. Ringgold, who lived too miles above them, but was yet their nearest neighbor in the sparsely settled region, brought it from the postoffice five miles below. It was little to be wondered at that the tears filled poor Mrs. Grace's eyes, that her lips quivered, and her voice shook.

"I couldn't do it if it was not for trusting in Charly so," she repeated time and again, in tones that brought a glow to Charly's thin little face. "I know you'll take good care of them, dear. There's bread enough baked, and I've left the jar of doughnuts in the closet."

"Oh, good again!" cried Joe. "Can't we have all we want? Won't it be fun, Charly?"

"You must have what Charly gives you," said Mrs. Grace, "and attend to what Charly says. I've locked the pantry door so you can't bother her by running in and out. Now—" She looked at Charly as the outer door opened.

"I'll do just the best I can," said Charly, bravely.

"I know you will dear. Be good children, all of you."

"There's wood enough piled up in the entry to last you," said Mr. Grace, a little huskily. "We shall be back day after to-morrow night, sure. All ready, wife." And a few moments later old Dolly was jogging at her best pace down the snowy level of the river. It was thirty long miles to Dunbar Corner.

"I wish they were home again," said Joe.

"They will be before you know it," laughed Charly. "Now I'll tell you a story."

So the three little ones cuddled around Charly's chair before the open fire while she told them the wonderful tale of the "Three Tiny Pigs," and from first to last they listened breathlessly, though they had heard the same story many times before, no doubt. Charly had a wonderful gift for telling stories, Mrs. Grace often declared.

And Charly had a gift for something besides story tilling. When her stories came to an end she smiled.

"Bring me my box, will you, Joey, please?" Charly asked. Her poor little limbs were so weak and misshapen that it was with difficulty she could move about, even with the aid of her crutches.

Joe obeyed, climbing up on the wide four-posted bed in the corner, and taking from a shelf above it a square wooden box with a sliding cover. Dean and Emmy knew what was coming then.

"Dive me the kitty," pleaded Emmy.

"And me the mouses," said Dean.

"They're deers, goosey, said Joe, with a little scornful sniff. "Let me see all of 'em, won't you, Charly?"

Charly smiled in the brighest way, and pulled off the cover. Shall I tell you what were there? The daintiest little images under the sun, carved all in wood, and the largest one scarcely four inches high. It is true they were the work of a single awkward tool in untaught fingers, but if you had seen them I am sure you could not have helped exclaiming with Joe and Dean and Emmy, "Oh, Charly, how pretty they are!"

They were exceedingly true to life, too. There was the old house cat, which Emmy instantly appropriated—why, you could almost hear her drowsy purr—and there were Dean's "mooses," with their delicate branching horns, and a pair of rabbits eating clover, and cunning, creeping baby, and there was old Dolly herself, standing with drooping head and lopped ears—lazy Dolly.

"I'd know her anywhere," laughed Joe.

Charly laughed too, and fingered her treasures lovingly. Her cheeks glowed and her eyes were starry.

"Do you think they're nice?" she asked—"as nice as some they have at the stores at Christmas time, Joey?"

"Nicer," returned Joe, in a tone expressive of great wisdom and experience—a whole heap nicer."

"Well," pursued Charly, "I'm going to make all I can, and when I get enough I'll send them to sell. Mrs. Ringgold said they ought to be half a dollar apiece."

"O-oh!" cried Joe, quite taken aback by this prospect of unbounded wealth. "What'll you do with so much?"

"I know," put in Dean. "You'll get cured, won't you, Charly?"

The quick tears sprang to Charly's dark eyes. "I will, if I can," said she, and she pulled Emmy to her, and hid her face in the baby's yellow curls. "Maybe I can't."

"Mr. Perks said you could if you could go to see Dr. Lester. He can cure everything."

"But it'll cost a great lot of money—maybe $100," said Charly. "I'd have to to make 200 of these, Joey."

"Well, you ain't going to wait that long," declared Joe stoutly. "Father says just as soon's this old farm pays anything, he's going to take you to Fredericton to see Dr. Lester. Maybe 'twill pay next summer; we're going to have a cow then. And we haven't been here long enough yet, you know."

"That'll be real nice," said she. "Now, after dinner I'll cut out something more."

"I think it's real fun," said Joe. But Charly only shook her head and smiled again.

Well that day passed; and the next, and all the time the sun did not show his face. The clouds hung heavy and black and dark came early, and weatherwise Joe, with his nose against the window-pane, prophesied a storm.

"I hope 'twon't come, though till father and mother are home," said he.

It did, however. When the children awoke next morning the snow was falling fast and steadily in large flakes. It had grown very much colder, too, in the night. Poor little Joe's teeth chattered spitefully even after he had raked open the bed of coals in the fireplace and built a roaring fire. The wind came up with the sun; it whistled and raved along the bleak river shore in a way that set the timbers of the old house to creaking dolefully.

"I don't believe they'll come to-night," said Joe, when dark began to fall.

"Won't they, Charly?"

"Oh, Charly, won't 'em?"

"Do you s'pose a wolf chased father an' mother?" asked Joe, with a dismal quaver, breaking in upon the narrative of the "Tiny Pig."

"A wolf couldn't catch our Dolly," said Dean, quickly. "She's too smart—and big."

Charly laughed. For the world she would not have acknowledged that such a possibility had occurred to her own mind.

"It's the storm that keeps them," she said, cheerily. "It's a dreadful storm, you know. They'll be here to-morrow—I know they will."

But to-morrow came and went—a long, dreary, freezing day, and the fifth morning dawned. How bitterly cold it was, and how the wind whistled through and through the house! The storm had ceased, but of this the children could not be sure, since the windows were banked with snow, and when Joe tried to open the outer door a white wall repelled him. Their store of provisions, too, was nearly exhausted, and that seemed worse than all the rest, until Joe came in from the entry with his arms full of wood and his eyes full of tears.

"That's every bit there is," he quavered. "Oh, Charly, why don't father come?"

"He will," said Charly, with a brave, bright smile, though her heart was like lead. "Now, we'll be real saving of this wood and only put on one stick at a time."

Oh, how cold the room grew—colder and colder, while time dragged on, and those last sticks were burning slowly away. They ate their last bits of bread then, and because Charly said she could not eat, there was a very little more for Emmy and Dean and Joe.

But Joe, though he looked wistfully at the frozen morsels, was struck with a sudden recollection. "You didn' eat any breakfast, Charly, nor any last night, because your head ached. Ain't you hungry?"

"Never mind," said Charly, cheerily. "I'll eat enough when they come home."

The bread disappeared then to the last crumb.

"I'm awful hungry yet," said Joe.

"So am I," echoed Dean with a pitiful pucker, "and I'm awful cold."

Charly hugged Emmy tighter and looked around.

There were the chairs—stout oaken ones.

"Can't you break up a chair, Joey?" she asked.

But he couldn't though he tried manfully—poor little Joe—with tears standing on his cheeks.

"Never mind," said Charly again. And then the forlorn little group huddled together over the dying fire. How cold it was! and how the wind rocked the old house and blew its freezing breath in through every chink!

"I'm s'eepy," murmured Emmy, drowsily. Charly looked at her in sudden terror. She had been sobbing with cold and hunger, and now her baby face looked pinched and her hands blue with cold. But the golden head drooped heavy against Charly's arm—and Emmy never went to sleep at this time in the day. A dull red coal winked among the ashes. Charly saw it and straightened Emmy up with a little shake.

"We will have a funny fire," said she, with a catch in her voice. "Bring the—box, Joey."

"Oh, Charly, no!"

"Yes," said Charly. "I can make plenty more. Wake up, Emmy."

And in a minute Emmy was wide awake enough to see a tiny bright blaze upon the hearth. They burned the box first and then the pretty carvings one by one. All too soon they were gone, and there only remained only a few ashes.

"I'm just as cold," whimpered Dean. "I'm sleepy, too, Charly."

"Well, you shall go to sleep," said Charly, "and when you wake up I know they'll be here. But we'll have some nice fun first. Who wants a doughnut?"

"Oh, Charly Grace, you haven't got one!"

"Yes I have," returned Charly, with a triumphant little laugh. "I saved these out of mine." She stood Emmy on the hearth and hobbled as briskly as could be across the floor, placing two chairs, one at each end of the room. "Now you run a race around those two chairs till I say it's enough, and I'll give you one apiece. Run just as fast as you can."

At first the children demurred, they were so cramped and tired and drowsy; but the sight of three brown, delicious looking cakes which Charly produced from her pockets nerved them to action. Around and around the chairs they ran, Joe ahead Emmy in the rear, breathing out little clouds of steam. And Charly laughed and clapped her hands and cheered them on, until at last they stopped from sheer fatigue, puffing like three small locomotives, and with their pulses beating in a lively way.

Charly hobbled over to the bed. "Get in, all of you," she said; "then I'll give you your cakes. I know they'll be here when you wake up."

She tucked them in warmly, and then she went back to her chair. She put the end of her crutches upon two or three live coals and blew them into a tiny blaze. Pretty soon, when she had warmed herself a little, she would creep in beside Emmy. She listened to the deep regular breathing from the bed.

"They are going to sleep," she murmured. "I've done the best I could—the best I could."

The words echoed from the walls of the cold little room, and rang themselves over and over in her brain. How warm the place was growing and how dark. She thought she would crawl over to the bed and get in with Emmy and Dean and Joe. But she did not stir.

She sat there a still, a white little figure, with a pair of half-burned crutches at her feet, when less than an hour later a man with frosty beard and hair forced himself through the snowbank at the door. It was Mr. Grace, alone, for the storm had rendered the roads impassable, and he had tramped the whole distance from Dunbar Corner upon snowshoes. It was a long, wearying walk, no doubt, and he had been about it two days. But when he opened the door of his home he forgot it all. In less than a minute he had made kindling wood of one of the chairs, and in another one or two a brisk fire was roaring on the hearth, and Mr. Grace, in terrible fear, was rubbing Charly's hands and forcing some brandy from the little flask he carried down her throat. She opened her eyes presently, and looked up into the kind face above her in a bewildered way.

"Emmy—Dean—Joe—are—"

"All right—all right!" yelled Mr. Grace, nearly beside himself with delight; and then he went down upon his knees before Charly and cried, "We're all right, my dear."

And so, indeed they were. I haven't space to tell you all that happened—what Mrs. Grace said and did when she came, a few days later, with the welcome news that grandmamma was better, and heard what Mr. Grace had already heard from Joe and Emmy and Dean; how the story was told throughout the settlement over and over, and how Charly was praised on all sides; nor how the people of Grand Fork, the little village five miles below, got up a fair for Charly's benefit, which gave her enough to take her to Dr. Lester that very next spring. And though Dr. Lester could not entirely cure her, the weak little limbs grew so much stronger and better that she was able to walk without crutches, by limping a very little. When Dr. Lester, too, came to hear who Charly was, for the story of the winter's day had already reached his ears, he refused to take his fee, but, instead, added to the little roll of bills and put it in the bank—for Charly.

"She will want to go to school in a little while," said he. "I think she must study art."

"Why, what makes every one so good to me?" asked Charly with happy tears; "I didn't do anything."

"Didn't you?" asked Mrs. Grace, in return, kissing the glad litttle face—"didn't you?"

The New Mistress of the White House.

Albany Letter.

She (Miss R. E. Cleveland) has been an earnest and industrious woman, and never contemplated a life of luxury, much less one of conspicuous position before the country. She is as unique in her way as her brother is in his, though they are apparently not at all alike in general character, nor does she physically resemble him. She is of medium stature and build, with a shapely and highly intellectual face. She is good-looking, but not pretty. She dresses neatly, but plainly, and wears few ornaments. She has for a long time been a lecturer by profession, her specialty being educational subjects, and her audience usually pupils of girls' schools. She has, for example, just lectured at the Elmira Seminary on "Joan of Arc." She speaks several languages, is exceptionally well informed in history and the arts, and has that degree of confidence in herself and the knowledge she possesses to be able to firmly take the lead in conversation, and to hold it against the bright men and women who have come in contact with her. Yet in some respects she is notably shy, and always so modest and amiable as to win friends easily and quickly. "Why, she's a perfect dictionary," said ex-Gov. Cornell, when he returned from a visit to Miss Cleveland, recently. "She's one of the brightest women I ever met."

A Tribute to the Value of Tradition.

It seems at first sight incredible that an occurance of 215 years ago could be reported with but one link between the person who tells you and the actual witness. Such, however, is the fact. The narrator in question was the venerable rector of Busby (Rev. W. Falconer) just deceased at the age of eighty-four. He had heard his grandfather (the celebrated Dr. Falconer of Bath) say that he had been told by his grandmother that she could remember being held up to the window to see Hallay's comet, which appeared in 1669. She was then six years old. Dr. Falconer, the intervener, was born in 1744, and died in 1824. Assuming him to have been at least six years of age when this story was told him, his grandmother must have been ninety. But the wonder might be increased; for if Dr. Falconer told the story in the last year of his life (1824) to a child of six years, it might be passed on to the next century with only one link between the witness and the narrator. After all, we are not so dependent on writing as we sometimes assume ourselves to be.—Pall Mall Budget.

MY SISTER SUSETTA.

"I am going, Addie, so it is useless to argue the point," my sister says, as she stands on tiptoe to pluck a rose that is almost out of her reach, her loose sleeve falling back from her beautifully molded arm with its dimpled elbow.

Susetta is so pretty that everybody falls in love with her—men, women and children; but she has her faults—who has not?—and her obstinacy makes me sigh.

She is affianced to one of the best young men that ever drew breath; but they quarrel so often that I frequently wonder if their engagement will ever end in marriage.

Trevor Chudleigh is awfully fond of her; but she does lead him such a dance!

Now, if I only had a lover like Trevor, how differently I would behave. Alas! I am not a beauty and although "handsome is as handsome does" is a very good saying young men, as a rule, prefer pretty faces to plain ones.

Trevor is away, worse luck! and before he went begged Susetta not to attend those awful races. It wasn't much to ask, I think; but Susetta says he is a tyrant, and if she dosen't get some enjoyment out of life before she is married, she never will afterward.

She is going with those Fieldwicks, too, and Trevor always says Mrs. Fieldwick is fast.

She certainly does paint and powder openly, as indifferent to criticism on that point as Lady Morgan; but she's an amiable woman for all that. Still, if I were Susetta, I should not seek her society, knowing Trevor's dislike to her.

But poor Susetta is so fond of pleasure. It is a perfect mania with her.

She always wants to be amusing herself, and hates quiet as much as I love it. I often wonder how Trevor and Susetta will get on if they ever do marry, for he is so grave and studious and she so giddy and flighty.

He said to me one day—how well I remember his words:

"Addie, I wish your sister resembled you in your fondness for home. She always wants to be gadding about. I never knew such a restless creature in my life!"

"You must bear with her," I answered. "She is so young and pretty, Trevor, and we have made such a pet of her. She does not know what it is to be denied anything she wants."

"I know you always stand up for her," he observed with a smile; "you are a good girl, Addie."

This was before he went away to London on business. He has been gone about a week, and Susetta has had a letter from him every morning. Happy Susetta! What more can she want since she has his love? It would not be much of a sacrifice to stay away from the races.

Susetta looks lovely in the blue dress, coquettish hat and blue veil, and it isn't likely, she tells me, that she is going to stick at home while other people are enjoying themselves.

"If old Trevor"—he is eight-and-twenty—"doesn't like it he can do the other thing," she says, with a laugh. "Why don't you marry him yourself, you little prude?"

"Because he never asked me," is my quiet reply; "but if a good man loved me, I would never trifle with his feelings, Susetta."

"You are perfection, and I am not," says my pretty sister. "Good-by, Addie."

And she hurries out of the house, for a smart four-in-hand has just drawn up at the door, and going to the window I watch Susetta as she is helped up to the top and takes her place beside Mrs. Fieldwick, whose red and white is laid on extra thick, I fancy, to-day.

Then I sit down on the sofa and cry a little for Trevor, but more for myself. Oh, if he had loved me, how eagerly I would have obeyed his slightest wish! But he does not love me—so what is the use in indulging in such thoughts? They are foolish and wrong.

Mother and our one servant are not very observant, but the fear that they may notice that I have been weeping makes me dry my eyes; but not before I have made myself uglier than ever. Perfection, Susetta called me. Yes I am a perfect fright.

I look at myself in the mirror. What do I see? A small pale face, light eyes, and sandy hair. An entrancing picture truly.

Alma Tadema says a woman with a beautiful figure seldom has a beautiful face, and my figure is undeniably good. Susetta has often told me so for my consolation, when I have admired her pretty features.

There is a double knock at our front door, and our servant being busy, I open it.

"A telegram, miss," says the boy who stands there.

It is for Susetta, and I open it without hesitation, for Susetta and I have no secrets from each other.

To my dismay, it is from Trevor, to say that he will be with Susetta that afternoon. Of course she will not be here to receive him. What will he think!

I tell mother the news, and she says, calmly:

"My dear, it is no business of ours, Susetta must manage her own affairs. She would go to the races, and your sister and Trevor must settle the matter between them."

Mother is a little vexed with Susetta, for Trevor is a very good man, and she might have stopped at home for once just to please him.

"If she had only known he was coming back to-day," I say, regretfully, "she would not have gone in that case, and all would have been well."

"Don't you bother your dear little head over Susetta's affairs," returns mother, kissing me. "You'll have enough to do if you trouble yourself about her. There never was such an obstinate, self-willed girl."

"But she loves Trevor," I say, earnestly.

"I doubt it," returns mother, shaking her head. "If she cared for him she would be ready to make a greater sacrifice than stopping away from the races for his sake."

"But she is so pretty, mother, and so fond of pleasure."

"All the worse for Trevor," retorts mother, who is deeply vexed. "But since you are so stanch in her defense, I'll leave you to make excuses for her. My head aches, and I am going to lie down."

"But, oh, mother! what can I say to him?" I cry in dismay.

"Just what you please," returns mother. "If I were to see him, I should tell him what I think of Susetta's behavior, and you would object to that, I know."

"Oh, mother! don't be hard on our petted darling," I say, and mother's face relaxes, and I see a smile lurking at the corners of her mouth; but she won't wait to see Trevor, nevertheless.

He will look so bright and eager when he comes into the room, and I shall see such blank disappointment on his face as he looks in vain for Susetta—Susetta, who is enjoying herself at the races in company with those objectionable Fieldwicks.

I go to the piano, but rise from the music stool in a very few minutes, and take up a book, then, throwing it down, begin to walk restlessly to and fro, for I can settle to nothing.

Presently I hear Trevor knocking at the hall door. I know his rat-tat-tat so well, and an instant later he is in the room asking eagerly for Susetta.

"Was she not pleased to get my telegram?" he continues.

"She was far from home when it came," I say, trying to appear at my ease, "so I opened it."

"Quite right, sister Addie," returns Trevor, looking a little disappointed, but still speaking cheerfully. "But where is Susetta?"

"She is spending the day with some friends," I answered, with a foolish desire to put off telling the truth as long as possible.

Trevor's handsome face darkens, and his eyes flash ominously, as he says:

"Adeline, she has never gone to the races?—she would not do that after what I have said. But you don't answer me. She has gone, then?"

I am still silent, and Trevor begins to pace up and down the room in a state of the greatest agitation. He is terribly put out, and makes no attempt to hide it from me.

"And I shortened my stay in London, and hurried back for this," he says, bitterly, coming to a standstill before my chair. "Addie I am beginning to wonder whether Susetta is worthy of all the love I have lavished upon her."

"Nonsense, Trevor," I say quickly. "You must not speak like that of my sister. She is foolish, I know; but there is not a better girl in the whole world."

He gives me a quick glance as I finish speaking, and sighs impatiently.

"I know one thing," he says, after a pause; "she could not have had a better sister. Why is it you always take her part, Addie? Have you no sympathy for me?"

He puts his hand on my shoulder as he speaks, never dreaming how that light touch thrills me, and how hard it is to steady my voice, as I reply:

"I sympathize with you both. Ah! if you would only take 'Bear and forbear' for your motto!"

"Have I not borne enough already?" demands Trevor, with another sigh.

"Addie!" he cries, suddenly, and the blood rushes to his face, "she has not gone with the Fieldwicks. She has! Then, by Heaven! I will never forgive her."

"Hush, Trevor!" I say, soothingly. "You will be sorry for talking like this when your anger is over. After all, she has not done anything desperately wrong."

"Would you have done it, Addie?"

I hesitate for a moment, scarcely knowing what reply to make; but I must say something in my sister's defense, and I answer, gently:

"You forget how different we are, Susetta and I. She is so fond of pleasure, and I have ever been a home bird."

"What a fortunate man your husband will be!" says Trevor. "You are the woman to make a man's home happy, and fill his life with sunshine."

"But men love beauty," I say, with a faint smile.

"Then men are fools," exclaims Trevor, forgetting that his remark is scarcely complimentary, and he, at any rate, has not been proof against the fascination of a pretty face. "I mean," he added, quickly, "That a man who is wise will seek a wife who is good, as well as beautiful."

"The man who is wise will not marry at all," I observe, laughingly. "He that takes a wife takes trouble and care."

But Trevor is not in the humor to laugh at anything. He hates the idea of Susetta associating with the Fieldwicks, and is deeply wounded that she should have gone to the races, in defiance of his wishes.

Trevor and I are in the garden when the four-in-hand dashes up to the gate, and I notice with horror that Mr. Fieldwick shows evident signs of having had too much champagne.

He wears a false nose, and presents a wholly comical appearance. At any other time I should find it impossible not to laugh, but now I can feel nothing but dismay.

Susetta is helped down by a young man with light hair, and stands at the gate as the coach bowls along the road. She has not seen Trevor yet. When she does, her cheeks lose a little of their rich bloom, and a half-frightened, half-defiant look comes into her eyes.

"You here, Trevor," she says, holding out her hand.

"You did not expect to see me," he observes, coldly.

"If I had, I should have stopped at home," she answers, and then I slip indoors and leave them alone.

Presently Susetta joins me, but without Trevor. They had quarreled, it seemed, and parted in anger.

"Susetta," I say, entreatingly, "you have not sent him away?"

"He has gone, my dear," she answers, and begins to sing, but I fancy her voice trembles a little.

"Oh, Susetta," I say, "pray, think of what you are doing! He loves you so!"

"He says he never wants to see my face again," she answers, and then continues her song.

It is growing dark, but I fancy I can see a figure lingering near the gate. Can it be Trevor?

"Susetta," I say, "do you know, Trevor is going to leave England?"

It is an awful fib, for he had never said so, but it is what I imagine he will do if his estrangement with Susetta continues, and I cannot bear to see these two people, who love each other, spoiling their lives from sheer obstinacy and ill-temper. I love them so dearly that I would fain see them happy.

"Going to leave England because I went to the races, I suppose you mean," [illegible] am not sure of it, and the assertion is only a bold venture on my part.

"I am not crying," returns my sister, in a choking voice. "If Trevor loves me so little that he can leave me forever because I committed an act of folly, he isn't worth crying about. Perhaps if he had known how my conscience had pricked me all day, and how I had resolved never to go out with those horrid people again, he wouldn't have been so hard on me."

"It is too late now," I say, watching Trevor's shadow. "After all, dear, he was too exacting, you'll find some one more kind and considerate, and learn to forget him."

"Never!" replies my sister, indignantly. "If you had ever been in love, you would know that such a thing is impossible. You have no feeling, Adeline."

"Darling!" this expression does not come from me, but from Trevor, who, leaping through the window, clasps Susetta in his arms. I am about to retire from the room, when Trevor, still holding my sister in his embrace, takes my hand and lifts it to his lips.

"Addie," he says, "I shall never forget the service you have done me."

"Was it a plot between you?" asks Susetta, struggling to free herself.

Trevor stoutly denies this, and so do I, and Susetta appears satisfied. But in her own mind I fancy she still has her doubts. I know one thing, she is always very grateful to me for what I did that night. If she now all, perhaps she would be more grateful still.

AN ENGINEER'S STORY.

The Wonderful Experience of an Old Engine Driver—Hairbreadth Escapes.

Louisville Evening Times.

"I suppose I must have the imaginary nine lives of a cat," remarked Engineer Wm. J. Hammett to a reporter for the Times. Mr. Hammett recently sued the L. and N. Railway Company for damages sustained in an accident, and, after seven days' deliberation, the jury was unable to agree and was discharged. "I have been killed twice, and still I live. My body is covered with bruises and scalds from head to foot. To tell the truth, there is hardly a sound spot as large as a silver dollar upon the whole surface of my flesh."

A reporter had called upon Mr. Hammett at his residence in the rear of a grocery at the corner of Preston and Caldwell streets. The person to be interviewed looked thin and dejected. He was the hero of nearly a dozen fatal accidents and two miraculous escapes. Flashing blue eyes were the only features that gave animation to his face. Mr. Hammett enjoys the distinction of making the fastest time on record on the L. and N. road.

"The first time I ever ran an engine was in January, 1867, on the Memphis division of the L. and N. road. Mr. James Guthrie was President at that time. My first accident was in 1877. I was then running on the main stem, and was coming from Nashville to Louisville, with a large number of passenger cars attached. Among others there were 150 school girls on board. We were approaching Dudley's Switch 25 miles this side of Nashville, when I noticed that the cross-ties just ahead of us had been removed. I did not have time to stop the engine. In an instant I recognized that there was but one thing to do, and that was to jump the track. I told my fireman to leap out, as there was only room for one of us in the cab at such a moment, and it meant certain death to me or him if he remained. He had barely reached the ground when the engine left the track, and a stream of boiling water came gushing upon me from the boiler. After that I remembered nothing for several days. When I recovered I was told that the boiler had exploded, and that I had been hit on the head by a piece of flying cylinder; also a spike had pierced my hand."

As proof of this Mr. Hammett exhibited a terrible scar on his right hand. The thoughtful engineer afterward received $384 from the passengers for saving the train.

"The time I made my fastest run," continued Mr. Hammett, his blue eyes lighting up, "and the fastest in the record of the road, was in 1870, when I brought Victor Newcomb, Dr. E. D. Standiford and Col. Fred de Funiak from Nashville to Louisville. I was oiling the engine when Col. de Funiak told me that the party was due in Louisville at a certain hour, and asked me if I didn't think I could get there. He added that the way was clear, and that if my engine was any account to turn her loose.

"This was as good as I wanted. I ran 60 miles the first hour, and after that they made me go slower until we reached the city."

This was a memorable ride. Afterwards Mr. Newcomb said of Dr. Standiford that the latter became so badly frightened while the train was speeding along at lightning motion that he got down on his knees and prayed. The violent motion of the train, as it rounded a sharp curve, threw Mr. de Funiak from his seat and inflicted a deep scar, which he will carry with him through life.

"My last run," resumed Mr. Hammett, "was on the night of November 15, 1883. The night was dark as pitch. We had reached Brooks' station and were running at the rate of 40 miles an hour, when I saw a train of freight cars on the track just ahead. It was too late to stop the train, and she dashed on; then a deafening smash, and I was thrown through my window and killed for the time. The next day when I recovered I was told that my fireman had been killed with others in the wreck."

The Future of the Trotting Horse.

The Chicago Horseman publishes a carefully-written paper prepared by Gen. J. S. Brisbine, United States army, reviewing the trotting performance of American horses during the past forty years. The paper gives interesting reminiscences of Lady Suffolk, Flora Temple, Dexter, Goldsmith Maid, Rarus, St. Julien, Maud S. and Jay-Eye-See, and criticises their records. Gen. Brisbin thinks neither Maud S. nor Jay-Eye-See will reduce their records this year, but believes new horses will appear on the turf and that the record will be reduced three or four seconds possibly from 2.09¾ to 2.06. The general thinks the increased speed of American trotting horses is due mainly to better breeding, better training, better driving, improvements in suits and improved tracks and sulkies. He [illegible]

NOTES FOR THE FARM AND HOME.

Household Miscellany.

Another significant statement is that about the great increase of mortality from consumption among the Menomee Indians of Wisconsin since they began living in houses. Nevertheless it is an easy matter to provide for the constant change of air and the free circulation of fresh air in rooms even in the coldest weather—even most in the coldest, and without unpleasant and dangerous draughts.

The craze for useless bric-a-brac and insane decoration has had its day. Sensible people do not care to live in china shops or museums, or in apartments so crowded with furniture and so loaded with ornament that a life in them is a burden, that enthusiasm is crushed under repletion and appetite destroyed by satiety. A few well-selected decorations are ample proof of the taste of the owner and may be so disposed as not to be in the way and hinder the labors that go on about them.

Want of exercise and too constant exposure to one condition of dry heat are common causes of liability to colds, and so of ill-health. The pores of the skin become clogged and inactive. Physical stir, exertion, labor, as well as mental storm is necessary to complete development of a human life—to its long continuance and its usefulness. Let us thankfully meet our physical as well as other hardships and bravely bear them, and surmount them if there is any possibility at all of doing so. They are ordered specially to incite us to such exertion.

The best soil for the chrysanthemum is a loose, friable loam, well enriched with thoroughly decayed manure, and the plants when growing should receive an occasional dose of weak liquid manure. As the pots become filled with roots—which may be ascertained by carefully turning out the ball—they must receive a larger size, not forgetting to ram the soil gently all around the edges, or, as gardeners say, "firm" it. Use plenty of drainage, for, notwithstanding this plant loves plenty of moisture, it will not thrive with old stagnant water in the soil.

Epsom Salts.—"This admirable but unsavory drug may, according to Bartholow's Materia Medica and my own experience, be made almost palatable by boiling one ounce of the salt with two tablespoonfuls of ground coffee in a pint of water in an earthen dish for two minutes, then setting aside to draw for a few minutes and straining. The laxative dose would be about half a tumblerful. Coffee aids this action; tea hinders it. Would that this harmless but very efficient medicine might in a measure supersede the thousand and one proprietary preparations which often by their use create their necessity."

The American Garden makes this very practical suggestion: Sand is very essential to window gardening, and it is well to have a box of it placed in the cellar where a supply can be obtained when needed. Warm it in the oven so as not to chill the plants, and whenever the surface soil seems heavy, or a green mold forms, dig it into the soil with a large hairpin, and mellow the soil. A large hairpin is an excellent implement in house-gardening, as it stirs up the soil in the pots so easily without throwing it out.

Among the beautiful bedroom furniture now in use by our better classes, whose wealth permits their indulgence in such luxuries, not the least conspicuous are the latest style of gorgeous counterpanes used for ornamenting beds during the daytime, with pillow-shams to match. These articles are made of pale tints of cream, blue and Nilegreen satine, upon which are either embroidered or painted rose vines and other floral decorations. The prettiest counterpane and pillow-shams of this kind were those presented by a schoolmate to Commodore Garrison's granddaughter on the occasion of her marriage to Count de Brialles. They were composed of rose-pink ottoman silk, bearing exquisitely-painted clusters of full-blown Marguerites and edged with creamy oriental lace set on to simulate tiny cascades.

Farming Items.

According to conservative estimates we have a total of 3,000,000 colonies of bees, which annually yield 120,000,000 pounds of honey.

Give all the animals a little grain each day, be it ever so little. It will keep them in good spirits.

It has been discovered recently by medical men that "lump jaw," as it is called, or lumps found on the jaws of cattle, are sometimes caused by decayed teeth. It is not known how much the poor brutes suffer from the toothache.

The Cincinnati Christmas trade had a mammoth full-cream cheese 8 feet high, 51 inches diameter, 14 feet circumference, weight 2,683 pounds. It was made at a Central New-York factory from two days' milk of 1,200 cows, cured in forty-four days, and is said to have "excelled the finest Holland" in richness and flavor.

The Jersey Bulletin says that a real test is not in the possibility of a cow making forty pounds of butter a week, but in the ability of a cow to make the most butter on a relative amount of food; for instance, a cow that receives 100 pounds of food should be compared with one that eats a less quantity. Economy should govern all dairying, farming manufacturing and other business operations. Such a method of testing would doubtless change that now in use with advantage to Jersey cattle.

Excessive fatness is really a disease. Fatty degeneration of the tissues is very frequently a cause of death. As the fat, the butter of milk, consists of fatty degeneration of the glandular substance of the udder, may it not be that this excessive action of the milk glands, stimulated by excessive feeding, is really a disease, and explains the fact that one after another all these cows die off in their early age, the victims of this disorder? It may be worth investigation and thought which might place this matter in its true light.

Control by Kindness.

[illegible] One, with peck measure in hand, spent an hour in cornering one horse and taking him to the barn, when he went back to chase the other. His neighbor went to the gate, whistled loudly, and his horses came scampering toward him and in a friendly way began nosing around him. A lump of sugar rewarded their search, and taking them by the forelocks the owner led them home with ease. The little bit of sugar was the secret in the one case; a cuff and a club were that in the other. There are men who waste a large portion of their time in chasing horses, cows—and even the chickens when the housewife needs one—and in trying to overcome by mistaken and injurious discipline the difficulties in controlling their animals which are produced by their own mismanagement.

Docility is worth at least $10 a year for every head of stock kept on an ordinary farm in the saving of time and labor in the use of it. An animal is made docile by kind training when it is young. Colts should be trained from the first to love their owner; calves need patience and kindness when they act stupidly, as is their way, but their stupidity is soon got over, and they will follow their owner and come when called by name, if treated kindly. A flock of poultry is trained in this way by hand-feeding the chicks, and when one needs to handle his fowls it is easy to pick them up out of the crowd as it presses around the keeper eager to pick a grain of corn out of his hand. If you go to a New-England fair and see the trained calves and steers and ask the boy who leads them how they learned their lessons, he will tell you it was all done by kindness, and not by the whip; but if one has a vicious horse or a kicking cow you may be sure the whip had all to do with it.—A Stockman.

Deep Ploughing.

The Kansas Farmer contains the following: "When we pulverize the soil deep the warm air, which is full of moisture, penetrates down and all through it, and the ground being cooler than the air, condenses the water into drops which answer in place of rain; so the deeper and the more we pulverize it the more moisture it will collect from the air. Not only that, but as warm air is rich in food for plants it serves in place of manure, too.

Thirty years ago there was a terrible drought in the east. Prof. Mapes a large market gardner, had had his ground underdrained and subsoiled, and his crops where he could, were cultivated with a subsoil plow. A committee went to see his place after nine weeks of drought and it found everything as flourishing as if there had been plenty of rain. His corn (it was the 3d of September) was estimated at ninety bushels to the acre, while on land cultivated in the usual way, near by, it was all burnt up. While I do not think deep plowing is everything, still I think deep and thorough pulverizing of our land will lessen the effects of a drought."

Good and Bad Roads.

Professor Sanborn, of the Missouri Agricultural College, points out the close relationship between miserably crooked, hilly and soft roads and the losses in farming, inclusive of the cruel wear and tear and premature decay of teams, breaking of vehicles, necessity of dragging slowly small jags into market, the value of which is largely absorbed by the expense of delivery. Contrast these discouraging conditions with those prevalent in much of Europe over whose solid thoroughfares immense loads are more easily carried, and it will readily be seen that the economic importance of good roads can hardly be placed too high:

"From the above tests the traffic that will warrant a $2,000 outlay per mile of unimproved roads may be approximately estimated. If by properly grading our hills and graveling our roadbeds we can double the freight carried per team, we could, on the basis of fifteen miles per day for a loaded term costing $3 per day, save the interest of this cost at 6 per cent. in the passage of 600 loaded teams one way."

But the commercial view is not the only one, nor, indeed, the most important. Good roads are as necessary to comfortable living as good houses, or good suits of clothes, or a thousand other things which our civilization demands, and which cannot be measured by money. As a medium of social fellowship and culture Macaulay did not overestimate their value when he said:

"Every improvement of the means of locomotion benefits man intellectually, materially, and not only facilitates the interchange of the various productions of Nature and Art, but tends to remove national and provincial antipathies. Of all inventions, the alphabet and printing press alone excepted, those inventions which bridge distance have done most for the civilization of our species."

But while it stands as a fact in history that the character of country roads is one of the most certain indications of the civilization of any people, there are persons who will be more influenced by an appeal to the pocket, and therefore we conclude with another excerpt from Professor Sanborn's pen bearing directly upon that phase of the important question:

"It may be safely said that the culture, power and wealth of our farmers may be more rapidly advanced in the future by good country roads than by an extension of our railroad system; that the value of our farms, the economy of their management and the character of our social farm life are now more dependent upon the character of our roads than upon any single factor, and that a strong organized public movement should be made for their permanent improvement. I invite special attention to the great expenditure of force required on poor roads for the accomplishment of a moderate amount of work; to the danger of over-loading on them while the appearance of the load indicates an easy demand on the horse; to the value of broad wheels for farm work, and to the commercial importance of better roads."

Don't be in a Hurry to Get Married.

Girls, don't be in a hurry to get married. If you are but sixteen, don't allow such an idea to get into your head for at least four years. Don't even run the risk of it by permitting any young man to get so far as the proposing point. Fight them off, and make them wait or go to somebody who is ready. Don't live under the impression that you must accept the first love-sick youth who proposes. Be patient, deliberate and sagacious. There is a world of happiness for you between sixteen and twenty. The world would be a dreary old world if it were not for the sweet faces of young girls with their piquant sayings and melting smiles.

After you have reached twenty, it would be well to consider the matrimonial problem with some seriousness. Then if you have learned to think and deliberate you will probably make a suitable selection, and marriage with a worthy man is not only a woman's privilege, but unless married too young, her best and highest development, mental and physical, can be attained in this state. Men and women were made for each other, and a very old but nevertheless true truism is that a happy marriage is the very Garden of Eden. An unhappy marriage is the reverse and the greatest of all calamities that can befall a pure, affectionate, and noble woman. Faith in God, and a strong resolve to do every duty, can alone keep such a one from absolute despair. Miss Braddon says: "A good woman who does not love her husband makes the best wife." If this is true it is because she is controlled by duty instead of the changing caprices of affection. "Trouble in the flesh" will come to every married couple. Why not accept it? The most wretched married people I have ever known were always quite willing and even anxious to see their children settled for life in marriage, knowing that they would find shelter and protection thereby, if not in the affection, at least by the law, which compels the husband to support his wife, a support perhaps meager enough and grudgingly bestowed. Look around on all your friends, married or single, and ask yourselves the question, which is the preferable lot. If you are strong enough to fight alone the battle of life, to earn your own bread and butter, you are just in the condition to gain the respect, at least, of a husband, and, having a hearty, genuine respect, admiration and love are not far distant. The truth is, dear girls, too many enter this holy condition, hoping to find it is only ease, adulation, and pleasure. Such persons will find the reverse of what they seek. Read Tennyson's Princess." Had not he the true conception of happiness in this condition?

A man must be bad, indeed, that can treat with disrespect a woman who respects herself. As a rule a good woman will make a good home—we know of exceptions to this, however. But if you have made up your minds to follow the bent of your own wills and pave a way for yourselves, you may do well; but to those who intend to enter the married state, should a good opportunity come to them, I have only to say, see to it that you individually understand what is required of you as a wife. Be willing to make concessions at any time if in the wrong, and, above all things, don't find fault with your husband before others.

The New Postage Law.

The Post Office Department has received inquiries from all quarters as to the new legislation in the Post Office Appropriation bill. It is not possible, on account of the changes made in conference, to ascertain what the changes as to postage were until the bill had been officially printed. A certified copy of the bill, furnishes by the State Department, has just been received from the Government Printer. The following are the important changes which will take effect, beginning with July 1, 1885:

1. The weight of all single rate letters is increased from one-half ounce each or fraction thereof to one ounce each or fraction thereof. The same increase of weight is allowed for drop-letters, whether mailed at stations where there is a free delivery or where carrier service is not established.

2. All newspapers sent from the office of publication, including sample copies, or when sent from a news agency to actual subscribers thereto, or to other news agents, shall be entitled to transmission at one cent per pound or fraction thereof, the postage to be prepaid. This is a reduction of one-half from existing rates.

3. Any article in a newspaper or other publication may be marked for observation, except by written or printed words, without increase of postage.

4. That a special stamp of the value of 10 cents may be issued, which when attached to a letter in addition to the lawful postage thereon, shall entitle the letter to immediate delivery at any place containing 4,000 population or over, according to the Federal census within the carrier limit of any free-delivery office, or within one mile of the post office, or any other post office coming within the provisions of this law, which may, in like manner, be designated as a special delivery office; that such specially-stamped letters shall be delivered between 7 o'clock a.m. and midnight; that a book shall be provided in which the person to whom the letter is addressed shall acknowledge its receipt; that messengers for this special delivery are to be paid 80 per cent. of the face value of all the stamps received and recorded in a month, provided that the aggregate compensation paid to any one person for such service shall not exceed $30 per month; and provided, further, that the regulations for the delivery of these specially-stamped letters shall in no way interfere with the prompt delivery of letters as provided by existing law and regulations.

These are all the provisions of the new law which make changes in relation to postage. The Government has doubled the weight which may be carried for 2 cents, has reduced the postage one-half on newspapers sent from publication offices, and has provided that a letter, for 10 cents additional, may be immediately delivered by special messenger at any time between 7 o'clock in the morning and midnight. The friends of this special-stamp feature expect that it will materially add to the revenue.

A Husband's Quandary.

From the Rockland Courier-Gazette.

"A scientific Frenchman says he has discovered a process for making artificial brains," said Mrs. Wigglesworth, looking up from the paper she was reading. "Artificial brains!" sniffed Mr. Wigglesworth, scornfully; that's just like those nonsensical Frenchmen, always fooling away their time making something artificial. What I want is real brains—none of your make-believe nonsense." Mrs. Wigglesworth, as she resumed her paper, demurely murmured that she had noticed it, too, but she never should have dared to speak of it herself. And Mr. Wigglesworth rubbed his head in a dazed sort of fashion, and wondered if he really had expressed himself just as he meant to.

A Preacher in Court.

In the early days of primitive Methodism, under the labors of one of our veteran missionaries, a notoriously bad character got converted. Quite in harmony with the custom of those times, he soon began preaching. On one occasion he had a large crowd of people gathered by the wayside, and to these he preached furiously. An officious policeman came up and took our friend into custody. The news spread like wildfire that old Tom was locked up for preaching. Had it been said that it was for poaching no one would have doubted it, but his preaching gave quite a different character to the affair. On the following morning the court was crowded to hear the trial. The charge was read over, and the prisoner asked what he had to say in reply. Now this man had been in that dock so often that he did not feel at all concerned; he seemed quite at home. Very quietly folding his arms, he addressed the magistrate to the following effect:

"Gentlemen, do you mean business?"

"Business! business! of course we do."

"Well, gentlemen, please excuse me; but if you mean business, allow me to say that of late a great change has come over me, and I never now commence any business without first praying about it; if you please, we'll pray."

He did not wait to know whether they pleased or not, but with all the fervor of a new convert poured out his soul in prayer. All in the court and on the magistrates' bench were deeply moved, and some to tears. But he prayed rather long, and, good as it was, they thought he might now close; so the presiding magistrate said in an undertone:

"That will do; just stop him."

The officer, shaking our friend's sleeve, said, "Stop;" but he prayed away. Pulling his sleeve yet more vigorously, he said, "Stop man, stop!" but he prayed with increasing fervor.

One of the magistrates saw one of our preachers in the body of the court, and calling to him said, "Mr. ——, you come and stop him." But our dear old brother enjoyed this novel prayer-meeting too much to be induced to stop it; so he replied loud enough for all to hear:

"Nay, nay, you've started him; I can't stop him."

However, our friend in the dock drew his devotions to a close, stood upon his feet, and, again folding his arms, said with becoming meekness:

"Now, gentlemen, if you please, I am quite ready for business."

The prisoner was ordered into the ante-room while the case was considered.

One of the magistrates, moved to tears, said:

"We have often had this man before us, but never under such circumstances. If this is a sample of the work achieved by the labors of the Primitive Methodists, I wish them success wherever they go."

"It did not take them long to decide that he had broken no law, and therefore they would very gladly acquit him.

"Well, gentlemen," said an officer of the court, "shall we call him in and say he is acquitted?"

"What? what! call him in! No, never, or you'll have him on his knees returning thanks. Let him go out at a side-door, but tell him he is fully at liberty to carry on his good work."—Exchange.

No Money in Base Ball.

"There is no money in base ball nowadays," said J. E. Allen, one of the Directors of the Providence Club, at the recent base ball meeting in this city. "The time was when a man who put his money into a club was quite sure of coming out more or less ahead, but that is past. When the National League had control of all the best players in the country a few years ago, and had no opposition, salaries were low, and a player who received $1,500 for his season's work did well. In 1881, when the American Association was organized in opposition to the League, the players' salaries at once began to go up, as each side tried to outbid the other. When the two organizations formed what is known as the National Agreement the clubs retained their players at the same salaries.

"Several other associations were then organized in different parts of the country and were admitted under the protection of the national agreement. This served to make good players, especially pitchers, scarce and forced salaries up still higher, until at the present time a first-class pitcher will not look at a manager for less than $3,500 for a season. Radbourne, of last year's Providence Club, received the largest amount of money that has ever been paid to a ball player. His wonderful pitching, which won the championship for the club, cost about $5,000, as he did the work of two pitchers and received the pay of two.

"Some of the salaries which base ball players will get next season are: O'Rourke, Gerhardt, Deasley, Ewing and Ward of the New York Club, $3,000 each. Mullane was to have played with the Cincinnati Club for $4,000. Dunlap has a contract with the new League Club of St. Louis for $3,400. These are only a few of the higher prices paid, while the number of men who get from $2,000 to $3,000 is large. At these prices a club with a team costing only from $15,000 to $20,000 is lucky, but it has not much chance of winning the championship. To this expense must be added the ground rent, the salaries of gate-keepers, and the traveling expenses, which will be about as much more.

"As a high-priced club, the New York Club leads, while the Metropolitans are nearly as expensive. The income of these two clubs last year was nearly $130,000, yet the Metropolitans lost money, and the New York Club was only a little ahead. The first year the Metropolitans were in the field their salary list was light, as were their traveling expenses, and at the end of the season they were over $50,000 ahead.—New York Sun.

An Artificial Lake.

A company has been organized to build an artificial lake at Northfield, Staten Island, to cover 1,000 acres of land and hold 10,000,000 gallons of water. Hundreds of brooks and springs will empty into the lake, and it will have ten miles of woodland for a water-shed. The dam will be 4,400 feet long and 12 feet high. It is proposed to convey drinking water to New Jersey by means of iron aqueducts laid across Staten Island Sound.—New York Journal.

There is a movement to remove the principal of the public school at Hailey, Idaho, because, among other things, he pronounces Indian "Injun," and plays billiards.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

MR. VANDERBILT, with a party of ten, is at Mobile, whence he will go to New Orleans.

GEORGE M. PULLMAN's subscriptions for the benefit of the New Orleans exposition amount to $5,000.

CHIEF JUSTICE WAITE, in Florida for a month, says that he is going to pass the time "as lazily as possible."

KING HUMBERT, of Italy, has undertaken the task of effecting a reconciliation between Plonplon Bonaparte and his wife.

MESSRS. FLOOD AND MACKAY will, it is said, erect two business blocks in San Francisco the coming summer to cost $1,500,000 each.

THE Princess Louise of England is modeling a statue in bronze of her royal mother, which is to be placed in the Lincoln cathedral.

SERGEANT MASON, who shot at Guiteau, is living quietly on his Virginia farm with Betty and the baby. His museum experience yielded him nearly $25,000 in cash.

A VERY pretty story is told of Victor Hugo, the little 4-year-old son of James Parton, the historian. One day last summer he was found in the garden kissing the rosebuds to make them open.

GUSTAVE DORE left about one hundred finished plates and innumerable sketches and studies for the illustration of Shakspeare. Dore spent about $60,000 on the work, which death cut short.

MISS ALGER, of Boston, says that in her experience as a visitor for the Associated Charities she finds no drunkenness among the Italians, and the greatest fastidiousness coupled with economy among the French.

WHILE Prof. Huxley is still withdrawn from all literary work by the order of his physician, his wife has written and his daughter has illustrated a charming work for children, thus keeping the book business in the family.

PRINCE METTERNICH has written the libretto and one of the Rothschilds the music of an operetta which is presently to be produced on the private stage at the prince's chateau of Konigswart, in Bohemia. The Princess Metternich and her daughters will be among the performers.

THE Marquis de Blacas, of France, after losing so heavily in the bankruptcy of the Union generale, went to Canada, locating near Toronto, and is now farming upon a large scale. His success has induced a number of other wealthy young Frenchmen to follow him, and they will sail for Canada early in March.

HENRY M. STANLEY is pushing to its completion the manuscript of a work on his African labors. The work will bear the title, "Congo, or the Founding of a State; a Story of Work and Exploration." It will consist of two good-sized volumes, and it is expected that the manuscript will be ready for the printer within a month.

IN Philadelphia the other day Mr. Moody said a lady told him she wanted to be a Christian, but not to give up the theater. "Did you ever hear me speak against the theater?" inquired the evangelist. "No; but if I become a Christian can I go to the theater?" said the penitent. "Yes," said Mr. Moody; "but you must give Christ the first place."

HENRY O'REILLY, the veteran historian and journalist, who edited The New York Patriot, which was Gov. De Witt Clinton's party organ in 1820, and who has written lots of local history, is still living in comfortable quarters at St. Mary's hospital in Rochester, not as an invalid, but for the benefit of what he calls "quiet and placid surroundings."

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL, on his road to Venice, which has just been given up to Italy by the Austrians stopped at Milan, where he was welcomed by the mayor and aldermen. He had been told that the mayor's name was Beretta, and his royal characteristic of an excellent memory enabled him to address the mayor by name. But he said: "Count Beretta, I am glad to shake hands with you." The mayor protested against the title, and said he came from a family of simple bourgeois. The king smiled and answered: "You know the old adage that a king can not err. I wish you good morning, count." The royal party resumed their journey, and two days later the mayor received a patent of nobility naming him a count. That was Victor Emmanuel's way of correcting mistakes.

A CURIOUS story of Mr. Hastings, the legitimate heir of the earl of Huntington, is told by an English paper. When a young man he met a pretty chambermaid named Betsy Warner, and, becoming enamored of her, vowed to marry her if ever he got possession of the family living. Thirty years passed by. Mr. Hastings forgot his early love, married, lost his wife, and finally gained as a second living that he had always desired. One day the venerable old pastor was astonished by the arrival of Miss Warner, who calmly told him she came to claim the fulfillment of his promise, as she had never swerved from her engagement. The result was that the reverend gentleman, finding upon inquiry that his betrothed's conduct had been exemplary, consented, published the banns himself in his own church, and married his early love.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Operations Under Certain Classes of Entries of Land in the Northwest and Elsewhere Suspended.

The commissioner of the general land office has ordered that final action in the land office upon all entries of the public lands except private cash entries, and such scrip locations as are not dependent upon acts of settlement and cultivation be suspended in the following localities: All lands west of the first guide meridian, Kansas; all west of range 17 west, in Nebraska; the whole of Colorado, except lands in the Ute reservation, all lands in New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada, and that portion of Minnesota north of the indemnity limits of the Northern Pacific railroad and east of the indemnity limits of the Chicago Minnesota & Manitoba railroad. Final action in the land office is also ordered to be suspended upon all timber culture entries under the act of June 8, 1878, which have not already been examined; also in all cases of desert land entries.

There have been a good many charges of fraud made at Washington and throughout the country in regard to pine and other land entries. Minnesota had its share thereof during the past two or three years, as all will remember. Corporations and private syndicates have been charged with hiring men to make pre-emption entries and then transfer their claims to the former. It is doubtless true that this plan has been practiced to a considerable extent and the government and honest settlers defrauded. To prevent further fraud of this nature, is presumably the object of the order. Its effect will be to prevent final proving up on all pre-emption, homestead and timber culture entries—in fact on all entries on public land except where land has been offered for sale, in which latter case one may purchase by private cash sales, but only in this manner. Scrip locations are also excepted. The object is probably to allow the commission to investigate the numerous charges of fraud and refuse to allow final proving up in cases where fraudulent intent is evident. It can work no hardship to the actual settler, as it will only defer his time for final proving up, and it is not likely that the government will throw any hindrance in the way of one who is proved to be an actual settler. The order affects but little land in Minnesota, only that between the eighth and tenth correction lines and the fourth and fifth meridians—the strip from Lake Superior west to Red Lake reservation. A large portion of this, also, will not be affected, as it is not yet surveyed.

The Fight Between Riel's Forces and the Police.

A correspondent learns the following concerning the fight between Riel's forces and the police and citizen soldiers on Thursday, March 26. The story is direct from half-breeds who were present. Learning that the force was en route for Duck Lake, mounted half-breeds, twenty in number started to reconnoiter. They met a force of 100 men police and citizens in sleighs, and the half-breeds scattered. Crozier, in command of the police, thought an effort was being made to surround him and ordered his men to fire. Seeing half-breeds falling dead at the first fire, his followers returned the shots with much execution. The fight was short but hot. The half-breed, who tells the story, counted thirteen dead on the field. When the police returned the route to Fort Carlton was traced with blood. The half-breeds lost four killed, and one Indian not in the fight was accidentally shot. Another story of the half-breeds' side of the fight is told. T. W. Jackson, member of the territorial council, says Gabriel Dumas, one of Riel's lieutenants, told him Crozier was coming to take supplies from Duck Lake. Dumas took thirty mounted men armed with Remingtons and met Crozier's force a few miles from the spot where the trail enters a coolie and bluffs. Both parties stopped. The half-breeds were ordered to scatter in the bush, in order that they might not be so much exposed. Crozier thought a surround was attempted, and fired first. The half-breeds lost four killed and two wounded. Crozier had thirteen killed, who, according to the last story, were left on the field. Both half-breeds above interviewed assert that Riel's orders are never to fire first.

Central American Complications.

Gen. T. B. Bunting of New York, who some years ago held a prominent position in the army of Guatemala, has just received a letter from an American gentleman living in Guatemala, which throws much light on the Central American complications. The letter which is dated Guatemala, March 12, after speaking of Barrios' announcement of his designto consolidate the five republics, says:

As Salvador now sends ambassadors to discuss, and perhaps to arrange matters to make common cause, Barrios has deferred offensive operations. Still, not to be taken unawares, he has dispatched (as they say) 10,000 troops to the frontier. I think the number may be exagerated, but troops are leaving every day, and a large amount of ammunition, equipments, etc., is being sent forward. Volunteers come pouring in from all quarters, without the necessity of "returning the fees," for this man has, as he alone can do, imparted his magnetism to the people. Many foreigners are offering their services, and things are being pushed with a vigor and energy that leaves doubt of a speedy and glorious termination of the conflict. Barrios sees all, understands all, orders all. With a memory that staggers at nothing, a perception as quick as lightning, a mental scope taking in everything at a glance, personal bravery amounting to temerity, a cool head that never loses its judgment, and an energy that knows no failing, he compels success, and will, before many months roll around, make of this weak, disintegrated country a solid, strong, prosperous republic.

Tree Claims and Roads.

A correspondent at Redwood Falls asks if a man who has lived on a tree claim with his family six or seven years, and has planted all the trees required of him, can properly sign a petition for the laying out of a new town road without waiting until he has made final proof of his claim. The statute (chap. 13, sec. 33), requires that a petitioner for the laying out or altering of a town road shall be a legal voter and must own real estate "or occupy real estate under the homestead or pre-emption laws of the United States, or under contract with the State of Minnesota" within one mile of the proposed roadway. Legal advice obtained upon the subject is to the effect that as tree claims are not mentioned by the law, an occupant of such a claim, unless he has come into full possession thereof by proving up, is not properly a signer to a roadway petition—that is his signature should have no weight.

Dakota Railway Commission.

The Dakota railway commission, composed of Capt. W. H. McVay of Yankton, Col. W. M. Evans of Milbank, and Capt. Alex Griggs of Grand Forks, met at Fargo, and organized. Judge I. E. West of Fargo, was elected secretary to the commission. The permanent location of the office of the commission was not settled. The territory was divided as follows:

Northern—In charge of Capt. Griggs; all north of Ortonville, including the Northern Pacific, the Manitoba and the Fargo Southern railway systems. Central Dakota—In charge of Col. Evans; all south of the above field and extending as far south as Wolsey on the main line of the Chicago & Northwestern railway. Southern Dakota—Under Capt. McVay; all south of the latter division.

Dress Points for Men.

Frock coats are rolled lower than last season and close with four buttons. The cuffs are four and a half inches deep and close with two buttons. The fashionable length for a person five feet eight inches tall, is 18¼ inches entire length. The lapels are faced with silk, and the edges are bound flat with braid from eight to ten lines wide.

Pantaloons are cut larger in the leg, the fashionable size now being 18 inch knee and 17½ inches at the bottom, with a slight spring over the foot. The seams are made up plain, and pockets in front are losing caste with tasty dressers. Two watch pockets of liberal size are in the waist seam in front while two hip or pistol pockets are all that are allowed in fashionable pantaloons.

Vests are made to roll lower, according to the character of the coat they are worn with, and close with five and six buttons. The points at the bottom are cut away slightly. It is reported that the double breasted vest is coming into use, and by the arrival of next winter will be in "full blast."

Miss Georgia A. Hunt was married in the church of the Epiphany in Washington, to Mr. W. A. Murphy, a Newark, N. J., manufacturer. The bride is a daughter of Col. T. B. Hunt, of the army. Miss Hunt was born in Minnesota while her father, then in active service, was stationed at Fort Snelling.

Phil Sheridan on Gen. Grant.

The Philadelphia Ledger prints, by permission, the substance of some remarks during a conversation by Gen. Sheridan at a dinner party in Washington recently. The article quotes Gen. Sheridan as saying:

It is sad to think of Gen. Grant dying under such physical torture as is inflicted by this terrible disease and under such mental anguish as I know he endures in consequence of the unfortunate business failure that overwhelmed him and his family. I could never comprehend why the old man (all soldiers call Gen. Grant the old man,) went into business, and particularly why he set himself up in Wall street. From the time he imbibed this business notion I have always felt that Gen. Grant was off his base, and that he had lost that abundance of caution that has always characterized all his movements. I have listened to him talk about making money in perfect amazement. He imagined he had a talent for making money, and that his sons all possessed this talent to a remarkable degree. He seemed never to tire of talking about this when we were so situated as to be free from interruption, and when we could talk with freedom of bygone days. Now I know that Gen. Grant did not possess the talent or genius for making money. His nature is too generous and confiding for that. His talent in connection with money was in an opposite direction and caused him to get rid of money in a very short time. He could never keep money before he set up in Wall street, and you all know he is a very bright fellow who can keep money after he gets there. What most surprised me, however, was that he should talk so much about this newly discovered talent. He talked persistently, and he could talk well when he talked of accumulating money. As I noticed his earnestness of manner, I sometimes thought that I understood him in this particular. Still, I could not entirely divest myself of the apprehension I felt on his account and his very persistency and earnestness added to my fears. Why, I never knew Grant to talk about the great abilities which he did possess and which the world recognized. No one ever heard him talk about his great military talents or boast about his splendid achievements in the field, and yet Grant knew that he had extraordinary abilities in this direction, because his movements were brilliant and the success that attended them showed him this. Indeed, Gen. Grant had greater talent for conducting campaigns and fighting armies than he was really aware of. Nobody, however, ever heard him talk about what he possessed in this direction and the simple fact that he descanted so freely to me on his money making talents started a suspicion in my mind that his previously strong mental forces were breaking up and that he was rapidly moving away from his previous well-established lines of prudence and safety.

Later in the evening returning to Gen. Grant he spoke of the reluctance with which Gen. Grant left the army to become president.

You have seen the statements to the effect that the "old man" laid plans to secure the nomination for the presidency in '68. There is no foundation for such statements. And I know whereof I speak. I know that his feelings and desires were at that time touching his future. He wanted, above all things, to remain with the army he loved, and whose idol he is still, and had had no ambition to be president. He doubted his ability to discharge the duties of president, but above all, he had no taste or inclination for civil office.

The Washington Star publishes an interview with J. A. J. Creswell, in Gen. Grant's cabinet as postmaster general over five years. After speaking of the general's fondness of his family, evenness of temper, the unflinching discharge of his official duties, and his great courage, Mr. Creswell said:

I asked Grant once, if, when giving orders for an engagement he was not appalled by the great loss of life which would ensue. He replied: "No. It was war, but I realized what it meant. I never gave such orders until I was satisfied it was the best course to pursue, and then I was willing to shoulder the responsibility." He added many men failed as commanders simply because of the unwillingness to assume this responsibility. He spoke of two men who were fearless in this respect, Sherman and Sheridan. The latter in particular, he thought was possessed of ample courage to do what seemed best, and be responsible for the outcome. It wasn't rashness and heedlessness, but fearlessness in assuming responsibility for the results." Grant did not desire to be president a third term for any glory or reputation, but his sole object was to reconcile the North and South, and I think he would have done it thoroughly. The solid South would have been a thing of the past.

General Grant's Condition Last Week.

Rev. Dr. Newman and Dr. Shrady left Gen. Grant's house on the morning of the 3d inst: "The general has just waked up," said the former. "He slept peacefully for several hours, awakening only at intervals for a little nourishment. The first thing he said this morning was 'I am thirsty,' and the doctors moistened his throat."

Dr. Shrady seemed in light spirits as he buttoned his coat about him and stepped down toward the park for a little morning air. To your correspondent he said:

"The change in Gen. Grant this morning is simply wonderful. He has had a good sleep, taken his nourishment, and is again resting quietly."

"Does his mind seem bright?" was asked.

"Bright as a button," was the response. "He seemed often to anticipate our own suggestions, and his replies are always quick and to the point."

"Has he been able to rest on his couch?"

"No; he rested in his reclining chair, which has been made as comfortable as possible, and is much better for him than the bed. It permits him to change his position easily, and at the same time supports his head in a way to prevent any accumulation in his throat."

"How do you account for the change this morning?"

"No one can tell. When we look back and think that his condition was such on yesterday morning that, at the closest calculation, a delay of five minutes in the hypodermic injection of brandy, which was given him, would have caused his death, the change this morning is SIMPLY REMARKABLE."

On Saturday morning, Dr. Shrady said: "There is one point about Gen. Grant's trouble," said he, "that has not yet been brought out. The cancer itself has not yet sufficiently developed to put a man in ordinary health in so dangerous a condition. If the general's constitution were only as strong as the average man he would be good for six months yet at least. The severe mental and physical shocks he has had the past year or so are the things that are telling against him at this juncture. His frame has been completely shattered by them. For all that, I regard his rallies, and especially that of to-day, as simply marvelous, and almost beyond belief. There was one time Wednesday morning when I thought another five minutes would finish him. To-night he is better than he has been in a week. For all that, however, he may sink away rapidly, and be dead within the next hour."

Murders in Dakota.

At Clifford, Dak., recently, in a saloon row between M. Plummer and Peter Daily, the former was shot dead. The constable took Daily to Caledonia.

Pierre, Dak., Special Telegram: Startling developments were made in the Bell-Small murder case. Bennett, the accomplice of Bell, has turned state's evidence, and on information given by him the body of Small was found buried in a piece of newly-plowed ground about four miles from Harold and two miles from Blunt. The sod had been first removed, a shallow hole dug and carefully replaced to avoid discovery. The body of Small wrapped in a blanket and covered with the blood-stained overcoat of the murderer. It was in a good state of preservation. The murder was committed with a hatchet, the skull being broken at a number of places and the neck gashed in a horrible manner. The excitement is great, and the lynching of Bell is excitedly discussed by the crowds forming on the streets.

F. S. Small, the victim of this murder, was last fall a candidate for prosecuting attorney of Hughes county, Dak. Several months ago he mysteriously disappeared. No light was thrown upon the matter until the 20th of last month, when J. H. Bell was arrested by the sheriff and taken to Pierre for examination.

Last Week's Failures.

There were 225 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the week, against 219 in the preceding week and 143, 190 and 119 in the corresponding weeks of 1884, 1883 and 1882 respectively. About 85 per cent were those of small traders whose capital was less than $5,000. Among those reported embarrassed were:

The Exchange National bank and the Franklin Savings bank of Norfolk, Va.; Bain Bros. bankers, Portsmouth, Va.; Ely, Hunsberger & Ely, dry goods, Philadelphia; Alfred Goodwell, Minden, La.; Palmer, Mass., Wire company.

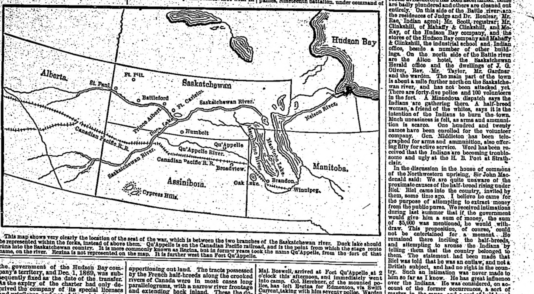
Lindaly Muse, doorkeeper for the secretary of the navy, has served in that capacity for fifty seven years.

THE CANADIAN UPRISING.

That the Indians as Well as the Half-Breeds Are Now on the War Path Is an Undeniable Fact.

Causes of the Pending Trouble.

In order to understand fully the circumstances which have led up to the insurrection in the Saskatchewan country it is necessary to go back to the uprising in Manitoba in 1869, known as the Red river rebellion, and the causes which led to that outbreak. The Red river rebellion was incident to the transfer by the Hudson's Bay company of its territory to the dominion government. For nearly two hundred years this great fur-trading company had not only enjoyed the exclusive right to the entire trade and traffic of the immense possessions granted by King Charles II. to Prince Rupert and his seventeen associates, but had made laws for and governed the territory, having complete lordship thereof, with full legislative, judicial and executive powers. The last renewal of the charter expired in 1859, and after that it was never renewed again, the company having no special advantages beyond its tried and splendid organization. In 1867 the act of parliament creating the Dominion of Canada contemplated the acquisition by the government of the Hudson Bay company's territory, and Dec. 1, 1869, was subsequently fixed as the date of the transfer. As the expiry of the charter had only deprived the company of its special licenses and privileges, and not of its original territory, it was necessary for the government to purchase the territory. The price agreed upon was £300,000, which looks like a very small sum in view of the immensity of the possessions involved. These proceedings awakened alarm in the hearts of the French half-breed settlers whose rude houses lined the banks of the Red and Assinaboine rivers. These people were mainly the descendants of the early traders, trappers and employes of the Hudson's Bay company. They were in the main an untutored people, except for such instruction as they received from their priests. Each head of family had his little strip of land which he cultivated, and the dwellings of the people were principally log huts. The titles under which they held their lands had been obtained from the Hudson's Bay company, where they had titles, but in many cases it would probably have been difficult to establish any legal or valid claim to the land. However, for years they had remained in undisturbed possession of the property on which they had built their cabins, and felt perfectly secure in the possession thereof. Their state had been the Hudson's Bay company. The rule of the company had been in the main mild and beneficent; and, although there had been occasional complaints against the company for arbitrariness in connection with trading—for it fixed its own prices, and hunters and traders were compelled to accept them or nothing—the people were generally well content with their lot. The proposed transfer of the company's possession gave promise of an entirely new and untried condition of things.



This map shows very clearly the location of the seat of the war, which is between the two branches of the Saskatchewan river. Duck lake should be represented within the forks, instead of above them. Qu'Appelle is on the Canadian Pacific railroad, and is the point from which the stage route runs into the Saskatchewan country. It is more commonly known as Regina, but in former years took the name Qu'Appelle, from the fort of that name, on the river. Rezina is not represented on the map. It is further west than Fort Qu'Appelle.

THE CAUSE OF ALARM.

The settlers felt insecure in their possessions and in regard to their civil rights. The course of the British government in placing them under the dominion of the Canadian government seemed to them arbitrary. Their voice had not been heard in the matter. They knew not what to expect. There was much murmuring, and as the time approached, when the transfer was to be consummated, the settlers of the Assinaboine and Red River districts began to organize, with Louis Riel at their head. They drew up a bill of rights in which they put forth, among other demands, the following:

First, the right to elect their own legislature; second, this legislature to have power to pass all laws of a local nature by a two-thirds vote over the veto of the executive; third, a free homestead and pre-emption law, similar to that of the United States; fourth, a portion of the public land to be donated to the support of schools and construction of roads and bridges; fifth, treaties with the Indian tribes calculated to secure peace in the future.

William McDougall, who had been appointed as governor of the newly organized territory, arrived there in October. He found the roads in possession of the insurgents, and was driven from the country with his suite, and for some time lived in camp near Pembina, on this side of the line. This was the first act of war on the part of the rebels. They immediately obtained possession of all the posts and forts, and were the masters of the country. A provisional government was organized at Fort Garry, with John Brousse as president, Louis Riel commander-in-chief of the armies, and the young priest and patriot O'Donoghue was virtually secretary of state and secretary of war. The governor surrounded himself with twenty-four counselors, twelve selected from among the French half-breeds and twelve from among the English and Scotch element. The capture of Fort Garry had been easily accomplished and without bloodshed. In the meantime Gov. McDougall had attempted to interest the Indians in his cause, and made some futile attempts to gain possession of his province. A counter-revolution was also attempted by the Loyalists and one James Scott was shot by order of Riel. The council of the provisional government was not always harmonious, the Scotch and English elements coming into occasional conflict with the French, and at times there seemed to be danger that the government would peter out altogether. It retained possession, however, all through the winter, spring and summer of 1870, until Sir Garnet Wolseley's arrival with British troops.

RIEL ABDICATES.

Instead of holding their ground, Riel and his compatriots fled from Fort Garry and crossed the United States line, leaving their guns and ammunition behind them. Sir Garnet, on the 24th of August, took peaceable possession of the Fort and issued his famous orders. Riel was afterward banished for five years. Such was the Red river rebellion of 1869-70. It was practically a war without bloodshed, and contemporary history relates many acts of clemency and kindness on the part of the rebel leader, who did not seem disposed at any time to pursue a sanguinary policy. He has been severely criticised by friends of the movement for his course in vacating the country when he had practically everything in his own hands. General sentiment, however, is inclined to approve of his course as a very prudent one. In 1871 there was an attempt to renew the rebellion, but it speedily collapsed. In this campaign there were interested a company of about seventy-five Fenians under Gen. O'Neil. These camped in the woods near Pembina, and captured the British post opposite that place. An officer who was with this expedition claimed that the enterprise failed through the treachery of Riel.

The actual transfer of the Hudson Bay possessions had been delayed by the rebellion, and did not actually take place until July 15, 1870. Mr. Archibald, the lieutenant governor of the new Canadian province, arrived Sept. 3. After this commissions were appointed on behalf of the British government and the inhabitants of Manitoba to arrange the difficulties existing and to arrive at an equitable adjustment of affairs in the province. In this conference Bishop Tache participated, representing the people of the province. At the time he was attending the ecumenical council sitting in Rome, and came home to attend to his duties in this connection in response to a telegram from the British government. He always had great influence with the people. From the fact that he declines to act as a mediator in the present crisis, it is surmised that he did not consider himself well treated in connection with the previous negotiations. What was known as the Manitoba act was passed by parliament this same year. By this act many of the privileges asked by the rebels were granted to the inhabitants of the country, and they have since lived under a representative form of government. The population of all Manitoba at that time was about 14,000, the proportion of whites to half-breeds being about one to seven or eight. An agrarian feature of the Manitoba act is what has led to the present difficulty. As intimated above, the titles of half-breeds to their lands were not very distinct, and many of the people were doubtless squatters. By the Manitoba act there were 1,400,000 acres of land set apart for half-breed infants; subsequent grants were made of land and scrip to the half-breed heads of families. Afterwards came an order dividing up the 1,400,000 of land, so as to grant to each half-breed child born prior to July 1, 1870, a parcel of 240 acres free.

APPORTIONING THE LAND.

There were many difficulties met with in apportioning out land. The tracts possessed by the French half-breeds along the crooked rivers of Canada were in most cases long parallelograms, with a narrow river frontage and extending back inland. These the dominion surveyors were obliged to cut up and divide up in a manner that seemed utterly reckless to the poor half-breeds, and there were many protests and threats. Then there had been delays and more or less dissatisfaction from the beginning. On the other hand the law of apportionment was appreciated to such an extent that half-breed infants came to be at a premium, and it is even said that children were transferred from one family to another in order to obtain land. Next, lands were placed in chancery until the children should have come of age, with the special stipulation that they should be considered to have attained their majority at eighteen. In many cases, however, the money realize by the sale of lands was not placed in the care of the court, but orders were even given that the money should be given to the care of parish priests or the heads of families. Lands were also taken out of chancery and sold out rapidly, and land sharks were about making all they could by taking advantage of the peculiar feature of the infant provision. The half-breeds themselves were an easy going people, and the lands and scrip granted to heads of families were in many cases squandered. Doubtless there were numerous abuses of this kind, but the law was generally acceptable to the half-breeds of Manitoba, and they took full advantage of it. Now, beyond the confines of Manitoba, in the Northwest Territory, lay a few half-breed sections, for the inhabitants of which no provision was made in the Manitoba act. As a matter of fact, the inhabitants of these places did not demand an apportionment of land at the time. The St. Laurent district, the seat of the present uprising, was among these sections.

THE AGITATION AT ST. LAURENT.

About ten years ago, however, the settlers of this district began to wake up to the fact that they should receive some consideration, and asked to be placed on the same footing with regard to homesteads and lands as the half-breeds of Manitoba. Later dominion surveyors were sent into the country to lay out the lands. Here the same difficulty was met as in the Red and Assinaboine river districts. The half-breeds, according to their French custom, had laid out their farms in parallelograms along the banks of the Saskatchewan and its branches, and the surveyors were of course compelled to destroy this arrangement. The people earnestly protested. They also renewed their claims for grants of 240 acres per capita, and from that time to this the agitation has been kept up. Various complications have arisen in the meantime, and complaints have been made of delays and arbitrary acts on the part of the government. Riel was again called upon for counsel and advice. He was visited in Montana, where he has been living, by a deputation of the half-breeds, and in response to their appeal went into the St. Laurent country. The half-breeds, in the meantime, had laid their grievances before the dominion parliament at Ottawa. Last September they held a meeting at St. Laurent, at which they adopted a bill of rights, of which the following is the substance:

First, the subdivision into provinces of the Northwest territories; second, the half-breeds to receive the same grants and other advantages as the Manitoba half-breeds; third, patents to be issued at once to the colonists in possession; fourth, the sale of half a million acres of dominion lands, the proceeds to be applied to the establishment in the half-breed settlements of schools, hospitals and such-like institutions, and to the equipment of the poorer half-breeds with seed grain and implements; fifth, the reservation of 100 townships of swamp land for distribution among the children of half-breeds during the next 120 years; sixth, a grant of at least $1,000 for the maintenance of an institution to be conducted by the nuns in each half-breed settlement; and seventh, better provision for the support of the Indians.

The last item, it is said, was inserted by Riel in order to please Poundmaker, an Indian chief who has made common cause with the half-breeds. The bill of rights apparently asks for a good deal more than the rebels have any idea of obtaining, but it is said that Monsignor Grandin, the Roman Catholic bishop of that region, and most of the English-speaking settlers are in favor of it. Since Riel's presence in the Saskatchewan country he has been actively at the head of the movement for rights, and under his leadership the forces have organized and the present rebellion has been engineered. The events of the conflict are still fresh in the memory of all.

THE PRESENT REBELLION.

The rebellion war started in the early part of last week. At first the dominion government professed to consider the insurrection as of no importance, but the cutting of the telegraph lines and the threatening uprising of the Indians all through the Saskatchewan territory as well as the imminent danger in which the Canadian Pacific railroad is placed has thoroughly aroused them, and troops are being rapidly hurried to the front by special trains as fast as they can be prepared to take the field. The exact strength of Riel's forces is not known. It is said to be composed of 500 to 1,500 men, armed with Remington and Winchester rifles, and Gen. Middleton who is to command the government troops declines to advance to the front with less than 1,500 men. The first troops left Winnipeg for the scene of the rebellion on Thursday of last week. They comprised six companies of the Nineteenth battalion, in all 270 men; to these are to be added the regular mounted police already on the ground, and several military companies organized by the settlers residing in the section where the rebellion is in progress. The troops, however, are at Qu'Appelle, waiting for reinforcements. The first regular battle between the rebels and the police took place last Thursday afternoon. Ten civilians of Prince Albert and two policemen were killed and four civilians and seven constables wounded. The rebel loss was fifteen killed. A second fight at Duck lake, on Friday, resulted in the killing and wounding of thirteen policemen and volunteers and the death of forty rebels. Fort Carleton was also destroyed on the 27th by Col. Irvine, of the police force, to prevent its falling into the hands of the rebels. Volunteers are being called for by the government, and are responding in large numbers. As fast as equipped they are being pushed to the front, and 500 men at least will be ready to leave Winnipeg for the scene of war in a few days.

THE INDIANS AT BATTLEFORD.

Winnipeg Special: The following was received this morning:

Battleford, March 31.—All residents in town and settlers in the neighborhood have moved their families into the barracks. Several hundred Indians came down from Poundmaker's reserve yesterday, raiding farmers' houses on their way, and are now in possession of the Methodist school, helping themselves to what they want. They profess peace, but their actions belie their words. Three police and ten Prince Albert volunteers and as many mounted, and forty-one rebels are known to be killed. The Indians who are on the south side of Battle river want the Indian agent to go there and see them, but he will only consent to a conference with the chiefs on middle grounds. The Crees and Stonees of the Eagle hills refuse to join in the disturbance.

The following was received at Qu'Appelle at 11 o'clock to-day:

Members of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth companies, Nineteenth battalion, under command of Maj. Boswell, arrived at Fort Qu'Appelle at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and immediately went into camp. Col. Herchner, of the mounted police, has left Regina for Edmonton, via Swift Current, taking with him seventy police. Warden Bedson intends to arm all his teamsters, and has sent for 240 Peabody rifles and ammunition. A company of eighteen scouts, organized and commanded by Capt. Julius French, did good service in the march to the fort.

A company of thirty scouts, under command of Frank Oslor and George W. R. White, is being organized here to patrol the country along the international boundary to prevent supplies and arms being sent in from the states; also to report any movement on the part of the American Indians toward joining with the Canadian redskins. All the land guides employed by the company are to be mounted. Gen. Middleton approves of the scheme.

THE NORTHWESTERN INDIANS.

There are 35,000 Indians—Crees, Blackfeet, a few Sioux renegades, fewer Beavers and Assinaboines—in the three districts named above, and of these 5,000 are armed fighting men. How many of the 5,000 will join in an outbreak, if there is an outbreak, is a question the government is anxious to have answered. Probably half; but as they are scattered all over a most difficult country which they know thoroughly and the troops don't, it may prove a repetition of the costly and vexatious Chief Joseph and Sitting Bull pursuits, with the woful difference that the Indians, retreating or advancing, can strike undefended settlements where they can hold a holiday of rapine, murder and destruction. This, of course, is the gloomy side of the picture. It is one the government is regarding as possible, but hoping improbable. If the Indians do not pursue the outbreaks made, the destruction of the Riel insurgents is a question of comparatively short time. They will fight, because those captured are most likely to fell the halter draw. This city, as it has been for nearly a fortnight, is in the throes of an excitement which hotelkeepers say reminds them of the boom times, only more so.

BATTLEFORD CAPTURED.

At a meeting of citizens at Winnipeg Monday night the following authentic telegram from Battleford was read:

Battleford has been captured by Indians, who have possession of every house in the place. The settlers escaped to the barracks, where they are now awaiting an attack of the Indians, who are gathered on the south side of the river. All are well armed. A fight will certainly take place before morning.

The meeting of the citizens referred to was held to advise means for home protection. Attorney General Hamilton has received a number of threatening letters from alleged Fenians. The provincial legislature has adjourned for a week. In view of Fenian reports, the meeting to-night sent a dispatch to Ottawa for arms and ammunition, for 500 men who will be secured in Winnipeg. The police force will be enlarged, and will be additionally armed. This Fenian report must be taken with salt. Consul Taylor is keeping Washington advised. Middleton has asked for 2,000 more troops. Indian scouts are engaged. Forty-seven rebels are said to have been killed in the fight at Duck lake, and many were wounded and taken prisoners.

THE INDIANS RISING.

A rebel emissary, who has been traveling around amongst the Indian reserves on the Saskatchewan, inciting a rising, has been arrested, and is now in custody at Fort Pitt. News has been received of a concentration of Crees at Poundmaker's reserve, and it is feared that Indians are now about starting on the war path. A delegation is on its way to Battleford to make demands.

The police have decided to abandon Battleford, Duck Lake and Carlton as posts, and concentrate their forces at Prince Albert. Riel's forces have been greatly augmented. He has 1,500 half-breeds, and is being joined by Chief Beardy. Indians are rising in many places, and it is believed it will be general.

CARLTON ABANDONED.

WINNIPEG, Special, March 29.—An official dispatch was received from Col. Irvine at Prince Albert via Battleford, announcing that he had destroyed stores and telegraph at Fort Carlton and fallen back upon Prince Albert, forty miles northeast. Another dispatch announced that Fort Carlton was burned to the ground on the 27th. The dispatch did not state whether Col. Irvine burned the fort when leaving it, or whether the fire was the work of the rebels, but it is thought Col. Irvine was responsible for its destruction. It is understood he was forced to fall back upon Prince Albert in consequence of supplies giving out at Carlton. Prince Albert is a more defensible point, and the citizens will be relieved by the presence of 250 police in their midst. This is accommodation for the police in Prince Albert. Fort Carlton was situated on the south bank of the North Saskatchewan in a hollow, and was built with a view of protection from the weather rather than for defense from Indians, as it was a wooden structure.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

A Battleford dispatch received to-day says: "A scout just arrived gives particulars of the engagement at Duck lake Thursday, between police and volunteers with the rebels. The half-breeds greatly outnumbered the soldiers, there being only seventy-five of the latter, who were on their way to Duck Lake, and were met by a flag of truce, and while a parley was going on the rebels opened fire from positions on both sides of the trail. An exciting battle followed, in which at least forty rebels were killed, besides which as many more were wounded, and four taken prisoners. The cannon did good service in intimidating the enemy, and if it had not been for that circumstance the loss of life would have been much greater among the police and volunteers.

THE NORTHWEST REBELLION.

Murders by Riel's Men.

A dispatch from Winnipeg says: Dispatches from Battleford indicate that the Indians kept up an uproar all night in town, performing a war dance and burning houses, which they first sacked. They waylaid settlers coming to town to take refuge in the barracks, and, after robbing them, they sacked the wagons and carried off all the provisions and stock which they were bringing in for use during the probable siege. Not content with this, the bloodthirsty redskins proceeded to a ranch, a short distance south of Battleford, burned the house and stables and murdered the proprietor, whose name could not be learned. Returning to town they murdered James Payne, George E. Apgarth and others whose names could not be learned. There is considerable excitement here over the Fenian scare. A meeting of Fenians was held at Pembina, when some organization took place. Word was sent from Washington to the commandant of the fort to co-operate with the Canadians to prevent depredation. Riel has emissaries traveling through Southern Manitoba inciting half-breeds and Indians to join with him in the insurrection. The new battalion formed here has orders to proceed to the front at once. The Saskatchewan is opening. Perparations are being made to utilize the river for the transport of troops and supplies to the front.

Winnipeg and Qu'Appelle, Specials: The full extent of the ravages committed by the rebels at Battleford has been ascertained. Some are badly plundered and others are cleaned out entirely. On this side of the Battle river are the residences of Judge and Dr. Roulear, Mr. Rae, Indian agent; Mr. Scott, registrar; Mr. Clinkshill, of Mahaffy & Clinkshill, and McKay, of the Hudson Bay company, and the stores of the Hudson Bay company and Mahaffy & Clinkshill, the industrial school and Indian office, beside a number of other buildings. On the north side of the Battle river are the Alton hotel, the Saskatchewan Herald office and the dwellings of J. G. Oliver, Rev. Mr. Taylor, Mr. Gardner and the warden. The main part of the town is about a mile further north on the Saskatchewan river, and has not been attacked yet. There are forty-five police and 100 volunteers in the fort. A Minnedosa dispatch says the Indians are gathering there. A half-breed woman, a friend of the whites, says it is the intention of the Indians to burn the town. Much uneasiness is felt, as arms and ammunition is scarce. One hundred and twenty names have been enrolled for the volunteer company. Gen. Middleton has been telegraphed for arms and ammunition, also offering fifty for active service. Word has been received that the Indians are becoming troublesome and ugly at the H. B. Post at Strathclair.

In the discussion in the house of commons of the Northwestern uprising, Sir John Macdonald said: We are quite unaware of the proximate causes of the half-breed rising under Riel. Riel came into the country, invited by them, some time ago. I believe he came for the purpose of attempting to extract money from the public purse. We received intimations during last summer that if the government would give him a sum of money, the sum of $5,000 was mentioned, he would withdraw. This proposition, of course, could not be entertained for a moment. He remained there inciting the half-breeds, and attempting to arouse the Indians by telling them that the country belonged to them. The statement had been made that Riel was told that he was an outlaw, and not a British subject, and had no right in the country. Such an intimation was never made to him so far as I know. He has great influence over the Indians. He was considered, on account of the former occurrences, a sort of martyr in the cause, and a sort of half-breed Mahdi, and looked up to with superstitious regard. He acts upon this feeling of these poor people. I do not believe that there is the slightest danger from the half-breeds unless they should be joined by the Indians. If the Indians are brought into the field no one can foresee what the consequences may be. I am glad to be able to state to the house that our information goes to show that the Indians are quite quiet and there is no danger of their joining with the half-breeds. There are one or two Indians whom we know pretty well, and who are troublesome, but whom I do not think it well to name here. There is one Indian whom the member for Bothwell would know if I mention his name. I asked about this Indian, and was told he was mere bluster and tobacco. There is no fear about him. The most influential Indian in the Northwest is Crowfoot, who is at the head of the Blackfeet. He is a most remarkable and able man, and about his loyalty and fidelity there is every assurance. I am quite sure this is the case. And to so great an extent is this the case that if he were permitted he would show it by action on his part.

The Senate Finally Adjourns.

The special session of the United States senate was terminated on the 2d inst. Of the nominations made by the president, eleven were not acted upon. The most important nominations, including Postmaster Pearson were confirmed.

Lewis McMullin, who was nominated for appraiser at New York, was among the nominations that failed. Four consular nominations also failed. They are W. W. Long of Texas for Hamburg, Charles T. Russell of Connecticut for Liverpool, A. H. Gross of Pennsylvania for Athens and E. P. Howell of Georgia for Manchester. The remaining nominations which failed are:

H. P. Kernochan, to be naval officer at New Orleans; H. L. Kenyon, to be postmaster at Northfield, Vt.; G. T. Gross, postmaster at Allentown, Pa.; Joseph Corcoran, postmaster at Rome, N. Y.; James A. Henderson, to be collector of internal revenue, Eleventh district of Indiana, and John T. McGraw, to be collector of internal revenue, West Virginia.

The nomination of Gen. Lawton to be minister to Russia was withdrawn because it was discovered that the political disabilities incurred by his service in the Confederate army have not been removed.

The president may, if he desires, appoint these gentlemen, now that the senate has adjourned, and again send in their names to the senate next December. In the meantime they can assume and perform the duties of the office to which they may be nominated until the senate acts upon their nominations.

The senate in executive session confirmed the following nominations:

Henry G. Pearson, to be postmaster at New York; J. Colman, commissioner of agriculture; Joseph E. Johnston of Virginia, commissioner of railroads; Edward Curtis Lewis, minister to Portugal; George W. Merrill, minister to the Hawaiian Islands; A. Leo Knott of Maryland, second assistant postmaster general; A. M. Kelley of Virginia, minister to Italy; Rufus Magee of Indiana, minister to Sweden; T. J. Jarvis of North Carolina, minister to Peru; R. B. Hubbard of Texas, minister to Japan; R. B. Anderson of Wisconsin, minister to Denmark; Isaac Bell, Jr., of Rhode Island, minister to the Netherlands; Alex McCue, solicitor of the treasury; William R. Roberts, minister to Chili; also the nominations of consuls, marshals, postmasters, etc.

The members of the Utah commission had a very satisfactory interview with the president. They made a verbal report to him of the condition of affairs in Utah, and outlined their plans for future work. The president listened to them with attention, and expressed satisfaction at the progress made, and approved their plans. He promised the commission that whatever could be done by the administration toward strengthening their hands and sustaining them and the judiciary of Utah in the effort to root out the practice of polygamy would be done. The commissioners also saw the attorney general, and received from him similar satisfactory assurances of support. They will call upon the secretary of the interior, and after seeing him will start immediately for Salt Lake City where they will hold a meeting on the 10th inst.

A cyclone struck Waverly, Mo., destroying the residence of J. S. Webb and W. H. Fletcher, and four horses belonging to J. H. Bellamy and other property. The roof of the Christian church was blown off and carried a long distance. No person was seriously hurt. The damage to property is estimated at $50,000.

Peter Joseph Schroeder, the ex-almshouse attendant at Philadelphia who was arrested on a charge of murder growing out of the recent fire at the almshouse by which twenty-one lives were lost, was discharged by the court on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to hold him.

Lord Chancellor Cairns of England died at his residence at Bournemouth. He was one of the most eminent of English judges, and had risen to his high position on his individual merits. Lord Garmoyle, who has just visited the United States and who was sued in London by Miss Fortescue, the actress, for breach of promise, is a son of the late earl.

The Duluth & Winnipeg R. R.

For some time our sister city of Grand Forks has been agitating a project for aiding this road, and a number of her best citizens have been to Duluth to consult with the citizens of Duluth as to the best methods. While on general principles we are opposed to bonding a county in aid of a railroad, yet there are exceptional cases in which a county would be greatly the gainer to do so, and this is one of them. Of course, as we have just held an election for one road we cannot, as a county, vote upon any railroad proposition within one year. But there is a way in which aid could be extended to the D. & W. road which at this juncture might be of sufficient value to them to induce them to resume operations. It could only be done by towns along the line taking hold of the matter and contributing such a sum as they should feel able. Duluth is wide awake and will chip in heavily; Grand Forks is alive to her interests sufficient to be willing to do all she is able, and if the balance of the cities, towns and villages directly interested are as much so, we believe a sum could be raised that would enable it to go ahead. They seem to have the will and all that seems lacking is the means. We need not dwell upon the advantages such a road would give this country as they are too well known to need comment. The only question to consider at this time is our ability, and how much we can afford to give. As the matter stands to-day the D. & W. road would build if they could, but cannot for lack of sufficient means, which means could be raised if capitalists saw by our works that we had sufficient faith in the prospects of our road to put our own money into it, and they would come forward with enough to put it in running order. The Brainerd & Northwestern do not intend to do anything more than the law obliges them to until 1888, the time when the D. & W. land grant lapses, so that is seems that our only hope to secure a road direct to Duluth lies in our ability to put up for it. We believe there is not a town along the line but what would chip in and do something should the opportunity be presented, for all alike feel the importance of the road.

Increase the Wheat Acreage.

Minneapolis Tribune.

In the past season the various wheat-growing areas of the world have come into sharper competition than ever before. New facilities for getting to market, and unusually large marketable surpluses, forced prices down below the cost of production. The year 1884 will always be memorable for the enormous acreage and enormous yield and the corresponding cheapness of wheat. But such seasons of overproduction are always followed by sharp reactions. It is already certain that the aggregate wheat crop of 1885 will be farther below the annual average than that of 1884 was above it. The bulk of the world's wheat is the winter grain, sown nine or ten months before it is harvested. In the face of ruinous prices then prevailing, farmers had not the faith or the courage to maintain their acreage at seeding time last fall. In Kansas, which State raises about one-tenth of all the wheat of the United States, the acreage has fallen off thirty per cent. Throughout the entire winter wheat belt of the United States, the curtailment of area will amount to not less, probably, than twenty per cent. In England the reduction of acreage is very marked, and throughout Europe the same thing has taken place. The condition of the growing crop points to a much smaller average yield per acre than in 1884. It is, of course, too early to make positive statements; but careful estimates indicate damages to the Kansas crop from various causes amounting to twenty-five per cent. Forty-seven million bushels was the Kansas product of last season. Is it not now believed that the growing crop will yield more than twenty-four or twenty-five millions. And Kansas is not exceptional. A diminished yield, as well as a diminished acreage, may be safely counted on throughout the winter wheat producing belt.

The bearing of these facts ought not to be lost upon the farmers of the northern belt, who grow spring wheat. Seeding has just commenced. It is not too late to revoke decisions which may have been made to curtail the wheat area. It is our belief that the farmers of the northwest will "strike it" this time if they enlarge their wheat fields. The competition of various regions has demonstrated the superiority of the northwest in the production of wheat. A superior grain can be produced at less cost in the northwest than an inferior grain in any other part of the world. It would be a mistake for the northwest to recede a single inch from the field in which it has been an easy victor. There are few things in the womb of the future so reasonably certain as that wheat production in the country tributary to Minneapolis is going to be profitable.

The world is very rapidly learning the difference between good and bad flour. The northwestern flour has won the first place and will hold it. Flour is less bulky, and therefore cheaper to transport than wheat. It is safe to predict that the northwestern milling industry will continue to wax great and that the growers of hard northern wheat will have a constantly improving home market for their grain. Within twelve months we shall see a new tide of migration flowing towards the wheat lands still unoccupied in northern Minnesota and Dakota. Men whose views are broad see no reason for discouragement in the outlook. The prosperity of the northwest is solidly based.

The single fact that next summer's wheat crop is going to be more than one hundred millions of bushels less in the United States than the crop of 1884, is enough to make a return of good prices certain. But the falling off in the foreign crop bids fair to be still greater in amount. And in addition to these price-making facts must be noted the imminence of a European war. Even if the crisis is not reached, the coming year is to be one of augmented armaments and constant readiness for the impending conflict. Europe, Asia and Africa are to be the scenes of military movement and preparation. The whole eastern hemisphere, from center to circumference is in a condition of tremendous agitation. It is not human to wish for war, famine and pestilence abroad. But it is not in human nature to ignore the fact that such misfortunes make a demand for American products and bring prosperity to our agriculture.

Fargo Argus: An important meeting of the board of directors of the First National bank of Fargo was held yesterday. E. C. Eddy was promoted to the presidency of this time honored and prosperous institution, and George Q. Erskine, of Racine, Wisconsin, was elected a director and also vice president, to fill the post made vacant by the elevation of Mr. Eddy. This action of the board is a high endorsement of the management and ability of the new president, which is very satisfactory to his many friends as well as gratifying to himself. Mr. Erskine has been interested in the bank from its conception, and his personal services as well as his name will give additional strength to this powerful banking institution. He will remove his family to this city and soon commence his duties in connection with the new office. In a conversation yesterday with a representative of The Argus, Mr. Erskine stated that he believed the entire country was on the eve of recovery from the late severe depression, and in no section did he find more evidences of prosperity and solidity than in the Northwest. He had shown his faith in the Red River Valley by removing his interests from Milwaukee and Racine to Fargo, and he was confident that it would prove the correctness of his judgment in doing this. It is a pleasure to Fargo citizens to be able to welcome so conservative and clear-headed a financier as Mr. Erskine to Fargo as a permanent resident.

A Talk with the Girls.

Cor. of Country Gentleman.

I notice so many articles written to parents advising them how to treat their children, how to make home attractive to them, how best to train them for future usefulness, and so on, that today when my hand turned to light an old letter, and I recalled that long-past girlhood of mine, and the sheltered care of its days by my patient, devoted mother, I felt inclined to write a few words to "our girls" of the present time.

So many of you are impatient of the daily routine of your lives! You think your tasks drudgery, your pleasures meager, your mothers tyrannical, and long for the time when you can do as you please. Ah, girls, beware; your bright visions are bubbles that will break ere your hands grasp them. Right where you are now, in your childhood's home, is the place and time to find your greatest happiness.

I notice so few young girls who, when their mother requests them to do something, do it cheerfully. They begin the task slowly, and finish it slowly, acting so ungraciously all through that the poor, tired mother wishes she had not asked her daughter to do it.

Perhaps your mother may not always speak to you in a gentle tone. Perhaps she may not take a lively interest in your pleasure and fancies. You may not know that the very hours which she spends and has spent for you in taking care of you and supplying your never-ceasing demand for food and clothes have been the very things which have sapped her strength and elasticity of mind, that she is too tired to take much interest in anything. Perhaps that unresponsive mother of yours carries a sad heart under her cold exterior. Perhaps she has worries which you cannot understand, that have taken all the youthfulness out of her feelings, so that she cannot laugh and chat with you as your young associates do.

But, girls, let me tell you that from east to west, over all the world, and in all the social relations of life, there will never be to you an earthly love so devoted, so self-forgetful, so all-forgiving, as flows from the heart of your patient, careworn mother. You have in her a treasure that money cannot buy, and that your whole life will not gain in the future.

Therefore be careful of her. Take from her all the petty worries that you can. Get up in the morning and get breakfast while she rests, and during the day take upon your young strength all the hard work that you are able. Tell her your joys and sorrows, make her your confidant, and be patient when she reproves. When she refuses you pleasure don't pout and complain. She sees far better than you the danger which lurks in certain paths and is only anxious for your good. Put your arm around her neck and kiss away the tired look from her face. Coax her out into the fresh air and sunshine; in short, show her that some one loves her dearly.

All that I have would I give to feel once more the touch of my mother's hand and hear the accents of her long-silent voice.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week. Ed. Journal.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

Beyond Their License.

The Signs of the Times.

Three saloon keepers in Chicago were found guilty of selling liquor to minors, and the following is the address of the judge who sentenced them:

"By the law, you may sell to men and women if they want it. You have given bond and you are licensed to sell to them; no one has a right to molest you in your legal business, no matter what families are destroyed or rendered miserable; no matter what wives are treated with violence, what children starve or cry over the degradation of a parent; your business is legalized and no one may interfere with you in it. No matter what mother may agonize over the loss of a son, or sister blush for the shame of a brother, you have the right to disregard them all and pursue your legal calling; you are licensed. You may fit up for your lawful trade, you may use all your arts to induce visitors; you may skillfully expose to view your choicest wines and captivating beverages; you may then induce thirst by all contrivances, producing a raging appetite for drinks, and then you may supply to the full, because it is lawful; you have paid for it; you have a license. You may allow boys, almost children, to frequent your saloons. You may hold the cup to their lips, but you must not let them drink—that is unlawful. But while you have special privileges for the money you pay, this poor privilege of selling to children is denied you. Here the parents have a right to say: Leave my son to me until the law gives you the right to destroy. Do not anticipate that terrible moment when I can assert for him no further right of protection; 'twill be soon enough for me, for his mother, for his sister for his friends and the community to see him take his road to death. Give him to us in his childhood at least. Let us have a few years of his youth, in which we may enjoy his innocence, to repay in small degree for the love we have lavished upon him!

"This is something you who now stand prisoner at this bar, have not paid for; for this is not embraced in your license. For this offence the court sentences you to ten days imprisonment in the county jail, and that you pay a fine of seventy-five dollars and costs; and that you stand committed until the fine and costs of this prosecution are paid."

SHERIFF'S SALE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. District Court.
County of Polk. }
Ernest Buse, Plff. }
vs. }
Mary R. Bottineau, Deft. }

Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of an Execution to me directed and delivered, and now in my hands, issued out of the District Court 4th Judicial District, State of Minnesota, in and for the County of Hennepin upon a Judgment rendered in said Court in favor of Ernest Buse and against Mary R. Bottineau, I have levied upon the following described real estate of said defendant, all the right, title and interest of Mary R. Bottineau, on the 7th day of August 1884 to the following described real estate, to-wit: Lots four (4,) five (5) six (6,) ten (10) and eleven (11,) of Section fifteen (15,) Township one hundred and fifty-one (151,) Range forty-four (44,) And that I shall, on Saturday the 23d day of May A. D. 1885, at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the front door of the Court House, in the City Crookston, in said County and State, proceed to sell all the right, title and interest of the above named defendant Mary R. Bottineau in and to the above described property, to satisfy said Judgment and costs, amounting to two hundred fifty-eight and 07-100 dollars ($258.07-100) and 07-100 cents, together with all accruing costs of sale, and interest on the same from the 28th day of July 1884, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, at public Auction, to the highest bidder for cash.

W. F. ZWICKEY,
Sheriff of Polk County.

DAVID B. JOHNSON,
Plaintiff's Attorney.
Dated, Crookston, Minn., April 2d, 1885.
[50-4]

U. S. LAND-OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., April 2d, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 14th, 1885, viz: DEWITT C. HALLOCK, Pre. D. S., No. 6,322, for the e½ of se¼ S. 8, T. 147, R. 48. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: J. D. Peasley, F. M. Peasley, Joseph Gilmour and George Sankey, all of Edna, Polk Co., Minn.

[50-3] JOHN CROMB, Register.

BURPEE'S WELCOME OATS.

Of this oat the proprietor says: "The Welcome Oats grew from four to six feet high, with long straight straw not liable to be prostrated by wind or rain, and ripens from a week to two weeks ahead of other oats. The heads are very large and handsome, branching freely on all sides and from 16 to 23 inches in length. They weigh from 47 to 51½ lbs. per bushel, and often grow from 40 to 76 stalks from one oat."

From 10 oz. of seed sowed in 1883, I harvested 80 lbs. In 1884 I sowed this on 8 acres. It measured one and one-half bushels. It yielded 200 bushels. Parties desiring to procure seed can do so for $1 per bushel at Stone & Pinkerton's Warehouse, Crookston, where samples may be seen.

[48-59] O. P. CAHOON.

Sale of State Lands.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, LAND OFFICE,
SAINT PAUL, April 8th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that W. W. Braden will offer at Public Sale at the office of the County Auditor in Crookston, on Friday, May 22d, 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. on the terms prescribed by law, the School Lands in Polk County that have been appraised and are unsold, or that have been sold and forfeited by reason of failure to pay interest for two or more years. A list of the lands to be offered may be seen at the Auditor's Office for ten days prior to the sale. [illegible] W. W. BRADEN, [illegible] Commissioner of the State Land Office.

CARRIAGE WORKS!

McKINNON BROS., Proprietors,
Robert Street, - - Crookston, Minn.

—MANUFACTURERS OF—

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, BUGGIES.

Axles, Springs, and All Repairs, Kept in Stock.

—ALSO DEALERS IN—

Farm Machinery.

We keep a full supply of the Leading Machines. We have Seeders, Harrows, Plows, and everything a farmer needs. Among the different articles may be mentioned the celebrated Kalamazoo Spring Tooth Harrow, Diamond Tooth Harrows, and the Trowbridge Broadcast Seeder.

Farmers, when you want ANYTHING in our line call in and examine our stock before you purchase. We can suit you in price, style and quality.

☞ Extras for all machines constantly on hand.

E. D. CHILDS & CO.,

Proprietors of

CARMAN TOWNSITE,

AND

Dealers in Real Estate!

Why Don't You wait?

Wait till Crookston has ten thousand people. Three years!

Wait till Crookston is the largest and most important manufacturing town in the Northwest. Two years!

Wait till Crookston has two more large saw mills, and is cutting 75,000,000 feet a season. One year!

Wait till lots in SOUTH CROOKSTON are selling for twice their present valuation (six months) and THEN purchase

South Crookston Property.

But if you have time, just drop in and have a chat with

STEENERSON & McMANUS, Broadway.
JOHN IVES & SON, Broadway.
PALMER & BOND, Robert Street.
CROOKSTON IMPROVEMENT CO., Main Street.

A. YVERNAULT,

—DEALER IN—

GENERAL

MERCHANDISE,

MAIN STREET,

Crookston, Minn.

All of my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

JOHN N. IVES.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Collection and Land Office Business made a specialty. Money secured for final proofs on short notice.
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA.

W. L. Sargeant
Veterinary Surgeon,
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.
Diseases of horses and cattle a specialty.
[9-tf]

WM. WATTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE.
OFFICE OVER MERCHANTS' BANK.

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.,
Graduate McGill University, Montreal.
LICENSED COLLEGE PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON QUEBEC.
Office on Robert Street, Crookston.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
MAIN STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN
For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest liquors and cigars in stock. [6-tf]

Big Bonanza.

JOSEPH BARRETT

Has decided to Put on the Market his

ADDITION

—TO THE—

CITY OF CROOKSTON

Next adjoining the Crookston Driving Park. Parties desiring to purchase

CHOICE LOTS,

NOW IS YOUR TIME!

LOTS

For Sale Separately, or in BLOCKS.

TERMS EASY!

Apply to the undersigned or at the office of C. B. Palmer, U. S. Land Office Building. Both English and French spoken.

JOSEPH BARRETT.

THE

J. I. CASE

THRESHING MACHINE COMPANY
The Dennet or Beloit
HARVESTING MACHINE COMPANY!
And the Van Brunt & Davis
SEEDER COMPANY,
Are Represented
BY

STEENERSON BROS.,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY!

Drink LePage's
35c Tea and 35c pure Java offee
AND SMOKE MY NICKEL PILGRIM CIGAR.

HOW TO BE WEALTHY!

COME TO THE RED STAR GROCERY
And Save Money on everything you buy.

AND IF YOU ARE WISE

You will buy only Pure and Fresh Groceries. THE RED STAR GROCERY is the place to get them and there you will find Prices the Lowest. Farmers and others bring in your Butter and Eggs and get highest prices for them. Remember the RED STAR, one door south of Montreal House.

E. LEPAGE, Broadway, Crookston, Minn.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 9, 1885.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
L. K. Aaker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning	Hendrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

E. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
John Paterson	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
D. H. Hatlestad	Court Commissioner.
John Leo	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
Ole Hamery	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist	Woodside.
E. A. Brudisk—2d	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d	Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Batagila.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	F. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph. D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. G. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 2:00 p. m.

GERMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

H[illegible] LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. of P. Hall Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. BAHLMER, Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. D. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 26, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE
AND SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

13 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green gages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported, for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	25

Boots and shoes at cost!
Boots and shoes below cost!
BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice, and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for this money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?
MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank E. Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before spring opens. [43-tf]

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT.

An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents. This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,204,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,099,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,737,988
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,375
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSER & MONCKEL.

We have just received another bill of Wall Paper, new and very pretty patterns. Our spring stock is now complete in every department. We buy direct from manufacturers and importers at the lowest possible prices for spot cash, and will give our customers the benefit.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

For Sale.

A high grade, Shorthorn, bull calf, one year old, a high grade Jersey bull calf, eight months old, and a high grade Holstein bull calf, four months old. Will sell for cash or will trade for heifer calves. Address A. N. Hopkins, on the farm near Crookston, or the JOURNAL office for further particulars.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETSCHMAR.

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address

JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab apple cider, old bourbon whisky, eight years old, Maryland Club, pure rye, Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne, imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes, also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway in U. S. Land Office building.

[14-tf] H. STEENERSON.

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

John Crawford & Son,
Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

FIRST
National Bank,
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL,	$100,000
SURPLUS,	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. 9128, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezer Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.

[48-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DEEP WELLS!

Having one of the Best

AMERICAN PATENT

Hydraulic Drilling Machines

I AM NOW PREPARED TO

Sink Wells to any Depth

Desired to obtain

Flowing Water

Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address

IRA D. BLANCHARD
Crookston, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 37-100 dollars, ($571.37-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Luc Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 245, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 23th A. D. 1885.

JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.

LEO & GEORGE,
Atty's for Mortgagee. [48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE

[First Publication April 2d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of nineteen hundred and sixteen and 68-100 dollars ($1,916.68-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 481, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 22d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fee as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 22d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April, 2d, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[49-4] Pro Se.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 16th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 29th, 1885, viz: MARTIN M. DAVIS, H'd No. 1821, for the nw¼ S. 28, T. 153, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Collet, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Schimmon, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.

[46-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 32-100 dollars, ($277.32-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred. Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:25 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 316, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 66-100 dollars, ($705.66-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 3d day of February A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1883, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 146, 137, 125 and 129, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 3 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.27-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1882, and $17.65-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884 and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 16th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars, ($333.11-00,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedman and Anna Friedman, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1884, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1884, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "R" of mortgages, on page 430, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18,) in block twenty-three (23,) in Trail's Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota; with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 23th A. D. 1885.

EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 50-100 dollars, ($487.50-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 320, 321 and 322, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 3 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.45-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.51-100 taxes for the year 1883, and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin.
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 17th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 23d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7812, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 143, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillies, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.

[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 2d, 1885, viz: ALEXANDER HOBERG, H'd No. [illegible], for the [illegible] He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: [illegible] Camille [illegible] Polk [illegible]

[illegible] Register.

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs. Valencia raisens for	1.00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
—CANNED GOODS—
12 cans plums	1.00
12 cans corn for	1.45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN.
Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

STEWART & LAURENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants.

CARRY A FULL LINE OF

Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,

STOVES,

REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BULDIING PAREP,
Etc., Etc.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.

O. D. ROOD,
CONTRACTOR
AND BUILDER,
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Estimates made on brick-work and Plastering.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan,
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

New York Store!

BEFORE BUYING YOUR

SPRING DRY GOODS

Call and See Our Stock and Prices.

☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS at prices within the reach of all.

WHITE GOODS.

Embroideries, Nainsook's Sussis, all over-embroideries and Laces.

Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.

Geo. G. Macdonell,
Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

Polk County Journal

Crookston, April 9, 1885.

City and County Directory.

We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb ... Register.
L. K. Aaker ... Receiver.
Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m. and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson ... Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge ... Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson ... Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning ... Hendrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague ... Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh ... Clerk of Court.
John Paterson ... Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire ... Auditor.
O. H. Lucken ... Treasurer.
D. H. Hatlestad ... Court Commissioner.
John Leo ... Attorney.
V. D. Carruth ... Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwicker ... Sheriff.
H. Shephard ... Coroner.
Ole Hamory ... Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist ... Woodside.
K. A. Bradish—2d ... Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d ... Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th ... Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th ... East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor ... E. M. Walsh.
Recorder ... W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer ... A. G. Gallasch.
Justices ... G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st. Ward ... Ole Bang, L. Fontaine.
—2d ... Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d ... N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th ... S. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large ... R. Houston.
City Attorney ... J. N. Ives.
City Engineer ... W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal ... J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal ... J. B. Fillatrault, Ole Bjult.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph. D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. B. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. R. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. O. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m. 2:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

H[illegible] LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in [illegible] Hall Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
L. H. MIX, M. W.
[illegible], Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWIRE, N. G.
R. B. GATES, Sec.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,489, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
[illegible] A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKHAM, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 38, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DANLEY, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE

AND

SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

13 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Half keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	10
14 lbs new currants for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 3-lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans [illegible] for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported for	1.00
3 gallons New York State apple	1.00
6 cans best yellow peaches 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes 3 lbs for	1.00
[illegible]	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	25
3 cans best strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
[illegible] per bushel	25

[illegible]

MARKHAM.

Notice.

[illegible]

[illegible] An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents. The [illegible] offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO. Limited,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,044
American	1,204,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phoenix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,787,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,120,875
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

LOSEY & MORKEN.

We have just received another bill of Wall Paper—new and very pretty patterns. Our spring stock is now complete in every department. We buy direct from manufacturers and importers at the lowest possible prices for spot cash, and will give our customers the benefit.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

For Sale.

A high grade Shorthorn bull calf, one year old, a high grade Jersey bull calf, eight months old, and a high grade Holstein bull calf, four months old. Will sell for cash or will trade for heifer calves. Address A. N. Hopkins, on the farm near Crookston, or the JOURNAL office for further particulars.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will announce to our former customers and all that are desirous of obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754.

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HARELINE.

The best five cent cigars in at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill, and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETSCHMAR.

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, Court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

$100,000

To loan on improved farms in sums of $200 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address

[illegible]
[17-tf] Crookston, Minn.

At Seely's.

[illegible]

[illegible]

Commercial Hotel

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's.

[illegible] Crookston, Minn.

First class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

John Crawford & Son

Proprietors of

Crawford's Bakery,

SECOND STREET,

Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY.

Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

FIRST

National Bank,

OF CROOKSTON

PAID IN CAPITAL	$100,000
SURPLUS	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. 9128, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼ S. 6, T. 140, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Peter Vendrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.

[48-11] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DEEP WELLS!

Having one of the Best

AMERICAN PATENT

Hydraulic Drilling Machines

I AM NOW PREPARED TO

Sink Wells to any Depth

Desired to obtain

Flowing Water

Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address

IRA D. BLANCHARD,

Crookston, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 26th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and seventy-one and 87-100 dollars ($771.87-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by [illegible] to John Cromb, bearing date the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 246, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 20th A. D. 1885.

JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.

LEO & GEORGE,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE

(First Publication April 2d, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of nineteen hundred and sixteen and 68-100 dollars ($1,916.68-100) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre, to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 400, which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for said County, on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 23d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April 2d, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[49-6] Pro Se.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., March 19th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 29th, 1885, viz: MARTIN M. DAVIS, H'd No. 1121, for the nw¼ S. 28, T. 150, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Colfer, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Schamcon, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.

[47-5] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 33-100 dollars ($277.33-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by T. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball, his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December, A. D. 1883, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:35 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages on page 218, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9) in block number ten (10) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 68-100 dollars ($705.68-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 2d day of February A. D. 1883, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 146, 157, 158 and 159, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and $15.27-100 taxes paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1883, and $17.25-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.

H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 26th 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars ($333.11-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedsam and Anna Friedsam, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1884, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1884, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 437, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18) in block twenty-three (23) in Traill's Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota; in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.

EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.

PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 10th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 50-100 dollars, ($487.50-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 230, 231 and 232, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.43-100 taxes paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1882, and $16.51-100 taxes for the year 1883, and $7.67-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 10th, A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.

H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [illegible]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 22d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 312, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillies, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.

[45-5] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Crookston, Minn., March [illegible]

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May [illegible], viz: ALEXANDER [illegible] [illegible] He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: [illegible] all of [illegible] Polk County.

[illegible] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs. Valencia raisens for	1.00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
CANNED GOODS
12 cans plums	1.00
12 cans corn for	1.45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN

Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

STEWART & LAURENCE,

SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,

Hardware Merchants.

CARRY A FULL LINE OF

Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,

STOVES,

REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BULDIING PAREP,

Etc., Etc.

BERG & OLSON,

PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS

AND DEALERS IN

CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,

ROBERT STREET,
CROOKSTO MINNESOTA.

O. D. ROOD,

CONTRACTOR

AND BUILDER,

CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Estimates made on brick-work and Plastering.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

New York Store!

BEFORE BUYING YOUR

SPRING DRY GOODS

Call and See Our Stock and Prices.

☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS at prices within the reach of all.

WHITE GOODS.

Embroideries, Nainsooks, Sussis, all over embroideries and Lace.

Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.

Geo. G. Macdonell,

Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 9, 1885.

City and County Directory.

☞ We wish to make this directory as reliable as possible, and consequently request all parties interested to notify us of any changes in their respective announcements.

U. S. LAND OFFICE.

John Cromb	Register.
I. K. Asker	Receiver.

Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2:00 to 4:30 p. m.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

Knute Nelson	Alexandria.

DISTRICT COURT.

O. P. Stearns, Judge	Duluth.

STATE SENATOR.

Halvor Steenerson	Crookston.

REPRESENTATIVE.

Chas. Canning,	Hendrum.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

R. J. Montague	Judge of Probate.
T. C. Shapleigh	Clerk of Court.
John Paterson	Register of Deeds.
P. J. McGuire,	Auditor.
O. H. Lucken	Treasurer.
D. H. Hatlestad	Court Commissioner.
John Lee	Attorney.
V. D. Carruth	Supt. of Schools.
W. F. Zwickey	Sheriff.
H. Shephard	Coroner.
Ole Hamery	Surveyor.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Geo. Goodrich—1st Dist	Woodside.
K. A. Bradish—2d "	Fisher.
M. R. Brown—3d "	Crookston.
P. C. Schmidt Jr.—4th "	Red Lake Falls.
T. Sullivan—5th "	East Grand Forks.

CITY OFFICIALS.

Mayor	E. M. Walsh.
Recorder	W. D. Hurlbut.
Treasurer	A. G. Gallasch.
Justices	G. W. Lewis, J. W. Lilly.
Ald.—1st Ward	Ole Bang, J. Fontaine.
—2d "	Henry Nolan, P. Bataglia.
—3d "	N. P. Stone, W. Walker.
—4th "	F. F. Markham, C. A. Chiniquy.
—at large	R. Houston.
City Attorney	J. N. Ives.
City Engineer	W. D. Hurlbut.
Marshal	J. Dowling.
Deputy Marshal	J. R. Fillatrault, Ole Bjoin.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

PRESBYTERIAN—Corner Broadway and Fifth street. Rev. R. L. Adams, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting in church every Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Corner of Main and Fourth streets. Rev. J. C. Gullette, Ph D. Pastor. Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. And 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30.

EPISCOPAL—Ash street, head of Second street. Rev. S. Currie, Rector. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m.

CONGREGATIONAL—Rev. C. E. Page, Pastor. Corner Third and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon.

BAPTIST—Rev. H. L. House, Pastor. Second street, between Broadway and Ash streets. Services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 12:15 p. m. Young people's meeting from 6:15 to 7:15. Services always closed in time to allow those present to attend their own churches. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation to all. Friday evening at 7, teacher's meeting at different homes.

CATHOLIC—Ash Street. Rev. C. A. S. DeCarufel, Pastor. Services every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m., 2:00 p. m.

CARMAN.

BAPTIST—F. K. Roberts, Pastor. Services in Baptist Block at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sabbath School at noon. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

SOCIETIES.

H[illegible] LODGE, No. 78, A. O. U. W. Meets in K. [illegible] Hall, Second and Fourth Thursday of each month.
C. H. MIX, M. W.
F. [illegible], Secretary.

PIERSON CHAPTER, R. A. M. Meets in Masonic Hall, First and Third Monday of each month.
T. C. SHAPLEIGH, H. P.
O. H. LUCKEN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 79, I. O. O. F. Meets every Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, over Post Office.
F. M. SCHWARK, N. G.
R. D. GATES, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 1,469, K. of H. Meets the First and Third Monday evening of each month, in Losey's Hall, Main street.
T. A. HARRIS, Dictator.
JAS. BUTLER, Reporter.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 141, A. F. & A. M. Meets on the Second and Fourth Saturday evening of each month, in Masonic Hall.
W. D. HURLBUT, W. M.
GEO. D. BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

CROOKSTON LODGE, NO. 25, K. of P. Meets every Friday evening, in K. of P. Hall, on Broadway.
C. W. BARNES, C. C.
W. B. DAWLEY, K. of R. & S.

JUST FOR EXERCISE
AND SPOT CASH,

MARKHAM WILL SELL

13 lbs best granulated sugar for	$1.00
14 lbs 2d granulated sugar for	1.00
15 lbs pure New Orleans sugar for	1.00
25 lbs pure buckwheat flour for	1.00
25 lbs steel cut oat meal for	1.00
25 boxes of matches for	25
50 cent Japan tea for	35
Best keg syrup for	1.75
1776 washing powder for	10
14 lbs new currents for	1.00
12 lbs best mince meat for	1.00
20 bars of soap for	1.00
15 bars soap for	1.00
10 cans blackberries for	1.00
10 cans string beans for	1.00
10 cans lima beans for	1.00
10 8 lb cans squash for	1.00
10 cans green gages for	1.00
7 cans oil sardines imported, for	1.00
3 1-gallon cans York State apples	1.00
5 cans best yellow peaches, 3 lbs	1.00
8 cans best tomatoes, 3 lbs for	1.00
6 cans Boston baked beans for	1.00
Maple syrup per quart	25
8 cans Erie strawberries for	1.00
2 lbs Climax tobacco for	1.00
Rutabagas per bushel	25

Boots and shoes at cost!
Boots and shoes below cost!
BOOTS AND SHOES AT HALF COST!

These prices are for spot cash. We are not going out of business, but are giving our yearly benefit to our customers. Take our advice and lay in a stock, as these prices will not last. We cannot replace these goods for this money. Buy before these bargains are gone.

Who is doing all this?

MARKHAM!

Notice.

Frank [illegible] Haseltine, sole proprietor of the Old Crookston Nurseries, has made arrangements with Hack & Gallasch to sell trees, seeds and plants for him. Please call and leave orders with them before Spring opens. [43-tf]

"YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT."

An eight-page, forty-column weekly a whole year for only 50 cents. This is the offer made by the publishers of the American Rural Home, of Rochester, N. Y., to all persons who send in their year's subscription before April 1st, 1885. This is an opportunity to secure one of the best farm journals in the world at a bargain. The Rural is the brightest, cheapest and most popular weekly published for the farmer and his family. It is not a paper of mushroom growth, like many so-called farm journals that are at present being extensively advertised, but has been published regularly for fifteen years. Many of the ablest Agriculturists and Horticulturists write for it. It is, in short, the model journal for those who dwell in village and country homes, and should be the first one subscribed for after your local paper. We are acquainted with both paper and publishers and cheerfully recommend it to our readers as a first-class agricultural journal, worth twice the money asked for it. The regular price is ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, IN ADVANCE, but the special offer of FIFTY CENTS will be accepted if sent in before April 1st, 1885. Remember, this is no humbug, but a genuine bona fide proposition to furnish for FIFTY CENTS A YEAR the only eight-page, forty-column agricultural WEEKLY ever offered at that price. Address,

RURAL HOME CO., LIMITED,
[46-50] Rochester, N. Y.

TO PARTIES DESIRING INSURANCE!

We represent the following old and reliable Fire Insurance Companies:

	Assets.
Ætna	$9,182,644
American	1,204,519
Fire Association	4,279,676
Underwriters	3,699,794
Orient	1,411,894
Phœnix	5,919,403
Lancashire	6,737,983
Milwaukee Mech	1,129,373
Germania	2,700,729

Having represented nearly all of the above companies for 14 years we have acquainted ourselves with the business, and think that we can justly claim the patronage of the public, who can depend upon having insurance written correctly and losses adjusted promptly.

MOSES & MORRILL.

We have just received another bill of Wall Paper, new and very pretty patterns. Our spring stock is now complete in every department. We buy direct from manufacturers and importers at the lowest possible prices for spot cash, and will give our customers the benefit.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

For Sale.

A high grade, Shorthorn, bull calf, one year old, a high grade Jersey bull calf, eight months old, and a high grade Holstein bull calf, four months old. Will sell for cash or will trade for heifer calves. Address A. N. Hopkins, on the farm near Crookston, or the JOURNAL office for further particulars.

NOTICE.

As I have established a Nursery in Crookston and propose to continue the business, I will annouce to our former customers and all that are desirous o obtaining trees and Plants the coming spring that I will sell said stock at prices below any competition. Call and see me before making purchase elsewhere. Residence on second block north of Court House, or address P. O. Box 754

Most Respectfully,
[38-tf] E. W. HASELTINE.

The best five cent cigars is at the Red Star Grocery, Broadway. [51-tf]

Notice to Farmers.

C. Kretschmar's Grist Mill, at Red Lake Falls, is again open for business. Flour will be exchanged for wheat, or your wheat will be ground on shares. A good feed mill is run in connection with the mill and satisfaction in all cases is guaranteed. Flour and feed on hand at all times and sold at lowest market rates.

[16-tf] C. KRETSCHMAR.

Teachers' Examinations.

CROOKSTON, March 10, 1885.

The spring examination of teachers will be held as follows:

At Fisher, school house, March 30th and 31st, 1885.

At East Grand Forks, school house, April 2d and 3d.

At Red Lake Falls, school house, April 6th and 7th.

Crookston, court house, April 9th and 10th.

V. D. CARRUTH,
County Supt. of Schools.

$100,000

To Loan on improved claims in sums of $250 to $2,000. Cash paid for school bonds. Call on or address,

JOHN McLEAN, Att'y at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

At Seely's

You can find some extra fine crab-apple cider, old bourbon whisky, eight years old, Maryland Club, pure rye, Jules and G. H. Mum's extra dry champagne, imported Scotch ales and porters for medicinal purposes; also a fine stock of imported cigars. Call and sample. [22-tf]

Money to Loan.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to loan on improved farms from THREE to FIVE years time at very reasonable rates. Apply at my office on Broadway, in U. S. Land Office building.

[14tf.] H. STEENERSON.

Commercial Hotel,

NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

John Crawford & Son
Proprietors of
Crawford's Bakery,
SECOND STREET,
Crookston Minn

CONFECTIONERY
Fresh Bread, Buns, Cakes and Biscuits. All Articles in the Fancy Baking Line.

FIRST National Bank,
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL,	$100,000
SURPLUS,	1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.

Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.

GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Cashier.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 20th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 5th, 1885, viz: ELIE ASSELIN, Pre. D. S. No. 9148, for the lots 6 and 7 and the e½ sw¼, S. 6, T. 149, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Adelard Croteau, Joseph Page, Cezer Veaudrin and Stanislas Page, all of Gentilly, Polk Co., Minn.

[48-1] JOHN CROMB, Register.

DEEP WELLS!

Having one of the Best
AMERICAN PATENT
Hydraulic Drilling Machines
I AM NOW PREPARED TO
Sink Wells to any Depth
Desired to obtain
Flowing Water

Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address

IRA D. BLANCHARD,
Crookston, Minn.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of five hundred and seventy-one and 37-100 dollars, ($571.37-100) which is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Luc Dumas to John Cromb, bearing date the 24th day of October A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of October A. D. 1882, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., in book "H" of mortgages, on page 240 and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter (sw¼) of Section No. twenty-two (22) in Township No. one hundred and forty-nine (149) north, of Range No. forty-five (45) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the west front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 26th A. D. 1885.

JOHN CROMB,
Mortgagee.
LEO & GEORGE,
Att'y's for Mortgagee. [43-2]

MORTGAGE SALE

First Publication April 2d, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of nineteen hundred and sixteen and 68-100 dollars ($1,916.68-100,) which is claimed to be due, and is due, at the date of this notice, upon two certain promissory notes secured by a mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Polina Angelina McIntyre and H. D. McIntyre to Morris R. Brown, bearing date the eleventh day of November A. D. 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1882, at 11 o'clock a. m., in book "H" of mortgages on page 4[illegible], which mortgage was for a good and valuable consideration on the 23d day of February A. D. 1883 duly assigned to Joseph Kelso, and said assignment duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County on the 27th day of February A. D. 1883, in book "K" of mortgages on pages 260 and 261, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed, and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nineteen (19) Block number sixteen (16) in the original Townsite of Crookston according to a plat of said Townsite, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty dollars ($50) attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State on the 2d day of May, A. D. 1885, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated April, 2d, 1885.

JOSEPH KELSO, Assignee.
[49-4] Pro Se.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 10th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., April 28th, 1885, viz: MARTIN M. DAVIS, H'd No. 1121, for the nw¼ S. 18, T. 153, R. 46. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Lewis Coitel, William Brandt, Frank Stacey and Frank Schamson, all of Euclid, Polk Co., Minn.

[46-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE

[First publication March 19th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of two hundred seventy-seven and 38-100 dollars, ($277.38-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by J. Spencer Kimball and Eva Kimball his wife mortgagors to Fred Deitz mortgagee bearing date the sixth day of December A. D. 1883, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December A. D. 1883, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 318, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot number nine (9,) in block number ten (10,) in the Village of Carman, according to the map or plat of said Village duly recorded and on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the second day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th, A. D. 1885.

FRED DEITZ,
Mortgagee.
PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'ys for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 19, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of seven hundred and five and 68-100 dollars, ($705.68-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John Quesnell and Sarah Quesnell his wife, mortgagors, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wisconsin, a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 1st day of February A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 3d day of February A. D. 1882, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 136, 137, 138 and 139, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number thirty-one (31) Township number one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range number forty-three (43) west, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $15.27-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises for the year 1882, and $17.25-100 taxes on said premises for the year 1884, and forty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 18th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin,
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication March 26th 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of three hundred thirty-three and 11-100 dollars, ($333.11-100,) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Friedram and Anna Friedram, his wife, mortgagors to Emma Rindskopf, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of May A. D. 1884, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the first day of May A. D. 1884, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 438, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lot No. eighteen (18,) in block twenty-three (23,) in Trail's Addition to East Grand Forks, according to the recorded plat on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock p. m., of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 25th A. D. 1885.

EMMA RINDSKOPF,
Mortgagee.
PIERCE & WILKINSON,
Att'y's for Mortgagee, Crookston, Minn.
[48-2]

MORTGAGE SALE.

(First publication March 19th, 1885.)

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE payment of the sum of four hundred and eighty-seven and 50-100 dollars, ($487.50-100) which is claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Joseph Leblanc, (unmarried,) of Terrebonne, Minn., mortgagor, to The Hekla Fire Insurance Company, of Madison, Wis., a corporation duly organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Wisconsin, mortgagee, bearing date the 31st day of March A. D. 1882, and, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 1st day of April A. D. 1882, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book "G" of mortgages, on pages 329, 331 and 332, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The northeast quarter of Section number twenty-six (26,) Township one hundred and fifty (150) north, Range forty-three (43) west, and containing 160 acres, in Polk County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Polk County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in said County and State, on the 2d day of May A. D. 1885, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and $13.65-100 taxes, paid by the mortgagee herein on said premises, for the year 1882, and $10.51-100 taxes for the year 1883 and $7.87-100 taxes for the year 1884, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 19th A. D. 1885.

THE HEKLA FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Madison, Wisconsin:
Mortgagee.
H. STEENERSON,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [47-1]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., Feb. 27th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given, that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office, at Crookston, Minn., on April 23d, 1885, viz: JOHN HUNTER, Pre. D. S. No. 7312, for the n½ sw¼ and sw¼ nw¼ S. 14, T. 148, R. 44. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Hugh Mathison, James Gillies, Ernest Adams and Angus McMillan, all of Maple Bay, Polk Co., Minn.

[45-51] JOHN CROMB, Register.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Crookston, Minn., March 18th, 1885.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before U. S. Land Office at Crookston, Minn., on May 2d, 1885, viz: ALEXANDER ROBERG, H'd No. 8765, for the s½ se¼ and s½ sw¼ S. 10, T. 151, R. 45. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Louis Huot, David Coe, Camille Bronllette and Peter Columbus, all of Huot, Polk Co., Minn.

[47-52] JOHN CROMB, Register.

MONEY TALKS!

You can buy Groceries cheaper for cash at BUCHANAN'S than any store in the Red River Valley.

Look at Our Prices!

15 lbs. extra C Sugar for	$1.00
13 lbs. best granulated Sugar for	1.00
14 lbs. Turkish Prunes for	1.00
14 lbs. Michigan dried apples for	1.00
10 lbs. Valencia raisens for	1.00
9 lbs. Lard for	1.00
6 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee for	1.00
CLIMAX TOBACCO	48c
Best white syrup	50c
—CANNED GOODS—
12 cans plums	1.00
12 cans corn for	1.45
12 cans tomatoes for	1.45
12 cans sauce peaches for	1.45
12 cans Lima beans for	1.45
12 cans green peas for	1.45
10 cans sardines for	1.00
6 cans salmon for	1.00

Teas and Coffees.

We have the largest line in the city and can discount any bills you can get elsewhere.

D. BUCHANAN.
Broadway, between Second and Robert Streets.

STEWART & LAURENCE,
SUCCESSORS TO E. M. WALSH,
Hardware Merchants.
CARRY A FULL LINE OF Iron, Steel, Nails, Tinware, Guns,
STOVES,
REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION, BULDIING PAREP,
Etc., Etc.

BERG & OLSON,
PRACTICAL WATCHMAKERS
AND DEALERS IN CLOCKS,
WATCHES,
JEWELRY,
—ROBERT STREET,—
CROOKSTO MINNESOTA.

O. D. ROOD,
CONTRACTOR
AND BUILDER,
CROOKSTON, - - MINN.

Estimates made on brick-work and Plastering.

Hack & Gallasch

—Have just received a new and complete stock of—

DRY GOODS

Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. It will pay everybody to visit our store when in need of anything in our line.

Tea Imported Direct from Japan.
Coffee the best and purest in the market.
Canned Goods, Spices, Provisions always fresh.

☞ Call in and examine our goods and prices. ☜

New York Store!

BEFORE BUYING YOUR
SPRING DRY GOODS
Call and See Our Stock and Prices.

☞ Fine Line of DRESS GOODS and SILKS at prices within the reach of all.

WHITE GOODS.

Embroideries, Nainsook's Sussis, all over-embroideries and Laces.

Bargains in CRASHES and TOWELS.

Geo. G. Macdonell,
Successor to Proud & Macdonell.

The Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Proprietor. DEVOTED TO THE WELFARE OF POLK COUNTY. TERMS—$1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. VIII. CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA, APRIL 16, 1885. NO. 51

Polk County Journal.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

H. E. COOKE, Editor and Proprietor

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance, to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

ADVERTISING RATES.

SPACE.	1 w.	2 w.	3 w.	1 m.	2 m	6 m.	1 year
¼ inch...	50	$1 00	$1 15	$1 50	$2 00	4 50	$ 6 00
1 inch...	75	1 25	1 75	2 00	5 50	6 00	10 00
2 inches...	1 50	2 25	3 00	3 60	6 50	9 50	15 00
3 inches...	1 75	2 75	3 75	4 50	9 50	12 50	20 00
4 inches...	2 50	3 50	4 50	5 50	10 00	10 00	25 00
[illegible] inches...	3 00	4 00	5 00	6 00	12 50	20 00	30 00
¼ column	3 50	5 50	5 50	6 50	15 00	25 00	35 00
½ column	6 00	7 50	10 00	12 00	20 00	35 00	50 00
1 column	9 50	12 50	15 00	18 00	35 00	60 00	100 00

Entered at the Post Office in Crookston as Second Class matter.

STOCK RAISING.

Experience During the Winter of '84 '85.

The following letter was written in reply to one of the numerous enquiries made in regard to the experience of parties engaged in the business of stock raising in northwestern Minnesota and Dakota, and shows, conclusively, the advantages to be gained in that section of the country, also gives actual figures to prove the correctness of the various assertions made.

The article speaks for itself, and will be read with interest and profit.

St. Paul, March 2d, 1885.

S. L. Warren, Albany, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—Your favor of late date, making enquiry as to stock raising in northwestern Minnesota, received. Your enquiries cover such a scope that I cannot answer in a better way than by giving you the result of my own experience in the business.

The idea seems to prevail that because Minnesota is one of the northwestern States it must of necessity be too cold, the winter season too long, and cost of feeding through the winter too great to admit of any profit in raising stock. The fact is, all of these conditions apply equally as well to the New England States, to Canada, northern New York, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northern Iowa, and yet in all these States, with lands ranging in price from twenty-five to two hundred dollars an acre, stock raising has, for many years, been considered the most profitable business a farmer can engage in. This one factor, therefore, being equal, we have to commence with one element of profit in much cheaper lands, the others are an unlimited supply of native grasses as nutritious as the best of those that are cultivated, an abundance of pure water in both lake and stream, a soil and climate that enables us to raise, in the greatest profusion, and at a minimum cost, grains, roots and grasses of every kind for feed. Our climate, so noted for its health and strength giving properties to the human family, is equally beneficial to stock of all kinds. Cheap winter shelter is also a very important item with us, our dry, clear winters permitting outdoor storage of hay without danger of loss, while the eastern and middle State farmer has to build barns, in which to protect from winter storms not only his stock, but all of their feed as well. I charge 10 per cent. on cost of building as the cost winter shelter; at this rate my stock is being sheltered for not to exceed 75c. per head for the season.

Shelter, plenty of feed and proper care and essential elements of success in raising stock, whether in Dakota or in Illinois, but with these I am prepared to state positively that we can breed and raise stock of all kinds with more profit than in any of the eastern, northern or middle States.

Now for a few facts and figures to prove my assertions. On the 30th of April last I turned our cattle on to their summer pastures, then weighing every animal, young and old, as they went from the barns, (all are marked with a numbered tag in the ear, so that each one can be identified). They were brought in from their pastures about the middle of October and turned into the barn lots and adjoining fields, but not under cover until Nov. 16, during these weeks they were given all the corn fodder and oat straw they would eat, with a few roots, but no hay or grain. On the 15th of Nov. each one was again weighed and then put into winter quarters, and the gain on summer pasturage on each animal noted.

Of our non-breeding stock, the smallest gain in actual weight was on a native cow, three years old past, weight April 30th, 1000 lbs., Nov. 15th, 1041 lbs.; the largest gain, also a three year old past cow, April 30th, 940 lbs., Nov. 15th, 1800 lbs., or a gain of 860 lbs. or 38 8-10 per cent. in the 200 days. The best relative gains in the same time were on a yearling heifer, going out at 340 lbs. and coming in at 690 lbs., and a yearling steer, going out at 580 and coming in at 880 lbs.; the aggregate average gain on all the non-breeding stock being 47 4-5 per cent. on their weights of April 30th. On the entire herd, including the breeding cows, the average gain in weight during same time was 34¼ per cent. Bear in mind that this was exclusively on native prairie grass until brought in from the pastures; also, it may be well to say here that the stock here referred to is native stock principally, with a few head having one cross of the Shorthorn.

From 78 cows we now have 60 calves (77 per cent.). The only loss in the last year has been one cow, killed on account of injuries sustained. As to winter care and feeding, with the exception of milch cows, a few head of pure bred Shorthorns and those now in the stalls for fattening, we are carrying our entire herd through the winter on a daily feed of 1½ quarts of ground oats, 10 pounds of hay and free run to oat straw rick, at a cost not to exceed 3c. per day; by actual test on the scales they show an average gain of 1 lb. per day for each head. Every day this winter they have been turned out of the barn before nine in the morning and remained out until about five in the afternoon, having free access to water and oat straw all day.

On cattle put up for fattening we have made an average of 2½ lbs. per day on some, and from 2 to 2½ lbs. on others, from the middle of Nov., on food raised on the farm, not one cent of outlay for oil cake, bran or meal, and at a cost that gave a good per cent. of profit on the weight gained.

We are also breeding horses, with an imported Percheron stallion at the head of the drove, with most flattering results, now having sixty-four head of all kinds, natives, grades from ½ to 15-16 and pure breds; during the past two years have not lost one.

Of sheep we have some 175 head, Cotswolds; mostly grades; wool clip last spring, including that of the yearlings, averaged 8½ lbs. for the whole flock; increase from breeding ewes carried through was 95 per cent.; the drop was 103 per cent.

Hogs are very profitable; we are carrying through the winter 108 head, mostly Berkshires, with a few of small Yorkshire and Berkshire cross, and as yet, no loss.

My farm is on the Sheyenne River, one of the tributaries to the Red River, a short distance west of Walcott, on the Breckenridge extension of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Road, and is of same general character as thousands of acres in Minnesota now for sale by that company, and upon which the same results can be obtained.

We now have on our place (known as the Helendale Farm) 200 head of cattle, 64 head of horses, 175 sheep and 108 head of hogs, and I have no hesitation in saying that you cannot find on any farm in Illinois an equal number of the same kind that will average as well as ours.

Further than this I will also say, that while we cannot compete in numbers with the cattle men on the plains, any more than a New England farmer can compete, size of his wheat field, with one in the Red River Vally, yet to the full capacity of his land and for the amount of money invested, we can make a better profit in raising cattle, sheep and horses than the ranchman in Montana.

You now have my experience in stock raising in this country, from which you can make your own comparisons with that of others in other localities and from which you will also find full reply to your inquiries on the subject that will be more satisfactory than if given in a general way.

One more point suggested by your letter, I will reply to by asking the question, for what purpose do your friends wish to leave their present homes? If it is that of improving their financial condition, they must go where they can realize the most for their labor. Whatever section of country they decide upon it must be remembred that they can only reap one crop of any one kind of produce in one year, and the statistics of the various States prove conslusively that the farmers of Minnesota have for years realized a better average annual return for their labor than those of any other State in the Union.

If on the contrary their purpose is merely that of finding a locality in which they can enjoy the greatest physical comfort, many may prefer a more southern clime; at the same time my own experience as a resident of Illinois, Missouri and Iowa before coming here is such as to lead me to select this State in preference to any of those named. This is a healthy climate in every respect, and where, in its invigorating atmosphere, one can enjoy all the physical comforts that come from perfect health.

I will simply add in closing that it will be a wise thing for your friends to visit Minnesota and from personal observation judge as to the natural advantages it offers to every one wanting to engage in any branch of farming.

Yours truly, Jas. B. Power.

Minnesota at the World's Exposition.

The Dairy Products of Minnesota as represented at the World's Exposition in New Orleans, bring forth the following testimony from the New Orleans Times Democrat:

Minnesota is ahead in the dairy divisions of the Exposition. It is cause for pardonable pride to Minnesotians that the highest honors in the awards on butter should belong to citizens of that State, and that in addition to the grand sweepstakes, twenty-one out of sixty-four of the class and pro rata premiums on butter should be awarded to her dairymen. It is said by those who know, that this was one of the most closely tested awards ever made in this country, so that the honors conferred here were fairly won. The result shows to the world that Minnesota is now in quality, as she soon will be in quantity, the leading dairy State in the nation. This is due to the following causes: A soil peculiarly adapted to the growth of dairy grasses; water abundant always pure and cool; a climate clear, dry and bracing, free from fogs and sultriness; and last, but not least, intelligent stock and dairymen. The dairy industry is in its infancy in the State, the first creamery established is not yet five years old, yet the amount of creamery butter made, from nothing in 1879, runs to 30,000,000 pounds in 1884.

Minnesota has 350,000 cows and room for millions more. She has a healthy climate for stock, as well as well as far people, any in the world, she can furnish premium bread and butter for Christendom and invites the attention of home seekers to her broad acres and her generous welcome.

NEW
DRUG STORE
IN GARFIELD

DR. A NELSON, Prop.

The citizens of this town and vicinity are respectfully invited to call at my new Drug Store in the town of Garfield and examine my stock of

DRUGS, MEDICINES, PAINTS, OILS AND YANKEE NOTIONS.

It is no longer necessary to go 40 or 55 miles for anything in this line, as I have a full supply at prices as reasonable as any town in the Northwest. Call and see

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON

I am also ready to answer all calls by day or night, for the practice of my profession. Call, or leave orders at my Drug Store in Garfield, Polk Co., Minn.

Dr. A. Nelson.

E. D. Schreader
LIVERY,
Feed and Sale Stable.

B ESTTURNOUTS
IN THE CITY.

Single or Double Rigs, with or withou driver or

SADDLE HORSES

Always ready at a moments notice by day or night. If you want a Nobby Turnout call at the Red Barn, Corner Main and Third Streets,

CROOKSTON. MINNESOTA

Commercial Hotel,
NORTON & BENEDICT, Prop's
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON MINN

First-class in all respects. Terms reasonable. A share of the public patronage solicited.

Wentzel & Rauch,
Sample Rooms.
Main Street, [illegible] Crookston, Minn.

For a fine mixed or straight drink call on the boys. The choicest [illegible] and cigars [illegible]

Bigham & Olafson
(Successors to Juve & Bergland,)
THE POPULAR MERCHANTS ON
Main Street, - - Crookston

Have on hand and are constantly receiving full lines of

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES,
CROCKERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS

In fact everything usually found in first-class general store.

Our goods are bought with grea re and will be sold at

LOW PRICES
FOR CASH.

FIRST National Bank,
OF CROOKSTON.

PAID IN CAPITAL, - - - $100,000
SURPLUS, - - - - 1,400

Money to loan on long or short time on approved security.
Interest on time deposits. Faithful attention to Collections and prompt remittance.
GEO. O. ERSKINE, President.
K. D. CHASE, Vice President.
CHAS. E. SAWYER, Carshier.

THE FINE THOROUGHBRED
NORMAN STALLION
HIGHLANDER

Has arrived and may be seen at the Sale Stables of Terry & Collins during the season of 1885.

PEDIGREE.

HIGHLANDER is a beautiful jet black, six years old May, 1883, stands sixteen hands high and weighs 1,650 pounds. Was sired by French Emperor, imported by M. W. Dunham, of Du Page Co., Ill. Dam sired by Sipes' imported Sampson. For terms call at the stables.

Terry & Collins,
Crookston, Minn.

Frank M. Brown
COMMISSION
STORE,
Main Street, - Crookston.
TWO DOORS NORTH OF MERCHANTS' BANK.

Consignments of Goods for
QUICK CASH SALES
SOICITED

Auction every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

YOUR PATRONAGE

Is hereby solicited, simply because I think I can satisfy you as to price and quality of anything you may want in the line of Groceries, Tobacco, Cigars.

CONFECTIONERY and NOTIONS.
Call and See Me
C. M. OHL,
Beltrami, Polk County, Minn.

Fortier's Place,
Corner Broadway and Robert Street

EVERYTHING NEW, NEAT AND NOBBY.

Billiards, Pool, and the Choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars. The purest High Proof Whiskies at wholesale prices.
PURE IMPORTED GOODS ON DRAUGHT.

IF YOU HAVE A FINE WATCH,

—OR IF YOU HAVE A—

Watch that you Value

Or if you have a WATCH OF ANY KIND that you would like put in first-class order, if you will take it to

C. H. SAAKE,

Main Street, - - Crookston, Minn.,

It will be done, and you will know exactly what it will cost you, before you leave it. All work is warranted and perfect satisfaction guaranteed. A fine stock of Watches constantly on hand.

WALL PAPER.

Headquarters at Potter & George's Drug Store--Medical Hall!

A full line direct from the East.
No two patterns alike and different from any ever shown in Crookston before.

No trouble to show our samples, and you are invited to call-YOU !

DEEP WELLS!

Having one of the Best

AMERICAN PATENT

Hydraulic Drilling Machines

I AM NOW PREPARED TO

Sink Wells to any Depth

Desired to obtain

Flowing Water

Will dig by the day, foot, or by the job. Address

IRA D. BLANCHARD,

Crookston, Minn.

THE
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
—AND—
Manitoba
RAILWAY
—WITH ITS—
1,400 MILES OF ROAD,
Is the only line extending through the
PARK REGION OF MINNESOTA
To all principal points in
RED RIVER VALLEY,
NORTHERN MINNESOTA,
NORTHERN DAKOTA,

TIME TABLE.

FROM ST. PAUL No. 3 Daily.	FROM ST. PAUL No. 1. Ex. Sun.	Stations	TO ST. PAUL. No. 2. Ex. Sun.	TO ST. PAUL. No. 4 Daily.
8 30 p m	8 00 a m	St. Paul	6 15 p m	7 00 a m
9 10 "	8 45 "	Minneapo's	2 40 "	6 25 "
7 30 a m	6 55 "	Barnesville	8 40 "	9 14 "
7 30 "	7 50 p m	Glyndon	7 30 a m	7 50 "
7 47 "	8 08 "	Averill	7 09 "	7 36 "
8 05 "	8 21 "	Felton	6 46 "	7 19 "
8 17 "	8 45 "	Borup	6 30 "	7 03 "
8 48 "	9 18 "	Ada	5 58 "	6 47 "
9 10 "	9 45 "	Rolette	5 28 "	6 20 "
9 23 "	9 58 "	Beltrama	5 08 "	6 13 "
9 49 "	10 25 "	Kittson	4 38 "	5 51 "
10 30 "	10 55 "	Crookston	4 00 "	5 00 "
10 55 "	11 20 "	Shirley	2 40 "	4 25 "
11 30 "	11 45 "	Euclid	3 17 "	3 50 "
12 10 pm	12 15 a m	Angus	2 52 "	3 16 "
12 50 "	12 40 "	Warren	2 25 "	2 55 "
1 45 "	1 10 "	Argyle	1 58 "	1 45 "
2 25 "	1 28 "	Stephen	1 31 "	1 10 "
2 55 "	1 56 "	Donaldson	1 06 "	12 18 p m
3 10 }	2 10 "	Kennedy	12 50 "	12 05 } D
3 30 }	2 26 "	Hallock	12 21 "	11 40 } am
4 05 "	2 58 "	Northcote	12 05 a m	10 40 "
5 25 "	3 50 "	St Vinc't Lv	11 30 p m	11 20 "
6 15 "	4 00 "	Emerson	10 55 "	9 15 "

Devil's Lake Division.

10 20 a m	Crookston.	5 25 p m
10 55 "	Fishers	4 45 "
11 18 "	Mallory	4 13 "
11 55 "	Grand Forks	3 50 "
12 28 "	Ojata	3 00 "
1 00 } "		2 25 " }
1 25 } " D	Arvilla	2 00 " } D
1 43 "	Larimore	1 43 "
2 02 "	Shawnee	1 18 "
2 22 "	Niagara	12 55 "
2 57 "	Michigan City	12 18 "
3 12 "	Mapes.	12 04 "
3 29 "	Lacota	11 48 "
4 40 "	Devil's Lake	10 35 a m

C. H. Warren,
Gen'l Passnger Ag't, St. Paul.
C. H. Mix,
Local Ticket Agent.

EIKEN BROS.,
Corner of Fletcher and Main Street,
Crookston, Minn.

Dealers in

ARDWARE, TIWARE,
STOVES,
—AND—
SHELFWARE.

WEKEEP A

FULL & COMPLETE
STOCK,
—AND—
Invite the Patronage
OF ALL.

Furniture Store,
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON MINNESOTA.
F. BATAGLIA, Prop.

Keeps constantly on hand a well selected stock of Wardrobes, Bureaus, Sofas, Lounges, Bedsteads, Bed Springs, Tables, Chairs, Rocking Chairs, Stands, Ornaments, Picture Mouldings and Picture Frames. REPAIRING DONE TO ORDER. Coffins of all kinds kept constantly on hand.

Polk County Journal.

Crookston, April 16, 1885

'ROUND HOME.

Kate Claxton is booked for May 2d.

In times of war prepare for peace.

Paints of all kinds at Van Dyke & Co's.

We want two thousand bushels of potatoes, at 25 cents.
[51-52] FONTAINE & ANGLIM.

C. A. Chiniquy and wife are expected home in a few days.

Jack Durkee rejoices in the arrival of a little son and heir at his house.

Catch on to the new ad of the New York store and see what they can do for you.

Glassware of all kinds, at Van Dyke & Co's.

Last Saturday was a busy day at the New York Store. George and his corps of clerks had all they could attend to. Low prices tell.

Fontaine & Anglim want all the potatoes in the country. [51-52]

Frank Lytle returned last Friday from a visit to friends in New York. He intended to start seeding Saturday. He says that we, in this favored locality, are far in advance of the New Yorkers in seeding.

For embroideries in every style and in endless varieties and prices, go to the New York store.

The 25th of April, being the 66th anniversary of Odd Fellowship in the United States, the Crookston Lodge, No. 79, proposes to give a social on that evening to which all Odd Fellows and their families are cordially invited.

The New York store shows an endless variety of dress goods in every style and price. Elegant patterns for prices to suit the times.

A dispatch from Washington of date April 14th, says: "The President today appointed Alex. McKinnon postmaster at Crookston, vice Delos Jacobus resigned." It will be a week or two yet before Aleck can sign his name with an afternoon to it, as it will require about that time for preliminaries.

10,000 samples of wall paper at cost at Van Dyke & Co's.

The Fay Templeton Opera Company appeared at the Opera House on Thursday and Friday evenings. The comments upon the performances are various. Fay and her father, John Templeton, are good commedians and the support, in the main, is excellent. We believe it is undecided whether they will play here or not upon their return from Winnipeg.

Prospects for a big row in the old country are good. While we cannot conscientiously say that we wish to see a big war, yet human nature cannot resist feeling rejoiced to see wheat go booming. While we must universally regret to see a cruel war on the other side, we should sow every available acre to wheat and thus be prepared for emergencies if they must arise.

The Chronicle don't seem to like the Fay Templeton troupe and says: "The drunken scene in this play is one that has no counterpart in this country outside of dens of shame." As we have never been inside one of those "dens" we, of course, cannot gain-say that, but we can say we were not struck that way at all; and we have heard the troupe very highly spoken of by people quite as good as the best. We think the Chronicle does the troupe injustice.

We are still offering Farm, Stock and Home to our subscribers at its cost to us, and if every farmer knew what an excellent paper it is, he would want it. Some seem to have the idea that it is offered as a premium, but as we put fully the expense of the subscription into each copy of the JOURNAL we cannot afford to do more than we do. We have to remit 25 cents for every copy of the paper we order for our patrons, but we charge nothing for our time, trouble and expense. The Farm, Stock and Home is as good as any $1.50 agricultural paper and our patrons can secure it for only 25 cents. $1.75 pays for the JOURNAL and the Farm Stock and Home. Sample copies may be seen at this office.

A. L. Jackson was in this week from the Sand Hill country. He says that the Sand Hill is on a regular tear this spring, overflowing its banks at many points. Uncle Damon Dodge has his feed submerged a foot or so and don't like it, while some others are worse off. A loss of forty or fifty hogs is reported in the Fertile country. (Where is our correspondent? Is he drowned?) and much damage is feared. Mr. Jackson says farmers will sow all the wheat they can handle so that if a war should happen to break out they will be ready to feed the hungry warriors. Mr. J. is having rather bad luck this spring with stock. He has lost a fine colt and a litter of pigs, but he is not discouraged with stock raising. He has bought a fine grade Holstein to improve his cattle, and will make stock raising a specialty as fast as he can work into it. [illegible]

Ladies' jerseys just received at the New York store. [illegible]

Theo. Greenhalgh's new house on ously.

The electric lights, after a rest of a few nights are again in full blast.

Seeding is getting well under way and will doubtless be in full blast next week.

Over 180 have signed the temperance pledge and still the good work goes on.

Wheat is getting wild. It was reported to be selling at 78 on the streets on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bartlett returned last Saturday from a visit to friends in Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Mr. T. B. Walker has returned to the city and the mill will commence to hum as soon as the river clears of ice sufficiently.

Chemical cloth-cleaning and repairing at cheapest rates, by
GJERBERG BRO'S,
[50-52] Broadway, near P. O.

At the New York store they are showing a large line of carpet samples from a large eastern firm. Call and see them in Ingrains, Tapestry and Brussels.

P. J. McGuire has built a fine resi-Section 16, Fairfax, looms up conspicu dence on his farm on Section 16, Fairfax township.

Wheat took a tumble upwards ten cents in eastern markets last week. In this market it did not climb so high but reached 75 cents.

Upon the appearance upon the stage of the pirates in Girolle-Girolla, a little six-year-old Miss whispered to her mother: "Well, I s'pose those are the pall-bearers!"

The Jolly Pathfinders are down for the 23d inst., next Thursday. Who does not remember the Jolly Pathfiners, and who does not wish for their return? We have not been informed what they will play, but rest assured it will be good.

Pat Connelly lost a valuable cow on Saturday last. The animal had been turned out of the stable in order that it might go to the river to drink. It went to the river all right but got on to the ice and in attempting to get off broke through and was drowned before it could be rescued.

The Prairie Farmer says that the British government has ordered from Chicago 9,400,000 pounds of canned beef. Figuring it down to cattle on foot the Farmer finds that to fill such an order would require 94,000 cattle. It would not require many such orders to affect the price of beef quite materially. When we consider that the war has not fairly commenced yet, we can see how this country will be affected should there be a healthy old war of long duration.

OFFICIAL VOTE OF THE CITY.

The following is the official vote of the city election, held April 7th, 1885:

Candidates.	1st Ward.	2d Ward.	3d Ward.	4th Ward.	Total.	Majority.
Mayor—
R. J. Montague,	124	130	58	104	416	142
H. Steenesson,	94	74	33	73	274
City Clerk—
John Moser....	134	147	60	105	446	203
Al. Chiniquy...	80	59	29	75	243
Treasurer—
A. C. Cowing...	134	117	59	122	432	179
H. Steege.......	79	86	31	57	253
Assessor—
J. Berthiaume,	127	75	51	120	373
M. Ericsson....	65	40	22	32	159
M. Reudy.......	26	88	16	27	157
Justices—
J. W. Lilly.....	129	58	57	104	348
Wm. Box.......	105	119	29	85	338
G. H. Palmer...	112	148	43	100	403
G. W. Lewis....	77	80	44	67	268
Constable—
E. Charboneau,	155	121	67	144	487	283
J. H. Creighton	64	84	22	34	204
Ald. at Large—
J. H. Locken...	218	206	91	180	695	695
Aldermen—
A. J. Bigham...	136					54
O. H. Bang.....	82
D. C. Terry.....		146				48
T. J. Thompson		98
F. L. Durand..			42			4
J. McLean.....			38
P. J. Lachapelle			11
R. D. Gates....				164		157
E. E. Perry....				7

The Crookston and Southwestern Railroad Company held a meeting on Tuesday evening for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. The following officers were elected:

President—T. B. Walker.
Vice President—John Cromb.
Treasurer—Wm. Ross.
Secretary—Ansel Bates.

Board of Directors—Geo. Q. Erskine, M. R. Brown, Wm. Ross, John Cromb, T. B. Walker, E. D. Childs, E. S. Corser, John McLean, C. E. Page, K. D. Chase, Ansel Bates.

The following committees were appointed:

ON FINANCE AND SURVEY.—T. B. Walker, K. D. Chase, Ansel Bates.

ON LOCAL AID.—M. R. Brown, E. D. Childs.

ON RIGHT OF WAY.—John McLean, Hon. B. Sampson. [illegible]

It was decided to put a surveying corps into the field at an early day to make preliminary survey of two routes one via Belmont and the other via Caledonia. As soon as the route is decided upon the committee on right of way will take the field to make arrangements for location. We are in possession of pointers that indicate the early building of this line, either to Tower City or to Fargo.

Edna Items.

Joseph Murphey and I. W. Webb commenced seeding last Saturday.

E. J. Ingraham and family, of Sharon, Pa., have come here, intending to make it their future home.

Big bargains in groceries at C. M. Ohl's.

C. M. Ohl met with a little accident night before last. Burglars broke into his store, but left without taking anything. Everything was marked so low they came round next morning and made purchases.

A polite man is one who listens with interest to things he knows all about when they are being told by a person who knows nothing about them.

A young miss going into our dry goods store the other day called for five cents worth of thread which she received, and asked: "How much is it?" With a bland smile the clerk, "Olofax," said, "five cents, please."

Have our saloon keepers read the address of a Judge of Chicago, who sentenced those saloon keepers for selling liquors to minors? Let them read it and take warning.

Miss Minnie Murphey took the train Friday evening for Ada, where she intends teaching.

HARKLEY HARKER.

The Prairie Farmer, under the management of that veteran agriculturist, Orange Judd, is growing better every week and we are pleased to note that its list is increasing very rapidly. In order that all the old-time friends of Mr. Judd (and their name is Legion) as well as hundreds of others who do not know him and the Prairie Farmer, its managers have decided to offer the Prairie Farmer from now until January 1st, 1886, for the small sum of ONE DOLLAR. The regular price is $2 per annum, but all who send in their names and $1 now will receive 38 numbers of that excellent paper. Mr. Judd is making the Prairie Farmer all that the old American Agriculturist used to be under his able management, and you get 52 numbers a year instead of 12. We can highly recommend the Prairie Farmer as we see it every week. We feel that we could not keep house without it, and we would advise our friends all to try it.

EDITOR JOURNAL: A movement has been inaugurated to organize the steam threshers into a mutual association. Enough names have been obtained to make the call as soon as seeding is over. The association will have the power by law to have a proper mechanical inspection of steam boilers and thus avoid the destructive effects of the cold water pressure. In the meantime I will give the JOURNAL my reasons for condemning the inspection law and its authors; also why boilers explode in a manner they all can understand.

WALLACE.

Lost. $5 Reward.

On Saturday, April 4th, a Lady's Cameo breast pin. The finder will receive a reward of FIVE DOLLARS ($5) for leaving the same at this office.

R. N. BROWN.

The United States Internal Revenue Special Tax is due May 1st. Any information and a full line of blanks can be had by calling on or addressing.

JOHN MCLEAN,
Attorney at Law,
[47-tf] Crookston, Minn.

For Sale or Trade.

One well-boring outfit. Address the JOURNAL office, Crookston. [51-2]

FOR SALE.

Pure Saskatchewan Fife wheat, Beauty of Hebron Potatoes; two fine residence lots on Hurlbut Street.
[51-2] G. L. GRAY, Crookston.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining uncalled for in the Crookston Post Office, for the week ending April 13th, 1885. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Backer, Wm	Sylvester, Marald
Clifford, A	PACKAGE.
Sullivan, Thomas	G I Brown,
Selberg, Mrs. Louis

D. JACOBUS, P. M.

SECOND STREET

MEAT MARKET

STANTON & CO., Proprietors.

Choice meats of every description. Fish and game in their season. Everything of the very best quality and lowest prices. Call and see us. STANTON & CO.
Dobson's Block, Second Street.

M. M. VANDYKE,

Physician and Surgeon,

Corner of Main and Second Streets,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Will attend to all professional calls promptly.

MERCHANTS'

BILLIARD HALL,

FRED ANDERSON, Proprietor,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
The choicest Wines, Liquors and Cigars constantly on hand.

A. A. JUST, M. D.,

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon.
Rooms corner Main street and Fletcher Avenue, over Elken Bros' Hardware Store,
CROOKSTON, POLK COUNTY, MINN.

The Ladies' Temperance Column.

[This column is placed at the disposal of the Crookston W. C. T. U., who are cordially invited to fill it each week. ED. JOURNAL.]

PLEDGE.

"Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled fermented and malt liquors, including wine and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

The W. C. T. U. will meet next Friday at 3 o'clock p. m. in Baptist chapel.

Union temperance services are being held every evening this week in the Congregational church. Much interest is manifested and we trust much good will be done. Temperance puts wood on the fire; meal in the barrel; flour in the tub; money in the purse; credit in the country; contentment in the house; clothes on the back and vigor in the body.

Friends of temperance, you are glad of this interest in temperance that has lately arisen in our city. You think it is a good work, you would like to see the interest widen and deepen. It would make our homes safer, our property more secure, our comforts and our liberties increased. There are acquaintances whom you would like to see sign the pledge; you should speak a word to them as you had the opportunity. There are dear ones whom you are longing to see involved in this movement, and you mean to try to induce them to sign; you are working for it.

Have you signed? "Oh, no, I do not need it." But O, friend of temperance, give the matter a little more thought, I pray you. You do not know whom it might give courage to see you go up and put your name to the promise. "I have no influence!" No! Then you belong to another race of beings, and ought not to be on THIS planet. That excuse is idle and unworthy so serious a subject, as your own honest self must admit. "But it is so childish, so ridiculous, so needless for me to walk up there and write my name. Everybody knows that I don't drink, and that I am on the side of temperance." It might be awkward and ridiculous, my friend, to snatch a child from under the hoofs of a runaway horse, but let us hope that you wouldn't stand back and parley with yourself about it, without making a single effort to rescue the child, however awkward it might be. Do you KNOW that it is needless? MAY it not be of help to some one? Do you want to leave undone anything—even as simple as that—that may do good? Do you want to neglect to do so simple a thing? Do you want to be a negative character in this matter so important to your fellow men?—passive, when the positive forces are so steadily at work to drag down? Do you want to go on record as silent, when the opportunity beseeches you? Has the judgment of others no weight with you? Do you want to dampen ardor, to chill enthusiasm of the workers, by being another obstacle, by detracting just so much from their strength? Don't you not rather want to stretch your influence to the uttermost limit—great or small, needed or unneeded? There's a chance, take it. "I've said I wouldn't sign." Are you so afraid of what people could say of you? Is THAT what you are bound to? Can you not command their respect by WHAT YOU DO? Must you consult the possibilities? Then your reputation is in danger. Do the right—the HIGHEST right thing, the most unselfish, the most difficult, and—the word of the wise of the world for it—you will have the deepest, the most unreserved respect of those for whose good opinion you care most. There is nothing more manly in man—in the HONEST JUDGMENT of every man and woman—nothing that more compels respect, than reverence for the highest, and the voluntary submission of self for the sake of it. "True greatness consists of being greatly serviceable." And the measure of it is the extent of our self-giving—not when we wish, and what we wish, but when the call comes.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U. MEETINGS AT NEW ORLEANS.

To The White Ribbon Army;
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT,
Evanston, Ill., Feb. 10, '85.

DEAR SISTER WORKERS:

Your response to the appeal for help, has been so prompt and generous, that the W. C. T. U. department at the "World's Exposition," New Orleans, is a splendid success. "It has more visitors in a day than attended our great National W. C. T. U. Convention," writes our indefatigable, Mrs. J. R. Nichols, who has for months past devoted herself to the enterprise. Mrs. Judge Merrick writes: "Our booth is the gem of the Exposition."

Now it is fitting that while this beautiful place illustrates the breadth of our work by elegant shields from the 48 States and Territories, its variety by banners from the 38 Departments, its beneficence by rest for the weary, cold water for the tempted, and literature for all, we should emphasize the religious and patriotic character of our work by holding public meetings. Let it be understood, therefore, that on Saturday and Sabbath, March 14th and 15th, the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union will arrange for special meetings, to be addressed by our leading representatives, of which further notice will be given in the New Orleans papers. Earnest efforts are being made by our society to help secure the closing of the Exposition upon the Sabbath day, (our own department being closed, as a matter of course,) and with good prospects of success. The Exposition is declared to be the finest ever seen in America, far exceeding that at Philadelphia in 1876. It will be at its height in March and your officers, going from the north, will earnestly hope to be greeted by a large representation of our great army from all parts of the nation.

Yours for God and Home and Native Land,

FRANCES E. WILLARD, President.
CAROLINE B. BUELL, Cor. Sec.

Our president, Mrs. Hobart, is, by the grace of God, so far recovered in health and gradually gaining in strength, that she hopes to give the month of May and perhaps a part of June to the W. C. T. Union work in this State. She will speak for Unions and also in towns where no Union exists, and organize wherever practicable. Many new Unions can be organized and a fresh impetus given to the older Unions and the work generally by this beloved sister, under whose leadership we have been richly blessed, and whose heart and energies are consecrated to the work. Let the Unions and temperance workers avail themselves of this offer for the strengthening, and upbuilding of the cause, and write her at once, that a successful trip through the State may be arranged.

JOHN KNUPPE,

R. R. LAND OFFICE.

Money to Loan on Farm Lands.

—WILL—

Buy Town Bonds,

AND SCHOOL BONDS.

Daily Globe.

An Independent Democratic Family Newspaper, Enterprising, Bright, Clean; Accurate and Impartial in the Presentation of its News; Pithy and Pungent in the Discussion of Public Questions. While Democratic in Principle, it will treat Men of all Parties with Equal Courtesy and Candor.

The GLOBE will aim to be a reflex of the Best Sentiment of the Great Northwest. It will Champion its Interests and Stimulate its Progress. It will be alive to every Interest of this Grand Section, and Vigilant in Collecting and Publishing all the Important News in the most Attractive Form.

It will stand for Honest Government, a Revised Tariff, Reduced Taxation, Repealed Treasury Surplus, the Opening of American Markets to the Nations of the World, Dethronement of Monopoly, Protected Labor, and an Honest Ballot.

TERMS.

PER YEAR, BY MAIL, POSTAGE PREPAID:

DAILY, six days in the week	$8 00
DAILY, three days in the week	4 00
DAILY, per month	75
DAILY and SUNDAY, one year	10 00
DAILY and SUNDAY, six months	5 00
DAILY and SUNDAY, per calendar month	90
SUNDAY, one year	2 00

All subscriptions payable in advance.

WEEKLY GLOBE.

Six months	$0 50
One year	1 00

TO AGENTS.

FOR 5 WEEKLIES (one free to agent)	$5 00
FOR 50 WEEKLIES (the DAILY free one year)	50 00
FOR 25 WEEKLIES (the DAILY free 6 months)	25 00
FOR 13 WEEKLIES (the DAILY free 3 months)	13 00

Specimen copies sent free.

Correspondence containing important news solicited from every point. Rejected communications cannot be preserved.

Address all Letters and Telegrams to
THE GLOBE, ST. PAUL, MINN.

All Postmasters and Country Storekeepers are its appointed Agents.

Daily Globe.

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

M. BAUENBUEHLER, Proprietor,
CORNER OAK AND THIRD STS., CROOKSTON MINN

Ready for the Spring trade with a full supply Work and Light Harness, Single and Double Saddles, Bridles, Whips, Blankets, etc. Give me a call before you purchase.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

J. E. MITTON, Proprietor,
CORNER BROADWAY AND ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.

The new Merchants' Hotel, recently re-fitted and re-furnished is now ready to accommodate the traveling public, who are cordially invited to stop at the Merchants' when in the city.

Crookston Tonsorial

PARLORS.

PROF. THOMPSON, Proprietor,
Robert Street, Crookston, Minn.
Shaving, hair dressing and all work in my line promptly attended to in the latest style of the art. Give me a call.

DENTISTRY!

J. H. THOMAS, D. D. S.
ROBERT STREET, CROOKSTON, MINN.
Artificial Teeth from one to an entire set, inserted. Gold, Silver or Artificial Filling used as desired. Regulating Children's Teeth a specialty. ALL WORK WARRANTED.

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication April 16th, 1885.]

DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN THE condition of a certain mortgage, made and dated the 14th day of May A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-three, by Etienne Leboeuf and Mary Leboeuf, his wife, to Oliver J. Blackwell, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the 8th day of June, in book "M" of mortgages on pages 77 78, conveying and mortgaging the following described premises, viz: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Being the south one-half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) and the northwest quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of Section number thirty (30) in Township number one hundred and fifty-one (151) of Range number forty-three (43) containing one hundred and twenty (120) acres of land according to the government survey thereof, to secure the payment of the sum of five hundred dollars with interest thereon from the date of said mortgage, at the rate of ten (10) per cent. per annum as in said mortgage stated, on which there is due at the date hereof the sum of five hundred and eighty-two dollars and forty-six cents ($582.46-100,) including attorney's fees as in said mortgage conditioned, and no proceedings at law having been instituted to recover any part thereof. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of said lands therein described at public auction, by the Sheriff of said County of Polk, at the front door of the Court House, in Crookston, in said County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, on the twenty-ninth day of May A. D. 1885, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, to pay and satisfy the sum herein claimed to be due on said mortgage, together with all the costs and charges of foreclosure, and such taxes as may be paid on said mortgaged premises by said mortgagee previous to the sale thereof as aforesaid.

Dated at Minneapolis, Minn., April 4th 1885.

OLIVER J. BLACKWELL,
Mortgagee.

BEN'J. W. ELLCOTT,
Att'y for Mortgagee, Minneapolis. [51-7]

MORTGAGE SALE.

[First publication April 16th, 1885.]

WHEREAS, DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE in the condition of a certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Margaret S. McLaughlin and John A. McLaughlin her husband mortgagors, to D. H. Beecher, mortgagee, dated the 15th day of September A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-four, and recorded as a mortgage, together with the power of sale therein contained, in the office of the Register of Deeds, of the County of Polk, in the State of Minnesota, on the 17th day of September A. D. 1884, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book "N" of mortgages, on page 519, which said mortgage authorized the holder thereof in case of such default to declare due and foreclose the same for the whole amount secured to be paid thereby, and whereas there is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the amount of fifty-eight dollars and thirty-two cents, being the amount secured to be paid and still unpaid, together with the sum of two and 80-100 dollars taxes due and unpaid, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and whereas, by such default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become and is operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of such power of sale contained in and recorded with said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, which sale will be made at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Crookston, in the County of Polk, and State of Minnesota, at public auction, by the Sheriff of said County, or by his deputy of the County, on Saturday the 30th day of May A. D. eighteen hundred and eighty-five, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with the interest thereon and costs and expenses of sale and twenty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage and allowed by law in case of foreclosure. The premises described in said mortgage and so to be sold are the lots, piece or parcel of land situated in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit: Lot (25) of block one (1) in McManus' subdivision of out lots, nine (9,) ten (10) and eleven (11) of Hurlbut's addition to the City of Crookston, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk County, Minnesota.

Dated Crookston, Minn., April 15th, 1885.

D. H. BEECHER,
Mortgagee.

A. P. BOND,
Att'y for Mortgagee. [51-5]

DR. M. WATTS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

OFFICE ON ROBERT STREET.

Professional calls by day or night attended to promptly.

FOR SALE

20 NEW Milch Cows, 20

—ALSO—

5 Yoke of Steers. 5

The Cows are all High Grade Shorthorns, good milkers, and will be sold

Cheap for Cash.

Call on or address

B. SAMPSON,
[48-tf] Crookston, Minn.

MERCHANTS'

Bank of Crookston.

H. B. MONTGOMERY.........President,
St. Paul, Minn.
M. R. BROWN.............Vice President,
Crookston, Minn.
J. KELSO.........Second Vice President,
Bellevue, Iowa.
Wm. ROSS.........................Cashier,
Crookston, Minn.

CASH CAPITAL, $32,000
SURPLUS, $16,533.82.

Will receive deposits and allow interest by special contract.

Buy and Sell Foreign and Domestic Exchange, make collections, and do a strictly legitimate business.

Agents for foreign passage tickets.

De Skandinaviske Sprog tales her.

WM. ROSS, Cashier.

Crookston Nurseries.

Established in 1879

Tree Claim Stock.

I will furnish my customers and others, trees and seeds for Tree Claims at reduced figures in the spring of 1885. Also all the hardier varieties of small fruits, such as Currants, Gooseberries, and Raspberries. Also good thrifty Transcendent and Hi-top Crab-Apple trees, Cottonwood and Box Elder trees. Box Elder and Ash seed, and Willow cuttings. Also garden seeds. The firm of Hazeltine Bros. was dissolved in June, 1882. E. W. Hazeltine has no interest or share in the old Crookston Nurseries. I continue business on the old grounds in Crookston. Don't fail to send for catalogue of prices.

FRANK T. HAZELTINE, Prop.
Crookston, Minn.

NEW LIVERY,

Feed and Sale

STABLES,

CORNER MAIN AND FOURTH STS.,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA
TERRY & COLLINS, Prop's.

Good Turnouts at all times at reasonable prices. Good Hearse and careful driver when needed.

H. STEENERSON,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Room 3., U. S. Land Office Building,
CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA

A. YVERNAULT,

—DEALER IN—

GENERAL

MERCHANDISE,

MAIN STREET,

Crookston, Minn.

All of my friends, both old and new, are cordially invited to call and examine my stock and get prices.

HIS FEEBLE MUSTACHE.

I have watched and waited with patience
For the growth of each baby hair.
I have scanned with a longing eagerness
The strength of the latest pair,
And after painful years of waiting
For its size to be manly and strong,
Have made up my mind it's useless to try,
There is visibly something wrong.

I have let it grow for six months—yes, more;
And e'en then it can hardly be seen.
I have watered it, vaselined it, trimmed it with care,
Yet still it remains naked and lean;
And at last worn out with impatience,
Half sick with the care of that lip,
I have stricken it off and am waiting
For some one to give me the tip.

I have followed afar with a jealous gaze
The man with more than his share.
I have looked in anger at kids with their growth
As though I didn't care,
But though to you I may seem contented,
As if I'd nothing to trouble or fear,
Don't be deceived by my satisfied look,
At times I'm kicking like a steer.

I have read the brilliant advertisements,
Some offering a large reward,
While other claim they have the stuff
To bring hair out on a board.
I have tried them all with an eager hope,
But each hope has proved forlorn;
And here at twenty-six my face is as bare
As it was when I was born.

—"Hy Tyde."

A SNOW-FLAKE.

A wandering snow-flake fell on a high-born lady's hand,
And a moment lay near a diamond ray, that flashed from a golden band:
Before the tinted white of her tapering fingers seemed Unearthly fair with the jewels rare, and the circling gold that gleamed.

But all their beauty fled, when that snow-waif downward flew,
And lay so bright that her finger white seemed turned to a yellow hue.
Ah, thus the proud of earth, though in grand attire arrayed,
Lose all their pride when they stand beside the beauty which God hath made.

A SILVER FORK.

Who can imagine a more delightful bustle of preparation than that for an approaching wedding? Not the kind where everything is given into the hands of the caterer and the florist, to be arranged as these worthies consider most proper, but another sort, where loving hands accomplish everything needed for the gala occasion. Where mysterious concoctions of cake are made, weeks beforehand, and set away to absorb a weekly drink of good old brandy; where the whitest of bride's cake, and the clearest jellies, and all sorts of toothsome delicacies come into existence in the mysterious precincts of the home kitchen; where dear friends are looked for, and included among the delights of the happy time, when the house is newly swept and garnished, and running over with flowers.

All this charming confusion was taking place in the home of the Lelands. Adelaide, the eldest daughter, was to be married the following evening to Harold Fitzgerald, who might have passed for one of the old Saxon Kings, with his fair hair and eyes of blue. Adelaide sometimes called him "My King," and Milly, Adelaide's younger sister, dubbed him "Harold, the Saxon." And so it had come about that the younger members of the family spoke of their new brother as "King."

Millicent was in high feather, for she was to be one of the bridesmaids.

The cousins, Marion and Amy, had arrived, and the three girls had been kept busy all day in unpacking numbers of parcels and boxes addressed to the bride. At last everything was arranged to their satisfaction, for this was a home wedding, where all the friends were to enjoy seeing the evidence of esteem and favor shown the young people.

"How many strange and rare things! It seems that Adelaide's friends, knowing her love for the beautiful, have sought especially for the curious and elegant," said Amy.

"Tell us about this queer, heavy fork in the velvet case; you said it had a history, didn't you Milly?" questioned Marion.

"Yes, indeed! King values that as one of his choicest treasures," answered Millicent.

"Let us sit down and rest; there is time now to listen to the story," said Amy.

"Well," began Millicent, "I don't know where to begin, at the other end or this end, or, in fact, I don't know the beginning or ending at all—just a piece, a hundred years or so, in the middle!"

"Why, how mysterious you are!" said the listeners, with one voice.

"No, not mysterious; but I sometimes wonder if there really is a beginning or end to anything!"

"Worse and worse!" cried Marion. "Go on with the story. Don't stray off into such an alarmingly large field."

"I suppose," said Milly, thoughtfully, "that I'd better tell you first about King's mother, for she it is, who makes him the gift. You have seen her, haven't you, girls? You know, then, what a lovely, high-bred old lady she is. The day she brought the case here, she told me its history, and said she had always kept it for her eldest son, and hoped he would pass it down to posterity in like manner. Mrs. Fitzgerald said that her early years were spent in a small country town, and that as she grew older she became ambitious for more of an education than she could get at home. At last it was decided, after many consultations as to ways and means, that she should go to an Eastern boarding school. The school catalogue called for the usual provision of table articles, fork, spoon, ring, and so on. An old uncle of Mrs. Fitzgerald chanced to call one evening, when these wants were discussed. The next morning Uncle John, as she called him, came in, and brought with him this fork. It had been packed away with other silver of the same kind in an old chest for years. Uncle John said, 'Now Mary, I want you to keep this fork, for it is very ancient and has passed through many strange experiences and troublous times. Years ago, when a young man, I was in business in the South, spending a good deal of time in New Orleans. I had no family, so took lodging in a good house, owned by one of the old Creole families, who were obliged to let furnished rooms to add to their income.'"

"I wonder if they were the kind Dr. Sevier lived among?" interrupted Amy.

"They must have been the poor and proud, kind, direct descendants of the early Spanish settlers; but where was I in my story?"

"Uncle John, lodging in a Creole family," suggested Amy.

"Oh, yes! He was not the only lodger, however. His neighbors on the same floor were new-comers from Santa Domingo, the eastern part of the island of Hayti. He described them as young married people, with several little children. The elders of the family wore a great look of sadness and dejection. Uncle John could not talk with them at all, for they spoke only in the Spanish language; but he became greatly interested in them, especially in the pretty black-eyed children. He kept his pockets filled with sugar-plums for their especial delectation. By and by he discovered that every two or three days something of the household belongings disappeared. Then he knew that the family were in sore straits, and he asked the landlady for information. She said that they were refugees from Santa Domingo; their father had owned an extensive coffee plantation, but had lost his life in one of the many negro insurrections in that distracted and unhappy island. These young people escaped to the United States bringing with them such portable property as they could gather up. The landlady said, that they were anxious to dispose of some of their silver, and that if he were willinging to buy it of them at its real value, it would be a favor. By these means Uncle John came into possession of these old Spanish spoons and forks. Afterward the landlady told him that the young Spaniard said he hoped the American would keep the silver in his family. He said that it was of great antiquity and had been in his own family for many years. One of his ancestors belonged to the Spanish nobility and lived at Seville, in Spain. The times were hard, with constant wars and insurrections on every hand. The nobility were much richer in aristocracy than ducats, and many of them were tempted by the tales of the wonderful gold-mine in the Spanish possessions in Hayti, which yielded a half million dollars annually to the Spanish crown, to try their fortunes in the New World."

"Do you know their names?" asked Marion.

"No, I do not, and that makes it hard for me to tell the story. I will call the New Orleans Spaniard, Don Carlos, and that will help me a little. Don Carlos' great grandfather, a Spanish nobleman, was among the earliest settlers of Santa Domingo."

"Give the g. g. a name! Call him Don Juan!" said Marion.

"All right! Don Juan it is."

"How romantic the story is getting," said Marion with interest. "Just imagine far away Spain, and the Spanish 'veiled ladies' that we read about, and the grave majestic men serenading their lady loves in the balconies above."

"And the bull fights! Probably old Don Juan used to hip! hip! hurrah! in Spanish when a bull gored some poor Christian to death," said Amy.

"At any rate, this is true," continued Milly. "Don Carlos told Uncle John, that it was a part of history in their family that their table ware was made of silver taken from the famous mine on Guadal Canal, the one that Pliny, the historian, tells about. Hannibal opened it, and it yielded him 300 pounds of silver ore daily. What do you think of that for a mining enterprise? It would make our California and Colorado millionaires green with envy, wouldn't it?"

"I don't wonder that King thinks much of that fork," said Amy.

"Now, see here; I'll count on my fingers. The thumb can be Hannibal's silver mine; the first finger, Don Juan, the nobleman, taking his wife and spoons and going to Santa Domingo, to better his fortunes—here's a big jump in the story."

"Oh, no, that's all right," said Milly. "We don't need the whole family history. The next link in the chain is the grandson, the coffee planter."

"Call him 'Ferdinand.' That's a Spanish name, isn't it?" suggested Marion.

"The second finger, then, is Ferdinand, who, together with his wife, Isabella, lost his life in a negro insurrection in Santa Domingo. The third is Don Carlos and family, fleeing to New Orleans and carrying the precious silver; the fourth is Mrs. Fitzgerald's Uncle John, buying spoons, packing in chest, and finally giving fork to niece going to boarding-school; the fifth is Mary, the niece, calmly eating Nineteenth Century dinners with an historic fork; then Mary, now Mrs. Fitzgerald, disposes of it as a wedding present to her son Harold. There you have it; centuries of history in a nutshell."

"Now then," said Milly, "I think the story is worth quite as much as the fork, and I'm going to ask Mrs. Fitzgerald to write it out; otherwise, all the fine points of possession will not be appreciated."

"That's a good idea," replied Amy, "we have spent a long time in history and imagination, when we ought to have been up and doing. Oh, King! I'm glad you've come!" was the next exclamation, as the young man with Adelaide entered the room.

"What a transition from a dark-eyed Spanish grandee to a fair-faced Saxon King!" said Amy.

"What do you mean?" asked King, surprised.

"We have been reveling in antiquity and discussing history, conjured into existence by your Spanish fork," explained Marion.

"Yes—was I not right when I said the history had no end? For here is King waiting for his fate, looking out into the future with love-lit eyes," said Milly.

"Oh, Milly, you are entirely too sentimental!" exclaimed Adelaide.

"No, my dear, she has the right of it. If I did not look into the future with 'love-lit eyes,' this world would be dark, indeed. Love is all, is everything," said King, so solemnly that the girls were awed in spite of their gayety, and Adelaide drew closer to the manly form, who was soon to be more to her than all the world beside.

"How sober we are!" said Amy. "The fork! The fork! It has given us history, and now it shall prophesy. Listen! Long life, health, happiness, with love ever increasing, until death do you part!" said Amy, in a mock heroic manner.

"You could not have wished us more, or better, dear Amy, in spite of your fun," said King.

"Milly, you can make this prophecy a part of history."—A. L. O'Brien.

Not Sufficient Preparation.

A man of middle age entered the office of an evening paper yesterday to seek employment.

"What can you do?" asked the city editor.

"Write leading articles."

"Next room, please," and the city man resumed work on a pile of copy.

"What can you do?" asked the editor-in-chief.

"Write leading articles."

"Did you ever work on a newspaper before?"

"No," said the applicant contemptuously, "but sure I'm reading 'em since I was the height of your knee."

"I'm wearing boots since I was four and can't make a pair," said the editor.

Applicant disappears.—New York Tribune.

Comparative Longevity of Men and Women.

The San Francisco Record says of the relative longevity of men and women the following: "Interesting resources concerning the comparative longevity of men and women in Europe have recently been made by the director of the bureau of statistics at Vienna. From these it appears that about a third more women than men reach advanced age. Women oftener lead quiet, regular lives. They have few bad habits, are less exposed to strong passion and excitement. It appears from the gathered statistics of the world, says the Modern age, that women have a greater tenacity of life than men. Nature worships the female in all its varieties. Among insects the male perishes at a relatively early period. In plants the semiate blossoms die earliest, and are produced in the weaker limbs. Female quadrupeds have more endurance than males. In the human race, despite the intellectual and physical strength of man, the woman endures longest, and will bear pain to which the strongest man succumbs. Zymotic diseases are more fatal to males, and more male children die than females. Deverga asserts that the proportion dying suddenly is about 100 women to 780 men; 1,080 men in the United States in 1870 committed suicide to 285 women. Intemperance, apoplexy, gout, hydrocephalus, affections of the heart or liver, scrofula, paralysis, are far more fatal to males than females.

Pulmonary consumption, on the other hand, is more deadly to the latter, which argues that we ought to give the girls of our families all the out-door exercise that they need. Females in cities are more prone to consumption than in the country. All old countries not disturbed by emigration, have a majority of females in the population. In royal families the statistics show more daughters than sons. The Hebrew women is exceptionally long-lived, while the colored man is exceptionlly short lived. Dr. Hough remarks that there are from two to six per cent more males born than females, yet there is more than six per cent excess of females in the living population. The rush and worry of the average business man in this country is apt to make him prematurely old, unless he takes judicious recreation. The females are to a great extent exempt from this over-straining about business cares, which may, in a degree, account for their superior vitality."

There can be no doubt but that in the last sentence of the above there lies the kernel of the true difference in the United States between the longevity of men and women in this country. More than one close observer, noticed that last summer and fall many men died from the over-wrought pressure brought to bear upon them who promised under more favorable circumstances to live for many years.

Some Stage Peculiarities.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

There is often more amusement in a theater than is confined to stage performances. Diplomacy is revived at Wallack's, and most of the audience, on the first night, seemed to be well enough entertained by the acting; but my own attention was distracted from the marital complications of the play to the actual spouses of the players. Osmond Tearle was the hugger and huggee of the suffering heroine in mimicry; but in an orchestra chair, with her eyes missing none of those mock demonstrations, sat his wife, formerly the Minnie Conway of theatricals, and still a beautiful woman. Annie Robe was the simulator of dramatic agony, the recipient of kisses and embraces which had the seeming heartiness of reality, as slim as Sarah Bernhardt, and equally varied in her sinuous poses of passion; but a burly British husband stood at the rear of the parquet, a close watcher of it all. Herbert Kelcey figured in the piece as a rejected lover, while his wife, Caroline Hill, used an opera glass the more distinctly to see his doings. Young Buckstone, a son of the famous London manager, had a small role, and his youthful bride, Adele Measor, solicitously gazed from a chair twenty feet away. And the veteran Wallack, wigged and rouged to look reasonably like a dramatic hero, was confronted by his matronly wife and several daughters and sons-in-law in a proscenium box. All these mentioned auditors were interested in the artistic feats of their several partners, and they did their enthusiastic share of the applauding; but I wondered if there wasn't just a little of jealous concern as to the pretended relationships on the stage before them.

Worse Than Firearms.

The editor of an Omaha paper, in commenting on several cases in that city where children died from the effects of taking cough syrup containing morphia, remarks that opiates, poisons and narcotics are more dangerous than firearms. Mothers should note this and furthermore that different Boards of Health, after making careful analyses have certified that the only purely vegetable preparation of this kind, and one that is in every way harmless, prompt and effective, is Red Star Cough Cure. Mayor Latrobe of Baltimore, and the Commissioner of Health, have publicly endorsed this valuable discovery.

A short time ago one of the strikers at the McCormick paper factory at Chicago, attempted to stop one of the company's busses on its way to the works. A Pinkerton detective inside the 'bus shot the man dead. At night a large body of strikers lately employed in the paper works gathered around its walls and made some demonstrations. Those in charge fearing an attack would be made sent for assistance, and a number of Pinkerton police were loaded into an omnibus, together with twenty-five muskets and the necessary ammunition, and sent to the works. As they neared the place they were surrounded by strikers, who stopped the vehicle and went for the men inside. Several shots were fired, but the only person hit was one of the policemen, who received a scalp wound. The police were driven out of the 'bus, their guns captured, the horses unhitched and the 'bus burned.

Exchange National Bank of Norfolk, Va., will be placed in the hands of a receiver. Over $3,000,000 are due depositors alone.

$500 Not Called For.

It seems strange that it is necessary to persuade men that you can cure their disease by offering a premium to the man who fails to receive benefit. And yet Dr. Sage undoubtedly cured thousands of cases of obstinate catarrh with his "Catarrh Remedy," who would never have applied to him, if it had not been for his offer of the above sum for an incurable case. Who is the next bidder for cure or cash?

A girl who is teaching in Colorado writes home as follows: "I have forty scholars of all ages, and teach almost everything—grammar, history, physiology, mathematics, manners, morals, common sense, personal cleanliness, fancy work, and general civilization."

Dan Mace, the well known sporting man, is reported to be dying of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections.

The new government drill shed at Winnipeg was blown down by the heavy wind recently, entailing a loss of $5,000.

* * * Rupture, pile tumors, fistulas, and all diseases (except cancer) of the lower bowel radically cured. Book of particulars two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Hon. Edmund Rice has been nominated for Mayor of St. Paul by the Democrats.

The Lucky Man.

Geo. A. Spear, the lucky man who drew the $75,000 in The Louisiana State Lottery, was met by The Tribune scribe last evening in the post office. He has not changed any since the good news came, with the possible exception that his face is now often bedecked with smiles. The wealth so suddenly heaped upon him has not elevated his head above the common herd, and he talked to the reporter the same as he used to. In answer to questions he said: "I will collect the money through the banks, the same as I would a draft, sending the lottery ticket as a draft. As to my future business, I am not fully decided upon, but I will make no change during this cold weather any way. I am clerking in the store yet, just as though nothing had happened."—Bay City (Mich.) Tribune, March 21.

Geo. A. Spear yesterday received a New York draft for $74,850, in payment of his claim against The Louisiana State Lottery. The exchange for collecting the $75,000 was $150.—Bay City (Mich.) Tribune, March 27.

Mrs. Palmelka, of Chatfield, Minn., has reached the age of 105 years.

With Ely's Cream Balm a child can be treated without pain or dread, and with perfect safety. Try the remedy. It cures Catarrh, Hay Fever and Colds in the Head. It is easily applied with the finger and gives relief from the first application. Price 50 cents. At druggists. 60 cents by mail. Ely Bros., Oswego, N. Y.

The bottle of Ely's Cream Balm that I obtained of you last summer has entirely cured my little boy of a severe attack of catarrh.—Mrs. Sallie Davis, Green Postoffice, Ala.

One of my children, a girl about nine years old, had a very bad discharge from her head and nose of a thick, yellowish matter, and was growing worse. We had two different physicians prescribe for her, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and much to our surprise in three days there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharge was apparently cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

Richard Grant White, a noted literary gentleman of New York is dead from gastritis.

It is not understood why druggists keep in stock so many kinds of medicines for coughs, colds and consumption, when it is only necessary to keep Allen's Lung Balsam, that old, reliable remedy, which is a pure vegetable preparation, and perfectly harmless, as it contains no opium in any form. Sold everywhere.

The Farmers' bank of Norfolk, Va., has failed with liabilities of $250,000.

Dairymen Getting Rich.

Progressive dairymen who are only satisfied with the best results, are adding to their wealth and conferring a benefit on society, by the rapid improvement they are making in the art of butter making. This class use Wells, Richardson and Co's, Improved Butter Color, and know by actual test that it fills every claim made for it.

Do you ever have acute pains in you left breast extending to your arms, do you ever have suffocating feelings in region of your heart? If so you have Heart Disease. Use DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR, a sure specific. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F.E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

For Bronchial, Asthmatic and Pulmonary Complaints, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" manifest remarkable curative properties. Sold only in boxes.

William W. Astor, late minister to Italy, has returned to New York. He likes Rome, and says he may build a winter residence there.

The purest, sweetest and best Cod Liver Oil in the world, manufactured from fresh, healthy livers, upon the sea-shore. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market. Made by CASWELL, HAZARD & Co., New York.

"I wish I could find something that would cure galls and prevent the hair coming in white," is an expression frequently heard. Veterinary Carbolisalve will always do it. Sold by Druggists.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Allen's Lung Balsam
A GOOD FAMILY REMEDY!
THAT WILL CURE
COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP!
MOTHERS,
Have you delicate, weakly children, who are always taking cold and subject to Croup? Remember, there never was a case of Croup which did not originate in a cold! Lung Balsam is your remedy.
READ THE FOLLOWING:
WHOOPING COUGH CURED.
O. A. HARRIS, of Benevolence, Ga., writes, Dec. 13, 1884: "My little boy, but little more than a year old, had a severe attack of WHOOPING COUGH, which my family physician said could not be cured, as it was winter. Having heard of the merits of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, I immediately proceeded to town and purchased a bottle. To my surprise, this one bottle cured him sound and well. Others, hearing of the result, tried it, with equally good results. Later, my two little girls had Whooping Cough, and one bottle cured both of them. We think Whooping Cough is not much to be dreaded, if ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM can be had and given.
By its faithful use CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED, when other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.
DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed, but try this remedy and you will not be deceived.
It will cure when all others fail.
Directions accompany each bottle.
As an Expectorant it has no Equal.
It Contains no Opium in Any Form.
CALL FOR ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.
It is Sold by MEDICINE DEALERS generally.

Cuticura
A POSITIVE CURE for every form of SKIN and BLOOD DISEASE
FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.
ECZEMA, or Salt Rheum, with its agonizing itching and burning instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP and a single application of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure.
This, repeated daily, with two or three doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, to keep the blood cool, the perspiration pure and unirritating, the bowels open, the liver and kidneys active, will speedily cure Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Lichen, Pruritus, Scall Head, Dandruff, and every species of Itching, Scaly and Pimply Humors of the Skin and Scalp, with Loss of Hair, when the best physicians and all known remedies fail.
CUTICURA REMEDIES are absolutely pure, and the only infallible Blood Purifiers and Skin Beautifiers free from poisonous ingredients.
Sold everywhere. Price, Cuticura, 50 cents, Soap, 25 cents, Resolvent, $1. Prepared by POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.
Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

TUTT'S PILLS
25 YEARS IN USE.
The Greatest Medical Triumph of the Age!
SYMPTOMS OF A
TORPID LIVER.
Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Restlessness, with fitful dreams, Highly colored Urine, and
CONSTIPATION.
TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.
They Increase the Appetite, and cause the body to Take on Flesh, thus the system is nourished, and by their Tonic Action on the Digestive Organs, Regular Stools are produced. Price 25c. 44 Murray St., N.Y.
TUTT'S HAIR DYE.
GRAY HAIR OR WHISKERS changed to a GLOSSY BLACK by a single application of this DYE. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously. Sold by Druggists, or sent by express on receipt of $1.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS
The finest tonic for nervous people is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures perfect digestion and assimilation, and the active performance of their functions by the liver and bowels. As the system acquires tone through the influence of this benign medicine, the nerves grow stronger and more tranquil, headaches cease, and that nameless anxiety which is a peculiarity of the dyspeptic, gives way to cheerfulness. To establish health on a sure foundation, use the peerless invigorant. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

EVERY SPOOL WARRANTED
100 ILL'D PAGE PAMPHLET WITH RULES FOR KNITTING, EMBROIDERY, CROCHET, ETC., SENT FOR 10 CENTS IN STAMPS. WASTE EMBROIDERY SILK, ASSORTED COLORS, 40 CTS. PER OZ. WASTE SEWING SILK, BLACK OR ASSORTED 25 CTS. PER OUNCE.
EUREKA SILK CO., Chicago, Ill.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR HOPS
AND MALT
BITTERS.
TAKE NO OTHER if you wish a CERTAIN CURE for BILIOUSNESS, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, LOSS OF APPETITE and SLEEP. Nothing was ever invented that will TONE UP THE SYSTEM in the Spring of the Year equal to HOPS and MALT BITTERS. The GENUINE are manufactured by the HOPS AND MALT BITTERS CO. of Detroit, Mich.

DISEASE BANISHED
Health Gained,
Long Life Secured,
BY USING
KIDNEY-WORT
It Purifies the Blood,
It Cleanses the Liver,
It Strengthens the Kidneys,
It Regulates the Bowels.
TRUTHFUL TESTIMONY.
KIDNEY DISEASES.
"I suffered day and night with Kidney troubles, my water was chalky and bloody, I could get no relief from doctors. Kidney-Wort cured me. I am as well as ever. FRANK WILSON, Peabody, Mass.
LIVER COMPLAINT.
I would not be without Kidney-Wort if it cost $10. It cured my Liver and Kidney troubles after I had lost all hope. SAM'L HODGES, Williamstown, W. Va.
PILES! PILES!!
I suffered for 12 years from Piles, as none but those that have been afflicted can realize. Kidney-Wort quickly cured me. LYMAN T. ABELL, Georgia, Vt.
CONSTIPATION.
I was a great sufferer from diseased Kidneys and was terribly constipated for years. I am now at seventy as well as ever I was in my life and it is due alone to Kidney-Wort. C. P. BROWN, Westport, N.Y.
RHEUMATISM.
"After suffering for thirty years from Rheumatism and kidney trouble, Kidney-Wort has entirely cured me." ELBRIDGE MALCOLM, West Bath, Me.
FEMALE COMPLAINTS.
"Kidney-Wort has cured my wife after two years suffering and weakness, brought on by use of a Sewing Machine." DR. C. M. SUMMERLIN, Sun Hill, Ga.
FOR THE BLOOD.
"The past year I have used Kidney-Wort more than ever, and with the best results. Take it all in all, it is the most successful remedy I have ever used." PHILLIP C. BALLOU, M. D., Monkton, Vt.
MALARIA.
"Chronic Malaria for years, with liver disease made me wish for death. A European trip, doctors and medicine did no good, until I used Kidney-Wort—that CURED me." HENRY WARD, Late Col. 69th Reg., N. G. S. N. Y., Jersey City, N.J.
It acts at the same time on the KIDNEYS, LIVER and BOWELS stimulating them to healthy action and keeping them in perfect order. Sold by all Druggists, Price $1.00 Liquid or Dry. The latter can be sent by mail.
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO.,
BURLINGTON, VERMONT, U. S. A.
KIDNEY-WORT

Men Think they know all about Mustang Liniment. Few do. Not to know is not to have.

BUY ONLY
PATENT SWING SOCKET FASTENING
SCYTHE SNATHS.
Every Snath perfect and of second growth
VERMONT WHITE ASH.

5,000,000 White Willow Cuttings & Forest Tree Seedlings. The largest stock in Dakota. JULIUS H. THOMPSON, Lake Preston, King'by co. Dak

ALLEN'S IRON TONIC BITTERS
The most Elegant Blood Purifier, Liver Invigorator, Tonic, and Appetizer ever known. The first Bitters containing Iron ever advertised in America. Unprincipled persons are imitating the name; look out for frauds. See that the following signature is on every bottle and take none other:
J. P. Allen
Druggist & Chemist
ST. PAUL, MINN.

MINNEAPOLIS SCHOOL FURNITURE CO.,
Sole Manufacturers for the Northwest of
THE PATENT CHALLENGE AUTOMATIC
SCHOOL SEATS,
Which fold on patent solid taper BABBIT JOURNALS. The seat joint is bored to a standard size, making a PERFECT JOINT; is NOISELESS AND EVERLASTING.
Capacity of our works 125 seats a day. Our work will stand, being made from thoroughly kiln dried lumber.
Address Minneapolis School Furniture Co., Minneapolis, Minn. P. O. Box, 518.
No. 3.

SWEET GUM & MULLEIN
The sweet gum taken from the tree of the Southern swamps contains a stimulating expectorant principle which loosens the phlegm, and cuts the false membrane, relieving the early morning cough in Consumption, curing Coughs, Croup, and Whooping Cough. This, combined with the mucilaginous healing and flesh producing principle in the Mullein Plant of the old field, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, and Consumption. For full information send ct. stamp for "Taylor's Riddle Book" for the welfare of home and amusement of the little ones.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

25,000
Bushels of the famous
Saskatchewan Fife Wheat
For Sale for Season of 1885.
The most remarkable Wheat ever brought to the Northwest. Has yielded the past season right along from 50 to 100 per cent. more than the Common Fife, sown beside it. Our illustrated 16-page Catalogue, containing its history, together with numerous testimonials from those who have tried it, sent free on application. Address W. J. ABERNETHY & CO., Originators and Proprietors, 42 Third street South, Union Building, Minneapolis.

STROWBRIDGE
BROAD CAST
SOWER
BEST! CHEAPEST! SIMPLEST!
Sows all grains, grass seeds, plaster, salt, ashes, commercial fertilizers — everything requiring broadcasting—any quantity per acre, better and faster than any other method. SAVES SEED by sowing perfectly even. Not affected by wind, as seed is not thrown upwards. Sows half or full cast, on either or both sides of wagon. Readily attached to any wagon or cart without injury, and used wherever they can be driven. Lasts a lifetime. Sows 80 acres wheat per day. Crop one-fourth larger than when drilled. Only perfect Broadcaster made; most accurate agricultural implement in the world. Endorsed and recommended by Agricultural colleges and best farmers in U. S. Fully warranted—perfectly simple. Do not be put off with any other. Send at once for new free illustrated catalogue with full information and hundreds of testimonials.
C. W. DORR, Manager
RACINE SEEDER CO.,
258 FOURTH ST., DES MOINES, IOWA

Downright Cruelty.
To permit yourself and family to "Suffer!"
With sickness when it can be prevented and cured so easily
With Hop Bitters!!!

Having experienced a great deal of "Trouble!" from indigestion, so much so that
I came near losing my Life!
My trouble always came after eating any food—
However light
And digestible,
For two or three hours at a time I had to go through the most
Excruciating pains,
"And the only way I ever got"
"Relief!"
Was by throwing up all my stomach contained. No one can conceive the pains that I had to go through, until
"At last!"
I was taken! "So bad that for three weeks I
Could eat nothing!
My sufferings were so that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain; their Efforts were no good to me.
At last I heard a good deal
"About your Hop Bitters!
And determined to try them."
Got a bottle—in four hours I took the contents of One!
Next day I was out of bed, and have not seen a
"Sick!"
Hour, from the same cause since.
I have recommended it to hundreds of others. You have no such
"Advocate as I am."—Geo. Kendall, Allston, Boston, Mass.
Columbus Advocate, Texas, April 21, '83.
Dear Editor:—I have tried your Hop Bitters, and find they are good for any complaint. The best medicine I ever used in my family.
H. TALENER.

None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BUY SALZER'S (La Crosse, Wis.) SEEDS.

Learn Telegraph or Shorthand and earn big wages. Situations guaranteed. Valentine Bros. Janesville, Wis.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Catalog free. J. A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.

NATIONAL HOTEL, $2 a day house for New house, new furniture. Only $2 a day house in Northwest with Elevator. J. B. Amos Prop. 205 Wash. Av., S., Minneapolis, Minn. $2

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till Cured. Dr. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER A SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. No knife! No Plaster! No pain! W. C. Payne, M. D., Marshalltown, Iowa.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR
L. L. SMITH & CO., Agents, Palatine, Ills.

SCOTCH PINE, 4 to 6 feet, for Parks, Lawns, Cemeteries, Screens and Shelter-belts. The largest stock in America. H. M. THOMPSON & SON, St. Francis, Milwaukee Co., Wis.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug bearing a red tin tag; that Lorillard's Rose Leaf fine cut; that Lorillard's Navy Clippings, and that Lorillard's Snuffs, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

BIG BOSTON Minneapolis, cor. of Washington and 2nd Av. S. is now filled with the finest of Spring Goods, including all the very latest Novelties in Men's Youth's and Children's suits and overcoats, Fine Furnishing Goods and all of the latest blocks of Soft, Stiff and Silk hats. Goods sent C. O. D. to all parts of the country subject to examination and if not satisfactory, returned at our expense. Mail orders solicited.

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

DRS. WHITTIER.
214 East 7th Street, St. Paul, Minn. Regularly Graduated and legally qualified; longer engaged in Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases, than any physicians in America. Medicines sent by mail or express. Diseases from Indiscretion, Excess or Exposure, Nervousness, Debility, Melancholy, Loss of Spirits, rendering marriage improper, cured. Safely, privately, speedily. No change of business. Pamphlet and symptom lists free, a friendly talk costs nothing. HIS CELEBRATED WORK, 260 pages, Elegant cloth and gilt binding. Sealed, for 50 cents in money or postage. Over fifty wonderful pictures on life, health, marriage, disease, decline, treatment. Same, paper cover, 25 cts. by mail, sealed. State case, and get time and cost of cure.

$1000 REWARD THE VICTOR
For any machine hulling and cleaning fit for market as much Clover Seed in ONE DAY as the VICTOR DOUBLE HULLER. Illustrated circular mailed free. NEWARK MACHINE CO., Columbus, Ohio. has made $100 often in ONE DAY.

S.S.S.
From experience I think Swift's Specific is a very valuable remedy for cutaneous diseases, and at the same time an invigorating tonic.
JAMES JACKSON, Chief Justice of Ga.
Atlanta, Sept., 1884.

INOCULATED POISON.—After trying all the other remedies, Swift's Specific has cured me sound and well of a terrible blood poison contracted from a nurse.
MRS. T. W. LEE, Greenville, Ala.

POISON OAK.—A lady here has been entirely cured of poison oak poison by the use of two bottles of S. S. S.
R. S. BRADFORD, Tiptonville, Tenn.

ULCERS 25 YEARS.—A member of my church has been cured of an ulcerated leg of 25 years standing with two bottles of Swift's Specific.
P. H. CRUMPLER, Pastor Meth. Ch., Macon, Ga.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Disease mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 159 W. 23d St., N. Y.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. No Seeds produce finer Flowers, Vegetables and Crops, than our reliable Northern Grown Seeds. All tested. Don't buy worthless Seeds when for less money ours are delivered FREE BY MAIL at your door. Catalogue free. JOHN A. SALZER, La Crosse, Wis.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND
SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

BUY NORTHERN GROWN SEEDS. Seeds (our growth), produce by all odds, the finest Flowers, best Vegetables and largest farm crops—increasing yields fully ½ to ⅓. Try them. New Vegetables, Wheat, Oats, Barley, etc. Roses and Plants by 100,000. We will pay to get our new catalogue, free. JOHN A. SALZER, Seed Grower, La Crosse, Wis.
Conceded that our tested reliable Northern

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND
IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best
FEMALE POPULATION.
Price $1 in liquid, pill or lozenge form.
Its purpose is solely for the legitimate healing of disease and the relief of pain, and that it does all it claims to do, thousands of ladies can gladly testify.
It will cure entirely all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the change of life.
It removes Faintness, Flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves Weakness of the Stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. Send stamp to Lynn, Mass., for pamphlet. Letters of inquiry confidentially answered. For sale at druggists.

Many a Lady
is beautiful, all but her skin; and nobody has ever told her how easy it is to put beauty on the skin. Beauty on the skin is Magnolia Balm.

IKE'S BANNER.

"I'se never born to go to church," tearfully exclaimed little Ike Judd, as his patient mother combed out the curly locks of her only son and heir, preparatory to his pilgrimage to the Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Judd lived at L——, a small town in western Illinois. They were poor; but in spite of this misfortune, if such it may be termed, they were decidedly rich in the possession of a family heirloom which had been handed down from generation to generation with unbroken faith. It was an old saying.

"The Judd family are noted for their extreme piety."

It was the oft-repeated expression of an aged Methodist minister, a rugged pioneer in the Church militant, who, in his journeyings in those early days, had oft and again been the welcome guest at the hearthstone of many a representative of this remarkable family, whose name, it seems was legion throughout the wide scope of country in which this patriarch was wont to labor.

And this, his favorite expression, repeated in the experience meeting, on the camp ground, and around the festal board, became of history, and as the Judd family passed from one generation to another this religious appellation clung to them, and followed the family name like a benediction.

The grand old prelate has long since been gathered to his fathers, and ere Ike Judd, who, this bright Sunday morning, is receiving his ablutions with grief, shall have reached his majority, four score and ten winters will have swept the autumn leaves over that old man's grave.

And thus, early in life, greatly to the sorrow of his loving parents, Ike had sounded the key-note of revolt. He "was never born to go to church or Sunday-school, either, for both were the same to him. Both were a terror to his young heart, and even as he grew older the feeling of aversion to places of divine worship grew upon him.

Certainly, here was a break in the golden chain. Was it possible that Ike Judd, sole heir to a sacred heirloom of generations, would cast away and ignore his birthright?

But Ike was a dutiful son, and, though he regarded Sunday-schools and churches with terror, nevertheless attended with mediocre regularity.

At school he was fairly bright, surpassing many of his older companions in their studies. At work or play he was earnest or diligent. Taking it all in all, Ike was far from being a "bad boy." But he "was never born to go to church."

As he grew older his distaste in this regard seemed to grow upon him. He could not bear to hear the teacher tell the same old stories of how bad little boys were punished, while good little boys died early and, of course went to Heaven. He once took a book from the Sunday-school library which was so full of horrible stories that he could not sleep for a whole week without having dreadful dreams. But a too generous portion of fruit cake may have had something to do with them. We don't exactly know.

The long sermons "made his bones ache," as he often said. So his parents at last gave up trying, and Ike was free to go or not, as he chose. But it was a sore affliction to these worthy people.

At last the time came for Ike to leave his home and seek his fortune elsewhere. To how many thousands of other boys has this time come? So one bright September evening Ike bade the old home and his parents an affectionate farewell.

"You will write to me, Ike, and I know you will be good; but won't you promise me to go to church or Sunday-school sometimes?" whispered his mother.

"Yes, mother I'll write often, and—well, I'll go to church, too, sometimes. Good-bye!"

And he was gone, and out into the world.

It is needless for us to follow our hero through the sundry and manifold vicissitudes he encountered in his pilgrimage. His battle with the world differed little from that of other young men who started just as he did.

First, an odd job here; another there; then a menial's position at a menial's salary; then something higher and better, till in a few short years we find that Ike is an experinced telegraph opperator on a great line of railway running through the West.

The place at which Ike was stationed was an important railroad centre, and his position was one of importance and trust. He soon became quite popular with his employers, and especially with a large number of railroad men who made the city of C——, their headquarters.

In all these years that Ike had been absent from home he never forgot his mother. He often wrote to her, and his assurance that he occasionally attended divine worship, together with the report that he was "doing well," filled the hearts of his parents with great joy. How little did they know that their most earnest prayers were, in time, to be answered!

One bright Sunday morning, as Ike was strolling over the beautiful city, his attention was attracted to a procession composed of young people, who were marching into a church near by. Their leader bore in his hands a staff from which floated a gorgeous banner of white silk exquisitely embroidered, and which bore these words: "Be ye faithful unto death!" Instinctively joining the throng of children that was pouring into the church, Ike also entered and took a quiet seat in a corner.

The exercises were of no unusual interest to him, however, and he was rather glad when the closing hymn was sung. He was about to leave the church when an announcement from the superintendent arrested his attention. It was this:

"My dear children, the monthly offerings of the various classes have been received and counted. Once again does the Bible class receive the banner, having made the largest contribution to the missionary fund. God bless them, they are doing a noble work. But, little children of the other classes, do not be discouraged. 'Be ye faithful,' and you may yet receive the beautiful banner."

With this the school was dismissed. As the children crowded out, following the Bible class, whose leader still proudly carried the banner, Ike noticed a group of little children standing near a young lady, watching the banner with longing eyes. This was the infant class with their teacher. Oh, how hard had these little ones tried to earn that banner. Their pennies, many no doubt the fruit of self-denial, had gone toward the cherished object. Not that they would not have given them for for charity as willing, but, oh! they longed to possess that beautiful banner. And had never succeeded.

"Oh, dear," sighed one little cherub, "We have tried and tried to earn that banner. I don't believe we'll ever get it."

"Don't be envious, dear," said Stella C., their teacher, "'be ye faithful,' and we may win it some day."

Ike was an interested listener to this conversation. It set him to thinking. He went to his room. Then he said to himself: The infant class shall have the banner."

Knowing that the rule was that the class contributing the most money toward the missionary fund during the month was entitled to carry the banner for the ensuing month, he betook himself to assertain how much the Bible class were in the habit of contributing each week. This he learned by calling on the superintendent, whom he happened to know. It was two dollars per week. The young men composing the class had had the banner almost all that year. Sometimes they did not attend regularly, but would always make their contributions. The infant class were always in full attendance with their lessons learned and their pennies ready, but each succeeding month doomed them to disappointment.

Next Sunday Ike was at the church and took his seat behind the infant class, although the superintendent invited him to "come up higher." Perhaps it was a better seat there, or perhaps there was a charm in the deep blue eyes of Stella C——, the teacher of the infant class—we will not attempt to guess.

When the hour for sealing up the money envelopes came, Ike leaned over to the seat where Stella sat, and handing her a crisp bank bill, whispered: "To go with the contribution of the infant class toward securing the banner." Then he was gone. The next month our infant class were awarded the banner. The surprise of the school, especially the Bible class, was nothing compared to the joy of those little ones.

But Ike did not cease his visits to the Sunday-school. In time he learned to know each little one of the infant class by name, and more than that, became the warm friend of their teacher.

As before stated, Ike had many friends among the railroad men, and to them he confided his secret of the banner. It at once took like wild-fire among them. Rough and strong as they were, the story of the little infant class and the banner touched them.

"Let's keep the banner in that class, boys," said Ike. It was the signal of a grand donation. Ike was made treasurer of "Ike's Banner Fund," and the contributions were liberal. Occasionally a railroad man, who had heard of the matter from some friend, would say to Ike, "Here's a 'shiner' for the fund, Ike."

"The fund" grew, and as it required but a small stipend weekly to keep the infant class ahead in contributions, the treasury was always quite full.

One day death invaded that infant class. It was a sad death. Little Amy Moor's parents were very poor—she was the joy of that humble home.

Ike heard of this sad event and the circumstances of the parents through Stella, and he decided that this was a time when "The Fund" should be drawn upon. And it was. After that sad funeral; after the little white coffin had been buried in the grave where a wilderness of flowers had been strewn; after the earth had been shovelled back, the solemn company of people returned homeward. The infant class, their teacher, and Ike alone remained to strew this tiny, new made grave with flowers. And the banner was there. "Be ye faithful unto death." The sorrowing and poverty-stricken parents were not forgotten by "Ike's Fund."

Our little infant class had now learned to love Ike dearly, and, as for Stella, I am sure she thought very highly of our hero.

A picnic. The Sunday-school was to have a picnic in the large grove a few miles south of the city. The much-longed-for day dawned at last, bright and clear, and scarcely had the sun gotten out of bed when load after load of happy children and their teachers were wending their way to the grove.

"You will come down during the day, won't you, Ike?" said Stella as the former helped the little ones, one by one, into the big wagon.

"Yes, I'll try to come down on No. 5. The road runs within half a mile of the grove, and I'll ride down on the engine with Jack, and he'll let me get off at the big bridge."

"Well, Ike, we'll meet you at the big bridge and have a lunch ready."

So they drove away, the banner floating proudly in the morning breeze.

No. 5, happened to be late that day and did not arrive until noon. Besides the regular train there were an extra number of coaches filled with excursionists going west.

"Jack, I want to ride down to big bridge on the engine and get off there. Am going to the picnic at the grove."

"All right, Ike; we've got a heavy train, and we are an hour behind; but I guess we can make it up."

Ike had always had a desire to run an engine, and often when riding with some good-natured engineer friend they would allow him to "run der machine" a few miles.

"Can I handle her down to the bridge, Jack?"

"Yes, I guess so; but we must make up time. Put on steam."

Away they flew. The long train thundered down the gentle declivity, and the ponderous engine swayed and rocked and rushed forward like the wind.

"Ease her a little, Ike; we're nearing the bridge."

Just then, as they shot around the curve, Ike's eye caught sight of a white signal.

"My God! Jack, see that signal? There's danger ahead!"

Then began the struggle. Steam was shut off and the engine reversed, as the long, shrill whistle sounded for the extra brakes.

There on the bridge, the little children clinging to her in terror, stood Stella, waving the banner frantically to and fro. Onward came the train, thundering and roaring upon them. But there she stood, pale as death, surrounded by those little ones, fighting for the lives of those on board—and for his.

And how the heroes of the engine worked! At last the train was under control and was stopped at the brink of destruction.

Two broken rails lay across the bridge. Some villian's work. Our infant class and their teacher had come to meet their friend, and found this death-trap. And there, in the face of the king of terrors, they were "faithful."

And were not this class and its teacher rewarded for their bravery?

Yes, and there was a wedding soon afterward. Ike and Stella were there, and so was the infant class. And so, also, was "Ike's banner."

HE TRIED THE WRONG MAN.

Two Confidence Men Meet and Enjoy a Ride in a Railroad Train.

A tall, red-haired young man with an innocent face and a black necktie sat alone in a car seat on one of the swift flying trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad bound for Washington. He had just begun to read a copy of the Christian Advocate when a benevolent-looking middle-aged man entered and sat down beside him. For an hour the young man read his paper, and the old man watched the telegraph poles go by. Becoming tired of this amusement the stranger fished a half dozen little pill boxes out of a deep pocket in his overcoat and placed them in his lap. The young man put away his paper and eyed his neighbor, who pulling out a roll of bills from his vest pocket, selected a note and placed it in one of the pill-boxes.

"Do you suppose you could select the box containing the bill?" he asked of the young man with a smile, and a look that seemed to say, 'Let us be sociable."

"Don't think I could," laconically replied the latter pulling his moustache.

The stranger himself picked out th box, took out the bill and put a $10 note in its place. This time, however, a corner of the bill was left sticking out after the cover had been put on the box.

"Now do you think you could pick it out?" he said, showing his teeth.

"Of course I could," replied the young man.

"Well, if you will give me a dollar, I let you try."

"Oh, no, I wouldn't do that. You're not sharp at all. You've left a corner of that bill sticking out of the box so any fool could pick it out."

"Why, of course," said the sharper, apparently confused by the discovery. "How could I make such a blunder?" Thereupon he took out the $10 bill and put in its place a bright, new $20 note. The corner of the bill stuck out as before, but the man pretended not to notice it.

"Now will you try it?" he continued, after wiping his forehead with a red handkerchief. 'Give me a dollar and take your pick.' "You've got a chance to make $19 in clean money."

The young man's face did not show the least animation at this declaration. If there was the beginning of a smile hidden under his moustache it did not reveal itself when he answered:

"You are a stranger to me. I don't want to take $19 out of you; it wouldn't be gentlemanly in me to do so. If we were old friends the case would be different. But I see plainly you are not used to the wicked ways of this world. You are not sharp. You have left the corner of that $20 note sticking out of the cover just as you did the other. You ought to go and work on a farm awhile, you ought."

The perspiration poured from the sharper's forehead. He had caught a Tartar, and had had a hard time of it too. The red-headed young man took the boxes out of his neighbor's hand, and, after returning the $20 note, said:

"Perhaps you would like to try your hand at picking out the lucky box? I'll put this $50 bill in this one and a $10 note in this box. Give me $5 and you shall try your luck."

The man reluctantly paid over the money, and after the young man had shaken up the boxes in his hat, took up one from which the green corner of a note appeared. When he had pulled off the cover he found it contained only a piece of a revenue stamp. His face fell at the discovery.

"Try it again," said his tormentor.

He tried it again, but with no better luck.

"Take the lot," laughed the young man, pouring them into his neighbors' lap.

The swindler opened every box, but not a sign of a bill appeared.

"Here are the bills safe in my pocket," said the bright young fellow, producing the notes from his vest pocket and shaking them in his neighbor's face.

"The next time you want to try your game on a stranger, don't pick out a man who is in the same business as yourself. Ta! ta!"

The red-haired youth was an expert confidence man from 'Frisco.

An Iowa Girl Who Dares.

From the Iowa Falls Sentinel.

Not many months ago, a young lady walked into our sanctum and applied for work. Her father was dead. He had been a newspaper man all his lifetime and in his office she had acquired some koowledge of types. This girl, but sixteen years old had started out against her mother's wish to get work away from home and help support the family, for the father had not left them rich. We admired the bearing, and confident tone and the honest clear eyes of that girl. She procured work in a town between here and Cedar Rapids. Recently we recieved a paper with the name of this young lady at the head as editress, her mother having purchased the former paper that her husband had ownd. In a recent issue of the paper is the following item:

"If any one was to tell you an editress not a thousand miles from Eagle Grove grasps the handle of her Washington hand press and pulls off her whole edition without stopping in less than three ours, you wouldn't believe that would you? Well it's true."

The fair and plucky editress is Miss Katie Prehm, of the Eagle Grove Times. We point her out as an example of Iowa's heroic women, and she deserves great recognition at the hands of the craft and of the public. She is one of a thousand, a brave, handsome, energetic, honest and deserving little woman. May her "edition" sometime require a power press worked three hours to finish.

Gen. C. F. Hatch of Minneapolis was an early schoolmate and friend of Gov. Cleveland. It is intimated by his friends that this early intimacy is going to be worth a postoffice to him now.

FARM, FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

Farming Paragraphs.

Mr. G. L. Hulbert, Berlin, Mich., sold $108 worth of sage last year and raised 250 bushels of popcorn.

"Hog" is defined by The Cedar Rapids Republican as "only an abbreviation for condensed corn."

It is estimated that 200,000 tons of beet sugar will be consumed in this country during the coming year.

They have found one place in Oregon where the snow is only seven feet deep, and the people are pointing to it and calling: "Come West, if you want eternal summer."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. John Gould remarks that it is better to buy a good animal with a poor pedigree than a poor animal with a good pedigree.

In counting railroad freights, the charge is generally by the ton. Thirty-three and one-third bushels of wheat, or 35 2-3 bushels of corn, make a ton.

"Too much style" is said by the Lansing Republican to have cost a schoolmistress her position at Yankee Springs, Mich. "She was dismissed because she would not eat fat pork."

The discomfiture and helplessness of the Washburn & Moen barbed wire sharks shows what the people can do with a monopoly if they set about it.—Western Rural.

A Dakota correspondent says flax is a paying crop there; that farmers must give more attention to stock and less to wheat; and, "hard times have caused a stay in the advancing prices of lands."

Pray look to the cellars. Decaying apples, pumpkins, potatoes, cabbages, turnips and the like are thought to be the causes of malignant fevers, diphtheria and the like.

The Saginaw Courier is "confident that the era of wholesale land robbery has nearly ended." "Good reason why," comments the Philadelphia Record, "the wholesale land has nearly ended too."

The barbed wire monopoly is approaching its end through the lapsing of patents.

It is generally best to cut all the wood wanted for each year's fuel from one division of the woodlot, cutting everything close, and protecting the sprouts from cattle. All will then grow up together, thickly, trim and straight. The less valuable can be chocked by sprouting off in August. In about fifteen years there will be a strong growth again, fit for many uses.

There is nothing that farming so much needs as more brains and brain-work in studying the necessities and capabilities of the farm, and in systematically planning its work, and then tenacity in intelligently working out these plans. Thought, system and persistency are the foundation pillars of successful farming!

We quote the following remedy for chapped hands from The Boston Journal of Chemistry for J. H.: Eight ounces glycerine, two ounces water, one of statch, one of arnica tincture. Heat the glycerine water and starch until it becomes a transparent mass. When nearly cool add the tincture of arnica, and perfume with oil of rose. If desired, it can be colored with tincture of alkanet.

At a meeting in Canada a speaker asked what crop the farmers of the country considered to be the hardest on the land, whereupon the Toronto Globe says, "there were cries of Oats from all parts of the house." Mr. Mills asked if it was not a fact that farmers generally sowed oats at the end of a rotation on land that would not produce other cereal crops; and if it were not true that oats would thrive where most other crops would not. He said it was perhaps true that oats were harder on land than wheat, but not so much so as was generally supposed."

Cookery.

Orange Pie.—Grated rind and juice of two oranges, four eggs—save whites for frosting—one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of milk, one teaspoon of cornstarch, butter the size of an egg.

Roast Spare-Rib.—Take a nice spare-rib with part of the tenderloin left in; season with salt and a little pepper, sprinkle with sage or summer savory; put it in a pan with a little water; baste often and roast until nicely browned and thoroughly well done.

Roast Leg of Pork.—Cut a slit near the knuckle and fill the space with sage and onion; chopped fine, and seasoned with pepper and salt, with or without bread crumbs. Rub sweet oil on the skin to prevent blistering and make the crackling crisp; the rind may be scored about once in half an inch. If the leg weighs seven pounds it will require three hours roasting. Serve with apple sauce.

Preparing Tripe.—First have the tripe washed very clean; have ready a kettle of boiling water, cut the tripe up in small pieces, dip for one or two minutes into the boiling water one piece at a time, take out and scrape with a knife. Put a board into the sink so it will be inclined, on which to scrape the tripe. It is very quickly done in this way.

For a good, hot, bread cake, take two tablespoonfuls of Indian meal, two of molasses, one not at all heaping, one of soda, one and a half teacups of buttermilk, a good pinch of salt; thicken this until it is about like a thick paste with rye flour; bake in moderate oven for thirty-five minutes. Another way, both recommended by an excellent authority, is to start with a pint of wheat-bread sponge. Mix with this two quarts of Indian meal and water enough to wet it; then stir in half a pint of wheat flour and a tablespoonful of salt; let this rise, then knead it well and put it in tins; when light bake it for an hour and a half.

The Application of Method.

Method is the oil that makes the wheels of the domestic machine run easily. The master and mistress of a house who desire order, must insist on the application of method to every branch and department of household work. To be well done a thing must be done at the proper time and in the proper way. There must be a time and a place for everything, and everything must be in its proper time and place. Nothing is more fatal to home comfort than the habit of dawdling, of lingering over a little task in a desultory and indolent spirit, of going from one bit of work to another, and finishing neither. Example is better than precept; and if the rulers of the household display a vigorously active spirit, all who serve under them will be animated by it.

House Plants.

Dryness of the air is the chief obstacle to successful window gardening. Plants succeed much better in the kitchen than in the parlors, as the air is charged with moisture form the cooking, etc. If the house is heated by a furnace, there should be a pan for evaporating water in the furnace, kept well supplied. If stoves are used, keep vessels of water on them. Dust is injurious to plants. Much may be prevented from settling on the leaves by covering the plants with a light fabric whenever the rooms are swept. All smooth-leaved plants, like the ivy, camellias, etc., should have a weekly washing with a damp sponge. The others may be placed in a sink or bath-tub, and given a thorough showering. Water should be given as needed, whether daily or weekly. Do not water until the soil is somewhat dry. Keeping the earth constantly wet soon makes unhealthy plants. Let the water be of the same temperature as the room. Hanging plants dry out rapidly. Plunge the pots or baskets in a pail or tub of water, and after they have ceased to drid return them to their places. The so-called green fly or plant louse is easily killed by tobacco water. Apply this when of the color of weak tea. Red spider is very minute and works on the lower side of the leaves. When these turn brown the spiders may be suspected. Give frequent showers, laying the pot on the side, and apply water with the syringe. Scale insects and mealy bug are best treated by hand-picking before they become numerous Chrysanthemums, when through flowering, should have the stems cut away and the pots of roots taken to the cellar. The pots of bulbs which were placed in the cellar or in a pit for roots to form may be brought to the window and as they grow give an abundance of water. If needed, support the heavy flower spikes of hyacinths by a small stake.

The Marriage Life.

The marriage life, says Sir Richard Steele, is always an insipid, a vexatious or a happy condition. The first is when two people of no genius or taste for themselves meet, upon such a settlement as has been thought reasonable by parents and conveyancers, from an exact valuation of the land and cash of both parties. In this case the young lady's person is no more regarded than the house and improvements in purchase of an estate, but she goes with her fortune rather than her fortune with her. These make up the crowd or vulgar of the rich, and fill up the lumber of the human race, without beneficence toward those below them or respect to those above them.

The vexatious life arises from a conjunction of two people of quick taste and resentment, put together for reasons well known to their friends, in which especial care is taken to avoid (what they think the chief of evils) poverty, and insure to them riches, with every evil besides. These good people live in a constant restraint before company and too great familiarity alone. When they are within observation they fret at each other's carriage and behavior; when alone they revile each other's person and conduct.

The happy marriage is where two persons meet and voluntarily make choice of each other without principally regarding or neglecting the circumstances of fortune or beauty. These may still live in spite of adversity or sickness; the former we may in some measure defend ourselves from; the other is the portion of our very make.

How to Corn Beef so it Will Keep Until July.

My plan is to cut my beef into suitable pieces for the cook. Soak all bloody pieces over night in cold water. For 100 pounds of beef I make a brine of eight gallons of water, four quarts rock salt, pour pounds brown sugar, one large spoonful saltpeter. Boil, skim and cool; sprinkle a little salt in the bottom of the barrel; pack the beef edgewise (but not too tight) sprinkle a little salt and sugar over each layer of beef and turn the cold brine on it. If you do not take from it often give the barrel a shake once a week, as that will keep the brine from becoming stagnant. If any scum should arise remove it before you remove the weight or disturb the beef. In the month of May remove the beef, scald and skim as before, and repack with rock salt and sugar. If you draw from it often enough to keep the brine well stirred up, you will have as mellow, sweet beef at the end of fifteen months as the first week.

For Fair Reform.

Mr. J. W. Newcomb, Kenten, Ohio, uses very plain language in a column and a half of The Farmer, apropos of the annual fair of that State, a subject which is still discussed in the local papers. To say nothing of the saloon business; the licensed boarding-house appears to have been kept "for the privilege of fleecing the public;" at least one of the side-shows was little short of obscene, and on the whole the management was "all wrong." Instead of "promoting husbandry and kindred interests" the exhibition "seems to be the source of evil, and that continually, and few mitigating circumstances. It is the headquarters of roughs, gamblers, pickpockets, confidence men and all who live by their wits from the hard earnings of—well, let me say, fools. Why are they suffered to cumber the grounds, making a Babel of confusion? The fair was not instituted for any such purpose. For a consideration the board licenses them to ply their trade, which is plunder. If the quiet farmers cannot meet and interchange views without being crowded and hustled and their rights invaded, let them stay at home."

The closing sentence of the above suggests the remedy for such condition, if no other is within reach. Let self-respecting farmers, who value the future of their children, and all right-thinking people, refuse to countenance such exhibitions, either in Ohio or any other State, by keeping away from them.

Tobacco Growing in Wisconsin.

From the Country Gentleman.

Few persons have any idea of the huge proportions of the tobacco interests in this portion of Wisconsin. A few years ago the tobacco crop was confined to a very circumscribed locality; now it is an overspreading, constantly increasing crop. A few years ago the revenue was comparitively insignificant, benefiting a few individuals only; now tobacco is the staple crop of this portion of Wisconsin. The 1884 crop was about 7,000 acres, for which we will, in round numbers, receive $2,500,000. The tobacco warehouses in Janesville, and Edgerton, fourteen miles west, built in the past three years, will aggregate $100,000. Besides the warehouses, there have been innumerable tobacco sheds erected on the various tobacco plantations in the neighborhood. The crop of 1884 is nearly all sold; quite a large amount has been already shipped. Most of the crop was cured in good condition, some of the slovens being the only ones who brought ill-conditioned tobacco to market.

Curing Hams and Bacon.

Mr. William Crozier's method of curing hams and bacon is as follows: When the meat has been properly cut up it is well rubbed with salt and left on the benches to drain for 24 hours. This removes the moisture from it. Seven-and-one-half pounds of salt, two-and-one half pounds of brown sugar, and four ounces of salt-peter, are then put in as much water as will dissolve them completely, and two ounces of Cayenne perper are added. The liquid is boiled a few minutes, skimmed, and set aside to cool. Meanwhile the meat is rubbed with a dry mixture of the same, and is closely packed in the barrels or tubs, and the pickle is poured over it until it is covered. In six weeks it is cured and ready for smoking. It is smoked with hickory brush-wood or corncobs, or both, one hour a day for ten days. The fire is made outside of the smoke-house, and the smoke is carried in by a flue, so that it is cooled and does not warm the meat. After ten days the meat is rubbed with pepper and is ready for sale, or, if to be kept, should be packed in close boxes with wheat chaff or cut straw, and kept in a dry, cool place.

Gen. Grant's Tobacco Cancer.

Washing Letter in Chicago Tribune.

The news of the serious condition of Gen. Grant's health has created great sympathy for him in Washington, where he has perhaps more personal friends than in any other city in the country. There can be no doubt about the cause of the cancerous trouble in his mouth. Gen. Grant has for a number of years smoked daily more and stronger cigars than any man of the most robust health could endure. When he was in the White House he smoked from fifteen to twenty cigars a day. They were not small cigars, either. They were of the old Reina Victoria size, and were the blackest of maduros in color. Very few experienced smokers had strong enough heads to smoke Grant's cigars. More than one caller at the white house has been made sick by attempting to smoke with President Grant. Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, who had a similar cancerous trouble in his mouth, two years ago, has been cured, although he was given up by his Philadelphia physicians when he went to Europe for the last operation. The cancer in the judge's mouth was caused by the excessive use of tobacco. He was not a smoker, but he chewed tobacco constantly. Up to the time the cancer appeared he was hardly ever without tobacco in his mouth. He went to sleep with a twist of it in his cheek, and it was upon the spot on the tongue touched by the tobacco that the cancer developed. This was the difference between his case and that of Gen. Grant: His was upon the tongue itself, where it could be got at by a surgeon. The cancer in Gen. Grant's mouth is said to be at the roots of the tongue, and in a place where it cannot be successfully treated.

This is identical with the case of Senator Ben Hill. He chewed tobacco immoderately, and while he was seemingly in the prime of health a cancer appeared at the roots of his tongue. He went through the martyrdom of a number of surgical operations, but the result was nothing but a prolongation of a life of pain and endless struggling. The closing days of Ben Hill's life were very pathetic. He slowly starved to death. From the indications in the reports from New York it appears probable that Gen. Grant is about to undergo the terrible fate which overtook Senator Hill. During the very last days of Hill's life he was able to eat only a small saucer of the thinnest oat-meal. To eat even this small quantity took him fully an hour. Every mouthful caused him the most violent pain. Hill showed great fortitude throughout the closing hours of his life. Although he never had a single moment that was free from pain, his courage was never shaken. He never made a complaint.

Value of Bones.

The bone industry of the country is an important one. The four feet of an ordinary ox will make a pint of neats-foot oil. Not a bone of any animal is thrown away. Many cattle shin bones are shipped to Europe for the making of knife handles, where they bring $40 per ton. The thigh bones are the most valuable, being worth $80 per ton for cutting into tooth brush handles. The fore-leg bones are worth $30 per ton, and are made into collar buttons, parasol handles and jewelry, though sheep's legs are the staple for parasol handles. The water in which the bones are boiled is reduced to glue, the dust which comes from sawing the bones is fed to cattle and poultry, and all bones that cannot be used as noted, or for bone black, used in refining the sugar we eat, are made into fertilizers and help enrich the soil.

Edward E. Hale and the Flunkey.

Washington Correspondence N. Y. Tribune.

The Rev. Edward Everett Hale has been here off and on for the last few weeks, examining the Franklin collection in the library of the State Department, with a view, it is said, to preparing an article on those interesting papers. Losing his way the other day in the vast building, part of which is occupied by the State Department he ran against the door leading to the private office of the Secretary of State. He was about to turn the knob and enter, thinking it would lead him to the library, when a terror-stricken attendant rushed forward and exclaimed: "Are you a foreign minister?" "No, but a domestic one," coolly replied Mr. Hale and in he walked. It almost took Mr. Frelinghuysen's breath away to see a stranger enter his room unannounced, but he recovered in time to shake the reverend gentleman by the hand.

A WOMAN'S PLEA.

What George Eliot Said About Her Relation to Lewes.

Letter in Cross' Life of George Eliot.

If there is any one action or relation of my life which is and always has been profoundly serious, it is my relation to Mr. Lewes. It is, however, natural enough that you should mistake me in many ways, for not only are you unacquainted with Mr. Lewes' real character and the sense of his actions, but also it is seven years now since you and I were much together, and it is possible that the modifications my mind has undergone may be quite in the opposite direction of what you imagine.

No one can be better aware than yourself that it is possible for two people to hold different opinions on momentous subjects with equal sincerity, and an equally earnest conviction that their respective opinions are alone the truly moral ones. If we differ on the subject of the marriage laws I at least can believe of you that you cleave to what you believe to be good; and I don't know of anything in the nature of your views that should prevent you from believing the same of me. How far we differ I think we neither of us know, for I am ignorant of your precise views; and, apparently you attribute to me both feelings and opinions which are not mine. We cannot set each other quite right in this matter in letters, but one thing I can tell you in few words. Light and easily broken ties are what I neither desire theoretically nor could live for practically. Women who are satisfied with such ties act as I have done.

That any unworthy, unsuperstitious person who is sufficiently acquainted with the realities of life can pronounce my relation to Mr. Lewes immoral, I can only understand by remembering how subtle and complex are the influences that mould opinion. But I do remember this, and I indulge in no arrogant or uncharitable thoughts about those who condemn us, even though we might have expected a somewhat different verdict. From the majority of persons, of course, we never looked for anything but condemnation. We are leading no life of self-indulgence, except, indeed, that being happy in each other, we find everything easy. We are working hard to provide for others better than we provide for ourselves, and so fulfill every responsibility that lies upon us. Levity and pride would not be a sufficient basis for that. Pardon me if, in vindicating myself from unjust conclusions, I seem too cold and self-asserting. I should not care to vindicate myself if I did not love you and desire to relieve you of the pain which you say these conclusions have given you. Whatever I may have misinterpreted before, I do not misinterpret your letter this morning, but read in it nothing else than love and kindness towards me, to which my heart fully answers yes.

I should like never to write about myself again; it is not healthy to dwell on one's feelings and conduct, but only to try and live more faithfully and lovingly every fresh day. I think not one of the endless words and deeds of kindness and forbearance you have ever shown me has vanished from my memory. I recall them often, and feel, as about everything else in the past, how deficient I have been in almost every relation in my life. But that deficiency is irrevocable, and can find no strength or comfort except in "pressing forward towards the things that are before," and trying to make the present better than the past. But if we never should be very near each other again, dear Clara, do bear this faith in your mind, that I am not insensible or ungrateful to all your goodness, and that I am one among the many for whom you have not lived in vain. I am very busy just now, and have been obliged to write hastily. Bear this in mind, and believe that no meaning is mine which contradicts my assurance that I am your affectionate and earnest friend.

Push and Pay in New York.

In New York, more than elsewhere, a youngster starting on nothing, and on a small salary must push himself along on his merits. He must have industry, application, push, sobriety and a thousand and-one good points, or some one is going to run right over him and leave him behind. If he lags even while walking in Broadway, some one will tread on his heels. He has to meet the sharpest competition to be found on the continent, no matter what his occupation. If he can push his pay toward the top of his profession, he will command a large sum of money. There are lawyers who make $25,000 a year from their profession, and there are railroad men who command an equal sum. There are physicians who make much more money and there are many dentists who collect $20,000. A half score of editors receive $10,000 or more, and there are several men on the leading newspapers who earn $100 a week. But in all these vocations the great mass of the workers get very much less money. The managing clerk in a lawyer's office—and he is the man on whom fall the bulk of the routine work—gets from $1,500 to $3,000 a year only. The average physician and dentist makes $2,500 to $4,000. Book-keepers average $1,200 to $1,500, and salesmen in wholesale houses $2,500 or $3,000, although of the latter class there are those who earn as high as $8,000 and 10,000. Editorial writers receive $60 to 80, and the best $100, a week; managing editors $100 to $150; copy revisers, $30 to 50, and first-grade reporters the same.

Of Course They were Engaged.

The passengers for some time had been regarding the affectionate gestures of a young couple who occupied a seat near the centre of the car. It was evident that they loved each other to death. Just then the train stopped at a station, and incoming passengers found seats saving two ladies, who came in late, to find themselves occupying a standup ticket. They stopped just behind the seat of the lover-like couple, and glanced hesitatingly about for a vacant pew. Then one of the ladies softly said:

"They seemed to be engaged."

"The lover-like couple separated like a flash, and the girl, with a very red face, angrily retorted:

"Of course we are. You don't s'pose I'd set here letting him squeeze my hand in public if we wa'n't, do you?"

The ladies were petrified, but the other passengers took it all in, and there was a burst of applause that stopped the train.

AGNES.

"Come, Miss Agnes, or your lunch'll be cold as a stone."

As the kind old housekeeper looked into the room her face took on an anxious expression, as she saw the bowed young head, and heard the smothered sobs of the mistress of whom she was so unselfishly fond.

"What is it, dear? Did the letter bring bad news? Tell me all about it, and maybe the telling of your trouble'll make it easier to bear."

Agnes raised her head and looked at Mrs. Willard in a dazed sort of way for an instant. Then, with an effort, she controlled herself sufficiently to speak and unburden her mind of the sad truth which pressed so heavily upon it.

"We'll soon be without a home, Mrs. Willard. The money that papa left me is all lost. The letter is to me."

"Well, Miss Agnes, you have your cousin Ernest to look to. He will take care of you."

A crimson flush chased away the girl's pallor.

"Hush, Mrs. Willard! Don't speak to me of him again; he is married. The news came this morning."

"Bad luck to him, and he engaged to you. He is a black-hearted—"

"No, Mrs. Willard; he's only fickle and thoughtless. He fell desperately in love with the pretty young thing he has married, and they have made a runaway match. I am glad he found out the nature of his liking for me before instead of after our union had taken place. He had a cousinly feeling for me, that was all."

Agnes spoke with a silent dignity which silenced her listener at once.

"Well, come and have your lunch now. I broiled a bit of chicken for you, and I hope it will taste good. Sitting here and fretting won't mend things a bit."

She succeeded in coaxing Agnes into the dining-room, and poured her a cup of fragrant Mocha, laid the morning paper beside her plate and then left her alone.

Agnes sipped the coffee and tasted the chicken. Then she glanced over the columns of the newspaper.

An advertisement attracted her attention. It was this:

"Wanted, a housekeeper. She must be active and good-tempered, as well as competent to direct the domestics under her particular charge."

"I will have to earn my living now," thought Agnes, with a sigh; "And I kept house for papa, so why can't I for some one else? At any rate I will answer this advertisement and find out what kind of duties are required."

She wrote a note and sent it to the address given.

The following day brought a reply from Mr. Durant, requesting her to call at the writer's house, giving its number and the name of the street.

After a long walk she reached the place.

It was quite an imposing looking structure.

A carriage was drawn up before it, and a liveried footman ran up the steps and gave a tremendous pull at the door-bell, glancing at Agnes curiously as he did so.

A servant came to the door.

Agnes gave him her card, and he moved noiselessly away, returning to say, "please Miss, walk into the library."

A gentleman was seated at a writing table, he turned his head as Agnes entered, carelessly at first, then curiously. His eyes were very dark and bright, and their expression was one of unmistakable surprise.

"I hope you will pardon me," said he, "for saying your youth is against you."

Agnes tried to make her voice steady as she answered, but in spite of her efforts it trembled.

"I never had any trouble with our own servants, sir, so I thought I might manage other people's; but I see my mistake."

"I must again ask pardon for intruding my opinions upon you. But why, may I ask, have you selected this particular kind of employment?"

"It was a sudden impulse which led me to answer your notice. Poor papa has been gone from me a whole year, and now I have just heard that all the money he left is lost. I must earn my living some way."

"I like your spirit. The taking of such a responsible place as that of the directing spirit of my household machinery would not be feasible; but I have an invalid aunt who is about to part with her companion—a lady who has come into small property lately, and does not need the position any longer. If you succeed in making a favorable impression upon the old lady, who is rather queer in her way, it will be a much easier employment than that of a housekeeper. I will conduct you to her, and see how the plan is likely to succeed."

Agnes' modest face at once attracted the invalid's fancy and she was engaged to take the place on the following week.

She fulfilled her duties every day, and after several months became very much attatched to her, and she had every reason to make her journey through life as happy as it could be while enduring so much pain.

Her death came suddenly, and was such a shock to the kind young care-taker that at first it put all other thoughts out of her mind. Then she awoke to the knowledge that she must leave the hospitable home that had sheltered her. When she broached the matter to Mr. Durant, however, he would not listen to it, and to her great surprise supplemented his refusal with an offer of marriage.

"I never thought to put trust in woman again," he said; "but I have learned to like to see you about this lonesome old house. You are still on the sunny side of life, and I am forty; but I will try to make you happy. Do not answer me now. Think of what I have said, and give me my reply to-morrow at this time."

Surprised and bewildered at the sudden proposition, Agnes withdrew from Mr. Durant's presence.

"Was there such a thing as true love in the world?" she questioned herself—"that is in a man's heart?"

Her own sad experience taught her to answer, "No."

She did not love Mr. Durant, but she was conscious of a feeling of respect and admiration for him.

He had not professed to love her.

It would be purely friendly union and was it not the truest kind of marriage after all?

Thus she reasoned her conscientious scruples, and at last made up her mind to tell Mr. Durant that if he would take her for his wife knowing that her heart had once received a blow which had given love its death-wound, and to accept friendship and respect instead, she would be to him a true and faithful companion throughout life's journey.

Mr. Durant was pleased with her candor, and after a brief delay they were married.

The young wife proved like a ray of sunshine in the grand old house. Every room showed tokens of the change that had been inaugurated with its new mistress; and, best of all, Agnes learned to love her husband, not with the romantic devotion which had characterized the first love, and had ended so disastrously, but with a calm, enduring affection, which was far better calculated to make its object happy.

One morning while looking over some old-fashioned daguerreotypes packed away in the drawer of an old cabinet, Agnes came upon an exquisitely painted miniature of a young girl.

The artist had depicted the sweet face, curving the delicate lips, dimpling the pink cheeks, and laughing roguishly out of the eyes as blue as the flax-flower blossom.

Agnes hastened with her new-found treasure to the library, her husband's favorite haunt.

She held up the picture toward him.

"See what I have found! What a shame for such a beautiful face to be hid away in a place which is so seldom visited."

Mr. Durant glanced up with a preoccupied look, but as his eye rested on the picture, with a sudden darkening of his usually calm face, and with a lowering brow, he caught it from Agnes and threw it across the room.

Then seeing by his wife's pallor that he had startled her, he calmed himself by a supreme effort, and said: "It is through your ignorance of my past, Agnes, that you have given me such a wound. That picture represents my daughter Grace. Her very existence cost the life of her fair young mother, and when at last I forgave her that debt, and gave her the warmest place in my benumbed heart, she deserted me for a stranger, and again I was desolate. She proved an ingrate. Never mention her to me again, Agnes. I have to depend upon your love and sympathy. Do not disappoint me."

Agnes stood for an instant in mute surprise, longing but not daring to plead for forgiveness for the discarded child of whose existence she had now heard for the first time.

It seemed so cruel for her to be enjoying the beautiful home of her noble-hearted husband, while his daughter was an exile from it.

But Agnes had the rare gift of patience. So she said nothing until she could see the way clear not to injure the cause of the absent one. But from the time when her husband first disclosed to her the carefully guarded secret at his heart, she determined to eventually effect a reconciliation.

By inquiries she learned the whole bitter truth. Grace Durant had fallen in love with the son of Mr. Durant's bitter enemy, and hopeless of gaining her father's consent to their marriage, had yielded to the entreaties of the young lover, and had made a clandestine match with him. He had lived but a few years, and then had left his darling to battle with the world, and to try and wrest a living from it for herself and her boy baby.

Surely Agnes had something to work upon.

Who could resist the thought of a little grandson.

Again she went to her husband with a likeness; but this time of a dimpled, dark-eyed boy.

He received it from her carelessly; looked at it first in a listless "Who is this?"

The young wife trembled, but she answered bravely, "It is your grandson and name-child. His father is dead, and his mother, your only daughter, is supporting herself by giving music lessons. Oh, my husband, if you love me forgive and forget the past. Take your dear ones into your heart and home."

Mr. Durant looked at the fair young pleader curiously; a suspicious moisture dimmed for an instant the brightness of his dark eyes.

Then he said slowly, "Do you know what your intercession will cost you—that is, if I accede to your request? Agnes, think well of what you are doing. My will is made and it is in your favor."

"Burn it! It is unjust! Here is your rightful heir!" and Agnes pointed to the blooming childish face with an earnest beseeching gesture.

"You are a good little thing, Agnes. I am not deceived in you. I read it in your face when I first saw you. Be it as you say. I have enough for all."

Thus Agnes made peace between the father and daughter, and when the sweet gift of a young soul clad in mortal guise came to her own arms a few month's later, he was received with a joy which was not dimmed by the feeling that her own little son was an interloper—taking the inheritance from the rightful heir; and the blessing which is promised to all 'peacemakers' descended upon the happy home, making it like a foretaste of heaven to live within its boundaries. For all was harmony and love.

The Great Unknown.

Charles Dudley Warner in Harper's Magazine.

We would like to know, and like to have a communication from the young man who has just attained his majority who will, at a date we need not now fix, be president of the United States. The young man exists somewhere, and we hope he is in training for his high office. On the 8th of January last Prince Edward of Wales, who is predestined, if all goes well with him, to be king of England, came of age. He is marked and set apart; he is under certain bonds of behavior; his education to be a king must seriously begin, and all England is interested in it; it will watch every action and criticise every tendency. He is no longer a free man, and he cannot be self-supporting; there is no occupation he can enter on for gaining a livelihood consistent with his coming dignity. The government must vote him an annual supply of money, and he must have an establishment, and begin to play his role. If he is a lad of spirit, he must chafe under this espionage, this restraint, and the limitations of his dependent condition. His subjects hold the purse-string; his subjects demand that he shall be this and shall not be that; his subjects have now the ballot, and can cut him off with a shilling, or put him one side altogether. Subjects? To what, alas! has the king business come in this 19th century?

Our American lad—who may be reading this paragraph about himself, for we trust that he can read, and has not, like Andrew Johnson, put off this elegant accomplishment till after his majority—is under no such limitations as his English brother, Edward of Wales. Bill of the United States—for we have no fiction by which he would be called by some fictitious title, for instance, Bill of Nicaragua—is probably unconscious of his high destiny. By the time he takes the chair at Washington, or wherever the chair then stands, he will be the ruler, more potent for four years than the king of England, over 100,000,000 of people, and have to execute the affairs of the most vigorous empire in existence. If he now expects this honor, it is safe to say he will be disappointed; for the voters nowadays never choose a man who lays pipe for the place in advance. It is safe to say that he is ignorant of his destiny.

If it were otherwise, if we all knew the young fellow just come of age who is to be president by and by, what an embarrassment it would be for us and for him! What a life he would lead with the reporters of the newspapers! How could he escape the snares laid for him by the mothers who would like to be the mothers-in-law of a president? If he is in college, how self-conscious the tutors would be when they marked him, and how impossible it would be for him to acquit himself well at foot-ball with the eyes of the nation on him! With what content could he humbly follow a mule on a canal tow-path, which he may at this moment be doing, with credit to himself and with an eye to the appearance of this achievement in his biography. Is the young man a deputy sheriff? Is he waiting for clients with his heels on the table in some country law office? Is he just beginning to concern himself with ward politics with the idea that the "gentleman in politics" is to be the winning card in the future? Is he teaching school with a view of discharging his college debts? or is he running up college debts without any view of teaching school to discharge them? Or has he gone into farming in the West, in order to come forward, as Cincinnatus at the right moment, leaving his steam gang-plow in the furrow?

Lightly as it may be treated, this is really a very serious matter. The young man is living here, and is well known to some of us. And as no decent young man can be sure that he is not the man, what follows? Why, that every young man ought to conduct himself in such a manner that his biography, when his campaign life is written, will be pleasant reading, and so that he will be in some measure fitted for the office to which he is to be elected. This is not a piece of moralizing; it is a matter of common sense. In order to carry on a republic successfully, the general average of conduct and ability must be high. If we were able to pick out our man now and set him apart and train him, we could get on as well as they do in England, and it would not be much matter what become of the other young fellows. But the risks of our position are much greater. It is useless for us to say that the ballot is our protection, and that at the proper time we shall elect the best man. The fact is that the man we shall elect (at the same time that it is unnecessary to name) is already designated by a decree certain, and he is sure to come to his position, whereas Prince Edward of Wales may never be king of England. But if we knew his name we would carefully conceal it from him and from the public.

Four girls are among the pages in the Kansas House of Representatives, and the docket clerk is a woman.

FOUND.

A trim New England kitchen, with its floor of knotty pine boards scoured to a snowy whiteness, the red brick hearth reflecting back the gleam of the crackling hickory logs and the dresser full of glittering tins put mathematically straight, after the comming meal—this was the scene upon which the autumn sun glowed redly for an instant through the narrow window panes, ere it went down behind a bank of slate-colored clouds in the west—and Miss Jemima Buxford, glancing up at the clock on the wooden shelf between the windows saw that it was half past five.

"Bless me how the time does go on," said Miss Jemima. "And It don't seem as if I accomplished nuthin', what with runnin'arter your everlastin'whims, Ebenezer.

Ebenezer Buxford, his autocratic sister's senior by twenty good years, looked deprecatingly up from his cushioned nook in the chimney corner—a weak, feeble-kneed old man, with scanty gray hairs brushed into a meek little whisp on the top of his head, watery blue eyes and a complexion like well-cured parchment.

"I know I'm a deal o'trouble, Jemimy," said the old man, apologetically, "but I try not to make any more than I can help."

"No, you don't neither!" snapped Jemima. "I hain't no patience with your old pipe and your everlastin'smoke, smoke, smokin', till we all smell like an old bar-room, and there ain't a curtain in the house that don't tell its own story. I tell ye what,, Ebenezer Buxford, you've got to leave off that mis'able habit!"

Ebenezer shrank instinctively at the hard, cruel tone.

"But—Jemimy—"

"I'm in earnest, Ebenezer."

"But Ellen Dennison says—"

"I don't care two snaps o' my finger what Ellen Dennison says—a pert minx, just as full o' airs and graces as her mother was afore her, though she was my own sister. If Ellen chooses to make a fuss over you and indulge you in every whim, I don't—that's all there is to it! I ain't going to have this smokin' going on. You've just got to quit it!"

"I might just as well quit livin', Jemimy. For forty-seven year——"

Miss Jemima, however, did not stay to hear the end of the speech, but burst out of the room, muttering to herself sentences of which the import boded little good.

"He'll be right down vexed, though," thought the spinster, "when he knows I've sold them there packets of Virginny tobacco he brought home on his last sea voyage. It's odd a man can keep voyagin' to furrin parts all his life and not lay up no money, after all. But Ebenezer never was savin' like the rest o' the Buxfords."

And Jemima went up stairs to rummage in an old red chest where she kept her treasures for a hank of mixed yarn to finish a pair of socks she had on hand.

Old Ebenezer waited patiently by the kitchen fire the while, until he heard a light footstep on the doorstone without; and his face brightened as Ellen Dennison came in.

She was a tall, fresh-complexioned girl, with a face which, if not absolutely pretty, was pleasing, and a light figure whose grace was patterned after the waving rushes by the riverside and the tall young elms in the meadows below.

"Well, uncle!" she said, cheerily.

"I've been waitin' for you, Ellen," the old man whispered, beckoning to her to come close to him. "She—she won't bring me no more 'bacoy, and I haven't had a whiff since 4 o'clock."

Ellen bit her lip.

"I'll bring you some at once, Uncle Eben.

"There ain't none left in the tin box!" went on the old man, detaining her with a grip of her neat calico dress. You'll have to go to the packet o'blue paper in the corner cupboard up stairs—the genuine stuff I brought from old Virginny years and years ago, when I warn't the old wreck I am now! Get the top package, Nell—the top one, remember!"

"Yes, Uncle."

And away tripped Ellen, carrying her lighted candle through the gloomy entries, like a rustic embodiment of Dawn bearing her herald star.

Miss Jemima met her at the head of the first flight of wooden uncarpeted steps.

"Where are you going, Ellen Dennison?"

"To get some tobacco for Uncle Ebenezer."

"There ain't none left."

"Yes, there is, in the packet he brought from Norfolk in the Lively Sally."

"But I tell you there ain't!" reiterated Miss Jemima. "I sold it yesterday to a pedler that came along. He gave me $5 for it."

"You sold it?"

Miss Jemima nodded her head defiantly.

"Yes, I sold it; and you needn't stare at me as if I'd committed a state prison offence, miss. I'd do the same thing over again. I mean to break up Ebenezer's miserable trick of smokin'. An old man that's dependent on his relatives for his daily bread hain't no business with luxuries like tobacco—and he'll get no more in this house."

Ellen Dennison answered nothing, but she turned and went quietly down stairs, with her cheeks flushed an indignant scarlet. Miss Jemima followed her.

"Uncle," said the girl calmly, as the old man raised his bleared, expectant eyes toward her, "there is no tobacco there."

"I've sold it!" quoth Miss Jemima, putting her arms akimbo.

"You've sold my tobacco! My blue Virginia brand?"

"Yes, I have; and where's the harm, I'd like to know? I wasn't goin' to have it clutterin' up my cupboard no longer! I've sold it for $5."

"Then," said Ebenezer, with a sort of stony calmness, 'you've just got $5 for a pack of the best Blue Virginia tobacco that was ever put into a pipe-bowl, and $400 in money, that was in a tin box in the lowest pound parcel but two. That's where I'd stored away my little savin's. I thought they'd be safe there—but they wasn't, it seems. You've had your own way, Jemima, and I hope you feel better!"

Miss Jemima's lower jaw dropped.

"Sakes alive! why didn't ye tell me on it, Ebenezer Buxford?"

"Because I didn't choose," said the old man bitterly. "I'm sorry on Ellen's account. I meant she should have a little money of her own, but as for you, Jemimy, I'm free to say that I believe it serves you right."

Miss Jemima sank, rather than sat down on a low chair by the table, letting her head fall into her hands. To the griping, avaricious old woman, to whom a dollar seemed a bright idol to be worshipped and bowed down before, this loss was most disastrous, and none the less so, because it had been wrought through her own secret, spiteful officiousness. The tears, hard, salt and bitter as the waters of the Dead sea, oozed one by one down her red eyelids and fell on the table; a low, choking sob, like the croaking of a bird of prey, broke from her lips.

But alas! her repentance had come too late.

The autumn wore itself on, and when the first snow-flakes dizzied through the dull, gray air they buried old Ebenezer Buxford under the leafless willows in the country graveyard.

Aunt Jemima packed up her belongings and went with her niece to a distant state, where they could buy a little place, and try to earn their living by means of a market garden; and so they dwelt for two or three years.

Jemima Buxford had laid her plans to keep her niece with her always. Ellen was so bright and helpful, and full of odd ever-ready resources, but love sprang into the scale opposite old Jemima, and love outweighed her. Ellen promised to marry George Stapleton, who had the largest farm and the most substantial farmhouse in all the neighborhood.

"So you are from Millowfield? Queer old place, that," said George one evening, as he sat on Miss Jemima's doorstop, meditatively chewing a straw. "I came through there once years ago, when I drove a pedler's cart."

"You!" echoed Ellen, "a pedler's cart?"

"Yes; that's the way I laid the foundation of my fortunes, such as they are. I didn't always own a farm of 400 acres. And the oddest thing happened to me there."

Aunt Jemima put on her spectacles and stared hard at Mr. Stapleton, while Ellen asked: "What was it?"

"Well I stopped at a strange little out-of-the way house under a hill to get a drink of water one morning, and a little old woman with her face tied up with the toothache, and a sun bonnet tipped down over her nose, like an old witch——"

"Humph!" interjected Aunt Jemima.

"Came out," pursued the unconscious George, "and wanted me to buy a lot of tobacco. Well, tobacco wasn't exactly in my line, but the old woman was very anxious to be rid of it, so I closed the bargain at $5; cheap enough, but at the same time as much as I could afford to pay. And I never opened the packet until a month afterward, when I was going up into the lumber districts, where I expected to find a good market for that sort of thing. And here comes in the queer part of my story. When I was making up my pound packages of tobacco into small parcels, sutable to my trade, I found in one of them, tied and papered like the rest, a tin box with—"

"Four hundred dollars in bills in it!" fairly screamed Aunt Jemima. "Yes, I know. I sold you that ar' tobacco! And when you found you'd got what was never intented for you why didnt you bring it back?"

"Gently, gently, Miss Buxford," said George Stapleton. "I did bring it back the very next week, for although the temptation to keep it was very strong, yet it somehow lay heavy on my conscience. And when I got back the old house was shut up, not a soul in the neighborhood could tell me where the family had moved to!"

"And that's true!" assented Aunt Jemima, who had never lived on the best of terms with her neighbors.

"Well, seein' the money's to come back to the family agin—don't blush so, Ellen, I hain't said no harm! But I kind o' wish I hadnt sold the Blue Virginny. Not for the money's sake—but my old brother Ebenezer——"

And Aunt Jemima got up and went into the house, while Ellen lifted her soft eyes to her lover's face, saying: "I feel as if Uncle Ebenezer had put the money in my hands for he always intented to be mine, George!

"And I," said George Stapleton, "begin to believe in the old saying that truth isstranger than fiction!"

Flower Seeds Worth Their Weight in Gold.

From an Interview with a Pittsburg Florist.

Just now the fashionable rage is for loose flowers, roses, carnations, lilies of the valley, hyacinths. These are scattered promiscuously over the table at swell dinner parties, and have a most pleasing effect. The latest development in roses is the Bennett tea rose. It was reared by an English horticulturist, and is the popular flower in the east now. This rose is of a deep crimson hue, something similar to the "Jack" rose. It is certainly a beautiful flower, and they are snatched up eagerly in New York at $1 per bud. A bouquet of Bennett roses, you can well understand, represents quite an investment. The Marshall Neil rose is still a prime favorite; it sells for twenty-five cents. The pearl, a pretty yellow rose, brings 15 cents, and the Duke of Connaught, a fine dark red rose, commands thirty-five cents. Lilies are worth thirty cents, camelias fifteen cents and carnations five cents. I have received word that two of the leading florists of New York City have packages of rare seeds locked up in vaults of the Safe Deposit Company here which are worth four times their weight gold.

Literary Centennial.

As we are going through an epoch of centennials it might be well to notice the fact that it is just 100 years since American literature took its first start after the revolution. The first book published on this continent after the peace with Great Britain was "Watts's Psalms," edited by Joel Barlow, which was issued in Hartford in 1785. Barlow was then thirty. He was a native of Connecticut, and had studied at Yale, where in 1778 he delivered a poem, entitled the "Prospect of Peace." His poetic talents had already attracted notice and this led the clergy to request that he should prepare an edition of Watts for public worship. He also edited a weekly paper in Hartford called the American Mercury, but afterward added law to literature. He had however, already contemplated what he considered his great poem, "The Columbiad." This was not completed until the lapse of twenty years, but its inception was given in the "Vision of Columbus," which was published the year our government was formed.

JIM KEENE.

The Ups and Downs of the Noted Speculator.

One of the most recent as well as most impressive wrecks of speculation, writes a New York correspondent to The Troy Times, is found in Jim Keene, who is now one of the poor devils of Wall street. A few years ago his name was paragraphed among the most successful of modern money kings, but to-day if his debts were paid he has hardly enough left to buy him a dinner. His career has been one of sudden and surprising change, and is peculiarly illustrative of what is commonly called good luck and bad luck. His early success turned his head and he thought he could not make a mistake, but he learned at last that it was just as easy to lose money as to make it, and in fact a little easier.

Keene began in California as a school-teacher, but soon turned speculator and made an immense fortune. Then he came to this city and created a sensation by his bold movements. He has operated in opium, pork, gas, mines, horses, grain, and stocks, and seemed ready to take in whatever might be offered. He was the brains of the famous corner in wheat in 1879, and, indeed, that was a lucky year for him in more than one operation. Some of our readers may remember the tremendous bull movement in Lake Shore which marked the time referred to, and thus brought out the exclamation of Uncle Rufus Hatch: "I did intend to go into Lake Shore along with Jim Keene." Uncle Rufus, however, got left, while Jim piled up his profits to a degree that made Wall street stare.

That year was his palmy time. He then had a villa at Newport worth $200,000, and also a fine house in town, and he kept a racing stable in England in addition to his splendid stud of horses at home. "Foxhall" and "Spendthrift" gave him prominence in British sporting circles and bore off some of the best prizes, though at a heavy expense. His luck seemed to extend as far as he reached. This led him to still greater ventures. He thought he could crush Jay Gould and become sole king of Wall street. He extended his operations and went into fancy stocks with an eagerness which surprised all his associates. The consequence was that he was loaded in every direction when the shrinkage came, and his wealth disappeared with a rapidity that has rarely been equaled. When, however, a man is loaded with Denver and Rio Grande at par, and unloads at 8, it does not take long to clean him out. How strange it now seems that this worthless bubble was one of his heaviest deals, and that he stuck to it with a reckless determination. Last June he failed, and since then he has been struggling to keep merely a home, but his share in an apartment house has just been sold and the man who so recently was reckoned at $10,000,000 is now almost an object of charity. Such is life in Wall street.

There was a time when he was pointed out in Wall street with the exclamation: "There goes Jim Keene with $1,000,000 in each pocket. "Now, however, the word is: "There goes Jim Keene—all blown in." He has tried to keep up nerve under this collapse, but his face bears the mark of disappointment. He was thin before his troubles began, and this makes his five-feet-nine-inch frame look still taller. His mustache and stubby beard have lost that expression of power that they once seemed to have, and his fiery temperament is abated. There was a time when he was ready for a quarrel at a moment's notice, and when he damned the market or the brokers in the liveliest manner; but when a man's pockets are empty he is generally less boisterous. His day is now over, and he may take his place among the hungry crowd of curbstone brokers and guttersnipes.

But yesterday the name of Cæsar might
Have stood against the world:
Now lies he there and none so poor
To do him reverence.

Old Bones.

"Them there is kittle stewed and these here is tank biled," said the foreman of a bone-boiling establishment on Long island, pointing to two piles of old bones which had passed through the rendering process. "Them slick bones over there is shins, and them yender is bones out o' the forelegs o' cattle. Here's a lot o' shinbone knuckles, all ready for burnin'. They'll be chucked in with that pile o' ribs, skulls, and miscellaneous j'ints ye see in the corner, and all made into boneblack. The burners would like to have the best quality of bones for their use, because they get more charcoal out o' them than they kin out o' the common bones. The boneblack they make they sell to sugar refiners, and this big heap o' ribs and skulls and odds and ends o' cattle and sheep skeletons there will jist as like as not be filterin' sugar in a few days, and some o' you fellows may be puttin' some o' the same sugar in yer coffee 'fore a week's over.

"But the best quality of bones is shins and thighs and fore legs, and we don't waste no shins nor no thighs nor no front legs on the boneburners nor the fertilizer grinders. They can't pay more than $25 a ton for the best there is, and we can sell all the shins we can git for $40 a ton. Thighs are worth $30 a ton to us, and every ton o' front legs we kin bile fetches us $30.

"The manufacturers of knife handles, sleeve buttons, collar buttons, bone jewelry, parasol and umbrella handles, combs, tooth-brushes, hair-brushes, and all that sort of things that the country can produce. The thigh bones is used for tooth-brush handles more than any other, and all in this country. The bones for buttons and knife handles mostly goes to Europe. Fancy parasol handles is turned out o' sheep's legs, and some o' the nicest ivory fans ye ever see used to be trottin some old ram or ewe around the pasture lot. Sheep leg bones polishes up slicker than any other bones, and haint so brittle as the shin bone of a cow or thigh bone of a steer.

"We collect bones all over the country. A ton o' pig iron ain't worth more than a quarter as much as a ton of the commonest kind of bones is when it is ready for the burner or grinder. The west almost fills the bone market now, there's so much cattle slaughterin' done out there. The bone b'iler gits hair oil, neatsfoot oil, and sizin' glue out of his stock as he gits it ready for the market. Bones that we sell to fertilizer gridders we b'ile the meat off in open kittles, 'cause they bring just as much as if we put 'em in tight tanks and b'iled 'em under pressure. We do that with the bones for the burners, 'cause it takes out the nitrogen slick and clean and leaves the carbon, and that's what makes the boneblack.

"We get a pint of good neatsfoot oil out of every full set o' shins and hoofs of a cow or steer. The liquor that's left after b'ilin' the thighs and shins makes as good sizin' glue as a paper-manufacturer can git, nowadays. We kin get enough marrow out of a car-load o' bones to stock any barber shop with bear's grease for a month. The best bear's grease is made out o' the marrow of old bones.

"Bone b'ilin' don't smell very good, that's so. At least that's what everybody thinks 'cept the ones that's makin' the boodle out of it."—New York Sun.

Overworked Children.

New Jersey has a child labor law which forbids the employment in manufactories of boys under 12 years of age and girls under 14, and also provides that no child under 14 shall be employed more than sixty hours a week. Last July an amendment to the law went into effect. This says that no child between 12 and 15 shall be employed in any manufactory unless such child shall have attended school for twelve weeks within one year immediately preceding the employment. The annual report of Lawrence T. Fell, the inspector of factories and workshops, has just been made.

There are eight thousand factories in the state, employing about fifteen thousands youths and children. When the educational section of the law went into operation hundreds of children who could not show that they had attended school were turned out of the shops. They or their guardians made application for permits for them to work, and during the rest of the year the inspectors were largely engaged in considering those cases. Through these examinations the inspectors discovered startling facts concerning the ignorance of the children.

The average age at which they went to work was 9 years, after one or two years of schooling. All of them had been accustomed to work ten hours a day, and many of them even fourteen hours. Those who had entered the shops the earliest in life were the punest and the most ignorant. Some of them were set at work at so tender an age that they could not tell when they began. The weekly wages of the children do not average $2. Many of the children often complain that they do not have a full dinner hour, and when doing overtime they got only fifteen or thirty minutes for supper. A girl under 15 years was found by Inspector Fell working at 10 o'clock at night in a factory where the temperature was over 100 degrees. After her thirteen hours and a half of toil she had to walk two miles before reaching home.

The vast majority of the children cannot spell words of more than one syllable, and many cannot spell at all. They cannot answer the simplest questions in geography. A girl of 13 years told an inspector that Europe was in the moon. A few were found who never heard of the sun, or moon, or earth, and a large number who could not tell where or when they were born. A boy born in New York and living in Paterson said that New York was in Jersey and Jersey was in Paterson. This boy had been at work from his 8th year. It was the opinion of some that Europe was an ocean. Ninety-five per cent could answer no questions about other states or cities of the United States. Children who had been brought to this country before their 6th year, in some cases, never heard the name of their native country. Some children born in Holland never heard of that country, and some children born in Ireland said that Ireland was in America. Boys and girls who had been brought to this country from Great Britain, Ireland, and Germany, between the ages of 12 and 15 years, were better educated and knew more about the geography and history of America than children born and reared in the state.

Mr. Fell says the work of the inspectors has crowded day and night schools, and he suggests that the state provide more adequate school accommodations in every county. He also recommends that a law be passed for the protection of children employed where the sale of goods is carried on. The present law applies to factories only.—New York Sun.

Vanderbilt's Plucky Daughter.

William Seward Webb, a son of Gen. James Watson Webb, the journalist, married Lelia Osgood Vanderbilt, the last remaining unmarried daughter of William H. Vanderbilt, the richest man in America. It was a love match, too, and the young pair are as happy as turtle doves in each other's society. Webb was a young sprig and Vanderbilt did not like him. Figuratively speaking, he kicked him out of the house several times, but in this instance love laughed at kicks, and doubtless would have taken cuffs at the same time with perfect composure. The fact is, Mr. Vanderbilt forbade him the house, but the youg girl was in love with young Webb, and when a girl is in love there is one of two things—she will either get over it or go through with it. Miss Lelia had set her heart on the young doctor, and if the stern father had surrounded his domicile with a fence bristling with spikes, scattered broken bottles at all the approaches and populated the inclosure with hungry bulldogs the Romeo of my story would have braved all the dangers, with the additional one of the Vanderbilt boot, to bask in the light of his lady-love's eyes. The gentleman was unrelenting, and I verily believe there would have been an elopement but for the interference of Mrs. Vanderbilt. She was the daughter of a clergyman, you know. She is good hearted and sensible, and with a woman's foresight saw how things were going and told her husband that he must not try to prevent the match. He respects his wife, who is all that a helpmate implies to him, and bowed to her will. They were married with a good deal of pomp. Mr. Vanderbilt made the young man a junior partner in a firm of brokers, to give him a Wall street education, and then set him up in business for himself.—Syracuse Journal.

A Gorgeous Spectacle.

The Vienna Skating Club has just had a great success with its fancy ball held on the ice by the light of twenty electric lamps, and before an audience numbering over 1,000 within the inclosure and several thousand beyond. The ice was thronged with masqueraders of all kinds. About 200 first-rate skaters performed a pantomime, the scenes for which were formed by grottoes of ice and plants embellished with colossal icicles and frozen spray. A score of lady skaters personified nymphs and goddesses. A gorgeous precession, about half a mile in length, of cars, like those of the Italian carnivals, representing the seasons and other subjects, concluded the pantomime.—New York Post.

FACT AND FANCY.

Toronto has a water famine.

Four Easton, Pa., people ate 802 pies in 1884. They still live.

There are not less than 250 telegraph offices in New York city.

The losses of cattle in Indian Territory this winter are placed as high as 68 per cent.

Harvard students complain that the faculty give them more liberty in their studies than in their sports.

It is said a pinch of powdered alum dropped into a pitcher of muddy water will clear it almost instantly.

Of the 623 newspapers and periodicals published in foreign languages in this country 483 are in German.

On the 1st of February the sum of $116,343.53 remained as a balance in the general treasury of Mexico.

From the various signs of Candlemas day it was inferred that there will be six more weeks of winter weather.

Oysters are becoming so scarce in Maryland waters that several vessels have given up the business as a bad job.

Piano-tuning has been added to the course of instructions for women in the New England Conservatory of Music.

It is expected that the subscription opened in the City of Mexico for Spanish earthquake sufferers will reach $50,000.

A New York letter says: "The feeling against O'Donovan Rossa since he was shot by Mrs. Dudley has been very marked here."

The February moon fulls on the 28th at 11 o'clock in the evening, so that we come within an hour of having no full moon in February.

Fall River roughs took the Salvation army at its word, with a volley of stones, disabling several women, and fatally injuring one.

Seth Green is probably the first fish-dentist in the world. He recently extracted a live trout's teeth without injuring the "speckled beauty."

Legislation against the sale or gift of cigarettes to boys under 10 years of age has already got through one branch of the North Carolina legislature.

The Chinese government intends making the expulsion of Chinese from Eureka, Cal., an international matter, and will claim indemnity from the United States.

A Maine judge recently gave a prisoner a light sentence, saying he was entitled to some consideration for not taking the stand and adding perjury to his other crime.

A file and knife throwing artist nailed a confiding Winnipeg youth to to the back of the stage while illustrating how near he could come to hitting him without actually doing so.

Good, cultured Boston is shivering on the brink of a big social sensation that promises one or two divorce suits and an interesting chapter in the career of at least one local literary idol.

A correspondent asks a Western editor why it is more natural for women to shed tears than it is for men, and he replies that it is because women as a class drink more water than men do.

It is more than suspected that very many of the snake bites causing death in India are caused by parents desiring to put an end to superfluous offspring in a manner which defies discovery of guilt.

A person sleeping on his right side, according to a celebrated French physiologist, will have incoherent and absurd dreams, but when sleeping on the left side the dreams will be of an intelligent nature.

Many southern railway companies have this year placed their old cross-ties at the disposal of the mayors of towns along the lines of their roads to be distributed to deserving poor people for fire-wood.

In a dry-goods fight at Chambersburgh, Pa., one firm put the price of calico down to one quarter of a cent per yard, whereupon the rival concern offered calico at one-eighth of a cent, or eight yards for a cent.

Prof. Bauer of San Francisco states, as a result of careful research, that a sure remedy for phylloxera is to mix half an ounce of quicksilver with its weight of clay and introduce it into the hole in which the vine is planted.

"What makes you so late coming to school this morning?" asked a teacher in one of the New York public schools of a tardy pupil. "They arrested a burglar on fifty-eighth street, and ma sent me to the station-house to see if it was pa," was the reply.

A steamship captain who was married in Boston recently was denied the pleasure of his wife's company on his return trip to Europe, as it is against the rules of the company by which he is employed for a captain to have his wife with him on his trips to and fro across the ocean.

An extraordinary amount of suffering among the widows and children of the lost Gloucester fishermen is reported by The Cape Ann Advertiser. The fund subscribed for the benefit of these people is nearly exhausted, and the stores of provisions and clothing collected for them are rapidly diminishing under the steady drain that is made upon them.

Bookmaking five hundred years ago was a costly business. The bill for designing and writing in manuscript in 1402 has just come to light. The parchment, the writing, the miniatures, the silver nails, gold-plated and enameled, ink figures, seventy smaller gold-plated silver nails, a gold-plated silver clasp, sky-blue satin, and binding together cost, according to present value, $186, the miniatures alone costing $80. The missal is now no longer extant, but is called pulcherrimum et elegantissimum in the bill.

The Revista de Monterey makes known a discovery that calls to mind the prediction of Nostradamus that the world would come to an end in 1886. There was recently found in the church at Oberol, in the diocese of Trevera, Mexico, a stone upon which is an inscription to the effect that the destruction of the world will take place in the year when the Passover occurs on St. Mark's day, Pentecost on St. Anthony's day, and Corpus Christi on St. John's day. All this will happen in the year 1886.

Why a Sugar Firm Failed.

"Another big failure," said Smith as he opened his morning paper.

"A big failure?" queried his spouse.

"Yes. A firm in Holland, who were engaged in the wholesale sugar trade, have failed for $1,000,000."

"Is it possible!" exclaimed Mrs. Smith. "The recent reduction in the price of sugar caused their failure, didn't it?"

"I don't know," said Smith. I guess the reason of their failure was because the weather was too cold for anybody to dig sand."—Newman Independent.

Polk County Journal.

H. E. COOKE, Publisher.

CROOKSTON, - MINNESOTA.

Cholera has at last reached the United States. There were two cases on a vessel arriving at Salem, Massachusetts. Though ample provision has been made for the isolation of these particular cases yet there is a strong probability that others will be announced as the season progresses, and that the disease will spread over its usual route.

The mercantile failures for the quarter ending 30th March, number 3,058, which, compared with the corresponding quarter last year, shows an increase of 362 failures, or about 11 per cent. The liabilities for the quarter just closed foot up $46,181,951, against $40,186,978 for the corresponding period of last year, an increase of nearly $6,000,000.

Marshal Bazaine, the French General who was at one time under sentence of death for cowardice in surrendering Metz during the Franco Prussian war, is now penniless and in a most destitute condition at Madrid. It is said that the Duc d'Aumale, who presided over the general court-martial at Versailles which sentenced Marshal Bazaine to death, has just learned of the refugee's poverty and sent him some money.

Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, a distinguished surgeon of Boston, gives smokers the comforting assurance that "the percentage of cases of cancer of the lip resulting from smoking, is so small compared with that from other causes, often unassignable, that it is an argument of little weight against the use of tobacco." And the British Medical Journal goes to the length of saying that cancer was never produced by tobacco.

The friends of the Mississippi river improvement have discovered that there is a balance of $9,000,000 to the credit of river and harbor improvement, and, according to law and the precedent established by Grant in 1875, this sum is wholly at the discretion of the Secretary of War. Gen. Gilmore, President of the River Commission, is preparing a report in which he will recommend a system of perfect banks and first class levees as the only practical means of improving the river, but this view is vigorously combated by the upper river people who do not wish the money to be expended in that way.

The seventeth anniversary of the birthday of Prince Bismarck was celebrated throughout the German Empire as a holiday. The emperor, members of the royal family, the federal counsellors and ministers, and hosts of other dignitaries, called on Bismarck. He was presented with the titles to a great estate. The entire day was taken up by delegations which had come to present testimonials from all classes of the German people and from all parts of the empire. All the newspapers published warm tributes to the worth and genius of Bismarck. The opposition papers praised the chancellor's efforts during the present and recent years to maintain peace among the nations and to fulfill his duty to the emperor and to the German nation.

Commissioner of Labor Wright has sketched out the plan of work he proposes to undertake the coming season, and the readiness with which Secretary Lamar falls in with the prospectus indicates that the labor bureau will remain in Mr. Wright's charge for at least a year. The commissioner intends to devote the coming months to an inquiry into the cause and cure of "hard times," which, as he says, is "the constitutional disease so far as the labor question is concerned." So long as the times are prosperous and business is brisk, labor shares in the sunshine. But then come darker days; trade falls off, shops are closed, wages are reduced animosities are excited between capital and labor, there are strikes, violence and distress. It will be the first inquiry of the bureau to seek the reasons for these industrial depressions and discover, if possible, their remedy. For this purpose the bureau will study the political, social and moral questions involved in labor depressions both in this country and in others.

Henry Ward Beecher, now on a lecturing tour at the south, has given utterance to his views concerning the relations between whites and blacks. While firmly maintaining equal rights under the laws for both races, and especially those guaranteed to freedmen, he was explicit upon one or two points. He said, he did "not think it wise that whites and blacks should mix blood, yet it is their right and liberty to do so if they choose. But it is to be discouraged on the grounds of humanity. The slaves are free; they must come under the universal law. As to their social position, no legislation can put ignorance and knowledge on a level, indolence and industry, virtue and vice, rudeness and refinement. The household is to be free to choose or refuse its company; no obstruction should be put in the path of education. All opportunities for development should be sacredly kept open to every class, every encouragement given to industry, wealth, refinement and good citizenship. After that, society must be free, so far as legislation is concerned, to choose its own partnerships."

GENERAL U. S. GRANT.

A Concise Biographical Sketch of the Life of the Great Military Chieftan.

Ulysses S. Grant, eighteenth president of the United States, was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio, April 27, 1822. His ancestors were Scotch. In 1823 his parents removed to Georgetown, O., where his boyhood was passed. He entered West Point military academy in 1839. His name originally was Hiram Ulysses, but the appointment was blunderingly made Ulysses S., and so it had to remain. The study in which he showed most proficiency during his course at the academy was mathematics. He graduated in 1843 at the age of 21 years, ranking 21st in a class of 39, and was made brevet second lieutenant of infantry, and attached as supernumerary lieutenant of the fourth regiment which was stationed on the Missouri frontier.

In 1845 the regiment was ordered to Texas, and Grant was commissioned as a full lieutenant. He first saw blood shed at Palo Alto, May 8th, 1846. He took part in every battle of the Mexican war. After the battle of Molino del Ray he was appointed first lieutenant for his gallantry and was breveted captain for his conduct at Chapultepec. After the capture of the city of Mexico, he with his regiment was stationed at Detroit.

In 1848 he married Julia T. Dent, daughter of a merchant of St. Louis and sister of one of his classmates. In 1852 he accompanied his regiment to California and Oregon, and in 1853 was commissioned full captain. In 1854 he resigned and moved to a farm near St. Louis. There his daughter Nellie and one of his sons (Fred) were born. He subsequently removed to St. Louis where he fought the wolf from the door, being unable to obtain employment.

In 1860 he moved to Galena, Ill., where his father was engaged in the leather trade. When the civil war broke out, Capt. Grant who was then 39 years old and the father of 4 children, the eldest of whom was 11, was chosen to command a company of volunteers with which he marched to Springfield. There he acted as mustering officer and on June 17, 1861, he was commissioned colonel, joined his regiment at Mattoon and marched to Missouri. Reporting to Gen. Pope he was placed in command of the troops at Mexico.

On August 23 the president commissioned him brigadier general of volunteers, a promotion he first heard of through the papers, and assumed command at Cairo. He seized Paducah, at the mouth of the Tennessee, on Sept. 6 which was his first military achievement and accured three days after he assumed his new command. On Nov. 7 with two brigades he fought the battle of Belmont where he commanded in person and had a horse shot under him. John A. Logan was with him as colonel. Grant then was given command of the district of Cairo, one of the largest military divisions of the country. After reconnoisance he started on Feb. 3 from Paducah with a force of 15,000 men for the capture of Forts Henry and Donaldson. The capture of the latter being the first brilliant victory that had crowned the federal arms Grant sprang at once into national celebrity. He was immediately commissioned major-general of volunteers and took command of 40,000 to make an expedition up the Tennessee. In the celebrated battle of Shiloh, April 6 and 7, where both sides lost about 12,000, he was slightly wounded. Gen. Halleck was called to Washington and Grant became commander of the department of West Tennessee. He won a complete victory Sept. 19 at Iuka and was attacked at his position at Corinth. On October 16 his department extended to Vicksburg and was designated the department of the Tennessee. After his seige and capture of Vicksburg, July 4, 1863, he was promoted to the rank of major general of the regular army, and was placed in command of the Mississippi, comprising the departments commanded by Sherman, Thomas, Burnside and Hooker. After his victories at Missionary Ridge, and Lookout Mountain, congress voted him a medal and passed a bill reviving the grade of lieutenant-general and Grant was immediately nominated. He received his commission from President Lincoln and on March 17, 1864, assumed command of the armies of the United States, with headquarters at Potomac. With 700,000 men under him he planned two campaigns, one under Gen. Meade, to operate against Lee at Richmond, the other under Sherman against Atlanta. On May 3 Grant moved on Richmond crossing the Rappadan with the army of the Potomac, with 140,000 men pushing through the Wilderness, where the bloody battle of the Wilderness was fought which foiled Grant's attempt to interpose his army between Lee and Richmond. Being repeatedly repulsed by Lee with bloody results, he sent the famous message which closed with, "I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." And he did. His losses were 54,551, and Lee's 33,000.

After the evacuation of Richmond and the surrender of Lee at Appomatox Court House April 9, Grant fixed his headquarters at Washington and on July 25, 1866 was commissioned general of the United States army. He was made secretary of war during the suspension of Stanton from August 12, 1867, to January 15, 1868.

He was unanimously nominated on the first ballot for president at the republican convention held at Chicago May 21, 1868 with Schuyler Colfax vice president. The ticket carried 26 states. He was inaugurated March 4, 1869.

In 1871 President Grant urged the annexation of Santo Domingo, but the senate withheld its approval. A commission of five British and five American members, on May 8, signed a treaty on the subject of navigation and the "Alabama Claims." The latter was submitted to a court of arbitration at Geneva, Switzerland, on Sept. 14, 1873, and the sum of $15,500,000 was awarded to be paid by the British government to the United States for damages to American commerce by Confederate cruisers fitted out in British ports. The Ku-Klux bill was enforced by a presidential proclamation. He appointed a commission to inquire into civil service and remedy it.

He was renominated and elected to another term in 1872. In 1874 he vetoed a bill to increase the volume of currency.

At the close of his term, accompanied by his family, he made a trip around the world, and everywhere received with the highest honors ever accorded a citizen of the United States. His return home was a perfect ovation from San Francisco, where he landed, to his home at Galena, whence he had started on his brilliant career.

He afterwards removed to New York and engaged in business, which resulted disastrously. His last days were burdened by regret that his honorable name should go down to posterity with the blot he fancies the exploits of his partner Ferdinand Ward have cast upon it by his business transactions.

In the summer of 1884 Gen. Grant visited St. Paul as the guest of Henry Villard on the celebration of the opening of the Northern Pacific railroad. Of all the notables of that auspicious day Gen. Grant was the cynosure of every eye in the vast multitude that thronged the line of march.

On the 3d of February last congress accepted the war relics and mementoes of the famous hero, upon which he had placed a mortgage to William Vanderbilt to secure a loan of $150,000 and which Vanderbilt presented Mrs. Grant, she accepting on condition that they be presented to the United States. The mementoes will be placed in the government building.

On the 4th of March Gen. Grant was placed on the retired list of the army, with rank and pay of general, and the first official act of President Cleveland was to sign Gen. Grant's commission.

Genral Barrios Certainly Dead.

Secretary Whitney has received a dispatch from Commander Mahan, of the Wachusett, dated at La Libertad, San Salvador, which says: "Barrios is certainly dead. The Nicaraguans entered Honduras, routing the enemy, who retreated in disorder toward Guatemala. A telegram from Zaldavar to the authorities here says Mexico will make a formal alliance with Zaldivar. I expect this will end the trouble without another shot. Probably both armies will march on Guatemala city." Mr. Peralta, the Costa Rican minister, received the following cablegram from the president of Salvador:

"Santa Anna, April 9.—We confirm a complete victory at Chalchuapa and the death of President Barrios and his son, Don Venancio.

[Signed] ZALDIVAR."

Capt. Norton, commanding the Shenandoah, informs the navy department that he has landed about 150 men in Panama for the protection of American interests. Secretary Whitney telephed: "Your duties are confined to protecting railway and steamship companys' property and the lives and property of American citizens, and so far as your force permits, to keep the transit open. In conflicts between local forces you must not participate, nor show favor or disfavor to either."

The Dakota Grain Law.

Fargo, Special Telegram, April 9.—Reports in regard to the action being taken by the farmers on the bill for regulating railways and warehouses in the matter of wheat shipment are beginning to come in. Superintendent Odell, of the Northern Pacific, states that but little advantage is being taken of the new law except at one or two points, but fuller advices show that the farmers are procuring copies of the law and will take advantage of the facilities extended to them as soon as they become sufficiently acquainted with its working. The law has been much inveighed against, but it is believed, after all, its effects will be of great benefit. Donald McFadden of Valley City is reported to have been guaranteed an advance of six cents by a Minneapolis dealer on some wheat shipped in cars furnished him on the side track at that point under the new law. If the facts in this case are as alleged the bill will prove a great success and benefit to the agriculturists. Small clubs of farmers are reported forming in various sections, and when a member desires to fill a car for shipment the whole club brings teams and enough wheat is hauled to the station to fill the car within the required twenty-four hours specified in the law. If this practice is resorted to generally it is believed the elevator companies will withdraw their buyers from the small stations. The war rumors have greatly strengthened prices here and one dealer disposed of 14,000 bushels at 73 cents at this point, an advance of six cents since last Monday.

ROYALTY IN IRELAND.

The Prince and Princess of Wales in Dublin—Both Enthusiasm and Disorder Provoked.

The Prince and Princess of Wales and their eldest son, Prince Albert Victor, arrived in Dublin, Ireland, on the 8th. A dispatch says: They arrived at Dublin at 2 o'clock and were accorded a splendid welcome. In answer to the address of welcome presented to him by the citizens' committee, the prince said he was delighted to renew his acquaintance with Dublin. In the passage through the streets of the city the party was everywhere greeted with enthusiasm. The houses on both sides of the avenues along which they proceeded were adorned with beautiful decorations and crowded with spectators, eager to catch a glimpse of the future king and queen. Along the route of the royal procession on its way to Dublin castle many persons were crowded in past the escort of the lancers. The prince of Wales took all these irregularities good-naturedly and reassured the displaced spectators by shaking hands cordially with all of them within his reach. Earl Spencer, the Irish viceroy, was loudly cheered as he drove through the streets of Dublin in the procession. Lord Mayor John O'Connor, who is a strong Nationalist, but who drove in official state with the royal escort, was loudly hissed by the Nationalists. Not a sign of welcome is visible on the city hall of Dublin, and this fact stands out so conspicuously as to force comments. Fully a thousand students paraded the streets and marched to Dublin castle, singing loyal songs and carrying union jacks on the end of walking sticks. The royal visitors are loudly cheered wherever they appear.

Before the procession started, an address of welcome by the chamber of commerce was read. It dwelt specially upon the beneficent influence which the visit of the prince and princess would exercise upon the welfare of Ireland. It alluded also to the labors of the prince in the cause of housing the poor of London, a subject, the address said, of great interest to many people in the Irish capital. When the procession was about to start several bands joined in rendering the air of "God Bless the Prince of Wales."

The princess of Wales captured the populace at sight. The refined beauty of her face and the elegance of her figure were most artistically set off in a special costume of green, which had been made for the occasion. The dress was composed of a close-fitting, dark green velvet bodice, with a silk skirt to match, and a princess bonnet trimmed with beads and dark-green feathers. This tribute to the Irish colors, so deftly and beautifully made was instantly recognized by the people, and her royal highness was everywhere greeted with applause. After luncheon at Dublin castle, which was over at about 3:30 in the afternoon, the prince and party proceeded to the Dublin society's show at Ball's bridge. The royal escort on this trip was composed of the Hussars. This escort was preceded by Earl Spencer, escorted by the Lancers. At Ball's bridge the reception was just as enthusiastic as the one on College green, and the cheering along the route was hearty and unanimous. The exhibition was varied, one of the features being a series of extraordinary jumping feats. The grand stand, which has been altered for the occasion, was crowded with prominent persons. The city is brilliantly illuminated.

The police had some difficulty at one time in preventing a collision. Some Nationalists began shouting "God save Ireland," and attempted to raise a demonstration for Parnell. An attempt was made to burn the union jack which had been stolen from the mansion house by students, but the attacking party was driven off by a combined force of students and loyalists, headed by 100 policemen with drawn revolvers. The mob took revenge by breaking the windows of the house from which the flag was flying.

RUSSIA AND ENGLAND.

The Russo-Afghan Fight Likely to Precipitate War Between England and Russia.

The Official Messenger, at St. Petersburg, published the following:

Gen. Kamoroff reports that in consequence of hostile manifestations by the Afghans he was compelled to attack them. The Afghans were posted on both banks of the River Kuskh, in an entrenched position. The fight occurred on the 30th of last month. The Afghan force was 8,000 men and eight guns, and was defeated with the loss of all the field artillery, two standards of banners and the entire camp outfit, and all the provisions of the Afghans were captured. The Russian loss was three subalterns and ten soldiers killed and twenty-nine wounded. When the fighting ended Gen. Kamoroff returned to the position he had formerly occupied.

A dispatch to the London Times from Gulran of April 3 states that the Russians, while making a pretext of changing their outposts on the Afghan frontier, attacked Penjdeh, March 30, and drove the Afghans out of their positions.

Mr. Gladstone said in Parliament England had kept her part of this agreement. Up to March 30, at least, the Afghans had made no advance nor any forward movement of any kind. So far as the information possessed by the ministers went, the government must regard the attack by the Russians upon Penjdeh as unprovoked. The government had asked for an explanation of this attack from Russia, but, of course sufficient time had not yet elapsed for the receipt of an answer to this request. Sir Edward Thornton, the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, had, however, telegraped that M. De Giers, the Russian prime minister, had expressed for himself and for the czar an earnest hope that this unhappy incident might not prevent the continuation of the negotiations for peace.

This remark was greeted with shouts of derisive laughter and the impression is that war between England and Russia cannot be adverted.

The anti-Russian feeling in both parties in the house of commons amounts to a passion. If Russia's explanation of the attack on the Afghans be delayed or incomplete, the British government will be forced to declare war or resign. Decline in consols since the opening of Afghan frontier dispute has been 5 per cent, which equals the fall in consols at the opening of the Crimean war.

The London Morning Post states that Gen. Wolseley has been ordered to withdraw one-third of his entire force from the Soudan for services elsewhere.

The Winnebago Reservation Order.

Attorney General Garland's opinion on the Winnebago reservation has been made public. After reciting that Clark Thompson, under an act of congress of Feb. 21, 1863, and by direction of the Indian commissioner, removed the Winnebagoes from Minnesota to what is now known as the Winnebago reservation, and also under an act of March 3, 1863, he removed the members of the Sisseton, Medawakaton, Wahpeton and Wahpakonta, Sioux, to what is known as the Crow Creek agency, and the further fact that the Winnebagoes, on March 8, 1865, deded their land to the United States, and went to Nebraska, and in 1866 the various bands of Sioux on the Crow Creek reservation were removed to Nebraska, and wandering bands of Sioux went upon and occupied the abandoned lands, the opinion is stated that these lands are found not to be reservations in a strict legal sense, but understood to have been such generally and by the government itself, therefore the grant must be held to refer to such lands as were reputed to be reservations. The words in the treaty are amply sufficient to point out the portion of the public domain intended to be ceded. To these considerations may be added that Indian treaties are not constructed strictly but liberally in favor of the Indians (3 opinion, 465, the Kansas Indians, 5 Wallace, 737). In conclusion, I am of the opinion that the lands in question are covered by the treaty of the 29th of April, 1868, and consequently that the executive order of the 27th of February, 1885, is inoperative.

GRANT'S LIFE PROLONGED.

The Medical Aspects of the Case Presented Clearly.

New York Special: There has been so much unsatisfactory speculation about the danger of an immediate fatal termination of Gen Grant's disease that the Pioneer Press correspondent gained an audience with a gentleman who knows as much about the medical and other aspects of the case as any one. He allowed himself to be interviewed on the condition that his name would not be used. It is sufficient, therefore, to say, that the gentleman has been a regular visitor at the general's house, and has seen the sick man every day for a month. He said:

It will surprise Gen. Grant's physicians very much if he dies within a week. The chances are that he will live two weeks longer, and I would not give much odds that he will live until May. Of course, some unforeseen accident, such as sudden faintness of the heart, may occur at any moment and upset my phrophecy, but with that possible exception, I think you will find it a true one."

"What is to be feered most?" was asked.

"First of all, blood poisoning. The trouble Tuesday morning was caused by the lodgements in the rear of the larnyx suddenly becoming loose and leaving the raw sores uncovered. Thus, at the first friction they began to bleed. In their present exposed condition, these tissues may absorb some of the poisonous matter from the cancer, and thus it will enter the blood. The physicians, I understand, are now directing their efforts to warding off this danger, and they will probably succeed in doing so, for a couple of weeks, at least. When you see Gen. Grant's temperature going up and his pulse becoming irregular, then look out for danger. That will mean that the poison has reached his blood. The second cause of alarm is exhaustion. A bad spell from sleeplessness, or some similar cause, may turn him right around, and before a reaction can set in he will die. The contingency is made all the more liable by the general's recent loss of blood, which can never be regained. The cancer itself, I think is the last source of danger. It is now stationary, and has been so for a week. There is no possibility of its developing sufficient to become fatal for two months at least, and with proper treatment it could be held in abeyance until fall I think."

"What are the chances of another hemorrhage?"

"One is likely to occur at any time, but I do not think it will alarm the physicians. It can be stopped before any material damage is done. That on Tuesday last was expected by the doctors, though it came a little too soon. There is little trouble now with the throat, as it is under control. Whatever pain he suffers now is relieved by the constant application of cocain."

"You regard the general's condition as favorable then?" inquired the reporter.

"Undoubtedly his faculties are as clear as they ever were, and he is fully capable of transacting any business that might come to a man in active life. He would be as able to direct the movements of an army in the field to-day as he was twenty years ago, so far as his mental condition is concerned."

"Does the general show the effects of his long confinement?"

"Only in a measure, and not so greatly as has been stated in the newspapers. The face is full and inclined to be flushed, rather than pale. There is a worn appearance and sinking in behind the ears and in the back of his neck, but that comes mostly from his loss of blood Tuesday. I would not say that his body is emaciated. That is not the word. His arms and limgs have become small and thin, and he has lost flesh, but it is far from a condition that is implied by calling it emaciated. Of course his eyes are not as bright as they might be, but to-day there was a gleam in them that I have not seen before for a month."

General Grant Less Despondent.

New York Special: Gen. Grant is not as moody and despondent as he was a few days ago. While one of his physicians was with him early this morning reference was made, incidentally, to the fact that one week ago today he was on the point of death and only saved by the timely injection of brandy.

"You saved my life then, doctor," Gen. Grant said, "but what was the use of it?"

"We had been doing the best we could," was the physician's reply.

"I appreciate it all," continued the general, "though I don't say much about it. I would trumpet you from one end of the world to the other if you could cure me entirely.

As the sick man, lying back amid his pillows on his arm chair, said this, he looked his physician straight in the eye. There was a sudden gleam and brightening up in his gaze, as he was trying to read the doctor's mind before he could speak. The physician hesitated but a few seconds, yet it told the tale of the hopeless battle that was being fought. Reading his fate in the doctor's mind, the general continued, without waiting for an answer: "It is only a question of days."

"There you are mistaken, general," said the doctor, quietly. "You will live for weeks and perhaps months to come."

"It must be with less suffering then, if I do," came the response, and the conversation closed.

Suicide of Major Mower of Wisconsin.

Col. S. O. Mower, one of the proprietors of the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph, and a gentleman well and favorably known in business, social and military circles, has shot himself in the head at the Kirley House in that city. No one is able to ascribe a cause for the suicide. His partner, Col. Watrous, says that Mower has been ailing for five weeks, and has only been at the office occasionally during that time. Col. Mower was about forty-two years of age. He was born in New England, and had lived in Wisconsin since 1857, when he came west with his mother, who was a widow at the time, and who afterward married Gen. Harrison C. Hobart. He was educated at Appleton, and enlisted at Chilton soon after the breaking out of the war as a private in his step-father's regiment. At the close of the war he came out a captain. since the war he has spent most of his time in the government engineer corps, and was for many years stationed in Michigan while on government work. He went to Milwaukee about a year ago, purcased an interest in the Sunday Telegraph, which he has since edited conjointly with Col. Watrous, the senior proprietor.

Massacre by Riel's Indian Allies.

Gen. Middleton the British commander is in communication with both Battleford and Prince Albert by wire. News comes via Battleford of a massacre by Crees at Frog Lake, eight miles west of Fort Pitt. Eight whites were killed, including two priests. The garrisons at Battleford and Prince Albert are safe as yet, but anxious for succor. The force will push as rapidly as possible. It is reported that Riel is entrenched at Batoches, and has cannon. This is doubtful. Middleton had a short conference with Indians. They expressed loyalty. The wires are crowded with official telegrams, and particulars are impossible to obtain.

In the Dominion house on the 9th, Sir John Macdonald said:

No confirmatory information has been received by the government as to the sensational reports respecting the advance of the Indians across the international boundary. We have a message from a reliable source at Calgary stating that it was generally believed that these reports were unfounded and that they were got up by interested parties.

Gen. Dent, the brother-in-law of Gen. Grant, who has returned to Washington from a visit to New York, is reported as saying that the Grant family has become reconciled to the fact that the general cannot recover. Before leaving the sick room, the attending physician permitted Gen. Dent to see Gen. Grant's throat, by means of a reflector. He says the cancer has made greater progress than any one who has not seen it can imagine. An artery in the throat must certainly give way soon, and then there is nothing to prevent the general dying. Notwithstanding all his suffering, Gen. Grant is perfectly resigned to his fate and prepared to die. Remarked Gen. Dent: "He is as calm and self-possessed to-day as he was at the battle of the Wilderness."

While Mrs. Tom Graham, the wife of a prominent citizen of Lexington, Ga., was at the well, a negro stepped up behind her and grasped her around the waist. She struggled bravely, but he carried her into a clump of bushes, where, exhausted by her struggles, she fell into a swoon and was at her brutal captor's mercy. She was found still unconscious. The countryside was soon searching for the negro.

SUMMARY OF NEWS OF THE WEEK.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A Washington, D. C., paper publishes a statement to the effect that Maud Miller (Joaquin's daughter) was clandestinely married recently to the eldest son of Steele Mackaye. The affair occurred at Inglewood, N. J.

Hon. F. M. Goodykoontz of Chamberlain, who is now in Washington, speaking of the Crow Creek reservation said: There has been an immense amount of improvement made on the reservation since it was opened. It is estimated that there are at least six thousand settlers holding claims. Many of these have expended their all in bring their families and making improvements and I scarcely think they will move unless forcibly ejected. The day before I left Chamberlain, prominent citizens of that place sent a telegram to the president, urging him not to rescind the order opening the reservation. No answer has yet been received.

It having been decided that both regular and volunteer officers who served in the Mexican war are entitled to three months' extra pay, the treasury department, before commencing payment, has furnished the secretary of war with a list of the claimants, to ascertain if they are any way indebted to the government. The list comprises among others the names of Gen. Winfield Scott, Robert E. Lee, Persifer F. Smith, David E. Targgs, Albert Sydney Johnson, Gideon J. Pillow and James Longstreet. Payment is to be made to the survivors for established heirs. The matter has been agitated ever since 1848.

Postoffices Established—Montana: Blatchford, Custer county; Profile, Meagher county; Sunnyside, Gallatin county. Wis.: Lindworm, Milwaukee county. Postmasters Commissioned—F. C. Reinking, Bungert, Wis.; J. F. Marshall, Glenwood, Wis.; G. C. Hempel, Hempel, Wis.; D. W. Tower, Morris, Wis.; M. S. Bennett, Oak Ridge, Wis.; Sven Johan, Bengston, Wis.; J. C. Marsh, Spokeville, Wis.; O. Kittelson, Strum, Wis.; J. C. Orr, Orr, Dak.; A. H. McCabe, Downing, Wis.; E. B. Smith, Oak Valley, Iowa; William T. Coffman, South English, Iowa; John E. Kennedy, Blatchford, Mont.; G. G. Carvill, Profile, Mont.; Sarah A. Robertson, Sunnyside, Mont.; F. J. Kohlsdorf, Lindworm, Wis.

THE CASUALTY RECORD.

The recent depredation of the Indians in the vicinity of Battleford seems to have been rather expensive, being estimated at about $200,000, a pretty large sum when the circumstances of the settlers are considered.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Senator Edmunds has sent a $50 check to the Methodist mission at Ogden, Utah.

